

Border Banter

By Mike Pomper

You could relate to this

I had a really fun time Saturday. Some friends, Judy and I went to see the play "Texas" at the Palo Duro Canyon, near Amarillo.

For awhile, we didn't know if we would see the play. We arrived just after 7 p.m. as the first raindrops came down. Seconds later, the dikes burst and the downpour was ferocious. We were blocks from our cars but fortunately there was a tour bus from San Angelo, Texas, nearby.

So I hopped in it, and introduced myself and the others. It was fun talking with those folks while the deluge continued.

When it stopped, we lined up for the typical cowboy meal of barbecue, potatoes, slaw, bread and coffee. We had to eat fast, though, because another dark cloud appeared post haste.

So we sat in our cars until 8:30, when the last of the showers finally stopped - just in time for the play to commence. Good timing.

Anyway, the amphitheater was packed to capacity despite the weather. And I'm sure all those who watched would agree that the play was really neat. Make that spectacular.

I especially enjoyed how they use the wall of the canyon as part of the stage, so to speak. It gives a real sense of realism to the production.

I'm pretty easy-going when it comes to a critique of a play. Years ago, when I worked on larger newspapers, there were times when I was asked to critique a production.

I always took the view that the folks who put on a play work darn hard to do the best job that they can. We all take pride in our work and it's no different for those folks who put on plays.

Thus, my critiques were also positive. A play is something to relax with and enjoy. I would write my critiques from that standpoint.

Of course, when you leave a play really enthused about how much fun it was, like with "Texas," then it makes it a lot easier to write about.

Reminder time: the deadline for the Tribune's 75th Anniversary and Texas Sesquicentennial is closing in: Aug. 29. We hope to make this issue a true commemorative. There will be stories about the Hassell murders, the Hop Graham years, Texico's founding, life as an Oklahoma Lane bus driver, vignettes about the Texico-Farwell area's earliest pioneers, pictures from before 1910, and much, much more.

This will be the only issue of its kind for the next quarter century so we sincerely hope that all our Twin City businesses, churches, social and civic clubs, etc., etc., place their ads by the deadline.

And, please remember, we hope those ads will contain historical photos and/or information, thus tying in with the issue's theme. And we want to note how long each business, church and group has been serving the Texico-Farwell community.

Folks, this is important. In today's paper, you will find stories on the first meetings of the new school year for the Farwell and Texico Booster Clubs. The Farwell club meets tonight (Friday) and the Texico club meets Thursday, Aug. 21.

I can't stress enough how important these clubs are. They do a great deal to help with our school athletic programs. They mean a lot to our kids.

Please take the time to come to the meetings. They don't last long and the time is used wisely. But a club is only as strong as the people who join it. And we need participants.

Have a youngster in a school athletic program? Then join the Booster Club; it's a great way to help him.

You might have seen something in the Amarillo or Lubbock papers about the suggestion to use Permanent School Funds to decrease the state's budget deficit.

County Judge Porter Roberts called state Rep. Pete Laney to find out if this involved county funds, such as the one Parmer County has. Roberts was told no, that it involves a state school fund.

Rumor of the Week: A new bakery may open in Farwell Aug. 22. Watch for next week's paper for details.

Good news for taxpayers

There maybe some good news for Parmer County taxpayers next week.

Ron Proctor, manager of the county Tax Appraisal Office, said Wednesday that the Appraisal Board is considering an "economic adjustment" which would lower appraisal rates for businesses and homes, but not on land.

A decision is expected next week after the Appraisal Board finishes its work. It has been holding hearings for taxpayers unhappy with the new appraisals. Proctor also stressed that three forces go into a tax rate: the appraisal, setting a budget, and a decision on a tax rate.

"Just because appraisals are higher doesn't necessarily mean that the tax rate will be, also," he said. Proctor urged residents to attend taxing unit budget hearings and see what takes place.

After the appraisals are set, and after the budget hearings are held, then taxing units will set tax rates.

Ysleta Kittrell named municipal judge

The Farwell City Council Monday appointed one of its members, Ysleta Kittrell, as the municipal judge.

Previously, the city had used the services of Justice of the Peace Albert Smith in that capacity. It carries an annual salary of $600.

Mayor Chris Gikas, in making the recommendation, said he wanted the municipal judge to work in City Hall, probably one half-day per week.

He said Mrs. Kittrell will go to a school to learn the full extent of her new job. It will involve citations, such as for junked cars and animals running loose; and zoning problems, such as people working on commercial ventures in city streets.

She will arbitrate differences, stressed Gikas.

In other business, the council voted to raise fulltime city employee salaries by 8 percent. No pay raise was given last year.

Also, Councilman Curtis Smith suggested checking every six months to see if the employees should get cost-of-living raises. The council also discussed looking at each salary individually. Individual job descriptions are being worked up.

It was announced that bids for the new sewer plant will be opened at 2 p.m. Sept. 17. When the new plant is operational, probably early next year, sewer bills are expected to go down.

The cost is estimated about $416,000, with the city's share at $82,000. The state pays the rest.

The council also discussed future water needs. Gikas said he will be attending meetings of the Eastern Plains Council of Governments as an ex officio member. EPCOG is basically a New Mexico group.

Gikas said he plans to attend EPCOG meetings and noted that underground water cannot be blocked. It also was noted that Texico could sell Farwell water as a possibility if problems occur.

Currently, there is no water problem in Farwell, City Clerk Janie Bowery said. Four wells are used, although one is going dry. The council discussed land available for a new well and also buying land for water rights.

The council voted to accept a bid from Robert Green, Muleshoe, for a new fire department vehicle. The vehicle shoots out a foam which smothers small fires, like in kitchens.

Green's bid of $16,693 was the lowest of two bids opened for four-wheel vehicles. Delivery is expected in six weeks.

Of the cost, which will end up around $21,000 when a bed and other features are included, the state will pay $4,000.

A sample budget for the coming year was presented by CPA D'Aun Willoughby, who just finished auditing the city's books. The council will use the sample to make its own budgetary decisions.

Gikas said he and Councilman Fred Chandler had gone to Lubbock to view surplus properties but found nothing of use to Farwell.

The city may buy a new tractor and decided to seek bids for its old tractor.

Gikas reported that a state health department inspector had checked the water system and few violations were found. All have been corrected and one recommendation - that a power plant backup is needed - is being looked at.

Gikas said the report showed the system is in excellent shape and he commended city employee Dee Hammit.

It was noted that a city resident complained that chemicals from the city's dusting program settled on his vehicle, while parked in his driveway, and he can't get the stuff off. It appears the city will pay for a commercial cleaning.

It was noted that the state is re-grading the ditch along Ninth Street and is putting gravel in the alley between Avenues C and D. It was said that residents need state permits to have driveways open onto the state highway (Ninth Street).

More than 300 attend Pleasant Hill reunion

The Pleasant Hill Community Reunion festivities got underway Aug. 6 with over 300 former residents, current residents, and former teachers and students of the now-defunct school system gathering from over 17 different states for the second old-fashioned reunion in eight years.

Graduates from 1917 to 1949 gathered for their individual class reunions, fellowship and the added festivities.

Howard Whitener of the Pleasant Hill community, was emcee. Following the buffet-style noon meal for all attendees, several presentations were made.

One of the honorees was Mrs. Grace Whitener, 91 of Cleveland, Texas. She was honored as the "oldest former resident" present.

Mrs. Whitener was also the oldest female teacher present that day. She taught music for one year in the Pleasant Hill School. After that, she taught school in her home. She studied music since she was five years old and finished her studies in Illinois before coming to Pleasant Hill to teach. At that time, she lived in the teacherage.

She married Noah Whitener, Aug. 19, 1916, in the home of Fred Hill of Pleasant Hill. They later moved to Espanola and she taught school there for one year.

After her husband died she moved to Albuquerque and went to work for the U.S. Forest Service. About a year and half later her health gave out and she moved to Houston. She worked there as a certified public accountant until she retired and moved to Cleveland.

Vondalee Page was recognized and honored with a plaque for "the person traveling the farthest distance" to attend the reunion. Page is from Wasilla, Alaska.

At one time, he was the superintendent of the largest school district in Alaska, the Matanuska-Susitna Borough School District, which covers 25,000 square miles and 13 schools. He served this district from 1962-1970. He was also, superintendent at Dellingham, Alaska, a small fishing town and a principal of a school in the Santa Fe area. He retired from administration in 1970.

The oldest person who attended the reunion was Grace Whitener, 91, of Cleveland, Texas. She was also the oldest female teacher.

The person who traveled the farthest was Vondalee Page of Wasilla, Alaska.

The oldest teacher who attended the reunion was Roy Melugin of Clovis.

Cantrells plead not guilty

The arraignment was held Tuesday for Frederick Albert Cantrell, 63, and his wife, Pearl, of Farwell, on charges of murder.

The husband and wife were indicted Aug. 5 by a Parmer County Grand Jury. The indictments concerned the shooting death of Carl Williams Moore II July 27. Moore, an Ohio native, had recently moved to Farwell with his family.

Although the Cantrells indicated at the arraignment they would not be able to hire their own attorney, Mrs. Cantrell called later Tuesday afternoon to say they would be able to get enough money to do so.

A trial date will be set in September, with the trial coming in October or November.

As of Tuesday, Cantrell had not posted bond and was being held in Parmer County Jail. Mrs. Cantrell is out on bond.

Suspect still at large

A suspect in the shooting death Aug. 3 of a Muleshoe woman and the shooting of a second Muleshoe woman is still being sought by police.

Sought is Rene Garcia, 22, of Muleshoe, Police said he allegedly took Ida Sotelo, 17, also of Muleshoe, with him at gunpoint following the incident.

The shootings took place on FM

Road 2290, six miles west of Bovina. Pronounced dead at the scene was Christy Sotelo, 25. Injured was Tonya Parkinson, 23.

The shootings apparently were keyed by a domestic squabble.

Garcia has an outstanding Texas warrant for parole violation; he was charged with aggravated assault, said County Sheriff Bill Morgan.

Reunion

Roy Melugin was honored as the oldest teacher at the reunion. He was awarded a plaque for his service. He served as superintendent of Pleasant Hill School from 1933-1937.

Ray Hungate of Clovis was recognized as being one of the "first graduates" of Pleasant Hill High in 1917. There were only four members of that class. Roy is the only surviving member.

Roy's father, W.W. Hungate, was one of four other land owners to donate two acres of land for the Pleasant Hill Community development. On the portion of land he donated, the grocery store and stables were built.

Many former teachers at Pleasant Hill School were recognized and introduced. Also mentioned were those who raveled 1,000 miles or more.

Everyone registered at the beginning of the reunion and name tags were issued. Specially prepared Pleasant Hill community reunion booklets were available from the 1978 reunion. The booklets give a capsule size history of the community as well as listings of all the former students and the teachers. Another section is devoted to brief histories of former Pleasant Hill residents.

The building that is now the community center used to be the teacherage. The building was built in the early 1930's. It housed seven apartments, with the largest being the superintendent's quarters.

Death noted

Mabel Kaufman, the mother of Dudley Bristow, former minister at the First Baptist Church of Farwell, was drowned in a boating accident Tuesday at White River Lake, Texas.

Texico school employees get 8% pay raises

The Texico School Board Tuesday gave teachers and employees pay raises.

The state has authorized a pay raise of $2,200 a year for all certified teachers in New Mexico. The other employees at the school will receive 8% pay raises.

It was voted to replace student help in the schools with adult help.

The board took bids on a 1986 station wagon. Bids were taken from Doc Stewart's of Clovis, Richardson's Ford in Albuquerque, Teague-Strebeck of Portales and Big Country Ford of Clovis. Big Country Ford got the award.

The board allotted money to Jerry Sadberry for new band instruments.

Bus drivers were approved and Flora Ledbetter was hired as a new bus driver.

Marcades hopes for joint venture

Mike Marcades is the new associate minister and minister of music, youth and education at the First Baptist Church in Farwell.

Marcades was born in Houston, but was raised in the Dallas area. He received a Bachelor of Music degree in 1979 at Baylor University. He attended Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky. He received a Master of Church Music degree in 1981.

He was licensed in 1981 at the Pleasant Grove Baptist Church at Anchorage, Ky., and ordained in 1982 at the Chapin Baptist Church at Chapin, S.C.

Before moving to Farwell he was a minister in South Carolina, working for two churches, for five years. He later ministered in Greenville, S.C. for 2½ years.

His hobbies are music, golf, and softball.

Marcades is an accomplished musician, having played the trumpet for over 25 years. He played professionally for orchestras and performed three times on national television. He says he was making a good living at that profession, but the Lord called him to do greater things.

His wife, Dixie, was born in Refugio, Texas. She received a Bachelor of Music Education degree in 1975 at Baylor University.

Dixie sings, plays the piano and guitar. She also does some vocal training and teaches piano.

The Marcades have two daughters, Brianne, 6 and Karry, 4½.

Marcades started his work in Farwell July 28. He considers himself to be not just an associate minister but a co-worker with Rev. Pat Riley.

He says he is very excited about his new ministry here. Mark wants to minister in more than just his church group. He also wants to minister to those in the schools, at school activities and with many organizations in our area.

He adds that his youth ministry will cover more than just the usual fun and special activities, but that it will also cover doing things for the people in the community and the church. He advocates learning to do things for others. He also wants the youth to grasp the concept that they need not wait until they're adults to start ministering to others.

Marcades has a vision for his church. He doesn't want his ministry to be just a small town thing. He hopes to work with other ministers in joint ventures with the other churches of the community.

He also wants to enlarge and grow in his music ministry.

He has planned children's programs for choir in ages four through six, first through third, and preschool. This will be the feeder to his youth choir.

Dixie helps with the children choirs and has the ability to direct in the music with handbells.

Feminine curiosity reveals a mystery

More rain

(Editor's note: The Tribune has received permission from the Amarillo newspaper to reprint this four-part series on Parmer County's most infamous tragedy.)

Before the auction sale, not many Farwell folks had been to George Hassell's farm house. It stood alone on a windswept prairie about four miles northeast of town. Hassell and his family worked hard, seven days a week, and had taken little time out for socializing since their arrival from Oklahoma in the summer of 1925.

Some of the men of the town - which nestles around the Santa Fe tracks and touches the New Mexico boundary - knew Hassell as a blond, beefy and amiable "hick" with a sharp eye for women and a fondness for bawdy jokes and an occasional nip of bootleg whiskey. He sometimes mentioned that his wife didn't approve of liquor and that he intended to mend his ways.

Mrs. Hassell was known to be intensely religious; she spent her spare time studying church literature. Several of the eight children living at the farm were in school at Farwell and were considered "exceptionally bright." One of the boys was an honor student.

On a dreary day in December of 1926, the Hassell place became a center of activity. George Hassell had announced a public auction of livestock, farm equipment and household furnishings. In spite of icy weather more than 150 men, women and youngsters milled around the little five-room stucco house. The sale items had been arranged to the right of the house around a 10-ft. square area of freshly turned earth where an old dugout had been filled in.

Hassell explained that his family had moved back to their farm near Blair, Okla., and that he would be joining them in a few days. Smiling and jovial, he officiated at the sale, holding forth from the dugout site.

Several ladies, filled with feminine curiosity, wandered into the house. In one room they found four trunks and suitcase. Somebody opened one of the trunks, revealing a large quantity of children's clothing, neatly packed. Also in the room they noted Mrs. Hassell's collection of religious books. How curious, they remarked, that a woman would leave such things behind.

Gradually, the whisperings of the ladies reached the ears of their husbands and as the days passed a mounting suspicion pulsed under the serene surface of the little cattle town. Some scoffed; George was just a good old boy.

There were more whispers after Hassell deposited the proceeds of the sale in the bank despite having said he soon would join his family in Oklahoma.

Mr. and Mrs. N.A. Lindop moved into the former Hassell place a few days after the sale. Hassell told them he needed to stay on for a few days and clean up one of the bedrooms, which he said was "all torn up." He stacked the luggage against a wall and spent part of a day scrubbing the floor. As several days passed, the Lindops became increasingly suspicious of their guest.

Thursday night, Dec. 23, Hassell seemed depressed and failed to display his usual hearty appetite at supper. He retired early and his frightened hosts spent a sleepless night. In the early morning hours they heard him calling out, Lindop ran to his room.

"Get a doctor, I'm awful sick," Hassell moaned. As Lindop started out the door, Hassell added, "Wait a minute - get Martin, too."

"Which Martin do you mean?" Lindop asked.

"Martin, the sheriff," Hassell gasped.

Lindop returned soon with R.A. Hawkins, constable of Parmer County, who found Hassell lying in a pool of blood.

"Look what they've done to me," Hassell cried. He was taken to the jail, where it was found he had been stabbed three times in the chest with a pocket knife. He was not expected to survive. He was rushed to Baptist Hospital at Clovis, N.M., for surgery. Doctors expressed little hope for his recovery.

A telegram to Blair, Okla., confirmed that Hassell's family had not returned there. When the luggage in Hassell's bedroom was moved, it was discovered that the bedroom wall was splattered with blood.

Noticing that plants and dirt were piled high over the dugout beside the house, the lawmen began digging. What they unearthed made all of them weep.

There were nine corpses: Mrs. Hassell; Alton, 21; Virgil, 18; Maude, 14; Russell, 12; David, 7; Johnny, 6; Mamie, 4; and Sammie, 2. They had been arranged carefully. The mother and three of the younger children had been placed in a sitting position in one corner; Alton sat in another corner and the bodies of the other five children were seated along the wall. All the victims were clad in nightgowns.

Hassell was returned to the Farwell jail on Saturday, Christmas day. Before nightfall he whispered, "I did it, I did it." He asked if he could wait until he was stronger before making a statement. Citizen volunteers, meanwhile, buried the victims in the local cemetery.

Amazingly, Hassell regained his strength quickly and, on Monday, seemed calm and in apparent good spirits as he told authorities his life story. It was a tale so horrifying that the listeners could hardly believe it - and yet, as they soon would learn, more horrors awaited them.

CONTINUED NEXT WEEK:

More rainfall was received Saturday and Sunday nights.

Here are some of the rain totals from around the area.

Fred Chandler manager of Sheryl-Anderson-Pitman, reported that they received about three tenths Saturday night in Farwell.

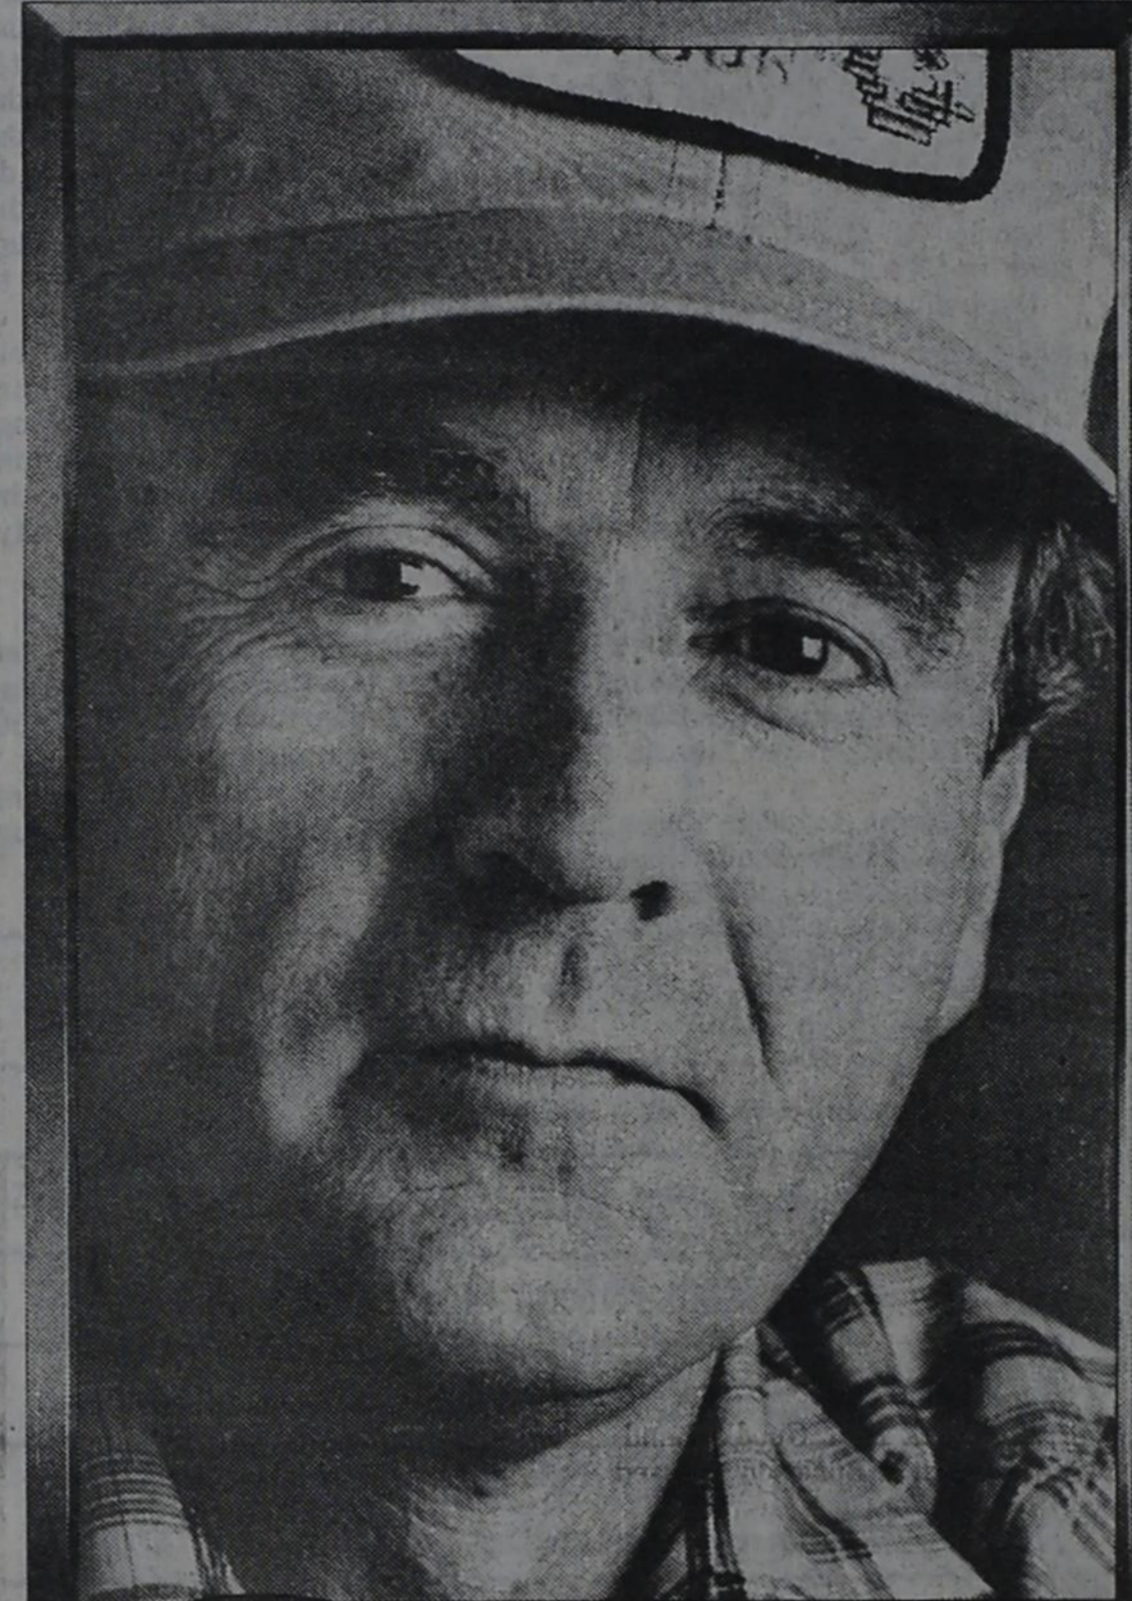

Walter Curd of Texico reported a total of seven tenths of rain for Saturday and Sunday.

Ted Magness reported only a trace of rainfall on his farm south of town.

John McFarland of Sheryl-Anderson Grain, Lariat, reported about .14 of rainfall Saturday.

Wayne Foster reported about six tenths of rainfall on Saturday and a half of an inch Sunday on his farm in the Oklahoma lane area.

With 2172, where there's water, there's more wheat.

If you're growing wheat under irrigation and want maximum returns, don't plant a dryland wheat variety. Instead, plant a variety with the genetic potential to take advantage of that extra moisture.

Pioneer wheat breeders developed 2172 to respond to the irrigated growing conditions of the Texas and Oklahoma High Plains.

2172 matures early, winters well, and offers good grazing qualities and good disease resistance.

Texans intercept Comanche raiding party

1840: WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 12. A Comanche party of some 400 warriors, returning from raids in Victoria and Linnville, was intercepted this morning at Good's Crossing on Plum Creek, about 27 miles below Austin. More than 40 Indians were killed, according to a report by General Felix Huston, commander of the Texian forces. One Texian was killed and seven wounded, one mortally. As many as 3,000 horses, mules and cattle were recaptured, along with all of the loot the Comanches had taken.

The Indians raided Victoria last Thursday and Friday, August 6 and 7, and Linnville August 8. Linnville is on Lavaca Bay, the farthest into Texas an Indian war party has ever penetrated. It is thought to be in retaliation for the Council House tragedy which occurred in San Antonio last March 19. At that time, some 70 Comanches, including 12 chiefs, had assembled for a conference with Texians when an altercation broke out. Nearly all the Indians were killed, plus seven Texians. It has resulted in much bitterness on both sides.

At Victoria last Thursday, the Indians surrounded the town before its inhabitants realized they were in the vicinity. They attacked at about 2:30 p.m. The citizens, who had hardly ever given thought to an Indian invasion, fled for shelter wherever they could find it. The Indians plundered the stores and the homes, then rounded up all the horses and cattle and retired. The next morning they attacked again, burning one house. In all, 15 people were killed.

They then moved on to Linnville, a town of about five houses, and an important shipping point. On the way they captured Mrs. Crosby, the granddaughter of Daniel Boone, her child and a nurse. As in Victoria, the people of Linnville had no suspicion of an Indian raid. The scene was described by one of them: "No language can tell the horror of the innocent people when they saw a thousand red demons suddenly rising in their saddle and with fiendish yells killing the defenseless citizens, some of them in their beds. Resistance was utterly useless and the terror-stricken men, women and children rushed for the small boats lying in Lavaca Bay. The warwhoop of the wild Comanches, the cries of women and children and the groans of the dying presented a scene of horror on which the rising sun never before dawned." Six people were killed, including Captain H.O. Watts, collector of customs. His young bride was carried away as a captive. The Comanches stayed all day, burning the houses one by one after looting whatever they could find, and driving off an immense number of mules, horses and cattle. The town is a gathering point for their trade.

Word of the unexpected raids spread rapidly, and hot pursuit began immediately on Sunday, August 9, a 125-man force under Captain John J. Tumlinson and Captain Ben McCulloch skirmished with them. They killed four or five, and one Texian was killed. Captain McCulloch sent a dispatch to General Edward Burleson at Bastrop, an experienced Indian fighter.

The Indian's in-bound trail crossed Plum Creek near Good's Landing, and General Burleson guessed that they would take the same route back. A rendezvous camp was set up nearby, and messengers rode in every direction for volunteers. The first to arrive was Captain Mathew "Old Paint" Caldwell with 37 men, plus 22 under Captain Lafayette Ward. General Burleson brought about 100, plus 13 Tonkawa Indians, and Captain James Bird came with 35 more. Captain McCulloch, after some hard riding, got there with three men—the others stayed with Tumlinson. General Felix Huston, who heads the militia, arrived last night. Although he is not an experienced Indian fighter, he was offered the command as a courtesy.

The Indians appeared, encumbered with all the horses, mules, cattle and loot they had acquired. Battle lines were formed. John Jenkins, a young soldier under General Burleson, describes what followed: "It was a strange spectacle never to be forgotten, the wild, fantastic band as they stood in battle array, or swept around us with all strategy of Indian warfare." He says they were dressed in strange garb, many in clothing they had looted. "There was a huge warrior who wore a stovepipe hat, and another who wore a fine pigeon-tailed cloth coat, buttoned up behind. They seemed to have a talent for finding and blending the strangest, most unheard-of ornaments. Some wore on their heads immense buck and buffalo horns. One head-dress struck me particularly. It consisted of a large white crane with red eyes."

A wild battle ensued, but eventually the Indians retreated, firing as they went. They entered a muddy bayou, and soon their vast array of horses and mules, with all their loot, became stick in the deep mud. "They bogged down so close together that a man could have walked along on their bodies dry," says young Jenkins.

General Huston filed his official report today. Of the prisoners taken by the Indians, he says, "We have been able to retake one—Mrs. Watts of Linnville—who was wounded by the Indians with an arrow when they fled. Mrs. Crosby was speared, and we understand that all the others were killed." Jenkins says that when the arrow was shot into Mrs. Watts' breast, "A thick corset received and impeded its force, so that though wounded, she is still alive. She is a remarkably fine-looking woman, but sunburned almost to a blister." She is the young bride of the customs collector in Linnville, who was killed in the raid.

1844: THURSDAY, AUGUST 15. Texas President Sam Houston arrived in Shelby County today and issued a proclamation demanding an end to the Regulator-Moderator War which has been raging there for the past four years. To enforce the proclamation, he has ordered out 600 militiamen from nearby counties, under General Travis G. Brooks.

The warning factions have almost entirely replaced due process of law in the county, and the disorders have spread to Panola and Harrison Counties. This region was formerly called the "Neutral Ground," a strip along the Sabine River established in 1806 as a compromise in a dispute over the boundary between the claims of the United States and Spain. Since neither undertook jurisdiction, the area became a lawless haven for desperados of all kinds. When Mexico became independent of Spain, it (Continued on Page 9)

Business still a mystery

A new business is taking shape across from Rip's Western Wear in Texico, but will not have a grand opening until April.

The owners, Vonnie and Billy McIntosh, want to keep the business and its name anonymous until their big opening. They did say that the business will be unique and that there would not be another business like it for 2,000 miles around.

The McIntoshes are doing all their own construction on their new business.

4-H Club to organize

The Parmer County 4-H Club will have an organizational meeting Aug. 21 at 8 p.m. in the Bovina High School cafeteria.

Gary Patterson, Parmer County Extension agent, and Janette Pierce, County Home Extension agent, will give and receive new ideas for the coming 4-H year. The 4-H Project Fair and 4-H Week will also be discussed.

The 4-H Council meeting will be Aug. 14 at 2 p.m. at the Bovina State Bank.

Here's something worth thinking about!

"M" any physicians are convinced that if every woman older than 40 years underwent annual mammography, 7,500 cancer deaths could be prevented each year."

"I" f every woman older than 40 years underwent annual mammography, 7,500 cancer deaths could be prevented each year." That startling statistic was part of the statement made by the AMA Council on Scientific Affairs late last year as it endorsed the mammography guidelines of the American Cancer Society. These Guidelines, for breast cancer detection in asymptomatic women, are:

AGE GROUP ACS RECOMMENDATION

35-40 years	Baseline mammogram
40-49 years	Annual or biennial mammograms
50 years	Annual mammograms

Other important points in the Council's statement include:

- Mammography is the most effective diagnostic technique to detect nonpalpable of minimal breast cancers.
- Patients with tumors smaller than 1cm have a 90% ten-year survival rate, compared with only 10-20% survival for cancers larger than 5cm, with positive nodes.
- Modern mammography is an effective tool for early diagnosis of breast cancer. Its widespread use would reduce morbidity as well as mortality, reduce the need for extensive surgery, and mitigate women's fear of breast cancer."

Comprehensive mammography screenings are available at the affordable price of $72. Consult your physician today.

Engineer picked for water project

The Texico City Council Tuesday hired Santa Fe engineer Ralph Vail for the city's well project.

Last month, Texico received a $50,000 grant from the state for a new well, since only one is still working. The only stipulation was that Texico pay up to $10,000 in engineering fees.

Last week, Texico received four bids for the engineering. Although Vail's wasn't the lowest bid, the council was impressed by his expertise.

Vail was hired for $8,680 figure. But he agreed that prior approval from the council is needed before he could charge more than that figure.

In other business, the council voted to allow J.T. Stanton to move a trailer to 500 State Line Road. The Stantons are moving from Farwell to Texico.

The request for approval went to the council instead of the new planning and zoning commission because the new commission didn't have a quorum for its organizational meeting last week and thus was unable to organize.

The council voted to spend $140 apiece for City Clerk Marie Christian, City Attorney Duane Hamar and City Marshal Dave Wheeler to attend the New Mexico Municipal League fall conference in Clovis Sept. 3-5.

Wheeler was asked to let property owners whose weeds are growing too high that they must be cut.

Bulbs, brooms to be sold

The Texico-Farwell Lions Club Monday set its dates for its annual light bulb and broom sales.

Light bulbs will be sold door to door on Sept. 1, 2 and 3. Brooms will be sold in front of the Texico and Farwell post offices Sept. 4.

Commissioners join health unit

The Parmer County Commissioners Monday voted to join the Panhandle Health Care Coalition.

Due to new state laws, more responsibility for paying for indigent care will fall on counties and local hospital districts.

The coalition will coordinate health care and contracts for indigent people throughout the area.

The Parmer County cost will be one percent of the county's gross revenue tax levy or $6,632. Pearl Cervantz, former director of the Bovina Neighborhood Center, will be named Parmer County Indigent Health Care Coordinator. Once the program is set up, indigent persons who need help will go to her to fill out forms before going to the hospital.

Congress to meet

There will be a local farm Congress meeting in Dimmitt on Aug. 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the Expo Building.

The purpose of the United Farmer and Rancher Congress is to provide a forum for the sharing of problems and their solutions for the family farmer. Recommendations for action will be carried to the Congress by approximately 1500 delegates.

The democratic delegates in the grass roots program will bring to Congress the problems and solutions as identified by the farmers and ranchers they represent. It is hoped that the American farm community can suggest ways and means by which the U.S. House of Representatives and Senate can move to aid the plight of the American farming and ranching family.

Comanches raid prohibited settlement within 60 miles of the Sabine, but people came anyway. Ignored by the Mexican government, they made their own laws.

With the establishment of the Republic and the opening of Texas land offices in 1838, the area became a place for the production of counterfeit headrights, fraudulent land certificates, and counterfeit money. Two opposing factions grew up, each making its own rules, enforced by threats, arson and murder. One called itself the Moderators, claiming to moderate the excesses of their opponents, and the other called itself the Regulators, claiming to regulate the Moderators.

The Regulators were headed by Charles W. Jackson, a former steamboat owner on the lower Mississippi and Red Rivers, and afterwards a mercantile owner in Shreveport, Louisiana. He was wanted by the law, and a party of men in Shreveport captured him for the reward. He managed to escape, and gathered a group of supporters around him. When his captors returned, there was a shoot-out in which several were killed, and Jackson fled to Shelby County.

In 1840 he ran for Congress and was defeated. He attributed his defeat to a ring of counterfeiters, and informed the General Land Office at Austin of their dealings. Thereupon he received a threatening letter from the leader of the counterfeiters, Joseph Goodbread. The letter said that if he did not stop meddling in affairs that did not concern him, he would be killed, and if nobody else would do it, the writer would. Jackson, letter in hand, searched out Goodbread in Shelbyville, and shot him dead.

The case came up before Judge John M. Hansford in the recently created district court in Shelby County. The courtroom was packed with men from both factions, armed to the teeth. Judge Hansford prudently dismissed the court and transferred to trial to Panola County, where Jackson was acquitted on a plea of self defense. Thereupon one of his followers was killed by a Goodbread man. The killer then fled for his life, and his house was burned down. The Goodbread faction, originally an undercover gang calling themselves the Freebooters, now openly reorganized as the Moderators, headed by Edward merchant, Charles Jackson organized and headed the Regulators.

The situation quickly degenerated into a series of murders, thefts and arsons. Jackson was shot down, and replaced by Charles Watt Moor-man, a colorful figure who claims to have invented more oaths than any man alive. The Regulators became so strong that they defied the courts and threatened rebellion against the Republic itself. In the summer of 1842, they were so powerful that they were able to order 25 opposing families to leave the county. They were forced to comply, meanwhile lodging a protest with President Houston.

In September, 1842, two pitched battles between the Regulators and the Moderators left as many as 50 dead. Houston called out the militia from adjoining counties and temporarily restored order. After the militiamen went home, a new reign of terror erupted. Crops have gone untended, homes have been burned, and a number of men have been ambushed. This situation has continued until the present.

Now the militia is again called out, and President Houston has gone to Shelby County personally to make sure that the two factions never again resort to unlawful methods. The affair has provided considerable ammunition for those in the United States opposed to annexation, who use the lawless nature of Texas citizens as one of their arguments. President Houston is determined to eliminate this argument.

Farwell Convalescent Center Chit Chat

By Lynne Gann
Activity Director

What an exciting afternoon! Effie Smith, Dick Ballew, Nancy Thompson, Harvey Jordan, Hazel Self, Elva Yruegas, her friend Ursula, Jo Ann Zeller and I toured Lonnie Allsup's El Cid Ranch.

James Davis met us upon arrival and showed us the arenas, the sprinkler system that settled the dust, the horse barns, the area they used to hold cattle, on and on. And everyone loving every minute of it. Harvey talked horses non-stop and James was kind enough to answer each one.

Lonnie Allsup made a point of introducing himself and meeting all of us. He invited us out to any of the events. The next being Aug. 14-17. We hope to get a glimpse of one of those cutting horse competitions.

Our thanks to James Davis for his time and attention and for answering so many questions with such patience and to Mr. Allsup for having us.

We will have our patio hamburger party the 19th at 4:30. The Ladies Auxiliary are supplying the dessert, fresh fruit, and helping with the bar-b-que. What a joy they make of these outings. We look forward to seeing each and every one of you.

Alice Head is home from the hospital. Welcome home Alice.

Soil samples suggested

Parmer County farmers should take time in the next few weeks to collect soil samples from those fields which will be fall planted to wheat or other small grains.

Soil test results will be returned early enough to allow plenty of time to apply recommended nutrients and incorporate them into the soil during final seedbed preparation.

Incorporating or knifing nutrients into a moist seedbed is important to reduce nitrogen volatilization losses associated with surface-applied urea-containing fertilizers, points out Gary Patterson, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System. It also allows placement of non-mobile nutrients such as phosphorus into the active root zone of plants.

Small grains which are grazed naturally require more fertilizer than ungrazed grain because of nutrients removed by grazing. About 30 to 40 pounds of nitrogen are removed in forages grazed by stocker cattle for each 100 pounds of beef produced per acre. This nitrogen, less some recycling, must be replaced to provide adequate nutrition for grain production after live-stock are removed, Patterson points out.

A soil test is still the best way to determine fertilizer needs. How much of a given nutrient to apply depends on the level of that nutrient in the soil, residue levels, cropping history, available moisture, grazing practices and general management.

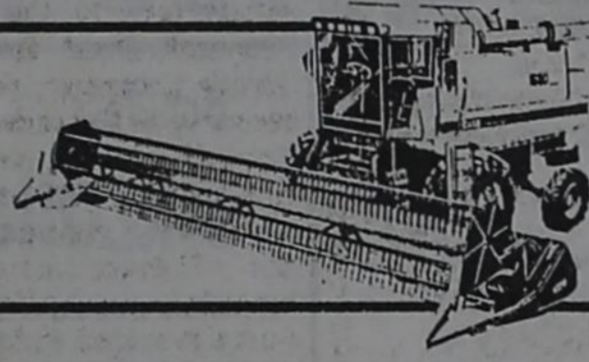

A general "rule of thumb" says that wheat requires about 2 pounds of nitrogen per bushel of grain, produced, says Patterson. Therefore, a 30-bushel yield would remove about 60 pounds of available nitrogen per acre. A soil test will determine the amount of residual nitrate-nitrogen in the soil and reduce nitrogen recommendations by that amount.

Producers who have not yet made a final decision to plant wheat this fall, but wish to leave the door open to plant corn, sorghum or cotton later on, can submit a soil sample now and request fertilizer recommendations for all cropping alternatives. Resulting fertilizer recommendations then can be used to assist each person in making cropping decisions.

Curriculum stays same

The Farwell School Board held its annual budget hearing Tuesday. School Supt. John Grigsby reported that there were no curriculum changes. He said the board cut back on equipment purchases, such as furniture and computers.

As for a tax rate, the school district has to wait for decisions by the county appraisal board, which is still meeting.

In other business, the board approved the same bus routes as last year.

Borden's was the only bidder for the milk contract. They bid .1645 cents per carton, up from .1640 last year.

The superintendent and principals were approved as teacher appraisers.

The board will meet Aug. 26 to discuss the amended budget. The September meeting was changed to the 15th.

Shown are the Parmer County 4-Hers with their calves at their monthly weigh-in meeting.

Bottle calves raised

The newest project for 4-H members in Parmer County appears to be a success.

Twenty-nine members from ages 5 to 12 are raising bottle calves. A bottle calf is one that is taken from the cow shortly after birth and raised.

Volunteer leaders, older 4-Hers and adults have helped the project members by locating calves, weighing, tagging and advising them on every aspect of raising the calves.

Football signup set

Play Incorporated football registration will be Aug. 16 at Farwell City Park from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The registration is for boys in grades third through sixth. Registration fees of $15 will be required, along with $5 for photos.

The project group meets once each month to weigh their calves and hear from a guest speaker. This month Dr. John McNeill, beef cattle specialist from Amarillo, will present a program on calf nutrition.

The project will be completed on Oct. 4, when the calves will be shown at the 4-H Project Fair and Awards Banquet. Members will be judged on their interest in the project, knowledge gained, and records.

Birth certificates are required. For more information, call 482-9991 or 481-9135.
