Roger Patrick Shows Much Improvement

Roger Patrick, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Patrick, who was seriously injured last week when an outside flower box fell on him, is reported to be much better.

The youngster had several ribs pulled loose, and physicians have now noted that one side is affected by a nerve. The Patricks do not know how long he will have to remain in the hospital.

The child's sister, Susan, was also involved in the accident, but was not seriously injured.

Grandmother of the children, Mrs. A. M. Ross of Granite, Okla., is here with the Patricks. Mr. Ross accompanied her, but returned home over the weekend.

The father of Loyd Cain has been visiting in the Cain home.

Oklahoma Lane, Texico-Farwell Will Be Linked

As a culmination of work which has had a duration of many long months, rural telephone users in the Oklahoma Lane community find that beginning Midnight, Aug. 31, they will be able to use their telephones to call outside their own exchange.

This is big news for country residents, who have encountered many discouraging delays in attempting to secure a network of lines over this part of the country.

County-wide, it will be the first of several rural exchanges which will be extended to town circuits. Tuesday morning, Oklahoma Lane residents will discover that they will be able to call any person in the Texico-Farwell exchange simply by dialing a prefix number of "8" before the regular number.

Oklahoma Lane people have been served with their local exchange for about six weeks now, although calls have been limited to people in their own exchange. That is, they could not call "town". Now, however, they soon will be able to call Texico-Farwell by dialing, or any other number desired elsewhere by handling the call on long-distance basis through the Clovis operator.

The Oklahoma Lane-Texico-Farwell services comes as a result of a satisfactory agreement between the West Texas Rural Telephone Co-op (serving Oklahoma Lane) and Mountain States Telephone Company (serving Texico-Farwell). This type agreement is called "extended area" service.

Were it not for a mistake in ordering equipment which was made weeks ago, the hookup would already have been completed. Unfortunately, the Co-op and Mountain States discovered they had different types of terminal equipment when it came time to make the coupling back in July.

Now, however, all the "wrinkles" are being worked out, and Bill Hampton, wire chief of the Co-op and Don Steffee, installer for the North Electric Equipment Company (makers of the exchange equipment) are hard at work to meet the Sept. 1 deadline.

The capacity of the Oklahoma Lane exchange will undoubtedly be sufficient for a number of years, the two technicians advise. The plant is capable of handling 100 lines with eight subscribers on each line. At present, 56 lines are in use, but these are only "50 to 60 percent loaded."

About 110 telephone users will be included in the Oklahoma Lane exchange when the cut-over is made, and temporary directories are being mailed to subscribers.

Agreements for the exchanges at Bovina and Friona have not been reached between the West Texas Co-op and General Telephone Company of the Southwest.

Lazbuddy School To Open Aug. 31

The 1953-54 school term is slated to begin at Lazbuddy August 31. All high school students should report at 10:00 a. m. Friday, August 28, to register.

Buses will make their runs Monday morning, the 31st, and will leave in the afternoon at 3:00. The cafeteria will be open on that day.

The faculty is as follows: James G. Ward, superintendent; C. W. Dukes, high school principal and coach; James Haynes, math; Mrs. Stella Gressett, English; social studies still open; W. D. Revel, vocational agriculture; and Mrs. Teresa Revel, vocational home economics.

Fred Wilbank, elementary principal, will teach in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades; Mrs. Peggy Haynes also in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades; Mrs. Virgil Wilbanks, 3rd grade; Mrs. Dodavah Lawrence, 2nd grade; and vacancies exist for the two first grade teaching positions.

The new addition to the school building should get under construction soon, and is expected to be completed around November 1.

Farwell FFA Boys Return from Trip

Farwell FFA boys returned from their annual trip last week. They spent several days at Daingerfield State Park, where they camped out, cooked their own meals, went swimming and other activities.

Robert "Prof" Morton, agriculture instructor at Farwell, and FFA sponsor, accompanied the 11 boys making the trip.

Boys going were Lavon Jones, Deon Branscum, Gerald Hardage, Dean Smith, Don Gerles, H. R. Billingsley, Glen Lee, James Roberts, Doyle Ford, James Norton, and Jerry Utsman.

Bovina Lets Contract for Home Economics Building

Faculty Complete, School to Start Monday, Aug. 31

Only a few fleeting moments are left for students of Bovina Schools to enjoy their summer vacation. Starting Monday, Aug. 31 the old grind will once again get started.

Things won't really be so bleak, though. For instance the board has just let the contract for construction of a new home economics building. It will cost $18,000.

The contract was awarded to James Berry, Clovis bidder, who is scheduled to complete the five-room modern brick cottage in 60 days. The new building will be erected across the street from the gymnasium and south of the J. P. Macon residence.

The school faculty has been filled for the coming term with the addition of Mrs. Lee Roberts, who will teach speech and commerce in high school.

Mrs. Roberts was instructor last year with the Gruver school system, and has had teaching experience in Draughan's Business College, Amarillo. She is a graduate of Texas Technological College.

Other physical improvements include a new cement sidewalk in front of the administration building, new furniture for the first three grades is on order.

Registration ceremonies will occupy the students' time, Monday, and classes will begin in earnest the next day, Tuesday.

Gulf To Drill Another Well

Explorations for oil continue to make occasional big news in Parmer County, the latest utcropping being the announcement this week that Gulf Production Company will drill a test 3 1/2 miles north-east of Black.

The wildcat, designated No. 1 Kehlheor in section 5, Gregg County School Land survey, is scheduled for a probable depth of 10,000 feet.

A Tribune reporter who visited the Black community Monday afternoon, reported that equipment had at that time not been moved on location, but community informants who had conversed with company representatives felt certain the work is to begin immediately.

At that time, the Gulf people were busy securing warehouse space for some of their equipment in Black.

No report has come for some time from the shallow-test in the Lazbuddy community, and it is presumed that the location has been abandoned.

The last major wildcat in Parmer County was the U. S. Smelter Company's failure north west of Friona on the Sloan Osborn place. That was about 11 miles east of the present wildcat near Black.

Several years ago a test was made just north of Parmer County slightly above the Harrison highway. It too was a "dry hole."

The nearest oil production to Parmer County is in southwestern Roosevelt County, about 20 miles from Portales, where a wildcat was brought into production last year.

Four Local Breakins Over Past Weekend

Four Farwell business establishments were broken into over the past weekend, the raids being made either Saturday or Sunday night, conjecture county peace officers.

Businesses entered included Kemp Lumber Company, State Line Grocery & Market, Farwell Piggly Wiggly, and the B. N. Graham Insurance Agency.

Only Graham reported a noticeable loss from his place, being minus about $40 in cash. John Porter of State Line Grocery believes that some cigarettes had been taken from that store.

There was little doubt that the break-ins were done by persons who had had experience in that particular line, said Sheriff Lovelace. Holes were cut in doors at the Lumber yard and insurance agency. An air conditioner was removed from the State Line Grocery to gain entrance, and a door glass broken and the lock released at the Piggly Wiggly. The burglars knocked the knob from the Kemp safe, but gas fumes from a capsule in the knob apparently discouraged them, as the job was not finished.

The series of night entries was the first time burglaries have occurred in Parmer County since February, reported the sheriff. Lovelace says he has virtually no leads on the occurrences.

Quick Thunderstorm Drops .75 Rain Here

A sudden thunderstorm rolling out of the south whipped into Texico-Farwell late Saturday afternoon, and left behind it .75 inches rain in a dashing downpour.

Apparently, the rain was very local in nature, no rural reports of anything but a "sprinkle" having been received here in town.

One Farwell resident made the remark he listened over the radio to a baseball game going on in Clovis nine miles away as he looked out the window at a .75 inch rain.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Watts and daughters have returned from a vacation trip to Wichita Falls, Jacksonville and Sea Drift.

QUEEN IS CROWNED

Bruce Parr, right, himself a married man and president of the Parmer County Farm Bureau, is noticeably nervous as he adjusts the crown atop the head of Deniese Magness, Friona girl who won the Bureau's queen contest last weekend. Looking on is Peggy Hardage, Farwell, who was runner-up in a field of 16 contestants.

Deniese Magness Is Queen

Deniese Magness, 16 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Magness of Friona, was chosen Parmer County Farm Bureau queen Friday night, in contests held at Friona High school auditorium. She will compete in district competition in Lubbock, September 3.

Runner-up for the county was Peggy Hardage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hardage of Farwell.

Sixteen other entries were vying for honors. Out-of-town judges considered poise and personality to determine the queen. Among the top five contestants were Wanda Roberts, Bovina; Gay Cass, Friona; and Pat Loflin, Friona. Others were Marie Guber, Farwell; Ray Nell Foster, Friona; Norma Loflin, Bovina; Miti Ivy, Lazbuddy; LaVerna Christian, Farwell; Sue Jones, Friona; Carol Blackburn, Friona; Mary McGlothlin, Friona; Zelma Beatty, Friona; LaMonia Neff, Friona; Jo Ann Williams, Farwell.

Aubrey Ellison was in charge of the contest, and was assisted by his wife, Mrs. Flossie Anderson of Bovina did the initial work on the program. Entertainment for the evening featured the Harmon-Knights of Texas Tech, Lubbock, and Cotton John of KGNOC, Amarillo, was master of ceremonies. He introduced and talked to each of the contestants.

Miss Magness, junior in Friona High School, is 5 feet 10 1/2 inches tall, weighs 125 pounds, has blue eyes and medium brown hair. She is a talented pianist, and assistant church pianist, for Friona Baptist church. A member of Friona High School band and accompanist for the choir, she was named outstanding.

The Tribune staff is justly proud of the awards given this newspaper at the annual West Texas Press Convention in Abilene last week, although the Trib didn't manage to get a blue ribbon. Mrs. Jeanne Graham, society editor, shows the awards: second place in editorials, second place in column writing, fourth place in "house-set" advertisements, and third place as West Texas' best all-around newspaper. More than 250 newspapers are in the West Texas Press Association.

FROM THE HOPPER

The writer can usually be relied upon for frequent foolhardy stunts, but the one he recently tried when he suggested the wife go on a diet to improve her silhouette certainly heads the list, for the time being, at least.

The "dietetic" or whatever word you attach to a person who is pursuing a specially planned course of eating, is not contrary to general belief the person who most suffers from this mad modern idea of dieting.

Invariably, it is the wife who takes it upon herself to go on a diet; invariably it is the husband who is destined to suffer the tortures of mind, spirit, and stomach. Such was the case of the writer, at least.

If your wife is going to start off the day with a weakly-poached egg and a daintily toasted half-slice of bread, you can bet your britches that's all you're going to get, too.

The cookie jar is empty. The cake box is vacant. The candy dish that formerly occupied a handy position in the living room has been put away.

Gone, too, are those golden moments when in the evening we reposed in an overstuffed platform rocker and leisurely thumbed through the day's newspapers that come across our desk.

The wife formerly entertained the youngest member of the house while we relaxed. Now, she is engaged in squatting, bending, twisting, and rolling her tortured frame in the middle of the floor.

Guess who gets to hold Junior.

We met a man the other day who was proud to be an American citizen. He said he enjoyed the privilege of paying taxes for the support of his government.

He added, however, he thought he could have as much enjoyment for half the price.

Attending the Farm Bureau queen contest in Friona last weekend gave us our first opportunity to see the auditorium of which that school system has every right to be proud.

As essential as an auditorium is to a community which aspires to be up-to-date, we don't see how we taxpayers, bless our hearts, could turn down a chance to have such a building—even though it costs real money.

Tip to area school boards: when it becomes necessary for you to ask of your district patrons to provide an auditorium for your systems, try luring some of your opposition up to Friona to see what they have up there.

We bet they'd change their notion in a hurry about not wanting an auditorium.

As long as we're passing out verbal bouquets to schools, it wouldn't be fair to overlook the landscaping which has been done on the grounds right here in Farwell.

The other evening we drove around behind the buildings where a brand-new turf of Bermuda grass and alfalfa is coming right along. It had been freshly mown, and certainly graced the grounds.

We have lived in this community.

Fair and Dairy Show Shaping Up Well, Says Euler

Directors of the 1953 Parmer County Fair and Dairy Show have their major plans "pretty well shaped up" for the big event which will be held this year Sept. 10-11-12, according to Raymond Euler, secretary of the Association.

Several new features have been added to the event this year, he says, and should attract even more and better Parmer County talent.

A poultry division is the newest addition.

A children's division has been created in the home arts department; Friona Lions will sponsor a new doll contest for all grade school girls in Parmer County and will move their children's rides now located in the city park to the fair area for entertainment of visitors.

Girls interested in participating in the doll contest should register at Ethridge-Spring Insurance in Friona. Prizes will be made for best entries.

County Agent Joe Jones reports that he has succeeded in securing the government cotton classing office in Lubbock to put up an exhibit at the fair for the purpose of acquainting farmers on how the grading system works.

A demonstrator from the office will be on hand to explain cotton classing methods, Jones adds.

In spite of the impact of drought on this part of the country, fair officials believe that interest in the livestock divisions will be maintained at or above average. They are expecting entries in all divisions, although competition may have been slimmer down.

Euler said a "great deal" of interest has been displayed in the community exhibits, a part of the fair that each year attracts more competition.

In this division, communities all over the county cooperate to display products best representative of their area. Communities in past years have gone to considerable pains to display the most attractive exhibit, and it is predicted that competition will be even stiffer this time.

Not in competition, but of interest nevertheless, will be the exhibit of a cage of chinchillas by a Friona resident. Also, an exhibit of good-grade potatoes, new county industry, will be on hand.

Euler said that pens will have to be built to accommodate the new poultry division, and bedding for all booths and stalls has already been procured from Watson Whaley at a reduced price.

As to the financial aspect of the fair, Euler says workers are "well pleased" with the response from county businesses and individuals. Tabulations on the financial status of this year's drive should be available for publication next week.

HERE LAST WEEK

District Judge E. A. Bills of Littlefield was here Wednesday of last week to hear civil, non-jury court cases, Loyde Brewer, county clerk, says.

Mrs. Willie Lovelace, who underwent major surgery at the Clovis Memorial hospital last week, is reported to be recuperating nicely.

THE TRIBUNE'S EDITORIAL COMMENT

Has Anybody Been Fleecing Your Flocks?

It is common knowledge that the American public will fall for most any outlandish scheme a slick-tongued promoter happens to proposition them with. Maybe it's just because of our inherent trusting nature out here in the Southwest, but it seems as though shysters have certainly had bountiful harvests in recent years.

Magazine peddlers have been among the most notorious, but now and then another line pops up. Mrs. Foister Rector of Friona writes us to say that she and several other people have been sucked under by a promoter selling chicken worm medicine.

The entire proposition is set forth in her letter carried under a "letters to the editor" column elsewhere in the paper. The sum and substance of it is as usual, the whole scheme is a front to get quick cash from hard-working farm people who are credulous enough to fall for the line.

The moral of this sad story, and other similar incidents which have passed through this part of the country in recent years, is this:

Know what you're buying, and if you don't know what you're buying, at least know the guy you're buying it from. This simple little policy will sooner or later pay off by protecting you from some unscrupulous individual who is out for a dishonest dollar.

Besides, it'll tend to keep your money at home in your own community where it'll do you more good.

Iran's Busted Again: Guess Who Pays the Bill?

Upstart Shah Mohammed Pahlevi of Iran this week came up with the startling revelation that his oil-rich country is busted. That's really getting to be a novelty in world affairs, isn't it?

While lounging in his exotic palace gardens, he made this announcement, "not to any nation in particular," but to anyone who would give poor old Iran a financial shot in the arm.

Guess who he hoped would hear his plea. We understand the Republican administration has created a situation of "hard" money, meaning naturally, that money is getting more and more difficult to borrow, and that interest rates are becoming increasingly stiff.

We hope that Ike and his state department make it just as rough for poor oil-lousy Iran to borrow money as the administration has made it for GI's to get one of those 4 1/2 per cent home loans in the past few months.

Car Check-up Coming Back

The old Motor Vehicle Inspection Law is dead. But here to replace it is a new measure which will mean that you motorists will still have to get the family buggy checked next month before you can operate on the streets and roads.

True enough, the old law was cursed—cursed by about nine out of every ten drivers. It may have seemed like a lot of red tape, but the idea upon which it was enacted is sound.

Today's traffic toll is far and away too terrible for us to endure with a clear conscience. If inspecting autos will curb accidents one per cent in Texas, it's worth it.

Better Square Up Things With the Supreme Accountant

Some people have lived for scores of years without a single serious thought. But of recent months, the ominous reports of the terrible-weapon race between the United States and the U.S.S.R. has had a sobering effect upon their manner of living.

One British scientist this week suggested that the entire human race could be wiped from the face of the earth with one blast from what appears to be the next logical super-weapon: the cobalt bomb.

Now, The Tribune does not want to be accused of prophesying an impending dooms day for all humanity. Certain small religious sects are certain that the end is near, but we are not.

We only know that it is apparent that man is at last on the threshold of scientific development that will enable him to destroy himself. It's a ghastly fact, but true nevertheless.

We know that we are here today. Tomorrow is something else. How would you live if you knew that this day would be your last?

The General Was Correct

Never have truer words been uttered than those of ex-general Douglas McArthur when he said, "There is no substitute for victory."

The best substitute that the United States and the United Nations have been able to arrive at can certainly be regarded as undesirable from the standpoint of the free world.

The prospect of improving this sad state of affairs by genuine full-scale "peace talks" is pretty dim, too. The United States is preparing to let nations which stood aloof while it stemmed the onslaught of communism in a foreign land, decide the issues of the futile war in which nearly 30,000 American boys were killed.

How degraded can we become? While we tediously observe the scintillating laws of modern-day statesmanship, our communistic neighbors indulge in every form of trickery, backhandedness, and deceit.

Men who live by the sword understand only brute force. Words are mere prattle to them. Treaties mere scraps of paper.

Hundreds of our boys who held up their hands when they knew they hadn't a chance believed they would be treated as prisoners of war in accordance with standards set down at an international parley in Geneva many years ago.

Now these boys will never again see the lights of home.

Some day, perhaps, we shall understand all of this.

Letters to the Editor

Friona, Texas
August 18, 1953

Dear Editor:

I am writing you in regard to a problem concerning a Mr. _____, who is driving over the country making house-to-house calls selling poultry worm medicine. He represents a firm in Lubbock, Tex.

Now here is the line: You buy their worm powder two pounds for $10, and they will come and cull your hens, pay you 25 cents a pound for all the culls, and take them to Lubbock and come and check your flocks over two or three times a year.

Here's what he does if you are sucker enough to buy his medicine and most of us are sucker bait: He was in our territory last fall and I bought some of the stuff, but he never showed up again for culls or anything.

So I wrote them, but never received a peep from them. So I told them I'd give them some free advertising to beware of them and their products.

I have word that this same guy has been over in the Bovina community with this same line, and that J. T. Hopingardner lost 16 hens after feeding this product to his flock.

Ike Quikkel was another one that he stuck, so if you would just put in a few lines in your paper for folks with chickens, it will be more far-reaching than I could do.

I don't think a liar should be let to run loose and prey on the community, when there are other products we can buy for less money that are far more effective.

If you see fit to help us in ridding our county of such a pest, I hope you will. Thanks to you.

Editor State Line Tribune
Farwell, Texas
Dear Sonny,

How about printing this? It was clipped from the editorial page of the Orange leader, issue of Wednesday, July 15. It is entitled "Teacher Shortage: It's Up to Shivers."

If Governor Shivers reads the newspapers he's bound to know that thousands of Texas children face the prospect of entering the classrooms in their schools next September and finding the teacher's chair vacant. Why doesn't he do something about it?

The worst teacher shortage in history has developed in this state and with many of the classroom instructors out hunting for jobs in business and industry this summer the shortage is going to be terrific by the time the new term starts.

Here in Orange there are 19 vacancies on the teaching staff of the public schools as of today. School officials are beating the bushes in a desperate race with time trying to fill these posts but the prospects aren't good.

The same situation exists in many other Texas school districts. The only ones not worried are those with local tax revenue sufficient to enable them to pay salaries well in excess of the state minimum.

Governor Shivers, in going along with the group who killed off teacher pay legislation is largely responsible for the teacher shortage and right now he is the only person in the state in a position to do anything about it.

He can summon the lawmakers back into session and use his influence in getting through a tax bill to finance an increase in teacher pay sufficient to make it possible for any school district regardless of its financial circumstances, to fill its staff.

So far, Governor Shivers has shown no indication of a willingness to do that. He is aware that a majority of the lawmakers are opposed to the Texas Manufacturers Association plan—which he endorses—of putting the entire costs of the teacher pay hike on the backs of the local taxpayers.

Any proposal for an increase which is acceptable to the Legislature will have to involve state financing and TMA is going to fight that to the last ditch.

In order to get the hike written into law, Governor Shivers would have to switch sides, joining the ranks of his bitter critics within the Texas State Teachers association, and he hasn't yet made up his mind to do that.

So the summer rocks along, the resignations pile up on desks of school superintendents all over the state, and great mounds of teacher contracts remain unsigned.

School districts with unfilled positions will have only one course open: Lower their standards for teachers and go out and hire anybody who can come close to meeting the qualifications for a classroom instructor.

When they do that the children will suffer. The school boards all know that but they have no means immediately available for avoiding the situation. That power now rests with Governor Shivers and he alone.

Even if the Orange districts, or any other, undertook to finance pay increases for teachers through a hike in local taxation there would not be time to set up a program ahead of the start of the new term.

If, therefore, your child starts school next fall either without a teacher or in the hands of an incompetent instructor, don't blame the principal or the superintendent or the trustees.

Write a letter to the governor. On second thought, maybe it would be better to go ahead and write him now. Enough letters from parents might serve the purpose of bringing the governor around on this issue.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas
 A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

LEGISLATIVE PERMISSION REQUIRED FOR SUIT AGAINST STATE

Included in the measures passed by the current 53rd Texas Legislature are several concurrent Resolutions permitting various individuals to file suits against the state. Applying to local situations only, they have been attended by very little publicity, and the majority of Texans are probably not even aware of their passage.

In fact, the average individual would seldom have occasion to ponder the question of whether the State of Texas can be sued on the same basis as a person or corporation. One of the prerogatives of sovereignty carried down from ages past into our present day laws is that of immunity from being sued. The State of Texas may not be sued without its consent.

The Legislature by a proper action may permit certain general types of suits to be brought against the state, under certain conditions and restrictions. Then, if a specific situation arises which is not covered by the general rules, the legislators are authorized to pass a special measure to permit suit to be brought.

Therefore, any person seeking to enforce a claim against the state through the courts must petition the Legislature for the necessary permission, unless his claim falls within some general category or type previously recognized by our lawmakers.

Recently passed legislation will allow suits to be brought against the state in a variety of cases, ranging from an action for damages for personal injuries suffered in a collision with a State Highway department truck to a suit for monetary damages alleged to have been incurred in connection with the securing of a right-of-way for farm-to-market highways.

Sometimes, however, suits may be brought against individuals holding office under the State of Texas acting as agents of the state but where the state itself is not the principal party to the suit, without first gaining consent to sue. There are numerous situations in which an individual officer may be sued with regard to the duties and functions of his office and in which the state is not directly or substantially a party in interest.

Suppose you do obtain legislative permission to sue the state. What happens then?

If suit is brought against the State of Texas, and the action is successfully prosecuted, you will be awarded a judgment against the state. Then it's back to the legislature for more legislation to appropriate the necessary money with which the state may pay off the judgment.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts because the facts may change the application of the law.)

jottin's from jeanne

If you didn't go down to Friona Friday night for the Farm Bureau queen contest, you missed something. In the first place, the contest impressed upon us how many unusually attractive young women we have in our county—who have poise and personality. The contest was not a beauty contest, but to decide who with the above mentioned attributes, could best represent the county in district competition. And the judges, who were out-of-town, had a terrific job.

We talked to one of the judge's later, and he insisted that all the entries were outstanding—and it was almost impossible to single out one as the queen. Deniese Magness of Friona was the young lady who won the top honor; with Peggy Hardage as runner-up.

Cotton John of KGNC, Amarillo, was master of ceremonies, and talked to each contestant to help bring out her personality. It was all impromptu and there wasn't a single girl who couldn't answer questions with the ease of one who does that sort of thing every day. And many of the answers were very clever.

Five finalists besides Peggy and Deniese were Wanda Roberts of Bovina, Pat Loflin of Friona, and Gay Cass of Friona. Gay, a diminutive person, was quite striking because her ease, and spontaneous quips, Wanda, taller and more willowy, was direct and had a clear, interesting voice. As for Pat, she was smiling, unaffected, and "cute".

The remaining eleven all had noteworthy attributes. It was quite a contest!

What is your favorite room in your house? Ours is the kitchen, and how much we like lots of space in this one room. Our kitchen is the biggest and brightest room in the house, and we wouldn't have it any other way. And the present trend is to have color—splashes of it—in the modern kitchen. It isn't any more the black-and-white or red-and-white era. Now you see coral, lime, beige and green, and according to one columnist "The 1953 color to follow will be cocoa, unusual but smart." We're for it! The housewife spends the greater part of her time in the kitchen, so why not dress it up?

There is nothing better than a nice refreshing salad. And you can do so much with all the fresh fruits and vegetables, and use all sorts of devices for unusual dishes. Of course, the good old standby is potato salad, which is always good with ham and cold meats; then cabbage slaw, lettuce and tomato, and many other easy-to-fix preparations.

Cottage cheese can be used with most anything; with cold cantaloupe rings, tomatoes, peaches and other fruits.

Then the Jello salads are nice summertime treats. We were over at the Wilfred Quickels last week for a bon voyage dinner for the Walter Kaltwassers and she served the most delicious gelatin salad. She is out of town, and we couldn't call for the recipe, but we hope to include it in this column next week.

Best solution we've heard for beating the heat: Take a vacation in Alaska.

Do you have your birth certificate? That little document is a pretty important item to keep on hand. You never know when you might need it. We finally wrote and got ours not too many weeks ago, just so we would have it.

Many schools require a birth certificate for enrollment, and adults have many occasions to use it. They need proof of age and citizenship for many jobs, for retirement, payment of pensions, social security and many other programs.

If you want your birth certificate, write the county clerk in the county where you were born. If none is registered, we believe the next step is to get notarized affidavits from relatives or close friends who will swear to the date, place and parent's names.

It is also important to have the name spelled correctly. We knew one girl who, after she reached school age, began spelling her name differently from the way it appeared on her certificate. As she grew older, she signed documents, driver's licenses and other records with her adopted signature. Upon her father's death, she was to receive some valuable property, but had to prove her identity because she did not spell her name as it appeared on her birth certificate. After much red tape, she was able to straighten everything out—but it took time and expense.

Utter Content Department: Visiting with a group of interesting friends, while eating home-made ice cream in an aura of comradeship. What more could one want?

Why we didn't become a poet: the below was a sophomore (high school) composition:

He slowly opened the bedroom door, And crept stealthily down the stairs, If he was caught this time, He'd have a load of cares, He heard a step behind him, And turned around with fears, After his efforts, his mother caught him, Now he'd have to wash his ears.

Last week, we HAD an old toothbrush which we used to clean combs. But this week, we have nothing with which to clean combs. Our husband has a red toothbrush, which is the exact color of the one we had. You can guess the rest.

We were quite industrious, gathered up all the combs in the house and scrubbed each one diligently. We then placed them on a paper in the bathroom to dry, along with the cleaning brush.

Arising early, and with his senses numbed by the sandman, our husband begins his morning ritual of shaving, brushing his teeth and all. He notes his toothbrush neatly laid out with his comb, or so he thought, and proceeds to smear the brush with paste and begin cleaning his toothies. It took about two swabs for him to begin yelling at us, wanting to know what in heck we've been using his toothbrush for? He was feeling quite abused, and even more so, when he found his brush in the usual place in the medicine cabinet.

But we further bemoan, we still have no brush with which to clean combs.

Once again, mothers are seeing their "babies" go out into the world alone, as they enter the first grades all over the country. We won't have that experience for a few years, but it must be a unique realization when your child clutches his tablet and begins one of his most memorable adventures, the first grade.

And to the teachers should go a bouquet. Mrs. Perry Crawley was telling us about her visit to the first grade room in Texico, Monday. Some of the children were quite tearful when mothers departed, she said. But Mrs. Faville, the teacher, was calm and kind to each of the youngsters, realizing what this first day of school meant to them.

SOIL CONSERVATION TOUR AT MULESHOE 14

On Monday, Sept. 14, the Blackwater Soil Conservation District and the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce will co-sponsor and conduct a "Soil Conservation Tour". This event will mark the first of its kind to be held in Bailey County and will set a precedent to be followed annually. Jesse Osborn, president of the Muleshoe State Bank, will furnish the beef, the CC the trimmings, and the SCS district the program. Working with these groups and concentrating their efforts to make this tour the best on the high plains are J. K. Adams, county agent; Travis Winters, PMA manager, and Charles Thomas, local agriculture teacher at Muleshoe High School.

Principal speaker for this event will be Paul H. Walser, State Conservationist, Temple. Others participating in the program will be Cotton John Smith of Amarillo and Jack Creel, Lubbock, as master of ceremonies. Ray Carter, president of the Conservation District, Berle Black, secretary, and Ben Chapman, of the SCS office, are planning the program that will begin with a tour at 9 a. m. and be climaxed with the barbecue and program in the afternoon at the farm of Vern Townes, approximately 8 miles west of Muleshoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Quickel returned the first of the week from a vacation trip to Colorado.

Feed, Cotton Press Toward Maturity; Insects Increase

Parmer County's impending mammoth crops of cotton and grain sorghums are pressing toward maturity this week following the leveling off of shower activity and a return to the warm days characteristic of High Plains summer months.

Barring abuse from the weather, an unexpected increase in the insect population, or a freak freeze, the two crops should be some of the best on record, agriculture men believe.

County Agent Joe Jones sounded a warning this week that there has been a large increase in lice infestation on the grain crop, but what the effect of this situation will be problematical.

For one thing, the lady-bug population usually disposes of the "lice" or aphids, the agent points out, although just how soon they are able to gain the upper hand is the critical question.

Many Parmer County fields are being readied for next year's wheat sowings, which will probably begin in earnest in a few weeks.

300 Students Go Back to School

Approximately 300 students bade vacation goodbye and were issued books for another term of school work at Texico schools Monday morning, says Agrie Jones, superintendent. Less than 100 enrolled in high school; about 200 in the grades.

Although number of pupils in the high school is a little lower than last year, overall total is about the same. A complete faculty was on hand to begin duties, most of them holdovers from last year. New teachers were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Danforth, music and English; and Cecil Dykes, agriculture.

Six new buses are available to country students, with an extra on hand. "The new school term is off to a good start," Jones says.

Emergency Feed Cars Continue To Roll in

Several additional cars of emergency government-surplus feed have been distributed during the past week by the county PMA, announces Joe Camp, secretary.

Large Number Petty Thefts Cleared Up In Parmer County

Following the arrest of two young Parmer County men last week, a large number of minor burglaries have been cleared up, reports Sheriff Chas. Lovelace.

Joe Riley Jr., 17, and Joe A. Walters, 18, both of the Hub community, pled guilty to a charge of burglarizing the Harry Hamilton place recently, taking a supply of tools.

They answered to the charge, which amounted to petty theft, and were fined $25 and costs of court, plus 10 days each in jail.

Talks with the two young men have subsequently solved a large number of other minor burglaries, Sheriff Lovelace said. Scores of small items had been accumulated by the youths, who admitted they visited farms, irrigation wells, and downtown areas for their contraband.

Another youth, Frank Campbell, 18, of Castro County, is being held in the county jail awaiting the seating of the Grand Jury in October. He is being held under $1000 bond in connection with a felony theft.

Ginners, Growers Attend Cotton Classing School

Eleven Parmer County cotton farmers, one farmer from Clovis, two Parmer County gin men, and County Agent Joe Jones attended the cotton classing school in Lubbock last week.

Jones reports the trip to have been entertaining and educational. The group toured the Lubbock government classing office where 12-15% of the nation's cotton is classed each year. An average run for the office will be 30,000 bales per day, the cotton coming from 340 gins.

The system used to grade bales was explained to the area visitors, who were particularly interested in learning what will be called a "barkey" sample in the future.

The new grade, regarded as "unacceptable," will be given cotton containing bark stripped from the stalks of the plant as it is harvested. This type cotton was formerly referred to as containing simply "foreign matter," with no other designation.

Attending were Ovid Lawlis, Bovina, and Wright Williams, Friona, ginners; W. H. Long, Jimmy Clements, both of Bovina; W. P. Elliott, C. H. Weatherly and A. L. Glasscock, all of Friona; Henry Hasseloff Jr., Clarence Meeks, Gilbert Kaltwasser, and C. E. Christian, all of Farwell; Jack Porter, Clovis, and the county agent.

The two county ginners bought dinners for the group.

Local Polio Chapter Gives $1000 To Help Epidemic Areas

Mike Hyre, state representative for northwest Texas for the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis, was here Wednesday to discuss the polio program, and was given $1000 from the Parmer County polio fund, to aid in epidemic areas.

According to Hyre and Loyde Brewer, polio drive chairman, Parmer County is ahead financially and can afford to assist less fortunate counties. Brewer informs the Tribune that this county was in the upper brackets of Texas last year, on donations to the March of dimes, giving nearly 50c per capita.

Any time a county has an emergency and becomes low on funds, extra money can be requested from New York, and through the help of chapters with only a few cases of polio, the epidemic centers are assisted.

After the $1000 is taken from the local polio fund, nearly $1500 remains for county use, Brewer states, which should be adequate. However, if several polio cases should occur before the summer is over, and the chapter needed money, they could apply for it from the center.

"We have been fortunate this year so far," says Brewer, "not having been asked to assist any new cases at all." He adds that the chapter still pays bills on some old cases, however. The money donated in this county, 50 percent of which remains here for local work, is used almost strictly for care of polio patients. There are no administrative costs, since work for the foundation is on a volunteer basis, and there are few expenses for supplies for campaigns.

March of Dimes fund drive is held in January throughout the nation, then 50 percent of the money derived from the drive is retained in the county for care of patients, and the remaining 50 percent goes to the National Foundation for research.

Actually, the state of Texas has used all the March of Dimes total for cases, and 28 grants totaling $500,307.10 from the national Foundation, Robert J. Smith, State March of Dimes chairman says. Two of these grants were to Baylor and University of Texas for virus research.

Of the grants, 17 were for this type research, four for treatment after-effects; one for education and six for medical care. Last year Texas March of Dimes netted over two million dollars, but because of polio epidemics, even more was spent in the state.

"The other states helped us, and it is only fair that Texas should help other states this year," Hyre emphasized that the difference between GG and a possible vaccine, is that gamma globulin at its best will only reduce crippling effects of polio and set up an immunity of five weeks. However, he adds researchers, working through grants from National foundation, have developed a vaccine. They don't know yet if it will immunize a person against polio, but trials will be conducted in different parts of the United States this fall in different localities. "If it proves successful, it will be the No. 1 step in the fight against polio," he states.

Solan Winegeart Funeral Friday

Funeral services for Solan James Winegeart, 30, were held Friday afternoon at the Methodist church. Rev. C. D. Dameron of Becton, who had received Winegeart into the church several years ago, preached the service, and was assisted by Rev. Miller H. Stroup, pastor of the local church, and Rev. Vernon Willard, pastor of Oklahoma Lane Methodist church.

Pallbearers were Merle Winegeart, Gene Winegeart, Mitchell Elmer Winegeart, J. T. Drake, Winfred Glenn and Travis Winegeart, first cousins of the deceased. Flower girls were Fern George, Mary Ann Winegeart, Patsy Winegeart and Jo Winegeart.

Steed Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements and interment was in Texico cemetery.

Winegeart was killed instantly last week, when the water tank on which he was standing blew up and threw him to the ground, 150-200 feet from the tank, in a Pampa oilfield. Winegeart had climbed up on top of the 500-barrel tank to read the gauge and see how much water was in it. He was alone, for the rest of the drilling crew were on the rig floor.

Evidently, he struck a match to read the gauge—then came the explosion. The tank had been used previously to hold oil. Direct cause of death was attributed to the igniting of fumes from the oil scum which lay at the water's surface, blowing off the top of the tank.

Winegeart was born March 14, 1923 near Quail and attended school there. He was married in 1945 to the former Wilma Peppers, White Deer. He had lived in Texico while running a filling station for his father.

Survivors include his wife, and four children of Pampa; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Winegeart, Texico; an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Winegeart, near Pampa; three sisters, Mrs. Ina Roberts, Texico; Mrs. Oleta Holland, Grady, N. M.; and Mrs. Juanita Foreman Jr., El Paso; four brothers, O. L. Winegeart, Clovis; Herman, Shallowater; P. E., Farwell; and B. J., Texico; also a grandmother, Rowena Cockrell, Wellington.

Local People Go To El Paso Funeral

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doshier and daughter, Shirley; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy McGuire attended the funeral Monday of their uncle, W. H. Blackwell of El Paso, who was killed in a car wreck Friday night in Old Mexico.

He and three other men were enroute to points in Mexico for a fishing trip. One of the other men was also killed. The deceased is survived by his wife and three daughters.

The local school has a high rating, in accordance to the number of students eating in the lunchroom, "and we wish to keep this rating," says Mrs. Brown. She urges parents to permit children to take advantage of the facilities at school. All meals are balanced, type A, and the dieticians spend much time keeping the meals on balanced, attractive courses. "Of course, if the students don't eat everything, we can't guarantee the diet will be balanced," Mrs. Brown adds.

ity 22 years, but this is the first time we remember ever having seen any grass there on that playground area. Sure makes us feel proud.

Several people have made remarks to us regarding a recent editorial on social security. As is not customarily true, all of the comments were favorable with our point of view.

One man in particular, C. R. Elliott of Bovina, was pretty unrestrained in speaking his mind on the matter. He (and we back him 100 per cent) thinks this government "retirement insurance" is a bunch of hogwash.

"Now, it wouldn't be so bad if the thing was optional," said that businessman, as he made what we believe to be a very sensible point.

"If the government would say to me, 'now, here is a deal we call Social Security. We believe it will be a good thing for you, but you can take it or leave it.'"

"Then," says C. R., "if I didn't already have insurance which will take care of my needs later, I might sign up. Otherwise, as my case is now, I'd pass it up."

But no. Our benevolent and all-wise government nicks us for about one hundred bucks a year, whether we like it or not.

If you are not an employer, readers, you simply cannot have an appreciation for the attitude that small businessmen have for the federal government.

They subsidize big business and agriculture with no consideration for their own welfare by the government. They are forced to do bookkeeping for Uncle Sam, collecting taxes from their employees, and being held accountable for any discrepancies that might arise in the mountain of red tape thereby involved.

They have to take out a fixed amount from their employees' wages called "withholding tax." That's income tax on a pay-as-you-go basis.

They collect for their Rich Uncle another sum, called "Federal Insurance Contributions Act tax." That's social security. To boot, they have to dig down for funds to match what goes to the federal treasury.

If they have as many as eight employees, they kick out another wad for "unemployment compensation tax."

All these, mind you, are in addition to their own personal and business taxes which they pay to the federal, state, county, and municipal governments, and for the support of the community's schools.

A pox on taxes! It takes a certified public accountant to keep a businessman's records straight enough to keep from having to go to the pen for evasion.

And if we don't stop stop crying for more federal or state or city help to do this, or that, or the other for us, things are going to get worse.

Danger ahead: The small businessman simply cannot stand much more to contend with. When he loses 50 per cent of his revenue to taxes, in addition to about 10 per cent of his time keeping the record straight, he's had about all a government could ever expect of him!

School Opening Near for Friona

Pupils who will enroll at the Friona Schools this year have only a short bit of vacation period remaining, with registration for 1954 seniors set for Wednesday, Sept. 2. Registration will be staggered, school officials added. The seniors get the first call; on Thursday, the 3rd, the juniors are to be enrolled; and on Friday, the 4th, school buses will make their first runs of the year and all other students of the school will be registered. Eighth graders this year will have their classes in the grade school building, as enrollment in high school climbed. Dillie Kelley, principal, reported. There will be three sections of the first grade, and two units each for all other grade school classes, he explained, enabling faculty members to give personal attention to the pupils. Enrollment this year is expected to exceed the 700 mark, school officials said, and final last-minute polishings of all buildings is underway at the present.

Asked about a school for colored children, Kelley said, "We have had no requests for schooling for the colored children in the area, and until we do have them seeking schooling, will make no plans."

Texas state laws require "equal schooling advantages" for such youngsters, he added.

Extra cafeteria equipment is expected to be required, with larger enrollment in grade school and an expected hike of around 100 more students using the school lunchroom for the noon meal, Kelley said.

SCS men admitted that the cost might prove prohibitive in some cases, since it runs "around $1.40 per foot," but pointed out that in the long view, installation of such pipe would pay off for the farmer.

Barbecue Supper Held For Local Firemen

Members of the Friona Fire Department and their wives gathered for a quarterly social and barbecue the past Thursday evening, in the Legion Hall.

Jack Knox, Lee Campbell, and Ralph Sherley were in charge of arranging the feed and program, which featured colored movies of the fireboys' training school held recently at Texas A. & M. The films were taken at College Station by Dillie Kelley, of the department.

Approximately 40 persons attended the affair, Knox reported.

Lions Club to Meet Thursday Evening

Regular meeting of the Friona Lions Club will be held at the Woman's Club House tonight (Thursday), according to an announcement by Wesley Foster, program chairman.

A special musical program will be given by Stanley Lockhart, minister of the Sixth Street Church of Christ, and all members are especially urged to be present at this time.

On Tuesday evening of next week, the local Club will be responsible for the program to be presented to the Texico-Farwell Lions Club, Foster added. The program to be given will be musical, and was not complete on Monday of this week.

Local Minister Will Move to Levelland

Stanley Lockhart has tendered his resignation as minister of the Sixth Street Church of Christ in Friona, and the family is currently making plans to move to Levelland, where he will assume the duties as pastor of the Austin Street Church of Christ.

The popular minister has served the local congregation for three years. Plans by the family this week were to move "around the first of September."

Field Men Visit Here Recently

Two field men from the Soil Conservation Service were in Friona recently visiting the local office, checking on the agronomic program in general, and visiting one farm in the area.

Steve Bavousett, supervisor, said that Eugene Buie, of Ft. Worth, and Homer Taff, of Lubbock, visited the Elmer Kennedy farm to inspect terrace lines. Buie is zone engineering specialist for the SCS; Taff is area conservationist.

Football Practice To Start September 1st

Gridiron practice for prospective members of the Friona Chief squad will begin Tuesday, Sept. 1, Coach Raymond Cooke said today, although the 1953-54 school session actually will not get underway until the following week.

Cards were mailed out to some 45 boys last week, urging them to take part in the popular sport, and indications are that around 30 will be on hand for the first practice sessions and remain to take shape into a team.

Although some eight "starters" graduated at the local school last year, it appears likely that the Chiefs will field a fairly strong squad this year. Most of the boys who are expected to appear for workouts have had training either with the junior or senior squads of the school.

Football season actually opens here Sept. 11, when the Vega players will face the Chiefs in a non-conference game.

Spud Harvesting Is Near Finale Here

End of harvesting the 1953 potato crop is expected within the next two weeks, with activities at the local potato shed to conclude within that period, according to Herman Neff, owner of the project.

Work was at a standstill Monday because of a broken conveyor belt, but Neff indicated that some 200 acres still remained to be harvested in the area and the shed is not going to shut down until final diggings are in.

However, all of those 200 acres may not be harvested. Delays in digging occasioned by showers, "hold-offs" caused by market prices, have contributed to leave a few of the spuds in the ground until they may not be harvested, observers reported.

Asked what the run thus far during the season had been, Neff replied that he hadn't made a check, adding with a wry grin that the drop in market prices didn't encourage him to "find out how much we've lost."

Labor Buildings Are Started in Friona

Sixteen units to house Spanish-American laborers and their families were begun by Bert Chitwood on the southeast edge of Friona, last Tuesday; with the contract for construction going to H. H. Weis.

The units will be on a graduated level on the slopes above now-tame Frio Draw, with two units to each level, workmen said. Size of each single room will be around 15x20, to serve as both eating and living quarters for migratory workers. The buildings will be frame, with concrete floors, it was revealed.

With irrigation continuing to spread over this area, need for labor to work potatoes, cotton and other crops has increased, resulting in the establishment of the labor camp for the city.

NEWS FROM THE FARM BUREAU

By RAYMOND EULER

Aubrey Ellison earned a lot of appreciation for his thorough and fine job on the first Parmer County Farm Bureau queen contest.

His appreciation goes, of course, to Flossie Anderson and Mrs. Ellison who did a lot of the work a man can't do. Finally, and very definitely, of course, appreciation for the fine, prompt cooperation of the candidates and their sponsors is in order.

If we heard it right, all 16 girls appearing were pretty and attractive, and we agree. Miss Peggy Hardage of Farwell, sponsored by John S. Williams, ran a very close and comely second.

Now it's up to Farm Bureau to get Queen Deniese Magness (sponsored by Gib's Cleaners) attired for appearance in the district runoff in Lubbock, Sept. 3.

Of course, it is understood that she is Parmer County Farm Bureau's queen now.

The first Monday night in September, the seventh, at 8 o'clock should be an important night for farmers of Parmer County. Your resolutions committee hopes you will be there with ideas ready to present for them to make into resolutions for the coming year's farm program. Watch for an ad on this meeting next week.

We wonder how many Parmer County farmers listen to KPAN in Hereford. Every Saturday morning at seven, Deaf Smith County Farm Bureau presents a program telling people more about Farm Bureau.

Hereford Grain Company sponsors the fifteen-minute program. We had the pleasure of appearing on that program last Saturday with Mr. Vaughn, one of their directors, in the absence of Maurice Howell, service agent, who usually lines up the program. How about letting us know if you are one of their listeners?

Indications point toward another good County Fair this year. A poultry division is being added and we even have a pen of chinchillas promised for exhibit. Friona Chamber of Commerce is again preparing a barbecue which usually draws the greatest number from over the county.

The fair papers will be prepared this weekend if possible. Have you made your contribution?

CONSIDER THIS: In the way of righteousness is life; and in the pathway thereof there is no death. Proverbs 12:28.

Scout Day Camp Is Big Affair

The Friona and Bovina Girl Scouts and Brownies held a day camp in Friona at the Methodist annex Aug. 19-21.

There were 19 leaders helping with the camp, and about 85 Girl Scouts and Brownies. All the Scouts brought a nose-bag sack lunch the first day.

Brownie Troop VIII leaders were Mrs. Lucille Latta and Mrs. Edith Johnson, Friona. The first day, they set their camp in order and made drinking cups. Second day, the Brownies took a hike and gathered leaves for a book. Third day, they made a splatter paint-book out of their leaves.

Ten Brownies were in this troop. Brownie Troop VII organized and also made drinking cups out of their cans the first day. For the second day, they hiked and gathered twigs to make twig people. They then made twig people, fixed them with gum drops, and made old McDonald's farm.

Leaders were Mrs. Johnnie Walters and Mrs. Omma Lee Williams, Friona. There were eight Brownies present.

Girl Scout Troop VI organized, made cups to drink from, and a clothes line to hang their nose-bag lunches on.

Second day, they went on a hike and gathered twigs to make costumed twig-people. The third day, they made bracelets out of fishing cord. Leaders were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Black, Friona; Mrs. Mary Richards of Bovina. There were 11 girls present.

Troop IV made cups and a clothes line to hang their nose-bag lunches onto. Second day, they made belts and the third day (Friday), the girls cooked supper for all the Girl Scouts and Brownies. These leaders were Mr. and Mrs. Helen Potts, Mrs. Nadine O'Brian, Friona; Mrs. Edna Woefel, and Mrs. Wanda Huggins, Bovina.

There were 13 girls present in this troop.

Troop IV made drinking cups and made cup trees. The second day the Girl Scouts learned to tie knots and make belts. Third day,

PARMER COUNTY FARMERS CHOOSE THE BEST EQUIPMENT

Here, Mr. Irrigation Farmer, is the hottest thing on the market in the way of low-cost power for your irrigation well. Raymond Fleming of Parmer County Pump Company is shown standing behind the famous Oldsmobile Rocket engine ready to be installed on another High Plains irrigation well.

These Rocket engines, with their valve-overhead V-8 design, deliver 160 h.p., and a high torque rating along with it, which means that they can lift more water, horse for horse, than anything you can buy.

Come in and inquire about the low-cost Rocket engine for your own irrigation well. This power plant can do for you what it has done for other farmers all over the Plains.

There were 12 Scouts present. The Girl Scouts and Brownies held flag ceremonies each day. The camp was from 4 until 7 p. m. each evening.

On Saturday, August 22, the leaders had a gypsy party from 4 until 6 p.m. Each one came dressed like a gypsy. They held flag ceremony and sang.

They were led by Mrs. Joyce Miller. Mrs. Frank Spring told the gypsy story and Mrs. Pearl McLean was the fortune teller for the Scouts and Brownies.

The Brownies gave a play for the Scouts and their leaders. They drew numbers and Willepe Baxter drew the lucky number. She was crowned Brownie queen by Iva Ben Parr.

They were served at the Dairy King at the close of their gypsy play. They all reported they had a wonderful time.

He is now a student at Done Creek, Neb. He spent five years at Monk Buddhist Temple in Japan, served in the Japanese navy in WW II.

Those attending the conference were Rev. Lewis J. Knight, pastor; Mrs. Glen Reeve, Sue and Pat Cranfill, Phyllis Treider, Glen and Don Reeve.

Wedding Plans Revealed at Tea

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Tila Rue Day to Dave C. Hester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Hester of Lawton, Okla., was revealed at a tea Friday evening, August 21, at 6 o'clock, at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett R. Day Sr.

The bride-elect's chosen colors of orchid and yellow were carried out. The table was covered with a lace cloth. Centerpiece was orchid and yellow chrysanthemums with a cupid on each side, and ornamented with an orchid heart.

Tiny yellow rose buds in each cupid's hand were accented by a spray of rose buds at the base. On each heart were the letters, "Dave and Tila, October 16, 1953."

Elda Hart poured tea, while Gladys Edna Baxter registered the guests.

Those present besides the honoree and her mother, Mrs. E. R. Day, were Mesdames Dan Lacey, Grace Hart, Wallace Rogers, Ralph Taylor, Dave Moseley, Minnie Hall, Lloyd Rector, Carol Day, Casey Jones, Leonard Haws, Oscar Baxter, Misses Wanda and Elda Hart, Margie Hough, Gladys Edna Baxter, and Geraldine Day.

The Kelleys returned here Sunday night, while the Caffey family arrived home on Monday night.

The affair, staged annually by Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, and Christian churches, drew an estimated 6000 attendance for its 64th year, Kelley said. Four preaching services are held daily during the week-long camp, with local visitors reporting that outstanding speakers appeared on all programs.
