

Another Pool Survey To Be Taken

Ches Fowler says it's official now, and that we can quote him on it: The Great Drouth of the 1950's has ended. Ches says he's had about four inches on his place in Oklahoma Lane this fall, which is real moisture for him.

Ches suggests that the thing we can start practicing up on now is telling stories on the biggest drouth of 'em all, which lasted from 1950 through 1957. He is so firm in believing it's finally ended that he has us convinced.

This new faith in the future has Ches so excited he's getting generous with even his most prized possessions. For instance, he read of our troubles with mice in the plant, and offered the services of one of his best mousers.

Ches really loves his cats, and we know this would be a real sacrifice, so it is easy to see that he thinks things are looking up. We turned down the offer, with thanks. For the Grahams, cats have had a suspicious way of encouraging more cats, and the first thing you know, the cats are worse than the mice.

Every once in a while, the American public attaches itself to a highly technical subject, and for a time, anything that pertains to that subject is in vogue. With the advent of the atomic bomb, everybody went on a uranium kick, and U-235 and Geiger counters became part of the household language. Another one that's been going strong recently is in the scientific field of man's study of the mind. Self-informed conversationalists casually refer to their neighbor's schizophrenia and openly discuss another's psychoses. The psychiatrist's couch has become a very popular subject for cartoonists.

With the coming of the Korean war we viewed frightening new concepts of disposing with the enemy. Our men were subject to intense mental strain in various ways that popularly came to be known as "brain-washing."

Today, we are locked in a grim war of ideologies with the communist world, and society as we know and enjoy it is threatened to be engulfed not so much by armed might as by the subtle, insidious struggle for the mind. We usually think of the Russians as past masters in this exacting art, but there are some things turning up right under our noses here in the U. S. that bear watching.

Men of advertising deal with motivation studies, which have to do with the reason we do things—why we buy certain things at certain times, what makes us prefer one color to another, and similar puzzling subjects.

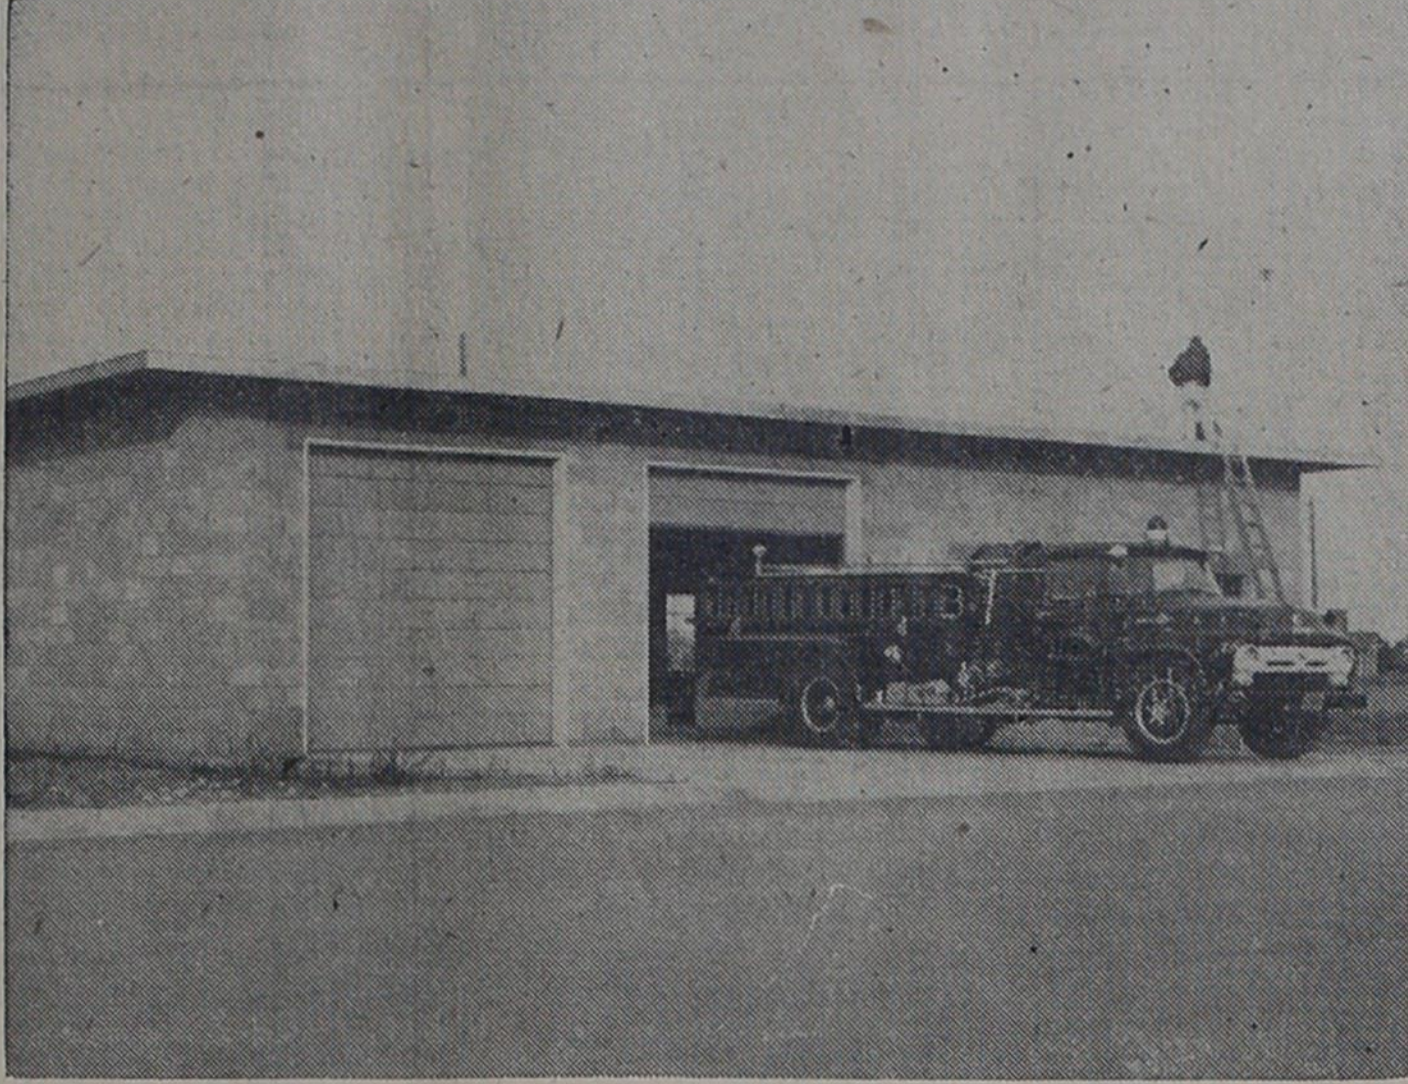

An experimental advertising group has recently developed a startling device that can almost drive people to do certain things without their being aware of it. They call this subliminal advertising.

Such advertising is produced by cameras that flash an advertiser's message on the screen at 1/300th of a second. You see it but you don't know it. These ads can be threaded into any ordinary picture or TV show, and have produced some startling results.

In early experiments, the words "Eat Popcorn" were flashed repeatedly on the screen of a movie house, and popcorn sales jumped 57 percent in the lobby.

What happens is that the person seeing the message records it in his subconscious, but it never lasts long enough to get over the threshold of perception. Thereafter, he has a strange and intriguing urge from his subconscious to go do whatever has been suggested.

On account of the obvious implications of such a device, even (Continued on Last Page)

NEW FIRE STATION—Workmen this week were finishing up construction of Farwell's new fire station at least for the present time. The shell of the building is now complete and housed in the structure is the city's new truck, shown in front of the building. The volunteer firemen are to have their first meeting in the station tonight even though the interior is not yet complete. Depleted funds has caused the finish work in the apartment and meeting room to be postponed until a later time. Meeting time is 7 p.m.

Sixteen Texico-Farwell citizens were present at a Farwell Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday night to discuss the Twin City swimming pool project. It was decided by those present to conduct another survey to see if the project should be continued.

Jess Landrum opened the discussion by explaining to those present the stalemate which had been reached, therefore leaving a question of whether or not the pool could be built as had been planned.

Landrum cited how citizens in both towns were unwilling to support the project if it were to be located on the opposite side of the line.

He explained that it appeared as though some of the Farwell support would be withdrawn if the pool were located in Texico, as is now planned, and if it were not located in Texico there would be hardly any support from there.

"We thought at the beginning, and we still do, that one town cannot raise all the money," Landrum said. "It will take both towns to do it."

Joe Helton brought forth a point which he said probably no one had considered. "The town in which the swimming pool is not located will be getting the best end of the deal," was his opinion. He explained the safety, water, and sewer problems which would confront the municipality it is located in.

In this respect, "the town that doesn't have the pool will be getting a free ride," Helton said.

Representatives of the Texico Woman's Club were present and they consented to make a survey on that side of the line to see how much support the town's citizens will give to the project. The same is to be done in Farwell, and all of those who have pledged money, are to be contacted in the survey.

To help with the survey in Farwell are members of ESA sorority, the organization which has been helping with the fund-raising in past months.

The two groups are to report their findings to Landrum. Another pool meeting has been called for November 18 and on that date it will be decided whether or not to continue the project.

ENMU Foursome Entertain Lions

Members of the Texico-Farwell Lions Club were entertained Monday night by four Eastern New Mexico University music students. The group presented a variety of musical numbers at the club's regular meeting in the City Cafe.

Students presenting the program were Joanne Wolf, Betty Walfenberger, Duane Blakeley, and John Dougherty. Accompanist for the entertainers was Miss Gillian Buchanan.

ANGELS IN DISGUISE

Two Men Fined For Bootlegging

Parmer County law enforcers made two arrests in Friona over the weekend and both involved persons possessing or making an illegal sale of beer. Both parties were tried and convicted in county court Monday morning.

On Saturday night Pete Stewart was picked up by Deputy Sheriff Jim Roberts and Ben Moorman, of the Friona police department. In Stewart's possession were 34 quarts of beer. He was fined $125 and court costs by County Judge A. D. Smith.

The following night, Sunday, Moorman and County Sheriff Chas. Lovelace picked up Santos Rando after he was found selling two quarts of beer. Rando was fined $250 and court costs.

Graham, Magness Agencies Combine

Consolidation of the B. N. Graham and Magness Insurance Agencies is being announced this week. The merge will take effect tomorrow, November 1.

To manage the new business will be Cary Joe Magness. Offices will be in the former Graham Agency building on Third Street. Mrs. B. N. Graham is retaining an interest, although she will be inactive. Jo Veta Glenn is being retained as secretary for the firm.

To be known as the Graham-Magness Insurance Agency, the firm will continue to represent all companies formerly represented by both, and also, the secretarial work for the Farwell Waterworks will continue to be handled in the office.

The change will not affect policyholders, Magness says. Clyde Magness will continue to operate Magness Real Estate in their building on Highway 70-84.

UNICEF Drive Tonight

Youngsters of Hamlin Memorial Methodist Church will be making a house-to-house canvass of the Twin Cities tonight (Thursday) to "trick or treat" for funds for the UNICEF to provide milk and other essentials for underprivileged children in many foreign lands.

Members of the beginner, primary and junior departments are to take part in the drive and members of the classes are to meet at the church at 6 o'clock for a party prior to the canvass. Kiddies are asked to wear masks or costumes.

Sponsors for the group ask that individuals give a nickel or dime or whatever they can to this cause when the little "ghosts and goblins" come "trick or treating" tonight.

Mrs. Annie Glenn Buried Last Week

Mrs. Annie Glenn of Walnut Springs passed away in a hospital at Glen Rose, Monday, October 21. She had been hospitalized for four months prior to her death. Mrs. Glenn was 86 years old.

Services were held in the funeral chapel at Meridian Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. and burial was in the Walnut Springs cemetery.

Survivors include ten children, Jack and Mrs. Sam Rundell of Farwell; Mrs. Irvin Snell and Tom of Lamesa; Bryan of Waco; Mrs. Fairy Williams of Clyde; Sam of Cleburne; Buster of Odessa; Mrs. Ray Bennett and Ney of Walnut Springs; and six nieces and nephews.

Those attending funeral services from Farwell, other than the children, were Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Rundell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rundell and Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Rundell. Mrs. Leo Halbert of Ford City also attended.

Lions Plan Sale

A light bulb sale for Thursday and Friday, November 14 and 15, is planned by the Texico-Farwell Lions Club. Plans for the event were mapped out at the regular meeting of the club Monday night.

The Lions are to canvass the towns on the two nights and also sell bulbs at Farwell-Sudan football game on the 15th. To be sold will be packages, containing seven bulbs of various sizes.

The bulbs, regular $2.20 value, will be sold for $2. The bulb sale will be the second such fund-raising project for the Lions club. The last one was conducted about two years ago.

Farwell Carnival Saturday Night

Saturday night at the high school auditorium at Farwell School, one of four high school girls will be named queen of the 1957 carnival to climax the annual harvest-time festival sponsored by the student council of the high school.

Each high school class sponsors four candidates for the royalty, including a queen and king, princess and prince. Votes are one cent each and each class may keep what money they make on the queen's race except for a $25 entrance fee which goes to the class winning the race.

Various types of booths and other activities sponsored by the school classes and other organizations provide entertainment for carnival attendants until votes are counted and the coronation is held.

Vying for honors in the royalty race this year are Naomi Hubbell, Mitchell Walls, Martha Smith and Billy Smith, seniors; Belva Christian, Johnny Lovelace, Dickie Williams and Jo Anne Schell, juniors; June Ritchie, David Berggren, Judy

THE STATE LINE TRIBUNE

"OFFICIAL PUBLICATION OF PARMER COUNTY"

FOURTEEN PAGES THURSDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1957 NUMBER 4

ELECTION SET TUESDAY

Three proposed amendments to the state constitution of Texas will be voted on by Parmer County voters—as well as others in the state—Tuesday, November 5.

The suggested changes to the state's constitution have evoked little general interest, although two would directly affect the taxpayers' pocketbooks. A light vote is anticipated locally, as evidenced by the fact that as of Tuesday afternoon, the county clerk's office in Farwell had recorded no absentee ballots cast. Deadline for those who want to vote but plan to be gone the day of the election is Friday, November 1.

The three amendments: 1. "... relating to the retirement, disability, and death compensation fund for officers and employees of the State."

2. "... increasing the limit on the maximum monthly payment to needy and aged persons from state funds from $20 per month to $25 per month and on the total yearly expenditure out of state funds for assistance to needy aged, needy blind, and needy children from $42 million per year to $47 million per year; and allocating additional sums, supplementing current legislative appropriations, for payment of assistance grants."

3. "... adding a new section authorizing issuance and sale of $200 million in bonds to create the Texas Water Development Fund to provide financial assistance to certain political subdivisions or bodies politic and corporate of the State of Texas in the conservation and development of the water resources of the state."

The third proposed change has caused the most publicity, with the greatly accelerated interest in state water problems during recent years of too little and too much rainfall.

Texas residents having paid their 1957 poll tax, and otherwise qualified, may vote. They need not own property to be eligible. A two-thirds majority will be necessary for ratification of the proposed changes. The usual eight polling places will be open in Parmer County. The boxes and judges:

1. BLACK—community building, John Bengler, judge.
2. FRIONA—city hall, Floyd Reeve, judge.
3. BOVINA—Legion hall, J. W. Parker, judge.
4. FARWELL—county courtroom, Albert Smith, judge.
5. LAZBUDDIE—schoolhouse, E. V. Crain, judge.
6. OKLAHOMA LANE—Methodist Church, Harold Carpenter, judge.
7. RHEA—parish hall, Melvin Sachs, judge.
8. LAKEVIEW—Otho Whitefield, judge, voting to be in his home.

Better be safe than sorry—Drive safely.

Kindergarten To Open Saturday

Mrs. Mark Fairman announces that she will open a kindergarten, "The Gingerbread School," near her home in Texico, and invites children five years of age and over and their parents to attend a special open house at the school on Saturday morning, November 2, at 10 o'clock.

Regular hours for the school will be from 9 to 12 a. m. Monday through Friday, and children five and older may attend the school.

The Fairman home is the third house on the west side of the street after turning south at Martin's Garage on Main Street in Texico.

Steers Handed Second Straight Loss By Friona

For the second straight week, Farwell's defending champion Steers took it on the chin from a district foe, when they fell to the up-and-coming Friona Chiefs, 18-0, Friday night at Friona.

Weldon Fairchild was the big gun for the Chiefs as he raced for two touchdowns, one in each of the first and third quarters. The first run covered 44 yards and the second one 50 yards.

The loss eliminated the Steers from contention for the district crown this season, and by winning the Chiefs placed themselves in a position to challenge the Morton Indians for the 3-A title. It was the first conference game for Friona and it was their second upset in as many games. They had two weeks previously won over strong White Deer, 35-19.

The Steers take time off from district play this Friday when they go to Eunice, N. M., for their final game away from home and their final non-conference fracas. Once again the Steers will have their work cut out for them as they try to improve on their 5-2 record.

The Cardinals, a veteran-studded team with a 7-0 record, are definitely the best Class B unit in New Mexico and they hold wins over foes of much larger classification.

No New Mexico team has yet scored against them this year as the team has rolled to decisive wins in each contest.

The Cardinals have pasted Ft. Sumner 52-0, and Portales 33-0. Other teams they have defeated with equal ease have been Lovington, Jal, and Santa Rosa, N. M., and Fabens and Van Horn, Texas.

The Farwell game will be the final regular season contest for the Cardinals before they enter into the New Mexico state playoffs.

Getting back to the Friona game, the Steers looked good against the Chiefs only in the first period, but penalties, the thing that has plagued the team all year, stopped three drives. Larry Pike took the opening kickoff and returned it 50 yards

Midway through the first period, Fairchild broke away for his first run for pay dirt. The drive started on Friona's 22 and it took the Chiefs only seven plays to score. The Chiefs at-

TO PLAY LAST GAME—These senior boys of Lazbuddie School will be playing in their last home football game Friday night, November 8, when the Longhorns meet Bovina in the homecoming game. On the back row are Tom Laney, Roy Vanlandingham and Leon Wilson. Kneeling are Kirby Carrell and Ronny Ivy.

BULLETIN

Flu Plagues Longhorns

The "flu bug" hit the Lazbuddie Longhorns this week, causing the postponement of homecoming activities scheduled at the school this Friday, Superintendent James G. Ward said late Wednesday.

The homecoming had been planned for this Friday when the Longhorns meet Hart. However, due to the influenza it will be postponed until next week when the football team plays Bovina in the last home game of the season.

Ward says that the Hart game may have to be cancelled if the players do not recover in time. No workouts have been conducted for the Longhorns this week and about half of the starters are ailing, he says.

FINALLY GOT HIM—Phillip Berry, Farwell halfback, overhauls Jerry London and brings him down in the second period of the game with Friona Friday night. The run covered 25 yards and moved the Chiefs into Steer territory. The drive was later stopped on the 33.

THE TRIBUNE'S EDITORIAL COMMENT

We Oppose One Constitutional Amendment

There are three amendments to the Texas constitution offered for approval by state voters Tuesday. Two of these amendments, we feel, are beneficial, and we support them. The other we oppose.

Worth adopting is H. J. R. No. 2, which will increase expenditures for old age assistance, aid to the blind and aid to dependent children; and H. J. R. No. 3, which will authorize issuance of $200 million in bonds for developing water resources. We gave our reasons for favoring these proposals last week.

The other proposed amendment, H. J. R. No. 37, would make the five percent contribution rate to the state employees retirement system applicable to an employee's whole salary, and add additional employees to its coverage.

This amendment has nothing to do with the state teacher retirement system which was expanded and improved last year. Neither does it have anything to do with the Social Security program, under which many county employees are now making contributions.

It refers exclusively to state employees and is a special program for them. Incidentally, here in West Texas where voters are so far removed from administrative functions of their state government, this particular retirement system is not generally known to exist, let alone be understood.

We oppose the change because the contribution rate would be applied to the entire salary, not just a base portion as is now the case with Social Security. Also, the change would make state employees eligible to receive benefits from their own fund and also other funds. In some cases, total benefits, including Social Security, might equal or exceed an employee's regular salary. No other workable retirement plan has ever been this liberal, and the actuarial soundness of such an idea is open to question.

Expanding the program in the manner suggested would cost the state about half a million dollars now, and the cost would continue to rise. The state matches money contributed by its employees.

Incidentally, all three amendments will probably pass. Texas voters in recent years have shown a remarkable affinity for any proposed changes in the state constitution. This did not formerly hold true. Most voters have come to feel that any suggested change is a needed one or else it never would have been offered by the legislature. They are overlooking their responsibility as judges on the merits of proposed changes in their state government, a responsibility which was carefully provided for by the framers of the constitution over a century ago.

Also, for reasons that remain a puzzle to most observers, Texans today are prone to approve rather than disapprove something they don't understand. A generation ago, it was almost impossible to get a constitutional amendment to pass, no matter how justified it was. Today, nearly any suggestion is snapped up by an uninformed public.

This is a strange change of pace. We wish Texas voters would better inform themselves on state matters and cast votes intelligently. It would be comforting to see a proposed amendment voted down occasionally.

PIKE CARRIES—Farwell's Larry Pike eludes Larry Fairchild to rack up several yards against Friona in the second quarter of the District 3-A game Friday night. Friona handed the Steers their second straight loss, 18-0.

Change Noted In Vehicle Inspection

Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, announced today a change in motor vehicle inspection regulations so as to no longer require the removal of a wheel in order to inspect the brakes of vehicles.

In an effort to prevent accidents which might occur due to brake failures, the department's earlier regulation had required that the wheel be removed for the principal purpose of determining the percentage of thickness of the remaining brake lining. Inspection stations found difficulty in making these inspections due to the fact that there was no accurate way of determining the original thickness and the decision in each case was left to the inspecting mechanic who had no satisfactory guide to follow.

The change in regulations, which resulted from action of the Public Safety Commission, does not affect the remainder of the inspection of brakes, which will still be required to have the performance ability required by state.

Col. Garrison announced that this change in the regulations was made in the interest of fairness to the inspection stations and to the motoring public.

R. S. Tucker of Farwell was to undergo surgery at Clovis Memorial Hospital this morning (Thursday), but a report of his condition had not been learned at press time.

Former Resident Dies In Lubbock

Mrs. Fred Doose, who was a resident of the Farwell area from 1916 to 1940, died in Lubbock, Friday morning, October 25.

Funeral services were held Saturday at 3 p. m. in the Asberry Methodist Church in Lubbock. Burial was in the Tech Memorial Cemetery.

Survivors include one sister, Mrs. Ida M. Block of Amarillo; two brothers, Harry and Frank Kribs of Wichita Falls; and four children, Leola of Richland, Wash.; Dorothy of Lubbock; and Leslie and C. J. of Clovis.

The editor got a speeding ticket between here and Clovis the other day. His nagging wife wasn't in the car to protect him.

But when he paid Sam Lewis the $15 required to take care of the offense, we had a terrible time balancing the budget. We have all kinds of categories for all kinds of situations in our budget, but we didn't have a place anywhere to enter that $15. We pondered on it a long time, and finally put it under "cleaning." He was literally cleaned after he paid it, so that seemed most logical.

Besides, we had more money in that allotted fund than we did under "insurance," the other possibility. Our home bookkeeping has a definite pattern. The only one who gets confused when he tries to figure out the budget, is the head of the household. He doesn't even try to understand our system any more, he just leaves it to us!

COMING
NOV. 7

AROUND THE WORLD

The 58 Ford has been proved around the world. This is the most dramatic and most grueling test ever given a new car before its public announcement.

The whole world was used as a test track for the 58 Ford. The car drove through England, France, Switzerland, Italy, Yugoslavia, Greece, Turkey, Iran, Afghanistan, Pakistan, India, Malaya, Thailand, Cambodia, Vietnam, and finally back to the place it started—Detroit, Michigan, U.S.A.

The Ford powered over the great mountain ranges of three continents: from the Alps to the Himalayas and the Rockies. It crossed the great rivers of history: the Thames, the Seine, the Tiber, the Arno, the Tigris, the Euphrates, the Indus, the Ganges.

This car stood at Buckingham Palace, rolled up the Champs Elysees to the Arc de Triomphe, and paused at the Eiffel Tower. It was greeted by the great Paris couturiers at the famous fashion salons where its "sculptured in steel" styling was applauded by the most style-conscious audience in the world.

The 58 Ford rode smoothly down the rugged, beautiful seacoast of Tito's country, to a festival in Dubrovnik, and into Greece to Athens, where this newest classic met such ancient classics as the Parthenon and the Temple of Poseidon. Into Turkey; and the 58 Ford passed the great white lacework palaces of the Sultans along the Bosphorus and the Golden Horn. Then the Ford went where few but nomads travel, up into the hot days and chill nights of the ancient mountains of Afghanistan. And thence along the route Alexander the Great followed with his chariots to cross the historic Indus river.

On and on the Ford moved, down into the heat of mysterious India, through New Delhi to the Taj Mahal, and to the great pink palace of the Maharajah of Jaipur.

This great new car met the challenge of the monsoons—rains that for centuries have stopped all road movement throughout Indo-China, but didn't stop the 58 Ford. It drove on to Penang in Malaya, and then north to Bangkok.

Further on came Saigon, the Paris of the Orient, at the farthest tip of Southeast Asia. Finally, it powered across the great Rockies and plains of North America and back, at long last, to Detroit, Michigan.

The 58 Ford . . . has been proved and approved around the world. A natural question arises. Why did Ford go to such great lengths with its 1958 model? Why spend so much money and time and go through all the problems of negotiations, customs, border transit, diplomacy in so many countries?

The answer: in the competitive automobile market of today, only the best in all-around value can survive. And this round-the-world test is the most decisive possible demonstration of the best.

The 1958 Ford is value: hard-dollar value. It is also style, power, performance, and a dozen great new features. But above all, it is value.

This is the car you've been waiting for. See it November 7—there's nothing newer in the world than the 58 Ford!

Farwell

'Twas a grand day
when Hollister Holledge
Waved goodbye
as he drove off for college,
With a coat of raccoon,
His high school bassoon,
A green hat, and a
Hunger for knowledge.

Now, while Holly was pondering Greek,
Life at home grew increasingly bleak.
Said his mother through tears,
"He was home eighteen years.
Can't we call him
long distance this week?"

Now, each Sunday at one, fall through spring,
They welcome the bright merry ring
That brings Hollister home
When he's talking by phone
Through the magic of long distancing.

Is there someone away from your house tonight?

Following a council report by Mrs. Tatum, the program was turned over to Geneva Ivie, who demonstrated several different ways to cook eggs. She made an omelette and showed variations with bacon, cheese, jelly and other additions. She demonstrated poaching eggs in milk and making creamed eggs.

Refreshments of tuna salad, cookies and coffee were served by the hostess to Carrie Tatum, Helen Fangman, Opal Cobb, Christine Braxton, Lucille Rockey, Anna Mae Hays, Geneva Ivie, Maxine Price, and two guests, Mrs. James McLean of Friona, and Mrs. H. L. McLean of San Antonio.

The next meeting will be in Helen Fangman's home November 13.

The domestic demand for agricultural products will probably be good in 1958, but it appears that exports in this fiscal year, July 1, 1957, to July 1, 1958, may not be as high as they were last year, according to John G. McHaney, extension economist. He points out that cattle prices in 1958 will probably be somewhat higher than in 1957, and lower feed prices can be expected because of higher production.

First Freeze Froze, Farmer Has Woes

Jack Frost finally put an end to area farmers' anxieties over when the first freezing weather would come to the Plains this year, when he dipped down for three successive early mornings and snuffed the life from all field crops.

Killed outright in the snappy temperatures of Friday, Saturday and Sunday mornings were the 40-plus thousand acres of cotton in this part of the western High Plains.

The freezing weather came at the tail-end of another multi-day wet spell, three of which have plagued cotton growers all over the Plains this fall.

Pushed by a cold front from Canada, the brisk air mixed with high humidities to produce heavy frosts each morning, and the successive treatments were more than cotton or grain sorghums could bear.

Early reactions to effects of the freeze have been mixed, but it generally may be said that the freeze will cost the cotton grower and have little effect on the grain sorghum producer.

"I am sure that our grades are going to be down considerably this fall," said County Agent Joe Jones this week, referring to the cotton crop. "Our yield will probably be off some, too, but the thing that will hurt most is a lowering of grades."

Weather has been very uncooperative for cotton growers all year long. Cotton men started off late with a cool, wet spring, and summer temperatures were never high enough over a sustained period to push the cotton along toward maturity as it needed to be.

"We usually need to have most of our cotton blooming by July 4," says Jones, "and it was about the 20th this year before we got much blooming. We just didn't have time to make up for that."

Actually, so far as averages go, the freeze date was about normal. It was considerably later than the last really damaging freeze of October in 1955, which varied over the area from the 6th to the 12th.

"There was enough time between planting and the killing freeze to grow plenty of cotton," says Jones. "But time isn't the only factor. It's what happens between those dates that really counts."

And the cold, wet fall made a substantial difference in the effect that will be felt from the freeze. Many developed but unopened bolls on the plants will continue to make cotton, especially if the weather turns warm and dry again, but the lint produced by these post-freeze bolls is expected to be of a poorer grade.

The wet fall has been tough on some folks besides the farmers. Migrant laborers, who had been accustomed to coming to the Plains in late September and early October for hand-pulling that has always been available, came again this year, and were severely disappointed.

Not only was the crop two weeks late, but weather turned off so bad that it stopped most pulling entirely. Not having financial reserves, many of the laborers were forced to move out of the area before they had planned to.

This week, as the weather dried and the sun shone again, hand-pulling quickly picked up speed. Quite a bit of this type harvesting can be expected if weather continues favorable, but chances are that 1957 will see a considerable increase in mechanized harvesting for the complete crop.

Increased use of defoliant that prepare the field for all-mechanized work have an effect on this condition, also. Although grades are expected to be lowered by bad weather, they may not be so noticeable with increased use of strippers.

This is true because the usual procedure is for a Plains cotton farmer to have his early cotton hand-pulled. It usually is the only white cotton he produces. After the best part of his crop has been removed, he returns with strippers and finishes up the job.

In the case of an all-stripper harvest, this early cotton, which is still present, is blended with the later and consequently poorer grades and farmers may for this reason minimize the downgrading effect of the wet and cold weather.

The frosts cut short some maturing green heads of grain sorghum, but the percentage of the crop not fully mature was very slim, and yield-cutting effects of the freeze on the feed crop may be considered negligible.

Farmers are raring to go with the harvest that has been delayed so often, and they are hoping that the freeze has put an end to any more delays except perhaps another wet spell.

Combines were making their way back into boggy fields Monday afternoon as the ground and the grain were slowly drying. Risks of falling grain after the freezes are great, and the harvest will be pushed as rapidly as conditions will permit.

Farmers were feeling better about conditions with the break in the weather. Wet and cold weather is favorable for several hazards to efficient grain production, including disease, lodging, and prohibitive moisture contents.

Most of the crop is standing and in good shape. However, winds could change the picture drastically. The heavy heads are sitting atop stalks made brittle by the freezes.

When wilted by frost or drought, certain chemical changes sometimes occur in Johnson grass or sorghum and they develop a prussic acid which is very dangerous to livestock. Dr. C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian, warns that the poison acts quickly, and can kill an animal within a short time.

With the rains and wind of winter just around the corner, farmers are reminded that cover crops can be extremely beneficial in preventing erosion. But cover crops do more than just protect the land, says R. J. Hodges, extension agronomist. These crops improve the soil itself, leading to increased yields. Grazing, hay, silage or seed taken from the winter crop will also mean more profit.

More than twice as many males as females are killed accidentally each year, the National Safety Council reports.

THE HAPPY HOMEMAKER

Most preschool age children are eager to assist with whatever task a mother is doing. Mothers should encourage this and take advantage of the opportunity to work with the children. Many times it is much easier to say, "Now, you run along and play and let me finish."

That is a good way to get the children out from under your feet, but you have also missed an opportunity to develop talent and interest shown by the children. If you take advantage of these opportunities, you will soon realize that your time has been well spent.

One project, which even the smallest children can work on, is the collection of seeds to fill bird feeders in the winter. A three- or four-year-old will enjoy providing seeds for the birds. All cucumber, squash, or okra pods which become too large for table use may be cut open and given to the children to pick the seeds out of.

When cutting cantaloupes for the table, give the children the seeds for drying and putting away until winter. With a little supervision the children can do all the work themselves.

The next time you use a transfer pattern that has already been used, try using your sewing machine to mark off the design. Pin the design you want to transfer to the fabric with dressmaker's carbon paper between the two. Do not thread the needle, but lower the presser foot and run the machine needle around the outline of the design.

When looking around for materials for making attractive Christmas gifts, don't overlook burlap. It comes in a wide range of colors and makes very pretty mats, table runners, or other articles for household use. It is also very easy to work with.

One of the biggest jobs any homemaker has is watching over the health of members of her family. There are so many different things which cause various aches and pains that it is often difficult for her to determine the wisest course to follow.

According to a bulletin released recently by the State Health Department, one of the first things that should be done when anyone is ill is to take the temperature. Authorities are of the opinion that temperature is one of the most reliable indications of illness; however, they warn that many times infection is present even though the person does not have above normal temperature.

One of the most common com-

White, open cotton shining in the morning sun is a welcome sight to area farmers, who are really fed up with the way harvest has been interrupted by poor weather this year. This field south of Friona shows promise of a good yield in spite of a poor year. The plants are anything but rank; however, they are well loaded, as the camera shows.

plaints of children is earache. The health department offers this advice: "Severe infections of the ear are not as common as they were before the appearance of sulfa drugs and antibiotics. But while the severity and frequency of these infections have been reduced, earaches still occur."

"Most ear pain comes during childhood, the reason being that small children have shorter passages for infection to reach the ear. When they get colds they do not blow the nose or clear the throat as adults do. This results in an accumulation of mucus which may congest narrow passages and start an ear infection."

"Earache in children may stem from causes other than infection. Nasal blocking due to the congestion of a cold, or large adenoids may be responsible. Blocking of the Eustachian tube prevents air from approaching the middle ear during swallowing or yawning."

"Don't ignore an earache and don't probe into the ear to relieve distress or the sense of pressure. Let your physician decide the cause and the method of correcting it."

Ever since the Indians first brought bright red cranberries to the Pilgrims as gifts, new ideas for preparing salads and sauces with them have been passed from one person to another. History tells us that cranberries were on the first Thanksgiving feast table.

This Thanksgiving let this colorful cranberry and apple salad add to the beauty of your table.

Cranberry Apple Salad
 1 package raspberry flavored gelatin
 1 1/2 cups hot water
 1 pound can cranberry sauce (jellied or whole)
 1 apple
 1/4 lemon

Dissolve gelatin with 1 1/2 cups hot water according to directions on package. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. If jellied cranberry sauce is used, crush with a fork. Quarter apple, remove seeds and core and put through a food chopper. Put whole lemon through the chopper. Fold cranberry sauce, apple and lemon into raspberry gelatin. Pour into salad mold or molds. Chill until firm. Serves six.

For a salad that goes well with any meat, try this,

Grandmother's Coleslaw
 2 1/2 cups cabbage, finely cut
 1 teaspoon salt
 1 cup pared, chopped apple
 1 cup shredded carrots
 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
 1 tablespoon mayonnaise
 1 teaspoon sugar
 1/2 cup sour cream

Mix cabbage, salt, apples, carrots and onion together. Combine mayonnaise, sugar and cream and beat until smooth and creamy. Pour over other ingredients and stir lightly until well mixed. Serves six.

A different way to prepare corn that is almost sure to make a hit with all members of your family is:

Creamy Skillet Corn
 2 slices bacon, cut in small pieces
 1/3 cup finely chopped green pepper
 1/3 cup sliced celery
 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
 1/2 cup processed cheese spread
 1/2 cup evaporated milk
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon paprika
 1/8 teaspoon pepper
 1 can, small whole kernel corn, drained

Cook bacon until crisp; drain on paper toweling; pour off all but two tablespoons of drippings. Saute green peppers, celery and onion in bacon drippings five minutes; add corn, cheese spread, evaporated milk, salt, paprika, and pepper. Cook over low heat until cheese melts, stirring constantly. Serves four.

This is the committee that reads resolutions from various counties in Texas, groups them according to subjects, and prepares them in composition for the discussion and vote of delegates at the convention in November.

The convention date is November 17th through the 20th. Six voting delegates from Parmer County will attend. Other members are welcome to attend.

We would like to suggest that you farmers study House Joint Resolution 3, regarding the proposed state water development program. Your county Farm Bureau in annual session recommended that you vote for passage of this program, the best, we think, that could be presented.

In the special legislative session, Texas Farm Bureau is requesting an amendment to the present priority schedule for water users. Presently it goes like this: 1, municipal and domestic use; 2, industry users; 3, agriculture; and 4, recreation.

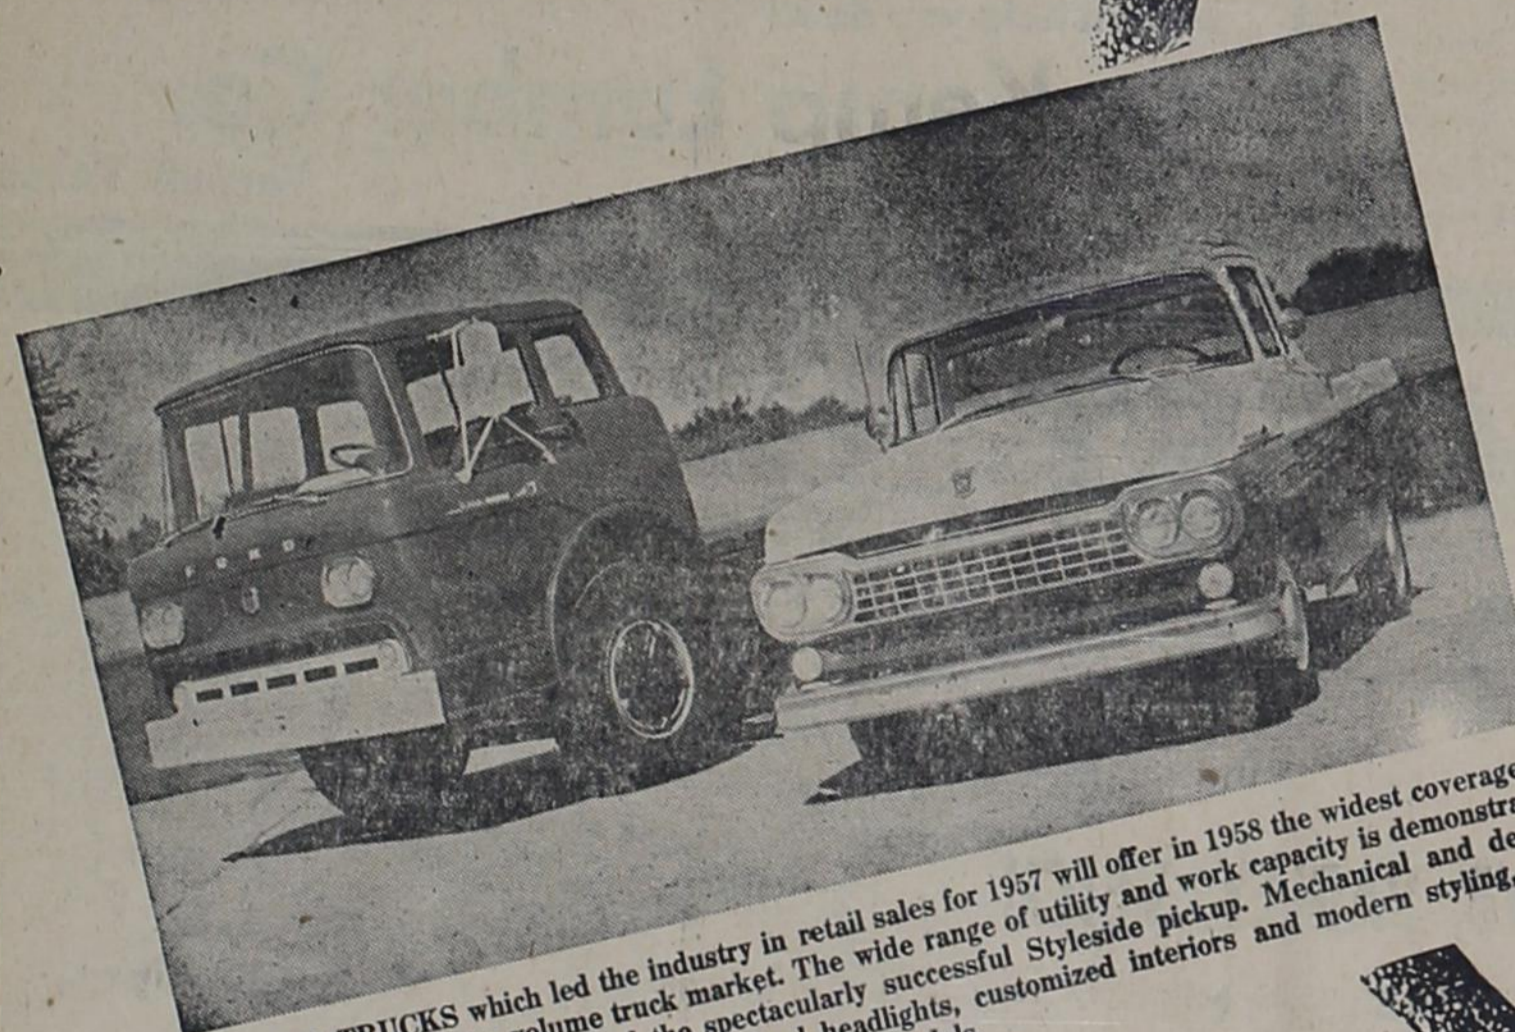

Farm Bureau is asking that agriculture be placed above, or at least equal with, industry, and the governor and his committee are giving consideration to the recommendation. The bill under consideration is HB 6, by Representative Woolsey. The hearings are also being held on SB 1, companion bill to HB 6.

The young lady who greets you in the office now is Mrs. Cecil Osborne, known as Joyce Osborne. She will soon join the ranks of notaries public in Friona, and be able to completely service your gas exemption papers, or any other notary services you may request. You are invited to come in and become acquainted with her, and consult with her regarding any of the Farm Bureau services you may be interested in.

It is apparent that we still get fellows elected to Washington posts who are unable to understand why so many people still do not want to grab at every offer of "federal aid" to schools, and other impractical things. We believe they should attend some of the larger farm meetings and wise up.

Sesame Research Is Continuing

Harvest of the 50 experimental varieties of sesame is underway at the High Plains Station of the Texas Research Foundation at Halfway. Ten of these varieties are of the non-shattering type and 40 are the semi-shattering. These varieties were cut and put on drying racks, when all but a few of the top leaves had fallen and the pods showed 75 percent maturity. After 10 to 14 days drying, the plants will be threshed.

The outstanding plants in each experimental variety or strain are carefully selected for further development. Dr. Earl Collister, chairman of the plant science department of the Texas Research Foundation, and Charles Julian, laboratory assistant, selected these plants. Some of the experimental varieties showed unusually high yields, with longer pods and more seeds to the pod. Of unusual interest were varieties six feet tall producing large pods, three pods to the leaf axil. These were of both the semi-shattering and non-shattering varieties. Their further development will be watched with interest by sesame growers. Some of the imported varieties being tried out proved to be of no value and will be discarded. The ten acres of Renner 15 combine-type, non-shattering seed production field will be harvested later.

The new experimental strains of sesame being tested at the High Plains Station have been developed at the Texas Research Foundation at Renner. This research program was initiated in 1947 in the program of new crop development for Texas farmers. Several hundred strains of sesame are received on a continuous basis from countries all over the world. In some areas sesame has been grown since about 2000 B. C. These different types are observed carefully in the test plots. Those possessing desirable characteristics are used in the sesame breeding program.

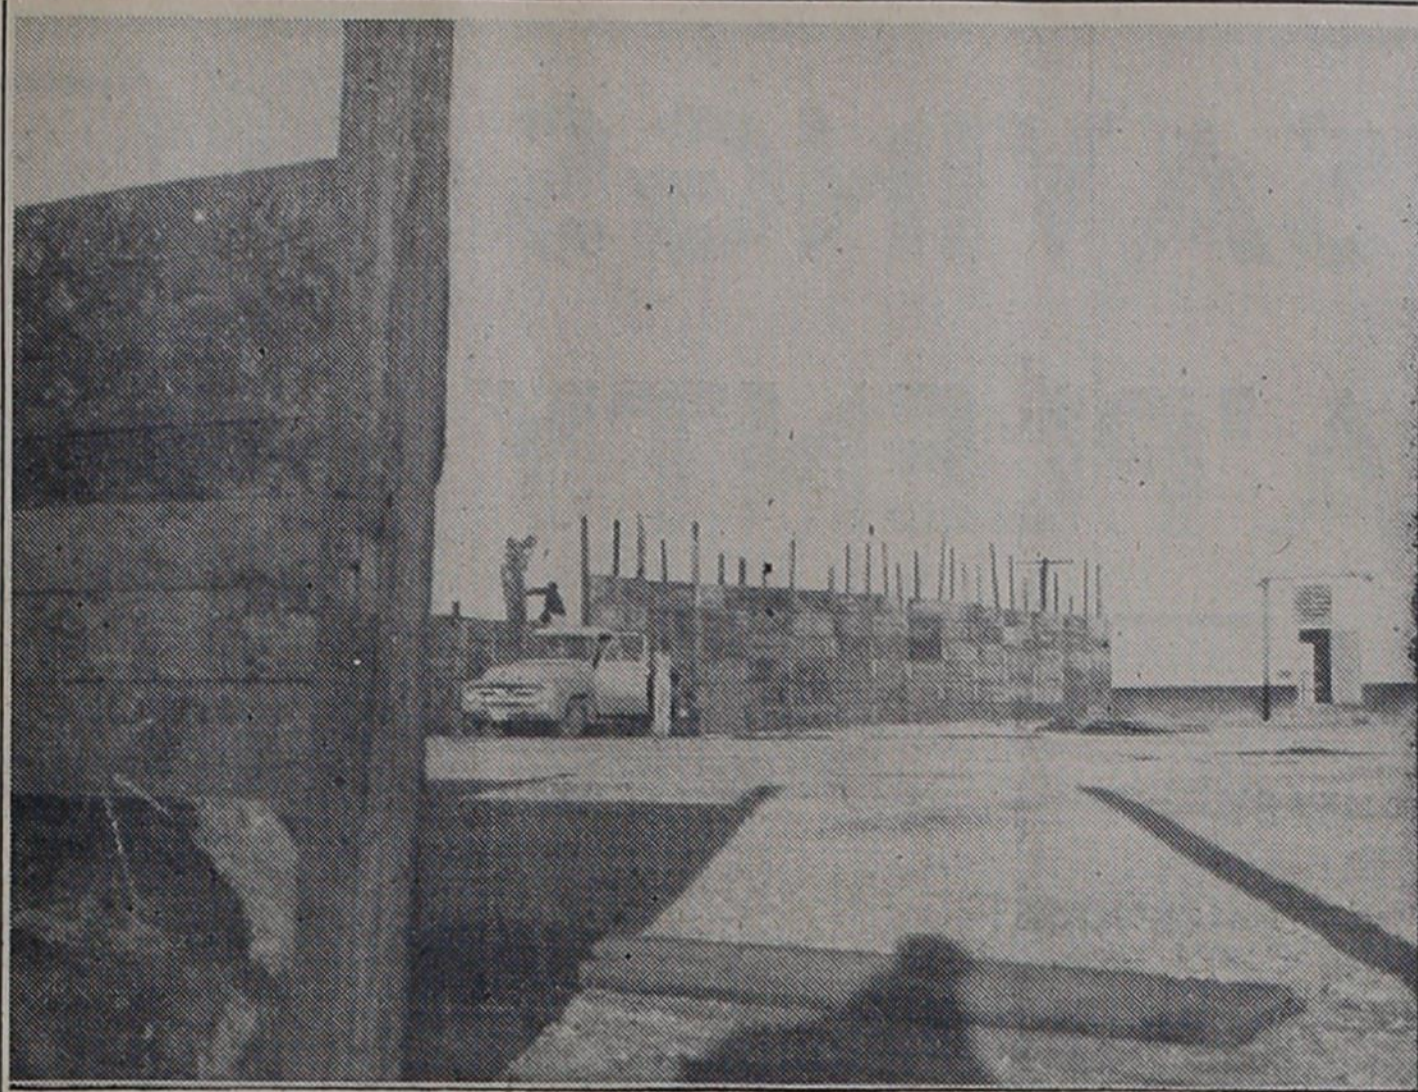

Dr. Collister and his associates have already developed three varieties of sesame. The first variety, Renner No. 1, introduced in 1953, is still the most popular variety being grown in Texas, comprising about 95 percent of all the commercial acreage of sesame. Another improved variety, Renner No. 2, was introduced in 1955. Both are semi-shattering types.

The third variety, Renner No. 15, a paper shell non-shattering type, is being tested in large scale field trials this year. Two of these are in the High Plains area. If these trials are successful, Renner No. 15 will be released to farmers in 1958.

The sesame market is expanding faster than the supply. There are no restrictions on acreage. Dr. Collister said, "The steady increase in acreage in the High Plains indicates a bright future for sesame as a permanent profitable crop in this area."

Something big is cooking for the area grain harvest, if preparations being made at some of the elevators are any indication. These high fences being put up at Sherley-Anderson-Pitman elevator in Farwell are meant to protect and contain grain that is due to be dumped on the ground when harvest begins to roll on a big scale.

What Price Can You Afford For Pigs?

The price a farmer can afford to pay for feeder pigs depends on the value of the finished hogs, cost of raising them, and death loss.

Recent studies on midwestern hog raising has produced a gauge for estimating in advance, the possibilities of profit and loss.

To determine the finished value, a farmer first estimates the prices at the time he will sell the hogs, and their probable weight. For example, if Farmer Jones wants to buy 35-pound feeder pigs in late May to sell in October, he may estimate their ultimate weight at 225, the price at $16.

The weight is based on experience with rate of gain, and the price is a forecast. His expected income or net value at the farm is 225 pounds times $16 per hundredweight or $36 altogether.

Probably costs should be estimated next. Figures vary from year to year and farm to farm but experimental results show the average midwestern farmer uses 350 lbs. of protein supplement to add 100 lbs. weight.

This would be a total of 665 pounds (about 12 bushels) of corn and 100 pounds of supplement to increase the 35 pounders to 225 pounds.

With corn at $1.15, the cost for 12 bushels would be $13.80. And with supplement at $5 a hundredweight, total cost would be $18.

Feed is the largest cost item, but labor, shelter, equipment and veterinary count too. Usually, these amount to one-fifth of the feed costs. This is $3.76, bringing total production costs to $22.56.

Difference between income and total costs is the first estimate of the price a farmer can afford to pay for a feeder pig. This figure is $13.44. But the amount should be adjusted for death loss. Probable survival rate is multiplied by the margin over cost per pig.

For example, Jones expects a death rate of 5 percent—or a survival rate of 95 percent. Multiplying margin per pig ($13.44) by 0.95 gives price per pig: $12.77 in this case. If Jones pays this price for a feeder pig, he can expect to get market price for his feeder and average wages for his labor. In addition, he will cover all his costs for shelter, equipment, and other items. When a pig may be purchased for less than $12.77, the difference constitutes profit.

Not meant to be a suggestion, but just thinking out loud: Is it really wise to continue research and development and encouragement of the PRODUCTION phase of our farm program in times such as these? Is it really smart thinking to strive for better yielding varieties, endorse production-boosting features of our conservation work, and promote, through our Extension Service branches, more output per farming unit?

We sometimes wonder. Maybe if all this activity was shut off until surpluses are manageable, farmers might fare better quicker. Is there really any advantage in hurrying up our ability to produce more when there's no need for it?

Everybody was surprised last week when the announcement was made that area-produced corn will be eligible for a support of $1.36 per bushel this year.

That's a mighty big jump from the $1.09 figure that had been announced earlier. What effect this will have on the local corn market is yet to be seen. No corn has managed to get out of the soggy fields and to market yet.

But it has sure improved the chances for corn to go into loan, which will be the first time such a thing has happened here. Prentice Mills, ASC manager, says somebody slipped in a surprise package in the corn law this year, and that the national cotton referendum will offer farmers the same dreary alternatives this year, apparently. It is scheduled for Tuesday, December 10.

Up for approval of two-thirds of the nation's cotton growers will be marketing quotas. In effect, growers will be asked which they prefer:

Allotments with a support price of not less than 75 percent of parity, with a heavy penalty on over-planted allotments, or—

Allotments with a support price of 50 percent of parity, but no penalty on planting exceeding allotments.

Farmers have suggested a "middle ground" choice, but this referendum is the same as that offered in recent years. There is not enough choice between the extremes for an intelligent decision, many farmers from the Plains have argued. This year, only one grower of irrigated cotton in Parmer County chose to deliberately overplant his allotment and pay the penalty for such an act, according to Prentice Mills, ASC office manager.

A penalty of slightly over $75 per acre for irrigated cotton was levied for acreage in excess of allotments during 1957. For dryland, the penalty this year was slightly over $20 per acre, and a couple of farmers went that route.

Mills says he feels the penalties on such overplantings will be substantially increased next year and that the practice will be further curtailed by the severe burden placed on growers who try to exceed allotments lawfully.

THE PARMER FARMER

By W. H. GRAHAM JR.

"Total crop production prospects made further gains during the past month, according to the U. S. Crop Reporting Board, and now look equal to the previous record years of 1956 and 1948. The bountiful crop total from the smallest harvested acreage in nearly 40 years is due to record over-all yields — exceeding the 1956 previous high by three percent."

That quote is from the most recent Cargill crop bulletin, and points up that once again, the American farmer has defied all government and self-imposed attempts to keep his production down.

The soil bank has failed miserably to accomplish its principal purpose, that of reducing production, and once again, the minds of government men of agriculture are being taxed with how the problem can be solved.

This makes us wonder about the whole American idea of agriculture. Born in the depression years of the 30's, our farm programs have mushroomed until they control either directly or indirectly nearly all of the nation's agriculture. Yet, production cannot be matched with consumption.

Not meant to be a suggestion, but just thinking out loud: Is it really wise to continue research and development and encouragement of the PRODUCTION phase of our farm program in times such as these? Is it really smart thinking to strive for better yielding varieties, endorse production-boosting features of our conservation work, and promote, through our Extension Service branches, more output per farming unit?

jump in price for area production, which applied to 1957 crop only, was a jolt to everybody.

Farmers should approve the water program amendment to the Texas constitution this weekend. It embodies a principal that every irrigated farmer on the High Plains wants retained — local control of water resources.

Actually, the things the law makes possible will have little or no effect on our area, but the proposal is not a tax-raising change in the constitution, so area farmers should support it.

Finding a crop that isn't forecast to be in surplus supply this fall is pretty hard to do, but there are some around. One of them, we are happy to report, is sesame.

The High Plains Station of the Texas Research Foundation, Halfway, says the sesame market is expanding faster than the supply. Even with no acreage restrictions and the big yields that are being produced under irrigated conditions, this remains the case.

Happily, also, the price is holding firm at around 10 cents a pound year after year.

"The steady increase in acreage on the High Plains indicates a bright future for sesame as a permanent profitable crop," says Dr. Earl Collister, chairman of the plant science department of the foundation. That is mighty heartening news. We can't yet visualize sesame growing by the hundreds of thousands of acres, but it is nice to see a crop that received upwards of 3,000 acres in this immediate area this year doing so well.

Just how the wet, cold fall weather is affecting the seed, from both a standpoint of yield and quality, remains to be seen. It might also make harvesting difficult.

However, just knowing there's a market for the production is encouraging. Wheat, cotton, and milo are all in great over-supply. Even such crops as sudan, onions, and potatoes are on the surplus list and prices have been drastically lowered.

Sesame may turn out to be a lot more important to us than we generally realize.

Grass More Popular

Cotton and grain sorghums are major money-makers in the Texas Panhandle but a third commodity looms on the horizon whose possibilities are just now being explored.

That commodity is cultivated grass.

A few farmers have been reaping large profits from grass as a seed crop. Indian grass grown on a farm near Morton produced 12,500 pounds of seed on 14 acres which sold for $1.25 a pound in 1955.

Two acres of Blackwell switch grass in Hockley County threshed 400 pounds of seed at $1.25 per pound, grossing $250 an acre.

These, and other trial plots, point up the fact that grasses may soon become an important part of every crop rotation. Although the price of $1.25 per pound will not hold up long with successive good crops, those few far sighted farmers gambled on grass and it has paid off handsomely.

In spite of the high prices, the growers had no trouble selling all the seed raised. From a total of around 800 acres in grass seed production in the Panhandle during 1956, the acreage is expected to increase by leaps and bounds.

Most growers agree that the price of seed will nose-dive after a few more big crops. This may be a "left-handed" blessing for all concerned, however.

At present, the cost of buying and broadcasting this seed on over-grazed rangeland can run as high as $15 per acre. For many ranchers today, this cost is prohibitive. Cheaper seed of good quality will be in even greater demand than at current price levels.

Some growers have proved that grass will fit into money-making rotations. A farmer may grow a seed crop and get several months grazing as well. He can graze the grass in summer, pull off the livestock and make a seed crop. Or he can make a crop, water heavily and have good grazing all through the winter.

Most plots of grass were in the irrigated sections of the High Plains. The growers plant the grass seed in a small ridge, cover it very shallow and irrigate. Previously, plantings in the bottom of furrows proved only moderately successful since even light rains would wash the dirt and bury the seed too deeply.

Grass farming is sound, profitable, and will bring the soil back to its original fertility. The days of fabulous profits may be numbered but the prediction is that grass will spread year by year over many parts of the country as a money crop.

Cotton Referendum To Be The Same

The national cotton referendum will offer farmers the same dreary alternatives this year, apparently. It is scheduled for Tuesday, December 10.

Up for approval of two-thirds of the nation's cotton growers will be marketing quotas. In effect, growers will be asked which they prefer:

Allotments with a support price of not less than 75 percent of parity, with a heavy penalty on over-planted allotments, or—

Allotments with a support price of 50 percent of parity, but no penalty on planting exceeding allotments.

Farmers have suggested a "middle ground" choice, but this referendum is the same as that offered in recent years. There is not enough choice between the extremes for an intelligent decision, many farmers from the Plains have argued. This year, only one grower of irrigated cotton in Parmer County chose to deliberately overplant his allotment and pay the penalty for such an act, according to Prentice Mills, ASC office manager.

A penalty of slightly over $75 per acre for irrigated cotton was levied for acreage in excess of allotments during 1957. For dryland, the penalty this year was slightly over $20 per acre, and a couple of farmers went that route.

Mills says he feels the penalties on such overplantings will be substantially increased next year and that the practice will be further curtailed by the severe burden placed on growers who try to exceed allotments lawfully.

Everybody was surprised last week when the announcement was made that area-produced corn will be eligible for a support of $1.36 per bushel this year.

That's a mighty big jump from the $1.09 figure that had been announced earlier. What effect this will have on the local corn market is yet to be seen. No corn has managed to get out of the soggy fields and to market yet.

But it has sure improved the chances for corn to go into loan, which will be the first time such a thing has happened here. Prentice Mills, ASC manager, says somebody slipped in a surprise package in the corn law this year, and that the

Plan Speaker System

The Parmer County Home Demonstration Council, meeting in the American Legion Hall in Friona Monday afternoon, heard a recommendation from Mrs. Dee Chitwood that each Home Demonstration Club have a goal of obtaining a phonograph and loud speaker for each of the 4-H groups in the county during 1958.

Roll was called and minutes for the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Walter Kaltwasser. Reports on clubs were presented by each club represented.

Yearbook reports were given by each committee chairman on the book for the past year.

Tickets for the Thanksgiving luncheon were issued to each club. The luncheon is slated for November 21, at 7 p. m. at the Oklahoma Lane Methodist Church. The cost per plate will be $1.35. Members are urged to attend.

A nursery will be provided. Clubs on the decoration committee are Rhea, Oklahoma Lane, and Midway. Lakeview, Black, and Bovina are to be in charge of the entertainment.

The committee gave the council recommendations for new officers for 1958. Those elected were Mrs. Lee Renner, chairman; Mrs. E. V. Tatum, vice-chairman; Mrs. Rene Snead, secretary; and Mrs. Walter Schueler, treasurer.

Eight clubs and five visitors were present. June Brummett presided for the election of a new county THDA chairman, but final action was postponed until next council meeting in Friona, at the Legion Hall at 2 p. m., Monday, November 25.

District Gets Grant

A grant for several thousand dollars in heavy equipment has been received by the Parmer County Soil Conservation District, announces head of the district, A. L. Black, of the Hub community.

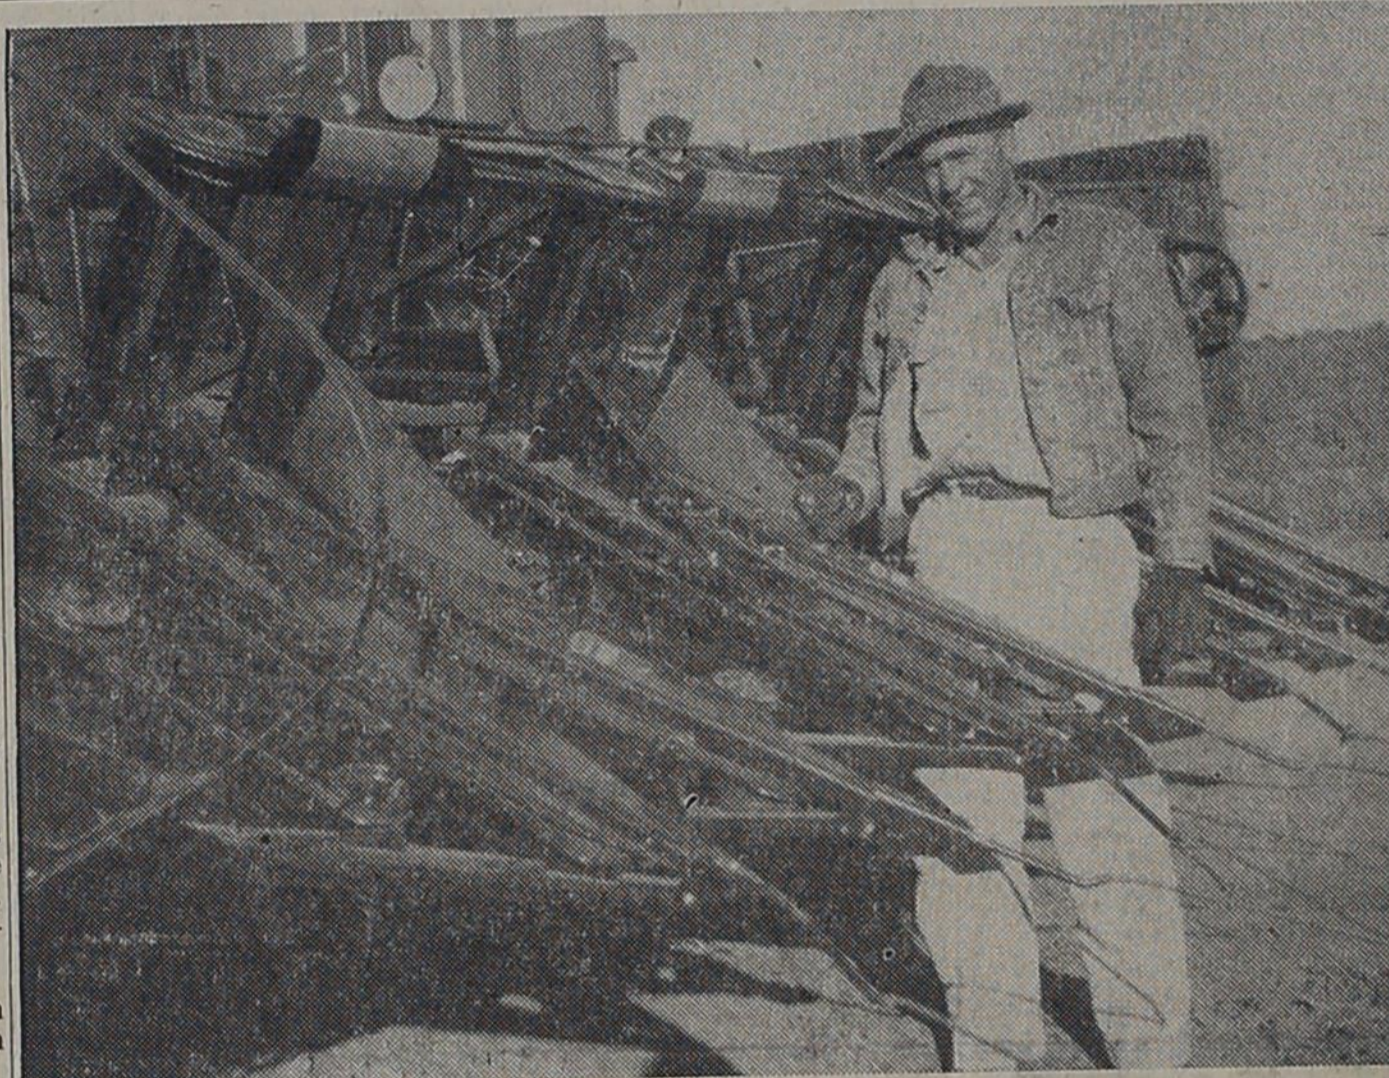

Due to arrive shortly is a D-7 "Cat" and bulldozer, an eight-yard carry-all, and a "low-boy" trailer. All of the equipment is army surplus.

The grant had been pending for several months, and the exact dollar value of the grant is expected to be more than $20,000. The district received the grant through the Soil Conservation Service.

Also approved in the grant were a truck and maintainer, but these items were not selected when the committee chose the other equipment because of the condition of equipment.

Selected to examine the equipment were A. L. Black and Carl Schueler. The two went to San Antonio to look over part of the equipment and to Mineral Wells to examine other equipment before accepting the grant.

Arrangement for using the equipment will be taken care of at future meetings of the district board of supervisors.

Something different in the way a combine looks from the front is shown here. This machine, owned by Tom Caldwell, is using a special "row crop saver" attachment designed especially for picking up falling grain sorghum. Conditions this year have generated considerable interest in the attachment.

Interest Shown In New Attachment

Farmers worried about grain sorghum that is leaning, or about to fall, are taking an interest in the new combine accessory that is making its appearance this year.

Several farmers are already trying it out in fields that are especially susceptible to the "thing" it is designed to handle best—"down" feed. They report satisfactory results from the machine.

One farmer who is trying it out this week is Tom Caldwell, south of Bovina, who has installed the attachment on a late-model combine. He is having good success so far, and says he intends to leave the machine, referred to as a "row crop saver," mounted on his combine.

The machine, which takes the place of the spinning reel that has been an identification mark of the combine ever since it was invented, has mechanical "fingers" mounted on a rubber belt assembly that pull the maize stalks into the combine cutter. From there the auger takes over and the combine operates in the conventional way.

Caldwell says, "It works just like the old-fashioned row binder," except, of course, there is no tying action.

The four-row machine sells for about $545. They are reported to be in short supply as farmers are indicating considerable interest in them. Uncertain weather conditions have prompted much of this interest.

Principal advantage of the radical change in design is the ability of the cutting unit to be lowered almost to the ground and falling feed to be gathered into it.

Three county implement dealers handle the grain-saving apparatus.

By January 1, 1958, the total U. S. laying flock is expected to be down 6 to 8 percent from January 1, 1957. Statistics show a 25 percent decrease for Texas. The reduction will be due to fewer replacements with the decrease greatest in small flocks.

Check Allotments Before Buying, Suggests Official

Farmers who buy farms without checking fully into the accuracy of the reported base allotments of cotton and wheat are making a mistake, reports Prentice Mills of the county ASC office.

There have been several instances where new buyers of Parmer County land turned up with smaller allotments than they were figuring on, simply because they did not check with the office on the authenticity of the quoted figures, Mills says.

"It's an easy matter to find out definitely what an allotment is for a farm in a case like this, and we are always glad to cooperate with persons interested in buying land," Mills says.

He said it is surprising that some people will consider making an investment requiring many thousands of dollars without investigating the facts of the purchase terms thoroughly, but this apparently is the case every once in a while.

Reasonable speed allows more time to act.—Drive safely.

Unusual Twist Moved Corn Up

An unusual feature of the 1957 farm law produced an unexpected—and pleasant—result for the Parmer County area corn producers two weeks ago. USDA announced that the corn support had been increased from $1.09 to $1.36 per bushel.

No farmer and very few area ag officials knew of the change until it was announced. Prentice Mills, ASC office manager in Farwell, says even state officers were taken by surprise. The "sleeper" part of the law was formulated by some congressman from a non-commercial corn producing area, Mills feels sure. The provision works like this:

In the event commercial growers (such as those in the corn belt states) receive $1.40 or more per bushel price support for their 1957 crop, and if the government supports corn produced outside of the allotments in commercial areas;

Then, in non-commercial areas such as ours, where corn has not been produced in large quantities over a long period of years, growers here will receive "at least 70 percent of parity" for their 1957 crop.

That special rule applies to 1957 only, says Mills, and is the first time such a feature has been incorporated into a farm program. This year, commercial growers were assured of more than $1.40 per bushel, so the support here is $1.36, which is 70 percent of parity.

In previous years, producers in non-commercial areas have been assured a support price that was 75 percent of what commercial areas received. Usually, that was 75 percent of about 80 to 85 percent of parity. This year, the commercial area price support is down some.

Harvest Postpones Grand Jury Call

Stepped-up tempo of harvesting of cotton and grain sorghums has probably squelched the usual fall call of the Farmer County grand jury, Sheriff Chas. Lovelace predicted this week.

District Attorney Bill Sheehan announced several weeks ago that it might be possible to have the call in October, which is customary, but because of a heavy schedule in other counties of the district, and also because of a shake-up in district boundaries, he last week said it probably would be put off until early November.

is to get the kids in somebody's family to hollering for something, and that's just what Jess did. He put the dog on a leash, turned it over to Ronny, and waited for results. The results were fast and sure. We now have a dog in the family.

Of course, it was too late to put up an anti-sales talk by time we got around to trying to reason with the wife and kids. But some rather revealing things were found out after the noise had subsided and we had haltingly okayed purchase of the pet.

"Is she housebroken?" we asked Jess. "Well, she's sort of housebroken," he answered. We had always thought this house-breaking business was a yes or no affair. Either they were or they weren't.

"Something else," Jess said as an afterthought, "Don't go off and leave her in the house by herself." "Why not," we said, "Does she get lonely?" "Nope. She chews up everything she can get hold of."

Jess Latham means well, but we are afraid he has done something that is destined to upset the tranquility of the Graham domicile for the next several years.

Jess had a cute bull terrier he paid a pretty penny for, and offered to part with it for a mere pittance. On that account, it looks like Jess got the short end of the deal, but money isn't the only consideration, mind you.

tempted to run the extra point, as they did on each touchdown, but could not get the ball carrier across.

A bad pass from center on a fourth down kick attempt set up the second Chief score late in the second period. Tommy Lovelace was back to boot for the Steers on the 15-yard line but he was unable to handle the low pass from center and Friona took over on the five.

Three plays later Leon Massey plunged over, making the halftime score 12-0.

As the third period got underway the Chiefs took the kickoff and scored in only three plays. Fairchild, from his own 30, went for 15 yards and Jackie Sheek plunged for five to put the ball on the midfield stripe. On the next play Fairchild went around left end and went all the way to the goal stripes.

The Steers then took the ensuing kickoff on their own 29 and went 51 yards before being stopped on the Friona 21. From that point on neither team got close to the goal line.

Phillip Berry again led the Steer attack. The hustling half-back carried the ball 12 times for 52 yards, was on the receiving end of a pass play which carried 22 yards, and also played a tremendous defensive game.

Once on a fourth down try, he bullied his way to a first down after it looked as though two Chieftains had him down behind the line of scrimmage.

John Hadley To Head Farm Bureau

John Hadley was elected chairman of the Texico Farm Bureau at the last regular meeting of the organization. Hadley replaces B. A. Rogers who has served as chairman for the past year.

Other officers elected at the meeting were vice-chairman, Mark Fairman; chairwoman, Mrs. John Hadley; and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Roger Grisom.

Presenting the program for the last meeting were members of the Texico FFA and their sponsor, Tom Hudson, who spoke on the hog raising program at the Texico School. Boys present told of their trip to the state fair at Albuquerque and displayed the ribbons won on the animals they showed there.

an all-district performer. Vanlandingham has been termed as an outstanding boy on offense, a good linebacker on defense, and a good blocker. He also does the punting and kicking for the Longhorns. The all-around back is a four-year letterman and is a co-captain for the team this year.

Another senior performer on the team is Leon Wilson, 167-pound tackle, one of the better linemen at Lazbuddie. A co-captain, Wilson calls the defensive plays and is outstanding both on offense and defense, according to the coach. He is also a four-year letterman.

Ronnie Ivy is a senior back, weighing 145 pounds. He has lettered three years and has been a key player on defense all season. Kirby Carrell, 153, another senior back, is a three-year letterman who is outstanding on defense for the Longhorns.

Rounding out the list of seniors on the 36-man squad is Tommy Laney, who is playing football for the first time this year. Laney plays offensive center for the team.

Following the Hart game, the Longhorns will play Bovina at home the following week and then close out the season at Kress on November 15.

its inventors feel it should be controlled and regulated for the protection of the public. The FCC or some other government agency likely would have jurisdiction.

These things are some time off from reality, but that's a hint of what we're in for sooner or later.

Some area car dealers gripe, and we don't blame them, that the fun of their new car showings is being punctured by the big "showing" made nearly every year at the auto transport yard just west of Texico.

It's tough on the surprise element, they claim, when everybody can drive by and easily get a gander at most of the new cars being transported to dealer showrooms.

Advance stories in nationally-circulated auto magazines have the same effect. The surprise element of a new-car showing has about been shot full of holes. The one exception we can think of is the all-new Edsel introduced last month. We don't know of a soul who had a sneak preview of that one.

We tried to sell an ad to McKillip Motor Company last week on their new truck and pickup showing. They didn't have any of the new models, and their factory hadn't even told them when the showing would be.

Lawrence McKillip says that a week before he had been down in Bailey County and was surprised to see a farmer driving one. Lawrence hadn't even had them in his showroom!

With major changes in styling, you'd think that the cars would be different. But for anyone who's interested, all that is necessary to do to get a good look is check the transport lot. We feel sorry for the dealer, who goes to no little trouble to get a showing ready.

Basketball Workouts Begin At Texico Gym

With eight lettermen returning, along with two starters from last year's Rosedale team, basketball prospects are brighter at Texico this year than they have been in several seasons, as official workouts get underway. The first sessions for 22 hopefuls were last week.

Guiding the Wolverines this year will be Paul Frederick, who takes over the reins of the team from Chas. Stockton, who resigned last year. Frederick has been girls coach at Texico and he is to continue in that capacity this year too.

The new coach, who emphasizes ball control, is confident that he will have a good ball club, but he points out that the schedule this season is much rougher than it has been in the past.

Too, plus having a new coach, many of the boys will be playing together for the first time, Frederick says, which could be a detriment to the team at first. In addition to the eight Texico lettermen, two players came here from Rosedale, several are up from the junior high squad, and also there are two new ones from other schools who moved here this year.

Nevertheless, with 10 lettermen in all, and four team starters returning (two from Texico and two from Rosedale), the squad should be Texico's best in several years.

The Texico lettermen include Jerry Henson, 5-6 senior, and Buddy Spears, 5-8 senior, last year regulars. Others are Dickie Adams, 5-9 senior; Raymond Hadley, 6-0 junior; Jerry Bowers, 6-1 junior; Bobby Stover, 5-11 junior; David Lockhart, 5-10 junior; and Jerry Reid, 5-5 junior.

The two from Rosedale are Jerry Trower, 5-9 senior; and Larry Roubsion, 5-9 senior. Trower was Rosedale's leading scorer last year.

Three other upperclassmen who could break into the Wolverine traveling squad are Monte Singleterry, Johnny Mack Brown, and Jimmy Moore. Singleterry has been out with the team for the past two seasons, but suffered a broken arm at the start of each campaign.

Frederick says that there will be both an A and B squad this year and there are several games scheduled for the second unit.

No County Tourney

Three Curry County high schools have closed down since last year, so there will be no county tournament this year for the Wolverines as has been the case in the past. Rather, though, 11 eastern New Mexico clubs have joined together to form the East Plains Conference, the coach says.

The 11 teams will battle it out for the east side championship in a tournament Jan. 24 and 25. Schools in the conference are Causey, Elida, Floyd, San Jon, Dora, House, Melrose, Tatum, Grady, Logan, and Texico.

In addition to the conference the Wolverines will again be a member of District 6-B, which includes all of the above teams except House, Logan, and San Jon. Another team which is a member of the district, although not in the conference is Ft. Sumner.

The district tournament will be February 28-March 1.

In looking over the 23-game schedule, Frederick pointed out several newcomers which will make it hard for the team to improve on last year's 14-11 record.

They include Santa Rosa, one of the state's best Class B teams in years past, San Jon, Logan, and Bovina. These teams, plus the rugged ones in the district, give the Wolverines a tough schedule, says the coach.

In regard to the girls team this year, Frederick was somewhat pessimistic about the squad's chances this year. He has only three lettermen back and the team will lack experience. Of the 15 working out for the squad, four are seniors, three are juniors, and eight are sophomores.

The Whirlwinds had a 12-8 record last year, but the coach is doubtful that this will be equaled this season.

The returning lettermen are Garlene Clear, Melba Walsh and Anita Moss.

The complete schedule for both Texico teams is as follows: *Nov. 15, House at House boys and girls.

*Nov. 16, Logan at Texico, A & B boys.

Nov. 19, Bovina at Texico boys and girls.

*Nov. 23, Dora at Dora, A and Jr. boys.

Church Participates In 1958 Program

Rev. Irving E. Looney, pastor of the Oklahoma Lane Baptist Church, has announced that the church is participating in the 1958 Texas Baptist Church achievement program sponsored by the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

The church was recently named winner of the Town and Country achievement award sponsored by the Tierra Blanca Association of which it is a member. This church was one of 335 participating churches last year, and will be recognized at the general session of the annual convention which gets underway in Fort Worth on November 4.

Churches eligible for participation in the achievement program are those in the open country and in towns up to 2500 population. Records and scrapbooks made under the direction of three special committees are the basis for judging the churches on the associational, district and statewide levels.

Winning pastors in each of the 17 districts receive parchment scrolls and the winning churches receive metal plaques to be displayed outside the church building.

Yearlings Edge Lazbuddie, 14-12, Lose to Friona

Farwell's Yearlings recorded their fourth straight win of the season last Thursday night when they won over the Lazbuddie junior team, 14-12. It was the first time that an opponent had scored on Farwell this year.

Quarterback Jerry Lovelace got the scoring underway early in the first period when he ran 33 yards for Farwell's first score. Jackie Williams ran the extra point to give the home team a 7-0 lead.

Lazbuddie set up its first touchdown later in the first quarter on a statue of liberty play. With fourth down and 10 facing them on the Farwell 36, Lazbuddie went into punt formation.

Rather than kick, the punter gave the ball to one of the halfbacks who went all the way to the three-yard line. From that point, David Smith ran over for the score. The extra point attempt failed. That tally completed the scoring until the fourth quarter when Lovelace scored again for the Farwell team. Again Williams ran the extra point and the Yearlings led 14-6.

Lazbuddie came right back to march up the field and go all the way for its second touchdown. Smith also scored the second time for the visitors.

The win gave Farwell a 4-0 record for the season.

Juniors Lose First Game

Farwell's junior high football team lost its first game of the season Monday night at the hands of the Friona Braves, 32-0. The Friona team ran wild over Coach Shelby Jobs' squad, which had previously rung up four straight wins.

The loss dropped Farwell, previously the conference leader, into a three-way tie with Friona and Morton. The Yearlings won over Morton 7-0, but Morton topped Friona.

The Yearlings close out their season next week when they play Clovis.

Nora Stevens Weds Carroll A. Pool

In a double ring ceremony performed at the Lazbuddie Baptist Church on Saturday, October 12, Miss Nora Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Stevens of Route 1, Muleshoe, became the bride of Carroll A. Pool of Muleshoe.

An arch entwined with greenery and pink carnations centered the altar setting and was flanked on either side by baskets of pink gladioli. The background for the arch was formed by fern trees.

Miss Sue Neal played traditional wedding selections and accompanied Carol Hamilton, Linda Kelley and Wayne Ruthendorf, who sang "I Love You Truly." Miss Kelley also sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Kenneth Hicks of Muleshoe attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore a ballerina length dress of blue lace, and a blue feather heart. Her bouquet was of white stephanotis.

Myron Pool served his brother as best man.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original model of white imported chantilly-type lace over net and satin, designed with a high neckline framed with a stand-up queen's collar. The fitted lace bodice had long sleeves which came to points at the center front.

The voluminous waltz length skirt made of lace, fully shirred, was highlighted by scalloped edges outlining a full tulle ruffle that finished the bottom edge. The immense fullness of lace tulle and satin were emphasized by crinoline worn underneath. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a cap of pleated tulle and lace covered with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink cymbidium orchids surrounded by stephanotis.

Mrs. Stevens, mother of the bride, wore a bronze colored dress with mauve colored accessories. Mrs. Pool chose a blue silk dress with matching hat and black accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white cymbidium orchids.

At the reception held in the church annex, the serving table was laid with a white satin cloth and an overlay of net. Presiding were Miss Yvonne O'Hair of Earth and Miss Rhonda Johnson of Muleshoe. Mrs. Randy Johnson, sister of the groom, registered the guests.

For a wedding trip to points in New Mexico, the bride chose a two piece wool knit dress of sky blue with black accessories. She wore the orchid corsage from her wedding bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Pool are now making their home in Muleshoe where they are both employed.

A reception followed the ceremony in the social hall of the chapel. Seated with the bride and groom at the bridal table were their parents and members of the wedding party.
