Dick Johnson Has Opponent For Office Of Dog Catcher

Dick Johnson, well known lumberman hereabouts, who recently "announced" for Dog Catcher, has an opponent.

His election to office will be opposed by Charlie Strawn, commissioner of Precinct No. 3, who Tuesday announced that he will be a candidate.

With two candidates in the field it will now be necessary for the editor of this newspaper to make arrangements for conducting the election. All who wish to participate as election judges are asked to notify the editor.

There may be other candidates, and we are of the opinion that conducting the election should be deferred for at least two weeks. Then, too, the candidates may want to do some campaigning.

Dick is "seeking" election on a platform of "Bigger and Better Dogs."

Charlie's platform is "higher grade dogs and fewer mutts."

P. S. Dick has just advised that the only opponent that he will recognize is Mich Stokes.

We Do Our Part

TRANSPORTATION IS VITAL

Away back in Thomas Jefferson's administration the Government of the United States, realizing that they could not build a unified nation without means of communication and transportation between its different parts, began a program of highway building over the Alleghenies.

When the steam locomotive was developed and railroads began to be built, again it was the province of the Government to encourage the development of this mode of transportation; and most of the main line railroad mileage in the United States was constructed with the aid of public funds.

We think that the development, perfection and maintenance of means of transportation and communication is one way of spending public money which not only meets with least resistance from taxpayers who have to provide the funds, but furnishes the most lasting and valuable asset to the nation and its component units.

There is something that appeals to the imagination in the efforts of the railroads to provide swifter, more comfortable travel. The new streamlined, air-conditioned trains which several lines are beginning to put into operation, suggest that the railroad is not obsolete. It never will be.

BEST AND QUICKEST

Because of its high standing of quality and its rigid safeguards, newspaper advertising has long been looked upon as the most reliable medium in influencing lives and tendencies of the people.

The newspaper runs right along with public thought. For this reason it is the world's greatest agency for moulding public opinion. It is the only instrument that can claim regular habit in the daily life of the reader.

The advertiser ought to know this, if he does not now. And he ought to know that this habit means for him the best and the quickest way to market his goods.—Muleshoe Journal.

TO BE BASED ON FIVE YEAR PROGRAM

Farmers whose five year average cotton acreage exceeded their 1932 and 1933 plantings were permitted to base their rental contract with the government on the five year average even when it worked out to increase their 1934 acreage above that planted in 1933, according to a telegram received from Washington, George E. Adams special agent cotton campaign states. The telegram which follows is signed by E. A. Miller, assistant to the chief of the cotton section of the A. A. A.

"The five year average acreage planted to cotton in the base period constitutes the farm allotment in this case. Section B, paragraph 4 of the contract takes care of this and makes it possible in such cases to have a larger farm allotment than the number of acres planted to cotton in 1932 or 1933."

Juniors To Present Play Friday Night

Charlie will be here with all her charm Friday night, March 9, and you must not fail to see her. She will be accompanied by quaint old Uncle Alec from the Ozarks. Lots of funny situations arise when the Ozarkians meet the society Smythe-Kerseys. You will roar with laughter when Uncle Alec is made into a butler by the fastidious Mrs. Fornham. "Papa Larry" is horribly embarrassed by the marked attention of Charlie, his ward. His discomfort is increased by the joking remarks of his friend Ted and by the presence of his haughty fiancée, Vivian. The pretty Irish maid of the policeman have a typical Irish romance.

But wait till you see the lovely Charlotte, who presents herself in the third act. Even Uncle Alec is improved in clothes if not in grammar. It is interesting to see the change that has come over the so-called society people with the fact that Charlie and Uncle Alec have money.

Are you interested in knowing these people as they are in real life? Charlie is played by Elarene Vause. Old Uncle Alec is Gilmer Eagan, and everybody knows his ability on the stage. Young Larry who is the unexpected guardian of Charlie, and a very fine young man, is played by Strauss Atkinson. His friend Ted, who is highly amused at the whole situation, is played by Emery Glass. Mrs. Smythe-Kersey, who swings a wicked lognnetto, is played by Edna Belle Gillette. Her son, Mortimer, who is always bored with life, is played by Don Hemphill. Vivian Smythe-Kersey, Mortimer's sister and Larry's fiancée, is played by Genevieve Mason. Mrs. Fornham, Larry's aunt, who thinks she owns both Larry and his house, is played by Maedean Kimmel. Linnie Bea Thornton is the Irish maid and Jim Frank Teeters is the policeman, Tim McGrill. You will be delighted at the way in which your friends transform themselves into the people of "Here Comes Charlie."

BULA NEWS

Indications point very directly to the fact that the Bula school will not obtain the gymnasium through the CWA. This project has been worked upon for several months with high hopes, but a recent letter from the state office of the CWA stating that they were no longer buying any material for such projects has caused much gloom among the students of the school as well as among the patrons and friends. A new appropriation for such projects, or renewed effort on the part of higher officials to continue the work of the CWA in this and similar fields may yet make this project possible; but if neither of these happen, the battle for the Bula gymnasium seems lost.

News has been received that in Bula, and a mass meeting has been held as a result, that influence from the northern part of the county is being used in Austin to add the appropriation for the Littlefield to Roswell road, another CWA project, to that given for the road through Muleshoe. The intention seems to be to stop work on the first mentioned road entirely, and spend all the money on the improvement of the second mentioned one. Synopsis: Ruth Warren, born and bred in an Eastern city, is willed the fourth interest in the Dead Center ranch in Arizona. With her faithful husband, who is in poor health, and their small son, David, they come to Arizona to take up where Ruth's brother reported killed in Mexico, had left off. They reach the ranch, 85 miles from the nearest railroad, with the help of Old Charley Thane, neighboring rancher who also carries the rural mail. At the ranch they find the partner, a huge woman, Indian boy, and a huge woman, Indian boy, who greet them suspiciously. As they trudge the 5 miles from ranch to the house they pass a huge gulch in a gulch where a voice whispers, "Go back. Go back." Ruth's husband caught in a rain shortly after arrival contracts pneumonia and dies away before medical aid can be sought. Ruth, penniless and without funds attempts to carry on but is aided at almost every turn by the old man and plotting Snavely. Despite the attacks of all kind Ruth gives notes of her ranch interest to purchase the ranch from Old Charley Thane and his son, Will Thane. A Mexican family has been hired to assist with the work. A peculiar sickness develops with the livestock. Ruth calls it "liver fever" and says he has a powder for the cure. Ruth's future is at stake on the development of the herd to meet her following the first roundup.

HOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

She dumped a keg of gold coins among them. Ruth could not have had more joyous excitement. While she and David were on their way to the ranch house they were taken by the breathless Alfredo. "Seems—please! The little house has been finished these two weeks. Is it good that my dove and I—and the good Don Francisco—should live on this next Saturday?"

Ruth guessed more from Alfredo's manner than from his words the nature of his request, and she gladly engaged him, not forgetting to mention the priest and the license.

Alfredo assured her that everything would be in order. He had heard that the priest was visiting Palo Verde and learned that one of the Mexicans who placed had a Ford possessing a license who would, no doubt, be glad to sell for the license.

She told Snavely of the celebration. He had come into the kitchen on Friday morning while she and Ann were preparing pie and she had told him all the truth. The grim old cattleman merely looked at her—one steady eye which brought a catch of fear to her heart. Then he had left without a word. Later she had seen him riding away on his favorite horse, a black roll behind his saddle. It would have been impossible for him to stay in the vicinity of the celebration. Probably he camped near some distant watering place; he did not return until Monday.

On the night before the fiesta Ruth and Ann got little rest. They stayed until ten fitting Magda with a dress—a dress, worn not so long ago, by a proud-eyed bride in the church on the outskirts of Littlefield.

At nine o'clock Saturday several horsemen and three wagonloads had arrived; the unfortunate heifer had been cooking whole for some hours over a pit of fire, superintended by Don Francisco whose culinary implements were a pitchfork and an ax. Old Charley and Will arrived with Juana, Juana's wife, in the ancient automobile. Every one was dressed as they felt the spirit of the occasion demanded.

Ruth noticed that nearly every one looked, sooner or later, toward the gulch. Once or twice, also, she saw a mother or father bring back some youngster who had wandered near the fence.

Since the Mexican border runs through the center of Palo Verde—four houses being on the Mexican side and two on the American—not a few of the male guests came fortified with refreshments.

When the line was formed at dinner time the young man who was dominated by the green shirt went to the aid of the solitary celebrator and brought him back so that he should not go hungry. Don Francisco cut great chunks of roasted meat from the carcass and handed them to Ann who folded them in a tortilla and passed them to the line of grinning Mexicans. The wife of Don Francisco's cousin from Palo Verde was in charge of the pies. All was silent save the occasional crack of a bone under Don Francisco's ax and the munching and satisfied grunts of the eaters.

Ruth, Will, and Old Charley had returned to the ranch house porch when Pink Shirt and Green Shirt went off, arm in arm, separating to choose two adjacent hilltops. She appealed to Will and Old Charley.

"Oh, I don't think they'll hurt anything," said the old man. "They'll yell until they go dry and then drop off to sleep. We can wake 'em up tomorrow or next day."

"There's another one well prepared for snake-bite," observed Will, watching a tall slender fellow with a blue sash who was talking volubly to Alfredo and gesturing toward the ranch house.

"Umm—ever seen that boy before, Ruth? Is he a friend of Alfredo's?" Old Charley was eyeing the actions of the man, critically.

"Why, no, I don't think so," replied Ruth. "I've never seen him before."

"Looks as though he was beginning to take things seriously," observed Will a moment later. Alfredo had turned his back to the man, only to be pulled back again by a jerk on his shoulder.

Old Charley caught his son's eye, then turned to the girl. "If you like, Ruth, you and me might go in and take a look at your round-up figures. If I get a line on what you have I can talk to the buyer when he comes to my place next week."

"Fine," said Ruth rising. "I'd certainly like to talk it over with you."

As they went inside, Will muttered in the direction of the barbecue, Alfredo and the man with the blue sash were talking loudly, face to face, and every one was watching. Suddenly the man swept off his big hat with his left hand and crouched low. Ruth, who in spite of Old Charley had stopped to watch through the window, saw a knife glint in his right hand. Alfredo, also, now crouched, knife in hand with his hat held out as a shield. The two men circled slowly about each other like a pair of game cocks. Will broke into a run. But Indian Ann was first. In two strides she had walked up to the man in the blue sash. She hit him once behind the ear with her first, then returned to the barbecue pit where she had been cutting off the remaining heat with the idea of hash.

Will helped to revive the stricken man and later led him to where his saddle horse was tied. He talked with him for a moment, then the man mounted and jogged down the road, homeward.

At one o'clock the priest arrived in a buckboard drawn by a pair of burros. Ruth went to greet him and found that he could not speak a word of English. He was fat, dirty, stupid, and the least interesting of her guests.

"When shall the marriage be?" asked Ruth as Alfredo came listlessly up to the ranch house porch about three o'clock.

Alfredo shrugged his face as pitiful. "The papers have not come," he said mournfully, looking down the road.

"What in thunder will we do?" Old Charley appealed to Ruth. "We've got the bride, the groom, the priest, the music and the audience. The priest knows enough not to marry 'em without a license."

Ruth frowned thoughtfully. "Do you suppose the priest can read English?"

"Don't suppose he can read anything."

"Wait a minute!"

Ruth entered the house and returned shortly with a roll of parchment tied with a blue ribbon. She unrolled the crackling paper, and exhibited it silently to Old Charley and Will. It had a beautiful red seal.

"Say, you're a wonder!" Will turned to his father. "Now what do you say a college diploma is good for, hey?"

Later that day Ruth wrote in her notebook: "The wedding was solemnized on the front porch of the bride and groom's future home. The bride wore a beautiful veil of old Spanish lace a handsome gown of white satin with a large shawl draped tastefully about the shoulders. The ensemble was strikingly set off by a pair of red pumps. The groom wore the conventional black corduroys."

Ruth's last memory of that day, as she slipped into sleep, was the sound of guitars, mandolins, a flute and a violin from the direction of the new little adobe. The music was being played with steadfast purpose, as though it would still be playing when she awoke. And she could hear dim and afar off, a long quivering yell of some happy mortal on a hilltop.

Sugarfoot was tied up. The little dog sat at the extreme end of the rope which fastened him to a log in the woodpile, and gazed disconsolately at David who had just returned from a hunt and was now shooting at a tin can with his bow and arrow. And there was no reason to be tied—Ann had not gone any place. Sugarfoot could hear her in the kitchen making interesting noises with a pan. Sugarfoot whined.

"Well," said David, as he noticed the dog and came over to the woodpile, "guess nobody 'membered to untie you. If I let you go, will you be a bear? Bears are awful scarce."

Sugarfoot wagged his rear third enthusiastically but failed to live up to the bargain, once free of the rope. He speedily ran in the direction of the barn.

At eight o'clock David was tucked in his cot and Ruth sat near, reading, for the thousandth time, a tale of the 'Coon and the 'Possum and the Old Black Crow.

Ann knocked at the door and her voice was heavy with anxiety. "You-all ain't got Sugarfoot in there, has you?"

Ruth went to the door. "Why, no. He isn't loose, is he?"

The girl nodded dully. "The rope is untied off his collar."

The girl caught her breath and turned. "David! Did you untie Sugar-foot?"

The tone of her voice caused David to answer dubiously. "Well—sort of—you see, Mama, he wanted to play bear and I just thought I would let him, so . . ."

Ann was lighting a lantern. She hurried out of the back screen door. "See if he might be down at Alfredo's," called Ruth with an effort at cheerfulness.

The girl nodded but did not answer.

Ruth scolded David for untying the dog, but said nothing more. That afternoon Ann had asked her for the rest of the poison which, together with the box containing the remains of the liver fever medicine, she had locked in her trunk after her disastrous mistake. She had given Ann the poison which the girl then placed in the carcass left over from the barbecue. The coyotes were becoming too numerous around the home ranch and Ann wished to thin their ranks. Sugarfoot was to have been kept tied during the night to keep him from the meat.

After David had fallen asleep Ruth left the room and went out of the house. On the other side of the barn she could see Ann's lantern moving slowly through the bushes near where the poison had been placed. Ruth did not like to leave David alone in the house, but she decided to help Ann search.

She had reentered the house and was lighting another lantern when a slight, familiar sound turned her rigid. He sound came again; a low whine and a scratching on the screen door.

It was Sugarfoot. As Ruth held the door open, the little dog walked sleepily inside and, going to Ann's door, sat down and yawned. It was as though, peacefully asleep on his sack by the woodpile, he had become cold and had risen in the hope of a warmer bed in Ann's room.

Ruth picked the dog up in her arms and ran outside, "Ann! Oh Ann!" The moving light beyond the barn suddenly stopped. "Here he is, Ann! He's alive!" The lantern began to move violently.

Carrying Sugarfoot into the living room, Ruth lit the lamp. The little dog stood before the fireplace, his short legs widely spread and his sides distended almost to bursting. He looked sleepy and wonderfully content. Ruth knelt down and prodded him with her finger. He was as tight as a drum.

Ann came in panting and dropped by the dog. Sugarfoot licked her hand and strove to wag his taillessness; but such exercise is fatiguing after a hearty meal.

"He certainly does seem sick," said Ruth.

"No. He et the meat though—his tracks is all around."

formal program was held with Secretary Whitfield presiding. Brief talks were made by Spencer A. Wells, vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Dr. Ira Woods, president, and Joe Hale, secretary, of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce; J. D. HART'S CAMP

Under the able leadership of Mrs. W. C. Squires, the Hart's Camp Parent-Teacher Association is doing some splendid work this year. New lavatories have been purchased through their efforts, several entertaining programs have been staged, and certain improvements to the school plant have been made. A plan is now under way for planting trees and otherwise improving and beautifying the school ground.

Hart's Camp school is to be host to a triangular Class B interscholastic meet to be held one week prior to the county meet. Pupils of Spade school, Fieldton school, and Hart's Camp school will compete. Preparations are being made to entertain all parents who may wish to attend.

Pupils of the school are busily engaged upon various projects which they hope to exhibit during exhibit day. This event is to be held sometime in May. Much creditable work is being turned out, and it is to be hoped that such an excellent beginning presages a successful event.

Attendance percentages seem definitely to be on the upgrade. From an average of 67 per cent for last month, attendance has leaped to 92 per cent for the current month.

Members of the eighth grade have become full-fledged stamp collectors. They plan to specialize in domestic stamps, especially commemorative issues. Money is to be raised for subscriptions to a good philatelic magazine.

The facilities of the school library and all available private libraries have met considerable strain since the reading club of the sixth and seventh grades have begun the project. It seems that no coercion to read is necessary, and no book titles are assigned.

Although Hart's Camp is one of the smaller schools of the county, we are hoping to make a good showing at the county meet. Training for the various events has been in progress for some time, and several individuals are giving evidence of being in the winner class.

relieved by Black-Draught

"I decided to take Theford's Black-Draught, as I had been having bilious spells," writes Mr. Charles Stevens, of Columbus, Ind. "When I get bilious, I feel sleepy and tired and do not feel like doing my work. I get awfully dizzy. I know then that I had better take something. After I found how good Black-Draught is, that is what I have used. I guess it rids me of the bile, for I feel better—don't feel like I am dropping off to sleep every time I sit down. That, to me, is a very bad feeling. Now you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYRUP, for CHILDREN."

MRS. JOHNSON

SAYS . . . "I CAN BUY NOW BECAUSE I COOK WITH GAS"

CARL JOHNSON is a life insurance salesman, and planning savings is his daily work. He and his wife use the same plan in their family budget that he recommends for others. Carl thinks that some savings should go for insurance, some for other stable investments and some for taking advantage of special prices on goods for future consumption.

The Johnsons have found that judicious buying is one way to save that many overlook. They count gas for cooking as one of their greatest bargains because it is worth $1.75 more per 1000 cubic feet than is asked for it, as compared to substitute fuels, based on the findings of a large university.

They multiply $1.75 by the number of thousands of cubic feet of gas used for cooking per year and find that their total annual savings amount to $26.25 on this one item, used for one purpose.

This money goes to Mrs. Johnson to take advantage of other bargains, because they apportion the money for insurance and other investments directly from Carl's earnings. Recently she has noticed some exceptional bargains advertised in this newspaper by local merchants. Economic forecasts, present prices and the advertisements, themselves, all say "Buy Now." Mrs. Johnson intends to do that very thing with the $26.25 she has saved by cooking with gas. It is surprising the number of items that this amount of money will buy.

Home Demonstration Notes

By Miss Westbrook, H. D. A.

Five teams, Spade, Littlefield, Hart Camp, Sudan, and Spring Lake, competed in the county contest for 4-H meat team demonstrations held at the Amherst school building Saturday, March 3. The Spring Lake team gave a demonstration on the preparation of cans and lids for meat canning. Littlefield team demonstrated the making of liver paste. Spade team demonstrated the making of scrapple. Sudan team canned sausage, and the Hart Camp team made and canned chili and hamburger meat. Spade and Littlefield tied for first place. Sudan placed second and Spring Lake third. After the decision was rendered by the judges Mrs. Ned McAllister, home economics teacher in the Amherst school, Miss Finn, home economics teacher in the Sudan school, and Mrs. Neils Duffey of Amherst, Mrs. McAllister gave a very helpful criticism.

The Littlefield and Spade girls set Saturday, March 17, as the day to run off the tie and decide who will represent Lamb county at the Meat Show at Lubbock. This final contest will be held in the home economics department of the Amherst school. The same judges have agreed to judge this contest. The winning team will represent Lamb county at the Meat Show in Lubbock March 28-30.

The county home demonstration council met at the Amherst club house Tuesday, February 27, with seven clubs represented and twenty-one members present. The finance committee presented plans for the council to finance the county meat canning contest, the canning and clothing departments of the county fair, and the clothing contest.

Roy B. Davis of the Plains Cooperative at Plainview, and Jack Wayne of Littlefield, spoke on the production of "Marketable Cream." Mr. Davis stressed the causes of the production of poor creamery butter in Texas, the outstanding cause being poor cream sent to market. He brought out the point that cream held over until thick would give a higher test but would lose in weight by evaporation, consequently nothing would be gained, but a poorer grade of butter would be produced from the cream. Mr. Wayne explained the efforts being made by the government to "clean up" the butter industry.

New paper has been purchased by Mrs. J. A. Harrell, member of the Sod House Club, for two bedrooms and her living room. Mrs. Harrell, also has new living room suite and a new bedroom suite which was partly paid for with two old dressers and other old furniture that was not needed in the house.

The county monthly training school was held Tuesday morning, February 27, with 19 women present. Each woman made out her canning budget for 1934. These women will assist the members of their clubs to make their canning budgets for this year, also any non-club members who wish their assistance.

Emergency Crop Loans To Provide Temporary Relief

Regulations for making emergency crop loans from the $40,000,000 fund recently made available by congress indicate that a farmer may obtain such a loan if he cannot qualify for credit elsewhere, if he has a justified need for credit and if he is cooperating with the production control program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, according to a statement made today by S. M. Garwood, production credit commissioner of the Farm Credit Administration.

The maximum amount which will be made available to any one farmer this year is $250.00 and the minimum is $25.00 according to regulations. The interest rate will be 5 1-2 per cent per annum. Provisions for taking crop liens have been worked out under Mr. Garwood's direction and detailed regulations will be placed in the hands of local emergency crop loan committees within the near future. The time and place where these committees will receive applications will be known locally within a short time.

Before any farmer may secure a loan, however, he must first obtain a statement from the County Production Council where one exists, that he does not intend to increase his acreage or production in opposition to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration program. Where a county production council has not been set up, the applicant will have to give satisfactory evidence that he is cooperating with the production control program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, before his application for a loan will be considered.

Applications for loans from $25 to $150 may be made directly to the emergency crop loan offices provided the applicants do not have sufficient security to obtain loans elsewhere. A farmer applying for a loan of $150 or more must first make application for a loan to the Production Credit Association serving his county. Rejection of his application by the Production Credit Association will be considered sufficient evidence that other credit is not available and the farmer may then make application to the emergency crop loan office.

The emergency crop loans are entirely separate from, and are not to be confused with production credit association loans. The emergency crop loan fund is an emergency relief measure for this year only, to make available funds to those who cannot qualify for credit through the regular channels of a production credit association.

In announcing the regulations Mr. Garwood said he could not emphasize too strongly that the emergency crop loans are to provide a means of temporary relief for this year only, and that this year's loans probably will be the last of their kind.

Farmers who have a source of income other than farming are not eligible for emergency crop loans.

The funds will be used to make loans not exceeding the cash cost of growing crops during the year 1934, for summer fallowing and for winter wheat to be planted in 1934 and harvested in 1935. An amount from the fund, not to exceed $1,000,000, may be used to make loans to purchase feed for livestock in areas designated by the governor of the Farm Credit Administration as drought and storm stricken. The fund may not be used to make loans to replace work-stock.

Loans from the fund may not be used for the payment of existing debts, rent taxes, or past due accounts. The emergency crop loan fund act is an emergency relief measure and not a refinancing measure. Loans are to be made only to farmers who need relief to help carry on a basic farming operation necessary in making a living. The money was appropriated for the specific purpose of producing, planting, fallowing, and cultivating crops, and for feed for farm livestock in drought and storm-stricken areas. The act imposes a very severe penalty for using loans from the fund for any other purpose.

Although the maximum amount of an emergency loan to any one farmer is $250, as authorized by the regulations, no farmer will be loaned any more than the cash cost of producing the crops. The regulations restrict the amount that may be loaned to the tenants of any one landlord in any one county to $600 and also restrict the amount that may be loaned per acre, depending on the kind of crop being grown. All funds will be advanced to the borrower at the time the loan is made and not on a budget basis. The borrower must make the amount advanced run him through his entire season, for if the money is used up before the crop is finished, or if the money is spent for any other purpose, additional advances will not be made.

Loans may be made to a borrower before his crops are planted provided a first lien may be taken on the crops growing or to be grown as security for the lien. In some states, according to the law, a first lien may be taken on crops to be grown during the season even though the crops have not been planted. In other states this is not permitted. There it will be necessary for the borrower to agree to give a first lien on the crops to be grown.

All loans from the fund are to be secured by a first lien on all crops growing or to be planted or grown or harvested during the year 1934; in the case of summer fallowing or the production of winter wheat a farmer must give a first lien, or an agreement to give a first lien, on such crops to be harvested in 1935. In the case of loans to renters or share-croppers, the landlord will have to waive his claims to the rent or share of the crop. The law requires this. On the other hand, all tenants or share-croppers benefiting from any loan to a landlord must waive their claims to the crops if the landlord is to receive a loan from the emergency crop loan fund.

The recording fee or other legal fees in connection with emergency crop loans may be paid by the Farm Credit Administration up to $100. The borrower must pay the balance, if any.

Emergency crop loans will mature when the crops are harvested and available for sale.

No loan will be made to any individual who has shown lack of good faith in repaying feed and seed loans made to him in previous years. It is evidence of failure to observe good faith if a borrower has outstanding unpaid balances for two or more years which cannot be attributed to crop failures for which the borrower could not reasonably be held responsible.

In each case the farmer is the applicant. If he is not eligible loans may not be made to his wife, unmarried children, members of his family or employees.

Many Farmers Are Terracing Land

An all time high record for the number of farms on which terracing was done in one year showed up when the 1933 reports of the Extension Service disclosed that 15,465 individual farms had had some terracing done on them last year in the 173 counties reporting, according to a statement made by M. R. Bentley, Extension Agricultural Engineer, after a study of the annual report figures.

County agents actually assisted in terracing more than half of the state's total for the year, 604,386 acres, mostly at the same time training one or more farmers or club boys to use the level, run the lines, and make the terraces themselves, Bentley said. This has been done in spite of the fact that the year has been heavy with emergency agricultural adjustment work.

Texas now has 6,895,548 acres of land protected from erosion by terraces. The valuation placed on terraces made last year is $1,814,582. Estimated values for this type of work were substantiated last year in the cotton plow-up campaign when it was proven again and again that yields on terraced lands were so much higher than those of unterraced fields that the cash difference in the checks received from the government would have gone far to pay the cost of terracing, leaving the soil saving and

Two Dormitories To Be Built At Tech

A contract with the Public Works Administration has recently been signed by the directors of Texas Technological College to finance the building of two dormitories on the Tech campus which are to cost $650,000 and house 321 students each. The meeting of the board of directors was held in Fort Worth offices of Clifford B. Jones, chairman.

"Only one more signature is needed for the completion of the contract," Clifford B. Jones explained. "Secretary Ickes, who is head of the Public Works Administration as well as secretary of the interior, will probably sign as soon as he receives the document as it was originally prepared in Washington."

W. S. Bellows Construction Company of Oklahoma City has the contract for the building of the structures. Actual construction work is expected to begin in the near future.

School Bus And Car Sideswipe Thursday Cause Slight Damage

The school bus driven by B. H. Howton and a Chevrolet roadster driven by a woman sideswiped Thursday afternoon about four o'clock, causing the windshield on the small car to be broken and the fenders torn off.

The accident happened on the street leading from Highway No. 7 to the high school, which has been newly surfaced with caliche.

The woman driving the light car received a slight bruise on her head.

The accident is believed to have been caused by the slippery road occasioned from the recent rain.

Questions & Answers

CORN-HOG PLAN

Q. Is a producer who owns, operates or controls more than one farming unit required to sign contracts covering all such farming units?

A. No. He may sign a contract or contracts for one or more farming units, but no more than one farming unit may be covered by any one contract.

He agrees, however:

(a) Not to increase in 1934 the aggregate corn acreage on the land not under contract above the aggregate average for 1932-33 on such land;

(b) Not to increase the aggregate of 1934 litters and the aggregate of hogs produced for market therefrom on land not under contract, owned and operated, or operated by him (which shall include control exercised under a stock-share agreement) over the respective aggregate annual averages for 1932-33 for such land.

Q. Can all of the corn acreage reduction payments be obtained by a landlord who reserves a part of the corn acreage and then rents the balance of his farm in 1934, but did not follow such a procedure in 1933?

A. No. Such renting would be a breach of the contract.

Q. If the producer is buying or renting a farm under an agreement or lease providing for payment in a fixed amount of a commodity, will the seller or landlord get a share of the payments under the contract?

A. No.

Q. Can a 4-H Club member receive a separate payment on his pigs?

A. No; this would not be possible as all pigs have to be included in the total numbers reported for the farm.

Q. Is the landlord who rents under a share lease liable for the tenant's violation of the contract?

A. He is liable for violations of the contract on land owned or controlled by him on which are located contracted acres, and for hog production only if receiving a share of the hog reduction payment.

Q. What is the penalty if the producer has marketed before or holds for future marketing on the date of proof of compliance a number of hogs in excess of the number to which he has agreed to reduce hogs produced for market in 1934?

A. There may be deducted from the total hog reduction payment an amount of $20 per head on each or any of the hogs in excess of the number allowed under the contract.

Q. If the number of pigs in the litters farrowed or to be farrowed is or may be above the number of hogs allowed for marketing, what can the producer do?

A. Among other alternatives the producer may: (a) Reduce the number of fall litters; (b) Take the $20 deduction per head for the surplus pigs on hand at the time of inspection; (c) Kill the weak or runty pigs to within the approximate number.

They have good products. They do not have the large overhead to pay that the larger companies have to pay, is why they can undersell. FIRST NATIONAL BANK

You don't have to deposit your money in the Post Office to assure absolute safety from loss!
There is no more logical place to deposit money than in a bank, especially when you know that there is ABSOLUTELY NO DANGER OF LOSS. And there are two outstanding reasons why THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK, LITTLEFIELD, is a safe place for your funds. One is that the First National is a highly sound bank with ample assets for the protection of all deposits; the other is that the First National is participating in the benefits of the Federal Insurance Company, a government agency set up to insure bank deposits. If you are particular about your food and want to be sure of good wholesome food properly cooked in a nice clean sanitary kitchen we recommend this cafe. Mr. Vause is spending much money in making this place modern and up-to-date and he tries at all times to give you a good meal for your money. And there is one thing that you may be assured of and that is that you will receive courteous and considerate attention at his cafe. We suggest you give the wife a rest and the girl friend a treat and bring them down for their noon meals. They too will enjoy this home-like cooking. The Progressive Review endorses this cafe and the kind of food and service they give.

Rotary Program Rendered By Mr. And Mrs. McCaskill

Those who have never heard of "Okliohmy Flats" should have been at the Rotary Club last Thursday when Rotarian Bob and Mrs. McCaskill put it on the map, and how.

Prefacing the program with a few remarks Bob said since moving out to Oklahomy Flats he had been called an old "moss back" etc, and he intended showing that he lived in the Hollywood of West Texas.

Mrs. McCaskill then ushered in the group of young men whom she humorously introduced. Mr. "Doc" Wingo smartly attired, even to Tuxedo, represented Mr. Clark Gable; Ivy Waters, resplendent in a red bow tie and crushed hat was all he tried to portray, the dumb Stan Laurel; Rex Parsons in cowboy regalia made a wonderful Ken Maynard . . . and could he play that violin? Roy Pace in tam and plaid scarf impersonated Sir Harry Lauder, and Ruel Carson was the extra man.

The program opened with a medley "Lonely, and Beautiful Texas," followed by a banjo number with violin and guitar accompaniment. Next came the groups own interpretation of "Home On the Range." After a medley of breakdowns the program ended with the entire group singing and playing "Lamp Lighting Time In the Valley."

The Rotarians expressed themselves as having enjoyed the program exceedingly, and hoped to have the McCaskills bring the Hollywood performers back again soon.

"Gold Diggers Of 1933" To Be Featured At Palace

There has been much comment on the new era of musicals for the screen, ushered in with "42nd Street" and given further impetus with "Gold Diggers of 1933." Now with "Footlight Parade" coming to the Palace Theatre, no one can doubt that the new era is on and flourishing.

"42nd Street" released during the bank holidays did a wonderful business. "Gold Diggers" released during the summer months smashed all records. And now with the N. R. A. getting people back to work — with money to spend — hungry for a good movie, "Footlight Parade" is expected to play to more people than any picture released in years.

Revived interest in musicals is in part due to better knit and more defined plots than formerly and to the uniqueness and the magnificent scale of the ensembles and dance numbers. "Footlight Parade" is said to have not only a strong comedy drama plot with hilarious situations, fast moving action and sparkling dialogue, but it surpasses its predecessors in the magnitude of its numbers and the beauty and originality of their settings.

The cast, which is all star, is larger and more impressive, and more beautiful girls are used in the various scenes. More than 250 of the world's prettiest girls are seen in the production in sensational dance creations.

These ensembles were all created and staged by Busby Berkeley who acted in a similar capacity in the two predecessors to "Footlight Parade." The cast headed by James Cagney and Joan Blondell includes such popular screen favorites as Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell, Frank McHugh, Guy Kibbee, Ruth Donnelly, Hugh Herbert, Claire Dodd, Gordon Westcott, Arthur Hohl and Phillip Faversham.

Lloyd Bacon, who handled "42nd Street" played the picture from a screen play by Manuel Seff and James Seymour. The teams of Harry Warren, Al Dubin and Irving Kahal and Sammy Fain wrote the music.

Immunization Against Dyptheria

By J. G. Little, M. D.

With permanent immunization against dyptheria, whether by one shot, two shot, or three shot methods only about 85 to 90 per cent. of the treatments take effect, and the parent should not have a false sense of security just because the child has had such a course. Any child with a sore throat should be taken to the doctor for examination, and any child who has had serum for permanent immunization should be taken to the family doctor for the Shick test in order to make sure it is immune, lest the child run needless hazards. The immunizing serum can then be given a second time.

The Shick test will identify all cases which are not immune to dyptheria in 24 hours time, whether or not a serum has been given previously, and enables us to say whether children are still subject to dyptheria where the question of age or previous treatment arises. Where the party cooperates fully with the doctor in prevention of the disease it is not necessary for any child to die from dyptheria.

Have You Some Money To Invest?

Are you still acting like an ostrich? Sticking your head in the sand and getting sunburned in the wrong place? If you had invested it in well located real estate last year and put up some good buildings on it, do you know you could almost have doubled those scared dollars, and also employed someone who needed work. Get those unemployed dollars out and put them to work. Put them into decent mortgages, on decent homes for decent people. Such mortgages will be ten times better investment than government bonds. You can rent that piece of property or sell it for more money if better improved.

And now . . . don't try to kid yourself that lumber and labor are going to go down, and everything you have go up, and you will wait until next year to improve and make the difference, for such is not the case. If you don't believe that rent houses, especially, are more than scarce, and also bringing more income than at any time in the past, ask your real estate men, ask your banker; ask anyone who has them to rent? You'll be surprised.

Now is the time to invest.

A building boom—is just around the corner, and then it will be too late, as prices will have advanced for both material and labor.
