er is the sun so beautiful as it has been hidden for several days by drizzling rain.

I drove up to the school, I and this was my first visit since the tornado hit last week in the lunch room.

There was quite a contrast in atmosphere. Things were being around the school in preparation for this year's homecoming celebration Friday.

Mr. Johnson moved to Olton from Abernathy in July. I was pleased to see such an intelligent and efficient young man interested in making a career of education.

In addition to his other virtues, both him and his wife had just dropped by his office to be very hospitable.

Mr. Johnson called in Latrell art, chairman of the student homecoming committee.

Mr. Johnson said she's one of the most efficient secretaries ever seen.

Mr. Johnson said she'll do the best thing she can do in the Olton Mardena Oglestree was our staff.

When I drove by the private office to have a quick cup of coffee with Troy and Martin, Troy was out, so I and I drove out to see Denna's new business venture.

She had opened a small store which she calls Ogle's Book Tree with "branches" located in various stores and town.

It is a profitable, practical thing. But it isn't hard to see Denna is basically a good man.

She makes you believe that she won't be quite comfortable without reading that particular book.

I was extra susceptible, but I left with an arm load, and I have a feeling most customers do likewise.

CO-CAPTAINS - Wildcat co-captains for the Dumas game Friday night at Dumas get in a huddle of their own this week as they prep for the Demons.

Seating Arrangement OK'd

Plans Set Early For Title Game

Mounting interest this week in the Littlefield-Levelland District 1-AAA grid title clash here Nov. 22 has forced school officials to plan early for a full house.

More than 4,000 fans are expected to cram into Wildcat Stadium for the game.

It's built to hold only 3,150. Faced with this problem, school officials started Monday with plans to take care of the crowd.

By Wednesday, stands borrowed from the rodeo grounds had been erected in the end zones.

Seating plans called for Levelland fans to be on the east side, Littlefield rooters on the west side and the two student bodies in the end zones.

All told, the additional end zone seats will bring the stadium's capacity to about 4,100. Any crowd over that amount will be in standing room only sections in the end zones.

Littlefield Supt. of Schools Ralph Schilling released 1,198 tickets to Levelland Monday and Tuesday, shy of the 1,500 the school requested.

The 1,198 tickets for Levelland include 958 on the east side and 240 on the west side in section A.

The east side seats 1,108, but the Lobo band will occupy 150 seats at the south end, near Levelland students in the south end zone.

Want to prove you're a good shot and help a worthy cause, too?

You'll have your chance Sunday, when Littlefield Jaycees will hold the first of three turkey shoots.

The shoot will be held in the afternoon at the range on the west side of the municipal airport.

Three separate accidents near Littlefield during the weekend resulted in injuries to six persons.

Injured in the mishap were Johnny T. Gomez, 19, San Antonio, driver of one car, Jose Florez Jr., 16, Friona, driver of the other, and Florez' father, 50 and 12-year-old sister, Mary.

Earlier Saturday afternoon, Rose Marie Jones, 17, Littlefield, suffered a broken rib in an accident three miles west of Littlefield on Highway 84.

She was treated and released at Littlefield Hospital.

Early Sunday morning, James Luther Dalton of Floydada was hospitalized after his car failed to make a turn at the intersection of Highways 84 and 54 just outside the east city limits.

A passenger in the Gomez auto, Juan Apollinar Jr. of San Antonio, and another in the Florez auto, Florez' brother Fred, escaped injury.

Officers said the accident in which Miss Jones was injured occurred when the car in which she was riding struck a truck, plunged into a ditch and over turned.

She was a passenger in an auto driven by Mrs. Frances Dehay Phillips of Littlefield.

SCHOOLS TO ENTER AREA COUNCIL

Littlefield school trustees Monday night approved the school district's membership in a research organization which may provide answers to everyday school questions.

The school board, meeting in regular session, authorized Supt. Ralph Schilling to go ahead with plans to join the West Texas School Study Council.

The board's approval came after Dr. Schilling supported the organization as one which would "help us give better answers" to questions about school activities and policies.

Dr. Schilling, admitting there's "a lot we need some help on,"

said the council has these purposes:

1. To help schools identify an analyze community problems.

2. To assist local schools in analyzing current research, and relate it to problems being studied.

3. To provide a clearing house for results of research and study, with special attention to the specific needs of schools and communities.

4. To study public school-college relationships.

5. To make consultants available to member schools from college resource personnel in many educational fields. These consultants also would deal with school curricula, construction, finance, administration, school-community relations and high school-college relationships.

6. To develop a work-study center at Texas Tech where the entire program can be furthered.

The purposes were approved earlier this year in a joint meeting of West Texas school administrators and Tech personnel.

Dr. Schilling told the board that 11 area schools already are members of the council. They are Andrews, Brownfield, Denver City, Hale Center, Hereford, Kermit, Lamesa, Levelland, Plainview, Seminole and Slaton.

About 20 other schools have been invited to join. Dr. Schilling said, and some of them are considering memberships at present.

The research the council will carry out will "help schools determine the importance that should be placed on different events," Dr. Schilling said.

"We want to set up a priority system," he said, "so that we can see what subjects would be best to offer."

Setting up of a work center at Tech, Dr. Schilling said, would enable both superintendents and school board members to study school problems.

Dr. Schilling said the school runs into all types of problems—grading systems, dropouts, transfers, migratory students, activities to offer, etc.

"For instance, maybe a child makes a 92 on one math test, then makes 63 on the next one. The parent wants to know why," Dr. Schilling said.

"We could provide better answers to that type of question, and other types with the benefit of these studies," he said.

Did you ever feel like this poor cat does, stuck up in a tree? Many people do when their children ask embarrassing questions like, "Mommy, where did I come from?" or "Daddy, why am I here?" or "What is life for and where do people go when they die?" These questions give us that 'up-a-tree' feeling because we simply don't have much confidence in our answers. We wonder ourselves what life is all about. It is questions like these which are the special province of the Church and to which the Church gives confident answers. Help your children learn the right answers to the profound questions about life by taking them to the Sunday Church School and staying with them.

Is something wrong with your life — an inner restless dissatisfaction? The answer to every human problem comes only from God our Maker. He alone can forgive and reassure.

Through the church God has committed the provision and proclamation of His forgiveness and redeeming love. Without a church relation no one is securely related to God. Everyone should be in the Church and the Church in everyone!

Government Loans On County Grain May Hit Record

Government loans on Lamb County grain probably will hit $5 million this year, ASC office man- ager Lamar Aten said Tuesday.

About $2 million worth has been put into Commodity Credit this year, almost as much as the $2 1/2 million worth earmarked for CCC in all of 1956.

The record year for Lamb County is 1955, when about $5 mil- lion was put into the CCC, Aten said.

The ASC manager said much of Lamb County's grain is going into the program because of low prices on regular markets.

Farmers can pull $1.62 net per hundredweight from the CCC while local markets stand around $1.40 to $1.45, Aten said.

Although newspapers are common in our country today, their existence should not be taken for granted. It is a wonderful fact that almost all of our modern communities have their own hometown newspapers, freely edited by members of their own communities—spreading the news, stimulating the business of the community, and keeping their readers informed of important events elsewhere. It is well to keep in mind that a free press and a free people are an unbeatable team.

Planned Pre-Civil War Empire

Tech Researcher Reveals Fantastic Secret Society

LUBBOCK—Evidence that fantastic Southern secret society called the Knights of the Golden Circle may have been a major motivating force for secession before the Civil War has been revealed by a Texas Tech researcher.

The feudal society, conceived and promoted by a fanatic named George W. L. Bickley, made elaborate plans for establishment of an empire encircling the Gulf of Mexico, Sylvan Dunn, associate activist at Texas Tech, told the Southern Historical Assn. meeting in Houston last week.

The secret society gained much of its impetus from a meeting of Houston citizens and spread to towns throughout Texas, Dunn declared.

The South was a political cauldron in immediate pre-Civil War days, Dunn pointed out, and as such was ripe for a secret society that offered an outlet for its frustrations.

Capitalizing on the situation, Bickley—a novelist, historian and "physician" from Virginia—evolved and promoted a feudalistic order that served as a framework on which all Southern feelings could gather and solidify, Dunn continued.

Bickley drafted elaborate military, economic and political plans for an empire built on slave labor and rivaling ancient Rome in power, Dunn said.

It would have a giant ring around the rich Gulf region with Havana, Cuba, as geographical center, he explained. It would have incorporated the Southern states and Mexico as major geographic areas.

The nation would have been an economic unit built on production of vast amounts of cotton, sugar, tobacco, rice and coffee. Bickley had alternate plans whereby that nation might remain a political entity or join the United States later as a politically potent region.

The empire was to be run by a secret society called the Knights of the Golden Circle, Dunn said. There were three degrees: Knights of the Iron Hand (military), Knights of the True Faith (financial) and Knights of the Columbian Star (ultra-secret and political).

Bickley drafted a multitude of details on rules and regulations for every conceivable behavior, including complicated secret protocol and designs for innumerable uniforms and emblems.

Dunn said Texas became a hotbed of KGC activity in 1880, with "castles" at Houston, San Antonio, Brenham, Navasota, Austin, Huntsville, Castroville, New Braunfels and other Texas towns and cities.

Some of Texas and the South's most prominent men have been connected with the society, although in some cases their motives have never been clearly discerned by research, Dunn said. Among the leaders thought to be members was Sam Houston.

"Ninety-seven years ago—Oct. 31, 1860—just two weeks before the election of Lincoln as president, a crowd of excited Texans gathered here in the city of Houston at the courthouse square to hear Bickley lambast the abolitionists and promote the Knights of the Golden Circle," Dunn said.

"At the conclusion of the speech, 40 Houstonians were reported to have come forward to receive KGC degrees," Dunn continued. "It was the same everywhere Bickley went in Texas. His description seemed to stir up a special contagion in men of the Lone Star State and throughout the South to the point that a report from Baltimore, Md., stated that 1,000 knights were preparing for an invasion of Mexico."

Several weeks later, Lincoln was elected president, the South began turning its wrath upon the north, and the KGC dissolved in the reaction, Dunn said.

"But new evidence is gathering that in its wraithlike, secret existence, it may have been an important factor that crystallized Southern thinking that led to secession," Dunn said.

Dunn urged further research in the KGC in the hope that more light might be thrown on its real significance.

Farmers May Use Salty Water Without Damage

AUSTIN—Texas farmers may possibly use water that is slightly salty for irrigating without damages to crop production, University of Texas Engineering Dean W. R. Woolrich reported to a Saline Water Conversion Symposium.

Dean Woolrich told of his research on desalting water by freezing methods before the symposium sponsored by the Interior Department's office of saline water and other science research agencies. The symposium was held in Washington, D.C.

Woolrich suggested that the freezing process at its present stage of development might be used as a separate approach to irrigation needs in Texas, since a slightly more brackish water can be tolerated for agricultural use, though not for city and industrial purposes.

On Molokai, Hawaii, research workers conducted extensive irrigation experiments using water with 96 grains of salt per gallon on corn, egg plant, head lettuce, carrots and beets. Production results were "very good." Range grasses irrigated with brackish waters also yielded satisfactory production.

In the Netherlands, some of the experiences in reclamation of ocean and sea bottoms indicate that certain crops can withstand a much higher salt percentage than was previously expected, he added.

Kansas produces one-fifth of the nation's winter wheat.

Garrison Warns Motorists Of Dangerous Driving Time

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, issued a warning to Texas motorists this week stating that "the dangerous season for week-end driving is here."

Saturdays and Sundays for the remainder of the year, he said, will be extra hazardous on the streets and highways of Texas.

Upon reviewing information compiled by N. J. Woerner, Statistical Services section of the department, Garrison said that from all indications 45 per cent of the forthcoming traffic deaths this year will occur on the 18 remaining Saturdays and Sundays in November and December. He said the other 55 per cent of traffic deaths will occur on the remaining 43 week days.

"Week-end days are more than twice as fatal for motorists this time of year as mid-week days. This is due to the increase in hours of darkness coupled with high week-end travel. Therefore I urge all of our citizens to devote extra attention to their driving."

He added that "common-sense judgment on the part of Texas drivers and strict adherence to our traffic laws are the best protection against traffic accidents."

Woerner's statistical report predicted that 32 persons will die during the three-day Veterans' Day holiday between 12:01 a.m. Saturday Nov. 9 and mid-night Monday, Veterans' Day last year was on Sunday when 15 persons died in traffic accidents; 19 persons suffered fatal injuries the previous Saturday.

More persons were killed in Texas traffic accidents Nov. 24, 1956 than on any other day of that year. On that day 29 persons were killed in 16 fatal accidents. There were only five days in the entire year when no traffic deaths were recorded and the average daily death count was seven persons.

The state police director said football traffic and holiday driving, coupled with longer periods of darkness and bad weather were contributing factors to the increasing fatality toll.

"In this," he said, "Texas drivers should improve their alertness in driving and follow our traffic laws to the letter. The driver who is in the right, has every reason to expect other motorists who following the same rules-of-order for traffic. A person who violates one of these driving rules is creating a situation that will result in a traffic accident."

Area Football Teams Close Out Grid Year Friday Night

Spade Takes On Southland; Mustangs Seek Closing Wins

All the rest of the teams are hoping for victories to end otherwise dismal seasons.

Whitharral travels to Bovina in a Class B district game while Amherst hosts district champ Happy.

Whitharral has a 2-6-1 record for the year, while Amherst has a 3-5-1 mark. Both teams are well down in the district, losing heart-breaking games all year long; that might have gone the other way with a break.

Anton, 3-6 for the year, ends its season as host to the Hale Center Owls.

Oilton hosts Dimmitt in its annual homecoming game, and the Mustangs could finish second in the district with a victory.

Springlake, winless for the year, meets Farwell at Farwell.

Sudan ended its season last Friday night with a loss to Farwell, making its record 3-6.

SWPS Drivers Win Company Safety Honors

Local truck and passenger car drivers for the Southwestern Public Service Company were notified this week that their safe driving record contributed to national first and second place awards in the 26th National Fleet Safety Contest of the National Safety Council.

The awards went to the Plains Division of the electric service company, which includes eight counties in West Texas and Clovis and Portales in New Mexico.

Truck drivers were honored for the second consecutive year with the national first place award in the Public Utility Truck Division. The 66 trucks operated in the division were driven a total of 736,555 miles between July 1, 1956 and June 30, 1957 with only two accidents. This gives the drivers a record of one-fourth of an accident for every 100,000 miles of driving as compared to one and one-half accidents per 100,000 miles as a national average among entrants in the contest.

In the passenger car contest, drivers of the 49 automobiles in the Public Service Fleet had only one accident in 707,034 miles of driving, while the national average was over twenty times this amount. This record gave passenger car drivers a national second place award in their division.

Local drivers of vehicles honored in the contest includes Howard Horne, E. G. Alexander, Charles Parrack, Robert Barnett, Max Windwehen, Charles Smith, Jack Wingo and Floyd Armistead.

Parents Should Set Example On Safety For Children

AUSTIN—Now that school days are routine and winter is starting to push fall aside, there will probably be the usual increase in communicable diseases common to children.

Thousands of unnecessary cases of communicable diseases—and deaths—could be prevented every year in Texas, if all parents would only realize the danger of the common cold.

Colds, especially a child's cold, should never be neglected. But how many times have you heard a parent mention that Junior or Susie "have the sniffles" but they "seemed" well enough to go to school.

And what's more they will continue to go to school as long as they're able to walk, and only when they become seriously ill does the careless parent call the family physician.

But by that time a good many children in Junior or Susie's classroom have become exposed, thus setting up a chain of sickness and time lost from school.

And with the threat of the Asian flu hanging over the state, the common sense protection of keeping a child home when he or she is not feeling up to par makes more sense than ever.

A child who is sent to school feeling tired, perhaps because of inadequate meals, is handicapped. He not only lacks the aptitude for learning, but he is running the chance of falling prey to disease germs.

A youngster who is allowed to go to school suffering from a cold or the flu, runs the risk of serious complications. These troubles may develop into pneumonia, or if his resistance is low, signs of tuberculosis may appear.

However, when a slight illness is promptly and properly cared for, the child is usually well in a day or so.

The teacher can also be alert to notice if a child isn't feeling well. Of course, she is not expected to diagnose disease, nor is it her province to give health examinations, but she can recognize the common signs of pallor, a cold, and fever.

For his own protection and of other children in the classroom, a sick child should not be allowed to stay in school.

THIS WEEK

In Washington

By CLINTON DAVIDSON

Thirty-nine years ago this week the world dreamed a dream of peace on earth and good will among men, for all time to come. That was Armistice Day 1918.

We had just fought, and won, a great war to make the world safe for democracy. I recall, vividly, the great rejoicing that was in the hearts of all of us.

There would be no more wars. We settled down to rebuilding a peaceful world, confident that democracy was safe and that the dream of perpetual peace would be realized.

We set about to build a world that Christ would have been proud of. There was to be no more hate; no more killing. To assure peace there was created a League of Nations.

In far off Russia a Czarist dictator had been put to death by a peoples' revolution and a promising new democracy called the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics had been established.

Germany and Austria, the main trouble-makers, elected their kings and elected presidents. There was a reassuring promise of enduring peace and democracy in the world. But, while we dreamed of peace, democracy died in Germany, Russia, and Italy.

Peoples unaccustomed to democracy surrendered their freedom to dictators who dreamed not of peace, but of world conquest. Those men were Stalin, Hitler and Mussolini.

The result of World War II. Stalin doubled his rule and stabbed them in the back. His "prize" was the enslavement of a million Europeans under communist domination.

Thus was begun the cold war. Winston Churchill said that "as long as one man in the world is not free, no man in the world can be free."

For a uneasy decade we have gone from one crisis to the next. We have hovered on the brink of the abyss of World War III until whole world is tense and fearful.

The Russian rulers talk of co-existence as the price of peace, but only on their own terms. Those terms are that we abandon democracy and democratic people everywhere in the world.

But a blackmailer never stops with his first extortion. There are other demands, and the program grows steeper and steeper until there is complete and utter surrender. The ultimate price of peace on Russian terms, could be a surrender to communism.

To any reasonable person war is unthinkable. No nation with a lot of sunny would perpetrate a war. Death and destruction very probably would exceed the combined wreckage of all previous wars.

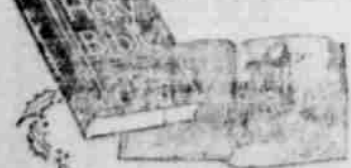

But if we are forced to make a choice between a defense of the free world and communist slavery, there can be no doubt of the decision. The phrase "give me liberty, or give me death" is no new to Americans.

Russia knows that and in that knowledge is our greatest hope for peace and freedom.

State Underground Water Use Must Be Planned, Panel Says

Underground water development coordinated, its use planned in areas of the state, on ground water, are depleted or salt-filled.

The view of Texas So-Professional Engineers' committee expressed in a series of articles on various aspects of the Texas water problem, future, argues the com- ground water users in as must not only pay for wells and pumps but must their pro rata share of assisting nature to ground water reservoirs in fresh water.

Projects capture the water, they are probably no tant to the economy than the hundreds of water systems developed and paid for mainly state or local funds.

of the latter get their from wells tapping un- water. Principal prob- underground water us- financing improvements, ing a balance in the un- reservoirs between re- withdrawal of water from contamination of and equitable division.

measure, it was esti- at half the water with- use in Texas came ground reservoirs. Al- thirds of irrigation wa- 85 per cent of rural, and domestic water came.

all of all water used for supply came from the Of 1,000 municipal water in the state, about 800 their supply from un- reservoirs.

Of approximately nine million acre feet of ground water used in 1955, seven million acre feet went to irrigation (75 per cent). The High Plains region used by far the largest amount of well water going to irrigation. Other big irrigated acreage lies in the Pecos, Gulf Coast (Houston to Victoria), El Paso, Winter Garden, Mid-west Texas, Lower Rio Grande Valley, and San Antonio-Uvalde areas.

Production from irrigated land accounts for over 40 per cent of Texas annual harvested agricul- tural income.

About a third of the total ground water withdrawals for public supplies are in the Houston and San Antonio areas. Ground water used for industries in these two areas also accounts for about half the statewide total going to that use. Through springs and seeps, ground water also supplies about 15 per cent of the state's total stream flow.

Ground water generally occurs in beds of limestone, sandstone, sand or gravel which have been pretty well located. Exact mea- sures of the water stored and the rate of withdrawal and recharge of these reservoirs are not so well known.

The Edwards limestone yields an average of nearly a million acre feet a year to wells and large springs along the narrow Balcones Fault Zone extending from Austin to San Antonio and to the Rio Grande near Del Rio. A tremendous reservoir extending from the Oklahoma boundary south across the Panhandle area of northwest Texas to the Mid- land-Odessa vicinity supplies 40,000 high capacity irrigation wells in the area. A third major ground water zone, located along the upper Gulf Coast, is used principal- ly to supply industrial and munic- ipal water.

In some areas of Texas, there is no ground water and won't ever be. In others, the available supply is undeveloped, and in others over-development threatens the life of the reservoir. Artificial recharge may prolong the produc- tive period in some of these over- developed areas. In others, no so- lution has been found.

These are some major ground water problems noted by TSPE Water Committee in its survey:

Gradual depletion of the High Plains area with no adequate re- placement source, slow migration of salt water into heavily-pumped fresh water formations of the Houston area, lowering of water levels to uneconomic depths in the Dallas, Fort Worth, and Win- ter Garden irrigation areas, an- drying up of springs which sup- plied the base flow of many San Antonio area streams as a result of increased pumping from newly- drilled wells.

Most ground water problems can be solved, concludes the TSPE committee, but solution will re- quire individual water users work- ing together.

Though courts have declared underground water ownership rests with the individual land own- ers, says the committee, unwise development by one user may re- sult in damage to his neighbor's supply.

When users accept the burden of helping to adequately replen- ish the underground supplies which have spacious reservoirs can be sure of water for the fu- ture.

Until they do, there is danger of reservoirs in some areas being dried up or becoming filled with salt water.

Next: The need for additional resources, TSPE recommendations.

State Irrigation Meeting Starts In Lubbock Today

Final plans have been made and irrigation authorities throughout Texas are looking forward toward a successful Irrigation Conference at the first state wide meeting of its kind, scheduled in Lubbock today and Friday, W. A. Van Blarcom, president of the Texas Inter-Industry Irrigation Council, said this week.

Some of the top irrigation authorities in the nation will be included on the program of this first conference. This meeting will be of utmost interest to farmers, agricultural leaders and the irrigation equipment industry. It will be held at the Lubbock Hotel, with registration scheduled at 10 a.m. today.

Dr. W. N. Williamson, Assistant Director, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, College Station; C. I. Wall, President of Pioneer Natural Gas Co., Amarillo and Dr. E. N. Jones, President of Texas Tech, Lubbock, will preside over the Conference sessions.

A banquet will be held at 7:30 p.m. today at which time Tom McFarland, manager of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District, Lubbock, will preside as master of ceremonies.

Jack Z. Anderson, administrative assistant to President Eisenhower, will speak on "Irrigation Farming—A Key to Better Living" at the banquet.

Other national authorities on irrigation to participate in the conference include Dr. Ivan D. Wood, irrigation consultant, Denver, Colo.; Dr. Moyle Williams, chief agricultural economist, National Plant Food Institute, Washington, D.C.; Dr. T. K. Timm, head of the department of agricultural economics and sociology, Texas A&M; Dr. Robert Hagan, chairman, department of irrigation, University of California; Dr. Marlowe Thorne, head of agronomy department, Oklahoma State University, Stillwater; J. W. Pruitt, irrigation farmer, Inverness, Miss.; Harry P. Burleigh, area engineer, Bureau of Reclamation, Austin; Wayne D. Criddle, state engineer, Salt Lake City, Utah; and others from leading irrigation equipment companies.

Although planned and sponsored by the Texas Inter-Industry Irrigation Council, a state organization, the meeting is drawing national attention and attendance is expected from throughout the Nation, officials said.

High Plains farmers and business men are invited to attend any or all of the conference, President Van Blarcom stressed.

Kind Of Global Defense S. Answer To Sputniks

Other effects the Soviet Union's two sputniks they have compelled Americans to review and re-examine opinions as to the progress of Russian natural science. It has long been assumed that the nation which produced the most automobiles, pioneered the electric light and telephone, and came through two wars on top would just naturally continue to excel in whatever was needed for the world. The implements of defense—atomic energy, jet propulsion, rocket propulsion—can be produced, but the process is slow, it takes attention, study, effort, and sacrifice. It is true on all various fronts of national and international life, not just merely in the realm of rockets, missiles, and earth satellites.

It is worth while to inquire why the Communists have been so successful in this spectacular advance in the exploration of space. They have gained, of course, the work of German rocket scientists. They may have found, as is hinted, new sources of concentrated energy and behind that new mineral wealth in their vast lands.

Contributing to general technical progress, they have developed a school system not yet extending in a mass scale to the university level but capable of training technicians in large numbers. And as Professor Counts of Columbia University and former Senator William Benton have tried to show, the seriousness of the Russian student, his ability to work, and the content of heavy courses thrown out in early grades are something not to be matched by the United States who choose "soft" subjects and major in campus activities while they go to classes in convertibles.

It is profoundly true that the race to produce an earth-orbiting satellite and in the process a rocket that could propel an intercontinental atomic missile—has been won by the Soviet Union. The cost of squalid, crowded housing for millions of people; coarse, monotonous food; plain, well-worn clothing; a lack of farm implements, stoves, bathtubs, refrigerators, television sets, shoes, bicycles, automobiles, and other furnishings on the scale Russians could have had if Communist masters placed less insistence on military production.

In respect the reaction of Dr. B. R. Sen of India, Secretary of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, is interesting. "Is this journey into outer space as an escape from the human problems of this world?" he asks. "The hunger and misery that a vast majority of the people of this world suffer daily, is this problem in second place in our minds?"

The fate of the world will not be settled by sputniks alienating a moon rocket, even though Moscow may exploit by a new arbitrariness about arms control and a bribe against Turkey. The strength of the free world is maintained on a dozen fronts, and this is no mistake.

We include the military, the political, the economic, and all with many subdivisions. But this all-round effort with communism will not be won by being communitarian. Victory must be earned. (Christian Science Monitor)

State Enterprise Scores

Handling the baggage of transferred military personnel has been something of a problem. When a service member is ordered to some far distant station, long delays in getting his "hold-baggage" have been commonplace.

However, a new system promises marked improvement. The European edition of The Star And Stripes, the newspaper, tells the story.

It concerns the transfer of an officer from Fort Bliss, El Paso, to Giessen, Germany. Under the old system, The Stars says, deliveries of baggage over similar distances averaged six weeks. Personnel traveling by air turned in their baggage to the transportation officer, who in turn turned it to a military transportation service, which handled ocean shipment. Then at the port of debarkation it was turned over to the port transportation officer, who arranged forwarding to the final destination.

The new system does the job in 20 days instead of six weeks. In addition, according to officials, it is actually cheaper. An interesting fact here is that the job is done by a government agency, but by a private enterprise. The baggage is turned over to the Railway Express at point of origin, and the Army doesn't see it again until it reaches the final destination. Railway Express, incidentally, has lately been developing a simple and economical international shipping service, an example described in The Stars And Stripes indicating how effective that service is.

Highlights and Sidelights From Your State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN, Tex. — Days of old seem to have dawned over Texas as lawmakers. They ended their first session this week and launched into number two.

It's the first time in more than a decade that a governor has convened a legislature in two rapid-fire special sessions.

Main topic for the second session is a bill to authorize closing of public schools threatened by occupation by federal troops.

Gov. Price Daniel issued the second call when it became apparent that this issue couldn't be squeezed into the final days of the first session.

House and Senate had difficulty coming to agreement on details of the first session's five-point program: water planning, lobby control, crime study, practice before state agencies and money for an Insurance Department building.

DELAY SPOTLIGHTED — Senate Investigating Committee is continuing its drive to establish whether the Insurance Commission dilly-dallied with reports of irregularities in a Dallas firm.

Former Insurance Department Examiner Wayne Tinkler told the committee that he began an examination of Preferred Life last March. He ran into difficulties, and asked for help from the department's legal counsel. He didn't get it, said Tinkler, and finally turned in a report in June.

His audit indicated that Preferred's president owed the company some $194,000 due to stock manipulations, Tinkler reported. "But no action was taken in the Department until September, when a brief conference was held."

BOND PROGRAM LAUNCHED — At least one phase of Texas water conservation program now has the official go-ahead.

By approving a constitutional amendment, voters cleared the way for issuance of $200,000,000 in bonds to finance local water projects.

Though only about one-tenth of the electorate (185,000) turned out, all three proposed amendments received approximately 3-to-1 majorities.

Other two will provide increased retirement benefits for state employees and authorize higher old age pensions.

WHO FOOTS THE BILLS — Texans depend on severance taxes, mainly on oil and gas, for nearly one out of every three state tax dollars.

Tex Analyst John F. Sly of Princeton said this reliance on natural resource taxes has been increasing over the years. Sly, in addressing a meeting of the Texas Research League in Austin, gave what may be a preview of the searching study of Texas' tax structure being undertaken by the League.

Some Sly statistics: State taxes increased from $123,000,000 in 1940 to $625,000,000 in 1957. Severance taxes jumped from 16 per cent to 30 per cent of the total in that period. Texas' state and local taxes are $130 per capita compared to the national average of $158.

EMBARRASSMENT OF RICHES — Combination of late spring rains and early fall rains has caught many Texas farmers in a squeeze.

There wasn't enough time in between to raise a crop and get it out of the fields. Agriculture agents in North Texas reported that farmers there stood to lose millions from ruined cotton. Some ranchers, according to the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, have "a very unusual situation — more grass than stock to eat it. This time last year those same ranchers were selling off stock at a sacrifice because they had no feed."

Small grain and winter legume prospects are extremely good, says USDA, though dry weather is needed for additional planting.

COTTON ACREAGE TUSSELE — For the third straight year East Texas and West Texas cotton farmers are at odds over average allotments.

State and county allotments are to be announced by USDA before Dec. 14 when cotton farmers will vote on whether they want a market quota program for 1958.

(From the files of the Lamb County Leader, Nov. 25, 1937)

Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes will invade the Littlefield Wildcats' territory today for one of the most important games to be played in this district.

Dr. and Mrs. I. T. Shotwell left for Dallas, where Dr. Shotwell will attend the General Electric X-Ray clinic.

The resident engineer for the State Highway Department with headquarters at Muleshoe, has announced that highway 51 is being taken by the State.

As a courtesy to the members of the Eidelweiss Dinner Club, Mrs. J. O. Garlington entertained with a dinner party.

The Littlefield PTA sponsored a rummage and bake sale in the Littlefield Tailor Shop.

that their area has been penalized. They say an undue portion of the state's cotton acreage is allotted to the older cotton-growing counties of east and central Texas. One group of West Texans went to federal court last year to try to get the allotments changed. Opposing them is the Old Cotton Belt Association which has announced it will fight new efforts to wrest acreage from its area.

SPEED LAW QUESTIONED — Governor Daniel has been requested to ask the Legislature to re-write the automobile speed limit law.

A recent opinion from the Court of Criminal Appeals called the law "vague and indefinite and therefore invalid." Involved was a conviction for driving 90 miles an hour.

If this law is too shaky for court test, the Harris County district attorney told the governor in effect, a new and stronger one should be written immediately.

ENGINEERS URGE WATER PLAN — Texas Society of Professional Engineers has added its voice to those urging an extensive, long-range water program. Importance of water to Texas' future justifies an annual expenditure of $100,000,000 in the opinion of TSPE's special water study committee.

TSPE's report recommended: (1) adoption of the governor's proposed legislation, (2) salary increases for the Water Board members, (3) planning on the lowest level possible to allow proper development of an over-all program, (4) sale of water storage acquired by the state in federal reservoirs to any qualified political sub-division, as quickly as possible.

SCHOOL WORK OKAYED — Improvements have been authorized by the State Board for Hospitals and Special Schools for night schools and hospitals. Included are state schools at Abilene and Austin, state hospitals at San Antonio, Kerrville and Harlingen, the Austin State School Farm Colony and the Confederate Home for Men. Costs will total $261,000.

Dairy Products Meeting Being Held At Tech

LUBBOCK — Dairy products men from throughout West Texas are meeting this week at Texas Tech at a conference sponsored by the Tech dairy industry department. International aspects of the dairy industry and better ways to produce ice cream, milk and other dairy products are topics being discussed at the conference that closes Friday.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Unseen Messages On TV Don't Worry Philosopher

Editor note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm is unworried by the latest development of science, his letter indicates. However, he's probably not even worried by some of the earlier developments either.

Dear editor: Some people hunt so hard to find something to worry about you figure they'd be worried sick if they didn't have anything to worry about.

For instance, I was reading in a newspaper last night while most of my neighbors were out looking up at the sky worrying about Sputnik, where science has discovered it can flash a message of a television screen so fast the eye can't consciously see it, yet it gets through to the brain and registers there.

Now this seems like a harmless enough discovery, but right off a lot of people in Washington began worrying about it, and some of them are now proposing a law against the thing. They say it could be a wicked thing; for example, politicians could flash their names on television screen so often voters would have an unconscious urge to vote for them. Advertisers, they say, could flash their messages across so stealthily everybody would be buying their product and not know why.

Well, now, I'll tell you. This thing doesn't worry me. Take politicians. I don't care how often I read some politician's names, consciously or unconsciously, I still wouldn't vote for em. Seeing a man's name over and over isn't necessarily the way to get him elected. Sometimes it's the way to get him defeated. Even before science developed its unseen television message, candidates were trying this by tacking posters on telephone poles and fence posts, but it didn't follow that the man with the most posters won.

Now with advertising messages on television screens, I'll tell you, if advertisers can figure out a way to get their message across without interrupting the program and without even being seen, I believe a lot of people would be in favor of it, although of course I recognize that there are people who'd be in favor also of running the programs off in that fashion also.

If science can get to the point where politicians can speak for an hour on television and not be consciously seen, you'll find a lot of people endorsing the idea. In fact, if they can enlarge this whole idea, and get things to where my wife can just flash her instructions to me, without me being aware of em, I'll settle for that and let the Russians have outer space.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Fort Worth Fat Stock Show Invites Littlefield For Day

Littlefield has been invited to have a "day" at the 1958 Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth by President-Manager W. R. Watt.

In his letter to Littlefield, Watt urged a cowgirl sweetheart be named so that she can be introduced to the rodeo audience in Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum. The city also is invited to send its high school band so that the students may give a concert on the stock show grounds. The band members will be guests at the rodeo performance.

Watt expressed the hope that the city also would have a delegation of citizens wearing hats and badges proclaiming their hometown. They will be offered a special section of seats at the rodeo.

Ann's Oakley, Western heroine of TV and motion pictures, will be star of the 1958 rodeo. Dates of the Fort Worth exposition are Jan. 24 through Feb. 2.

"We believe you will agree," Watt's letter states "that each city having a day will derive worthwhile recognition and that everyone participating will have a good time.

"You also will be giving wonderful assistance to your fat stock show—oldest in the nation—which has been serving the great livestock industry for 62 years. We thank you."

New Book Doubts Two-Party State In Texas Soon

AUSTIN — "Texas One-Party Politics in 1956," a new University of Texas Institute of Public Affairs publication, expresses doubt that Texas soon will become a two-party state.

That doubt also was expressed in an earlier book by the same author, Dr. O. Douglas Weeks University government professor and author of "Texas Presidential Politics in 1952."

"For the foreseeable future, it does not seem likely that a genuine two-party system will be realized in Texas or that the Republican party will come to be a major party even in presidential elections," Dr. Weeks writes in the new booklet. "Perhaps this is not necessary to the Republicans, if the majority of Texans continue to support the Republican presidential ticket as they did in 1952 and 1956, but there is no assurance that without an Eisenhower and a Shivers they will do so."

Copies of "Texas One-Party Politics in 1956" are available a $1.50 each from Institute of Public Affairs, University of Texas Austin 12.

The Junior Muller home Wednesday night.

H. R. Monroe was in Farwell on business Monday and Roy Osthus was in Lubbock on business Thursday.

Boom In Texas Must Have 'Pauses,' UT Bureau Says

AUSTIN — The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research says the Texas economy like the nation's "is teetering a the top of a prolonged rise in activity which could not be sustained indefinitely."

"There has to be an occasional pause," Dr. Francis B. May, Bureau statistician and a specialist in business forecasting points out "There have been two such periods since 1947. One, a mild dip in activity, occurred in 1949. The second, slightly more pronounced, began in mid-1953 and lasted until late in 1954. Neither was severe in its effects."

August to September changes in Texas business this year showed, a preponderance of minus signs over plus signs, Dr. May reports. If year-to-year comparisons are made (1956-57), increases outnumber decreases, however, and the size of the increases outweigh the decreases.

"From the data currently available, we seem to be in a period of roughly sideways movement with the possibility that a series of monthly declines may take place," Dr. May writes in Texas Business Review. "Whether they do occur depends in good part on factors affecting the national economy."

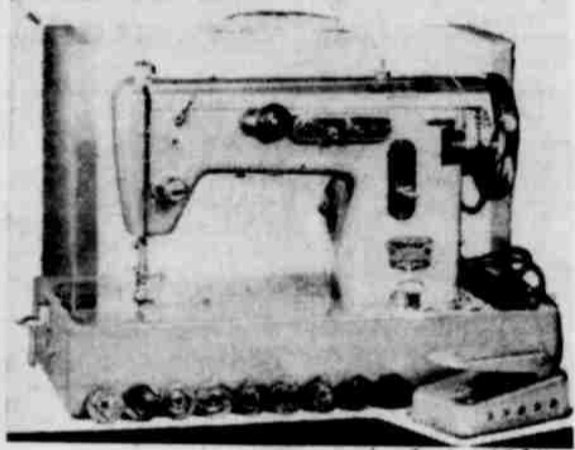

He says a loosening of credit by the Federal Reserve Board, an increase in defense outlays or other government expenditures or a strong upsurge in exports could send both the Texas and the national economies upward.

"Above all," Dr. May adds "something must be done to keep Texas' ailing giant, the oil industry."
