New State Laws Will Go In Effect Today

New Seat Belt Law Effective For Motorists

On Sunday, September 1, a new law goes into effect, which may have far-reaching effects on motorists in Texas. That will be the day a mandatory seat belt law requiring persons four and over to be buckled up when riding in the front seat of a passenger car or light truck (1500 pound capacity or less).

Law enforcement officers will start issuing citations for those not obeying this law beginning on December 1, 1985. Fines will vary from $25 to $50 for non-compliance with the new law.

According to the new law, the driver is responsible for seeing that everyone from four to 15 years of age and riding in the front seat of a passenger car is buckled up. Fine for not

CHECKING WEEPING LOVEGRASS--J.E. Birdwell, left, owner of Birdwell Ranch in southwest Bailey County, and Obie Kelly of the Blackwater Valley Soil and Water Conservation District were checking out a stand of Weeping Lovegrass on the ranch Thursday morning. Birdwell and Kelly expressed pleasure at the way the grass is producing good grazing for the cattle shown in the background.

Birdwell Ranch Experimenting With Circle Irrigated Grasses

By: Obie Kelly

Blackwater Valley Soil
And Water Conservation District

Blackwater Valley Soil and Water Conservation District helps farmers and ranchers with all phases of conservation, erosion control, ground covers and other phases to help with all their operations.

J.E. Birdwell, owner and operator of Birdwell Ranch and Coyote Lake Feedyard, has six and one-half irrigated circles on approximately 700 acres of Weeping Lovegrass on his ranch in Bailey County.

Management is very important in obtaining the maximum production from Lovegrass.

With proper management one to one and four-tenths pounds of daily gain is possible with the medium fertility level for cattle.

Stocking rate of 1.5 to two animal units per acre is possible with good management. Birdwell feels that cattle weighing between 450 and 550 pounds do best on Lovegrass pasture. He tries to maintain a height of 8 to 10 inches on the grass. At this height, the grass is tender and readily grazed.

Birdwell also uses Weeping Lovegrass for hay during the winter, and cuts and bales the grass during the growing season.

Weeping Lovegrass is proven to be an ideal grass for this area because of its ability to grow in sandy soils. The seeding rate for Weeping Lovegrass is approximately two pounds of pure live seed per acre.

The best time to plant Lovegrass is between March 15 and June 15. Seed should be planted to a depth of one-fourth to one half inch. I would like to remind that management is very, very important in keeping a stand of Lovegrass healthy.

SPS Asking Restructuring For Charges

Southwestern Public Service Company (SPS) expected to file a request Friday to restructure rates within 35 days for retail electric service in Texas, leaving prices essentially unchanged.

Residential electric bills will neither increase nor decrease under the plan.

SPS chief executive officer Bert Ballengee said the utility will petition SPS-served communities in Texas, and the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUCT), to increase base rates by some $40,842,255, but to decrease the boiler-fuel charge in bills by $40,933,368. The difference is a $91,113 decrease.

"Some costs to us have increased, and some costs to us have decreased," Ballengee said, "so, we must restructure our rates to reflect those changes. But prices to almost all of our Texas retail customers will remain the same."

The utility is petitioning the PUCT to decrease fuel charges, and is asking for a one-time fuel-charge credit to customers. Details on the fuel-charge credit will be available later, Ballengee said, after the PUCT has issued an applicable order.

SPS previewed the rate-restructuring request on July 31, in preliminary information packets distributed to the Texas communities the utility serves.

The last increase in base rates for retail service from SPS in Texas was in mid-1982, according to Ballengee.

Ballengee said SPS has decreased costs primarily by improving operating efficiencies.

Local Stores To Begin Opening On Sunday

Several changes can be noted in the immediate area as of today, Sunday, when new laws enacted by the Texas Legislature go into effect. One of the more notable laws is the 'Blue Law, which has been killed at the age of 112 years.

This law, long time on the Texas law books, will be banished from state law books today. Only automobile dealers, and in areas where hard liquor is sold, hard liquor sales are not affected.

Among the stores scheduled to be open now on Sunday in Muleshoe are C.R. Anthony's, Perry's, Ben Franklin and A&M Farm Store. All local grocery stores and supermarkets have always been open on Sunday, or at least for the past several years.

Now, retailers will not be barred from selling 42 specified items on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays, as they were limited under the 'Blue Law.'

The law has halted Sunday retail sales since 1863 when the first version of the law banned all work and hunting near churches.

Since 1961, when the current law was fashioned, local law agencies and state courts have struggled to force compliance with one of Texas' most controversial statutes.

State district court judges, at least twice in the past five years, have declared the sales ban unconstitutional, only to see those rulings overturned or appealed.

"In recent years, the law has become hopelessly confused and filled with inconsistencies and conflicts," said Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, one of the repeal sponsors.

Past attempts by Texas lawmakers to repeal the law were opposed by large retailers who wanted protection from competition, and from religious factions.

Things began to change during the 1984 Christmans

County's Crops Rank In 'Tops' For '84 Report

Bailey County Extension Agent Spencer Tanksley said Bailey County ranked as high in the state in total crop production in 1984 as it has ranked in a number of years.

In all, of the 529,000 acres in Bailey County, 503,000 have been devoted to farm and ranch land, he said. Also, of the 306,000 acres devoted to cropland in 1984, some 145,000 acres are irrigated.

Bailey County Agent Tanksley added that sunflower production ranked second in the state, producing 14.8 percent of the total state's sunflowers.

In sixth place statewide was alfalfa, with 30,000 tons produced in 1984; while corn ranked tenth in the state at 3,878,000 bushels.

In 19th place in Texas was Bailey County's cotton production with 69,610 bales; soybeans were in 25th place at 44,000 bushels and all sorghums were 35th with 1,110,000 pounds.

Local Fire Department Seeking New Equipment

Members of the Muleshoe Fire Department Rescue Squad need your help! Each and every citizen of this area can help -- help provide necessary funds to update the fire department emergency rescue equipment.

Although the City of Muleshoe provides fire trucks, fire protective clothing and basic operations for the fire department, the city budget does not extend to 'extras.'

At this time, the 'Jaws of Life' needs updating, J.O. Parker, training officer for the Muleshoe Fire Department, has explained that the new cutting tool has become necessary as use of the 'Jaws of Life' is becoming outlawed.

In 1977, following an accident between a church bus and an area vehicle in which it took more than an hour to extricate a victim from a wrecked pickup, the money for the original 'Jaws of Life' was quickly obtained following an intensive fund raising effort.

Since then, the 'Jaws of Life' has been used a number of times to quickly remove victims from wrecked and twisted vehicles. In most instances, even the more severely injured were removed without further injury and in just a few minutes by the highly trained rescue personnel from the fire department.

Perhaps several lives have been saved by use of the 'Jaws of Life', but now, it is time to update the equipment, explained Parker.

He said the cutting tool hoses and other items to update the machine will cost only $2,300, which is approximately one third of what the original machine cost. The cutting tool alone is $1500 and several members of the fire department have been trained in use of the sophisticated rescue equipment. Parker also added that the fire department hoped to obtain enough funds to keep the rescue fund open for future rescue equipment needs. "We need to try to keep modern, updated equipment at all times," said Parker. "That way, we can be ready despite what the emergency might be."

Contributions may be made to the Fire Department Rescue Fund; and sent to the fire department, to J.O. Parker, or to any Muleshoe fireman.

ROTARY GIVES GIRL SCOUT CHECK--Wednesday morning, Paul Wilbanks, president of the Muleshoe Rotary Club, contributed $100 on behalf of the Rotary Club, to the Muleshoe Girl Scouts. Accepting the check on behalf of the Girl Scouts was Nelda Merriott, coordinator of the renovation effort for the Girl Scout Little House.

Hornets Ready To Play Ball

by Laurie Damron
Two weeks of two-a-days have been completed and Coach McAdams says all the hard work put into the workouts is definitely apparent. The coaching staff was well pleased with the first two weeks of workouts. "We have put in a new offense and defense and the players are adjusting real well," says McAdams. "If the rest of the season goes as well, we are expecting a very successful season."

Many class 1A teams in the area are suffering from lack of numbers. However 51 Hornets have been working out. Included in the big turnout are nine starters and 16 lettermen. Providing the leadership this season will be eleven seniors who are looking forward to making their last season their best. "We've had a great week of workouts. Everybody's hustling and trying hard. Only thing I can say is watch out for the Hornets", warns 6-0, 176 pound senior, Gordon Martin.

The coaching staff and seniors aren't the only ones excited about the upcoming season. "We've had a great two weeks of practice. Everybody's learning the offense and defense real well. If we have practices like we've already had, everybody better watch out," says 5-10, 175 sophomore, Johnny Taylor.

With the combination of the right attitude and the skill the Hornets are showing, Sudan will be right on top in District.

Angels Of Mercy Of West Plains Medical Center

Someone said the other day, "I hear you are still short of nurses, Trina. How do you get nurses up in this part of the country?" There are really two answers to that question: You hire the people who are returning to their roots or you wait, impatiently, for nurses to move to town with their transferred spouses. The latter is the case with Deloris Ellibee LVN. Deloris moved to Muleshoe with her husband back in the spring and has worked at WPMC ever since she first arrived. Deloris is a 1979 graduate of Frank Phillips College in Borger. She combines two careers: Nursing and Motherhood being the mother of two sons age 8 years and 22 months. Deloris has the goal of becoming a Registered Nurse some day. With her nursing skill and personal determination, she will accomplish her goal.

Creative Woman

by Sheryl Borden

Information on making country samplers, homemade sweetened condensed milk and how to prevent unnecessary appliance service calls will be presented on "The Creative Woman" on September 3 and 7.

Ann Hurt is a designer from New York and she has written a book entitled "Country Samplers." She will explain the steps involved in making a sampler from layout to the finished product.

Connie Moyers is the marketing home economist with Southwestern Public Service Co. from Clovis and she will share a recipe for making homemade sweetened condensed milk in the blender. The recipe makes about one and one-fourth cup, which is equivalent to a 14-ounce can of commercial sweetened condensed milk and the cost is considerably less.

According to Joy Schrage, spokesperson for the Whirlpool Corp., warm weather brings an increase in the number of service calls on some refrigeration appliance. Many of these calls can be prevented by the consumer making a few simple checks on the appliance. Ms. Schrage is from Benton Harbor, Michigan and she will discuss how to prevent unnecessary calls.

The topics for September 5 include selecting and serving wine, cooking with silverstone cookware and information on getting organized. Aldo Cella is the white-suited bon vivant who stars in the television commercials that bear his name. He's going to talk about how to select, serve and appreciate wine. He'll also discuss some of the wine taboos and some of the latest wine trends in this country.

Another guest will be LaNell Wilkins, a consumer cookware consultant for DuPont, and she will share a recipe that really demonstrates the versatility of cooking with silverstone appliances. Mrs. Wilkins is from Albuquerque.

Another guest will be Dulcie Simonds, a public relations supervisor for Rubbermaid, Inc. from Wooster, Ohio, and she will share information on products to help organize various rooms in our homes.

"The Creative Woman" is produced and hosted by Sheryl Borden. The show airs on KENW-TV, Channel 3 in Portales on Tuesday and Thursday at 12 noon. (All times are Mountain Standard).

Viewers can request copies of printed materials offered on the show by calling on KENW-TV's toll-free telephone lines. In New Mexico, the number is: 1-800-432-2361, out-of-state: 1-800-545-2359 and Portales and Roosevelt County: 562-2112.

Sudan Area Senior Citizens Elect Officers

The Sudan Area Senior Citizens were invited to see if they have adequate health insurance coverage by meeting with the Retired Senior Volunteer Program representative who was in the Senior Citizens Center on Monday, August 26 at 12 noon. There was a noon meal with each senior member asked to take a covered dish.

The service was offered by the RSVP and the Better Business Bureau to the senior adults.

RSVP Volunteer Nat Kizer, a retired insurance broker of Lubbock analyzed the policies to determine what they do cover and read the "Fine Print" that often escapes the policy holder. He did not recommend companies or policies.

In an executive meeting on Monday, Aug. 19 the following officers were elected for 1985-86 Truman Parrish, president; Wayne Rogers, vice president; Lela Chester, secretary; Billie Whitmire, treasurer; and Jonelle Bandy, reporter.

Muleshoe Schools Offer Special Education Class

The Muleshoe Independent School District provides comprehensive educational services for handicapped children living in the district. The handicapped children are the children with special needs. They are children who need extra attention, teaching, care and love because they have a disability or a combination of disabilities that make learning or doing certain things difficult.

Special-needs children include those who have:

1. Mental retardation- these children develop more slowly than other children.
  2. Speech and language impairments- these children may have a problem expressing their wants and needs or understanding what is said to them.
  3. Physical disabilities- these children may have sight impairments, cerebral palsy, spinal cord injuries or other similar conditions.
  4. Learning disabilities - these children may receive distorted messages from their senses.
  5. Emotional disabilities- these children may be withdrawn or have other behavioral problems.
- If these children are three years of age or older on September 1, 1985 they may be eligible for these services. Visually impaired and hearing impaired children may be eligible from birth.

Early diagnosis and attention are crucial to helping the special-needs child become as independent and self-sufficient as possible. When begun early, medical care, therapy, education and training may prevent the disabilities from becoming more severe, allow educators to work with a child's strengths, and maintain the child's pride and self-esteem.

If a problem is suspected, the school should be contacted. Help is available from learning disability specialists, speech-language therapists, counselors, and special education teachers. There is a continuum of services available for children beginning with the Early Childhood program when the child is three years of age through age twenty-one, in the Muleshoe schools, and help is available for the visually and hearing impaired from birth.

After the school has been contacted, a referral is completed on each child. The referrals can come from any source: parents, school personnel, neighbors, doctors, civic agencies, human resource agencies, and others. The referral may be directed to the principal of the school or to the office of Special Education services.

After the referral is received in the Special Education office, the child receives a comprehensive assessment to aid in determining the needs of the child. Upon completion of the assessment, a committee meets to review the data collected and to determine a student's eligibility for special education services. This committee is the Admission, Review, and Dismissal Committee (ARD Committee), and is attended by the child's parents, teachers, counselor, principal, and the appraisal staff. This committee will then develop the child's Individual Educational Plan (IEP) if they find he is eligible for Special Education services. At this meeting the student's annual goals are established, as well as short-term instructional objectives.

Muleshoe Independent School District is in compliance with Public Law 94-142, as well as the State Board of Education and Texas Education Agency. Implementation of the student's educational plan attempts to provide an appropriate blend of educational and related services in a learning environment which is the least restrictive alternative for the student.

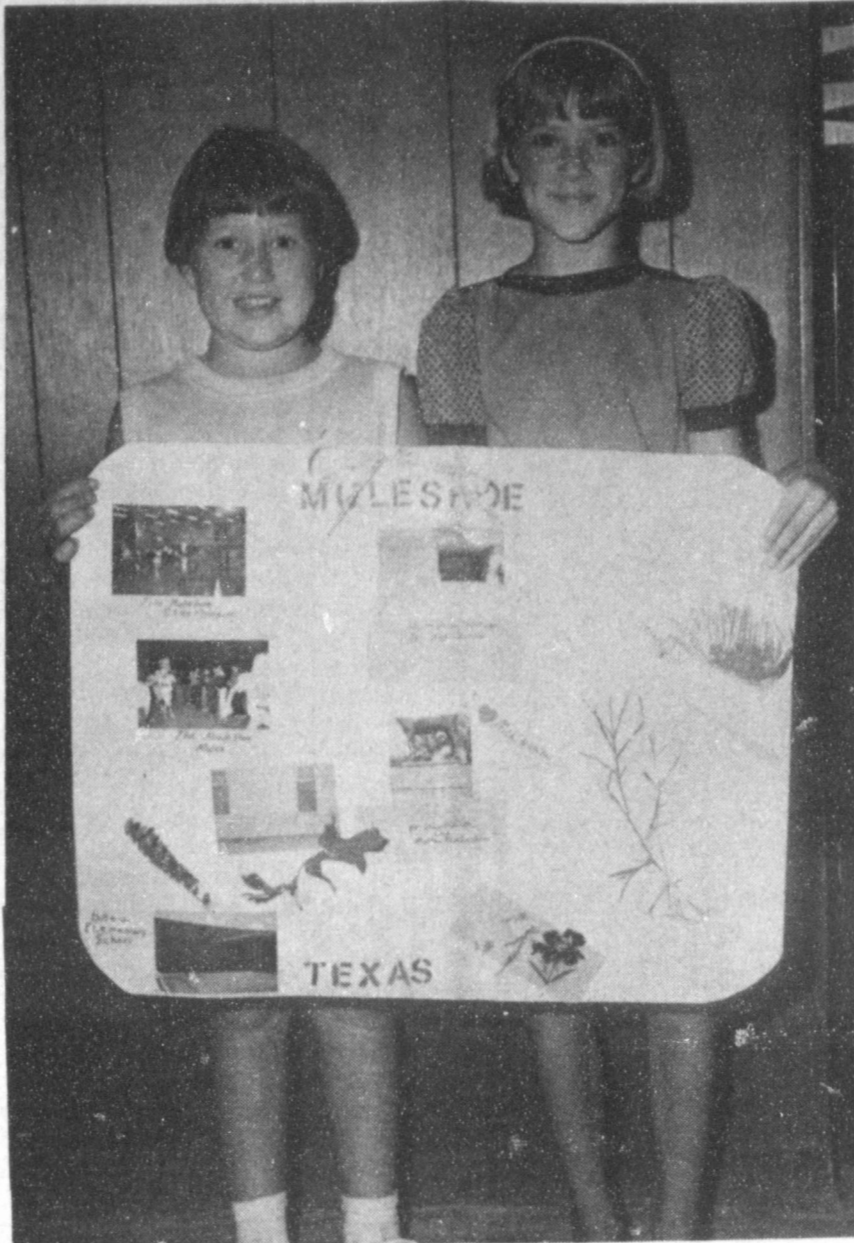

Chapter 75, the new curriculum legislation for Texas public schools, is being fully implemented this school year. This law prescribes a new curriculum in twelve basic subject areas and the scope and sequence for the essential elements in each subject area.

The purpose of this plan is to have a uniform, systematic mandated public curriculum for every child in every public school in Texas. All children will spend more time learning the basics of reading, writing, and arithmetic. This includes the special education program as well as the regular education program. Regular education teachers work closely together to insure that every child with special needs have the type of education required for him to function in society.

With an appropriate blend of educational and related services and with placement of the student in the least restrictive environment, the student's program is implemented according to the prescribed essential elements, the individual needs of the student, and at the student's own rate of speed. Modifications may be made for this student at the ARD Committee in method, pacing, and material, but he will be taught the same essential elements as prescribed for all students in the public schools. Additional elements available for this student's special education are individualized instruction; special methods, materials, and equipment; service coordination; daily planning; task analysis; and periodic reviews. The special education teachers work very closely with the regular education teachers, thus assuming a joint responsibility for teaching the essential elements.

With Muleshoe Independent with the necessary skills and commitment for providing handicapped students with appropriate educational programs, it is anticipated that handicapped students will have the maximum opportunity to develop to their fullest potentials and that they will be able to graduate from high school with the necessary skills and social competencies for successful living.

Additional information in regard to the Special Education program is available in the Special Education Office located in Muleshoe High School. Broc- Lovegrass is between March 15 explaining the different types of handicapping condition. For further information, you may come by the office to pick up one of these brochures, or call at 272-5239.

POSTER FOR PLEASURE-Stacy Duncan, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Duncan, and Martha Ann Sanders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brock Sanders, decided to make a poster, just to denote the pleasures found in Muleshoe. They used pictures of various scenes around Muleshoe and the Muleshoe Mules football team; along with plants and flowers for their poster.

Sudan Lions Club Sweetheart Returns From Canada Trip

By Stephanie Bickett
Stephanie Bickett returned last week from Canada where she spent six weeks with the Lions Club representatives from all over the United States and several foreign countries. She is the current Sudan Lions Club Sweetheart.

"While I was in Canada, I stayed with Claude and Joyce Tomlison who lives in Hillsburg, Ontario, Claude, a retired person who is a life member of the Hillsburg Lions Club and they live on a Thoroughbred Racing Horse Farm, manager for their son.

"I spent a week at a camp with people from other countries who were in the same program. We were all sponsored by different Lions Clubs from our own areas. There were 41 students in the camp, plus the cooks and counselors.

"We toured the various attractions around our camping ground as a group. They took us to Niagara Falls, the Derby races, Rollerskating, the CN Tower which is the largest building in the world, Eaton Centre; to the nearby Great lakes, and sailing. Every night at the camp, we sat around the campfire and talked. Everyone had to speak English to get into the camp, but you had to talk slowly for them to understand what was being said. There were people from the United States, West Germany, Iran, Switzerland, England, Belgium, France, Japan, Italy, Holland and Canada. We had ages ranging from 16-21 and the camp was co-ed.

"Everyone had to give a presentation about their country along with other persons from that country. Everyone was very friendly.

"After the camp, I went back to my host family and we toured the different things around Hillsburg. We went to the African Lion Safari, Black Creek Village, Wasaga Beach, Ontario Place, Wonderland, Toronto Zoo, and to see the Blue Jays VS Texas Rangers Baseball game.

"I had a great time in Canada and would like to thank the Lions Club for sending me."

Children's Eating Problems

A child's eating habits can be a source of constant worry for parents.

If you think your child overeats, undereats, is overweight or too thin, it's a good idea to check with your family doctor. A physician can use growth charts and medical tests to determine your child's growth rate. If the child is found to be growing well with no weight problems, you can stop worrying.

Dr Dymple Cooksey, a nutrition specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service, says children often go on eating jags, eating mostly one or a few foods for several days.

"Eating jags are usually temporary," Cooksey says, "so continue offering good nutritious food in a pleasing way."

When a child doesn't eat much, this may be a normal "Slowdown" stage of growth. Eating will increase as nutrient needs increase, she explains.

If obesity is a problem, check to see whether your child is eating too many high fat or sweet foods, or just too much food. Are snacks nutritious or do they contribute excess calories? Does your child get enough exercise? Is too much time spent at quiet activities that use few calories?

The nutritionist points out that many overweight children have one or more overweight parents, and children often follow their parents' eating habits. If this is the case in your family, she advises including more fruit, vegetables and low-fat foods such as skim milk, lean meats and broiled or baked foods in the family meals instead of sweets and other high-fat, high-calorie foods.

Some parents think all children need extra nutrients from vitamin pills or drops. But most children who eat a varied diet of meat, poultry and fish; breads and cereals; fruits and vegetables; and dairy products; get enough nutrients, Cooksey says.

Children who have eaten poorly balanced diets for a long time may require supplements, but let your doctor decide whether vitamins or mineral supplements are needed, advises the specialist.

Stress Management Meet Scheduled

Somewhere between the slow-paced lifestyles of the 1930's and the complex lifestyles of today, every Texas family experiences the stress and pressures of everyday living, said Deana Finck, County Extension Agent, Home Economics, Bailey County. She added, rapidly changing lifestyles have created increased amounts of stress and stress-related diseases among farm and ranch families. Studies have shown that farmers and ranchers ranked in the top 10 percent of high stress occupations.

Ranching and farming as an occupation has changed from physical labor to one that requires greater mental input. Ranchers are confronted with such decisions as marketing, herd maintenance, breeding, feeding, expansion, or reduction of their operations -- all at a "good" time when profits are most likely and families can be best provided for and the rancher can stay in business another year. Managing money is a highly stressful part of everyday living.

Three major factors about the changing farm and ranch family that are identified as stressors, according to Ms. Finck, are: (1) the evolution of the farm and ranch from a physical occupation to a mental occupation; (2) current economic conditions that are causing farmers and ranchers to manage large sums of money or can force him out altogether within the same year; and (3) the modern family that has broadened the role and responsibility of women to include more decision-making about the operation.

The Bailey County Extension Advisory Committee is sponsoring a stress management seminar on Tuesday, September 3, 7:30-9:30 p.m. at the Bailey County Coliseum. Program topics will include stress sources, why farm and ranch stress is different from other stress, symptoms of stress, causes of stress, stress consequences, what you can do about stress, affects on the family, and stress and disease.

Dorothy Taylor, Family Life Specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will

Owners of exotic pets should find out how to feed, house them

COLLEGE STATION — For many, owning a wild or exotic animal as a pet has become a symbol of a life that is comfortable and interesting.

The trouble is, the creature in question may not be comfortable or interested at all, says a Texas A&M University specialist in health care for unusual pets.

Veterinarians nationwide are seeing a growing number of wildlife pets brought in with poor nutrition, failing health and physical deformities because stylish owners never bothered to find out how to take care of their unusual animal, Dr. Elizabeth Russo explained.

She said 75 percent of the unusual pet owners she comes in contact with are either feeding their animal the wrong thing or not providing the proper habitat.

A correct habitat might be as simple as a "hide" box or heat lamp for snakes or a natural branch for birds to perch on.

"People need to find someone — a veterinarian with special training or interest in exotic pets, a wildlife specialist or a game warden — who can tell them what these animals are like, what they eat and what kind of environment they need," said Russo. "In many areas, it is illegal to own wildlife."

present the stress management seminar. Ms. Taylor's specialization areas are family relationships, values clarification, stress management, career development, crisis management, support systems, mental well-being, communications, work and family, motivation, and human potential.

She received a bachelor's degree in home economics education from Southwest Texas State University and a master's degree in child development and family relations from the University of Tennessee.

Having served in the Extension service since 1962, first as an agent and then as a specialist, Dorothy Taylor has a wealth of experience in the Extension home economics programming, added the local home extension agent.

Ms. Finck concluded, "The public is encouraged to attend. This seminar is open to all persons regardless of race, color, sex, religion, national origin, or socio-economic level."

Seat Belt...

obeying this law is $25 to $50.

It is indeed strange thinking about seat belts that permits so much death and suffering in the name of personal convenience and unwrinkled clothing, says a safety official.

Most of this "strange thinking" is based on a number of common myths about seat belts, says Dr. Gary Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

--Myth: Seat belts are unnecessary for short trips.

Fact: More than 70 percent of injury-causing traffic accidents occur within 25 miles of home, according to the National Safety Council. More than 80 percent of all collisions happen at speeds of under 40 mph. People who were not wearing seat belts have been killed in accidents as low as 12 mph--about the speed you would be driving in a parking lot.

--Myth: Seat belts trap people inside cars, and it is considered better to be thrown clear.

Fact: "Thrown clear" is a misnomer, being thrown from a vehicle usually means flying through the windshield or catapulting out a door. The force of a collision can fling you as much as 150 feet onto a roadside object, into the path of oncoming traffic or scraping along the pavement. For these reasons, if you are thrown from vehicle in an accident, your chances of being killed are 25 percent greater. What's more, instead of being trapped, belted occupants are likely to be conscious and unhurt, and therefore better able to escape in the rare situations where fire or submersions are added dangers.

--Myth: Seat belts cause injuries.

Fact: Study after study in the United States and abroad show a substantial decrease in the number of serious injuries in actual auto accidents among those who are belted versus those who aren't. In the rare instances where injuries due to belts have been reported, either the belt was inappropriately worn or the crash was so severe that the occupants would have been killed or seriously injured if they had been unbelted.

--Myth: I don't need belts since I'm a careful driver.

Fact: No matter how good a driver you are, you can't control the other car. There's no way to protect yourself against someone else's bad driving, poor judgments or mechanical failures. Even good drivers can be killed or injured in a crash.

--Myth: I don't need seat belts; I can brace myself.

Fact: The force of an impact at just 10 mph is equivalent to catching a 200-pound bag of cement thrown from a first-story window, according to the National Safety Council. At 35 mph, the force of an impact is ever more brutal. There's no way your arms and legs can brace you against that kind of force--even if you could react in time.

season when polls began to show overwhelming support for repeal. Some stores, especially in Houston, defied the law openly.

Chief opposition to repeal come from the Texas Retailers Association, a coalition of generally small shop owners.

"For some retailers, repeal is doing to be good," said Mickey Moore, the group's executive vice president. "It may or may not be good for others. We're going to just have to wait and see."

Robert C. Byrd, Senate Democratic Leader:

COLLEGE STATION — Economic concerns, rather than technological considerations, pose the greatest stumbling block to colonizing space, says a Texas A&M University professor who has studied the economic implications of space development for the past 10 years.

"As more and more people venture into space, questions will inevitably arise concerning the roles of the private and the public sectors. The answers will come partly by how we answer the question of who owns space," says Dr. Larry Wolken, a finance professor at Texas A&M's College of Business Administration.

Wolken speculates the economic potential of further space exploration will be stifled if the principles embedded in the United Nations' "Agreement Governing the Activities on the Moon and Other Celestial Bodies" govern human activities in space.

Although fewer than 10 nations have signed the agreement, commonly known as the Moon Treaty, neither the United States nor the Soviet Union have approved it and are not bound by its provisions. The treaty declares all celestial bodies and their resources "the common heritage of mankind." It prohibits nations and individuals from owning property in space.

Letter To The Editor

The Honorable Mark White
Governor of Texas
Capitol Station
Austin, Texas 78711

Dear Governor White,

We phoned your office in Austin but I was not given a chance to explain. The lady wanted to know whether or not we were for or against the mandatory seat-belt law. I advised that we were against it; will hereby explain.

First, we think this law is too dictatorial, depriving us of our inherent American freedom to fasten our seat-belts or not fasten them. This law may even be unconstitutional. Those who lobbied for its hush-hush enactment may be more interested in the monetary aspect than in the saving of lives.

Secondly, I have driven a car for about 65 years without a seat belt and without losing my life in a car accident. It is too late now for a lot of us to try to re-learn how to drive harnessed with a seat-belt. We believe it is safer for me and many others without the seat-belt (having more freedom of action) than having same fastened. If everybody is so interested in the loss of lives, why not build safer cars?

Thirdly, as an American citizen, I fell that it is my business and not the business of our Austin lawmakers as to whether or not I (or we) fasten our seat-belts, and as to whether or not our Lord sees fit to take our lives now or later. This law is coercive and it trespasses upon our personal freedom.

We pray that our State Senators and Representatives will give our side of this controversial question more careful and prudent attention. Thank you for anything you may be in position to do to alleviate this arbitrary action.

Sincerely,
Joe T. Salem

A Cry - - For Help

Some children can't, or won't, cry for help when they need it-even when their lives may be in danger. They are the thousands of victims of child abuse and neglect whose suffering may go unchecked for years, often permanently impairing their health and development and sometimes costing their lives. Such children may be too young, too terrified, or simply too confused to be able to tell anyone about it.

But even without being told, you may be able to spot the symptoms of abuse and neglect if you know what to look for in a child's appearance and behavior and in the parent's or caregiver's behavior. When you think you've seen evidence of abuse or neglect, you must act in the child's behalf. It is essential that you report any suspected case of child abuse or neglect to the people who are prepared to help the child.

Your phone call may be that child's only cry for help.

WHAT DOES THE LAW SAY?
Child abuse and neglect are against the law in Texas, and so is failure to report suspected cases of child mistreatment.

If you suspect a child has been abused or neglected, the law requires that you make a report to the Texas Department of Human Resources and a law enforcement agency. Persons making reports in good faith are protected by law from liability, and their identities are kept confidential.

To report to DHR, contact the department's local child protective services office,

Fungus Causes Farmer's Lung

Farmer's lung is a disease caused by frequent exposure to a fungus that grows in moldy hay or grain.

The Texas Medical Association says the disease attacks only those people allergic to the fungus. The allergy causes lung inflammation that narrows the air passages and thickens the walls of the lungs' air sacs.

The main symptom of farmer's lung is breathlessness, which occurs a few hours after exposure to the fungus and goes away after another few hours. A dry cough usually accompanies the breathlessness.

Other symptoms such as fever, chills, and headache may mistakenly lead the sufferer to believe he has a persistent case of the flu or even asthma.

Fortunately, only a small percentage of those in constant contact with this fungus are susceptible for farmer's lung.

Those who have it, however, will probably get worse until the problem is diagnosed. Left untreated over a long period, any lung inflammation can destroy the elastic lung tissue, which is replaced by tough scar tissue.

The result is permanent, increasing breathlessness, which can lead to respiratory failure and heart failure. Both can be fatal.

Repeated attacks of breathlessness should be checked by a physician. If you are frequently exposed to any substance that causes farmer's lung, tell the doctor. A chest X-ray probably will be needed to determine the extent of the disease.

People with farmer's lung must avoid the fungus either by changing jobs, if possible, or by wearing a filtering mask over the nose and mouth whenever exposed to the substance. In most cases, no other treatment is necessary.

In later stages, farmer's lung may be more difficult to treat. At that point, the most effective treatment may be steroid drugs take for several months.

Farmer's lung is one of several related diseases caused by fungi connected to a person's work. Others include pigeon breeder's lung, hen worker's lung, air-conditioner lung, mushroom worker's lung, cork worker's lung, malt worker's lung, coffee worker's lung, furrier's lung, and thatched-roof worker's lung.

Calvary Baptist Bible Church Is Well Attended

What makes a successful Vacation Bible School? Darryl Martin, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, says it takes a lot of work and devotion.

He should know what he is talking about--Calvary Baptist Church has just concluded a very successful VBS during the past week. On Monday night, they had 135 attending the school; Tuesday night, the figure rose to 162 and on Wednesday night, there were 191 at the weekly school.

First, says the minister, it can be attributed to the work his church members did getting ready for Vacation Bible School. "The community was aware we were having something for the kids," said the minister. "Our church members walked door to door last Saturday, distributing over 500 fliers telling about our school.

"Secondly, our church people have a great love, concern and burden for children. We don't care what color they are, we just want to work for the Lord.

"And, thirdly our attendance increased each night because the children were enjoying it so much, they are bringing in other children.

"Finally, I want to commend the teenagers from our church. We have handed them an adult's responsibility, and they have come through, and have just done great."

Each night, says the minister, there have been 20-25 workers at the church to help with the school.

The assembly was followed by Bible classes, which were broken into five divisions; Nursery 1-age four and under; Nursery II-five years; Kindergarten-six year olds; Primary-7-8 year olds and Junior-nine years and above.

Nightly during the Vacation Bible School, the evening got underway at 7 p.m. with a grand assembly. The youths sang and had an offering contest between the boys and girls. The girls won the first two nights, but the boys came back strong on the third night. All offerings are being used to help defray expenses for the school, explained Rev. Martin.

children participate in "Olympics for Christ," with each child participating in two events. First through fourth places were awarded ribbons.

Snowcones for the parents and children were served, with a concluding certificate and award ceremony in the auditorium of the church, said the minister, who again expressed his personal appreciation for all his members who worked so hard for a successful Vacation Bible School.
