Poop fiction?

From Teresa Mesman:

The following is a true story although if I hadn't seen it with my own eyes, I probably would not even believe it.

Several days ago, I was driving by a small feedlot that sits directly next to the highway. I pass by this feedlot fairly often and I always look at the cattle roaming around the pens. On this particular day, I noticed a person in one of the smaller cow lots doing something that struck me as absolutely incredible.

This man was on his knees, closely kneeling to a cow patty. Not only was he very close to the cow patty, he was videotaping it.

My curiosity got the best of me and I had to stop. I watched from the side of the road for a few minutes. The man was holding the video camera very still, but I could tell he was zooming in on the pile of manure. What was he doing this for? What could be so incredibly interesting about this cow bi-product?

He even got a pen or some kind of stick out of his shirt pocket and poked the patty a few times. I zipped up to the house that sits adjacent the cow lot. I just had to ask what was going on.

The resident just laughed and explained that the man was an independent filmmaker from up North who was preparing a documentary on the benefits of cow manure to the environment and the organisms and creatures that live in and around the bi-product.

I stood there stunned for a moment, then all I could do was giggle, say "Really, you're not kidding?" and try to walk back to my car with some professional composure. I didn't dare let on to the resident that I was a newspaper reporter.

Can you just imagine the description that this documentary would carry if it was included in the Public Broadcasting Television line-up of "must see" documentaries? What would the title be? "Poop Fiction"?

I fail to understand the entertainment value that a documentary of this sort would hold. I understand that there is a sector of society, i.e. "city slickers" that really don't know about the in's and out's of the cattle business... no pun intended!

I guess somewhere out in the world, there is a group of scientists and people striving for knowledge that truly want to know what dwells in manure.

I grew up in the city, but I knew about beef cattle and was around them quite a bit. And now, as a resident on a dairy farm, cow manure is a part of life. But I don't think that I have ever, intentionally, wanted to get that close to a fresh cow patty to learn anything about it!

I have heard the saying that the smell of cow manure means that money is being made. And, if that filmmaker thinks that this particular documentary is going to make him a lot of money...especially in this area, then I think that the only word to describe this film would be a ...PLOP!

Greenthaner children work on international space station

By Teresa Mesman

Pastor E.R. and Arlene Greenthaner of Lariat always knew that their three children, David, Mark and Elizabeth would grow up to be strong of character and the type to take on new challenges. They always felt that their kids had the skills necessary to "make it" in the future.

And now, their son David Greenthaner is about to help take the entire world "into the future." David and his wife, Gayle are both engineers for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, NASA, in Houston and they are now moving to Moscow, Russia to work with the European Space Agency program on the International Space Station.

David will serve as the lead computer engineer for the Russian command and data handling segment of the Space Station. Prior to this new assignment, he had been the program manager for the computers in the cockpit of the space shuttle.

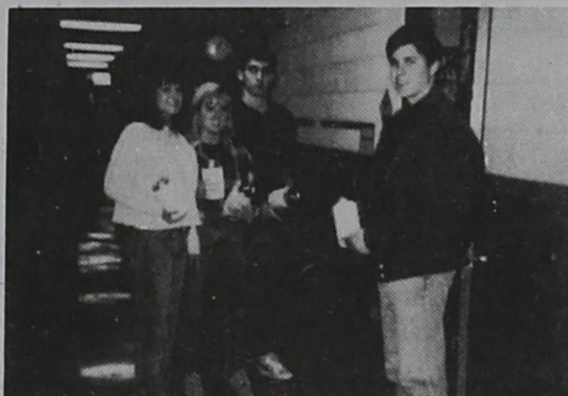

He was then put on a team from NASA that was sent to Russia to evaluate the computers needed in the Russian segment of the station. David speaks fluent Russian and German, and because of this skill and his computer expertise, he was asked to lead the NASA team in their cooperative effort in Russia.

Gayle will also be part of the NASA engineering that will perform verification activities and coordinate joint testing for the U.S. and Russian equipment on the Space Station.

NASA is the overall manager of the Space Station program and the Russians will be providing the computers that are the navigation and systems control of the station. These computers will actually control the attitude and the altitude of the entire station while.

David and Gayle will be actually working for the Energia Space Corporation and the Khrunichev Space Corporation. These two companies are under contract with the European

Collection under way for DeLeon family

The household collection drive that has been going on at the Lazbuddie Schools for the Tommy DeLeon family has been very successful at gaining the family some necessary pieces of furniture and appliances. The family has also received great amounts of clothing.

The DeLeon home was destroyed by fire on Jan. 15. The family has been living with relatives in Bovina since then. The family lost everything in the fire and is in need of clothes, furniture, household goods, personal grooming items, etc.

For more information, contact Carolyn Scott or Paulette Foster at Lazbuddie Schools, (806) 965-2156 or 965-2157.

The houseware shower that was held for the family at St. Ann's Catholic Church in Bovina on Jan. 21 was well donated to by church and community members.

When the DeLeon family's home was destroyed by fire, the two boys' Christmas bikes were burned as well. National Honor Society decided to conduct a coin drive to replace the bicycles.

Fry & Cox, Muleshoe, is assisting by selling the group replacement bikes at a significant discount. Anyone interested in assisting with a donation for the bicycles may call Lazbuddie Schools at 965-2156 or 965-2157.

***

A benefit luncheon to help the DeLeon family will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. on "Super Bowl" Sunday at the Lazbuddie School cafeteria.

The menu will include spaghetti with homemade desserts. The cost is a donation. All proceeds go to the family.

Community persons and area businesses are donating food and sponsoring the event.

Farwell Convalescent Center Child Care

by Debbie Parmer

Hope everyone is having a great January. The month is moving along too fast. Before you know it, it will be Valentine's Day.

Jo Ann and I took several residents out to eat on the 11th. We went to the Golden Corral in Clovis. All of us enjoyed it. Residents really enjoyed the variety of foods at the salad bar. We enjoyed it so much, we plan to go out to eat once monthly.

Our resident monthly birthday party will be this Friday, the 26th at 3:00. We look forward to good music, good refreshments and fellowship with residents and families. Families are invited to attend. Happy Birthday to: Dorothy Eason, Vashti Fowler and Hazel Lauhoff.

The new year brought new officers among the auxiliary. The new auxiliary president is Louise Brigham, vice president is Mary Mesman, Robbie Williams is secretary, Nan Preston is treasurer. The calling committee includes Thelma Venable and Liz Kaltwasser. We congratulate these ladies and know they will do a great job. We look forward to the new year.

At this time, we are in great need of a volunteer to cut the men's hair this month. If you are trained to cut hair and want to volunteer your services this month, we can use your help. Call and ask for Debbie, 481-9027.

We have 2 new residents. Flossie Mille and Lena Ashton. We welcome these two ladies and look forward to getting to know them.

Revised Texico Community Center plans approved

The Texico City Council on Tuesday agreed on revised plans for the proposed Community Center building. Architect Terry Rucker presented revised estimates that lower the cost of the structure. When plans first went out for bid last fall, bids were too high to accept. State grants are paying for the project and they didn't equal the low bid. Rucker's new plans cut costs by $33,500, plus offers several alternates totalling another $18,100. These totals are estimates. This means some work inside the structure will be put off until more funds are available, such as millwork in the main kitchen, splash blocks, a game room and meeting room, mechanical items, etc. Also, the building height was changed to 12 feet. Among the alternates -- which means they can be accepted if funds are available -- one calls to shorten the structure by 10 feet. Bids will be taken on Feb. 22. In other business, the council: -- The hearing on seeking Community Development Block Grant funds was not held at 6 p.m. because of lack of quorum.

-- Called an executive session to discuss the Santa Fe water line easement.
-- Agreed to ask city engineer Bob Lydick to propose street work needed as part of the annual street improvement work.
-- Agreed to allow the fire department to buy a Jaws of Life hydraulic rescue unit. The city will use its funds to purchase it, and the fire department will reimburse the city at $2,500 a year. The cost is estimated at over $12,000.
-- Discussed the swimming pool and building. Councilman Oran Jay Autrey said the pool is in pretty good shape but the building needs repairs. It was estimated that complete building repairs would be about $4,000. But the council was hesitant to spend that money since councilman Ronnie Warmuth said the building doesn't have much life left in it. He suggested state grant money be sought for a new building. Councilman Rick Queener said kids really enjoy using the pool. Queener was appointed to look into the situation and find folks to help him. Meanwhile, city employees will patch the building roof.
-- Agreed to advertise for a swimming pool manager this summer (see ad elsewhere in today's Tribune).
-- Agreed to improve the drainage at the Opal/Hereford intersection.
-- Plans to put a drop box in the front door. Mayor Butch Tharp said 4 residents had requested it.
-- Heard Tharp report on the "extended remediation review" from state and federal officials regarding the contamination of KKR Park due to carbon tet, a carcinogen, found there a few years back. Tharp said the report says that the source of the contamination was not found, and that it won't be sought any more. The government is done with the problem. The levels of carbon tet still show contamination but are going down, said Tharp. The air stripper is being used at the KKR well so levels are within acceptable levels for drinking water for the city's residents, he added.

Marshal's Report

Here is the weekly report from Texico Marshal Gil Holguin: On Jan. 20, Jerry Lovelace, 44, Clovis, was charged with DWI aggravated, speeding and failure to maintain lane. Last weekend, deputy Tim Kelly assisted Curry County police when an F-116 crashed northwest of Clovis. Kelly was the police officer who found the pilot, who had ejected. Holguin stressed to area residents that the area DWI task force, which Texico is a member of, will soon begin a saturation program. Previously, the DWI task force had "blitzes" at signs in the area, where all drivers were stopped and asked for registration and whether they had been drinking. Now signs will be set up notifying motorists that a saturation program was in force. It means that all police participants will work together in one area, and strictly target drivers who are legally drunk. For example, they may put the signs up in an area along the Clovis highway and work that area on any night of the week. Holguin again stressed that drinking and driving don't mix.

Mini-cookbook being prepared

Members of ESA met Nov. 27 in the home of Joyce Williams, with Sherry Christian as co-hostess. Each member brought a favorite dish and the recipe for it. Robin Howard will make the recipes into a "mini-cookbook" for members. President Robin Howard opened the meeting with the Opening Ritual and Pam Carpenter read the minutes. Susan Williams gave the treasurer's report. Committee reports included: report on Christmas on Parade earring sale. Roberta Howard volunteered to take some earrings to the Cannon Air Force Base craft show. Earrings were also donated at Girls Town and Girls Ranch. Pam Monk reported on the District meeting. Pam then read the biography on Rosa Roberts that she wrote and shared at District in honor of Rosa for serving as sponsor and educational director of ESA when it was begun in Farwell in 1951 and for being a faithful member for the last 44 years. The social committee reported that the annual Christmas party will be held Dec. 3 at the home of Tom and Terri Nichols. Hayley Christian reported that she and her Christmas in Community committee had plans in progress for providing Christmas for members of the community. Tracy Devault, pheasant hunt committee, reminded members to sign up for work shifts on the opening day of the pheasant season. The gun raffle will be held on Dec. 9. Members present were Joyce Williams, Sherry Christian, Robin Howard, Pam Carpenter, Rosa Roberts, Pam Monk, Susan Williams, Tracy Devault, Roberta Howard, Sabina Schilling, Sheryl Christian, Terri Nichols, Jana Barrett, Lillie Christian, Dot Christian, Denise Christian, Hayley Christian, Karen Stevenson and Margaret Aycock.

Rhonda Kirkland given grandmother's shower

Members of Alpha Rho Lambda chapter of Beta Sigma Phi honored Rhonda Kirkland with a grandmother's shower for her twin grandsons Daniel and Dillon. She received many nice gifts to use when the boys visit.

The shower followed the chapter's regular meeting Jan. 11. It was held at the home of Anne Norton. During the meeting, members discussed plans for the upcoming Sweetheart dance Feb. 17 at the Elks Lodge in Clovis. They also made plans for a white elephant sale at their next meeting to help raise money for the dance.

After the meeting, members and guests enjoyed the snacks prepared by hostess Anne Norton. They included chicken salad sandwiches, New York cheesecake with cherries and blueberries, turtle cake, chips and dip. Enjoying the food and fellowship were:

Peggy Goettsch, Anne Norton, Leigh Ann Woods, Rhonda Kirkland, Tori Meeks, Michele Kirkland, Kristen Kasel, Lynne Mahaney, Cynthia Thigpen, Colleen Stover, Joyce Ketcherside, Debbie Phillips, Judy Pomper and guests Daniel and Dillon Kirkland, Holly Lesley, Missy Jesko and Andi Kirkland.

Space Agency, (ESA), to provide the Russian Segments of the Space Station.

The ESA is made up of most of the European countries. The nations of Holland, Germany, Belgium, France and Italy are currently trading off with the Russians to build the ESA segments of the Space Station. These countries are building the computers for the Russians, while the Russians are building the docking rings for the station. This is why David's language skills are so vital to this assignment. He will be making sure that all of the computers on the Space Station can communicate with each other.

The Greenethaners are excited about the move and the project that they will be working on. The only negative to the move, they feel, is having to leave their daughter Kristi, age 17, behind in Houston. She is a senior in High School and wants to complete her schooling.

Their son, Benjamin, age 13, is looking forward to moving to Moscow and attending school at the Anglo-American School. This is a Canadian, British and American Embassy supported school. For his high school classes, he'll attend classes held on the American Embassy compound in Moscow. He is also looking forward to learning how to play ice hockey.

The cooperative effort between the two space agencies is a very big step for the two nations that were, at one time, in a cold war with each other.

"The Russians are still getting over the secretive aspect of their space program," David said. "When I first went to Moscow to evaluate their computers, the Russian engineers were very cold and short with me, but once they saw and understood who and what I was and what benefit I was going to be to their project, they at once became very friendly. The Russian people are typically very warm, caring and incredibly friendly people."

David and Gayle are quite honored to be part of the Space Station program and look to this assignment as the chance of a lifetime. David stressed that the Russian's do not need any help in advancing their technologies.

"The main things that we (NASA) will be dealing with are the language, time and technological differences in our systems.

The family will be moving to Moscow in February.
