SAYS WILL ROGERS

SEVERLY HILLS--Well all I know is that what I read in the papers, and all you've been scanning the papers might close here lately, for there has been what is known as a Crisis a-hanging over our heads. Course not any one just a great big Crisis, but a lot of little Crises that all added together would build up into what might be called a good garden sized Crisis.

Now take the threatened strikes. That alone could work it way up till it was just about the verge of being a Crisis. That added to that just hundreds of other little annoyances. Take the Air Mail. That fits right into its little niche in the Crisis. They keep saying they got a on all these various companies, but they haven't told as much of it to the people as they ought to. I can accuse and it makes awful big headlines, but if you don't start getting up in front of a boni fide Judge and start delivering some testimony, why the General public is going to lose some of its sympathy for my charges.

Course that upset the whole County, turned brother against brother, everybody had their minds made up as to what should be done. Army lost some planes and some said they didn't fly. Well don't get that idea in your head, for when it comes to taking and going up and really fighting it with some Foreigner, I will take care of our boys.

Then come the strikes, as I was saying before. Well that was a blow to the president for he had just put the N.R.A. for the sole purpose of testing industry how much they should pay to Labor. Well how many hours they should work this was to apply whether you belonged to a union, or whether you belonged to the Elks. So that if you had a grievance with your boss, you took it to the N.R.A. and if after due investigation they found you were in the right, it was up to the Government to see that your employers did right by you, and that was necessary for you to strike. I mean that the way it looked to most of us. But now we find that the whole thing is more of a principal than a direct wrong.

But anyhow all these piling up at the time come awful near approaching the outskirts of a Crisis. This of course in addition to a strong demand to further lower the value of the dollar. They are trying to get that nine cents when off it now. Its 59. Well they claim (Continued On Back Page)

DEFICIT TOTALS LARGE SUM
When the government closed nine months of the fiscal year Monday expenditures were shown to total $4,98,004,000, and a deficit of $2,542,99,000.
As this was made known, the treasury was planning for a billion dollars of April financing and noting what it considered tangible evidences of business improvement.
Routine operating expenses at the loss of March total $1,987,039,000 compared with revenue of $2,305,04,000.

LAMB COUNTY FARMERS ACHIEVE BIG SUCCESS IN EXHIBITING CURED MEATS

Hounds, You Have Our Prayers

DOGS, BEWARE!
If you are not wearing a tag, you will, in all probability, find yourself in the pound.

What happens to you after you arrive at the pound depends on how lucky you are; some of you will be claimed by owners; others will find homes, and still others will pass from this land of sunshine and tears.

We suggest that if you haven't got a home, the safest plan would be to leave town.
Popular opinion has called off the dog catcher "election."
D. G. Hobbs has suggested that the city commission appoint an assistant to "Shorty" Clark, keeper of the pound; that the assistant start to work at once vigorously assisting "Shorty," and that, in view of the fact, that the dog situation is truly a situation that needs immediate attention, that the "election" be called off.

J. W. Hale, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, stated at last Tuesday's meeting that the great prominence of dogs hereabouts will be taken up with the city commission.
It looks like some of the dogs are going to "lead a dog's life."
Hounds, you have our prayers.

COMMITTEE LEAVES FOR WASHINGTON

Higher Appraisals Being Sought For South Plains Lands

Higher valuation of land in this section for loan purposes will be asked of a federal appraisal division by a farm debt adjustment committee, which left Lubbock for Washington at 8:25 Tuesday morning, and expect to arrive at the national capital Thursday noon.
Members of the group are M. G. Abernathy, superintendent of District No. 1, Texas Farm Debt Adjustment work; J. C. Whicker, chairman for Lamb county; Bob Murray, state conciliation director, and Jess Mitchell, representing Bailey county.
Appointments to confer with the federal appraisal board were made by wire for Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Copies of Leader Are Sent to President

Copies of last week's issue of the Lamb County Leader will be presented to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Vice-President John Garner, Congressman Marvin Jones, and to several of the prominent executives at Washington.
The newspapers will be presented by J. C. Whicker, owner of the Littlefield Hotel, who is enroute to Washington with a delegation to present the need and justice of higher appraisals on land in this section in the granting of Federal farm loans. Jess Mitchell, former publisher of the Lamb County Leader, is a member of the delegation.
Copies of this newspaper are to be presented to the nation's chief executive, and to Washington officials, as an expression of the interest and co-operation of the people of this section in the many activities of the administration, and as additional evidence that this part of the state is a growing, progressive section of the great state of Texas.
"The Lamb County Leader is truly outstanding evidence that this is a growing, progressive part of the country," said Mr. Whicker, who took the copies of this newspaper with him to Washington, and will present them to the president and to executives of the administration.
The publisher and members of the Lamb County Leader organization deeply appreciate the high honor which has been extended, this newspaper through the courtesy and kindness of Mr. Whicker.

LEADER SEEKS LARGE INCREASE IN CIRCULATION

Business Men Comment On Fairness Of Circulation Contest Plan

One of the most pleasant as well as important things in the Lamb County Leader's "EVERYBODY WINS" Subscription Campaign, is the favorable comment on all sides, as to the fairness of this big campaign, and especially from the business men of Littlefield, who really give a business proposition of this sort of real consideration.

Several of our leading merchants have remarked during the past few days about the fair way in which the prizes are to be awarded, and also regarding the real value of the many prizes offered to energetic workers.
The fact that the winner of the First Grand Prize can have his or her choice from three awards, combined with the guarantee that every worker will positively receive a prize or cash commission, is surely enough to interest many to enter and put in their spare time to the work.

A Fair Campaign
This campaign differs from campaigns of the past in many ways--the entire vote schedule governing the three vote periods is printed on the inside cover of each and every receipt book. The first vote offering, ending on Saturday, April 21, is the biggest and best offer of the entire campaign, and is almost double the number of votes given during the final week of the race.
One of the fairest features of this campaign is the sealed ballot box

Is There An Active Worker In Your Town?

Look over the list of names in this issue of the Leader and see if there is an active candidate in your town, or your rural route, or in your community. If there is not, then decide right away to enter your name and get started.
A receipt book for taking subscriptions, together with a list of the present subscribers in your territory, will be sent you at once. You can get these people to give you their renewal if you ask them for it, and remember this,--both old and new subscriptions count for votes. Votes are also given on payment of old accounts.
Could anything be fairer?

The regular annual meeting of the Lamb County Interscholastic League was held in Littlefield Friday and Saturday of last week. Every school in the county participated in this meet. There were three championships awarded at the close of the meet.

High School Football Team Organizes

Candidates for the high school football team began work Monday of this week. Sixty-six boys reported for uniforms Monday afternoon, and a few more are expected as soon as a few scholastic difficulties are removed.
Prospects for a team are somewhat brighter than last year as they have ten letter men returning. However, a majority of the other boys are young, light and unexperienced. The lettermen are: McKnight, captain elect for next year's team; Hall, Irvin, Brantley, Beckner, Kendrick, Martinez, Duffey, Yantis and Smith.

The squad is divided into two teams and after four weeks of work on fundamentals the boys will play a regulation game of football.

Twenty-four Lamb county calves sold out by 4-H Club members were fed at the meat show at Lubbock Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week, at an average price of $7.65 per hundred. Lamb county club members were at a disadvantage due to the lack of local bidders present.
Commissioner Ellis Foust was the only Lamb county bidder present.

President To Receive Prize South Plains Ham

The grand champion ham at the South Plains Quality Meat Show will be presented to President and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt with the compliments of the Home Demonstration Club women of the Nineteenth Congressional district.

The women of the home demonstration clubs of this congressional district have been given this special opportunity to honor President and Mrs. Roosevelt through the courtesy of Senator Arthur P. Duggan, who purchased the ham.

This ham was auctioned at $2.05 per pound, and was purchased in behalf of Mr. Duggan by L. Wesley Read, Lubbock business man. It was cured by F. H. Griffin of Lubbock.

The ham was expressed to Congressman Marvin Jones, and in a letter written to the congressman, Senator Duggan asked that Mr. Jones present the ham to President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Mr. Duggan in his letter to Congressman Jones said in part: "The good ladies out here desire, first: that President and Mrs. Roosevelt enjoy the delicious meat raised and cured in West Texas. Second: that the president, as well as yourself, may see some of the benefits of extension work in this section."

"With the help of the county agents and county home demonstration agents, directed by the very efficient state extension staff, the farm households of Texas are striving earnestly to improve their homes, schools and communities. They are really 'Making the Best Better.'

"In the name of our splendid rural women please permit me to thank you in advance, for presenting the ham to the president with their best wishes and earnest prayers for his divine direction and success."

CROP CONTROL BY PENALTY

The Senate's enactment of the Bankhead bill, greatly changed as that measure was from the form in which it came from the House, nevertheless makes certain that the experiment of compulsory cotton crop control will be instituted. It is also most likely that when the conferees of the two houses get together, the final bill will be much similar to that passed by the House. This suggests that the penalties in the bill will likely be heavier than those fixed by Senate amendments, and that the tax on cotton produced in excess of quota will likely be nearer the House's 50 per cent than the Senate's 75 per cent.

The Bankhead bill is called compulsory, but it might be described more accurately as penalizing instead of forbidding cotton production beyond the quotas fixed by the Government as desirable. The bill would supplement rather than replace the reduction program applied to last year's and this year's cotton crop.

Under the present arrangement, the cotton grower receives cash rental payments for land taken out of production. He has the option of receiving a lower rate of payment coupled with purchases of Government-owned cotton at six cents a pound in an amount equal to the amount he takes out of production.

The 1933 program went into effect after most cotton had been planted, so that cotton had to be plowed under where the reduction program was accepted. Cotton is now being planted in the southernmost section of the cotton belt. There has been some increase in the prices of fertilizer and mules, indicating greater demand for these factors in cotton production. This in turn may indicate preparations for greater production—hence the sentiment behind the Bankhead bill. Advocates and opponents of the bill in Congress agree that it is desired by most cotton growers.

The Bankhead bill fixes 10,000,000 bales as the amount of cotton which may be produced tax-free in the crop year 1934-35. This represents about two-thirds of the average national production. Each producer is to receive tax-free certificates on a similar proportion of his normal output. Cotton above the amount represented by certificates held by the producer is to be taxed at the gin 50 per cent of the average price, with a minimum price of 5 cents a pound.

The tax-free certificates are transferable, an interesting feature, since it makes possible the trading of certificates among farmers. In other words, a producer might decide to stay out of production altogether, and sell his certificates to a producer who desires to grow more cotton than his tax-free allotment. The certificates might be sold at less per pound than the tax, in which event the buyer might gin that much more cotton without the full penalty represented by the tax. In any event, there is no limit to the amount of cotton which each producer might gin, provided he pays the tax on the amount not represented by tax-free certificates, and presumably no limit on the amount he may produce so long as he does not gin it.

The chief merit claimed for the Bankhead bill is simplicity. By collecting the tax-free certificates and the tax at the gins, inspection of each individual far is avoided. It is claimed for the bill that it also prevents those who do not restrict production from reaping the benefits of higher prices due to crop reduction by the majority. Opponents of the bill claim that it is unconstitutional in coercing the minority and cancelling operating licenses of gins which do not collect the tax. There are allegations also that cotton bootlegging will be prevalent under the Bankhead bill, and that simple tenants or croppers will suffer if the owners take the land completely out of production.

The 1933 cotton production was over 13,000,000 bales, almost the average crop, and slightly above the 1932 figure. However, growing conditions were exceptionally favorable in 1933, and the crop that year was well under the average of the last five years. The present price of cotton is around 12 cents, which is practically double that of last year, but still several cents under the parity of the 1909-14 average. A 10,000,000-bale crop this year would practically dispose of the carryover as a price-weakening factor. This elimination of the carryover is what the Administration desires, and is the purpose of the Bankhead bill.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Announcement Is Made Relative To Land Bank Loans

J. S. Hilliard, secretary-treasurer of the Littlefield National Farm Loan Association, received word Wednesday from Wm. I. Myers, governor of the Farm Credit Administration, Washington, D. C., that Federal land bank loans and land bank commissioner's loans will be made in the future through the Federal land bank in bonds of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, which bonds are guaranteed by the United States Government both as to principal and interest, which will at the rate of 3 1-4 per cent, per annum for the bonds to be issued at this time. These bonds will take the place of the cash distribution in the disbursement of the unclosed loans previously approved by the Federal land banks.

The bonds of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, according to the statement by Governor Myers, will have behind them not only the unconditional guarantee of the Federal government as to both principal and interest, and the capital of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation amounting to about $200,000,000, but also the consolidated bonds of the Federal land banks issued in exchange for the bonds of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation and the mortgages accepted by the land bank commissioner as security for loans.

Governor Myers assured Secretary J. S. Hilliard that the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation bonds will be an attractive investment. "They will be as readily marketable as bonds of the United States government and they will be quoted in all of the principal markets," he continued. "Holders who have to dispose of these bonds should not sell them without first ascertaining their real market value."

The governor particularly stressed the fact that country bankers probably will be large investors in these securities since the creditors of farmers who are being refinanced may not be in the position where they can hold the bonds so acquired and will find it necessary to sell them. Secretary Hilliard states that these bonds, which will be tendered to farmers' creditors in payment of the refinanced indebtedness, are "exempt from all federal, state, municipal and local taxation, except surtaxes and estate, inheritance and gift taxes. They are lawful security for fifteen-day borrowings by member banks of the Federal Reserve system. They are also lawful investments for all trust, public and fiduciary funds of which the deposit or investment is under the authority or control of the government. The payments of the interest on these bonds and the repayment of their principal are guaranteed by the United States, which means that if the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation should ever be unable to meet the payments on the bonds, the treasury will assume such payments.

"These bonds will be issued in denominations of $100, $500, and $1,000. However, amounts less than $100 will be disbursed in cash. For example, a loan of $965 would be made in a $500 bond, four $100 bonds and the rest in cash. In addition, to provide for certain debts, such as taxes which cannot be paid in bonds, cash covering the required amounts will be provided.

"Loans which have been applied for and approved, but on which the cash has not been paid out, as well as those approved by the bank in the future, will be financed on the above basis. This arrangement in no way disturbs or alters the other provisions of the loans. The interest rate on new loans will continue to be 4 1-2 per cent for the emergency period when made through a national farm loan association and 5 per cent when made directly by the bank."

FINAL INSTALLMENT

opsis: Ruth Warren, born and raised in an eastern city, is willed a fourth interest in the Dead Lantern ranch in Arizona. With her husband, who is in poor health, and their small son, David, she comes to Arizona to take up her inheritance. Ruth's brother, reported killed in Mexico, had left off. They reach the Dead Lantern, 85 miles from the nearest railroad, with the help of Old Charley Thane, neighboring rancher who carries the rural mail. At the ranch they find the partner, a man, and a huge woman, Ann, who greet them suspiciously. As they travel the 5 miles from the ranch to the house they pass a huge gulch in a gulch where a voice whispers "Go back. Go back." Ruth and Ann are caught in a rain shortly after their arrival contracts pneumonia and passes away before medical aid can be brought. Ruth, penniless and without funds attempts to return but is balked at almost everywhere by the crafty and plotting Snavelly. Despite obstacles of all kinds Ruth gives notes on her ranch to purchase cattle. She is assisted by Old Charley Thane and his wife, Will Thane. A Mexican family is hired to assist with the work. A peculiar sickness develops with the stock. Snavelly calls it "liver rot" and says he has a powder for the water to cure the disease. Ruth discovers trickery in Snavelly's tactics of poisoning her stock, but says nothing, waiting for additional evidence. Drought is overcome by sinking a well in a ravine, bringing water for the perishing stock. The round-up Ruth has enough powder to sell to meet her notes.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

Snavelly passed her on the run, saying, "Pack my stuff!" She had her riding horse at the saddle and now Snavelly hurried into the house, returning with saddle and bridle. At the house Ann set about packing the horse. When she saw Snavelly riding into his chaps, she paused and checked him for a moment. Then he turned toward the trail to Old Charley's. It would not be dark for some time—Miss Ruth could not have seen far. From the top of the first hill one could see a long way along the trail; and the rifle would not be a mile. As Snavelly mounted his horse at the barn, Ann suddenly ran to the house, snatched it up, and disappeared toward the southern side of the house. From there she crossed the gully, and, stooping low, made way to the trail and hid behind a large boulder. Snavelly missed the rifle almost as he dismounted at the house. He looked about, ran cursing into the gulch and out again. Several times he slipped the two revolvers belted around his hips with an air of vexation—revolvers were only good at close quarters. He wanted the rifle. He would need it badly when a posse took his trail. He soon gave up calling Ann and finally finished packing the buckskin horse. The last thing he tied on was a half sack of rolled barley he had brought from the barn. He would look after his horses always. With the lead rope of the pack animal in his hand, he swung himself into the saddle. And as he mounted, his eyes came to rest on the country as he rode. Slowly the man's eyes dropped until they rest on the trail which passed over the hill. A sudden shyness came into his face; his lips fell to twitching and jerking without meaning. With a wild insane yell he let the spurs into his horse, dropped the lead rope of the pack animal and started toward the trail Ruth and David had taken. Before he had crossed the little hill south of the house, he pulled up his horse with a jerk; Ann stood above him on the trail, the rifle to her shoulder. "You can't hurt them people! You got to take the other trail to Mexico." Snavelly held his hands away from the guns at his hips; a mask of stony hatred settled over his face. He said nothing. "Ride down to th' barn—you kin go afterwhile. But wait at th' barn. I doan want you here where you kin talk to me." For a long moment the man looked at the woman above him; his face set, his eyes narrowed. Then he slowly reined his horse about, rode to the buckskin, and gathering up the lead rope, continued on to the barn. As soon as he was beyond the point where he would dare try to use his revolvers, Ann settled herself on a rock beside the trail, and the rifle was slowly to rest on her knees. She was trembling. Ruth had been gone half an hour. Ann decided it would be safe to let him go. Darkness was coming fast. Ann looked down at the rifle, then at the man by the trough. He would need this gun. Ann again looked at the rifle. Quickly she rose, and running with her body bent low, she reached the trail Snavelly would soon pass over. She placed the rifle across the path and returned, a slow smile on her face.

As she seated herself she saw that Snavelly had already started; the tip of his hat bobbed along over the corral wall. She leaned forward, chin on palm, one huge leg thrust across the trail. Again she smiled slowly—he'd be right pleased when he come on that rifle.

Sugarfoot came to the back screen door of the ranch house and scratched. Ann grinned—it was supper time and nobody could fool that dog. "Here I is, Sugar—come up an' set a spell."

A rifle cracked from the direction of the trail to the west. Ann's hand flew to her side. She sat very straight for a moment, an expression of bewilderment on her face. Slowly her head dropped, the great body slumped, slid from the rock and fell across the trail. Sugarfoot whined and licked the big open hand.

It was long after dark when Old Charley, Will and Ruth crossed the mountains and came among the lower foothills on the Dead Lantern ranch. Old Charley rode first, his ancient forty-five on his hip and a Winchester in a sheath under his left stirrup. Ruth followed, then Will. David had been left behind with old Juan and Juana.

The riders were coming down the last hill when Old Charley suddenly halted. His revolver sprung into his hand, and he leaned forward, peering at the ground. "It's Ann!"

Sugarfoot stood guard, growling fiercely. He would allow on one to approach but Ruth, who did not heed him but dropped to her knees beside the girl, said, "She's alive, I think—Ann! Ann!"

"Yes, little white girl," Ann whispered faintly. "I been waitin' fer you."

"Let's get her to the house," said Will. "Here, Dad—"

"Wait," cried Ruth. Ann was whispering; the girl bent her head lower.

"Don't move me—I ain't got to be a minute, little white girl. I jes' want to tell ou—Mr. Snavelly an' me was together long ago in Texas—he's my man—we ain't married. We got a little girl—at Saint Mary's Convent in town, she is—Martha Jackson—"

Ann rested for a moment. "Will you look after my little Martha? She—don't know—who her folks is—thinks good people. Don't tell her—no different. Mr. Snavelly don't want nobody to know—but he's been payin' fer her a little—I tol' him I'd tell if he didn't—"

Again the whisper died away for a moment.

"Ann," said Ruth, "I promise to always look after your little girl as long as she needs me."

Ann sighed. "Was that where you went, dear, those times you used to go away from the ranch?"

"Yes—that was it. I seen her with the other girls—sometimes I could. But she never know'd nothin' 'bout me—don't tell her no different—she thinks I was good—"

Ruth was sobbing. "I won't."

"Then—if—you'll kinda look after Sugarfoot—where is you, Sugar?" Ruth pulled the little dog's head down to Ann's cheek. There was a moment of silence, then a faint sigh.

It was just after the fall round-up. David was down by the saddle shed putting the finishing touches to a racer boasting four wire wheels. Sugarfoot lay in the warm dust at a safe distance and watched with alert eyes. A few yards from the barn, old Don Francisco and Alfredo were laying pipes across a long pit, in preparation for tomorrow's barbecue. Just beyond them, under the shade of the big mesquite, Madga sat on a rawhide-covered chair. The small bundle lying so comfortably in her arms stared with great brown eyes into the lacy foliage above.

On the porch of the ranch house Ruth, Will, and Old Charley sat around a small table littered with papers. The old man laid aside his pen, scrutinized the last of three signatures on a legal document, blotted it, and removed his spectacles. "Now"—he raised his eyes to Ruth and Will—"who knows what's the next step in this business?"

"I guess the money comes next," said Will. "I'll write Ruth a check and then, as far as I can see, the Dead Lantern is legally sold."

Ruth nodded. "I think you'd better make out the amount in two checks; one for three quarters and the other for one-quarter. Then I'll have my share and Snavelly's heir will have hers. I'm going to buy an annuity for Martha with her share; Judge Carson agreed that was the best thing I could do for my ward," Ruth smiled.

"Just fine. One of the Sisters is bringing her out for the fiesta tomorrow. Martha's a dear."

"Now where are we?" asked Old Charley. "I wish Will had brought Martha along with his documents—this legal business comes too fast for me. As far as I can see, Ruth hasn't got a mite of interest left in the ranch."

"Not a particle," smiled the girl. "Mr. Will Thane is at this moment in entire possession of the Dead Lantern ranch. I have received the value of my interest and Martha, hers. But look at this—" Ruth solemnly tore her check in two pieces.

"Hey!" shouted Old Charley.

Will smiled. That's all right, Dad. Ruth's just simplifying matters."

"Yeah? That's nice," replied the old man dubiously.

"Sure"—Will pulled another document from his pocket—all she has to do is to sign this and she comes in with us for the value of her original interest of the Dead Lantern."

"Oh, yes," Old Charley lapsed into thought.

"Now, there's another thing," said Will. "Since the ranches are combined we ought to decide on a brand for all the stock. As it is, part of them are carrying the Dead Lantern iron and the rest have ours. We ought to have a new deal all around. Don't you thing so, Dad?"

"Eh? Oh, sure. Yes, everything ought to be under a new brand."

Three pencils began making fanciful scrawls on as many pieces of paper.

At last Ruth pushed a design to the center of the table. "Wouldn't that do?" she asked.

The two men regarded it for a moment. "It would," said Old Charley. Ruth had drawn the outline of a lantern, identical with the Dead Lantern except that in the center she had placed a small half moon with downturned horns.

"It's lit," said Will. "Ruth has lighted the Dead Lantern."

"She sure did," observed Old Charley, thoughtfully. He teetered back on the legs of his chair and fell to stuffing his pipe. With only half a mind he listened to the voices of the young folk; his eyes wandered over the distant valley. The voices faded from his thoughts. After a time he awoke from his dreaming; David was plodding toward the ranch house, proudly dragging a wobbling contraption on wire wheels behind him. From the boy his eyes dropped to the bent heads of the young people:—"great-est idea in the world, Will; we can move the south pasture fence half a mile east—" "Fine then with the old line fence and just a bit of new fence we'll have a wonderful holding pasture."

There was a shrewn light in the old man's eyes as he regarded the studious young faces. Rising, he sauntered over to meet David, the gray smoke from his pipe drifting in the air.

While down in the gulch a soft Arizona breeze stirred to flute a harmony of peace and happiness in the cavern of whispering rock.

CONOCO INTRODUCES A Remarkable new MOTOR OIL

Its lower consumption and greater protection to motors proved by the most convincing test ever made!

THIS new oil has a tremendously increased "film strength"—and a penetrative oiliness to always protect your motor. The "Hidden Quart" never leaves a dry spot or a bearing without lubrication—it resists dilution—and eliminates much trouble caused by carbon and sludge.

The process which gives these exclusive new features is protected by recent U. S. patents. Conoco refines a high quality paraffin base oil and then adds the extra oiliness that is absolutely necessary to obtain the protection and low consumption every motorist should demand.

New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil excels in the most convincing test ever made, under the supervision of the AAA Contest Board.

IN presenting New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil you are furnished facts of performance. You will at once be convinced of the direct value of this new oil. A test so dramatic, so honest, that it will go down in history!

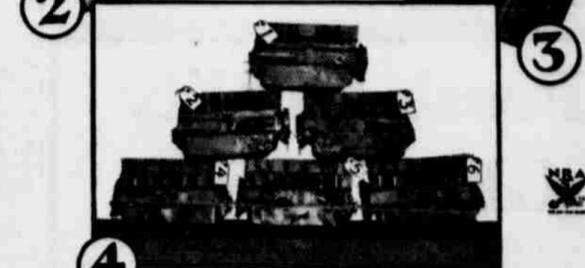

This test was held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. The Contest Board of the American Automobile Association supervised all details, thus assuring an unbiased opinion. Six new regular stock cars were delivered direct to them. They tested and measured each to obtain an equal condition in all.

Six brands of motor oil, of the same S. A. E. grade, were used. Five of them, all purchased by the AAA on the open market, were nationally known, widely recognized leaders. The other one was New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. All cars were then carefully broken in for 2500 miles. Five quarts, a new and complete fill, were put in each car and the cranks-cases sealed. Then the real battle for supremacy began. The cars were driven for as long as the motors continued to operate.

Here are the results: Oil No. 4 quit at 1713.2 miles; Oil No. 6 quit at 1764.4 miles; Oil No. 5 wrecked the motor at 1815.9; Oil No. 1 ceased its lubricative protection at 2266.8 miles; and Oil No. 3 at 3318.8 miles.

New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil carried on to a total 4729 miles! Over three thousand miles farther than the first oil to go out, and over fourteen hundred miles farther than the final oil of the five!

It is the Germ Processing principle, only used by Conoco, that won the test. This "Hidden Quart" that lubricates all parts at all times—that stays up in your motor and never drains away. Drive into a Conoco Station or Dealer for a fill. You are getting the most in lubrication value that money can buy.

- 1 The Representatives of the Contest Board of the AAA who supervised every detail of the test. 2 Five quarts of each brand of oil were carefully put in the cars by AAA officials. 3 The official sealing of cranks-cases after final fill of five quarts was put in. 4 These were new motors before the test. They were broken to prove to you how to protect yours.

Warning TO NEW CAR OWNERS... Some car manufacturers are using new types of bearings which will stand greater pressures and temperatures, resulting from increased power and speed. New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil has been exhaustively tested on these new bearings. The results show that it gives them greater protection against damage than many straight mineral oils now on the market. Protect your new car by using the motor oil you can be sure of.

Miss Maggie Lou Teeters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Teeters, and Johnnie Orr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orr of Hereford, were married.

The other couple participating was Miss Wilma Watts, sister of Mrs. Max Touchon, and Harry Teeters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Teeters of this city.

Mrs. Orr was a student in the Littlefield High School until recently, while her husband is one of the proprietors of Orr's Radio Shop.

Mrs. Teeters made her home with her sister, Mrs. Irene King of Chicago, until about a year ago when she came to Texas and has since made her home with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Max Touchon.

Mr. Teeters graduated from the Littlefield High School with the 1933 class, and is now employed at Lon's Cafe.

These young people are well and favorably known here, and a host of friends are wishing them much happiness and prosperity.

Such Fears, Such Worries The President Succeeded Man Prosaic, Woman Soars

The government once kept out of all business, now it runs every business, including farming. Senator Bailey of North Carolina says of the Bankhead cotton bill limiting crops:

"If the Supreme court passes that, I should know the end of all things had come in America, and I shall prepare for the Socialistic regime and dictatorship."

However, facts count. American farmers in 1933 received in cash $3,271,000,000, an increase of $1,158,000,000 over 1932. Much oratory and Socialism would be needed to wipe out a fact like that.

This increase of more than a billion included cash of innocent taxpayers, paid by the government to farmers for plowing under crops instead of letting them grow. But, farmers are not particular about how they get it, if they can get it honestly.

Austria, a little country, whittled down by the Versailles treaty, managed by Dollfuss, of size to match, now is planning "muzzling" of speech, press, theater, radio. That kind of government action leads to revolution, as surely as sitting on the safety valve leads to explosion. Men not allowed to talk, print or broadcast will do something worse, and you can't prevent that.

This country shows an occasional disposition to muzzle something, radio being the object of a muzzling desire just now.

Radio should be as free as the printing press. If radio had existed when our Constitution was written, its freedom would have been guaranteed, as freedom of the press was guaranteed, perhaps more emphatically.

Thanks to President Roosevelt, and the wise attitude of employers and employees, the automobile strike that would have taken millions a day in wages from the workers is adjusted. The President has set up a "board of conciliation"; one labor man, one representative of employers, one "neutral."

The main point is the statement that "the decision of the board shall be final and binding on employers and employees." That means compulsory arbitration in place of disastrous strikes and inevitable violence.

Credit is due to the President for tactful management, and Mr. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, for not boasting of victory, as the men would do, may be no basis for a claim that the employers or employees had a victory over the other."

Her inclination is to follow the woman craves independence. She would have been satisfied with doing nothing forever. Eve would eat the apple. Dr. Mary Walker would wear men's clothes. She once called on this writer while wearing them, and the sight was startling. Now, when you see fat ladies waddling in purple combination pajamas and "pants," you long for thin Dr. Mary Walker, with tight trousers, cutaway coat and stovepipe hat.

The latest cry of independence is a protest against the hair-dressing nuisance. Mrs. Lucy Cotton Thomas, married four times, who knows her mind, announces a "one-woman revolt"; she has shaved her head and will wear wigs, any color she likes. Says she: "This hair-dressing business has become a racket. They get a woman in, give her a shampoo and a wave, and for the rest of her life she is their slave."

Local Band To Sponsor Clown Minstrel Show

At a meeting of Littlefield business men interested in the local band held at the American Legion hall Thursday evening, plans were discussed relative to the holding of a clown minstrel the latter part of this month to raise funds, with which to finance the trip by the boys to the West Texas Band Contest at Abilene, which will take place in May.

More definite plans for the minstrel show, which will be held in the high school auditorium, will be reported in next week's issue of the Leader.

 It isn't very frequent that we advertise, make future announcements of funerals, but it is our mind to change this custom and announce this one ahead of time. In the old days, just back of some who live now, the burial was one occasion—if the passing one were a saint of the church the funeral oration was set and spread abroad as on another day. This is not that at all—we come to bury this one, not to praise him. The victim of this occasion came to his death by overwork.

Lense Grinding Laboratory Is Established by Dr. Woods

Dr. Ira E. Woods, Littlefield optometrist, has installed a modern and up-to-date lense grinding laboratory. With this equipment he is able to give the same kind of service and work as you may get in the larger cities in Texas.

Dr. Woods has been in Littlefield for the past three years and has always had a complete optical department, with the exception of a lense grinding laboratory. This equipment is not absolutely necessary but is another progressive step in better serving the people of this city and territory.

This grinding laboratory is an industry in itself and Littlefield should be proud of such a development. With this equipment a person may have their eyes examined and the glasses made right here in Littlefield and delivered the same day. Before this equipment was installed the lenses were ground in neighboring cities.

Dr. Woods extends a cordial invitation to the people of Littlefield and territory to inspect the new equipment.

With the addition of the lense grinding equipment, Littlefield has one of the most modern and up-to-date optical establishments in Texas.

and senior girls and second and third places in the junior declamation contests.

In spelling in the rural school division Pep made a clean sweep by winning the sub-junior, junior and senior divisions. The playground ball team won its game in the first round, but was eliminated in the second round. In volley ball Pep got to the semi-finals, where they were defeated by Whitharral. The truck events were run off last Saturday.

Two weeks previously, the debate teams journeyed to Anton where the county debate contest was held. The boys' team from Pep carried off first honors there. One week previously the tennis part of the county contests was held on the Texas Tech courts at Lubbock. Pep won this meet by scoring 25 points against 20 for Levelland, 10 for Ropesville, and five for Whitharral.

In tennis Pep won first places in girls' singles and girls' doubles, second in boys' doubles, and tied for third in boys' singles. The members of the tennis squad were, Estelle Burt, girls' doubles, John William Stengel and Alvin Gerik, boys' doubles, and Adolphus Jungman, boys' singles.

Pink-Boll Worm Campaign Now On

Four of the sterilization machines for the treating of cotton seed in Lamb county in connection with the eradication of the pink boll worm are now in operation. These machines are being operated at state expense and there will be no cost to the farmers except the inconvenience of hauling their seed to and from the machines. These plants now in operation are as follows: Fieldton gin, Fieldton gin, Littlefield; Melton gin, Amherst, and Terry gin. Sudan, the plant at Beck gin, south of Sudan, will be in operation by Monday of next week.

The farmers are urged to bring their seed in as rapidly as possible so that this program can be completed as quickly as possible, getting all seed sterilized prior to planting time and at the same time reduce the cost of this program to the state. Each of these machines will be able to treat from 20 to 30 tons of seed per day.

In order to insure that the farmers' seed will be properly taken care of, an experienced man will be present at each of these machines during the entire time that they are in operation to supervise the work and to make

"HIGHEST TEST" AND anti-knock at the price of ordinary gasoline

ARE you good at riddles? . . . Then try to guess whether "sensational high test gasoline" is really higher in test than "amazing high test gasoline." The longer you try, the more you appreciate the sincerity and directness of Phillips 66 advertising. Instead of describing the test of Phillips 66 with broad boasting words, we publish the gravity (or high test) rating in plain figures—in exact accordance with the method prescribed by the American Petroleum Insti-ture, the officially-recognized scientific standard. The figures above prove that Phillips 66 is genuine high test. They guarantee that you will feel the difference in your motor: in acceleration and speed . . . in power and mileage. Plus the smoothness and silence of Tetra-ethyl Lead, the finest anti-knock fluid. Farm Record Book To Be Supplied To Contract Signers

New farm record books furnished by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to farmers who have signed acreage reduction contracts will soon be available on application to county agents, according to the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service.

The first object of supplying these account books is to enable farmers to keep production records needed in contracts signed with the government, but the books have many other uses. By keeping records farmers are enabled to know better the strong and weak points in their business, and to make changes which will make them more money.

IN MEMORY OF RAY LOCKE

On Friday, March 23, at the Lubbock Sanitarium, one of our beloved students passed forever from our midst. Ray Locke, deceased, had been a member of the Littlefield student body for the past nine years. He was held in highest esteem by both the faculty and students. He was ever thoughtful, courteous and sincere. To know Ray was to respect and love him. He had a word of kindness and smile of encouragement for those with whom he came in contact. His going meant a loss to both the faculty and his classmates.

OBITUARY

In Memory of Ray Locke

His heart was noble, true, and kind, And pure and wholesome was his mind. The life he lived was clean and bright; His smiling face was filled with light. He held his many friendships dear, And always spoke a word of cheer. To all he was a loyal friend Who loved and trusted to the end. And now since he has gone away, We miss his presence every day; A vacant place is in each heart, And loneliness it does impart. Our hearts are sad, our spirits low; Because this soul was called to go, But all must down the valley tread, When death has come and life has fled.

—By Mildred Smith.

MY REPORT CARD

I think of all the days of school, That Wednesday of every six weeks as a rule. Is worst of all, don't you? That's the day they hand the report cards out. The grades on them make you wonder what it's all about. But still it's no use to try to find out. But, it's worse than ever when you go home, And they ask if you passed, and you have to say no'um. I tell you it's awful to be in such a mess. I always promise I'll do better. It makes ma and pa so happy and gladder. But, its all over, when the next report card comes in.

—Katherine Jones.

PRIMARY SCHOOL NEWS

The primary school children have been preparing for the Story Telling Contest, which will be held Saturday at 1:30 p. m., in the high school auditorium.

After several eliminations, Norma Davis won first place to represent the third grade of our school. The contest in the first and second grades is for amusement only and will not be counted in the meet. Winners in the first are Herbert Boles and in the second grade are Jean Davenport and Brittain.

The children in the second grade studied about Holland and the following letter to the children:

Dear Little Dutch Friends: We have been reading and your country. We like to visit you and see pictures of you at school. We like to visit you and see about you. Do you study? We are in the second grade. Our teacher's name is Miss Taylor. We think they are Sunday wooden shoes to school for. We think they are Sunday cause they are carved. We like you if he had some shoes.

Your beds seem very fine but we're sure that yours are just as funny to you.

There are so many of us would like to ask you to wear wooden shoes and you? How can you wear wooden shoes? How often do you look in the dikes? Do the Holland really wear seven? Do the boys fly kites? We week we made a big kite and had a kite contest. We prize for the prettiest kite the kite that flew the highest. Can you count to one? Can you tell the time? We can read that your dog and work hard. Don't you for pets at all? We can work for us but our dogs us.

We hope you will get it and that you will answer. It would make us so happy from you. If we do, we again and tell you anything to know about our land. We us a picture of a dike.

The only low-priced car with fully-enclosed Knee-Action Wheels and what a difference that makes in performance and dependability

Simple as a Shock Absorber!

Chevrolet's "fully-enclosed" Knee-Action is, in reality, a gigantic shock absorber, built solidly on to Chevrolet's big, heavy frame, with the front wheel solidly anchored to the "shock absorber" arm. The result: When the front wheel comes in contact with a bump or hole, it rises or falls to absorb the shock.

CHEVROLET A smooth, restful, gliding ride... a bounceless back seat... a new feeling of safety and relaxation in high-speed or rough-road travel. All these pleasures are yours with Knee-Action wheels. And if your car has enclosed Knee-Action, like Chevrolet's, you not only get this gliding ride at its best, you also get two other extra advantages. One of these is shock-proof steering. And the other is dependable operation, thoroughly protected against wear and tear. The patent rights on this special kind of Knee-Action are held exclusively by General Motors. That's why no other low-priced car has it. Also, no other has a Fisher body, cable-controlled brakes, a Y-K frame, or a Blue-Flame engine of unsurpassed economy.

This Seal Is Your Assurance Of ECONOMY In Use Of Gas

In the above photograph, a laboratory chemist is checking the efficiency of a radiant type heater by means of a thermopile recording instrument. This is only one of a large number of which a radiant heater must pass in order to receive the BLUE Approval Seal, and is your ONLY certain assurance of safe construction and performance.

When you go into a hardware or furniture store to look at the heaters shown to you? Isn't it a fact that size, type, appearance and price are about the only points you are readily able to judge?

Yet there are certain fundamental qualities ANY room heater you purchase should have, regardless of size, type and appearance. The particular construction of the burners, air mixers, air cocks, ignition, manifolds, gas connections, flue outlet and other make the utmost difference in the performance and safety heater—yet, when correct, do not add appreciably to manufacturing or selling cost.

But you are not able to judge these points and determine whether the heater that appeals to you is so constructed that it minimum fire hazard, gives off no carbon monoxide, is economical with gas, is sufficiently durable and long-lived, and will produce heating qualities desired. In fact, it has taken a special committee of the American Gas Association since 1924 to formulate a satisfactory yet reasonable set of approval requirements for gas room heaters.

To know whether or not the new room heaters you purchase these carefully drawn approved requirements, all you need to do is look for the American Gas Association's Blue STAR Seal of Approval. It will be found on ALL heaters or gas appliances which have passed the laboratory tests, and on NONE which have not. If you can see this BLUE SEAL on the side or back of the appliance, BE SURE you do not want to own such a heater at any price—for the safety of your home. You do not want to own such a heater at any price—for the safety of your home. You do not want to own such a heater at any price—for the safety of your home.

When shopping for a new gas appliance, ask the dealer to show you only those appliances which have this approval seal—more important than all other considerations combined.

Go to Church Sunday --- Community Movement

Go to the Church Of Your Choice SUNDAY

Where folks are really happy . . . CHURCH . . . here's an invitation to meet with people of high standing in the community, people of culture, intelligence and character. Come to Church next Sunday. There, joined by a common faith, folks are friendly to one another. You will enjoy being among them, and becoming acquainted with them. In fact, you will make your most worthwhile contacts at church. Come next Sunday, and see.

ALL BUNDLES MUST BE LEFT AT THE DOOR

—Strange ruling! Yet a ruling that is adhered to strictly by every church. The bundles in question are WORRY, CARE. They must be left at the door when you enter your Church. And when you come out again, the bundles will be gone! No matter how heavy your burdens, no matter how long or far you have carried them, they will be lifted from you as you enter. Remember that! When things are darkest, and you are weary, and the hill ahead looks too steep and you feel that you cannot take another step, remember your Church.

LEAVES WORRY AND CARE AT HOME

—Your Churches offer you strength, rest and courage. Let your Church help you. Come often. Come in sorrow, but come, too in joy. For though the Church can make your sorrow less bitter it can also make your joy more sweet. Come to Church next Sunday and leave WORRY and CARE at the door.

Do You Spend Your Sunday

SULKING and FRETTING and BEING BORED?

—If you find yourself dreading next Sunday, that's a symptom. If Sunday, instead of being a rest day, is a lazy, listless, good-for-nothing day, that's another symptom. If you spend Sunday being bored with your own company, and bickering with the folks around you, that, too, is a symptom. Symptoms of what, you ask? Of this! Of a strongly-felt, though not always conscious, need in your life. Church! Come to Church Sunday and see what happens to you.

THE CHURCH EXHILARATES

—You will discover that Church provides mental and spiritual refreshment which will make Sunday, as well as all the days of the week to follow, more worthwhile. Church exhilarates. Church lifts up. Church banishes worry. Now you know the symptoms, the malady, the cure. If you want to feel tip-top Sunday, come to Church.

used during the final period. Sealed and soldered a ballot box will be placed in the First National Bank during the final week of the campaign, and candidates will place their collections and subscription reports in sealed envelopes, and deposit same in this sealed box. No one except the candidate will know what the envelope contains—not even the publisher of this newspaper or the campaign manager will have any knowledge of the contents of the ballot box until it is opened after the campaign closes by the committee of judges who will make the final count and award the prizes.

This is the fairest way known to close a campaign of this kind and assures every worker a fair and square deal from first to last.

Everybody Will Win Something
Everyone who enters and takes an active part in the campaign will be a winner, and those who have the determination and ambition to keep going when subscriptions seem hard to secure will be the ones who will receive the big awards.

The race is just starting, and the public is just now beginning to talk about the Lamb County Leader's Subscription Campaign, so right now is the ideal time to enter YOUR NAME and begin active work.
