MULESHOE SUPERMARKET DAMAGED BY FIRE—Only moderate damage was reported to the structure at Muleshoe Supermarket after the roof and firewall were ignited by an overheated melting pot for asphalt around 4:30 Thursday afternoon. Hundreds of people looked on as the fire sent up billowing clouds of thick, black smoke. The Muleshoe Fire Department quickly had the fire knocked down with very little damage to the store itself.

Tragedy was narrowly averted Thursday afternoon, when a potentially major fire broke out around 4:35 p.m. at Muleshoe Supermarket located on South Main Street in Muleshoe. It was business 'as usual' at the store immediately following the fire.

Hundreds of onlookers, drawn to the fire by billowing black smoke, watched firefighters quickly knock down the blaze on the south side of the store. City, county and state police blocked streets in all directions from the store, shortly after the blaze was discovered, and onlookers, especially young people, were warned about going near the blaze, as butane bottles were ready to explode.

Members of the Muleshoe Fire Department exhibited their usual expertise, arriving very quickly, and in short order, knocking down the fire before major structural damage could be done to the store. Mary Frances Perez was in the office at the store when the fire was reported to her. She said about six or eight shoppers were in the store at the time and they were evacuated across the street. "There was no panic, no one ran, and they just quietly left the store," she said. "We watched from across the street."

Miniature explosions were heard as the firemen started unrolling hoses to fight the towering flames. Tires on the melting pot trailer exploded in the intense heat, followed by the "pop-off" valves from the butane bottles and tank on the trailer.

Rolls (or cones) of asphalt caused thick, black smoke as it started burning, along with a portion of the roof of the store on the south side, the firewall, and then, the asphalt paving on the parking lot. Rivulets of melted asphalt started running out into the street and down the curb, propelled by the heat.

Immediately following the fire, firemen set up huge exhaust fans in the store, and shoppers again moved in to do their shopping, oblivious to the lingering smoke. No fire damage, and very little smoke damages was noted inside the store, and the utilities, electricity, water, telephones and others were left intact.

Other items will be discussed by the City Manager, Dave Marr.

House Witnesses Reveal Telephone Access Charge

(Editor's Note: Because of the current interest in telephone access charges, Hubert Kidd, manager of Five Area Telephone of Muleshoe, has brought in the following article reprinted from the Journal of Telephony/July 4, 1983 and it is reproduced in its entirety because of the possible impact on local users.)

"Telephone industry spokesmen and consumer representatives provided dramatically differing projections during House hearings of the results for consumers of the Federal Communications Commission's (FCC) access charge plan. Some witnesses testifying before the House information subcommittee, and a member of that panel, warned that members of Congress could face a backlash from their constituents as a result of increased rates.

"As the second day of hearings on the FCC's access charge decision got underway (TELEPHONY, May 30, p. 14), panel member Robert E. Wise, Jr. (D. W. Va.) said that some legislators and much of the public "are just beginning to become aware of the ramifications" of the FCC's decision. Saying that telephone service "will become a luxury" once the decision takes effect, he said the results of the proposal "could be catastrophic."

"Dwight Welch, manager of the Hardy Telephone Co., Lost River, W. Va.,

representing the National Telephone Cooperative Assn., told members of the subcommittee they will "face the same problems

Amarillo Man

Killed In Fall

At Tolk Plant

Services were pending Friday morning for 41-year old Harold Lee Young of Amarillo, who was killed Thursday afternoon after he fell from a beam at the SPS Tolk Plant 11 miles from Muleshoe.

Witnesses said Young, who was an iron worker, was sitting on a beam when he "just toppled over" falling to the ground. The witnesses said they believed he either had a stroke or heart attack or was overcome by heat before falling.

He was born in Meadville, Pa. and moved to Amarillo four years ago from Union City, Pa. He was a former U.S. Marine and had been an iron worker for 20 years.

Survivors include a son, Harold Lee Young, Jr., of the home; two daughters, Tammy Young and Gene Young, both of the home; a brother, Richard Young of Yantis, Pa.; two sisters, Shirley Mattocks of Guy Mills, Pa. and Dutch Hartfelder of Amarillo; and his grandmother, Sylvia Aldrich, of Meadville, Pa.

when access charges appear on the phone bills of my subscribers and your constituents in January. We are going to have to explain to those people, especially those who make no long distance calls, the reasons behind the change in their telephone system pricing."

"Welch predicted that access charges will become "a nationwide consumer issue." He said lawmakers from rural areas will face the toughest challenge "since it is the high-cost, low-density rural areas that are always hit the hardest under cost-based economic policies, and those same rural areas do not enjoy the benefits of competition that are spawned in urban areas."

"Following are brief excerpts from statements of other witnesses:

"William R. Stump, assistant vice president, American Telephone and Telegraph Co.: "To help alleviate your concerns, I would like to answer the real bottom-line question right up front. Will access charges cause telephone rates to go so high that many farmers will be forced to drop off the telephone network? The answer is, definitely not..."

"Will the $2-a-month interstate access charge drive rural families off the network? I doubt that anyone in this room would expect $2 a month of have much effect at all. It is true that Cont. Page 7, Col. 4

Baptist Church Sets John McKay Concert

John McKay will appear in concert at First Baptist Church, Muleshoe, today, Sunday, July 10 for the 11 a.m. morning worship service, according to the minister, J.E. Meeks.

"A simple, unassuming man with an intriguing smile and a genuine love for life, is a good description of John McKay," said Rev. Meeks. "Yet, there's a burning passion that flames unquenched in his spirit that one doesn't fully see until he grabs a microphone and his face begins to glow as he sings praises to the Lord Jesus Christ.

"Countless millions have thrilled to the singing ministry of John McKay in Crusades across the United States," he added. "John McKay has ministered to more people, face to face, than any singer in the history of gospel music with the exception of George Beverly Shea of the Billy Graham Association. "Having more than fifteen albums recorded on Cont. Page 7, Col. 4

Inside one large air conditioner on top of the store, he coils had melted, as this air conditioner was located where the fire was most intense.

Late Thursday evening, with the parking area of the south side roped off, workmen had started cleaning up the debris, and were replacing the parking lot. Assessments were being made of the damage caused by the fire. Bill Creekmore, foreman of the roofing crew from B & J Enterprises of Andrews, Cont. Page 7, Col. 1

Fresh fruits are so plentiful now, and ways to prepare them are as unlimited as one's imagination. They can be jellied, jammed, sauced, syruped or contained in custard. Some can be deliciously wrapped in an omelet, or blitzed, creamed, wined or tarted. Here are a few recipes for frozen jams and preserves from a Whirlpool microwave oven cookbook which combine speed, simplicity, and will help you to enjoy that freshly picked flavor all through the year.

Clothing Care Alert!

DRYCLEANERS SEE A NEW WOMAN

2. What are you saying about your clothes?
a. Take good care of them
b. They are hardly worth cleaning
c. Look at individual stains and problems

3. What kind of delivery deadline do you request?
a. A specific date
b. Whenever the dry-cleaner specifies
c. Within a few days

4. How price conscious are you?
a. Take clothes back when you consider the drycleaning "too expensive"
b. Complain about price
c. Ask about price and accept it

5. How do you pick up your clothes?
a. Look each garment over
b. Take them without comment
c. Make positive comments

6. What kind of special requests do you make?
a. General service
b. Quality finishing
c. Specific repair and replacement services

If you have selected the "a" categories of behavior, you are probably the type who feels guilty and overly concerned about having clothes taken care of by an outside specialist. You will be using or looking for a drycleaner who reassures and compliments you on the care you take of your clothes.

If you are choosing behavior in the "b" category, you are most likely a person for whom cleaning of clothes is a sober necessity. Your ideal drycleaner is very businesslike and caters to your efficiency.

If you are choosing most-ly behavior in the "c" category, you are probably a balanced-interest type and more clothes-conscious than the other two categories. Your drycleaner most likely recognizes your taste and interest in clothes.

An adjunct to this new type of drycleaning customer is her mate in partnership marriages. IFI drycleaners are finding that it is no longer the woman who necessarily takes full responsibility for the clothing and sees to the cleaning. Men are more often taking responsibility for their own clothes, both in deciding when they need cleaning and taking them to the fabric care plant. In addition, they may be bringing in the clothing of other family members.

A newly emerging 1980's drycleaning customer combines a job with home duties and tends to be more creative in cooking, home decorating and her attitude toward clothes.

This newly discovered consumer leaves home to work, needs and buys more expensive clothes and is willing to pay for their care.

This drycleaning patron is interested in keeping up the quality of life in all its aspects and has more income than drycleaning customers have had in the past.

The new patron is a whole-interest woman. Her characteristics emerged in a study of drycleaning commissioned by the International Fabricare Institute (IFI), the worldwide association of launderers and drycleaners.

The survey found that female drycleaning customers can be divided generally into three types: the housewife, characterized by an intense concern and guilt about the care of her family's clothes; the career woman, who may be a demanding perfectionist; and the "balanced" woman, who tends to be a reasonable and appreciative user of fabric care services. These types were identified with questions that probed attitudes toward doing housework, hiring outside help to accomplish chores, enjoying the home and enjoying outside jobs.

The IFI survey produced identifying behavior patterns to categorize female customers for drycleaners.

What drycleaners will look for is:

1. How do you bring in your clothes?
a. In a heap
b. Sorted out
c. With a list

Miss Cardwell, Synatschk Repeat Marriage Vows

MRS. HERMAN SYNATSKH
(nee Glenda Cardwell)

Miss Glenda Cardwell became the bride of Herman Synatschk in a candlelight ceremony Saturday, June 25 in the First Baptist Church of Sudan. The Rev. Truman Johnson read the double ring vows.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cardwell of Sudan and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Synatschk of Anton.

Vows were exchanged before an arched candelabra highlighted by pastel floral bouquets and rainbow colored ribbons. Spiral candelabra flanked the archway and both were entwined by greenery as were the heart shaped candelabras that were included in the altar decorations. The center aisle was lined with floral bouquets and votive candles.

Janet Nix of Sudan, soloist, sang "Close To You," "We've Only Just Begun" and "You And I." She was accompanied by pianist, Laura Powell of Sudan. Precious Johnson of Sudan sang "The Wedding Prayer" as the couple lighted the unity candle at the close of their vows. Wedding music was provided by organist, Georg-cann Rasco.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a gown of white silk organza and trimmed in Chantilly lace. The Queen Anne neckline was outlined with a ruffle of organza and lace and embroidered in seed pearls. The fitted bodice was embroidered in seed pearls over lace.

The full sleeves were lace with a fitted cuff edged in a ruffle of organza. The full skirt was styled with two wide flounces of organza at the hemline, each bordered by a row of Chantilly lace. A row of organza and lace swept up the sides and came to a bustle effect at the waistline in the back, where a wide satin bow with streamers completed the effect.

The full skirt flowed into a chapel train in the back. Her matching veil of illusion was gathered to a lace bandeau embroidered in seed pearls and the fingertip veil was edged in matching Chantilly lace. She carried a bouquet of cascading white baby roses highlighted by ribbon and lace atop a white Bible. She wore pennies minted in the year of the birth of the couple in her shoes and wore the traditional blue garter.

Lauri Foley of Sudan served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Janie Beauchamp of Sudan, Susan Nettles of Lubbock, sister of the bride, Beatrice Synatschk of Anton, sister of the groom, Wanda Love of Henrietta and Suzanne Walker of Lubbock.

Each attendant wore a different colored gown of organza carrying out the rainbow colors. They featured a deep off-the-shoulder ruffle topping a fitted bodice and a flared skirt with a wide flounce at the bottom. They each carried a nosegay featuring flowers of the six colors highlighted by ribbon of their dress color.

Christa Nettles, niece of the bride, wore a white organza gown styled like the bridesmaids. She carried a basket of organza decorated with ribbons of the six colors and lace.

Ringbearer was Bryon Northrup of LaGrange, cousin of the groom. He carried the rings on a white organza and lace heart shaped pillow and wore a white tuxedo similar to the groom's.

Chris Timms of Anton served as best man. Groomsman were Daniel Pietsch of LaGrange, cousin of the groom, Jeff Brazil, Rodney Carr, Cary Thetford, and Layton Johnson, all of Anton. They wore silver tuxedos with ruffled shirts of colors corresponding with the bridesmaids dresses.

Candlelighters were Toby Synatschk of McAllen and Cherie Synatschk of Levelland, cousins of the groom. Ushers were Gary Fields of Sudan and Ronnie Buchanan of Anton.

Sandra Hill of Sudan registered guests in the bride's book from a table highlighted by a floral arrangement featuring the bride's colors and votive candles.

A reception followed in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table was covered with a floor length cloth of lace over white. The wedding cake consisted of three tiers topped with a bride and groom figurine, highlighted by flowers in the bride's colors and surrounded by four smaller cakes. A white candelabra centered the table and featured the bridesmaids nosegays. Serving at the brides table was Sandra Hill and Janet Nix.

The groom's table was covered with a natural bur-lap cloth. The chocolate layer cake featured a 'sugar pig.' Golden appointments were used. Presiding were Tonya Synatschk of McAllen and Ronda Synatschk of Levelland, cousins of the groom, and Kris Balew of Anton.

Members of the houseparty were Mrs. Wayne Doty, Mrs. Dwayne Powell, Mrs. Gaylon Burns, Mrs. Jane VanDyck, Mrs. Louis Fields, and Mrs. B. A. Beauchamp.

Following a trip to Ruidoso, the couple are at home south of Anton.

Special guests at the wedding included paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Cardwell of Greenville and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Synatschk of Anton.

A rehearsal dinner was held at K-Bob's in Littlefield Friday night hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Synatschk. The head table was decorated with a blue floral arrangement on a band of rainbow colored ribbon highlighted by smaller candles.

Ranch Resources 'Non-Traditional'

Ranchers throughout the Southwest have numerous "nontraditional" ranch resources which can be aggressively marketed. Many of these resources are often easily overlooked since they are usually not in the mainstream of ranch activities.

But some innovative ranchers these days are marketing artifacts, rocks, bird watching, photographic tours, manure, squirrels, varmint hunting, trapping, horseback riding, camping, quail/dove hunting, and many others.

These resource alternatives will be discussed in detail during marketing sessions at the International Ranchers Roundup (IRR) which will be held at the San Angelo Convention Center August 1-5. Registration and complete program information is available by writing IRR, P.O. Drawer 1849, Uvalde, TX. 78801.

Popular as deer hunting may be in the South, cities are full of people who would not pay a dime to hunt them, but would gladly pay substantial fees to hunt quail or dove. It's not uncommon for a landowner to ask and receive $500 to $1,000 per season for hunting rights at one dirt tank or windmill.

Some Central Texas landowners are leasing the rights to dig for cultural or historical artifacts. Many areas of Texas contain minerals and rocks that rock hunters will pay to search through. In addition, rocks suitable for use as building stones increase in value each year. As water becomes more scarce, more and more city dwellers are apt to change to rock, sand, or gravel yards instead of grass. Some Dallas residents are known to have paid $75 each for large limestone rocks to help decorate their front yard. Riverbeds are full of rocks that will soon become in great demand for building purposes.

How about a good manure cleanout job? People will come to your ranch, clean out the barns and goatsheds and pay for the manure they haul away. It must be cleaned regularly anyway, so why not get paid for it and let someone else do the work? Trucks have been driven 250 miles to one Hill Country ranch just to haul goat manure.

Today there are thousands of varmint hunters. Since it has long been determined that cougars and black bear will respond to a varmint call in the hands of an expert, demand for places to call has grown dramatically. Varmint calling leases may be just around the corner.

An upsurge in the price paid for the pelt of furbearers has brought a marked increase in the number of fur trappers. Many landowners allow trapping on their property on a percentage basis which runs from one-fourth to one-half the total catch. With no effort, a landowner can get a varmint population thinned and pick up easy pocket money at the same time.

With the increased interest in landscape and wildlife photography, professional and amateur hunters, alike, will pay for the opportunity to photograph all aspects of a ranch. Such visitors rarely cause problems and often are glad to repeat or refer business if desired by the owner. If there's something of interest on a ranch, someone will pay to take a picture of it.

Also, don't forget such possibilities as wildlife management tours, bird watchers, range management tours, and natural ecology tours. Such groups will pay tidy sums for the opportunity of seclusion in a natural ranch setting.

Gold And Silver Investors Face Some 'Danger'

The Texas State Securities and Exchange Commission and the Better Business Bureau of the South Plains today released their Investor Alert for July warning the public about possible dangers involved in gold and silver investments. The Alert describes recent problems in "deferred delivery" sales of gold and silver and lists twelve steps investors can take to protect themselves in this often confusing market.

The current Alert came after a National Association of Security Administrators Association/BBB survey showed problems across the United States and Canada with investors dealing in precious metals through unregulated dealers using unscrupulous and sometimes fraudulent tactics.

BBB President Alan Bligh noted that consumers looking for profitable ways to invest their money should take extra care in checking out offers before accepting them. "While changing times often create new opportunities for investment," he said, "that also create new possibilities for those who would defraud investors. This Better Business Bureau has seen this happen in the precious metals business with attendant consumer confusion and harm to legitimate sellers. What we are trying to do is give prospective investors the information they need to avoid dealing with unreliable operators."

Kenneth Hooper, with the Lubbock State Securities and Exchange Office warned South Plains consumers about purchasing gold, silver, or any precious metals over the telephone from companies whose reputations are unknown. "Gold and silver bullion dealers are largely unregulated in this country by Securities Commissions or the federal government. The public is generally on its own in this area. Only after a fraud is discovered can Texas and federal agencies move. Consequently, it is important that the public be forewarned to protect itself against unscrupulous gold and silver bullion dealers."

The Investor Alert program was launched in January 1983 by the Council of Better Business Bureaus and the North American Securities Administrators Association as an attempt by business and government to warn citizens of the U.S. of currently widespread questionable investment schemes.

For more information on the Investor Alert program, call Alan Bligh at 763-5554 or Kenneth Hooper at 762-8010.

Wind tunnel testing helps IH improve trucks' gas mileage

COLEGE STATION — Truck designers at International Harvester are finding clues to greater fuel efficiency blowing in the wind at Texas A&M University.

The university's wind tunnel has been used for the past two years to help the firm improve gas mileage for its 18-wheelers. In late 1982, International Harvester announced a successful coast-to-coast run of its largest Class 8 line-hauler, which averages 8.26 miles per gallon, about 2.5 mpg better than conventional trucks.

"We feel the increase in efficiency was due about two-thirds to aerodynamic changes and one-third to a better engine," said M. Eugene Olson, Harvester's project development engineer for aerodynamics.

Texas A&M's wind tunnel is operated by the Texas Engineering Experiment Station (TEES), the engineering research arm of The Texas A&M University System. The tunnel has been used to test projects ranging from the space shuttle to Dallas' Reunion Tower.

Wayland Baptist Will Have Mechanics Class

The Automotive Mechanics program offered through the Vocational-Technical Division at Wayland Baptist University is designed to open doors to career opportunities for those interested in helping keep the motoring public on the move.

A wide range of employment opportunities are available to students who acquire the basic skills and knowledge taught by the division at the International Occupational Center.

Anthony Henegar, who joined the Wayland faculty after eight years as instructor with South Plains College, heads the automotive mechanics program at IOC. Henegar, who was instrumental in starting the automotive program at South Plains, also has 14 years of diversified experience with several General Motors dealers as an auto mechanic and service manager.

He is assisted in the instructional work by Demencio Gomez, who gained his experience as a mechanic in Chrysler and Ford dealerships in the Dallas and Houston areas and who has taught auto mechanics on the high school level.

The automotive mechanics program at the IOC is a four-semester program designed to train students to service gasoline-powered automobiles, light trucks, and other gasoline-powered small equipment.

Specific areas of training include major engine service; manual and automatic transmission service; rear axle and drive line service; air conditioning equipment service; front wheel alignment and wheel balancing; and servicing anti-pollution devices.

Other training areas are brake systems service, tune-up and carburetion service, steering/gear and linkage service, service and replacement of auxiliary equipment, fuel injection pump and injector service, trouble-shooting procedures, and shop management procedures.

All courses offered through the International Occupational Center are available in the evenings as well as in regular daytime schedules. Evening classes make it possible for employed persons to seek either new or additional training and in most cases meet one evening per week for three hours. Regular daytime classes meet two to three times per week for a total of three hours.

All course work leads to the two-year associate of technology (A.Tn.) degree, a 60-66 semester hour course of study that includes 18 hours of business foundations work.

Options in the curriculum allow for the designing of a program for persons wishing to continue their study toward a baccalaureate -- the bachelor of science in occupational education (BSOE) -- degree.

Men and women interested in either pursuing a career in automotive mechanics or to become more economically independent through automotive service skills development may obtain complete information about application for the fall semester by calling the International Occupational Center at (806) 296-5521.

Angelmania Declaws Cubs

The Amherst Cubs stired up an Angelmania hornets nest June 27 and came away with a 20-16 loss in a batter's slugfest.

Neither team could generate much from the mound as the game rapidly turned into a power hitter shoot out.

The big difference was that Angelmania power hitters were able to keep a sustained barrage of "Fire balls" burning the Cub defense.

The only close inning was the second when the Angel offense stumbled and the Cubs pulled the game to a 14-13 heart stopper.

The third inning saw more Angel bumbling, giving the visiting Cubs a 16-14 lead. Then once more Angelmania Struck! When the dust settled on the baseball diamond it was Angels 20 Cubs 16.

Leading the power hitters for the Angels was Gunner Smith with four RBI's, Joe Gonzales six RBI's, Jacob Lowe five RBI's, and Charlie Smith and David Mangum with one RBI each.

George Bush, Vice President, during visit to Germany:

"Our histories are both utterly intertwined... our values...are the same."

Crib Death Still A Mystery

The mother of an apparently healthy infant lays her child in his crib. An hour later the mother discovers that the sleeping child has died, a victim of sudden infant death syndrome, or SIDS.

A scene similar to this one occurs about 8,000 times each year in this country, says the Texas Medical Association. That means one of every 500 live births.

The death is unexpected and the cause unknown. SIDS itself was unknown until the 1960s, when the phenomenon was given its name. It was the mid-1970s before SIDS, also known as "crib death," was used as a cause of death on death certificates.

Now it is the most common cause of death in infants 2 weeks to a year old, accounting for a third of these deaths. Several groups have responded with funding for research, information distribution, and parental counseling.

From what is known, SIDS is not believed to be hereditary. It is not contagious, although a viral infection may be present. SIDS occurs most frequently in the third or fourth month of life. The incidence is higher in infants born prematurely or living in poverty. SIDS occurs more frequently in boys than in girls and in winter more than in summer. Most infants with SIDS die in their sleep, with no signs of trouble and no crying out.

Autopsies show that SIDS has nothing to do with suffocation caused by, say, a blanket. There may be minor inflammation of the upper respiratory tract, but this is not the cause of death. Sleep apnea, a temporary inability to breathe, may be a contributing factor.

Theories aside, a true SIDS victim dies of unknown and unexplained causes. This can have a destructive effect on a family. With nowhere to place the blame, parents may accuse themselves, each other, or other family members. The loss of a child to a disease or an accident can be understood, but not the loss of a baby to an unknown.

For this reason, support groups help families of SIDS victims to adjust to the death and to understand that no one is to blame. Two of these groups are the International Council for Infant Survival (phone: 202-833-2253) and the National Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Foundation (301-459-3388). Both groups can provide information on the nearest local chapter.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

REFUNDABLE ASSESSMENTS PROGRAM

AUSTIN - During the special session of the 68th Legislature, lawmakers passed an important measure which, if approved by voters this fall, will significantly improve the overall economy in Texas.

The Texas Senate and House of Representatives agreed to place on the November election ballot a constitutional amendment calling for a statewide refundable assessments program.

The program, which we sponsored, will provide for the promotion of food and fiber in Texas by providing representative associations of agricultural producers with the authority to collect refundable assessments on their product sales. The checkoff program must be approved by the producers who pay the assessment and they will be administered by board members who are elected by the producers. And, any producer of a commodity who does not wish to participate may request a

The program, which we sponsored, will provide for the financing of marketing, promotions, research and education programs relating to products such as corn, wheat, grain sorghum, and other commodities.

Currently, Texas is lagging behind other states in the nation in its ability to finance marketing promotions. Marketing and research promotions are essential to help sell Texas commodities at home and abroad.

The opportunity to expand our commodities markets overseas, especially for grain, is tremendous. A refundable assessments program will not only greatly benefit our producers, but it will also help provide additional jobs for the unemployed in this state. An increase in the exporting of our commodities will result in a rise in the number of people needed to help get the commodities to the overseas markets. People can expect to see an increase in job opportunities in the trucking industry, railroads, elevator operators and more.

We believe that the proposed statewide program, which will be voted on by the people in the way of a

Awesome Angelmania Strikes

With the swiftness of a West Texas twister, Angelmania put the Earth Astros in a tailspin June 23 with a rock solid 21-9 trouncing.

Michael Conley, starting Angel pitcher, held the Astro offense in check in the first inning allowing only two runs to score.

The Astro pitching staff had its problems in the second inning allowing Angelmania to put across 14 runs making it 17-6 after two innings.

The third inning was lack luster as both teams could only manage short lived rallies to finish up the game Angelmania 21 estimated that $4,500 to $5,000 in equipment and materials owned by the company had been lost in the fire. No dollar estimate had been figured by the store, awaiting insurance adjusters and follow-up checking on possible damage.

Creekmore said new valves had been installed on the melting pot just on the day prior to the fire. He commented that although fires do occasionally occur in melting pots, this fire was unexpected due to the new valves and gauges. "I had called the boy up to the roof who normally watches the melting pot to prevent fire," he commented late Thursday. "Melting pot fires usually can be put out simply by tossing a cup of water on the fire and closing the lid of the pot for a couple of minutes," he added.

"However, a series contributed to this fire," Creekmore told a Journal representative. "We had a mop on the outside of the pot, thawing out (melting the tar) and the fire broke out in the pot. When we opened the pot again, the fire flared up, it hadn't gone out. The mop was burning on the outside of the pot, and the quick-release mechanism to remove the tanks from the pot would not come loose. Everything just combined to cause the fire."

Mike and Mary Frances Perez, who are co-owners, and operators of the store, were quick to praise the Muleshoe Fire Department and surrounding businesses. Mike said, "Winkler Meat is staying open tonight (Thursday) in case we need refrigeration and Fry and Cox is also staying available in case we need heavy equipment."

"Our fire department is the best anywhere," he added, "and the people have been so good to pitch in to help us."

Will Elect

New Members

Bailey County is among 29 counties of the Texas High Plains who will elect four members to the Texas Grain Sorghum Producer's Board on September 15. there are other increases also likely to come along in the near term... we could be looking at something in the over-all range of $5 or so for access charges and depreciation. Will that force rural families off the network? I really doubt it.

"Robert A. Dickemper, vice president, federal relations, Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.: "Universal service will remain a top priority in our future. But just as the very foundations of our industry are changing, so too much we increase our options for providing local services, thus enabling us to maintain universal service..."

"In the future as we move toward local service bearing an ever-increasing portion of its costs, flat rate unlimited calling must become a premium service and be priced as a premium service... Through the offering of viable local service alternatives we will seek to offer a range of services to meet most customer needs and to maintain universal service."

"Robert W. Nichols, legislative and regulatory counsel, Consumers Union: "What can Congress do? First, the access charge phase-in schedule should be stretched out over a longer period of time - perhaps 10 years. During the transition period more of the fixed costs of providing access could then be shifted to the long distance carriers..."

"Second, Congress should establish a new Universal Service Fund with additional revenues coming from surcharges on long distance carriers or from other sources like the telephone excise tax... The Fund should also support several labels, some of which are Singcord, Word Records and Master Music, John's music is regularly enjoyed in homes and over radio stations all over the world. His phenomenally popular hit "God's Way," is a stirring variation of the secular hit, "My Way," and each time he performs it, on television, he receives hundreds of requests for the lyrics.

Rev. Meeks also said, "John McKay has been called 'A legend in his own time' in the field of Gospel music. John doesn't like that label, however, because he feels, "All the credit for any of my success goes to God; I've tried only to be a willing vessel. When I was 13 and gave my life to Jesus, something miraculous took place within me. I've tried to explain it, I've tried to tell it, I've even tried to write it, but I can't fully communicate what happened to me. All I know is that I had a great sense of joy and the burden of sin lifted from my heart, and that's what I've got to sing about. As long as I'm able, I'm going to SING TO THE HEART OF AMERICA."

Members of the First Baptist Church and its minister, the Rev. Meeks, extend an invitation to the people of Muleshoe and the surrounding area to attend the concert.

JOHN DEERE

summer bonus

BONANZA

Big introductory cash rebates up to $8,200 on new 50 Series John Deere 2WD and 4WD tractors...plus finance waiver to March 1, '84

Pick the power size that'll boost your farming efficiency through the 1980s from the lineup below. Check the big cash rebate John Deere offers on that model. Combine that amount with the offer we'll make and the price of a John Deere 50 Series competes with other makes that don't offer comparable quality, durability or resale value.

On top of that, look at the even bigger introductory rebate John Deere offers if you equip your 50 Series 2WD with MFWD. You'll save money when you buy MFWD; you'll save fuel when you work MFWD.

To make buying now a practical matter, consider this offer: Finance your new 50 Series with John Deere (your trade-in may cover the downpayment), and finance charges will be waived to March 1, 1984! Or consider leasing, with discounted lease payments giving you a value comparable to that of the waiver of finance offer.

Now's the time to choose from the 15 models listed here. Get the new tractor you want while these John Deere cash rebates are still in effect.

The Consumer Alert

by Jim Mattox
Attorney General

AUSTIN—It is important for all Texans to have access to the office of the Attorney General. Recognizing that need, a Telecommunications Device (TDD) for the Deaf has been installed in the Austin Office of my Consumer Protection Division.

The TDD line is special equipment for the deaf, hearing-impaired and speech-impaired community and consists of typewriter keyboards for transmitting and receiving messages over normal telephone lines.

These portable telecommunicators are available in the 17 Regional Councils for the Deaf in Texas. Some state agencies in Austin also have the equipment, and it may be installed in private homes. When the receiving telecommunicator is not being manned by personnel, such as during hours when the Attorney General's office is closed, a recording device prints a hard-bound copy of the message, which will be responded to as soon as the office reopens.

I feel it is particularly important that the device be available to help respond to the consumer problems of those persons with hearing and speech disabilities. These persons have not had an effective means of obtaining answers to questions of an urgent nature. Now, the Consumer Protection Division will be accessible directly by telephone to those persons.

Depending on the response to this equipment in the office in Austin, it is anticipated that similar equipment will be installed in the Dallas, San Antonio and Houston Regional Offices where hundreds of consumer complaints are processed.

All Texans in the deaf, hearing-impaired and speech impaired community are encouraged to use this equipment to contact my office with any questions they might have because it is only through this type of feedback that I can improve the services of the Attorney General's Office to the citizens of the State of Texas.

Climatologist warns Spring peak season for Texas tornadoes

COLLEGE STATION — Texas is entering the peak season for tornadoes, although the destructive storms can occur any time of year warns an expert who has spent more than 20 years studying state weather patterns.

Since 1951, more than 2,100 twisters have touched ground statewide during the months of April, May and June — the period each year when tornado activity is the highest, says State Climatologist John Griffiths, a Texas A&M University meteorologist.

May is the worst month, said Griffiths, because about 30 twisters occur then — more than a fourth of all Texas tornadoes that touch down in an average year.

But residents of Texas, especially newcomers, should be aware that atmospheric conditions which spawn tornadoes can form at any time of day or night, warned Griffiths.

Mobile homes and automobiles are two of the most dangerous places during a twister, said Griffiths. A third of all Americans who died during tornadoes last year were either in a trailer house or vehicle at the time.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

By Edward Thorlund

Buying stocks is a great American pastime—and in a bull market such as Americans have enjoyed since last August, it's also usually fun.

With the market at an all-time high, however, which has often hit in recent weeks, does one still find bargains in stocks? The answer is that the averages, such as the Dow Jones average, are only a guide.

Individual stocks with bright outlooks move up in any market, if the company is going places. There are bargains in every market, even in a sharply declining market.

Often that's the best time to find bargains. When the momentum and mood is bearish, and few are buying, prices often become very attractive. Good buys are always available because there are so many thousands of stocks and some of the companies are going to improve their profits and value in any business trend.

Blue chips tend to follow the widely-used averages closer than over-the-counter stocks, because blue chips are used by those measuring the averages, rightly so.

Money can be made in over-the-counter stocks regardless of the trend among blue chips. But over-the-counter stocks have moved up sharply in many cases in the present bull market and buyers should be selective.

New and small companies are frequently intriguing, because of the low price per share. "In" industries tempt, but are—probably—oversold in the present market.

Finally, most experts would agree, it's better to buy promising stocks and stick with them than to try to trade in and out of the market regularly. That style of investing requires enormous research, is expensive (commissions) and is hard on the nerves.

Food sterilization by nuclear radiation extends shelf life

COLLEGE STATION — A Texas A&M University food scientist says low-level nuclear radiation wastes could be safely used to sterilize and preserve foods.

Radiation could be used at food processing plants to keep potatoes from rotting and extend their shelf life up to a year and a half, said Dr. E. E. Burns. It might also be used to keep milk from spoiling, to preserve strawberries and other fruits and vegetables for longer periods of time, or to keep bread fresher longer.

The process would use radiation from atomic waste to kill microorganisms.

THIS IS THE CULPRIT—A melting pot, used at high temperatures to melt asphalt for roofing caught fire on the south side of the Muleshoe Supermarket Thursday afternoon, leaving debris on the side of the store, and some structural damage to the store building. No injuries were sustained in the fire at the store.

Texas A&M to be world's center for scientific sea drilling COLLEGE STATION — Texas A&M University will become the world's center for scientific ocean drilling, directing research operations for the earth sciences community for the next decade, announced Texas A&M President Dr. Frank E. Vandiver.

As a part of the program, which includes a huge deep-sea drilling ship that can drill at depths in excess of 20,000 feet, Texas A&M will be the repository for thousands of valuable deep sea core samples that will attract to the campus a large number of scientists from around the world.

Vandiver said the university was chosen unanimously by Joint Oceanographic Institutions Inc. (JOI) to direct the multimillion dollar scientific operation for the National Science Foundation's Advanced Ocean Drilling Program. JOI is managing the program for NSF.

Cotton Contamination Cause Farmers Multi-Problems

When a synthetic material accidentally gets into cotton, it isn't a blend, it's a contaminant. And that, says Cotton Incorporated, can cause serious problems for all who depend on cotton for their livelihood.

Dr. William Lalor, Director of Processing Research in Cotton Incorporated's Agricultural Research Division, says the problem of cotton containing contaminants going to the textile mill is one that can be prevented with proper vigilance by cotton producers, ginners and handlers. He identifies some common contaminants and steps to take to eliminate them.

"One common contaminant," says Lalor, "is polypropylene. It is used in tie-down ropes, tarpaulins, bale bagging, end caps for bundles of wire-ties and in several other materials used around the farm and gin. Light-colored polypropylene is no less offensive than the dark colored type."

To prevent bits of polypropylene from getting into bales of cotton means good housekeeping is essential, says Lalor. "Best of all," he adds, "use cotton tarps and ties or use sisal-string ties."

Turning to another problem area, Lalor says, "We have seen sheet plastic in surgical cottons and in apparel fabrics. This comes from plastic tarps, plastic ties, irrigation ditch liners and the many other plastic items used around gins and farms. Good housekeeping and common sense will virtually guarantee that this contamination does not occur."

Still another contaminant is doffer rubber that has been ground from doffer plates by improperly adjusted spindles on mechanical harvesters. To avoid this problem, Lalor makes these suggestions to cotton producers: "Be sure your employees read the operator's manual for the picker and know how to set doffers correctly. Rebuilding picker heads is a job that requires special skills, tools and knowledge. It is usually best left to professionals who are trained by factory personnel. If you rebuild picker heads in your own shop, be sure that you have access to shop manuals for guidance as to approved procedures for your machine."

Cotton Incorporated, the National Cotton Council and harvester manufacturers are studying ways to prevent contamination with rubber from doffer plates.

Still another potential contaminant is any article of clothing or fabric made from synthetic fibers, says

Lalor, adding that grease and oil also can be contaminants. He urges that gin and farm managers train their employees to be vigilant and to use approved procedures that prevent all foreign substances from getting into seed cotton or lint.

"Contamination is a problem for everyone concerned with cotton," says the Cotton Incorporated official. "One contaminated bale can reduce fabric value by hundreds of dollars."

Through the Joint Cotton Industry Bale Packaging Committee, a coordinated effort is under way to make contamination less likely and to alert growers, ginners and handlers of cotton, about the dangers.

ICA To Give Scholarships To Students

The Independent Cattle-men's Association of Texas is aiming to keep more Texas young people involved in agriculture through a new scholarship program begun this year in cooperation with the Texas 4-H Foundation.

At its 9th annual convention in Austin June 24, ICA awarded the first $1,500 installment toward a four-year, $6,000 scholarship to an outstanding 19-year-old Hereford breeder from Ralls, Texas - J.D. Ragland. Ragland, an animal science major at Howard County Junior College in Big Spring, was selected for the honor based on outstanding achievements in beef production and breeding under the Texas 4-H program. Ragland has built a herd of 64 registered and commercial cattle from scratch, and hopes to specialize in artificial insemination and embryo transplants.

The scholarship program, known as the ICA/4-H Ranchers Award, is designed to assist promising young adults who wish to pursue ranching-related degrees.

"Agriculture is our country's greatest strength, and our young people are our most precious asset," said ICA President Roy Wheeler. "ICA is proud to sponsor this scholarship program, and feel that the dollars we invest in our young people's educations will pay off many times over in the future."

Other events at the ICA's annual convention included a panel discussion of the brucellosis problem, featuring several experts including Dr. Terry Foster, pioneer Texas brucellosis researcher; a report on the Beef Industry Council's 1983 beef marketing program; an address by former Gov. Dolph Briscoe and the approval of several resolutions dealing with brucellosis, the windfall profits tax and the selection of federal judges.

Verlin Callahan of Bastrop, an ICA director, was elected secretary of the organization. Jimmy Beddingfield of Jewett, Zane Brisco of Gonzales, Jim Broussard of Hamshire and Carl Wendler of Schulenburg were elected directors. ICA officers reelected for another term were: President Roy Wheeler of Pleasanton; 1st Vice-President Dr. C.E. Payne of Bryan; 2nd Vice-President Donald Hoffman of Nixon and Treasurer Joe Conti, Jr. of Victoria.

Spotlight on HEALTH

Head lice and scabies continue to be a major problem throughout the U.S., according to the official publication of the American Academy of Dermatology. They report that Kwell, with a record of more than 30 years of effectiveness and safety, remains the "drug of choice" prescribed by physicians for controlling these parasitic infestations.

The pain of gastrointestinal gas can be so severe that it can sometimes mimic a heart, gallbladder or ulcer attack. A medication is now available that provides a dual approach to relieving severe gas pain. Phazyme-95, a two-phase tablet, disperses entrapped gas in the upper gastrointestinal tract and facilitates the dispersion and expulsion of gas from the lower gastrointestinal tract.

Patients with chest pains of angina are reported to achieve significant improvement in exercise tolerance for at least eight hours after taking a single 40 mg. capsule of Dilatrate-SR. This is a sustained release capsule with a delivery system designed to meter the release of the medication and keep the release rate constant.

Traditional treatment for the relief of pain, irritation, itching or bleeding often accompanying hemorrhoids includes salves, ointments, suppositories, and sitz baths. In recent years many physicians have been recommending a non-prescription aerosol foam preparation called Proctofoam, which contains a local anesthetic ingredient and has a lubricating action. A special applicator assures delivery of a measured dose and proper placement of the medication.

Letter To The Editor

(Editor's Note: The following letter is a copy of a letter as submitted to the Muleshoe City Council. Carolyn Harris provided the Journal with a copy of the letter.)

Councilmen and Mayor Bratcher:
In 1976 the Muleshoe Girls Softball League was formed. We had 4 teams of 15 girls each but no playing field.

At that time there were 3 boys fields and 1 mens field in Muleshoe but none for the girls.
When we approached Mr. Walter Bartholf, then Parks and Rec. Sup. he told us to play at the old city park. The field had no lights plus due to the location and reputation of the area we sought other arrangements. Dave Marr agreed to let us play on the boys Youth Football field in the new city park. It had lights but no back stop or fence. Parents of the players got together and built a back stop out of chicken wire and pipe. This was used either 4 or 5 years before being replaced by the permanent one we now enjoy.

Six years ago the league approached the city manager about getting some fences put up. The city was unable to do so at that time but Mr. Marr said he would work on it for us. In February of the next year Mr. Marr told me the city had applied and was granted a fund to make improvements in the parks and that our fence would be built first. No fences were built that year and none have been built to date.

We have had as many as 8 teams a year during the years and have to stop our games several times a night to get people and dogs off of our playing area.

This morning I heard on the radio the city was putting up new chain link fences for the Babe Ruth Field where there is already fences. I called Mayor Bratcher and was told this was due to a tournament to be played here. The previous Tuesday night

Texas A&M awarded $8.1 million contract to continue Gulf study

COLLEGE STATION — The largest single research contract ever awarded Texas A&M University — $8.1 million to monitor the environmental impact of salt discharges in the Gulf of Mexico — was announced recently by the Department of Energy.

The project is part of the federal Strategic Petroleum Reserve Program in which salt is leached out of huge underground caverns along the Texas and Louisiana coasts and discharged 12 miles offshore through a pipeline. The caverns will then be used to store 750 million barrels of oil to be available in case of a national emergency.

"We have been involved in the largest environmental monitoring program in the Gulf of Mexico in history," said Dr. Roy Hann, head of the Texas Engineering Experiment Station's environmental engineering division.

Results of the earlier work, funded through a $2.6 million grant, showed only minor changes in marine life from the discharges.

The contract effectively extends the project for two and a half years, said Hann.

James Brown, Donna Thompson and I had met with league officials from area towns concerning starting an annual All Star Tournament for the girls. Since it was Muleshoe League officials idea it should have been held here. We declined this opportunity because we do not have an adequate field to play on. The tournament will be held in Clovis on July 30, this year. But as I have said this is to be held annually.

Mayor Bratcher says the lighting situation was the problem in putting up our fences. Adequate lighting would be very nice but we could play with it as we have been for the past 8 years if we could have some fences.

We have no complaint with the location of our field. It is convenient to the bath rooms and in a good location.

Please, when you are planning your budget for the coming year, keep the girls in mind and help us to have as nice a playing field as the boys and men have.

Sincerely,
Carolyn Harris
President Muleshoe Girls Softball League

COLLECTOR CARS

Useful Tips On Collecting Cars

A car didn't have to be a success in its own time to be considered desirable today. For example, the 1958 Edsel was a major disappointment to its makers when it first came out, yet it's highly sought-after by collectors these days. Studebakers are also valuable though the Studebaker company was bankrupted in 1966. Very popular are the 1955-57 Chevys, which have the reputation among serious car collectors as the best cars Chevrolet ever built.

1936 Chevy Delivery Van—a familiar sight at car shows.

Most closed models are now valued at $1,000 to $4,500, depending on condition; special bodies and convertibles run $2,500 to $15,000.

Are parts for old cars hard to get? No, and they need not be expensive. The most desirable parts for old cars are "new old stock" from the cars' manufacturers in the original box, with maybe 30 or 40 years in storage. Other parts used by car collectors are rebuilt and others newly manufactured.

Once you've found the old car of your dreams, chances are you'll need a few parts to put that car back on the road. In Hemmings Motor News you can find the parts, literature, accessories and services you may need to make your car the beauty it used to be, plus literally thousands of old cars for sale. Each issue has over 450 pages of automotive advertising and is read by more than 200,000 dedicated enthusiasts. For free leaflets about the magazine, you can write to Hemmings Motor News, Box 100A Bennington, VT 05201.
