INDIAN CRIM AND FRIENDS -- J. W. "Indian" Crim poses with some of his grandchildren and neighbor children after he made his annual weather prediction at sunrise on Monday, March 22. Crim says the coming year should be a fairly good crop year with a little more moisture than last, but with no significant relief from the drought. With Crim in front of the tepee-shaped fire are left to right, Johnny McDonald, Greg Crim, Kirk Crim, Vickie Crim, Cindy Crim, Lesly Curtis and Rod Crim. The boy in the background at right is unidentified.

Crim Predicts 'Generally Fair Year'

"A generally fair year" was the way J. W. "Indian" Crim read the smoke signals of the ceremonial fire at dawn on Monday morning, March 22, and predicted a crop year "not quite as dry as last." In his annual weather prediction.

The wind was generally out of the north at the time the reading was taken with some slight variation from the northwest. According to the old Indian legends, wind from the north or northeast, carrying the smoke from a tepee-shaped fire either to the south or southwest, the crop year will be average or above; however a poor crop year is indicated if the wind is from the west, south or southwest.

Monday's reading indicated that although there will likely be more moisture than last year, there will be no significant relief from the drought. Crim also read the signals to say there would be less violent weather in the coming season and less hail to contend with.

Last year, Crim forecast a bumper crop year and instructed area farmers to wrap up their irrigation motors as they would be getting a rest. However, the prediction did not pan out and although crops were considered good, the irrigation motors ran around the clock as the area experienced one of its driest years on record. Crim commented this year that the prediction for last year was as far off as he has ever been and that he could find no plausible reason for the inaccuracy since all the ingredients were there for the "bumper crop" prediction.

Some 25 persons were on hand at the event this year which is a much looked-forward-to occasion for the Crim grandchildren.

Crim has made his annual forecast each March 22 since 1923 and has made the forecast public yearly since 1952. He says that he hopes when he has to give up the art of reading the smoke signals that one of his children or grandchildren will follow his tradition and continue to make the yearly forecast.

Farwell Boy Shows Champion Barrow

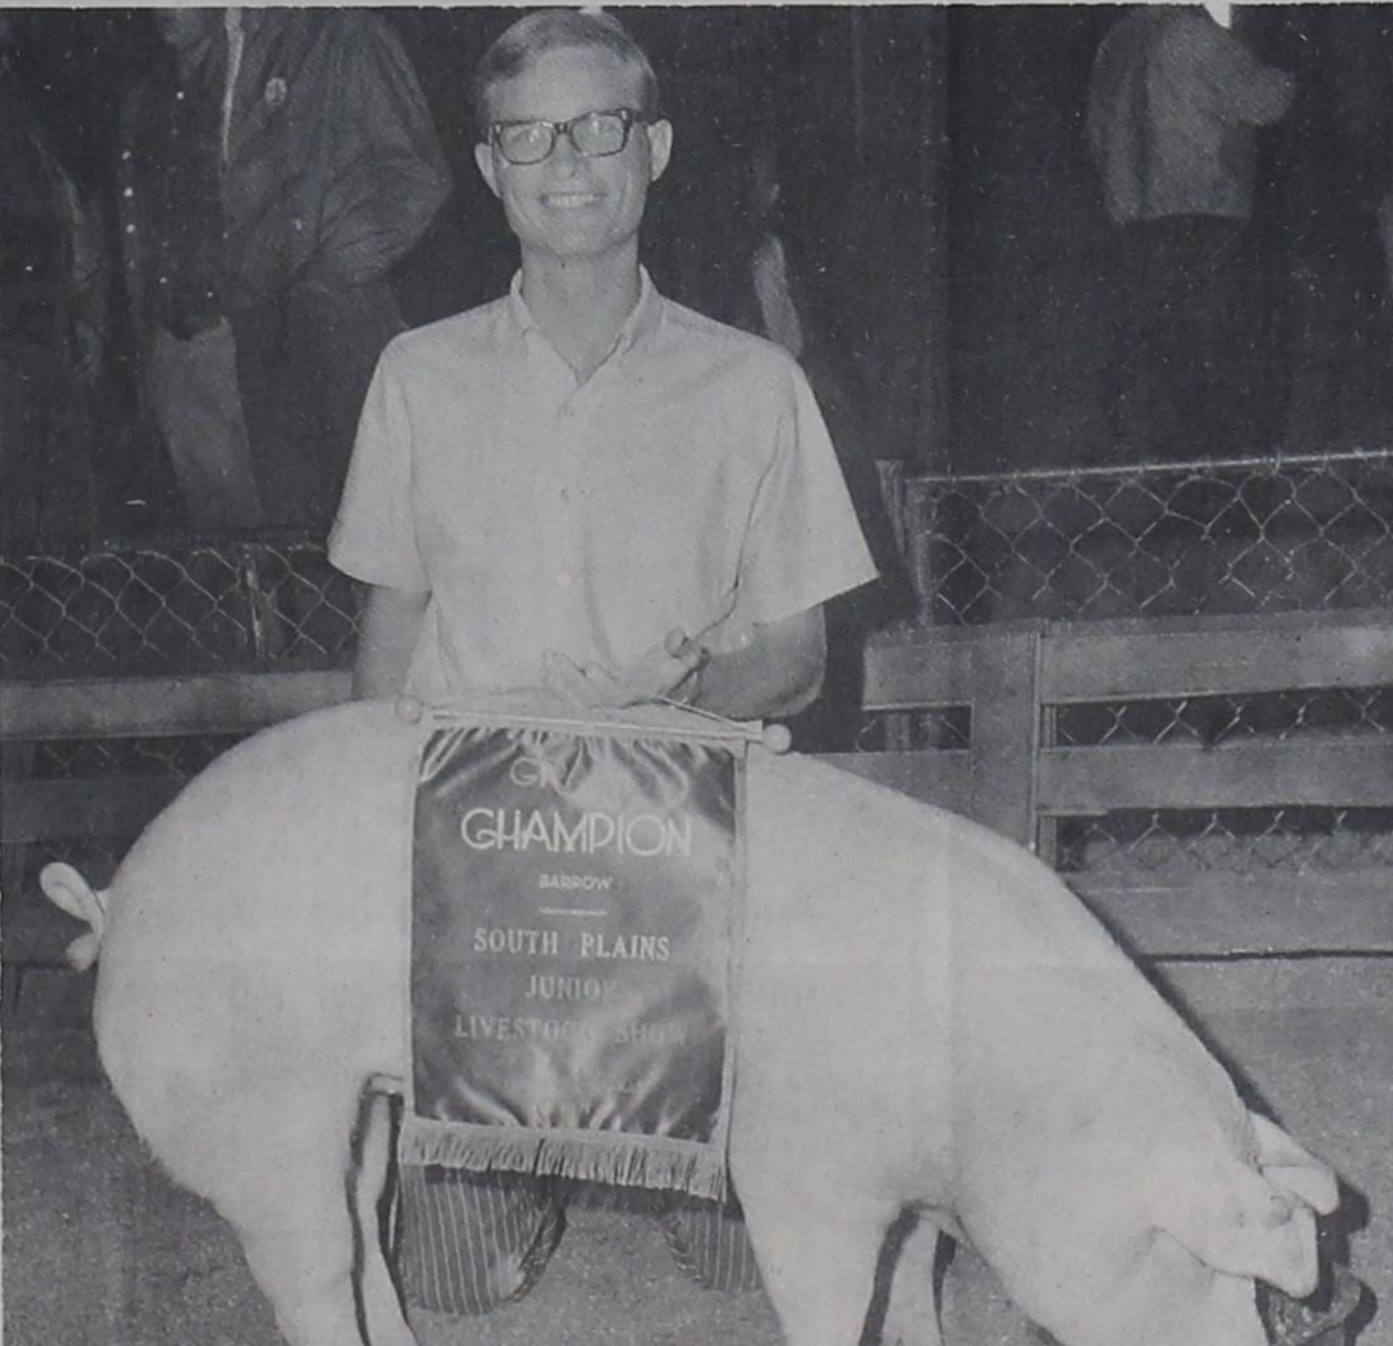

Billy Brigham, Farwell FFA member, showed his crossbred barrow to the Grand Champion honor over 1,086 entries in the 38th annual South Plains Junior Livestock Show in Lubbock last Friday. The champion, a Hampshire-Chester White cross, defeated the winners of six other divisions to gain the top honor at the show. Breeder of the barrow was Billy Brigham, and the show judge commented that he thought the animal was a "really fine type crossbred."

Billy's younger brother, Paul, showed another of Billy's pigs to the reserve championship spot in the crossbred division and also showed this animal for reserve champion of the show; however it did not win.

Other Farwell FFA members exhibiting animals in the barrow show were Darwin Green who had an eighth place Hampshire Lightweight and Craig Capps who showed a medium weight Duroc.

The Brigham brothers have a hog feeding partnership operation which includes some 10 animals. Billy has been feeding show pigs for about four years and this was his first major win. ETHICS as defined in my dictionary is the principle of right conduct, especially with reference to a specific profession. Now this seems clear enough to most folks, particularly when they are reduced to a written code as for example, in the legal or medical field. Most professional fields, and a professional field is usually one that eschews paid advertising but loves free blurbs, have a written code of conduct that is reasonably well adhered to by the members of that field of endeavor. There seems to be one rather privileged group that is having trouble putting down on paper just what would be ethical and what may not be ethical in their field. This elite group of quibblers is our omnipotent politicians.

Not only has our national legislature eschewed a hard and fast written set of ethical standards, but most state legislatures are a touch loose in being pinned down on what is their honor or dishonor as the "case" may be. Therefore it comes as no great surprise to find the honorable or maybe dishonorable, members of the Grand Sovereign State of Texas legislature engaged in loud, unbecoming, hairsplitting partisan brawling in regard to what should be their standard of ethics.

As of this date and to this deponent there clearly needs to be an open and public looksee into the hidden realm of fiscal conduct of many of our high-placed political leaders. Yet with great bombast and many confusing votes we find hardly anything is actually being done to condemn or to exonerate these officials. Certainly they and the citizens of this state need to be apprised of all the facts surrounding the many allegations and the equally many denials of "unethical" financial dealings between our elected officials and various financial institutions that have a monetary stake in the spending and/or placement of public funds.

The unfortunate aspect of the whole sorry mess of potage is the fact that those asking for a disclosure hearing are doing so from a completely political standpoint and those opposing are equally political in their stance. With such unmitigated balderdash being batted about in Austin, is there any wonder that the world politics has an unsavory connotation in the minds of the general public?

Incidentally, as we went to the post office Monday morning, we immediately noticed a letter from the speaker of the House of Representatives, Gus Mutscher. This whetted our curiosity as we thought maybe it might be a release or some information on the progress of the "ethics" squabble now in progress. Alas, it was a publicity picture for our local state representative, Bill Clayton. The picture (below) shows House Speaker Mutscher (left) presenting a gavel to Representative Clayton. The gavel is in recognition of Clayton's serving as Chairman and Vice-Chairman of two house standing committees during the 62nd legislative session.

We appreciate the important posts to which our Representative has been appointed and think that it is good for our district to be represented by such an outstanding man. Nonetheless, we also think that our Representative could be a mote more public in his inquiry as to who has been getting what among his legislative contemporaries. We would like to continue to think that Bill's appointments are due solely to his intelligence, hard work, integrity and other outstanding personal characteristics.

An excellent program is being planned which will assist 4-H'ers who have horse projects or who are interested in enrolling in the 4-H horse program. The program should also be of special interest to adult leaders who are assisting in the horse program or who are interested in providing leadership for the program in Parmer County.

Anyone interested in participating in the 4-H Quarter Horse Clinic should contact the County Extension Office.

There will be a sale of registered Chester White boars and gilts on Saturday, March 27. It will be conducted at the South Plains Fairgrounds in Lubbock. Placing of the sale animals will begin at 10 a.m. with the sale beginning at 1 p.m. This is an excellent opportunity to buy breeding stock to use in a purebred or commercial operation.

He was named all-district in football and basketball and was also on the All-South Plains basketball team. Gene also participates in track and baseball and is helping coach one of the Little Dribbler basketball teams.

Recipient of the highly coveted Chamber of Commerce loving cup was Gary Erwin, also a senior. Gary, the son of Mrs. Mildred Erwin, also received the clutch award presented by the football coaches for his "extra effort," along with the comment that he spent more time "from 7 p.m. to 12 p.m. seven days a week in the field house" than any other player. He was the leading rusher for the Steers the past two seasons and was named to the all-district basketball team this year. He is also a Little Dribblers coach.

Trumi Christian, guard on the Steerettes basketball team, and Jackie Gilliam, center for the Steer football squad, received the sportsmanship award. This award goes to a girl and boy athlete who are chosen by their teammates as having displayed the best sportsmanship during the season. Gilliam, who was named all-district honorable mention in football, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Gilliam. Trumi is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Christian.

Miniature plastic helmets of the various pro football teams were at each place setting along with the programs and nut cups.

Hospital Notes

Cecil Bowery of Farwell was reported much improved at mid-week after receiving treatment for injuries suffered last Friday at a well drilling site near Hereford. Bowery received two broken ribs and numerous cuts and bruises when a well casing he was guiding into a hole bumped him into the drilling rig. He is being treated at the hospital in Hereford where he was taken immediately following the mishap.

Mrs. Virginia Perry returned to her home in Farwell on Sunday after receiving treatment at the hospital in Friona since Friday. She hoped to be able to go to Dallas by the end of this week or early next week to visit her mother, Mrs. McNeill, who is seriously ill in a hospital there.

Mrs. Ed Blain is recuperating at her home in Farwell this week after being dismissed from Clovis Memorial Hospital on Saturday. Although her condition is improved, she is still unable to be up and around very much.

Mitch Turnbough, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Turnbough of Texico, is recuperating from knee surgery which was performed at a Roswell hospital on March 15. Mitch returned home last Friday, but family members say it will probably be about two more weeks before he will be able to return to school. The surgery was necessary to remove the cartilage, and the wound was caused when Mitch twisted his knee while playing football last season.

Mike Flowers, senior at Farwell High, returned to St. Paul's Hospital in Dallas last week for a checkup on his leg which has been in a cast over one and one-half years following a football injury. Mike's physician there said that the repaired bone is doing well and that they should be able to remove the cast in June or a little later this summer. Mike is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Flowers.

Terri Chandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Chandler of Farwell, was dismissed from the hospital in Clovis last Friday after undergoing tests and observations since Wednesday. She was able to return to her studies at Farwell Elementary part of this week.

Mrs. Clive Huggins of Garden City, Kans., is hospitalized there this week with pneumonia. Her mother-in-law, Mrs. Otis Huggins, left here Wednesday to be with her grandchildren while their mother is hospitalized.

REGISTRATIONS are already coming in for the State-wide Queen Clinic to be held at the Curry County Fairgrounds and Arena April 9 and 10. Linda Turner, co-chairman, and Wilma Fulgham, chairman, of the New Mexico State Fair Queen Alumni Association, sponsors of the clinic, go over letters from some of the registrants. Mrs. Fulgham said that around 100 girls between the ages of 10 and 21 are expected for the clinic.

Queen Clinic Set In Clovis

Friday and Saturday, April 9 and 10, the New Mexico State Fair Queen Alumni Association will sponsor a "queen clinic" at the Curry County Fairgrounds and Arena. The clinic is open to any girl between the ages of 10 through 21 who is interested in competing in contests which are judged on personality and horsemanship. All sessions of the clinic will be conducted by members of the NMSFQAA. Girls who live in surrounding states are welcome to attend; however, the clinic's main purpose is to stimulate interest in the State Fair Queen Contest.

Registration for the two-day affair is scheduled to begin at noon Friday at the extension club building at the fairgrounds. The $5 registration fee will cover the costs of all sessions, including a banquet on Friday night.

Friday afternoon's session will include public speaking and conversation improvement; make-up demonstrations and information; hair care and styling; poise in walking, standing and sitting; and a western wear style show featuring Alumni members modeling their own clothes. The style show will follow the banquet.

Sessions in horsemanship, saddling, mounting and dismounting, and correct riding will begin at 8 a.m. Saturday. Following a break for lunch, sessions on riding patterns and exhibition will be held. The activities will conclude at 3 p.m.

Classes will be set up according to age groups and amount of instruction needed. Parents are urged to attend the sessions so that they may know better what is involved and will be better able to help their girl to prepare for the contest. Stalls will be provided for the girls' horses at no charge; however, each girl will be responsible for the feed and care of her horse.

Girls planning to attend the session are urged to register by mail, sending their name, address, age and contest in which they are most interested. The registration should be sent to Box 1845, Clovis, N.M. 88101, or a person may register by calling Wilma Fulgham at 505-763-6231. Girls unable to register by mail or phone should plan to attend anyway as there will be ample facilities for them.

"This is a unique opportunity for girls to take advantage of a wealth of knowledge and experience in this particular kind of competition," say Alumni members. State Alumni chairman is Mrs. Fulgham, and co-chairman is Mrs. Linda Hammond Turner, also of Clovis.

Steps Listed For Farm Program

Three steps for farm program participants -- sign-up, measurement and certification -- are explained by the local ASCS office this week in the following release:

Compliance by farmer certification is now nation-wide for participants in the 1971 farm set-aside programs for feed grain, wheat, and cotton. From a limited beginning in 1964, this method of accepting the farmer's word that he has followed program regulations has now become standard in agricultural counties -- nearly 2,800 -- across the nation. In Parmer County, farm program compliance by certification has been in effect since 1965.

This method of compliance is used for all crops except some types of tobacco. Photographic copies of fields and farms are provided farmers, who then use these aerial photographs to designate their set-aside, crop, and conserving base acreages when certifying that they have complied with farm program provisions.

Certification is the third formal step a farmer takes in participating in the feed grain, wheat, and cotton programs for 1971.

First step is signing up at the County ASCS office. Sign-up for these programs is in progress now and will continue through April 9. To participate in feed grain, wheat, and cotton program benefits, a farmer must sign up. Participation is not automatic.

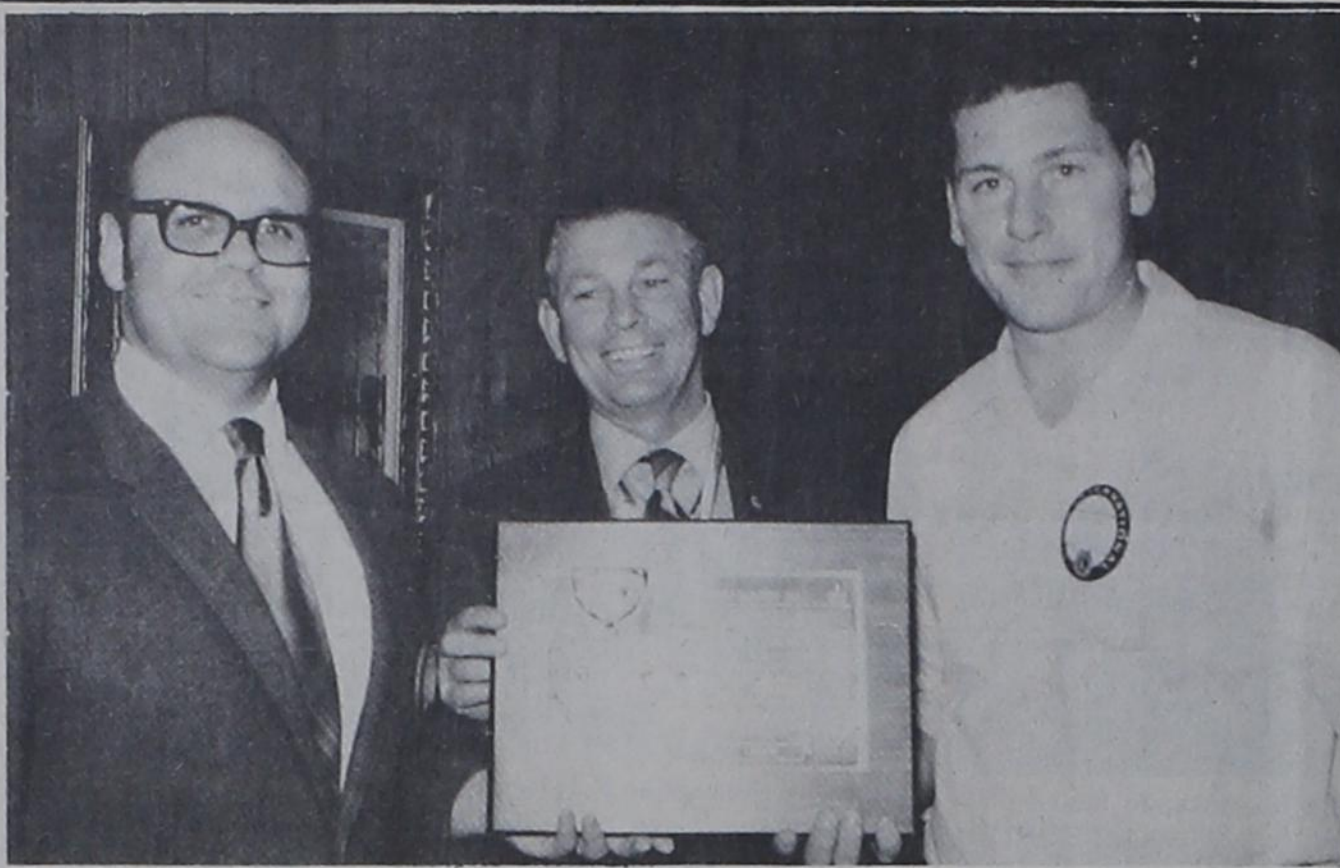

At the time he signs up, a farmer is encouraged to take step No. 2 -- requesting measurement. This service, provided by County ASCS offices at nominal cost, has become an integral part of the farm operations for many program participants.

By having the ASCS office furnish him with measurement service, the farmer is guaranteed to be in compliance with acreage requirements of the programs.

Step three -- certification -- follows sign-up and measurement. Farmers are reminded that at the time they certify they will designate precisely the set-aside acreage on their farms. They are also reminded that the farm must be in compliance with program provisions at the time of certification.

Final date for certification for the wheat program is May 3; for feed grain and cotton it is August 2. Following certification, program participants must continue to comply with farm program regulations throughout the calendar year.

Spot checks on approximately 25 per cent of the farms in the 1971 set-aside programs will be made following certification, to help assure full compliance with farm program provisions. The 25 per cent figure is an average for the nation and will not necessarily apply county-by-county. Some counties may have fewer than 25 per cent of their farms spot-checked, while in other counties all of the farms may receive compliance visits.

Moss Outstanding Employee

J. Glendon Moss, formerly of Texico, was recently named Kentron Hawaii's Outstanding Employee for 1970 and was recipient of a $1,000 cash award for the honor. Presenting the award in Honolulu at ceremonies during Kentron's annual President's Report meeting on February 25 were Admiral Adrian Perry, Kentron president, and Forbes Mann, LTV Aerospace president. Moss will now be considered for a $2,500 president's award to be made later this month.

According to Mann and Perry, "outstanding employees" are chosen on the basis of their contributions to suggestions, cost reduction and cost avoidance, and unusual personal contributions at their company.

A computer programmer analyst, Moss has been employed at Kentron two and one-half years, joining the company when it was expanding its business capabilities by starting a data reduction group to support the Army anti-missile research and development program under a current contract.

Many of Moss' recommendations and suggestions helped make the venture a success. The company's successful entry into the data reduction field, and the associated use of computer facilities, prompted Kentron to investigate the computer time-sharing market in the Hawaiian area. In a year, the service line developed and marketed almost solely by Moss had grown from a sales base of $12,000 to $120,000. He is presently manager of the time-sharing division of the company.

Moss personally designed and developed a hotel computer package which in itself encompasses a complete computerization of all hotel functions to include the complexities of bookkeeping and reservations. Moss and his wife, Barbara, make their home in Kaneohe, Hawaii. He is a graduate of Texico High School and holds BA and MA degrees from Eastern New Mexico University. He is the son of Mrs. Crystal Moss of Levelland, formerly of Texico-Farwell.
