FW&D Seeks To Cut Fare

Cent And Half Per Mile Basis Of Application To Commission

AUSTIN, (UP)—A cut in passenger fares to a cent and a half a mile was proposed by the Fort Worth and Denver City and the Wichita Valley lines before the Texas Railroad Commission here. Present passenger railroad rates in Texas are 2.6 cents a mile. The proposed cuts would extend generally over the lines in the Panhandle and to Abilene, and the Stamford-Spur extension carrying passengers who ride in the day coaches. Forecast of a possible rate war between the railroads and motor buses was given when bus representatives asserted that the proposed cuts would not give the railroads any increased revenue but were for the purpose of reducing the bus company revenues, and that if the rail cut was authorized the bus lines will ask it also.

AUSTIN, (UP)—Indications that harvest acreage and production of cotton in Texas would be the smallest since 1922 was reported Tuesday by the federal-state crop reporting service. Total production of 3,326,000 bales was forecast from 13,881,000 acres it was estimated would remain for harvesting after normal abandonment. The crop last year was 5,320,000 bales, the five-year average is 4,613,000 bales. Condition of the Texas crop was reported better this year than any since 1924.

Home Loan Bank In Texas Urged By Tom Connally

MARLIN, (UP)—Senator Tom Connally Tuesday telegraphed Nathan Adams of the home loan bank board in Washington, urging establishment of a regional bank in Texas. He said one of the banks should be in the southwest and that on account of rapid growth of Texas cities there was greater need for such a bank in this state than in any other part of the region.

Miss Pauline Menger, of San Antonio, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Ira Thurman, for a few days.

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (AP)—Three $20 bills, two tens and two fives were definitely identified by police here Tuesday as bearing serial numbers corresponding with those on ransom money paid in the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

Miss Anderson said she obtained the $90, which was all the American money she had, from a bank at Hampton, Virginia.

Parrish Only West Texan In Congress Race

Lubbock Man Polls Strength In All Parts Of State

LUBBOCK—Sole West Texas survivor of the first primary in the three-sided race for congressman-at-large, Senator P. L. Parrish, of Lubbock, is vigorously pushing his run-off campaign.

Paired in Place No. 1 with Geo. B. Terrell, aged politician from over near the Louisiana border, Senator Parrish carried into the August battle of ballots the standard of West Texas, deserving of two new members of the House of Representatives had the state been redistricted in accordance with law as based upon the 1930 Federal census figures. Unless West Texans line up almost solidly behind their one candidate the broad acres of the Panhandle-Plains and Central West Texas will not be recipient of the added representation to which it is entitled.

Parrish Working Hard Senator Parrish, who has represented the 30th senatorial district in the upper house of the legislature for the past three and a half years, is being no grass grower under his feet as he makes his drive for the Democratic nomination which is tantamount to election. He expresses optimism and feels that he will lead his veteran opponent from the first through the last count following the coming election.

"I favor submission of the 18th amendment to the voters of the United States despite the fact that I have always voted personally for prohibition," he says in commenting upon his platform. "Texas Democrats, in the July primary, expressed an overwhelming desire to secure such submission and if I go to congress I shall always endeavor to be guided by the wishes of the Texas constituency on prohibition and everything else."

Against Debt Extension As for extension of war debts, the Lubbock man takes a very decided stand. "I am in favor of collecting every penny that is owed us by European nations," he declares. "And the sooner the better. If it is not possible to collect those debts without further extension, I favor, in addition to the government's extension a similar extension on the part of international bankers. In other words, if our government gives European nations longer to pay their debts, the big banking houses must do the same. I see nothing fair about the government's stepping aside in favor of Wall Street."

Is Native Texas Son of Confederate veteran and a native of Lamar county, Senator Parrish has resided in West Texas since his youth. He is interested in farming and stock raising on a small scale and "because I have had actual experience along this line" is ready to fight the battles of agriculture in the House of Representatives if he is sent to Washington.

"To my mind," he says, "it is impossible to bring about a return of normal times until agriculture and its contributing agencies are saved from the slough in which it now reposes."

"I also favor elimination of the bureaucratic form of government saddled upon us by the Republicans. It is too inefficient and too costly and if I go to congress one of the principal problems upon which I aim to work is the reduction of governmental costs, to be reflected in decreased taxes."

"I do not mean that I will favor penny wise, pound foolish economies; such a program would be harmful. But I do know that many economies can be placed into effect in the operation of the national government and that's what I'll be after," he states.

Senator Parrish, who received a thumping big vote in south and east Texas in the July primary, believes the people of Texas will largely agree that the Panhandle-Plains area is entitled to at least one of the three congressmen-at-large.

By Associated Press Irritation in Tokyo and satisfaction in Geneva were Tuesday's reactions to the New York address Monday night of Secretary of State Stimson on the Briand-Kellogg pact.

The Japanese foreign office Tuesday asked the Washington embassy to send a detailed report of the secretary's speech.

Dispatches stated Japanese officials interpret Stimson's remarks as an implication that Japan is the aggressor in Manchuria; an aggressor against whom the whole world is organized and mobilized as never before.

Satisfaction was expressed in League of Nations circles at Geneva over what was described as "a guarantee that in event of any future call for action by the League the attitude of the United States will be known in advance and a possible cause of embarrassment removed."

Cotton Holds Steady; Stock Prices Waver

December Up 1 To 3 Points; Stock Cling To Monday Advances

NEW YORK (UP)—Reactionary impulses following Monday's big advance in cotton were evident Tuesday. The market declined and attracted increased trade or commission house buying and an early break was followed by rallies. December contracts, after selling off to 7.01 advanced to 7.34. It met renewed realizing and ruled around 7.23 in mid-afternoon market, which showed net advances of one to three points.

NEW YORK (UP)—The stock market made frequent changes in trend Tuesday.

It tried with indifferent success to fight off profit-taking and short selling. Prices churned about nervous and in a wide range. Trading became dull on reactions, increasing in volume with each rally.

Utility shares were brought forward as leaders on one upturn, and rails showed strength at times. Volume dropped appreciably from Monday's trading of about five and one-half million shares. Extreme gains of one to three dollars or more by American Telephone, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, American Can, J. I. Case and others were more than lost. Steel common was much less buoyant even at best, than in recent markets.

National Camp, Gettysburg, Pa. (UP)—The "left wing" members of the bonus army were camped Monday on the battlefield where north and south fought the crucial battle of the civil war.

This small group of 262 stand-pattens broke from the leadership of W. W. Waters, national commander of the B.E.F., and refused to disband. The Gettysburg colony will be the basis of a new bonus army to march on Washington next December when congress reconvenes, according to present plans. "We're not fixed here," Elvin J. Muncie, Gettysburg, Okla., camp commander, told the United Press. "We have leased this camp site for an indefinite period and are going to stay here until congress meets again. Meantime we have leased another site nearby to accommodate 300 additional men and will march to and return to Washington."

National Camp is an old tourist camp containing nine cottages. These dwellings are used to house several families and the camp officers. A nearby garage furnishes shelter for 100 men and 100 sleep on the floor of Xavier Hall in Gettysburg, donated by Father Stokes, a priest.

"Our exact count today is 247 men, seven women and eight children. Every one of them is clean and well fed," Muncie said.

The National Camp was policed by men of the B.E.F. No strangers were allowed to leave and enter the business section of the town.

There has been plenty of food at the camp, some donated by Gettysburg citizens and some being sent by V. L. Butler, Detroit. Every man at National Camp has denied belonging to any communistic organization. Leaders have warned that communistic demonstrations or propaganda would not be tolerated.

Common Sense On Reparations
AT THE TIME the Treaty of Versailles was signed, the allies talked of forcing Germany to pay reparations of $64,000,000,000.

A conference in 1919 scaled this down to $13,500,000,000. In 1924 the Dawes committee, refusing to commit itself as to the grand total, estimated that Germany must pay $500,000,000 a year.

Now, with the reparations conference finally reaching agreement, the German delegates have agreed that their nation shall pay just $170,000,000—and the allied nations are glad they can get that much.

The steady shrinkage of these figures represents a number of projects that have been active in the world since the war.

For another thing, it represents the steady decline in Germany's economic health. A nation that was willing, 12 years ago, to sign an I. O. U. for more than 30 billions now insists that $750,000,000 is the limit of its capacity to pay.

For another thing, the dwindling of these figures represents a return to sanity on the part of the nations of Europe.

The original figures were simply fantastic. No unprejudiced economist ever supposed such sums would or could be paid; the statesmen who insisted that they would were simply kidding the folks back home.

SPORTS ON PARADE

By CURTIS BISHOP

The tournament committee of the Big Spring Country Club, composed of C. W. Cunningham, G. R. Porter, Shirley Robbins, and Fred Stephens, met in official conference Sunday afternoon but nothing resulted of importance from the confab except the determination to convene again this evening and to plunge into the details that form the "misfortunes" of every tournament committee.

Julian Vega, the skipper of the Mexican Tigers, if famous for nothing else, is growing groucher than ever these days. Vega has even gone so far as to mutter in an underbreath that his ball players were developing into the biggest pack of loafers he has even seen.

Vega's effective pitching staff at present seems to consist of the veteran Payne, Lopez, Subia, and Yanes have been roughly handled by local sand lot teams. Albert Garcia is still struggling away with gleeful disregard for compresses, negro shacks, and railroad tracks.

History seems to be repeating itself in the National League pennant race. In 1921 the Pittsburgh Pirates, led by George Gibson started out by sweeping through an eastern invasion and reaching the half-way mark several games in the lead.

This year the same Pirates, led by the same Gibson, back for his second attempt as manager of the Pittsburgh Corsairs, seems to have once more slumped out of the pennant race.

The Philadelphia Phillies have re-instated themselves in the flag race but lost a double-header to the Cubs in a crucial series. The New York Giants are still pennant possibilities, as is Brooklyn, St. Louis and Boston.

AMERICAN SPRINTERS SWEEP OLYMPIC 100-METERS

This Associated Press telephoto shows the thrilling finish of the 100-meter dash final in the Olympic games at Los Angeles, in which United States speedsters took first, second and fourth, Eddie Tolan (left) of Michigan won by two inches from Ralph Metcalfe (right) of Marquette in world record time of 10.3 seconds.

At the same time L. Da Silva, goalie; Sergio, left back, and Brasco, a reserve, were barred from further participation in the swimming events of the games.

OLYMPIC SWIMMING STADIUM, Los Angeles, Aug.—A riot broke out at the Olympic plunge here late Monday when the Brazilian water polo team, protesting the decisions rendered by H. Komjadi, Hungary, referee of the game between the South American team and Germany, attacked him in a body as the game ended.

Raw Deal for Brazil
The referee's decisions during the game had been greeted by frequent bores from the 9,000 persons in the stands, with most of the spectators feeling that the Brazilians had been discriminated against.

As he swam back into the pool he pointed to the referee and tapped his head with a finger in significant fashion. The contest had been rough from start to finish.

Only through the interference of Gwynn Henry, assistant general manager of the Los Angeles organizing committee of the games, was Dr. Donath saved from being forcibly ejected from his own championships.

It was expected that as a result of the turmoil the Brazilians would be disqualified.

anxious Tigers batsmen, allowing only eight hits during the seven-inning affair. Yanes, starting pitcher for the Mexican contingent, was chased to the showers in the fifth and relieved by Subia who fared little better for the time he was in the box.

Tigers might have stayed in the swim had they not contributed to poor pitching with five errors, each of the quintet coming at a most inopportune time.

Home runs were chalked up by A. Garcia, who lifted one many leagues to the compress, and C. Bishop, who lined a long skinner under the compress platform.

Summary—Home runs A. Garcia, C. Bishop, Three base hits, Subia, Two base hits, Warren, Sneed, Pterro, Stolen base, A. Garcia, Sacrifice hit, Vega, Double play, Fierro to Hernandez to Garcia, Struck out, by Prescott 4.

"Right this way, if you please, sir!"
Unless you happen to be an invited guest of the British Royal Family, the best way to "see" Windsor Castle is under the convoy of a uniformed guide. In a sing-song patter, he will tell you its history... point out things of interest whose full significance would escape the unattended tourist.
It also saves time and shoe-leather to use "guides" when you do your marketing at home. These guides are the advertisements in this paper. They tell you where, when, and the equally important "how much."
By consulting the advertisements, you know in advance what the stores have to offer. If you are pressed for time, you can do your shopping by telephone, with the newspaper before you as a definite guide. Read the advertisements... the big ones and the little ones.
"Step this way," the advertisements say, saving time and lost motion.

CHAPTER XII

The next few days passed swiftly for Mona. She was relieved about Bud, had persuaded herself that the boy she had seen that night at the Halycon Club was someone else. Bud was working regularly now, had turned over $20 to Ma on Saturday. Kitty was doing well in school too.

Steve, braving good-natured little Ma's indignation, called Mona on the telephone. Barry Townsend haunted the office. Finally, breaking her vow not to indulge in social engagements with anyone met through the office, Mona went to lunch with Barry.

"After all Steve introduced me," she said to herself. Later she went to tea with him at a smart downtown tea place while Mollie Drury relieved her at the reception desk.

Little by little, piece by piece, Mona gleaned the story of Barry's business in South America, Steve's connection with it and the friendship between these two.

"Park and Third avenues never meet no matter how far they go," Steve had told Barry significantly. Steve had been born on Third.

"You little snob!" Barry teased. "Don't you like me? Won't you forgive me for living on Park avenue?"

"Do you wish to be forgiven?"

"There's no Third avenue and no Park where Steve and I belong, Mona."

He noted her look of inquiry. "Sure." We belong there. We're going back when we've tied up a few matters of business."

"It must be wonderful," Mona said wistfully. "No subways, no crowds, no—"

"They'd make you queen!" Barry put in.

She told Lottie what she had learned when the girls were spending a cozy evening together in Lottie's apartment a few evenings later. "Cooking in" as they expressed it, and having a feminine hour of chat.

It seemed that Barry Townsend's mother had been first engaged to the Mr. Townsend who was Barry's uncle and Mr. Garretson's friend. She was half Spanish, this beautiful mother of Barry's. Wealthy and of excellent family. After being engaged to one brother she married the other. Not the elder one who had the most money, but Barry's father who was the younger. The jilted fiancée never recovered from this blow and the girl's father refused to forgive her for it. She belonged to an honorable family and had failed to keep her word.

The father gave his daughter her dowry, of course, but he never spoke to her again. As a wedding gift he gave her some land in Brazil—land that had not been produced.

"This was precisely what the telephone did. The instrument continued to jangle noisily until Lottie rose unwillingly, walked to the little sick bedroom and flung herself down in a chair, prepared for an exhaustive chat. Lottie was a victim of 'telephonia,' once she persuaded herself to take up the receiver.

Her voice answered sharply and rather anxiously, Mona thought. Almost immediately Lottie was back in the living room.

"It's for you," she said. "For me?" Mona looked blank. "Why, no one knows I'm here, not even Mother!"

Lottie shrugged. "Then it's someone who took great pains to locate you," she observed.

Mona took up the telephone, and said "Hello." The voice at the other end of the wire was that of Morgan. Barry's valet.

Mr. Townsend presented his compliments and asked if the young ladies would care to come up for a late supper? The gentlemen were dressing, and they had instructed Morgan to call several numbers until Miss Moran was located.

As a matter of fact Morgan had been instructed to call out "the police, the fire department and the marines" but the discreet valet understood these exaggerations and modified his instructions to suit the circumstances.

"No I'll tell one," remarked Lottie drily, unbelievably.

The girls had cleared away the dinner—remarkably well cooked by Lottie whose frivolous air concealed many study qualities. They were sitting in the little living room, dressed in two of Lottie's most attractive negligees.

Lottie was manicuring her nails and Mona, lying flat on her back, abstractedly traced scrolls in the atmosphere with one finger while she talked.

"Why don't you marry one of these diamond kings?" Lottie asked presently.

Mona made a slight grimace charming and eloquent. "No one has asked me silly," she said.

Lottie surveyed her nails at arm's length rather carefully. Her heart—or what she would have leaped strangely at these words.

She thought to herself, "Can it be that I'm falling in love with him?"

By "him" Lottie meant Steve Sacerelli.

She tucked her slippered feet beneath her on the chaise longue and her eyes became pensive. Wearing blue velvet pajamas Lottie looked like a lovely blond angel. Her thoughts were interrupted by the shrill ringing of the telephone.

Lottie groaned, "Let the thing ring! We can't be bothered. Let it ring."

Why, just that. Love-learn! You're head over heels in love." "Don't be ridiculous, Lottie." Lottie held her gown, a soft white halo of chiffon, above her lovely head. She let it fall and instantly she was smiling her provoking smile.

"So I'm ridiculous?" she said, settling the gown carefully about her hips and surveying the effect in the mirror. Then she looked back at Mona. "Ridiculous? Not at all! You're in love, my girl or my name is Lottie Sacerelli Williams Burns Carr."

"Lou you think I'm in love with Steve Sacerelli? Why, you know I'm not!"

"I didn't say Steve. You're in love with Barry Townsend!"

"Barry? What in the world makes you think that?"

"Oh I read it in the Gazette. Now hurry! Let's be off to the festivities. And, my way, I'll take care of Steve. He won't mind!"

"I'll call up Bud," Mona decided as they were about to leave the apartment. "I'll tell him I'm going to be home late."

Here telephone call was promptly followed by another. It was a message from Buck Harkins to Bud Moran.

"Go after her in a couple of hours," Buck instructed. "Tell her your mother is sick, see? And while she's putting on her hat get an impression of the door. Keep your eyes open, Kid, and your mouth shut. It's a safe bet Steve will show those girls that diamond tonight!"

Second Flight To Stratosphere To Start Soon

ZURICH, Switzerland, (UP)—Prof. August Piccard, frail and bushy-haired Belgian scientist, completed plans for his second ascent 10 miles into the heavens where he hopes to obtain invaluable data concerning the cosmic rays, probably by Wednesday of this week.

His huge balloon, with an Imperial gondola, to carry himself and his companion 50,000 feet or more above the earth, is on the ground.

It was reported that King Albert of Belgium will come to Zurich to witness the professor's feat. Mrs. Piccard said that he hopes to remain eight hours in the stratosphere.

The day of ascension depends on atmospheric conditions, since the scientist is hopeful of drifting toward the Alps. It would be safer, he feels, to land in the mountains because of the absence of dangerous air currents there.

The lean, middle-aged man who started the world in May 1931 by soaring to a height far greater than any ever before achieved by a human being, went about his preparations quietly and methodically. With his second take off only a matter of hours away.

The new gondola, constructed at Brussels, contains many improvements for comfort and safety. It is built of aluminum. It has been white-enameled so as to reflect the sun's rays. Last year Piccard and his assistant suffered terribly from the heat because this precaution had not been taken.

Professor Piccard and Max Cosyns, of Brussels, who expects to accompany him, will carry parachutes as an additional precaution. Piccard intends to wireless news of his position periodically, and to receive weather information from below.

He has no desire to beat his altitude record of last year. Altitude interests him only in that it takes him into the stratosphere where he hopes to discover something of the secret of the cosmic ray.

FIRST BLOC

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE) few at the expense of the many. His policies of economic reform, as well as reform laws for the protection and development of natural resource wealth, (the heritage of the people) and the rights of generations yet unborn should be safeguarded, led to the split in the city of Houston in the famous car shed convention and the nomination of a distinguished lawyer and Confederate soldier to carry the flag of the ancient regime.

The Texas commoner who is sleeping in the shade of a pecan grove buried his defiance at all corners and all bolters and went down the firing line for the restoration of the ancient rights of all the people, for the constitution as it was written, for equal justice for all, for equal privileges for all and for a government at all times responsible to the constitution and the law of the commonwealth. He won. He made history. There have been many able and conscientious and patriotic men in the governor's chair since the passing of Hogg. The writer knew them all and he goes on record as making this emphatic and conscientious declaration that no governor from the period of Hogg to this hour has ever made a nobler battle for the protection of the rights of the people, the pockets of the people, the freedom of the people along constitutional lines or for a government ever onward, ever just, and ever progressive than Ross S. Sterling.

He came from a little farm in Chambers county and his record of achievement as chairman of the state highway commission and then as governor, serving his first term in unassailable regard of the fact that in the economic life of Texas and of America the lowest levels has been reached since the days of San Jacinto or the close of the war between the states at Appomattox' last climax where the sons of the South were overwhelmed by the sons of the North and the union of states went on forever with the starry flag of the emblem and the constitution the guide book of all men and women who believe in the ideals of the founders of nation and commonwealth, who believe in constitutional government along the lines blazed by the builders, who believe in honesty and integrity above all, who would lighten the burdens and do the best to find employment for those who need it in city or country. They have a native son governor of the Lone Star whose grandfather fought with Sam Houston at San Jacinto and who never placed a spitch on the escutcheon of Texas—and if he runs true to his personal history and his official record of achievement never will, should he hold office throughout the years to come until he is called upon to pay the debt he owes nature. ("Tomorrow"—The Second Bloc or Group.)

Proponents Of Repeat Are For Bailey, Burkett

FORT WORTH, (UP)—The crusaders, state organization supporting prohibition repeal, will support George B. Terrell, Joseph W. Bailey and Joe Burkett as candidates for congressmen-at-large in the runoff election, W. D. Bacon, state director of San Antonio, announced here Monday.

The state director met with local leaders of the crusaders and political leaders of both parties to map a campaign in favor of wet candidates. Parades and mass meetings during the campaigns are being planned by the crusaders.

Bacon referred to the vote in favor of re-submission of the 18th amendment in the first primary as a distinct victory for his forces in "crystallizing public opinion for repeal." The fight now, he said, is "to translate this opinion into legislative action."

Terrell is opposed by Senator Pink Parrish for place one, Bailey by C. M. Davis for place two and Burkett by Sterling P. Strong for place three.

Pink L. Parrish, A Dry, Will Vote For Resubmission

AUSTIN, (UP)—Pink Parrish, candidate for congressman-at-large, place 1, and an avowed prohibitionist, today announced he would vote for re-submission of the liquor question if elected.

"I shall obey the instructions of my party and its platform," Parrish said in a statement. Settlement of claims held by world war veterans, immediate relief of unemployed, and less government in business are platforms stressed by Parrish in his campaign.

FRIENDLY SERVICE

Is Not "OUT OF DATE"

It may be "modern" to render only the service that is absolutely necessary, but Conoco thinks otherwise. We believe that a Service Station should live up to its title wholeheartedly. Of course, you go to a service station primarily for oil and gasoline, but isn't it pleasing . . . and fitting . . . to have your windshield cleaned, the radiator filled, the tires checked, without having to ask?

Isn't it satisfying, too, to know that the service station affords clean, adequate rest-room accommodations; that the service men will check parcels for you, give you dependable road information and maps, and inform you fully concerning local hotels, camps and sports if you are traveling?

All these free services and many more are standard at Conoco stations. Conoco men do these things in a friendly, courteous manner. They are chosen because of their willingness to serve you . . . and trained to render their service expertly. Whenever you want gasoline, motor oil . . . or service . . . drive to the nearest Conoco station. It's easily identified by the sign of the Conoco Red Triangle.
