

Wildcats Face Floydada At Lubbock Friday

BY ROGERS
A question buzzing around in the minds of all Littlefield Wildcat fans is when the Cats meet Floydada's team at Lowrey Field in Lubbock. The question is: "Will this be a blowout?" and it will be answered when the Cats meet Floydada's team at Lowrey Field in Lubbock, just off Loop 289.

It will be a continuation of the fine rivalry that has developed between the two teams in addition to being a Bi-district tilt, with the winner advancing to the next rung in the state playoffs. Kickoff time is 7:30 p.m., and Littlefield will be the home team and occupy the west side of the stadium.

hands will be well for the game, with the exception of Bill Turner (out with a broken ankle).
Over at Floydada, Coach L. G. Wilson said that his team was "a little bruised after our game with Tulia. It was a tough, physical game, but hopefully our boys will all be ready to go Friday."
The past four times the two teams met, a total of 23 points have been scored. The Cats have scored more points than that by themselves in eight games this year. The rivalry began in 1971, when Littlefield and Floydada battled to a 0-0 draw. The Cats took the District 3-AA title with an edge in first downs. Then Floydada shifted to another district, and a regular season game between the two ended in a 3-0 Whirlwind win. They met again in Bi-district, and again the Winds blanked the Cats and won 7-0. Bringing the series up to date, Floydada handed the Cats one of their two setbacks on the fifth game of this season, this time by the score of 7-6.

"Floydada has come on real strong offensively since we played them last," Blakely asserted. "They beat Ralls 52-0, Avernathy 51-7, Idalou 35-9 and Tulia 28-0. Their combination of a good offense with their very strong defense has made them a very fine football team."
"I wouldn't say it is going to be another defensive struggle as it's been in the past, but I do believe it will be very tight. The team making the fewest mistakes is going to win."
"You never can predict whether the game will be low-scoring or high," Wilson said, "because either team is capable of breaking open the game. It depends on the circumstances and how a team holds up in the tough situations. Both teams will be thinking of ways to score, and it's impossible to say how successful they'll be."
"We're just going to try and play the best football we possibly can, because we know it's going to take a fanatical, all-out effort to be able to compete with the Wildcats," Wilson added. "They're a strong, physical team, and very well coached, so we'll have to be ready."
Blakely says much the same about the Winds. "We consider them a very strong defensive football team, and their offense has been improving greatly the last few weeks. It's going to be very difficult for us to have the same defensive success we had in the last game."

Mike Hatley and Mark Craig.
"We've gotten a lot of mileage out of Cagle and our left halfback Rance Young this year," agreed Wilson. "Those two, and our end Lynn Becker, have played well all season, and were about the only experienced people we have had starting for us." Defensively, Wilson singled out Becker and Quisenberry as important players.
"We were real inexperienced when we started this year, and we still are," Wilson said. "But the team has started to jell. As an example of our inexperience, we usually have about 20 seniors on our team. This year we have 12."
"To be honest, we feel like we're real fortunate to be where we are now. We considered this year a rebuilding year, and we didn't think we'd make it to Bi-district. But our kids came through and proved they wanted to play, so here we are."

Littlefield will start eight seniors offensively and have 10 playing or alternating defensively. Offensively, there is Quarterback Terry Bryson (Sr., 163 pounds), Fullback Randy Cook (Sr., 196), Tailback Kenny Owens (Sr., 161), Halfback Pat Henderson (Sr., 155), Ends Chris Pope (Sr., 159), Bryan Myres (Sr., 155) and Stanley Patterson (Sr., 143), Tackles Ricky Hopping (Soph., 199) and Doug McCain (Sr., 197), Guards Skip Smith (Sr., 224) and David Blevins (Sr., 162) and Center Ricky Richards (Sr., 170).

Defensively, the lineup reads Secondarymen Byrson, Pope, Myres and Henderson, Outside Linebackers Craig Ratliff (Sr., 154) and Gary Lichte (Sr., 172), Inside Linebackers Cook and Owens, Ends Richards, Ben Farmer (Sr., 177) and Kenny Trotter (Sr., 165), and Tackles Hopping, McCain and Ed Yoakum (Sr., 203).

There will be a pep rally for the squad on the corner of Phelps and Fifth Street at 4 p.m. Friday.

18 BLIZZARD REMEMBERED

Buck Howard, Windmill Expert

BLAH RODGERS
Buck Howard's windmilling days, his share of branding, dipping and roping on the L. Seven, U Bar, Mallet and Cattle Company and other places.
"I could hold a job as a cowboy," Buck said, "but I never learned to like it."
Buck windmilled and cowboied for some of the biggest spreads in Texas, earning at $1 a day. When he quit windmilling in 1936 he was making $65 a month.
"That was a whole bunch," he added.
After WWI, a top hand got $35 a month, and that mill was called Hardluck from then on.
Buck windmilled on the Mallet Land & Cattle Company from 1919 to 1926. He was windmilling going and watered a head of cattle on 150,000 acres of the Hockley, Bailey, Yoakum and other counties.
For seven years he worked lines of windmills starting at 5:30 every morning. "When I quit, I said I wasn't going to get up until I woke up," he said. "And I didn't either."

Every windmill had a name. If the name wasn't any more than "Old Mill on the Hill" it designated the location of the mill. Some of the more interesting mill names like Polecat, Hardluck, Shortfinger, and Sanctified have stories behind them.
"It took a week to drill a water well, then," Buck said. "When they were drilling the well eight miles southwest of where Levelland is now, the drillers pitched a tent at the location. One night a polecat got in the tent. That's how Polecat got named."

Hardluck mill wasn't named until a fellow fell off the tower. "It killed him, and that mill was called Hardluck from then on."
A driller got his finger caught in some machinery and one windmill was called "Shortfinger" from that day on. "Bughill Mill" got its name for no better reason than a big bunch of bugs after a summer rain shower. "Sanctified" turned out to be as sweet a well as its name implied.

Sanctified was located about where Girlstown is now. While digging, the drilling machine broke. The driller quit working and took Sunday off. When he started back Monday morning the bit came loose and the digging was finished without any trouble.

"I worked Sanctified for nine straight years," Buck mused, "and that was the sweetest little thing—206 feet deep, too. And the furthestest away from the ranch."
It took Howard eight hours to reach Sanctified until the ranch bought a "pickup" in 1920. The Model T roadster turtleback was replaced with a flatbed box to hold the windmill tools.

Windmilling not only took up all the daylight hours six days a week, but Buck only came to town every six months. An unexpected trip in to town for windmill supplies or a dance at a line camp or ranch headquarters offered the only reasons for bathing and shaving.

"Be dog," Buck said, "we danced all night long at Zavalla line camp in December 1917. People came from South Spade headquarters all the way to Brownfield." All the men paid $2.50 a piece for the Red Cross benefit that raised $60. "There were two rooms, and be dog if there weren't enough people to fill both floors. They fed us at midnight, there was coffee all night long, then they fed us breakfast, too.

"I was working for Pool Brothers in Goodman back then. They went broke during the 1918 snow storm that ruined so many." Half of the 3,000 head of cattle on the Pool Ranch died in that snow storm.

When the blizzard eased, Buck found cattle frozen to death while standing up.

"Cattle drift in front of a snow storm. When a herd came up to a fence they'd freeze to death if they didn't break over. There would be cattle in the middle still standing and frozen solid as concrete, and dead cattle all around. Snow would blow off the backs of the cattle standing and all you could see was the hair across their backs.

"You could push your foot through between the standing cattle and there would be little calves beneath the standing cattle. We knew if we got them out then, they'd freeze, too. We went back to headquarters, made a snow sled, hooked it to a team of mules and went back for the calves. We tied their legs together and took them back to camp. We had one pen of 65 baby calves that their mothers had frozen to death.

"I talked to one skinner who said he skinned 800 head of Mashed O cattle against one fence line from Amherst east to Spade. The Mashed O lost that many cattle in one pasture."

Buck made his last cattle drive in 1926. "We commenced at Muleshoe and took six weeks driving the cattle to the Mallet headquarters 25 miles southwest of Littlefield. Sixteen of us went six weeks without shaving. When the grass was good, we wouldn't move the cook wagon all day. The cattle fattened as we went along.

"All that hurrying and roping in the movies is just for the pictures. We wouldn't have any chousing. If a cowboy wanted to get fired, just let him choose the cattle or rope 'em."

"I've rode all day long and never let a horse break into a gallop. When we finished a drive, the cattle would be just as fat or fatter than when we started."

Buck met the future Mrs. Howard while working on the Mallet. "Mama, shall I tell about making a date with you and going out to the Spade Ranch and the tallest windmill? Or how about telling about Abbie Floyd? Poor old Abbie. Poor Louise," he said, and Louise and Buck grinned remembering how Floyd's harassing backfired after two weeks of Floyd telling Buck how somebody was beating his time.
Buck quit windmilling for the Mallet in 1926. "It was in November," he said. "By doggies, it was about this time of year. After that, that's when its gets interesting. I married that thing," he said, pointing to Louise.

"We could ride all day in a Model Ford in 1926 and never pass a house," Mrs. Howard said. "There were only two houses between Ropesville and Levelland. One was the K camp headquarters and the other a deserted line camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard moved to Lamb County in 1928. They lived on their farm in the Rocky Ford community until 1942. They moved to their house on E. 6th in Littlefield in 1962.

"And I haven't got used to living in town, yet," Howard concluded. "I still go out to my barn and garden and turnip patch. When I'm not messing around with my trees and junk, I like to talk to the old cowboys and reminisce about windmilling days."

Citizens Campaigning To Keep S&H Store

Several interested Littlefield citizens have been concerned with the proposed closing of Lamb County's only S&H Green Stamp store, located in Littlefield. And some merchants have expressed concern as to whether they will continue to issue the savings stamps.

The company has decided to close 86 stores—nine of which are in this area. According to Mrs. Theima Vorheis, local store manager, Dec. 24 has been designated as the last day to do business.

"They're not closing the store because of lack of service," she emphasized. "Littlefield is growing, and we need the store."

The regional director for the company is John M. Darden of Fort Worth, and may be contacted at 817-926-3346, S&H Company, 2900 W. Seminary Drive, Fort Worth, 76133.

D. J. Jewett is director of store operations, and may be addressed at Sperry and Hutchinson Company, 330 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Tony Aguirre Wins Guessing Contest

The scores plummeted in this week's Leader-News Football Contest, and Tony Aguirre won the first place prize easily with 13 predictions out of 16 games.

Aguirre wins $5, and finished ahead of three other contestants who guessed 11. Sharrise Cowen won second place and $3, and Kennedy Veach finished in third for $2. Maurice Sexton also predicted 11, then guessed the Dallas-Philadelphia tie-breaker game on the nose before missing the Houston-Kansas City game completely.

Some of the most commonly missed games were Olton's win over Dimmitt, Tahoka's defeat of Post, Roosevelt's upset of Denver City, Cleveland's victory over Oakland, Rice's win over Texas A&M and Pittsburgh's loss to Denver.

With only two weeks left in the contest, Dennis Jackson maintained his seasonal lead with 131. Cindy McNeese is three back with 128, followed by Kim Hill and Larry Price at 127.

Thanksgiving Day

IN THE FALL of 1620, a brave band of 101 Pilgrims set sail on the Mayflower from Plymouth, England. Landing in the New World on the coast of Massachusetts, they had little time to "dig in" against winter. By the following April 4 of them were dead.

Despite their suffering, the surviving Pilgrims set a great example for us following their first harvest in 1621 by celebrating their blessings with a feast of Thanksgiving.

MORE THAN A century and a half later, George Washington proclaimed a national day of thanks on Nov. 26, 1789. Lincoln revived the custom in 1863 and, since 1941, according to a joint resolution of Congress, Thanksgiving falls on the fourth Thursday in November.

It is interesting to note that America has been in the midst of crisis each time its leaders have been moved to rededicate the Nation to thanking God for the blessings of liberty and abundance. In 1789, the United States was struggling for its place among the family of nations; in 1863 the country was wracked by civil war, and in 1941 America entered the Second World War.

The lesson from history seems to be that it has taken perilous times to force America and her people to their knees.

TODAY WE AGAIN FACE such times. Seldom have our citizens been so full of doubt about the integrity of their leaders or the worth of their country's goals.

But America, whatever her shortcomings, remains the choicest land on earth. Her Constitution, based on the dignity and worth of each individual, is the oldest form of government in the world. With six percent of the world's population, America's citizens enjoy 40 percent of its material wealth.

This week we indeed have much cause for Thanksgiving.

Be Thankful

"REST AND BE THANKFUL." How far modern man has strayed from that wise old Scottish counsel!

Too often we scurry about our daily affairs, complaining of traffic, the state of the Union, food prices and the like—never bothering to count our blessings.

This Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 22, would be an excellent time to reflect upon the true meaning of life in America and, in so doing, come to a real appreciation of our good fortune.

THANKSGIVING is more than a unique American celebration to be observed with parades, roast turkey and speeches. It honors the beginnings of the U.S. and our rich legacy of freedom, won by the blood and sacrifices of the first American settlers and others who came before us.

How can anyone breathe the sweet air of freedom and not dedicate themselves to the democratic ideals which make life worth living and upon which this nation was founded?

That each of us should be alive and living in the greatest country on Earth is cause enough to give thanks every day of the year.

We should never be too busy to "rest and be thankful."

A Psalm Of Praise

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the context of a speech given by Mrs. Olene Gibson as she spoke before the Adult 4 Sunday School Department at First Baptist Church Nov. 18.

PSALM 100

AN EXHORTATION TO WORSHIP GOD JOYFULLY AND THANKFULLY. A PSALM OF PRAISE.

Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands.

Serve the Lord with gladness: come before his presence with singing.

Know ye that the Lord he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves: we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.

Enter into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise: be thankful unto him, and bless his name.

For the Lord is good: his mercy is everlasting, and his truth endureth to all generations.

THE LONGER we live the more we realize the blessings that lie in everyday living. To name a few, the marvel of good health, the dearness of home and loved ones, the little treasures that money can't buy, the wonder of the world of nature, freedom under God, and the bounty which we enjoy in these good plains of West Texas.

Thanksgiving is a time to celebrate these and many other blessings.

It was Moses who directed the Hebrews: "Thou shalt keep the feast of the tabernacle seven days, after thou hast gathered in from thy threshing floor and from thy wine-press; and thou shalt rejoice in the feast—seven days shalt thou keep a feast unto the Lord thy God."

THANKSGIVING has become so much a part of the American tradition that we are prone to think that it is of American origin.

But Thanksgiving can be traced back thru the ages even to the Canaanites, from whom the children of Israel adopted so many of their customs. The Book of Judges says: "And they went out into the fields and gathered their vineyards, and trod the grapes and held festival, and went into the house of their God, and did eat and drink.

We take rightful pride in the proclamation of Gov. Bradford of the Pilgrim settlement of Plymouth, ordering a 3 day feast and celebration in Oct. 1621—to give prayerful thanks for the harvest they had enjoyed following their first tragic winter on these shores.

THIS HANDFUL of stalwart souls had come through great tribulation to spiritual peace. Behind them was a winter of bitter hardship. They had endured cold and hunger and sickness. Their faith never faltered, though they buried their dead in the darkness of night so the enemy wouldn't learn of their weakened numbers.

Now they gathered what was to them a bountiful harvest and their hearts were filled with gratitude for God's goodness. So the First Thanksgiving Day in America was celebrated. A great American tradition was set to become deeprooted in the minds and hearts of countless generations.

No man lives for himself alone. Divine law decrees that each life shall touch the next on down thru the ages, so that the good men do is compounded, and the evil reduced to nothingness. If there was harshness in the Pilgrim's way of life, there was also spiritual strength and beauty, and these have come down to us.

If selfishness and narrowness limited the spirits of the Founders, their vision and their love of liberty were unlimited, and these also have come to be our own.

If in the hearts and minds of our forefathers there has been ambitions for place and power, there was also faith in our country's future and respect for its standards. These, too, have come down to us. Through the years this rich inheritance of courage, faith and power has been ours.

WE SHOULD RESOLVE that we in our turn will pass on to those who come after us a tradition of faith in our way of life, of courage, of human decency and spiritual living that will prove us worthy of the great American tradition.

Praise God from whom all blessings flow. Let us keep them in mind as we again celebrate Thanksgiving this year.

MUCH TO BE THANKFUL FOR

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Restricted Life

A CONSTANT REVEALING of problems and difficulties, without giving any solutions or even any justified hope of solutions is a very real threat to all of us.

One of the leading psychoanalysts has made a very strong case out of this situation by pointing out how this common, everyday practice produced a "restricted life".

BEING TOLD WHAT is wrong, day after day, but not being given any solutions is disconcerting and very discouraging. The situation is made even worse by the failure to look for a talk about the "right" and "good" things.

Of course, there are wrong things which need to be made right; and we may be able to help with some of these, but certainly not with all of them. We will be more useful and happier persons if we ignore the "wrong" things which are completely out of our reach. That is, we must be concerned about the problems for which we may be able to help provide solutions. Other problems must be solved by someone else.

THERE ARE PROBLEMS and difficulties, and there will always be. Some of these are completely out of our range of influence, and there is nothing we can do.

Why, then, should we create a "restricted life" by giving these a prominent place in our thoughts? We restrict our lives by the dissipation of our mental and spiritual strength, and by the dilution of our personal happiness and sense of well-being.

LIVING IS PROBLEM-SOLVING. That is, each person has problems to consider, for which there may or may not be solutions. We may help each other with some of them, but we may also be able to help with the problems affecting the general good.

When we can do so, we should do so, however, we go too far in accepting "worrying about" the things we can change or correct or make right. We have "restricted life" for ourselves to no good purpose. We are adding problems to problems.

IN OUR TIME, we can know everything that goes wrong, and by the time it happens.

We put great emphasis on being informed and there is need for being informed about some things; but that probably be overdone.

IF WE STAY UPSET about the things we can do nothing about, we are creating a "restricted life" for ourselves. This is true from the standpoint of taking upon ourselves the responsibility for things we cannot effect one way or the other.

When we do this, we further restrict our lives by making ourselves inefficient in coping with the problems of living which are specifically our personal responsibility.

FOR THE BEST OF LIVING, we concentrate on the problems and difficulties about which we can do something, and leave the others to people who are responsible for them.

I READ WHERE Congress has appropriated another cool million dedicated to the purpose of further investigating the President and procuring his impeachment.

Sickening, isn't it, to see so many, otherwise intelligent people, being caught up in the throes of a mad obsession, such as is prevalent in the enemies of the President.

THE IDEA IS not so much that he's guilty of any wrong-doing, it's that he's dared defy those in high places, and act contrary to their petty dictates!

Watergate did not start with the disclosure of the wire-tapping incident. It started when the president took the bull by the horns, running the Vietnam war as he thought it should be, and brought the conflict to a close, in spite of the bungling interference of a hostile Congress!

THE MADDENING thing about the whole, present situation is that neither Watergate committee, handslapped news media, attorneys, nor the congressmen have been able to prove ONE point in the indictment of Mr. Nixon. (To re-coin a phrase, "Hell hath no fury like that of a pumped-up ego, scorned!")

The mad obsession that permeates the tormentors of the president will not be satisfied until he's a broken man, made to grovel and beg. This is their aim and purpose.

YES, HE BROUGHT an end to the war, he's improved relations with our avowed enemies, he's broadened our foreign trade to the point that our products are bringing the highest prices in history, and it's now possible that every able bodied person, who so desires, can find a job.

One wonders what might have been accomplished, our lawmakers in cooperation of our lawmakers and publicity departments.

I DOUBT THAT he's patient enough to have not noticed any halo around his head, neither wings sprouting from his back, BUT I DO AVER that he's the greatest, strongest, and most dedicated man that ever graced the face of God's green earth!

Guilty, or not, he's still our President, and, in times to come, we'll be able to see just how fortunate we were to have had him at the head of our government. Somehow, I'm hoping that he'll be able to laugh in the faces of his tormentors, and SOON!

LOOKS AS THO I'm gonna be paying a little attention to Turn Row, despite of myself. I'd thought that ruled me out, on his first child, but evidently not.

ANY IDIOT should know that if two trains two hours to meet, they'll fly in 60 mph should cover miles.—Provided he fell straight when the trains met. (With no rest of course.)

AS FOR THE two fathers and two sons, I'd figure that the THREE of them would take seven head of cattle, and go their separate ways. (See, and Gran' pop)

WHY A COUPLE of gals would pay for market with five and seven respectively (At today's prices) is a mystery. I'm of the opinion they would be better off to have scrambled eggs and stayed home.—(or, were ostrich eggs?)

Come on, Turn Row, give your game book back to them!

Turn Row COMMENTS

By EMIL MACHA

WATERGATE AND SECURITY

The Chairman of the House Committee on Internal Security—Richard H. Ichord (D-Mo.)—warns that certain persons and organizations are "trying to take advantage of Watergate to destroy American's security programs."

Ichord, in an interview with the American Security Council's "Washington Report", said: "I think it is imperative that we recognize that in the emotions and confusions surrounding the recent revelation of illegal surveillance activities, burglaries, and illegal break-ins, there are some people and organizations in this country motivated by both good and bad intentions, who are trying to take advantage of the situation and destroy America's security programs."

Ichord said his nine-man committee will hold hearings to determine just how far the FBI can go in domestic intelligence and whether new measures are needed to reinforce government security and loyalty programs.

"What we are concerned with in these hearings," said Ichord, "is FBI domestic intelligence activities—on-going investigations as opposed to closed-in ones. On-going investigations are the domestic intelligence activities of the FBI. Closed-in investigations are those to gather evidence to prosecute a specific crime."

"There are efforts in this country to stop on-going investigations always. If they succeed, all of your security programs will go on the way because the domestic intelligence activities of the FBI are the very foundations of those three security programs. Without the domestic intelligence furnished by the FBI, no programs can be operated."

Ichord said it is vital that domestic intelligence programs be carried out effectively and without resort to "hunting or Watergate type" "plumb" operations.

"I want to speak very frankly," Ichord, "both to conservatives and liberals. The surest way to guarantee the excesses of another McCarthy in the future is to destroy these programs. For one of the principal causes of the excesses in the 50's was the almost absence of any such effective program."

"Our interest is to see that such activities are carried out not vigorously, intelligently and fairly, and with due regard for the constitutional rights of all American citizens. What we're concerned about here is a proper balance of the interests of the nation against the interests of the individual."

WE'VE HEARD that you can't get enough gasoline in some places to complete a set of steak knives.

Olton Ends Season With Big Victory

The Olton Mustangs pulled off one of their biggest wins Friday to lead area teams in football action.

The Mustangs used the 174-yard rushing by Sophomore Tailback Joe Alcorta to carve out a 16-15 win over Dimmitt. That put the Mustangs' record at 5-5, and ended an up-and-down season that included wins over Floydada, Lockney and Dimmitt.

Amherst was the only other area team to chalk up a victory, that one a 35-0 whitewash of Whiteface. The Bulldogs scored in every period to push their year-ending ledger to 7-3, and there is little comparison to last year's team that went 0-10.

Over at Sudan, the Kress Kangaroos surprised the Hornets by slipping past then 21-18. It was Kress' third win of the season, and dropped Sudan's record to 6-4. The Hornets finished 3-3 in the district race.

Springlake-Earth had to go up against unbeaten Vega, and the Longhorns rolled to an easy 63-6 win over the Wolverines. S-E finished out their grid campaign with two wins against eight losses.

Whitharral and Anton also finished their respective years with 2-8 marks. Both teams lost by scores of 26-12 Friday, with the Panthers losing to Wellman and Anton falling to Shallowater.

Santa's workshops overflowing with gift ideas greatest selections waiting those who begin to shop early may be arriving by dogsled, fire engine, choo-choo helicopter or even parachute. He's Santa Claus and in his way.

no matter how he makes his grand entrance, one is for sure — when the jolly man in red first shows his cheeks and jingles his bells the Christmas Gifts are officially open.

indications are that this Christmas will be the merrier for families everywhere. Stores have stocked shelves with new merchandise and every aisle is offering solutions to "no-give" problems.

the earlier they begin gift hunting, the better the selection. Earlybird shoppers also have an opportunity to check for the best buy.

Shopping early means planning earlier. A well-made gift list should include primary gift suggestions as well as secondary choices to avoid duplications and disappointments.

Special gifts
When making out your list, be sure to remember needs for all those who have been extra nice to your family during the year — doorman, postman, milkman, teachers and others.

With wide varieties of new gifts on the market this year, shopping for presents should prove to be exciting and entertaining — and that makes for dynamic gifting.

The key to keeping your gifts from becoming locked in the "oh-hum" doldrums is to look for gifts that are suited to the intended recipient's life-style, gifts that flatter and gifts that amuse.

Exciting gifts are everywhere. They are in jewelry stores, petshops, hardware stores and toylands just to name a few.

In fact, there's no limit to the number of possible places where exceptional gifts can be found.

Store windows may give you further ideas but the best advice is to keep abreast of holiday merchandise through the advertisements

Family to family
Gifting takes many forms every year. A popular trend that is expected to continue its favorable increase again this year is the presentation of a larger gift among families, in addition to the many other gifts they might exchange. This super-gift may be a color TV, a new car, a vacation or an in-ground swimming pool — whatever the choice, its importance is that it is a gift from the family to the family.

As technology progresses, Christmas tends to regress. Not in spirit, to be sure, but rather in a returning to the memorable festive delights of days gone by.

It's the nature of holidays for people to be happy: a time for family and friends to gather and rejoice. Call it nostalgia, and it's warm, beautiful and comforting.

Returning to yesteryear is reflected in holiday home decorations, in tree ornaments and in the spirit of Yule parties but most importantly it's in the hearts of all.

To further spice the holidays with seasonal flavor, many families will be taking advantage of the beauty around them — public

Christmas displays and local pageants, school plays, parades, manger exhibitions, gaily decorated homes and awe-inspiring store windows — to help bring back the feeling of the good old days.

"We Service What We Sell"

Hobby gifts suggest 'do your own thing'

How nice to select a gift whose hidden as well as obvious ingredients appeal to most anyone. And there is no worry about size or color or whether it will be returned after Christmas or tossed in a closet to gather dust.

It's an unforgettable gift with endless pleasure. It's the gift of a do-it-yourself hobby.

Countless reasons are cited for the boom in hobbies and crafts. It's the age of doing your own thing. It's a search for individuality in a computerized society.

Hobby is...

Depending on the age and frame of mind of the hobbyist, psychologists say, having a hobby is fun, creative, relaxing, therapeutic, or educational. It helps build a sense of confidence and pride in achievement.

"Painting, even by number, building or operating a miniature electric train empire, flying scale model planes, or assembling and collecting authentic scale models," says Dr. Albert Freeman, Beverly Hills, Cal. psychologist, "helps any executive, foreman, or shopworker to clear his mind of tension and work-a-day blahs.

Restores humor

"It helps to restore one's sense of humor and affords relaxation far better than any pill.

"This is equally true for a career woman or a mother or wife," points out Dr. Freeman. "The stress on a career woman is even more stringent than on a man.

"And there is a psychological need for the average non-career woman to prove to herself and to her family that she has more productive capabilities than merely keeping house."

Whatever the reasons for the unprecedented demand for things to make, the Hobby Association of America reports that never has such a wide variety of hobby and craft materials and kits been available, happily at prices to fit any budget, either for a stocking filler or that one impressive gift.

They range in design from those for the unskilled beginner, youngster or adult; to sophisticated kits for the experienced artisan.

More and more women evidently enjoy being praised for their craft work as well as for their thrift.

There are relatively inexpensive kits, for example, to easily make chic and exotic jewelry and dress accessories either for herself or to give as a gift comparable in taste, in these days of inflation, to costly finished pieces.

Kits for all

There are kits to make stunning belts and handbags. Kits to make smart home decorations and wall hangings, ceramic pieces, decoupage, needlepoint, macrame, candles, painting and art kits for emulators of Grandma Moses or Pablo Picasso.

Instant ecology

For those with a green thumb there are ecology kits. The true earth-minded will take delight in kits that can easily convert those things usually thrown away — tin cans, plastic containers, egg cartons, and even eggshells into lovely one-of-a-kind gifts.

There are kits for practically every field of science that will intrigue students from elementary to college level. Kits of anatomy, zoology, ichthyology, and biology; electricity, electronic, chemistry and computer kits.

"Having a constructive hobby," says Dr. Marian Wagstaff, Chairperson, Secondary Education, California State University at Los Angeles, "develops good concentration habits and learning skills in the students and raises achievement levels."

And for those who do something different Christmas there are kits that easily make the most usual and beautiful Christmas decorations the Christmas tree will be to wear.

DUTCH GREAT GRANDMA

IN THE NICK OF TIME

In Europe, Santa Claus appears on a horse carrying baskets of treats for children who have been good and bad for those who have behaved.

FROELICH WEHNACHTEN

German settlers in Pennsylvania were the known users of Christmas trees in America as early as 1746. That marks the 227th anniversary CARRY-ABOUTS FOR CHRISTMAS. These five different Christmas gift-ideas all entertain electronically. Top shelf, left to right: a solid state AM-FM portable radio provides rich, full sound even outdoors. Monophonic portable solid state cassette player/recorder with special microphone that locks away in unit for total portability. Middle shelf: monophonic portable phonograph plays anywhere on batteries, on AC indoors; blue denim 12-inch diagonal black-and-white TV set. Below: AC powered solid state stereophonic portable phonograph with detachable speaker units, diamond LP stylus. From Zenith.

FUN TO GIVE OR TO GET. This compact 12-inch diagonal black-and-white TV set swivels and tilts on its own special base so the picture screen directly faces you. There's also instant picture and sound, plus a "private listening" earphone with a 15-foot cord.

Pick-me-up

TABLE RADIOS on the Christmas gift scene range in size, shape and purpose. This one, from Zenith, is designed for use as a pick-me-up AM-FM portable or as a table model on its own battery recharger base. Tuning dial lights up when set is on, "blacks out" when off.

Tips on buying Christmas tree

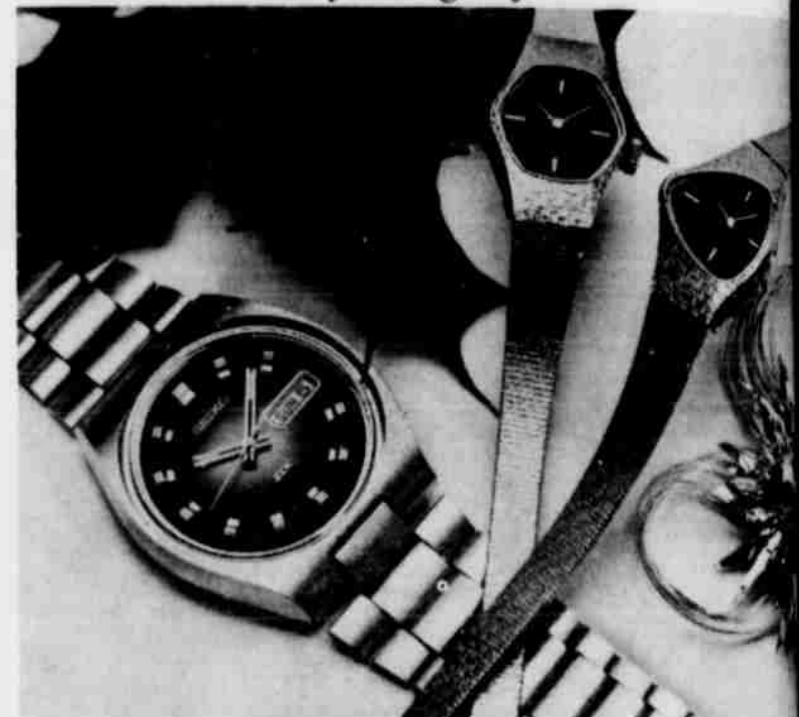

DON'T BUY IF:

- A bent needle breaks.
- Needles fall to the ground when the stump is tapped.
- The stump is not moist and sticky.

TREE IS HEALTHY IF:

- The needles are pliable.
- Needles are firmly attached to the branches.
- Branches are free of foreign matter such as vines, moss.

'Timely' designs for Christmas

TRIANGLES, HEXAGONS AND CIRCLES are "in time" for Christmas gift-giving. Seiko Time Corporation's newest collection of watches features a varied array of designs for the wrist of that special person. The collection of sports and dress watches for women also features brightly-colored dials, latest electronic innovations and matching bracelets. For men, available in Seiko's "Deluxe 'DX' Series" is this (left) calendar sports-dress model in a yellow stainless steel circular case with a sun ray dial (254296M), or a stainless steel circular case with a sun ray golden brown dial (254297M). For women, among the models available in Seiko's "Designer Series" of dress watches is this (center) gold stainless steel hexagonally-shaped case with a wine red dial (254298M) (right) a gold stainless steel triangular-shaped case with an odyssey blue dial (254299M). Seiko's entire collection of watches are available in the popular price ranges at leading jewelry stores nationally.

Stereo modules 'sing-in' the blues; spin musical excitement your way

Spin musical excitement for your teenager this Christmas with bright blue stereo modules. It's a young-at-heart music system.

The solid-state phonograph has its own blue-tinted dust cover, and the blue four-inch cube speakers separate up to 18 feet for true stereo sound.

This clean modern design brightens any bookshelf or table. The phono cabinet is durable and high-impact.

The phonograph plays long-playing records and has a pop-up adapter for 45 rpm records.

Now that portable phonographs are more popular than ever, this low-cost, high style stereo sound system by General Electric, retails at about $35.00.

It's a great way to decorate a teenage room at home or at school, with both music and color.

THIS CHRISTMAS SURPRISE your teenager with musical excitement in the form of bright blue stereo modules. This solid-state phonograph with its own dust cover and 4-inch cube speakers is a young-at-heart music system from General Electric.

For delightful tree decorations, salvage egg shells, by piercing small hole in each end, blowing through one end so white and yolk fall into bowl (for use in baking, scrambling). Cover eggshell with Elmer's, dip into glitter for sparkle.

Children will enjoy making 3-D Christmas cards from shirt cardboard decorated with cut-outs of felt, foil, fabric, cotton or beads. Glue on with Elmer's. Trim edges with ric-rac for the final touch of holiday flair. It's fun.

For lovely personalized tree-trimmings, take plain, solid-colored ornaments, let children write their names, the date with Elmer's Glue-All. Sprinkle glitter in contrasting colors over Elmer's for sparkling, personalized tree-trimming.

Make balloon-wrap ornaments by dipping string into bowl of Elmer's Glue-All, wrapping around already-inflated balloon. When glue is thoroughly dry, puncture and remove balloon. Ornament can be sprayspainted with Krylon, then dipped into glitter for sparkle.

Holiday things to cut, paint, glue, give

Turn plastic drink-cup covers into charming decorations: cut off the rims, spread Elmer's glue generously on both sides to hold glitter, beads, buttons.

Make papier mache tree ornaments; soak shredded newspaper in water; drain, then mix in Elmer's Glue-All. Mold ornaments and let dry, then paint.

Styrofoam balls make interesting tree ornaments when decorated with gift-wrap ribbon, trim, sequins and beads in colorful, imaginative patterns.

Today's tree ornaments stronger, finer in design with modern technology

Families have long cherished special Christmas tree ornaments that have a singular meaning for them. In fact, Europeans emigrating to the United States often brought cherished Christmas tree ornaments with them as poignant reminders of families and lands they left behind.

The custom of decorating a Christmas tree began in the Thuringian Mountains of central Germany.

German emigrants carried the Christmas tree decorating custom where they went — decorating the first Christmas tree in this country before 1700. They used colorful glass ornaments that were hand-decorated.

As more and more families marveled at the fire-light's reflection dancing in the ornaments of glass on Christmas trees, the demand increased.

For many decades, skilled Thuringian craftsmen, particularly in the village of Lauscha, supplied the world with their delicate and beautiful hand-blown ornaments.

Working in typical "cottage industry" fashion, artisans of this area produced tens of thousands of ornaments each year.

Entire families worked at the craft, and prices were low because labor was cheap. In one day, one usual production team — a family headed by the father as chief craftsman — could produce 600 of the intricate decorations that made Lauscha the "Christmas tree ornament capital of the world."

ALONG WITH CONVENTIONAL GLASS Christmas tree ornaments in a variety of assortments, Corning Glass Works is now introducing new collector series. Bringing back a bit of the magic of the past is the Currier and Ives series depicting intricate scenes on 3 1/2" ornaments.

Until 1925, Germany had no competition for the Christmas tree ornament market in America. Then the Japanese began to manufacture glass decorations for export.

When hostilities broke out in 1939, the United States was left virtually without a supply of Christmas tree ornaments. That year, a major retail organization made a plea to Corning Glass Works for glass Christmas tree ornaments.

Corning accepted the challenge, and in 1939 American Christmas trees were decorated with the first machine-produced glass ornaments manufactured in this country.

For more than 30 years, Corning has manufactured glass ornaments at its plant in Wellsboro, Pa. and the Pennsylvania village has assumed the title "Christmas tree ornament capita of the world."

The machine that produced Christmas tree ornaments at Corning's Wellsboro, Pa. plant turns out far more in a single minute than an entire family in Lauscha did in a whole day.

While the machine-produced ornaments were less intricate in their design, they were far more durable, due to Corning's scientific research and precise quality control.

For example, measurements to ensure standard thickness in ornament walls, standard procedure at Wellsboro, were unknown in Lauscha.

Until this year, virtually all ornaments leaving the Wellsboro plant have gone to decorating firms where strips and designs were applied by hand.

Although Corning continues to serve the glass ornament blank requirements of decorating companies, it is also utilizing a new decorating capability this year to market its own ornament lines under its own name.

Corning is introducing conventional glass ornaments in solid colors and decorated finishes in a variety of assortments. It is providing a number of ornaments in collector series, individually packaged in gift mailer and display boxes.

One such collection is a series of four Currier and Ives scenes on 3 1/2-inch ornaments. The new capability permits the most intricate decorations.

Its conventional line of decorated ornaments is competitively priced with glass ornaments — plain or decorated — currently being marketed domestically. The line features high quality ornaments with superior decorating made possible by the new capability.

In the new gift line Corning has a Christmas Past collection and a children's collection, too.

Although ornaments are used for a wider variety of decorating purposes these days, most of the ornaments will probably land on Christmas trees for about a week each year, bringing to this age a bit of magic that was discovered long ago in the village of Lauscha in Germany.

GOOD YEAR SERVICE STORES

GAME PLAYING is on the boom as never before. With people enjoying more leisure time, the ever-challenging fun of games has reached new heights in popularity. Thus, high on the Yuletide gift-giving list this year are thought-provoking games for all tastes, interests and seasons. Compared to a decade ago, the range of games now available is boundless. Keeping up with the game explosion, the 3M Company offers a wide variety of challengers in every category of skill and knowledge related to contemporary living. Here, for example, are three games around the Christmas tree that appeal to a wide variety of interests. Clockwise: Backgammon, a game that has captured players' imaginations for centuries; Challenge Football that lets armchair quarterbacks call the plays like a pro since official football rules govern all offensive and defensive maneuvers; and the red-white-blue Hectix, a three-way, three-dimensional super puzzler. Three bits and nine pieces must be taken apart and put back together. Simple? If you can do it in an hour, you're in the upper genius class. Variety being the spice of life, these new games can provide the needed spice for holiday fun. Gift wrapping courtesy of Norcross, Inc.

Trim a tree creatively

The holiday season rapidly approaching, homemakers are facing the annual task of making their households welcoming to the oncoming rush of "greeters."

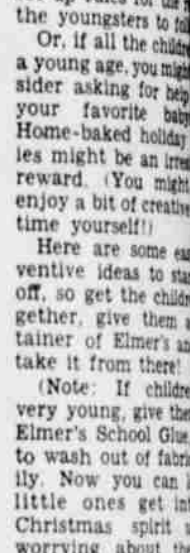

Children everywhere keyed-up with activities and finding things to do. The scene is no minor one. Why not give them something interesting to do yourself time and a pocketbook a good deal at once. Let the children with the aid of some everyday household items make a container of Elmer's All or new washable Elmer's School Glue. Let their creativity make Christmas merry this year.

Put the oldest child in charge of directing the trim-making activities. Set up rules for the youngsters to follow. Or, if all the children are young, you might consider asking for help your favorite baby. Home-baked holiday pies might be an irresistible reward. (You might enjoy a bit of creative time yourself!)

Here are some inventive ideas to start off, so get the children together, give them a tainer of Elmer's and take it from there!

(Note: If children very young, give them Elmer's School Glue to wash out of fabric. Now you can let little ones get into Christmas spirit without worrying about the "they'll make!")

Angel tree-toppers

Egg-citing ornaments

FOR THE ANGEL, use a cone-shaped drink cup (with silver ric-rac), wings are pipe cleaners covered with pipe paper folded over and glued to itself. Tape a pair of pipe cleaners to back of cone. Add a painted rubber (sequin) features and hair added), hollowed out the cone, and glued in place with Elmer's.

'Play'-ful Christmas gifts that keep on giving

Today's toys make education fun: playtime is valuable when children 'learn by doing'

"Learn by doing" gets meaningful new scope in toyland '73. For exciting new involvement, junior racing enthusiasts pump Turbo Tower of Power (TTP) by Kenner to build air pressure that sends cars speeding. More speed is promised, too, by the new Mini SSP gyro-powered racers that fit in the hand. New SSP Pee Wees adapt exciting stunt racing to preschoolers' abilities.

The Play-Doh Super Zoo adds a new dimension of creative fun with stand-up figures of wild animals, each with walled sections to be filled in with Play-Doh Modeling Compound in varied hues.

For young cooks
New for young cooks is Warm Bake Oven which bakes real cakes with hot water. Newest thrill for doll mothers is Baby Alive by Kenner who continues to chew or suck after her spoon or bottle are removed. She has her own non-toxic food and disposable diapers. Sucking from her bottle cleanses her Teflon-lined interior.

A completely furnished nursery for Baby John, the 2½" son of 9" Jenny Jones, first fashion doll to be a mother, heightens child involvement. Little John is the smallest doll ever to drink and wet; his clothes are color coordinated with Jenny's. Garden Gal Greenhouse is a dirt-free way to garden by planting seeds in peat discs and adding water.

Small space fun
Sit'n Spin makes the fun of riding a merry-go-round practical for small space at home.

Honoring Walt Disney's 50th is Sing Along Juke Box featuring the most in Disney Characters along with a song Mickey Mouse Battery Operated Toothbrush inside Mouse House. Most unusual game is Action Football, the show contestants determine of each play on a projector; 28 slides present more than 300 possible combinations of plays.

Christmas ecology: plant a green future under the tree

With a rising interest in growing vegetables for home consumption — in back yard or on apartment terraces — an entire new area of inexpensive gifting bears fruit this Christmas. Vegetable and fruit seeds make perfect gifts for the young "naturalists" who are into organic foods. Many families are also growing their own vegetables as a form of family participation projects. Considering the health and economic factors, seeds make a very practical gift. Before selecting a wide selection of seeds or baby plants, you might want to consider the following:

- Climate.
- Area available for planting.
- Amount of care necessary.
- Personal preference of recipient.
- Once these points have been considered, all that remains is a trip to your local garden supply. Giving seeds is practically the only area of gifting in which cost is an unimportant factor. Most packages are priced under $1.00 and the majority are under 50¢.

CHRISTMAS LESSON

How do you say Christmas in German? Try "Heilige Nacht," which roughly translates into "Holy Night."

Whale of a gift idea revives old folk art

Scrimshaw, the great but dying American folk art, has a new lease on life.

Thanks to the introduction of new scrimshaw kits, the old art of the whalers still can be simulated, and the spirit of America's golden age of whaling recaptured by today's home crafts enthusiasts.

Real scrimshaw is engraved or carved whale's teeth and jawbones, done by seamen aboard American whaling ships in the mid-1800's. The art sprang from the men's need for activity and expression during long periods of boredom between whale sightings.

Spontaneously, without any formal training in the arts, the men scratched out images of their ships at sea and scenes of their adventures with the great whales they hunted, on whatever whale ivory was on hand.

That scrimshaw, painstakingly wrought with sawing needles and jackknives, forms an historical record of which pieces sell today for anywhere from $100 to $12,000 to private collectors.

President John F. Kennedy was perhaps the most famous collector of scrimshaw. Such was his affection for historical and patriotic examples of the art that a bull whale's tooth, specially scrimshawed with the Seal of the President of the United States, reportedly was buried with him.

When Congress passed the Endangered Species Act in 1971, it sounded a death knell for the practice of scrimshaw.

With whaling ended and the importation of whale ivory forbidden by law, the contemporary scrimshaw artist's medium has been running out rapidly and the scrimshaw art has been headed for oblivion at an equal pace.

Now, however, the Whiting division of Milton Bradley Company has developed inexpensive craft kits with which almost anyone can fashion authentic-looking scrimshaw in just a few hours.

The kits simplify the whalers' technique, and substitute plastic forms for real whale's teeth. The finished works make unique gifts and display pieces as desk or shelf ornaments, paper weights and book ends.

A predecessor of scrimshaw, the art of engraving cattle horns and using them to carry gunpowder, a practice popular during the French and Indian War and the Revolutionary War, also has been adapted into contemporary craft kits.

They provide simulated cattle horns and everything else required to create scrimshawed powder horns with engraved western scenes, suitable for hanging.

NEW FASHION DESIGNER KIT from Fairgate Rule Company makes a unique gift for the home sewer. Here are all the professional tools she needs to adjust patterns to her body contours, all needed to make garments fit perfectly, and a Guide Book from concepts to finished detail. At home and professional sewing centers.
