New hospital to be named Littlefield Medical Center

By JOELLA LOVVORN
Littlefield's new hospital is now being referred to as Littlefield Medical Center, and that name is being placed on all official documents regarding the hospital. The official name was chosen by the Lamb County Hospital Authority Wednesday night, but the name is to be ratified at the next meeting Wednesday, Feb. 8. The Hospital Authority also approved the schematic design of the new facility, subject to approval of the medical staff, and approved a resolution authorizing Authority chairman, J. E. Chisholm to sign the contract with Yearwood and Johnson Architects, Inc., subject to a statement change in the contract which would require that the architect exercise due care in construction. Hospital Authority board members present were Ed Dawson and Ardis Barton, both of the Earth area, J. E. Chisholm, chairman, and Roger Jones and Eldon Hill, all of Littlefield. Others on the board are Gene Trotter of Olton and Guy Walden of Sudan. Keith Judson and Lowell F. "Red" Martin of Hospital Affiliates International, Inc., the firm which will manage the hospital for the Lamb County Hospital Authority, were present to bring the Authority up to date on procedures. Ed Jordan Johnson and Marshall Busby represented the architectural firm, Yearwood and Johnson Architects, Inc. of Nashville, Tenn. After Roger Jones read the minutes of the previous meeting, Keith Judson, assistant treasurer of Hospital Affiliates, reviewed the changes made in the design of the hospital. The changes resulted because of comments and input from the medical staff of both the Littlefield Hospital and Medical Arts Hospital. Judson also explained the cost involved in having Standard and Pears rate the bonds, and that about 1% interest would be added to the bonds if they are not rated. See HOSPITAL, Page 2

City grants electrical rate increase

The City Council of Littlefield granted an increase in rates to Southwestern Public Service Company for the City of Littlefield during their regular business meeting Thursday night. The council also tabled action on a new Industrial Waste Ordinance, and accepted the audit of the 1976-'77 fiscal year for the city. Warren Dayton, district manager for Southwestern Public Service Company, appeared to present his company's request for a three-step rate increase, which is to begin Oct. 1. Dayton explained that the first-year's increase would amount to 9.39%, while that of the second year would be reduced to 8.98%, and the third year reduced to 6.9%. These rates apply only to the city of Littlefield, and not to the company's customers living inside the city limits. Bill McMorris, city engineer, explained that this is a selective increase—only to the city, (which includes operating street lights, well pumps, city sewer, etc). McMorris advised the council that he had reviewed three cities, and finds that the rates are low. He recommended that the increase be granted for the first year, and when the general rate increase comes up in the next few months, join with other cities in studying the rates to see if they are justified. City Manager Greg Ingham advised the council that the new Industrial Waste Ordinance has been approved by the state Department of Water Resources, but that the city has run into some problems since the ordinance has been returned to the city. The council tabled action on the ordinance until further study of the document can be made. Steve Webb and Randy Field appeared before the council to discuss the city audit for 1976-'77, as provided by the Alvin C. Webb Certified Public Accounting firm. They explained that the city should maintain a detailed inventory of fixed assets.

Farmers go to Washington

Lamb county farmers were among the 10,000 who gathered in Washington, D.C. this week in an attempt to meet with proper officials in gaining 100 percent of parity prices for their farm products. They sought to get a bill covering the 100 percent parity introduced in Congress Thursday, following Wednesday's meetings with representatives and committee chairmen on Capitol Hill. Many farmers basked in the glow of whirring television cameras, although the cold snowfall of nine inches cooled them off temperature-wise. While many stood it out on steps of various capitol buildings, many formed committees who met with various committees and government officials. One local farmer reported to his family that he had blisters on his feet from all the walking in the deep snow.

Thursday, about 1,500 farmers paraded down Pennsylvania Avenue and into the reception room of Bob Bergland's office. Their mark of appearance was left, when the room was virtually papered with glowing strike stickers. Spokesmen there promised a meeting with the farmers Friday morning. He spoke with them about 45 minutes in a special session Friday morning. According to a representative from the local strike office in Littlefield, about half of what Bergland said Friday morning was cheered by the farmers, while the other half was booed.

A truckers' union helped the farmers Thursday when they blocked bridges for about an hour, beginning at 8 a.m., delaying traffic and causing people to be late for work. Police came in, but no one was arrested. According to the local strike office, several more are going to Washington next week on a chartered flight, which will leave Tuesday, Jan. 24. Another 15 persons are needed to keep the charter flight designation. Persons desiring to go are asked to go by the strike office at 601 Delano, or call 385-3006. See FARMERS, Page 10

(Or about 8 1/2 to 8 3/4 percent interest on bonds if not rated.)

Judson suggested that non-rated bonds can be sold, and that several thousand dollars could be saved if the rating procedure is eliminated. Besides, the sooner the bonds are sold and the building can be started, the cheaper the construction costs will be in the long run.

Judson said, "We're on schedule and are ready to move ahead." He explained that the various documents are now being processed, and that a four-month delay in construction could increase the project cost by about 4%—or about $200,000.

Judson advised the Authority that Henderson and Few is the largest hospital underwriter, and "they are comfortable with the marketability of the bonds."

The preliminary feasibility study was due Friday, Jan. 20.

The Hospital Authority passed a resolution endorsing the recommendations from Hospital Affiliates and Henderson and Few Underwriters to go ahead and sell the bonds without rating them.

Red Martin, director of financial services with Hospital Affiliates International, explained the artist's "new look" of the Littlefield Medical Center, and explained that the hospital will now face north instead of west, to get away from the prevailing winds blowing into entrances.

He also explained that the 32x66-foot courtyard will be enclosed, and will be a part of the accessibility to portions of the hospital. The skylights will pop open, allowing the escape of smoke or heat, should it accumulate in the courtyard.

Another change made to the hospital design was all single rooms, instead of some semi-private rooms.

Martin explained that the building is within the budget at present, and the contractor has made a first pass at the layout and has made a cost estimate, showing it is within the budget.

Keith Judson presented a schedule of events to come in the near future, and explained that the only big change in the schedule has been the sale of the bonds, which was previously set for March 9. They will now be sold March 16. The delay has come because all documents must be sent to the Attorney General of Texas—about a week's procedure.

Other tentative activities include the calling for advertising for the sale of bonds by the Hospital Authority during their Feb. 8 meeting.

Then on Feb. 23, a meeting of the Authority will be held to sign the construction contract, and to finalize the equipment budget.

The groundbreaking is scheduled after the bonds are sold.

greater glory. He fought at Shiloh, Perryville, Stone River, Resaca, Kennesaw, Atlanta, Nashville and in other Civil War battles too numerous to mention. He rose through the ranks to retire as a Major General in 1916 and he was buried at Arlington National Cemetery following his death in 1937.

Novels have been written about John Clem—he was the hero, for example, in "Lincoln's Littlest Soldier"—and he is still listed today in "Who Was Who in America."

Things haven't worked out that way for Calvin Graham of Fort Worth.

At age 12, like Clem, Graham was fighting for his country in time of war. But instead of being hailed as a hero, this 47-year-old Texan can't even get the U.S. Navy to recognize his existence.

That isn't totally accurate. The Navy does admit that they have "Awarded or authorized" to Calvin Graham the Asiatic Pacific Service Medal with Two Campaign Stars, the World War II Victory Medal and Navy Unit Commendation with one Bronze Star.

But they won't give him a discharge. They claim that since he lied about his age, in order to enlist at 12, he was never legally in the Navy so he cannot be discharged from it. In communications with Graham, Washington officialdom never speaks in terms of a discharge, they say instead that his "naval service was terminated."

Calvin Graham enlisted in the Navy in August of 1942, sailing into the Pacific combat zone aboard the U.S.S. South Dakota later that year.

He fought, as a second-loader of a 40 mm. anti-aircraft gun, in two World War II battles: Santa Cruz and Guadalcanal.

In early 1943, after his mother sent a copy of his birth certificate to Washington, Calvin Graham was dismissed from the Navy and he has been trying to get an honorable discharge every since.

I recently introduced legislation to grant an honorable discharge to Mr. Graham.

At a time when Vietnam discharges are being upgraded, it is inconceivable to me that a person who actively sought to serve this country in its hour of need should be denied an honorable discharge on a technicality.

From the days of Franklin Roosevelt, Calvin Graham has appealed his case to national administrations on several occasions—most recently this year—but to no avail.

He has been informed by the Navy that his World War II service was "somewhat unusual and did not fall within the scope of the normal discharge process." I would agree that Mr. Graham's service was indeed unusual; in fact it was very nearly unique.

He deserves recognition for his World War II service and he deserves the benefits that should

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

January 20, 1978

Mr. Jimmy Carter
President of the United States
1600 Pennsylvania Avenue
Washington, D.C. 20515

Dear Mr. President:

As I sit here, you are giving your State of the Union Address. I have started this letter after your unimpressive words toward the Farmers. As you probably can see from this writing, I am no great scholar. I am seventeen years old, a high school senior, and a farmer's son.

Mr. President, the Farmer's movement is not at its peak. It is on a thin edge and could go either way, better or worse. Our nation is not at its peak. It is on a rapid downfall, and for a very big reason, SO IS THE FARMER. My father is one of the hardest working men on the South Plains of Texas. You are crushing the dreams that the men like my father have. He is like so many people, yet so different. He wants stability, a happy home, a good life, but more than anything, to go out in the world knowing he does not owe anyone money, or at least that potential is realistic. YOUR FARM PROGRAM MAKES THIS IMPOSSIBLE. From year to year, he does not know what he may be doing the very next year, for the simple fact, he is doing everything for nothing.

Mr. President, I have worked beside my father until we were both ready to drop from scorching heat, trying to irrigate a crop that is burning up. Do you realize that the natural gas bill, alone, for ONE irrigation well usually runs around $700 per month? How do you even pay a food bill or other necessities of life with $.39 lb. cotton?

Do you know the feeling of having a bumper crop? We do not experience them very often. Do you know the feeling of having an entire crop stripped by hail? We experience it often. I have stood beside my father and watched a hail storm wipe out one-half of our crop, then within 30 minutes, watch a sandstorm ruin the other half that was left.

Mr. President, I am proud to be an American. I enjoy the freedom of making my own decisions. But, the way things are going, if I want to be a farmer, this could be impossible. I am the World's future, as are other young men like myself. We are the hope for tomorrow.

However, you are the director of the hope for the future. What you do now will affect the entire world's future and hope.

Please, Mr. President, handle this great responsibility with good judgement and common sense.

Sincerely,

s/Lewis Willey

HONNY GRYS

By CORNBALL BLEVINS

WE FEEL THIS sense of uneasiness returning.—Congress is about to convene again. This time, tho, they have a lot of extra help. The place is swarming with farmers. Jimmy Carter is supposed to give them his "State of the Union" address, and they're all walking softly, because that Korean fellow is up there with intent to, "Tell all!"

Overall, it promises to be quite an interesting session: What, with the Middle-east peace reversals, the dissention over the canal "Give-Away", plus the place being full of unhappy farmers.

I'M WONDERING just how much Mr. Carter will be able to list on the "Plus-Side" for his first year's tenure in office. That's especially with regard to the many promises he made, while campaigning. To say he's lost popularity during his first year, is an understatement. That applies, not only here, but abroad. We'd hoped for a little better performance.

It's my sincere hope that he can shape up and get his feet on the ground. It would be very reassuring to feel that we have a solid and capable man in that oval office. After all, we're stuck with him for the next three years.—That's unless he should get lost on his way to the "Blue Room".

DEAR LAN ANDERS: About the full duration of our married life, the First-Mate and I have slept in unheated bedrooms. We were told it's healthier. (Besides, we were never able to afford accrete to him from that service.

Calvin Graham has received one honorable discharge. When he came of age, during the Korean War, he enlisted in the Marine Corps and was discharged after he broke his back. He has had recurring problems with his back and has received veteran's benefits to help treat this injury, but without a discharge from the Navy he can't receive assistance for the dental injuries suffered during World War II in that fall on the South Dakota.

It is doubtful that Calvin Graham will ever be immortalized like John Clem, his 12-year-old counterpart from the Civil War. He isn't seeking that.

Mr. Graham wants his honorable discharge and I should think that is a reasonable request to make of the nation for which he fought.

central heating.) This has worked very well, except in the dead of winter when the temperatures drop out of the thermometer.

Then came the electric blanket; A boon to the aging and slow of circulation. At first we had the single control units, and then graduated to the dual control models. This allowed each of us regulate the temperatures to our individual liking. (Unless we happened to put the blanket on the bed upside-down)

WE HAVE HAD a model marriage. My wife has always been kind and attentive, to the point of my practically taking her for granted. She has always been the thoughtful kind that is anxious to please. For years it's been taken for granted that she should be the one to start the blankets to heating in plenty of time for the bed to be warm, when we retired. Occasionally she did forget; which is quite understandable.

My Question is this: Should I think anything about it, when I find that she has turned her blanket control on, and left mine turned off??

Signed, Anxiously Waiting

Cornelius and Kimbro wed in December ceremony

Miss Ellen Denese Cornelius and Richard Earl Kimbro exchanged wedding vows Friday, Dec. 30 at First Methodist Church, McClure Chapel in Ardmore, Okla.

Rev. George Graham performed the ceremony in the chapel, which was decorated with a pair of seven-branched candelabras accented with pine and white mums.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jon Cornelius of Hoxbor Route. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Muriel Kimbro of Wynnewood.

Judy Cornelius, sister of the bride, sang "Twelfth of Never" and "Whither Thou Goest". She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Laverne Barnes, who also played traditional wedding music.

The bride wore a formal-length gown of white satin with a fitted bodice overlaid with Chantilly lace. The long fitted sleeves ended in lace cuffs. The skirt fell from an empire waistline and was overlaid with five tiers of lace. Her veil was edged with Chantilly lace and caught by a crown of lace and pearls.

She carried a bouquet of white roses, babies breath, blue carnations and pine. For 'something old', she wore an identification bracelet given her on her first birthday, borrowed was a string of pearls from her mother, traditional blue garter, and pennies in her shoes minted in the year of birth of the bride and groom.

Miss Judy Cornelius, Ardmore, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Alicia Brantley of Amherst was matron of honor. They wore identical light blue gowns of crepe featuring empire necklines with bodices and sleeve cuffs overlaid with lace. They each carried bouquets of blue and white carnations accented with pine.

Bobby Dixon of Wynnewood was bestman and Randy Meredith of Wynnewood was groomsman. Ushers were John Lewis of Davis and Russell Cornelius, Ardmore, brother of the bride.

A reception was held following the ceremony. Reception assistants were cousins of the bride, LaReshia Sawyer and Christy Brandstatt, both of Amherst.

Following a wedding trip to Texas the couple will reside in Lindsay where the groom is employed by Lynn Boyer Company. The bride will return to O.S.U. in Stillwater where she is a senior majoring in home economic.

Out-of-state guests included Alicia Brantley, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brandstatt, Mr. and Mrs. Glynn Brandstatt, and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Sawyer, and family, all of Amherst, and Miss Pam Holland of Earth.

Prescribed Reading

By BOB RODEN

Cooperate with your pharmacist when he keeps a record of the medications that you and your family take. Suppose that you regularly take a certain medication. Then, at some later time, you are treated for another ailment and receive another prescription. By referring to your medication record, your pharmacist can alert you or your doctor to a potentially unpleasant situation if the new prescription might interact with the first, cause an allergic reaction, or interfere with some chronic condition you might have. Many pharmacists have kept such records for many years. The practice has been so effective that several states are now requiring that pharmacists maintain patient profiles on each customer. By keeping your pharmacist advised of the medications you take, you are assuring yourself of the most efficient possible care from your whole health care team.

Wastewater operator course to be taught at local plant

Training for personnel who operate one of a city's most vital public services is booked Jan. 23-27 for Littlefield.

A one-week course will train new wastewater operators, and instruction will be presented by Willard Davis, training specialist in the Water and Wastewater Training Division of the Texas Engineering Extension Service. EES is part of the Texas A&M University System.

Division Head Leon Holbert believes sewage collection and treatment is the least likely of the public services a city homeowner would want to provide for himself.

Utilizing Littlefield plant facilities, the course will go into collection, plant procedures, primary and secondary treatment processes and state and federal rules and regulations.

Courses are taken by personnel so their work in providing vital public service is not interrupted. Trainees completing the course receive credit toward certification by the Texas Department of Health Resources.

Similar training that also helps make life better for Texans is provided by other EES divisions. The programs benefit electric utility and telephone personnel, building codes inspectors, law enforcement officers and firemen, among others.

The Extension Service also operates a public works Resource Center. Through it, member cities can get help with problems that often have been encountered and solved elsewhere. More than a data bank, the PWRC can arrange aid of Texas A&M engineers and scientists if the problem requires.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 25-year-old guy who's engaged to marry a 22-year-old girl I never proposed to.

When we first started to date I told her I didn't want to get serious and she said she didn't either. I was careful not to say, "I love you," until one night we went all the way. (I wasn't the first.) She told me she loved me, and I didn't want to be a total heel, so I told her I loved her, too. From that time on she said things like, "After we're married..." and I didn't have the guts to remind her that I never proposed to her.

She went ahead and told her folks, her friends and the people she works with, and that's how we got "engaged." She's already planning a June wedding.

I'm not proud of the way I let her rope me in, but now I don't know how to get out of it without hurting her and causing her humiliation.

What do I do now? I wish I had the guts to get in my car and keep on driving.

Can you help me or am I trapped?—NO GUTS

DEAR NO GUTS: You're not trapped unless you want to be. TELL the girl you aren't ready for marriage. Period. Better a broken engagement now than a divorce later.

Farmers making impressions in Washington

By RILEY KENNEDY
Levelland Daily Sun-News

Slush, rain and a four-inch snow Thursday night has failed to dampen the enthusiastic work of thousands of farmers here in Washington seeking an answer to their prices and to their very futures. Those answers, though yet not anywhere satisfactory, are apparently gaining momentum.

There is no plausible manner in which to estimate the number of farmers who have converged on Washington.

This reporter has checked with most of the motels, with the police and with other news medias, and the estimate answers are as different—some almost ridiculous—as are services and food prices here, compared to those in Littlefield.

Just to briefly mention some of the highlights during the past few days, we would mention the independent truckers blocked one main entrance to the capitol city for a few hours Thursday. We would also say that reports coming in from various groups assigned to different sessions have brought in both "good and bad" news.

Also, a Wednesday meeting with the Texas delegation, which filled and overran a large assembly room at the Cannon Building, was called and hosted by Congressman George Mahon. One by one, Mahon introduced Texas Congressmen and officials, and gave each one a minute to tell his side of the farm story.

On hand for the meeting, and with each official giving his views, there were men like Jim Wright, John White, Omar Burleson of Abilene, John Young of Corpus. Ray Roberts of McKinney, Jake Pickle of Austin and Cong. Garza of Brownsville.

Also saying a few words was Bob Poague who sported an agriculture cap with the strike emblem; Sam Hall of east Texas; Jim Maddox of Dallas; and finally, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas.

Each man who was presented left definite impressions that he is on the farmer's side, and, in excellent rhetoric, presented their views on the situation. Each also pledged support to "do something about the farm situation," but none were really in position to say exactly what, when or how.

Another highlight Thursday night when Bobby Jackson of Levelland, who has acted as one of the original spokesmen, and this reporter, were permitted to attend the State of the Union message. President Carter's prepared statement that was handed to newsmen in the pressroom, failed to mention anything about the farmers. However, he did ad-lib a moment and told the assembled group that he does know and understand problems facing the farmers.

He pointed out a few facts related to rising fertilizer costs on this American exports, with $23 billion in commodities so exported. He failed to mention imports of commodities, however, for which the farmers listening in the galleries or watching on television were waiting.

"We all know that whatever is best for the farmer is best for the consumers and for our nation," the President said.

In a later story, we will attempt to tell a few facts of the President's speech, and of the situation there in a room where joint sessions of the Congress are held.

Briefly, though, Mr. Carter also touched on the energy situation and the Panama Canal Zone, but the major portions of his talks dealt with no particular specifics of the country's problems.

Though not fully confirmed at this writing, it is understood that Congressman Jim Wright of Fort Worth expressed almost positive belief he would be able to get the farm problems, as outlined in an eight-point program prepared by the farm group, into committee hearings during an early part of the current session—hopefully early next week.

Consensus of opinions of farmers at the Texas meetings with officials was that all are in agreement, and all will do whatever they can to get the message over to their urban-type colleagues.

John Hill, Texas Attorney General and candidate for Texas governor, hosted a Wednesday breakfast for Texas farm leaders. In a brief interview with Hill, this reporter learned that he is 100% behind the farmer's efforts and is highly optimistic that something can come in the near future. Hill returned to Texas late Wednesday.

Perhaps the words of Jake Pickle of Austin best expressed it all when he said, "When I saw the Austin farm demonstration, I came back to Washington and told my colleagues that this was not just a gentle breeze, but could turn into a West Texas sandstorm."

Meanwhile, other delegates and groups met in various parts of the capitol with USDA representatives, with FHA representatives; a session with Farm Bureau leaders; and each Congressman was being presented the eight-point proposal.

Each was also directly asked if he or she, would support the proposal. In most cases, the farmers said they were unable to see Congressmen, particularly the more urban representatives. They said they got yeas and nays, but mostly no direct commitments. The farmers, however, apparently have not given up. They are wading the snow and slush on Washington streets and tramping through halls and offices of buildings in Washington to make further attempts.

Earlier in the story, we touched on estimates of farmers in Washington. There seems no definite manner in which to find out. However, this reporter estimated that as many as could fill a football stadium of 20,000 people, were on hand for the first demonstration Wednesday.

Thursday, apparently because the weather became more severe, some stayed in, but a reasonable guess is that more than 10,000 were on the west steps and grounds of the capitol.

If this may be called a barometer, then a feasible estimate could place the number to at least 50,000 or more now in Washington.

They are going and coming on every airplane and on every roadway leading into Washington.

We were told that one newsmen, unknown if he was television or newspaper personnel, gave the estimate at 700—now that is seven hundred! Maybe he was short sighted or even blind—poor fellow.

At any rate the farmers are still here, even those who were DE-TAINED in Virginia when some type of run-in with peace officers occurred. One of those men spoke at Thursday's rally.

Those who were there said he was a great speaker and told them that stories played up in various news media failed to tell it all.

Friday, and after repeated efforts to meet with Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland, it was reported he had left town once again. Throughout the morning, various farm spokesmen attempted to get through to Bergland. They wanted the secretary to either appear personally, to address by television, or at least issue some type release stating his views.

Nothing at this late Friday posting has been obtained.

Also mentioned earlier was that one main roadway leading into Washington was temporarily blocked by independent truckers. They later issued a release that it was done in respect to the farmers, and also to awaken Washington to a pending bill of their own, which would allow the truckers more freedom in their payload.

As far as can be determined, no particular highlights came from the blockade. That is, no troubles were experienced, except for commuters who were late coming to work.

So at this point, though, this reporter would be more than happy to write it, nothing of real "meat" has evolved here. However, farmers seem in good spirits and even if unable to see each official they wish to see, they do not intend to give up.

As one farmer remarked, "It may take a while, but we'll keep after it. After all, you cannot chisel a section or two of land in a day, because it's not similar to that proverbial old "back 40", it will take some doing."

Watch out for other stories being prepared. They may be under other headings, but as long as this country boy reporter can, each story will tell something of our farmers and something on the sidelights of the WASHINGTON INVASION.

THE BIBLE ANSWERS

"MAN THAT IS BORN OF WOMAN IS OF FEW DAYS, AND FULL OF TROUBLES." Job. 14:1.

Sometimes the complexities of life are overwhelming. This is especially true, for the "Self Reliant" person who considers it a sign of weakness to ask for Divine help. Jer. 10:23, "—It is not in man that walketh to direct his steps."

Many of us are prone to try to cope with life, in the shell of "Independence", striving to solve all of its problems by ourselves; Being too proud to ask for help. Thus our problems seem to multiply.

WE DO HAVE helps and answers at our fingertips if we would only consult the proper source. The Bible; -That Divine Book of Inspiration, has these answers when we look for them.

That the Bible is God's divine revelation to man, "To light his pathway", is witnessed by itself. It consists of 66 Books, written by some 40 authors, over a period of some 1600 years, yet is without contradiction.

It is the aim of this publication to aid you in finding this help. —THE BIBLE ANSWERS.

Two seed dealers honored

Littlefield Butane Company and Spade Hardware were honored recently for outstanding sales achievement in 1977 and for five years' service as dealers for Pioneer brand seeds.

The Littlefield and Spade companies received a specially designed Silver Dollar Award for outstanding sales achievement from Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. And to mark the anniversary date, a plaque bearing their name and years of service was also presented.

"Both companies joined Pioneer as dealers in 1972 and have represented Pioneer well in their areas," Jim Lindsey, president of the Plainview company said in announcing the honors. "We're also very proud that they qualified for the Silver Dollar Award in their anniversary year."

"Only 15 to 16 percent of the approximate 800 Pioneer dealers eligible for this award will qualify each year. And Littlefield Butane Company has now qualified in each of the past three years. The Spade Company has qualified in three of the past five years.

"To make this kind of achievement requires considerable individual effort," Lindsey continued. And he noted that the most vital ingredient for success of Pioneer is people like those at Littlefield Butane Company and Spade Hardware.

Pioneer markets planting seed in the Southwest for sorghum, corn, cotton, wheat and alfalfa through dealers in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

The Plainview-based firm is a division of Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., Des Moines, Iowa.
