

Moore Leaves County for Ropesville FSA Job

Thos. G. Moore, who for the past four years has been the Farm Security Administration supervisor in Farmer county, tendered his resignation as such the past weekend, and took up his new duties in the Ropesville, Texas, rehabilitation project on Monday of this week.

The Ropesville project, a division of the Farm Security program, is in the form of a community group of tenants, living on government-purchased land, cooperating in all phases of farm and home improvement. Moore's official title in Ropesville is "Acting Community Manager," it was learned here. He succeeds Seaborn P. Collins, who resigned from the position the latter part of last week.

Since coming to the local office, Moore has made an enviable record as a supervisor, having done such exceptional work that he was classed among the top-ranking administrators in this district, which embraces several states. His appointment as community manager at Ropesville is a definite advancement.

Mrs. Moore and son, Garland Jr., are spending this week here, and expect to move to Ropesville the last of the week to make their home.

It was not learned here today when a successor would be named for the county office, and at the present time, Frank Seale, assistant, is in charge.

Farwell Man Called To National Capitol

Lee Bradshaw of this city, departed for Washington by plane from Amarillo, late Tuesday afternoon, where he had been summoned by the War Department.

Bradshaw said before leaving here that it was understood he would be assigned to duties at Puerto Rico, in the nation's defense program. He is a civil engineer, and has been connected with the Works Progress Administration in the Texas Panhandle for the past few years.

Bradshaw could give very little information regarding his assignment and the duties he will be expected to carry out. "All I know is that I have been instructed to be in Washington Wednesday morning. I guess they'll tell me when I get there," he remarked before leaving.

Cream Producers Are Using Precaution

Local produce dealers said this week that already cream producers of the Texico-Farwell trade territory were using more precaution in the handling and marketing of their cream, as a result of the forceful warning carried in The Tribune last week.

All buyers said that cream brought in over the past weekend was of far better quality than had been brought in during recent weeks. The farmer who markets his cream only once a week has been chiefly responsible for the bad cream that has gone through the local stations, it was explained by one buyer.

Under a new federal law, persons who sell cream unfit for human consumption are subjecting themselves to heavy penalties.

RESIGNS POSITION

THOS. G. MOORE, former supervisor of the Farmer County Farm Security Administration's office, who resigned his position last weekend to accept an appointment as community manager of the Ropesville tenant project, at Ropesville, Texas.

Bovina FFA Wins Third at Tri-State

The Bovina chapter of the Future Farmers of America took third place on their booth at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo, when the judging was completed Monday afternoon.

The Bovina boys, under the direction of director Jim Wiman, featured a display of live hens in the booth.

Taking its theme that proper selection is the key to poultry profits, the exhibit arranged by the Bovina boys showed by live birds the ideal type, having white beaks and shanks, pubic bones far apart and late moulters, are more desirable than those with yellow beaks, pubic bones that are close together, and early moulters.

Cotton Parity Checks Arriving in Farmer

Cotton parity checks for 1940 cooperation have been arriving in the local county agent's office recently, according to Garlon A. Harper, secretary of the Farmer ACA, who stated Monday that 196 checks had arrived, in the total amount of $9,692.25.

All in all, Farmer county cooperators are eligible for 1,100 checks, with the total amount running to $57,040.00, officials went on to say. These figures are only 1940 cotton parity checks, and are not to be confused with wheat parity or conservation payments, Harper stressed.

All applications now eligible for payment have been submitted, and others are submitted as soon as they are signed. All cotton parity applications have been so thoroughly checked by the county office that no one has been suspended due to correction, thus avoiding a good deal of delay in receiving the checks.

The United States has investments in Scandinavia amounting to $221,000,000.

Millions to Register Under New Military Bill Signed by President

WASHINGTON—In "the factories and fields, the cities and towns," 16,500,000 young Americans 21 through 35 years old, got their orders from President Roosevelt to register October 16 for possible service in a great new citizen army.

With quick strokes of a couple of cheap, scratchy pens, the chief executive signed the nation's first peacetime conscription bill at 2:03 p. m., Monday.

To Fend Off War

Then, laying the history-making law aside, he put his name to a proclamation which said this marshalling of military strength was "to fend off war from our shores," to avoid "the terrible fate of nations whose weakness invited attack."

This new call to arms came as 60,000 national guardsmen were donning uniforms for a year's active duty and the war department announced 35,000 more would join the colors on Oct. 15, the day before conscription registration.

The draftees, also, will be called up for a year, will receive their training with some 240,000 guardsmen, who will be mustered into federal service by Jan. 1, and with the regular army, now recruiting toward a strength of 375,000.

Executive Order Awaited

Only the issuance of a presidential executive order, expected within the next few days, was left before the draft machinery—officially—is set in motion.

Actually, those who will aid in administering the peacetime conscription act already were working at high speed against registration day and an undesignated date in November when—Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, announced Monday night—the first thousands of draftees would be summoned. This first group is expected to number 75,000.

Marshall's announcement was predicted on the belief Congress would approve the recent presidential request for an additional $2,000,000,000 defense appropriation, largely to defray the cost of the draft. The law limits the number of trainees to "no (Continued on last page)

Hot, Dry Weather Is Injuring Local Crops

Farmers generally are complaining this week as the hot, dry weather that has prevailed over this section for some time began to show serious effects on crop conditions.

No moisture of any consequence has visited this area for nearly a month, and crops that three weeks ago gave every promise of a fair yield are being cut short by the hottest September in the memory of old timers. Sowing of wheat, which is usually completed by this time, has been held up awaiting moisture.

Range conditions are far from favorable as the stockmen view the seriousness of going into the winter without sufficient grass to care for their stock. Many of the farmers are making preparations to fill newly-constructed silos with "fodder" in the absence of grain to feed their stock during the winter months.

ABOUT THAT PAINT AD

Your attention is called to a special sale on Sherwin-Williams paints, being advertised in this issue of The Tribune. Through an oversight which was not discovered in time to make the correction, the signature was omitted from this advertisement. The special sale is being conducted by the Panhandle Lumber company, in Texico, and will be in effect during the month of September only.

Willkie Gives Us The Air

Wendell Willkie, republican candidate for president, gave Texico-Farwell citizens the air, Tuesday afternoon, when his special train passed through the Twin Cities.

His special train, made up of some twenty coaches, did not so much as slow down as it crossed the state line, much to the disappointment of a number who had gathered at the local station in the hope of getting a glimpse of the nominee.

Willkie made one of his major campaign addresses in Amarillo, Tuesday morning, and gave a short talk while his train was stopped in Clovis.

Election Officers to Conduct Registration For Military Training

AUSTIN, Sept. 17—Official steps in Texas to carry out the registration for military training will be taken as promptly as formal notice is received from Washington of the president's proclamation.

The procedure already has been set up by the state staff of the national guard of Texas. Adj. Gen. J. Watt Page is expected to be designated as director of the program for the state. Col. John Townes of Houston acted as draft director during a large part of the World war induction.

As quickly as the president's proclamation is received, it is contemplated that Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel will issue his proclamation directing the precinct election officers who have been named for the general election to conduct the registration at the accustomed polling places.

Staff to Make Tour

Members of the state staff probably will make a tour instructing these officials in their duties.

Later boards will be set up in each county (with additional boards in large counties) to handle exemptions and deferred classification for the men who register.

The boards will be recommended by the governor and will be appointed by the president. In preparation for conscription, the state staff already had listed approximately 5,000 persons who would be available for these duties. At that time it was contemplated the work would be paid. Letters are now going out to find out if the persons on the tentative list are ready to serve without pay.

Farwell School May Yet Get State Aid

The Farwell school may yet get state transportation aid of approximately $600.00, State Superintendent L. A. Woods told a committee of school officials in Amarillo, last Friday.

The Farwell aid had not been forthcoming, school officials explained, because the application for aid had not been properly filed. Mr. Woods explained that a number of schools in the state were "in the same predicament." But he promised to see if he could not be instrumental in releasing this money to the schools.

State aid to apply to students of the Farwell schools who do not reside within the district was definitely promised to the local school officials by Mr. Woods, when it was brought to his attention that the local school was receiving no state aid on students living in Texico and attending the Farwell school.

Those meeting with Mr. Woods were Supt. J. T. Carter, E. M. Deaton, County Judge Lee Thompson and W. H. Graham.

Of the rain that falls on the soil, only about 50 percent is available for plant growth under the average conditions. The other half is lost through run-off and evaporation, by cooperatives.

The voters of Curry county went to the polls last Saturday in New Mexico's first primary election, to name a full list of democratic nominees for all county offices, and vote their preference for republican candidates on the state ticket.

There was no GOP county ticket in the field in last Saturday's election, but republican voters took part in naming the state ticket.

The top vote in the Democratic contests was attracted to the race for county clerk, between Mrs. Mae

The latest unofficial returns from New Mexico indicate that Senator Dennis Chaves has been renominated for United States Senator, over his opponent John J. Dempsey, by approximately 2,500 votes. Dempsey took a lead in the early returns, and it appeared for some time he had wrested the nomination from Chaves. Returns from the northern part of the state reversed the order, and it now seems certain that Chaves will be the winner when the complete returns are in.

Hood and Carl Osborn, in which Mrs. Hood polled 3187 to Osborn's 1825, for a total of 5012 ballots.

The next high in total ballots cast was attracted to the race between Claude Gamble and Walter W. Mayes, for the nomination for state senator. Gamble won by a vote of 3236 to Mayes' 1774, for a total of 5010 ballots, just two less than the total in the Hood-Osborn race.

Other winners in the county and district races, with votes cast in each case, were as follows:

- For Representative: Dr. M. S. Smith, 2695; Carmel Easham, 1559.
- For District Attorney: E. T. Hensley, Jr., 2822; Howard Houk, 2069.
- For County Commissioner in Dist. No. 1: Roy Marks 1774, Monzingo 1223, Edwards 633, Randolph 728, Hooper 445.
- For County Commissioner, Dist. No. 2: Bennett Stockton 1817, McDaniell 1233, Acker 1153, Hawkins 477.
- For Commissioner, Dist. 3: Tom Campbell 2503, Clyde Stanfield 1951.
- For Probate Judge: Tom Wood 3046, Bob Wollard 1557.
- For County Clerk: Mrs. Mae Hood 3187, Carl Osborn 1825.
- For County Assessor: Theo. Rozzell 3394, Claude Byers 1509.
- For County Treasurer: Olen Welling 2549, E. A. Key 1720, C. H. Smyer 644.
- For County Supt.: A. O. Fedrick 2762, Rogers 2147.

Green Nominated for Texico Justice Peace

In last Saturday's primary, A. C. Green, present incumbent, was renominated for the office of justice of the peace of the Texico precinct over John P. Doose, who sought to wrest the nomination from Green.

The vote was Green 167, Doose 109. This is the first time Green has had to campaign for the office, although he has held it for the past two years, being appointed by the county commissioners of Curry county for his first term.

FFA Boys to Show at Portales And Clovis

L. A. McCasland, director of the vocational agriculture department in Texico, announced the first of the week that five fat calves would be shown at the Roosevelt County Fair, in Portales, and the Bi-State Fair, in Clovis, this weekend and next weekend, respectively.

Two of the calves will be entered in club competition with other F. F. A. chapters. Mr. McCasland went on to say, with three being listed as individual entries, shown by John Taylor, Walter Baldock, and Kenneth Miller.

The club will not set up an educational booth at Clovis this year, officials have announced.

Water Important In Filling Trench Silos

With trench silos being constructed over a good deal of Farmer county during the current month, County Agent Jason O. Gordon this week warned men who plan to store feed in this manner that a good deal of water was necessary to turn out A-1 ensilage.

"Putting dry feed down into dry ditches, and failing to soak it well during the period of filling the silo, will materially cut down on the value of the ensilage," the agent said. "The feed will not cure well, and in addition, is likely to have a good deal of spoilage."

He also warned against "sprinkling" the layers of feed as they are placed in the silo, stating that "unless the feed is well watered, there is more danger of loss through spoilage by merely sprinkling the top layer than from leaving the entire ensilage dry."

Farmers who feel that, owing to a water shortage, they are not able to thoroughly flood—"And I do mean FLOOD," the agent said—the feed as it goes into the silo, are advised that the best method is to soak the trench thoroughly before any feed is placed therein.

Information this week as to how many trench silos had already been constructed through use of the county road machinery was not available, but it was estimated that at least 600 of the huge trenches would be dug by the machines before the season closes. "Also," Agent Gordon said, "a number of men are putting down smaller silos which do not call for the use of the road crew."

All farmers who have a surplus of feed crops, however small, are urged to make use of "run" crops, is through the trench silo method. Persons interested in using the county machinery are urged to contact their precinct commissioners.

"I'm not going to rush you," Frank said. "But you have to know—you must know—that you seem to me the most miraculously—well, I've never known anyone like you! You're—I can't help it, I'm crazy about you!"

"There's no rush," he went on, as Sheila still did not speak. "We needn't tell anyone for weeks. But let me come take you to shows, let me come down—you don't have to say anything to your mother until this time next month, if you don't want to!"

"Next month—" Sheila said, finding her voice. "I think it'll be four years before Ma wants to hear the name of Mc Cann!"

Her hands were locked in Frank's big hands; now she moved her fingers. He held her for one last question.

"Sheila, tell me, are you happy?" "Happy!" she echoed, trying to smile. Tears came into her eyes.

"All right, then. Now this—" Frank said, "this is what we're going to do. We'll run into town, d'you see—my car is right over there—"

"I've been looking at it."

"Well, and we'll have a party. We'll go to a department store and we'll buy all sorts of things for your mother and Angela—and you, too. Mother reminded me of reading lamps, and Von asked if you had an ice-cream freezer, and Connie—she's next to Von—she said a radio, and there's cups—and towels—everything we like we'll send home. Shall we?"

"Oh, but, Frank—!" They were standing now, and she lifted the soft tumbled crown of her glittering hair, and the blue eyes over which the copper bang drifted in a film. "Oh, but, Frank, that'd be too much fun!"

Suddenly he put his arms about her and held her tightly, and she looked up in silence, trembling.

"You'll have to get used to this!" he said in a whisper.

"Sheila!" her mother called, emerging. They were apart again.

"Ask Mr. Mc Cann wud he stay for 's taste of lunch, an' have some manners to ye!" said Mrs. Carscadden.

"Mrs. Carscadden, you're very good," Frank said, glancing at his wrist, "but I have some shopping to do, and Sheila has promised to help me. I thought we'd go into town for lunch."

"I'll get my hat!" Sheila said, escaping into the house.

When she came out, ten minutes later, she looked her loveliest in the blue suit, with the new blue hat. The hemstitched frill that fell in crisp folds at the collar of the coat had cost thirty-nine cents, but it was plain and fresh; Sheila's shoes were shining, and if the chamois gloves she wore were still damp in the tips from recent washing, and had been snatched from the sunny back clothesline, Frank did not suspect it.

"You brought your topcoat? Good girl; we may be late," Frank approved. "I love that coat!"

"You ought to. Your mother picked it out for your sister Monica," Sheila reminded him.

"You're goin' off for the day? Well," said Mrs. Carscadden, bestowing upon her daughter the nearest thing she ever knew to praise, "you look clean and neat, and that's something."

"I'll say she looks clean and neat," Frank agreed.

"We're going to buy you presents, Mother!"

"I'll step over to the police station and wait for ye," Mrs. Carscadden said grimly.

"Oh that reminds me!" Sheila exclaimed. She flashed into the house, flashed back with a little photograph held in the palm of her hand. "Look what was forwarded to me, a few days ago," she said.

They all looked at the picture of a California fruit orchard, in all the radiant flood of March bloom. A plain little farmhouse intruded upon one corner of the print, and in the center a pruning ladder had been leaned against an apple tree, and a young man in overalls stood on the ladder. Below him, deep in the spring grass, was the stout, square figure of a middle-aged woman, with one hand dropped to her side to touch the head of an eager mongrel.

The young man was facing out of the picture. He was half laughing, his shirt was open at the throat, his shirt-sleeves rolled up; he had a saw in his hands.

"Who's that?" Frank asked.

"That's a bad boy, the boy who kidnaped us, and then went back to his mother and is being a good boy!" Sheila said. She slowly tore the picture into tiny scraps. "Nobody's ever going to use that against him," she said.

"And is that all we're ever going to know about him?" Frank asked, smiling down into her honest, serious blue eyes.

"That's all."

"Someone you helped?"

"I don't know. I'd like to think I did."

"Well, come on," Frank said. "I'll bring her back to you safely, Mrs. Carscadden!"

"I've no doubt ye'll try to," Sheila's mother said patiently.

"Ah, you love me, Mother!" Sheila was as radiant as the spring morning as she kissed her mother.

"The black sheep is the fav'rite, Sheila," Mrs. Carscadden said with a resigned sigh.

"And I'm your favorite child, Ma?"

"I may as well say you are," the mother said, "for it may be the last chance I'll have to spake to ye for the dear knows how long! When ye'd walk out of the house on me, God knows I'm the last to know when I'd clap eyes on ye next!"

Sheila and Frank were laughing as they ran down to the glistening, long shining bulk of the roadster. He helped her into the front seat, and Sheila settled herself there comfortably while he came about to his own seat at the wheel. She turned to wave at her mother and sister as she and Frank whirled off into the morning sunshine together.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE VOICE OF WISDOM

LESSON TEXT—Proverbs 4:10-27.
GOLDEN TEXT—Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life.—Proverbs 4:23.

What to do and how to do it—these are the vital things which the book of Proverbs imparts. It deals with every condition of life, good and bad, in the revealing light of God's holiness and love. Good advice may have its value, but we also need to know how to put it into practice. Therein is wisdom distinguished from knowledge. A man may have an unbelievably great store of knowledge, and yet be a foolish man because he does not have the wisdom to use it.

Knowing that these notes are used by a great many boys and girls, as well as by their teachers, the writer would suggest an outline for next Sunday which can be remembered by everyone who has ever crossed a railroad track. What does the warning sign say? "Stop, Look, and Listen." Then what? If all is clear, go ahead. That is just what our lesson tells us. Stop, for someone has a message for you; look, at the two ways of life; listen, to the wise words of counsel. Then go straight ahead in the right way.

I. Stop (vv. 10-13).

Life moves on at a rapid pace. One of the devices of the devil to gain and keep his hold on us is to keep things moving so fast that we never stop to think, or to heed the counsel of others. The wise man has something of importance to say to the young man whom he calls his "son." Let us stop and give heed to his warning, for we are assured that it will mean for us a long and happy life (vv. 10, 12).

Nobody but a fool would hasten past such a "stop" signal, nor thrust aside this opportunity for life-giving instruction (v. 13). Here is something far more important than mathematics, literature, or economics. Here is life.

II. Look (vv. 14-19).

There are really only two ways of life—"the path of the just . . . that shineth more and more unto the perfect day" (v. 18), and "the way of the wicked," which is only darkness and stumbling (v. 19). There is no middle way. We cannot walk in both paths; it is "either-or." Young people should get hold of that fact, for in these days there is a constant attempt to blur the colors, making things neither black nor white, but gray; neither good nor bad, but just advisable or inadvisable.

The moral laws of God are not changed; right is still and will eternally be right, just as wrong is and always will be wrong. Wickedness is so wrong that it causes men to spend sleepless nights trying to entrap others (v. 16). But no one need go that way; just do not "enter" that path, "avoid it," and if by chance you have wandered into it, "turn from it" (v. 15). God will help you.

III. Listen (vv. 20-25).

Listening is important business, calling for real attention and application. Especially is that true as one listens to the truth of God. It should be received by an attentive ear (v. 20), kept before one's eyes, and pondered in the heart (v. 21). Such listening is sure to bring results, and we find them enumerated in verses 22 to 25.

Life is assured to those who heed the words of God's messenger; not just a bare existence, but a healthy life (v. 22). God's spiritual children are not (or at least should not be) invalids or weaklings.

Keeping the heart right (v. 23) keeps the whole life right, and the way to be sure that the heart is right is to fill it with God's Word (v. 21). Then see how the whole life responds; the lips speak no forward (R. V. wayward) or perverse words, and the eyes look straight ahead along the shining path of the just.

Now that we have stopped to give attention to the Lord's word through His messenger, and looked carefully at the two ways of life, and listened to words of wisdom and guidance, what comes next? Do we stand idly by and commend ourselves for our wisdom, or do we sit down and take our ease? No. Being assured that the way is clear, we

IV. Go Ahead (vv. 26, 27).

God wants His people to move on to greater glory and usefulness. At the Red sea, God told Moses, "Speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward."

"Move forward! valiant men and strong, ye who have prayed and labored long; The time has come for you to rise, For lo! the sun rolls up the skies."

Thoughtful, vigilant, lest he be led into a bypath on the right or left, turning his feet away from every evil path, the child of God goes forward, and as he goes the road becomes brighter and brighter with the glory of the presence of the Lord, shining more and more until that perfect day when he shall find himself at the end of his journey and at home forevermore in the Father's house.

Wardrobe of College Girl Has Attractive, Pace-Setting Styles

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

OF ALL the highspots in a college girl's life, what adventure so charged with thrills and moments of excitement as the mad, merry quest for back-to-school "clothes" that recurs each fall of the year!

The college girl's what-to-wear problem certainly received the perfect answer recently in a preview of fashions presented in a series of style clinics held in the great, known far-and-wide Merchandise Mart of Chicago where gather semi-annual hundreds of merchants who are ever on the alert to sense fashion trends in advance. The two coats illustrated herewith were particularly stressed as type style-ambitious co-eds are sure to favor.

You can tell at a glance the message of the model to the right. Yes, it's most assuredly spotted fur! Leopard and ocelot and fur of kindred type will fairly stampede the spectator sport grandstand when the football season is on. It is a youthful fur and it's going to be the "rage" this season. In the picture it trims a zipper coat in olive green. The bag problem is solved with a muff bag of the ocelot worked with the self-wool that fashions the coat.

Fashion scouts looking for the ideal black coat this season will hail the model to the left as a real "find." It has a zipper fastening. You'll love the big pockets bound with Persian lamb (very smart again this season) and the hood is detachable, may be worn as a collar. Black is tremendously smart this season; keep this in mind when you go to look up new coats.

With almost uncanny wizardry designers are designing such ingenious contrivances as linings that zip in and out of coats in the twinkling of an eye, jackets, coats, and even dresses are made reversible and with a mere sleight of hand gesture of the wearer your garment is a monotone or a vivid plaid at your will. Hoods are convertible into collars, detachable pinafore skirts give you two dresses in one, and for more change this same double-duty skirt serves as a cape. A handbag is a handbag one moment and the next it develops into a muff; hats have removable brims, and so on this necromancy in wearing apparel continues. It behooves every college girl to seek out fashion's "latest improvements" for it means economy in dress as well as being first in your set to proudly flaunt the "new."

Just a word about the little pen-and-ink sketches in the background of our illustration. They are items gleaned from the aforesaid style preview that will "put you wise" as to a few of the fashion highlights that will enliven your college career.

Mentioning them briefly, there's the American jeweled flag pin at the top to the left that tells of the widespread vogue for patriotic jewelry. Wear it on your lapel. And the cunning fringed shawl of green jersey with hat to match. See it centered to the left? It's adorable. Below note the many-strand necklace and bracelet of large pearls. It's the latest. The sketch at the center top tells you that huge fur pockets on coats are tres chic. A triangle or square babushka head kerchief of multi-colored gleaming rayon satin worn peasant style you must have. You will not be able to resist a brush wool sweater with lacy crocheted hood as shown below to right. The snow-white house robe of fleecy texture as sketched center below is destined to become a college girl classic. This robe is "big news."

TWO football coaches visiting in New York recently know all the hazards of the preseason tom-tom. They are none too keen about it. One is Carl Snively of Cornell and the other is Homer Norton of Texas A. and M.

Both face the new season with veteran squads that were untied and unbeaten a year ago. Both have been picked for a mop-up campaign, which is always dangerous. Snively and Norton lose only one or two men from brilliant teams—but football is a funny game.

It would be something of a record for two unbeaten teams to go unbeaten another year, so both know the law of averages is all against them. Too many things can happen. And there are many times when senior teams dip below the level of junior play.

I asked Bob Zuppke about this once, when one of his senior teams cracked up.

"Sometimes," Zup said, "as seniors they get too smart to keep taking a beating—to keep sticking their heads into a jolt."

The Rasping Angle

"Who can pick any team to beat that Ohio State bunch?" Cornell Clark asks you morosely. "Look at that backfield, headed by 215-pound quarterback Don Scott. They are all fast, all experienced and they'll average around 205 pounds. Our backfield average may be under 170. Ohio State should be one of the best teams in football this fall. And Ohio State isn't the only team on our schedule. They can all be tough."

"All you have to do is look at our schedule," Homer Norton of Texas A. and M. says. "We are in the top-flight sector of football. Each and every game is hard to win—much less all of them. Don't let anybody tell you Southern Methodist will be any setup this fall. They have a fine line and a pair of backs that will match anybody in football."

"How about matching that runaway giant of yours—Kimbrough?"

"That's different. But S. M. U.'s Johnston is still one of the best. Kimbrough is about as good a back as you ever saw."

Talking It Over

In the group of select coaches near the New York Herald Tribune football coaching school there was the usual talk back and forth about the stronger teams.

Bo McMillin of Indiana tells every rival to look out for Ohio State, Minnesota and Michigan in the Big Ten.

Bill Alexander, the keen sage from Georgia Tech, warns all comers against Duke, Tennessee, Tulane and possibly Alabama.

"What about your Ramblin' Wreck?" I asked Alex.

Alex grins. "Pretty small and light," he says, "but we'll still keep reporting for every game."

Georgia Tech has one of those baffling attacks that keep a defense thinking of a will-o'-the-wisp in a midnight swamp.

"And don't overlook Mississippi State," another Southerner says. "Here's a team that will be full of headaches for anybody they meet. And that means anybody."

Harry Mehre's Old Miss will be another troublemaker.

They all rated Tulane's outlook one of the best in years—power plus speed, and both plus experience under Red Dawson's direction.

"Don't miss that Duke-Tennessee game," they all advise.

They'll tell you, too, about Biff Jones' Nebraska outfit.

They were talking about the stars of 1940.

Don Scott, Tom Harmon of Michigan, Kimbrough of Texas A. and M. drew the leading backfield votes. But there was also a Nebraska entry, and Johnston of S. M. U., and others from the Far West. Not overlooking Paul Christman of Missouri.

Best Pro Yearling

"I'll name you the best freshman pro football entry," one coach said. "He is Kay Eakin of Arkansas, now with Mara's Giants. He was the best all-around back I saw all year. Here is a great runner, a fine passer and a good sprinter. He is every bit as good as Tuffy Leemans, one of the best. This Arkansas kid will be a sensation. Be sure to keep an eye on him this season."

This is about the same story I got from coaches throughout the entire Southwest last fall.

AUSTIN—In spite of the great advances that have been made in dental instruments, local anaesthesia and operative methods in recent years, there are yet many persons who have an unjustified fear of the dental chair. Unfortunately, this attitude influences thousands to postpone the visit to the dentist until there is actual pain or until an accident to tooth structure occurs. Such a fear-complex not only is a foolish but often produces real suffering, loss of teeth, serious illness in addition to unnecessary expenditure of money, Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, states.

"It is true that some discomfort is connected with dental corrections, though often this fear may be psychological fear of pain rather than the pain itself. However, in view of the actual damage that can result because of delay, temporary inconvenience deserves no consideration whatsoever in a wise-and-economical personal dental program.

"Commonsense suggests that early discovered dental faults are more easily and painlessly corrected than those that are permitted to become aggravated through neglect and for which a cure is sought only as a last resort. The time to discover dental defects, therefore, is before one is aware that such trouble exists. Prevention of dental defects is less painful than correction.

"For this reason, it is excellent practice to adopt a regular semi-annual schedule as the minimum number of visits to be made to your

YOUR FUTURE

Congressman?

It's HARD to tell... but EASY to pick a winning oil

YOU'RE STICKING YOUR NECK OUT, if you try to guess whether this young chap is headed for Washington.

True, he is already exhibiting signs of future political prowess. But experience has shown that some of the least likely candidates end up with high position, while school boy orators and class officers seldom rise to national affairs.

Easier than picking a winning politico is voting for a winning oil for your motor. This is why:

Of the many oils which Phillips makes, in various grades to match varying needs of cars and pocketbooks, we have set one apart as our best.

We say unconditionally and without reservation that Phillips 66 Motor Oil is our finest quality... the highest grade and greatest value... among all the oils we offer.

Pick a winning oil by pointing to the can marked with the Orange and Black 66 Shield, when you make the 1,000-mile change, as well as when you put in lighter oil for the winter.

ARMY LIFE WILL BE DEPICTED AT FAIR

LUBBOCK—Opportunity to see for themselves the kind of army the nation is building for its defense will be provided visitors to the Panhandle-South Plains Fair in Lubbock, Sept. 30-Oct. 5.

It is a feature timed to the national defense tempo unlike any which will be seen at any fair in the state of Texas this year, so far as officials of the Fair Association have been able to ascertain.

Established in a model camp at the fairgrounds through the entire week will be a cross-section unit of about 120 men from the famous Second Division at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio. Included will be the complete Second division band of 56 musicians. With them, the soldiers will bring the very latest in weapons, including a 155-millimeter howitzer, a 75-mm. piece of light artillery, an 81-mm. mortar, a 37-mm. anti-tank gun, .50 and .30 calibre machine guns and some of the famous Garand automatic rifles. They also will bring with them 20 or more motorized vehicles, including an army camp kitchen of the type rated the finest in the world.

Authorization for sending the unit to Lubbock was given by Maj. Gen. H. J. Brees, commanding officer of the Eighth Corps army area, which embraces the entire Southwest, and Maj. Gen. Walter Kruger, commander of the second division, according to information to C. E. Maadgen, Fair Association president. First Lieut. John D. Torrey will command the unit.

The soldier boys voluntarily will undertake a busy program while here. They will establish their model camp immediately west of the Boy Scout building, where it can be quickly and easily reached by every person who enters the grounds. On display at convenient times at the camp will be the weapons.

The band will play at various times and places on the grounds each day and night. The entire unit also will appear before the grandstand each afternoon for a 15-minute demonstration of the guns, featuring one particular gun each day and explaining it over the public address system. There will be a spectacular part of the grandstand program, which will include top ranking vaudeville and circus acts—all of which will be free.

Armament Manufacturers Realize Plant Expansion Carries Risks

Reduced Military Appropriations Would Spell Ruin; U. S. Foreign Policy Unparalleled; German War Claims Appear Unsound.

By CARTER FIELD
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WASHINGTON.—It is fairly simple for the government to commandeer any existing plant which it may deem necessary for the national defense program and the owners of which are unwilling to co-operate. But it is a bit difficult for the government to commandeer a plant for which the blueprints have not even been drawn.

Yet the ONLY fact behind the amazing public misconception of this whole picture of the alleged bogging down of the national defense program, which is blamed on greedy would-be war profiteers, concerns PROPOSED plants, not EXISTING plants.

And the truth even about that is that there is very little delaying on the part of concerns which the government wants to take war contracts. Dozens of big concerns are risking the shirts of their stockholders by constructing new plants for the manufacture of airplane engines, airplane propellers and whatnot without knowing what the prices will be, without knowing what profits they will be allowed, and at the risk of having stark and idle plants on their hands two or three years hence.

Right now there seems to be danger. The public is aroused to it, and is behind the appropriating of billions for national defense. War rages in Europe, and there is eager demand for all sorts of war supplies. But who can tell what the picture will be even next summer, much less three years from now?

Disarmament Might Follow Peace in Europe

For example, there might be not only peace, but the sort of disarmament agreement for which the statesmen of the early 1920's were striving, a situation in which no nation would build another fighting ship or fighting plane, a tank or a big gun, for a considerable period of years.

At the moment this seems far-fetched, but consider the arguments which those who will be advocating this course will have, should there be peace a couple of years from now. Every nation in the world will be so deeply in debt that there will be serious doubt that they can ever pay the interest on it! A moment's thought about the present British debt and the rate at which it is being increased will show that this is not a totally impossible picture.

Taxation will be grinding, not only in Europe, but in the United States, whether we get into the war or not. For we are rapidly reaching a total of debt which will require heavy taxation merely to pay the government's annual interest bill.

Expansion of Plants Requires Real Nerve

So beyond any question, when peace does come, there is going to be a tremendous demand on the part of the taxpayers to cut down on military appropriations, if this can be done safely, and it will appeal to a number of statesmen then, as it did in 1921, to bring about disarmament by treaties.

Boiled down, that is why manufacturers OUGHT to be worried about amortization. And that is why the public should really be appreciating the nerve of those companies which are building new plants because the government wants them to do it, without waiting to find out about profits, and whether the tax collectors will leave them anything with which to pay for the new plants. Put another way, without knowing whether they will ever get back 10 cents on the dollar of their new investments.

Incidentally, President Roosevelt is NOT responsible for these attacks on business. But certain senators and representatives have been showing either very poor logic, or rather contemptible politics.

U. S. Foreign Policy Is Unique in History

There may be some parallel in history for the course now being followed by the United States government, and the open expressions of so many nonofficial American speakers, and editors, but researchers seem unable to find it.

For example, the various moves which have been made in defiance of neutrality, moves which very obviously have the approval of a considerable majority—some of the polls estimate it as more than 60 per cent—of the American people, and yet which run absolutely counter to the supposed desire of a very large majority of the people to keep out of war.

Putting it bluntly, and undiplomatically, it would appear that nothing in this country may do is likely either to get it into the war or keep it out. That decision, it would appear from all the known facts, will be made for us, not by us. It will be made by Adolf Hitler.

To put it another way, this country has already done so many things obviously hostile to Germany, and designed to aid her enemies, that if there were any purpose to be served, Hitler might feel himself justified in declaring war against the United States.

On the other hand, Denmark, Norway, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg never did the slightest thing to irritate the Germans, yet they were crushed without warning and in violation of the most solemn treaty promises.

So it would seem that Hitler decides what countries he will fight. The other countries either fight or do not fight, as he determines.

Unneutral Acts Have Approval of Majority

All of which would seem to make the arguments of the isolationists rather technical. We are committing acts which in other times would be branded as acts of war. For example, the original idea of a "neutrality patrol," which justified the recommissioning of the World war destroyers. For example, the repeal of the arms embargo while a war was actually in progress. For example, the more recent virtual alliance with Canada, which is at war with Germany.

And this is topped off with the delivery to the British of the 50 destroyers, with guns and ammunition aboard, which has long been predicted in these dispatches. Consider also the fact that a joint British and American committee will select the precise sites for the new military and air bases in British possessions!

And all this in the midst of a presidential campaign, with the candidates of both major parties actually approving the results accomplished—even if the opposition objects to the manner in which they are done—and with minorities in both parties very unhappy, but unable politically to do anything.

German War Claims Require Discounting

Nearly every news commentator is constantly telling the public that there is no way of being sure what is happening in Europe behind the veil of censorship. Naturally there is no denying the truth of this frequently repeated statement, but there are certain things which simply MUST be so.

The main point is, as this is written, that the Nazis have not yet conquered Britain. No censorship could hide that, if it were already an accomplished fact.

It is a matter of simple arithmetic, now that so much time has elapsed since the heavy air fighting over Britain began, that the German claims simply could not have been anything like accurate because their exaggeration is obvious.

This does not mean that the British are winning. Certainly the British censorship prevents our getting an accurate picture of that. For example, it may well be that the Nazi bombing of Britain is succeeding in destroying British airplane and munitions works. We do not know. We only know that the British contend that so far the bombings have not accomplished anything in slowing down the British war production.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the house of commons several weeks ago that British airplane production, plus what they were bringing in, was now equal to German airplane production. He did not deny that the Germans still had great superiority in number of fighting and bombing planes, but predicted that this superiority would decline from then on.

This of course will depend on several factors. One is whether the German raiders are able to destroy British airplane plants. Another is whether submarines, mines and German planes can curb British imports of airplanes.

As long as the British can keep on fighting in the air, it is obvious that the Germans are not accomplishing their real objective.

Just recently there was a remarkable story from Britain. American newspaper men, from the cliffs in the vicinity of Dover, saw and reported an attack by British bombing planes on German gun emplacements between Boulogne and Calais. The amazing part of this story is that the German guns ceased firing, apparently so as not to have their flashes make targets for the British bombers, and resumed firing when the British planes left.

A little study of that picture will make one very dubious indeed about the German claims to date!

Kathleen Norris Says:

What Is This Thing Marriage, Anyway?

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

Before the first anniversary Dan was deeply attracted to one of the nurses in his uncles' office.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

ONE of the most disillusioned and discouraging letters I ever received came to my desk some weeks ago from a woman named Mary Baker. She is 32, has been married eight years, and she says she is scared.

"Dan and I married for love, and for six or seven months we revelled in our love and home and plans," she writes. "But before the first anniversary Dan was deeply attracted to one of the nurses in his uncles' office. He works with two dentist uncles.

The affair worried him, made him ashamed and unhappy; presently the girl married and Dan got over it. But it shook the ground under my feet, and I never felt quite the same confidence in him again.

"He was thrilled when our little boy was born, and said he hoped we would have three or four children. But Peter was not a year old when I went away to the country for three weeks and during my absence Dan carried on an affair with a divorced woman, who had always said she was my friend. When I got home he confessed that he had been carried away by temporary emotional excitement, and that it was over, but Mrs. B. came to see me, showing me a letter in which Dan had written that if I would give him a divorce they could be married.

Bears Sorrow Silently.

"This disgusted me, and I had a time of despair. For weeks I did not speak to Dan, and as I would not tell even my own mother of what had occurred I had a lonely and uncomfortable time. Eventually we were reconciled in a sort of surface fashion, and after some months, convinced of his reform, I returned to his room and enjoyed a short time of confidence and happiness. Our second son was born, and Dan was so devoted to all three of us, and so helpful and patient that I thought myself a fortunate woman, and that our troubles were over.

"My boys are now six and three. And Dan is again in love, this time with a woman so cheap and ordinary that it is unbelievable to me that any man could fall for her, least of all Dan!

Marriage in the Modern Manner.

"Now, I know your advice. I've been reading your column all my married life. I know all about being independent of anyone else for my happiness, and building a life around myself and my boys. But what I want to ask is, what is marriage? If it is a relationship that nine times out of ten grows irksome and stupid to both parties after a few years, and is maintained only because of children, or society, or family dignity, or business considerations, isn't it a failure? Most of my friends are already taking a sort of seriocomic attitude toward their mates. To a great many of them the sudden ending of the married state, through any cause, would be a great relief. Don't you believe this is true of all but the exceptional marriages? The husband enduring all sorts of defects in his wife, the wife setting her teeth to force herself to put up with her man's limitations, peculiarities and general cussedness.

"What's the answer, if this is true? Is a wife to go on for 30 more years, blandly accepting, as in my case, the fact that any flattering unscrupulous woman can make a fool of her husband, break up whatever happiness remains in her home, give her friends a chance to pity or laugh at her, and then,

DIVORCE

Social changes which have occurred in the past hundred years seem to have removed the stigma from divorce, Kathleen Norris observes. She is confronted by a young wife who has an unfaithful husband, asking if divorce is the only solution to her problem, or if there is any better way she can find happiness. Miss Norris advises her not to seek a divorce, but to develop other interests.

when the infatuation is over, blandly forget and forgive and go on as if nothing had happened? Where is my dignity, where is that future toward which all women want to build, a future of security and peace, with children growing up, and garden, home, friendships, trips, vacations all shared with a real companion? And is it my fault that Dan has no desire to plan for such a future, but pays me attention only when he is not interested in someone else?

A Five Year Plan.

"My own idea is that all marriages ought automatically to be cancelled at about five years, at which time the man and woman should be forced to live apart for six months or so, to see how each feels about resuming the relationship. It is frightful to feel that the step you took confidently in girlhood is holding you in prison for life."

That is only part of the letter, but sufficient to show that Mary is one of the great class of wives who feel a childish despair upon discovering that husbands are just human beings after all, selfish and stupid and subject to flattery and apt to get bored with home ties of wife, children, familiar dinner table, domestic routine.

Stigma of Divorce Removed.

Truly today's husband is a little more trying along these lines than his father was, because of social changes in the last 50 years. With divorce so common an escape, marriage has indeed come to be something of what Mary hints, at least to those whose religious scruples do not prohibit divorce. Many a marriage breaks up in its fourth, or fifth, or seventh year, and many state laws insist upon a period during which the couple, who seek divorce, may have a chance to think things over in cool blood. Fifty years ago a husband had to stand by his wife, and a wife by her home and children, for divorce carries a bitter stigma, and few women could become self-supporting. These restrictions are swept away now, an enormous percentage of the names in the Social Register are those of divorced men and women, and what the Social Register does the less prominent circles think it right to do.

So that the flirtatious detached woman your husband meets in his business may well feel that she is free to win him and hold him.

Cure Same Today as Yesterday.

There were abuses and difficulties and domestic martyrs in the old days, of course. But also there was stability, there was security, and both those things are very valuable. The disappointed wife turned her spurned affections to other things, she grew all the stronger and more self-reliant as she abandoned the futile chase toward "happiness," and learned to make other people happy instead of herself. And even today in her home and garden and kitchen, with her books, pets, children, friendships, with the letter-writing that was so remarkable a feature of a woman's life a hundred years ago, and today with movies, motor, trips, radio, with all the world's best music boxed for her convenience and with small neighbors needing mothering, any woman can form for herself a life of beauty and use and content, inside of the jail that she calls marriage, more easily than she outside it.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—Whether Benedict Crowell is a good prophet or not may yet be revealed. Mr. Crowell, assistant secretary of war in the World War, has been named special consultant on defense, by Secretary Stimson. Addressing the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia, July 11, 1931, Mr. Crowell said:

"Should a great war ever again engulf our country, American manufacturers, including the new industrialism of the South, as well as the older industrialisms of the North and East, without waste of time, material or priceless human lives, will perform their essential function of munitions supply . . . our national security is on a sound foundation."

Mr. Crowell, who was a consulting engineer before he became a Cleveland banker and industrialist, is a brigadier general in the ordnance reserve. His specialty, as assistant secretary of war, was in organizing our munitions industries for the war effort.

He was widely praised for his efficiency in this and gained fame as the most ruthless cutter of red-tape in the army high command. This may have something to do with his selection as defense consultant at this moment. Yale university, his alma mater, recognized the above service by giving him an honorary master of arts degree in 1918.

A native of Cleveland, 71 years old, Mr. Crowell began his business career as a chemist with the Otis Steel company. He rose in executive positions and at the same time gained technical qualifications which made him a metallurgist and consulting engineer.

He is the author of several books, including a six-volume series called "America Went to War," of which Robert Forrest Wilson was co-author. One of these volumes is entitled "The Armies of Industry," singularly pertinent to problems and backgrounds of our present national endeavor.

Reporters, interviewing Mr. Crowell in the old days, frequently used to note his resemblance to ruby Bob Fitzsimmons, and deduce, from this his capacity for hitting and staying-power.

IN HIS novel, "Le Couple," published in 1925, Victor Marguerite, the French writer, foresaw the disaster which was to overtake France.

He described the debacle quite accurately, but put the date at 1943 instead of 1940. Today, the author accepts the conquest, which he tragically described and makes common cause with the conquerors. He denounces General De Gaulle and his followers as the hirelings of England.

In present and future clinical research into the fall of France and its causes, M. Marguerite's lament and prophecy, as of 1925, will be interesting. After describing the alliance of French politicians with "Prussian and Bavarian junkers," and the subsequent collapse and conquest, he says:

"And then we shall be reaping what we have sown. It will be the result of our policy of attempting the semblance of grandeur—stupid because it is not warranted by our power, nor by our national wealth, nor by our tricking birth-rate, nor by our exhausted finances."

Years of self-indulgence, mad pleasure-seeking, the softening of moral fiber and the ebbing of national vitality, he said, would precede the final destruction of the French nation. The League of Nations, he predicted, would be a ghastly failure.

M. Marguerite is the son of a famous French general of the Franco-Prussian war. In his study were medals and memorials of his father's war service. He is a stalwart man, tall and straight with abundant pompadoured hair and a Van Dyke beard.

He was a member of the Legion of Honor and honorary president of the French Society of Men of Letters. Poincare, no defeatist, had urged his Legion of Honor decoration. This and all his other honors were stripped from him when he published an offending book, "La Garconne."

He had been for 10 years an officer in the French army. In his books, which he continued to write during his army service, he championed virile French nationalism. Now, at 73, he watched France "reap what she has sown."

To Check Constipation Get at Its Cause!

If constipation has you down so you feel heavy, tired and dopey, it's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble. If you eat the super-refined food most people eat, the chances are the difficulty is simple—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines. If this common form of constipation is your trouble, eat Kellogg's All-Bran regularly, and drink plenty of water. All-Bran isn't a medicine—it's a crunchy, toasted cereal. And it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Our Patience How patiently you hear him groan, how glad the case is not your own.

Applications Being Submitted by Farmers

1940 Conservation Payment Applications are being rapidly signed and then submitted to the State office, after being checked for errors in the local office, Garlon A. Harper, county administrative officer of the county ACA, said today. Farmer county, Harper added, was seventeenth in the state to submit applications to the state office, which is a very good record, due to the fact that the lower part of the state is able to complete records much earlier in the year than this part of Texas. "Being early to submit applications will insure the farmers early receipt of all 1940 payments," Harper said in commenting on the work.

FSA Officials Home From District Meet

Members of the Farmer county board of the Farm Security Administration returned home the past Tuesday night from Childress, Texas, where they had been in attendance at a district meeting for several days.

Attending from Farwell were Miss Swebston, Thos. G. Moore, and Frank Seal.

WEDDING CEREMONY HELD SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 15

In a ten o'clock ceremony, Sunday morning, Miss Nada Lee Martin of this city, became the bride of Jack Wilkins, of Ruidoso, N. M., with the nuptial vows being spoken in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Martin.

Rev. J. F. Nix, of Abilene, Texas, was in charge of the single ring ceremony, which was performed before an arch intertwined with greenery and pink and white asters. Tall white tapers in candelabra were lighted by Morris Ed Martin and Miss Kathleen Oliver, at either side of the improvised altar, with bouquets of asters and zinnias being placed on each side of the arch.

Preceding the ceremony, Pearson C. Morgan, of Abilene, cousin of the bride, sang, "I Love You Truly," and "At Dawning," accompanied by the bride's brother, James Oliver Martin, of Abilene. The wedding party entered to the strains of Lohengrin's "Wedding March," with Mr. Martin at the piano.

Mrs. Wilkins was attired in a tailored suit of soldier blue, accented by a white satin blouse. Her shoulder corsage was of pink sweetheart rosebuds. Mrs. James O. Martin, as matron of honor, wore a street dress of black crepe, with a corsage of salmon-tinted gladioli. The groom's attendant was John L. Wilson, of Alamogordo, N. M.

Following the ceremony, an informal reception was held. The three-tiered wedding cake, decorated in pink and white and topped with figurines, was cut by the bride and groom and served by Mrs. John L. Wilson. Miss Abie Graham was in charge of the punch bowl.

Mrs. Wilkins, a local girl, is well known here. She graduated from the Farwell school and then attended Hardin-Simmons University at Abilene, later taking a job with the Texas-New Mexico Utilities company.

HOMEMAKERS CLASS TO MEET MONTHLY

In order that the homemaking girls in Farwell high school may have extensive training in club work, the Future Homemaking organization will have one mass meeting monthly, allowing all girls in high school eligible for the club to join.

The club will be presided over by Lenora Birchfield, president. A short business meeting, program and social hour each time will provide opportunity for the girls to become better acquainted.

Each homemaking class has organized, individually, electing Theda White chairman of the first-year class, and Twila Mae Strickland chairman of the second-year group. These individual clubs will meet twice weekly and study topics related to class work, each having its own officers who will conduct meetings and programs.

The council of the mass club will be composed of the executive officers from the two classes, Miss Geraldine Walker, sponsor, stated. At present forty-nine girls have solicited membership.

The classes have already made interesting investigations in incomes in Farmer county, studied food budgets of 36 families, food prices and factors affecting these costs, and other phases relating to the study of food for the family.

YOUNG WOMANS GROUP WILL MEET FRIDAY

The young woman's circle of the Methodist Society of Christian Service will meet in the home of Mrs. Loyd Cain, in Texico, on Friday evening of this week, at 8 o'clock.

IN DALLAS HOSPITAL

R. E. Williams, of Texico, is in St. Paul's hospital in Dallas, where he underwent a major operation, Sunday morning. He, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hermes, Mrs. Audie Barker, and T. J. Williams, was en route home from a visit with relatives in east Texas when he was taken suddenly ill. Mrs. Barker, one of his daughters, remained in Dallas at his bedside, while other members of the party returned home. Frank Hermes and Travis Williams returned to Dallas, Tuesday, and will bring Mr. Williams home when he is able to make the trip.

An attic that rises in temperature to 120 degrees occasionally is a good place to store winter clothes, for moths cannot live at that heat.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Roger Shaw

Nazis Send Air Armadas Over London On Biggest Bombing Raids in History; Michael Returns to Rumanian Throne; Critics Discuss Arms Sale to England

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE WAR: Over London

England, and more particularly London, felt the full fury of total aerial warfare as Nazi bombers swarmed over the English channel in what seemed like one never-ending bombing mission.

Some U. S. war correspondents (writing under British censorship) declared that the Germans had given up any attempt to aim at military objectives before dropping their tons of high explosives, but merely found their way over the city and dropped the bombs without regard for what they might strike below. Germany denied these charges, saying that their airmen were aiming at points of military advantage to England and if civilians were killed or hurt it was "not on purpose." Just how many persons were killed in these terrific raids could not accurately be determined.

One thing was sure however. Germany had worked out a definite plan of bombing attack. First, planes carrying incendiary bombs circled over the city dropping their loads to start fires which served as flares to light the target of those to follow. Defending planes of the royal air force and anti-aircraft fire at first held the invaders away from the interior of the city. But the continuous attacks, coupled with such a large numerical advantage in German planes and pilots made it impossible for the British to keep the enemy from doing a great deal of real damage.

Magda

King Carol and his red-headed sweetheart, Magda Wolff-Lupescu, fled away from their ex-Romania. Carol's 18-year-old son, Michael, inherited the Rumanian throne. Michael has been king before—from 1927 to 1930, when Carol was in exile. In 1930, Carol came back from his Paris hideaway, and ousted his little son by an army coup. Now, the army had kicked Carol out, and brought back the boy again. Michael had pretty well grown up, since his first infantile venture in the kingship.

GENERAL JOHN ANTONESCU

Gen. John Antonescu, a really tough general, assumed an Iron Guard dictatorship; in other words, a Rumanian Nazi dictatorship. John is violently anti-Russian, and a big red-baiter from way back. He wanted to fight Russia, when Stalin grabbed Rumanian Bessarabia and the Bukovina. But Carol shut him up in a monastery, where he frightened the monks half to death by his man-eating ways. He is, roughly, the same type as the Italian general, so-tough Rudi Graziani, who took Italo Balbo's place as governor of Italo-North Africa.

Losing Ways

Rumania was losing territory all along the line. The Russians had taken Bessarabia and the Bukovina. The Hungarians had northern Transylvania, after some rough-housing. The little Bulgarians took southern Dobrudja, which they were eminently entitled to, as Churchill, Hitler and Stalin all admitted, for once in agreement. The red-baiters and Fascists in Rumania were willing to yield land to Hungary, but wanted to fight Russia. The pinks and leftists in Rumania were willing to yield land to Russia, but wanted to fight Hungary.

CHOICE: Philosophy

When it came to a choice between Stalin and Hitler—and it looked as if many Americans might be faced with a choice before very long—some conservative Americans preferred Hitler, while many liberal Americans preferred Stalin. All commentators were coming to realize that the Russo-German pact of August, 1939, was basically unsound, politically, economically, and ideologically.

LINES: U. S. A.

The late M. Maginot built himself a line. It was of steel and concrete. Now, we have a so-called Roosevelt line in the East, and will doubtless get a so-called Knox line in the West. Secretary Knox was said to be a special proponent of the western setup.

The Roosevelt line ran from Labrador to Brazil. It took in Newfoundland, Bermuda, the Bahamas, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Jamaica, some little islands, Trinidad, and British Guiana. It was to consist of naval and aerial bases par excellence. The Knox line, if any, was to start with the islands off Alaska, then Hawaii, then the Galapagos and Cocos island, north and south of the Panama canal. One group belonged to Costa Rica, the other to Ecuador, two of the so-called Latin American republics. The Costa Ricans offered to play ball.

SECRETARY KNOX

In the last war, the Germans had the Hindenburg line. Then came the ill-fated Maginot line. It was faced by the German Siegfried line. Italy has a Lictor line. Finland had a Mannerheim line. Rumania possessed a Carol line. England still holds the 20-mile Channel line. The Czechs once boasted a Sudeten line. Some of them worked, and some of them didn't. The Roosevelt-Knox lines looked almost airtight, and some military critics said that lessened the need for peace-time Yankee conscriptioning. Others said: No.

MORE & MORE:

Without End

Oliver Twist asked for "more." So did extreme anglophiles, and sentimental Tories. We gave England the 50 destroyers, with part of the American people protesting vigorously. That was not enough. The anglophiles just mentioned, demanded "more" in stentorian tones. These people wanted to give Mr. Churchill:

1. At least 20 motor torpedo-boats, for channel work.
2. A large number (half) of our crack flying fortresses, to bomb East Prussia and Poland.
3. A large number of seaplanes, for submarine spotting, etc.
4. All our tanks, for use in the Mediterranean region.

Peculiar?

It was announced that we had already given the British 80,000 machine guns, 500,000 rifles, and 750 field guns, with "huge stocks of ammunition." One out of every four armed Britishers, said the same source, is carrying an American weapon of some sort. Some people felt those 50 over-age destroyers were merely meant for a legal or illegal precedent, to break the ice, and enmesh Uncle Sam still deeper in the European mess. As for the British islands, said these critics, America could have had them free, by holding up airplane shipments, and waving the banner of the still unpaid war debt, from World war No. 1.

NAMES ... in the news

John Cripps is the son of Sir Stafford Cripps, England's radical ambassador to Russia. Son John is a conscientious objector, who thinks the war is totally un-Christian. The British draft board sentenced young Cripps to work in the garden, two days per week.

The U. S. navy was considering the purchase of H. Edward Manville's private yacht, the Hi-Esmare. It is a 267-foot affair, worth a million and a quarter, in anybody's good mazuma. It has an excellent steel hull, and could be used for a naval training ship. It was launched in 1929, the year of the depression. J. P. Morgan, of Morgan's, turned over his super-yacht to the British navy some time back, it seems.

Ex-King Carol of Rumania was shrinking with his ex-kingdom. Carol was pudgy and fattish. But he lost 33 pounds in hardly any time at all.

Damp Cupboard.

QUESTION: In the sacrality of our church the altar guild has a cupboard for linens and hangings. This cupboard has shallow drawers with doors in front. We find dampness and mold in the two lower drawers. What can we do to make the drawers dry?

Answer: That dampness comes up through the floor and through the two walls backing the cupboard. One method would be to move the cupboard away from the walls by at least two inches, and to raise it on blocks so that there will be a circulation of air behind and under it. In addition, the under part of the cupboard, the back and the one side toward the wall should be covered with waterproof felt tacked on. It will not do to lay the felt on the floor or attach it to the wall, for dampness that comes through should evaporate; if it remains in the floor and wall there might be trouble.

Door Through Cement Block Wall.

Question: In changing the entrance to a basement apartment, we would have to go through a wall of cement blocks. How can the blocks be cut? Would this be an enormous expense?

Answer: As cement blocks are hollow, cutting is not a difficult or expensive process. It can be done with a cold chisel and hammer, but the quickest and easiest way is with an electric chisel. A mason contractor will have this tool, and would do the job at no great cost. Your very first move should be to set a heavy timber in the wall to form the upper edge of the opening that will be cut, to take the weight of the wall above it when the wall below has been removed.

Moisture-Proof Wall Finish.

Question: Walls of our bathroom and kitchen are painted. Would there be any advantage in using wall-cloth?

Answer: Wall-cloth is actually a light form of canvas finished with oil paints, and in its best form is waterproof and washable. It can be had in wallpaper patterns, and in appearance cannot be distinguished from wallpaper. When properly hung, the walls are resistant to moisture and can be washed. Grease that is always present in kitchen air will not penetrate and can be washed off. The additional advantage over paint is that there is no chipping.

Window Leakage.

Question: How can I eliminate leakage through the horizontal bars of French windows in heavy driving rain?

Answer: That leakage is due to faulty putty, the putty having drawn away from the wood to leave a fine hair-line crack. This can be closed by painting, although if the putty shows signs of general cracking and deterioration, it should be replaced. After taking off the old putty, the wood should be given a coat of paint to prevent oil in the new putty from being absorbed. Ordinary putty can be improved by adding one-fifth as much white lead paste.

New Roof Over Old.

Question: I am told that new shingles can be laid over an old shingle roof; that the old roof makes good insulation. What is your opinion of this?

Answer: Laying a new shingle roof over an old roof is an excellent plan. The double thick roof gives good insulation and the roof is stiffened. Also, you are saved the cost of tearing off the old shingles and clearing up the mess. Dry rot in the old roof will die out and become harmless. Full instructions for doing the job can be obtained from the Red Cedar Shingle bureau, Chicago.

Oil-Stained Cement.

Question: Can you recommend something to dry up a cement floor in the cellar which has been stained with oil?

Answer: Cover new stains for several days, with an inch or two of dry portland cement. Dry hydrated lime is also effective. For old stains wash with a solution of two pounds of trisodium phosphate to the gallon of hot water. Rinse with plenty of clear water.

Limed Teakettle.

Question: How can encrusted lime be removed from the inside of a copper teakettle?

Answer: Fill the kettle with a mixture of cider vinegar and water in the proportion of one cupful to the quart; bring to a boil and let stand all night. Another method is to mash several raw potatoes, to put into the kettle for overnight, and then to add a little water and bring to a boil.

Hard Water Drip.

Question: The drip of hard water has formed a rough coating on my wash basins. What will remove it?

Answer: You can take that off with sandpaper or fine steel wool, but be careful not to dull the gloss of the enamel, which can not be renewed. Rub very lightly and go at the job slowly.

Size Before Painting.

An excellent way to size plaster walls before applying paint is to mix in one pint of linseed oil to the gallon of paint that you are going to use, and put that on as the first coat. Brush it in well and allow time for thorough drying.

GENERAL HUGH S. JOHNSON Says:

CAMPAIGN WEAKNESSES

WASHINGTON. — You certainly have to hand it to the old master in the White House for his ability to keep the show going all by himself and to conduct a brilliant political campaign without even seeming to know that one is going on.

He is doing it in scintillating fashion. He is getting away with it. He isn't even being seriously challenged by what should be his opposition. Maybe Mr. Willkie is just winding up, but he is taking a painfully long time about it.

Public enthusiasm is a fickle jade. Mr. Willkie's performance in taking the nomination away from the professionals at Philadelphia was as spectacular a show as Mr. Roosevelt's getting the naval and air bases. It captivated the county, but, as the President knows so well, a popular figure has got to keep the glass balls dancing.

Mr. Willkie, himself, apparently relies more on Orrin Root's amateur Willkie clubs than on the Republican party organizations in the several states. That is a mistake that Mr. Roosevelt never made. He had all kinds of amateur clubs, too, Businessmen's Roosevelt for President clubs, the Good Neighbor league and as many others as could be thrown together.

These don't have to putter around depending on emergency organization and manufactured enthusiasm. They depend on dough and, Hatch act or no Hatch act, money still talks. Mr. Roosevelt has 10 billions to spend. Yet, with all that intricate pattern of decentralized regional organization, Mr. Roosevelt never neglected the good old Democratic political organization. On the contrary, he relied on it, reorganized it, and built it up to a greater strength and on a wider range than any Democratic organization had ever known before. Mr. Willkie may have been nominated in spite of the professionals, but he certainly cannot be elected without them.

He can't be elected without making election issues either. The ammunition is there by the ton—caissons bursting with it. But no shell is worth its cost without a gun to shoot it. I always thought the President was wrong in condemning "Yes-But" men in off-term debate of issues but you can't get anywhere in a political campaign if all you have learned to say is "Yes-But." You have got to learn to say "No Sir!" and make it emphatic and convincing enough to be heard and carry conviction.

I didn't expect that any candidate or any party would ever again make the terrific blunders of the Alf Landon campaign, but so far this Republican campaign looks enough like it to be its twin.

The high command of both the political armies appear reasonably confident and tranquil, but the great general staff of each is in a dither.

For the Democrats, the loss of Jim Farley on the eve of the battle of the third term was some such catastrophe as would be the loss of Hitler to the Nazis before a decision in the Battle of Britain. Mr. Flynn, make no mistake about it, is a very able man with a better basic brain, I think, than his great predecessor. But Mr. Flynn's field command has been restricted to the Battle of the Bronx and this great American terrain is a very different matter. Even on his own ground, Mr. Flynn will have to wait until the great boss-buster, Tom Dewey, gets through with him.

Mr. Flynn's Bronx empire was just a little imitation, competition Tammany. I don't know what bones are buried in that realm—but maybe Mr. Dewey does.

On the Republican side, campaign manager Joe Martin is as active as a night prowling tom-cat on a tin roof dodging missiles and talking back, but that is in congress—not the campaign. The purely political general staff is therefore, leaderless and accordingly disorganized. There isn't even a speech-factory.

There is no strategy board of elder statesmen—or rather, seasoned politicians. Mr. Willkie fascinates everybody who sees him or hears him talk extemporaneously either on a chair or platform, but there are 130,000,000 people in this country and he can't see them all.

There is the radio, but he is not coached to click there and in spite of the wailing of several such speech experts as Haines Falconer that he has a natural equipment with which he could promptly be made the greatest radio orator of our time, a combination of diffidence and rugged individualism prevents that. A great opportunity seems to be trembling in the balance.

WASHINGTON.—Senator Pepper wants the President to have the power to "suspend all statutes" in preparing for defense and, imagining that he is Patrick Henry, shouts: "If this be dictatorship, make the most of it." It happens to be Patrick Henry in reverse.

Senator Josh Lee wants the President to have power to take the newspapers and radio for "propaganda"—in other words, to suppress truth and tell lies to the American people. In short, they say, we must become Nazis to fight Hitler.

THERE were two of these old bent-wood chairs—both with cane seats gone and a badly scarred varnish finish. "Get them out of my sight!" their owner said, "I can't stand the thought of wood bent and forced into unnatural curves." In the end she did get them out of sight and used them too. The trick was done with slip covers made, as shown here.

The one you see in the sketch became a side chair for the living room dressed in richly colored cretonne in soft red and blue-green tones with deep wine bindings. The legs of the chair were

AROUND THE HOUSE

It is a good plan to disinfect sinks and other drains once each week.

Potatoes that are to be French fried should stand in cold water at least an hour before cooking.

Dogs having access to the house should be kept thoroughly clean and free from fleas. Serious damage may be done if fleas enter rugs or upholstered furniture.

One soon learns by handling pots when managing house plants that if pots are light the plants are dry; if heavy they may be left without water for a time.

Returning lettermen include E. G. Abernathy, Woodrow Harris and Dewey Langston, all of whom have had a year's experience at end, and Joe and Leon Miller, tackling giants of a year's work each. Quentin Burgett of last year's team is back for center position. This will be his third year. Backfield men who have seen experience are Jimmie Pappan of Albuquerque, sophomore signal caller; Charlie Bousman, in his second year; Bill Givens and Avon Powell, juniors, and Wayne Robinson, Roswell's 210-pound sophomore fullback.

Lubbock Fair Ticket Sale Gets Underway

LUBBOCK—South Plains Fair directors announced early this week that an advanced ticket sale would begin immediately and continue until Saturday, September 28, thereby giving residents of the South Plains an opportunity of securing special rates to visit their Fair.

Tickets have been placed on sale in Lubbock and other places at a special price. Regular fifty-cent single admission tickets, four to a strip, are being placed on sale for $1.00—a regular $2.00 value. The regular 50c front gate admission will remain the same, officials declared. The special bargain sale makes the cost of tickets only 25c.

This special advance ticket sale will be in effect until Saturday, September 28. After that time the regular admission price will be in effect. All those interested in securing these bargain tickets may do so by writing the Panhandle South Plains Fair Association, Lubbock, enclosing a money order or bank draft in the correct amount. No tickets will be sold under $1.00. Each person may buy as many tickets as he or she desires.

This special sale will make possible attendance at the Fair by hundreds of South Plains families who heretofore have not been able to attend as many times as they would like.

INTEREST HIGH IN SOUTH PLAINS FAIR

LUBBOCK—More interest than ever is being shown in the South Plains Fair this year than at any other time in the history of the association. Officials believe it is due to the recent announcement of the showing of the Entrada of Coronado, the $200,000 federally backed show which will be featured every night during the Fair.

Larry Doyle, of New York, director for the Entrada, started rehearsals last week and will continue until final dress rehearsal Sunday evening before the exposition opens. With Mr. Doyle are Mr. and Mrs. John Rust, directors for the sound case. They have been rehearsing local voice parts for the thrilling drama.

The presentation on the world's largest stage has been 400 years in the making, and it commemorates the famous ride of Coronado through the Southwest and his search for gold. Beautiful costumes, scenery and lighting effects make this presentation one of the most outstanding performances ever shown in this section of the State. Thousands of people from New Mexico will visit the Entrada to view this huge show for the last time.

The grandstand price for the night show have already been set. The price is 25 cents for general admission and 50 cents for reserved seats.

PROTECT TEXAS WHEAT STANDARDS

COLLEGE STATION—Steps are being taken to avert the possibility of a decline in the Texas reputation for growing good baking varieties of wheat.

Concerted effort is being made by various educational organizations to encourage the planting of adapted high quality varieties of wheat for the purpose of maintaining the high reputation that Texas wheat enjoys on the market. The reputation of Texas wheat can be maintained only by the production of high quality varieties such as Kanred, Tenmarq, and Turkey, which fortunately are among the best yielders.

Pledging its aid to the movement to encourage the use of good varieties of wheat, the state AAA committee, meeting here, expressed the opinion that an effort should be made to establish a differential in the Commodity Credit Corporation loan rates on the Chiefkan, Early Blackhull, Superhard Blackhull and other poor varieties of wheat.

"It is too late to do anything about it on the 1940 loan," Charlie Thomas, state committeeman and wheat grower from Pampa, declared, "but a lower loan rate for the poorer varieties might be requested in the future if Texas producers continue to plant such varieties."

Thomas emphasized that nothing could be done about loan rate differentials against the poorer varieties of wheat this year but declared the committee would pursue the matter further before next year's loan is announced.

WHEAT HARVEST SURE FOR 10,000 TEXANS

COLLEGE STATION—More than 10,000 Texas wheat farmers are certain to harvest a crop in 1941.

For that many producers signed their applications for all-risk wheat crop insurance before the August 31 deadline, insuring their crops against drought, wind, hail and other unavoidable hazards.

Although the number of producers insuring their 1941 crops was slightly less than took out insurance on the current crop, the total coverage in bushels and acres will equal, and possibly surpass, the coverage for this year, E. R. Duke, state crop insurance supervisor with headquarters at Amarillo, reports. No compilation is available yet on the 1941 total coverage.

Meanwhile, indemnity payments on the 1940 insurance contracts are practically complete, the supervisor said, with 5,314 claims, amounting to 1,647,238 bushels, approved for payment to insured producers.

FARM TRENDS DURING 1940

COLLEGE STATION—Farm income from marketings during the first six months of 1940 was up 296 million dollars over figures for the same period of last year.

This increase came from improvement in domestic demand, which more than balanced dwindling exports, T. R. Timm, economist of the Texas A. and M. Extension Service, states in an analysis of the USDA Bureau of Agricultural Economics report.

Some further improvement in domestic demand is indicated. No boom, no runaway prices are in sight—simply a sound advance stimulated by increased industrial production for national defense. Supplies of food and feed are more than ample.

The outlook for exports of farm products is very unsatisfactory as European markets, which furnished an outlet for about one-third of U. S. exports of farm products, are now closed. Cotton is hit worse than any other commodity.

Cotton growers, faced by a gloomy export picture, find some consolation in increased cotton mill activity in this country. Domestic consumption for the current marketing year now seems likely to reach 7,750,000 bales; an increase of almost a million over the 1938-39 total of 6,848,000.

The U. S. wheat supply for the current year is about the same as for last year—a billion bushels. An increase of around 25 million bushels in the carryover is offset by a similar decrease in this year's crop. World wheat supplies appear to be from 100 to 200 million bushels less than a year ago, but holdings are still about double the normal export trade.

The history of the submarine dates from 1620, the year the Pilgrims landed on the Plymouth Rock.

The Dallas Public Evening Schools will have an exhibit of what "nite school" pupils are doing, at the 1940 State Fair of Texas. Professor J. O. Mahoney, principal of the night school, will be in charge of the exhibit, which will be in the Educational Building.

UNMARRIED YOUNG MEN WANTED AS AIR CADETS

FORT SAM HOUSTON, SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Bachelors wanted! One of the qualifications for enlistment in the Army as a flying cadet, according to Emzy W. Gaydon, the U. S. Army Recruiting Representative at Clovis, is that the applicant be unmarried. Not only must he be unmarried, but he must agree to remain unmarried during his period of training as a flying cadet—a period lasting just seven months.

Besides bachelorhood, the qualifications for enlistment as a flying cadet are not too rigid. Briefly, they are:

1. Age—20 to 26 years inclusive. Applicant must have passed his 20th birthday and must not have reached age 27.
2. Education—Applicant must have earned at least half the credits required for a degree at a recognized college or university. If he has not earned such college credits, he can take an examination covering work of similar nature.
3. Physique—Of course it is necessary that the applicant be sound of wind and limb, and that he be a male citizen of the United States.

Contrary to some reports, it is not necessary to be a superman in order to pass the physical examination for enlistment as a flying cadet. Young men who meet these qualifications are invited to see or write Emzy W. Gaydon, the U. S. Army Recruiting Representative at Clovis.

Villalobos and his Strange Cargo

IN 1521, two years after Cortez and his conquistadores marched on Montezuma's capital, a Spanish ship sailed from Santo Domingo for the shores of Mexico with a strange, but important, cargo.

The boat was not loaded with soldiers in mail, with explorers or priests—but with Andalusian cattle. The shipper was Gregorio de Villalobos.

Little is known about Villalobos or his ship, but this cargo started the cattle business in this country, for the cattle increased and spread over into what is now territory of the United States.

In like manner the beginnings of today's telephone service were modest. In June, 1875, there were but two telephones which talked imperfectly between two rooms in the same house.

Today there are over 21,000,000 telephones in this country. From your telephone you may talk easily, naturally, to anyone in almost any village or hamlet in this country, and in normal times to telephone users in sixty foreign countries. The telephone not only makes pleasant and easy your voice visits with friends or relatives in other cities, but it facilitates the functioning of business as well.

AIR BASES

Cabled reaction from Tokyo indicated that the Japanese were suspicious that something more than appeared on the surface was behind Cordell Hull's warning against the invasion of French Indo-China.

In this, they were right. There was.

Nobody in the navy department is shouting it from the housetops, but the U. S. fleet—or at least most of it—will now remain in the Pacific.

Previously it was considered necessary to bring the fleet from Hawaii and California in order to station most of it around Panama and the Caribbean. This would have made it impossible to keep a watchful eye on Japanese operations in the direction of the Malays and the Dutch East Indies—all-important sources of American tin and rubber.

Probably it will still be necessary to bring a few ships to the Atlantic side of the canal. But the island base deal with Great Britain has now made it possible to police most of the Caribbean and the Atlantic seaboard by air instead of by sea.

NAVAL NOTES

At first the chief improvement to the new U. S. bases on British islands will be airports. Not only are they needed immediately, but also are cheapest and quickest to construct. Naval bases, which mean oil tanks and repair facilities, take time to build and may never be constructed to any great extent. The U. S. navy will take advantage of British naval facilities for the time being.

Significant was the fact that many of the over-age destroyers being sold to England were fitted out with cables to neutralize magnetic mines even before the deal was published by the President. In other words, there had been no real doubt for a week or so before the announcement that the deal would be closed.

Negotiations for naval bases by no means are terminated. What the navy wants more than anything else is a good base in Brazilian waters, and if possible one in Uruguay. Informal conversations regarding a Brazilian base have been going on for some time.

U. S. REARMAMENT DRIVE

The bottleneck of American rearmament is factory expansion. In order to produce more planes, guns and tanks, new factories are necessary. And part of the delay has resulted from a wrangle over how taxes shall be paid on these new plant expansions.

In fairness to industry, it should be noted that many of its leaders have gone ahead and financed their own plant expansion without waiting to see what the tax picture would be. In fact some industrialists were far-sighted enough to begin more than a year ago. Companies which did this include:

New York Shipbuilding, Newport News Shipbuilding, Bethlehem Shipbuilding, Bath Iron Works, Federal Shipbuilding, Midvale Steel, Carnegie-Illinois Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Bausch and Lomb, General Electric, Ford Instrument company, Edo Aircraft, Grumman Aircraft, Brewster Aeronautical, Eclipse Aviation and Walter Kidde.

Probably the list takes in many others. And because of their far-sightedness, these firms not only are reaping good profits for themselves but also doing a service for the government. For instance, the Elco company of Bayonne, N. J., put up an $800,000 plant extension about a year ago in order to manufacture motor-torpedo ("mosquito") boats. As a result, it is now turning over to the navy one new, and badly needed, mosquito boat each week.

However, among many other manufacturers there has been backing and filling over factory expansion and how the new plants will be taxed and financed. There is no question but this dickering has definitely slowed up the defense program.

Powder Shortage Serious.

Powder is the bottleneck of national defense. Without it not a shot can be fired, not even a revolver. And today's powder shortage is most serious.

It is to avoid these shortages in the future, not only in regard to powder, but also other essentials of modern warfare that the government is anxious to build some of its own plants, or at least obtain a lien on them.

This also would solve the tax problem, because industry would have no need to ask for early amortization on its emergency expenditures.

Government Arms Plants.

There are three general plans: One is the arsenal, completely owned and operated by the government, such as the Frankford arsenal in Philadelphia.

Two is the factory completely owned and operated by private industry. This was the practice employed during the World war.

Three is a compromise system whereby the government buys the ground and erects the factory, then lets the private manufacturer step in and operate the plant for a management fee.

NOT FAR OUT

In a recent county court case one of the witnesses was a man who did not deny that he had "little love for the motor-car." He raised a roar of laughter by describing the defendant's chauffeur as a "chiffonier!"

On repeating the blunder, he was pulled up by counsel for the defense. "Chauffeur, my friend, chauffeur" corrected the latter. "A chiffonier, you know, is an ornamental, wooden—"

"Oh, well," interrupted the witness, with a nod in the direction of the chauffeur, "call him what you like. I dare say we're both pretty near the mark!"

Laugh That Off

Woogy—And you? Why you're so funny that every time I see you I have a guilty feeling that I'm doing the government out of entertainment axes.

HAD SECURED THE TENTS, PERHAPS

"What plans have you made yet for camping out?"
"Only tentative ones."

Not Very Hopeful

The new curate was keen on getting up a concert in the village hall. The first problem was the piano. He was told the cobbler had one. So along he went.

"Lend the pianer?" was the cheery reply. "With pleasure. It's in the cellar, but I can soon get it ready."

Then he went to the door of the back room and shouted:

"Liza, where's the works of the pianer?"

Back floated a voice from the kitchen:

"Why, ain't they in the garden?"

Breaking It Gently

The engaged pair were talking over the future.

"Darling," she said, "when we are married you'll have a woman in the house who really knows how to cook."

He looked surprised. "But, dearest," he said happily, "I didn't know that you were a good cook."

She shrugged her shoulders. "I'm not," came her reply, "but when we're married my mother is coming to live with us."

Efficient

"I'm specializing in nerve treatment," said a young doctor. "Have you had any success?" asked a friend.

"I should say so," was the reply. "Why, when I had finished with my last case the patient asked me to lend him $10."

Before or After

At a family party the men were discussing raspberry pie. "I can't eat it," said one, "the seeds get under my false teeth."

"Well that is easily solved," said his brother-in-law. "Just remove your teeth before you eat the pie."

Why is a watch the most modest thing in the world? Because it is forever holding its hands to its face and, no matter how good its works, is always running itself down!

Local Treasure Hunters Suffer Rude Awakening

Three times Rawlinson had dreamt that concealed somewhere in his flat was a quantity of valuable silver. The dream could no longer go unheeded.

That night he and Mrs. Rawlinson sought a hollow place in the walls. At last they hit upon it, and after some manipulation with chisel and hammer, dislodged several bricks. There, hidden on the other side, lay—the valuable silver.

Just as they were gloating over their find, there came a furious ring, and their neighbor bounded in.

"What the deuce do you mean by breaking up my dining-room cupboard?" he gasped.

Initiation Rites Are Conducted in Texico

Initiation services for the home economics and vocational agriculture departments of the Texico school were held at the school in separate gatherings, Saturday night, with six new members being admitted to each group.

Pearl Martin, as president, and Mary Margaret Martin, as the "Spirit of Home Economics," were in charge of the girls' initiation, with Esther Selman, Imogene North, Wanda Walton, Alverda Hall, Helen Katherine Blair and Jane Atkins being administered the vows in a candlelight ceremony.

In the F. F. A. department, Richard Lovett, James Orvil Francis, James Box, Eugene Bowers, Billy Wayne Hamilton and Billy Bob Drace were accepted as new members, with the second and third year students in charge of these services.

TO DISTRICT RALLY

Rev. and Mrs. E. J. Sloan, and Mrs. Roy B. Ezell, delegate, were in attendance at the district rally for the Woman's Christian Service Society of the Methodist church, which was held in Elida, N. M., on Tuesday of this week. The meeting was for the purpose of acquainting presidents and other officials with the workings of the new organization, recently founded in Methodism due to the uniting movement of the churches.

Limit is Placed

It also places an absolute limit of 900,000 on the number of draftees in training at any one time, and that means that the vast majority of those who sign registration cards will never learn the manual of arms or see the inside of a tank.

The president, in a statement issued when the proclamation was signed, said that many of these others "may serve their country best by holding their posts on the production line."

Still others, he said, would stay at home because of "individuals dependent upon them for support." Thousands more will be deferred for failure to meet physical tests.

The president called the method "fair . . . sure . . . Democratic . . . the will of our people."

Can't Remain Indifferent

His proclamation went on to say that "we cannot remain indifferent to the philosophy of force now rampant in the world."

General Marshall, in a radio address, added that the threat of military danger to this country "trembles on the verge of becoming a probability."

The president's statement, accompanying the proclamation, dealt with the processes of the draft, and said that America, in adopting a peacetime selective service system "has broadened and enriched our basic concept of citizenship."

The chief executive signed the bill and proclamation in the presence of Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex) and May (D-Ky) of the Senate and House military committees, Secretary of War Stimson and Marshall. Sheppard and May each received one of the pens.

Fair Exhibits Are Planned Locally

Exhibits of hogs, sheep, and crops, to be placed on display at the Bi-State Fair in Clovis, September 25-28, were under discussion by the Farwell Future Farmers aggregation the first of the week, according to T. A. McCuiston, director.

McCuiston went on to state that he had no definite list as yet as to which boys would have the various entries at the fair, but added that

Farwell-Dimmitt Grid Game Slated for 20th

The opening clash of the Farwell Steers on the gridiron field for the current season will be staged at Dimmitt on Friday of this week, September 20th, Coach M. D. Conger said the first of this week.

Despite the fact that he has lost several boys from the squad the past few days, Coach Conger is holding to the idea that his players, composed principally of green sophomores, will be able to hold their own against the Dimmitt team this weekend.

The Farwell line is causing the majority of worry this week, as most of the boys have had only one year of work on the gridiron, while the backfield, composed of Hughes, Phillips, Dodson and Pipkin, is also adding grey hairs to the coach's head, since Hughes is the only man who saw consistent service last year.

As to what Dimmitt may be expected to turn loose against the Steers, conjecture was rampant, with no information on hand. Reports here indicate that the Dimmitt team is of good size, but the actual quality of the team is strictly "dark horse."

Game time Friday afternoon is 2:30, and it is hoped that a good number of the local fans will accompany them to Dimmitt to see them in action. The game, in addition to being the first of the season, is the opening conference tussle.

he expected complete information along this line by the first of next week, since the fair is to begin next Wednesday.

An educational booth will also be set up by the Farwell F. F. A. boys, officials stated, to be entered in competition with other chapter displays. Sheep, hogs and crops will be entered in both open and club divisions, it was stated.

County Agent Jason O. Gordon stated today that it was likely that some of the county 4-H clubbers would exhibit hogs at the Clovis show, but he had no definite announcement to make.

Texico Splits Games With Pleasant Hill

In the first softball games of the season for the Texico squads, played at Pleasant Hill last Friday afternoon, the local girls took a defeat by a close 13-14 score, while the boys won, 13-10.

The girls' game went into an extra inning before the deciding tally was made by Pleasant Hill. Edna Earl Thompson, as pitcher, turned in a good game and hit the only home run for the locals, while Doris Doolittle played errorless ball as catcher.

Mary Margaret Martin did probably the exception work of the day for the Texico girls, making two double plays unassisted, and holding down her position at first base with the ability of an old hand.

The boys eked out a close win, having 13 hits, 13 runs and 13 errors during the game, according to the box score. James Box was in good form in the pitcher's box, allowing only a minimum of hits during the match. Jack Flye connected with the only home run of the game for Texico.

Both games were spotted with a number of errors by the locals, due principally to the fact that the teams are made up principally of unpolished players, but coaches have expressed the hope that the squads will improve as the season progresses.

MOVES FURNITURE STORE

The J. E. Foreman furniture and second hand store, which has been operating in Texico for the past few weeks, moved into one of the Hill buildings in Farwell the first of the week. The stock is located in the building formerly occupied by the office of the Texas-New Mexico Utilities company.

ENMC Opens Season On Clovis Gridiron

PORTALES—Eastern New Mexico College's football season opener is just a few days away, and the boys are hard at work afternoon, and, believe it or not, night too, says E. G. Abernathy, end.

They will line up on the night of Sept. 20 against the Cameron Aggies of Lawton, Okla., on the Clovis high school gridiron. The battle will be the first of the season for the Aggies' big boys, as well as for the Greyhounds.

Last year, the Oklahoma bunch defeated ENMC 20-0, losing only one game during their whole season, a 7-6 loss to the freshmen of Texas Tech at Lubbock. The Cameron men scored 212 points to their opponents' combined total of 26.

Softballers to Play Field Here, Friday

On Friday of this week, the first home games of the season will be played by the Texico softball teams, both boys and girls, when the squads from Field visit on the Texico diamond.

Information here is to the effect that the Field teams will be "pretty rough," officials have announced, and the locals will have to be in extra-god form to hold down the visitors.

Play will begin around noon, and the public is invited to attend. No admission will be charged.

The local diamond was put in first-class condition the first of the week, with Fire Chief Ira Selman and Thomas Hardware furnishing the grading machinery.
