Many Entries, High Quality Of Animals Top Features

One of the largest Lamb County 4-H, FFA Livestock Shows in history will get underway Friday at the Lamb County show barns with 256 entries in three divisions.

Besides quantity, the show this year may offer the best quality, since 4-H and FFA members from every club in the county have placed well in livestock shows at Amarillo, El Paso, Fort Worth and San Antonio. Several youngsters slated to enter the Lamb County show have exhibited champions in the other major Texas shows.

"This is going to be one of the largest livestock shows in the county's history, but it will also be one of the best in the number of outstanding animals," said Buddy Logsdon, county agent.

"These FFA and 4-H boys and girls have done an outstanding job this year in raising quality animals which have won many honors in the largest livestock shows in the state," he said. "They have worked very hard on their projects and certainly deserve the support of every agricultural-minded person in the county."

Sifting of entries for the two-day show will be 1:30 p.m., Friday, and will follow with judging of the sheep division at 5:30 p.m.

There are 95 entries in the sheep division at 5:30 p.m.

There are 95 entries in the sheep division, including 23 fine wools, 25 medium wool, 13 crossbreds and 34 Southdowns.

The swine division drew the largest number of entries -- 258 in eight classes. Entries by classes are seven Berkshire, five Chester White, 21 crossbreds, 29 Durocs, 27 Hamp-shires and eight Poland chinas.

There will be 59 entries in the steer division, including 25 Herefords and 34 Angus.

Commissioners Okay Raise For County, District Jurors

Lamb County Commissioners Monday for a hike in pay for jurors serving in county and district court.

Effective Feb. 15, jurors answering roll call will receive $7.50 per day for those serving on a jury and $7.50 per day for those serving on a jury.

In the past, jury pay was $4 per day.

On the decision, County Clerk O. J. Mangum said: "The court felt that the old pay was under the cost when jurors were required to come a long way across the county to serve. We know of the hardship places on such persons."

"We think it will help us to attract more jurors. We know that the increase doesn't pay all the expenses of jury duty, but it is a step that the county recognizes the problem."

The commissioners also approved a resolution requesting the Texas Legislature to extend the hunting season for deer in Lamb County to a 20-day season from Dec. 1 to Dec. 31. This was recommended after hearings of interested parties in the county conducted on the subject by the Parks and Wildlife Commission.

Other business, the commissioners approved a $5,637.06 bill for Kerr Construction Co. of Littlefield for repair of Spring-Cemetery road.

The board took bids on filling cabinets and accepted the proposal of $76,977 from Connell Office Furniture for two four-drawer file cabinets.

-- Appointed Gene Campbell of Amherst as Lamb County Civil Defense Coordinator.

IN LAMB COUNTY

Advertising Vital Force In Distribution Of Goods

In what way will Lamb County residents distribute the $43,410,000 or so that they will be spending this year for consumer goods?

The way that they will spend it, and for what, will be determined, in great measure, by the effectiveness of the advertising that reaches them.

There is hot competition for their retail dollar. Local merchants, as well as manufacturers and distributors of thousands of products, are constantly trying to influence such spending and to lure larger portions of it toward themselves.

Some figures are now available from the American Newspaper Publishers Association, the Magazine Publishers Association and others on the amount of money that was spent in advertising in the past year.

Approximately $1,606,000 of it, it is estimated, was aimed at Lamb County and its purchasing potential.

Throughout the nation as a whole, a total of $10.6 billion was spent for advertising in 1966 in publications of general circulation and over the air waves.

Newspapers were used for the major part of it, $5.67 billion. The other principal outlets were TV, $2.78 billion, magazines, $1.25 billion, and radio, $900 million.

All in all, for every dollar of retail business done in the country, there was an advertising outlay of 3.7 cents.

Applying this general average to Lamb County and to the $43,410,000 in local retail business, an estimated $1,606,000 was spent in local and national advertising to achieve it.

It was equivalent to an advertising expenditure of $68 for every man, woman and child in the area.

Elsewhere in the United States, where purchasing power is not as high as it is locally, the amount spent on advertising is proportionately less. It averages $54 per capita. In the State of Texas, it is $53.

The 1966 figures show that advertisers are turning more and more to newspapers to reach potential buyers.

Currently, over 53 percent of the total amount spent for advertising in the four media is going to newspapers, the reports indicate.

F. J. Spencer, Houston industrial consultant, will flick the switch on Littlefield's "green light" for progress today.

Spencer will meet with Chamber of Commerce and other civic leaders this morning at 8:30 to begin the task of putting the push behind the Chamber's "Go Littlefield" theme.

The first few days of Spencer's work will be what he calls "taking an inventory" of the advantages Littlefield has to offer industry.

It's a ready-aim-fire type of program, which will later include selecting targets and actually making contacts.

Details of Spencer's arrival and plans were given the Chamber of Commerce board of directors Tuesday night at a regular meeting.

Spencer will be working on a day-to-day contract with the C-C in an effort to produce some results in industry development here in a relatively short period of time.

This morning's meeting will be used to complete contractual agreements and to help the and individual in Littlefield to carry out a really effective program this year," Duval said.

Included in the 1967 budget is a plan to set aside $480 per year in a contingency fund to be used for purchase of city-wide Christmas decorations.

"We want to avoid in the future having to stage a fund drive everytime we need more Christmas decorations," President Jim Joyner said.

He also pointed out that an increased membership, which results in better financial support of the Chamber would mean fewer special money drives on other projects that come up during the Chamber's year.

Wedding Vows At Canyon

MRS. JOHN EDWARD JOWELL JR.

Double ring vows were pledged by Mrs. Patricia Jean McCurry and John Edward Jowell Jr. at 3 p.m. Sunday Jan. 22 in Hill Chapel of West Texas State University Canyon, Tex. with the Rev. James P. Patterson, pastor of Amherst Methodist Church officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Warren L. McCurry of Littlefield and Mrs. John E. Jowell of Silverton, Tex.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a floor length dress of white satin, designed with a fitted bodice covered with lace, scoop neckline and long fitted sleeves of lace. The chapel length train of lace was attached to the shoulders of the dress with small covered buttons. She wore a strand of tiny pearls. A shoulder length silk illusion veil was attached to a tiara adorned with pearls. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of white roses and tiny mums attached to a lace covered white Bible belonging to her cousin, Pamela Bales.

Miss Melissa Ann Taylor of Portales, N.M. and cousin of the bride was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Darla Schmidt of Stamford, Tex. and Miss Sharon Stewert of Muleshoe, Tex.

The attendants wore floor length dresses of blue satin designed with fitted bodices, elbow length sleeves and a scoop neckline. Their blue veils were attached to pillbox hats which matched their dresses. They wore short white gloves and a single strand of tiny pearls. Each carried a long stem white rose.

William E. Jowell of Rochester, Tex. was his brother's best man. Groomsman were Curtis Downs of Pantex, Tex. and Bill Rutherford of Groom, Tex. Donny Ford of Sudan and Larry Lamberson of Groom, Tex. were ushers.

John Sullivan of Portales, N.M., cousin of the bride, was organist and played a variety of prelude music and the traditional wedding march. Mrs. Harry Bell of Lubbock sang, "O Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied at the organ by her daughter, Miss April Bell.

The reception followed in the lounge of Cousins Hall. Miss Sherry Cook of Littlefield, cousin of the bride, and Miss April Bell of Lubbock served the wedding cake and punch. Miss Betty Taylor of Littlefield registered the guests.

For her going away attire the bride wore an off-white sleeveless wool dress with matching shoes and gloves. A light blue coat with matching pillbox hat and a corsage taken from the bridal bouquet completed her attire.

The couple both attend West Texas State University and will reside in Canyon where Mr. Jowell will continue his studies at the University.

Grain Sorghum Producers Directors Told Of Expanding Of Membership

Eighty-five county and area directors of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma met in regular quarterly board of directors business session in Amarillo, Tuesday, Feb. 7.

After a county by county report of results of an expanded membership and budget through Jan. 31, president Elbert Harp of Abernathy announced that "GSPA had reached its record level of both membership and budget and would continue toward implementing a stepped-up push to strengthen sorghum producers income through its research, market development and service activities."

At a December board meeting doubt had been expressed as to whether GSPA could continue operation without increased membership and budget. In commending the individual farmer directors for their concerted efforts in obtaining new members Harp said, "We have met our organization's emergency, but we must continue to support it morally and financially if it is to serve us to its maximum."

Cotton Quality Meeting Planned

Cotton producers throughout Lamb County are urged to attend a special meeting on principles of improving cotton quality to be Wednesday, at the Koko Palace in Lubbock.

County agent Buddy Logsdon says the session will include talks on such topics as cultural practices, ginning methods, cotton grading and block ginning.

Featured speaker at the cotton quality meeting will be Dr. Mack Horn, economist with the National Cotton Council. Dr. Horn is recognized as one of the top cotton economists in the United States, according to Logsdon.

Horn will discuss the world cotton situation and cotton supply and demand in the U. S. The agent said the meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m. and continue into the afternoon following a dutch luncheon.

The cotton quality meeting is open to the public. Logsdon said he and members of the Lamb County Program Building Committee are planning to attend.

He pointed out that only a very few counties have reached 50 percent of their potential of participating producers, others only 30 percent and many even less.

In other business, the board studied a freight rate proposal by two railroads serving parts of the grain sorghum producing area, principally from Nebraska to Houston and parts of the Texas North Plains. The proposed entails reduced rail rates on grain sorghum for export, but includes a scheme for multiple-car shipments, quick loading, quick unloading, and non-transit privileges for inspection, grading, storage and conditioning.

The board adopted a statement commending the railroads for attempting to get farm products to market cheaper but opposing all of the operating rules listed, which would prevent the lower rates from being workable and as a result could not be passed back to the producer. Grain sorghum producers in the inland areas are not faring as well in the 1967 feed grain program provisions as are sorghum producers near port areas or as well as corn producers throughout the nation. Maps and charts establishing this fact were presented to the board by Harp and GSPA Executive Vice President Bill Nelson, both of whom just returned from Washington last week and from conferences with USDA officials.

They pointed out that the problem relates to the fact that grain sorghum county price support loan rates are figured from a price at the Gulf port area with rail freight costs backed off toward the individual county production area. Corn loan rates are figured on a normal market price basis and as a result in principal producing areas run about 12 per cent higher than grain sorghum.

Harp said, "Since only one-third of High Plains' grain sorghum is exported or even moves toward the Gulf at all, producers then are in effect paying the 40 cent freight rate even on grain fed on their own farm and in their own county on the remaining two-thirds of their production."

The Board voted for "the association to continue working with USDA in an attempt to get grain sorghum county loan rates adjusted to within 95 per cent of those for corn." Such an approach would result in considerable increases in producers' income throughout the High Plains area, while assuring sorghum-belt feeders that grain sorghum would always be cheaper than corn, to the extent that market prices revolve around the loan rate.

Y. F. Snodgrass, GSPA South Plains Service director, reported on the West Texas Water Institute at Lubbock and the Southwest Water Symposium at Portales held recently which he attended for the Association.

Rudie Tate, North Plains Service director, reported on the Southwest Farm Forum recently held in Tulsa. The forum dealt with "Agriculture in the Decades Ahead." Tate's conclusion was that "The High Plains is now where the rest of the country is headed and hopes to be in ten years." This is measured in size of farm, capital invested, technical services utilized, available credit and other factors.

In final business, the directors authorized GSPA to continue liaison with other commodity groups to attempt to get the Texas Constitutional changes necessary for commodity producers to hold referendum for assessing themselves by "automatic checkoff" to support research and development. No discussion was conducted or not steps taken toward setting up such a "check-off" system for grain sorghum by state authority even if the Constitutional changes are perfected.

Cong. Price Named To 2 Agriculture Committees

Cong. Bob Price fared well in Agriculture Subcommittee assignments announced today by Representative Page Belcher of Oklahoma, ranking Republican member of the committee.

Price had asked for subcommittees on livestock and grains, cotton, and got both. In addition he was named to a third, the subcommittee on departmental oversight which looks after implementation of Agriculture bills passed before the Congress.

Two former subcommittees, wheat and the subcommittee on livestock and grains, were combined into one with eight democratic and six republican members. Chairman of the combined committee will be Representative Graham Purcell of Texas.

"These are the most important subcommittees of the Agriculture Committee, especially to the 18th District of Texas," Price stated.

Waggin' Tongue

By TEX ROGERS

It's quite appropriate that the Lamb County Junior Livestock Show and Future Farmers of America Week should find the same place on the calendar. Through the livestock show, people can actually see some of the teachings of the FFA in practice by way of the young men's animal projects.

Future Farmers of America have become a symbol of the youth which will lead tomorrow. Possibly no other group or organization of young men receive such claim, especially in the Southwest, where agriculture is such a dominating influence.

Since 1917, Future Farmers of America have been contributing to the well-being of this country. Through the FFA organization, they elect their officers, plan their programs, conduct their business and generally practice the art of being good citizens.

Now numbering 450,000 or almost one half million nationally, with 10 per cent of them in Texas, these young men form the backbone of agriculture industries of tomorrow.

Lamb Families Attend Meeting Of Cooperatives

Several Lamb County residents are attending the 15th joint annual convention of the Texas Federation of Cooperatives, Houston Bank for Cooperatives and the Texas Cooperatives Gainers Association.

Attending are Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Bryson, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Feagby, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Helms and Ray E. McQuarters, all of Littlefield; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Miller and Hilbert Wisian, all of Springlake; and Joe Rone of Sudan.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Alvin O'Haire, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cauley, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Shelby, Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Anderson, and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Craft, all of Earth.

During its 25 years as the conference body of agricultural cooperatives of all types, the Texas Federation of Cooperatives has grown to represent 75,000 families through various cooperative associations.

Members of the FFA practice these concepts: 1. Belief in God as we understand Him; 2. The importance of the individual; 3. The dignity of work; 4. Private ownership of property; 5. The government as a protector, not a provider.

Each one of these beliefs can be seen in any one of the 900 communities in Texas where FFA chapters are found. In the classroom and on their own time, the boys learn to produce, process and market agriculture products, but at the same time they receive training in being good citizens and leaders of the future.

FFA members make big business out of what they learn in vocational agriculture. Last year more than 40,000 members in Texas cleared almost $4 million from 111,000 head of livestock, 40,000 acres of crops and 750,000 head of poultry.

In the class rooms of 900 Texas schools, students study scientific agriculture practices as a part of their regular high school curriculum. Included in the vocational agriculture program are understanding, study and practical application of many sciences -- chemistry, zoology, mathematics, botany and others.

But when the school day is over, all is not finished for the vocational agriculture student, because he is still responsible for the supervised farming program under the eye of his instructor. With money he earns from his projects and using the improved practices he has studied in class, the student launches out into the competitive field of agriculture production where he must use every managerial skill at his command to show a profit.

Through hard work, many FFA members have been able to pay their way through college with money earned from their animal projects. That is credit enough during times when many students on campuses across the country are chalking up scholastic hours paid for by parents.

Besides showing the way to better farming practices, vocational agriculture and the FFA also prepares boys for many non-farm agriculture occupations which are opening up every day in a fast-changing world of research, marketing and sales.

From Nonsense, Bureaucracy Grows

ADLIBS obvious Solution

By Amy Turner

Recently, I sat across the dinner table from a charming man who is both informed and informed about matters of the course of the evening, the content of the subject of overcrowded schools, colleges in particular, this gentleman has a simple solution to remove all women from the colleges. To him, this would not only make more male students but, at the same time, eliminate those boys who are college for reasons other than to receive a little radical, just think for a minute. Why waste all that money on all those courses for a man he is only going to have three in his life — sports, his profession and a little instruction is needed in the course and the first just seems to come to most men, too. Since this only one course, I suggest that what we need is an entirely different concept of schooling — like say, a TRADE SCHOOL.

have to be very good at these things . . . you just have to have good answers.

EVERY WOMAN should also be required to spend at least one year at a French cooking school so that she can whip up all sorts of exotic foods on five minutes notice. Along with this should go a strenuous course in athletics.

The importance of the athletics part can't be stressed enough since you must do all this "whipping up" with one hand behind your back . . . literally. The other hand will be quite busy answering the telephone, starting the washing machine, slapping little hands away from the cookie jar and keeping time to the piano practice.

Of course, you have two feet and legs and they must not be ignored. One leg can come in quite handy for kicking the pet away from the good chair, which is being rapidly chewed to extinction. The other leg? Well, unless you are unusually capable, you will need at least one to stand on.

Then there are all the other obvious courses — nursing, management, every home ec course, chauffeuring, psychology and the whole list. To simplify matters, only one degree need be given — the WMD or Wife and Mother Degree.

BACK AT the trade school, the gentlemen could concentrate solely on their professions with only a few side courses needed.

I might suggest as possibilities a course in pitching, (or how to miss the dirty clothes hamper); speech, (or how to mumble behind the morning newspaper); concentration, (or how to spend three solid days in front of the TV set watching ball games); organization, (or how to plan carefully to leave shoes, ties and papers in EVERY room in the house); and I will grant that there are possibly some I may have overlooked.

This SCHOOL JUST FOR MEN would also serve another purpose, protecting the male ego, since no women would be allowed.

In fact, the more I think about it, I'm surprised our educators haven't come up with this before.

It all seems perfectly obvious to me.

LAST SPRING a lady columnist in Michigan wrote a whimsical column about a young boy in her town who built a maple sugar shanty.

The youngster hoped to make maybe a gallon of syrup. But a storm wrecked his shanty and business.

The column was cute. The lady remembered a magazine article saying that President Johnson found moments of relaxation in reading letters from and about youngsters.

She sent the President a copy — just for fun. And she got an answer.

Here it is. Ain't government wonderful?

DEAR MRS. COOPER:

I have the copy of your column "Country Living" which you sent President Johnson. It was referred for our attention since the Office of Emergency Planning coordinates Federal disaster relief activities for the President.

We read with interest the story of how your young neighbor Perry built a maple sugar business and how he persevered to rebuild after disaster only to lose his business again to the Palm Sunday storms.

President Johnson declared a "major disaster" for Michigan because of the Palm Sunday tornadoes. By his declaration, he made available aid to the State and its political subdivisions for debris clearance and the repair of essential public facilities. Subsequently he allocated $1,450,000 for this eligible emergency work in the state.

Essentially this program — which is under the authority of the Federal Disaster Act, Public Law 81-875 — provides for aid in the public sector, to restore essential public facilities and services. It is administered by the Office of Emergency Planning.

The Federal Disaster relief program does not provide for direct grant assistance for disaster victims. Aid for the individual may be furnished in the form of loan assistance from Federal lending agencies. The Red Cross, however, has the primary responsibility by Congressional Charter to help victims of disaster. Their traditional services include shelter, food and other mass care services during the immediate emergency, and recovery and rehabilitation assistance after the disaster. It should be noted, however, that the Red Cross provides recovery assistance on the basis of need rather than loss. Red Cross assistance on the basis of need rather than loss. Red Cross assistance is designed to bridge the gap between what a family is able to accomplish for itself and what it actually needs to resume normal family life in the home and community.

I have gone into some detail in order that you might know of the disaster aids available. Enclosed is a recent OEP publication which tells more of the Federal response to disaster.

Your neighbor Perry showed the initiative to meet disaster and bounce back. He did this without Federal help — on his own. It would be my guest that this past spring during the sap running season, he was back in the maple sugar business.

Sincerely
R. . . P. . .

OPINION COMMENTS Light Seen In Racing Bill

By Larry Fuhrmann

Our State Capitol Correspondent

As lawmakers from the northern reach the state got a reminder of home last as Austin's first snowfall of the winter down following a day almost perfect for racing. The white blanket that was just much for South Central Texas drivers a quick retreat the next day as a sunny returned and put residents of the fair of Austin back on the streets.

handle folks would get a real kick out of the reaction that a simple — and — snowfall brings down in the warmer of Texas. Be advised to watch for who don't know how to drive in the down here.

biggest row to be seen in the legislative chambers of the Texas Capitol now is possibility of legalized pari-mutual horse betting in the state. A bill for the measure was reported favorably out of the Counties and Towns Committee; the action Senate chamber was well observed last as the possibility of legalized pari-mutual betting filled the galleries with interested spectators. "The 'good guys' must go to gambling" was one sign displayed on the upper levels by one interested participating citizen.

support for the measure did come from at one clergyman who stated, "If we, the church, expect to interfere in government, it will be long before the government interferes with the church." Arguments on the racing issue should be based on economic, moral, grounds, he said.

opposition was one who asked, "Must drag our people again through the mire of 30 years ago?" pointing out Texas' previous experience with horse race betting. Gambling has never been referred to as a sound and creative source of revenue, and it does not bring solvency to Texas, one accountant claimed.

opposition to the betting proposition is, of course, expected to be great. Opposition in the majority at the committee hearing, arguing on the moral aspects of the measure. However, this is the first time a bill has even so much as made it out of the Senate committee since horse racing was abolished in the late 1930s.

lawmakers from the metropolitan areas of the state are expected to go along with the measure; chances for the bill making it through this session of the legislature appear somewhat muddled at the present time as the lines have not really been drawn between pro and con.

Of course, the final analysis of the tuition situation is not yet to be seen since it is still in the legislature. The governor's influence is great, however, and several observers don't anticipate a tuition hike coming from the 60th Legislature.

Texas, although it has greatly expanded its interest in the field of higher education, is still lagging far behind other states in the nation in quality that would bring more development to the Southwest.

"By any measure, Texas is not where it ought to be in educational quality, and perhaps the most convincing proof of that fact is that the big share of government contracts for defense research and development have gone to other states, while — NASA notwithstanding — Texas' share of those contracts is a mere 2 per cent. The Defense Department seeks the best brains and goes where they are," says Frank C. Erwin Jr., chairman of the University of Texas Board of Regents.

"We have one institution in this state — the University of Texas — which was recently described by the director of the National Science Foundation as one of the top 15 universities in the country. No one university can meet all of the educational requirements of this state, but an outstanding one can point the way to excellence for others," Erwin cited the fact that Texas A&M has now acquired two members of the National Academy of Sciences on its faculty, the first in the state outside of Austin.

Although Texas doubled appropriations for higher education two years ago, the bulk of that extra money has had to go for simply providing facilities for increasing numbers of students. At least it was a step in the right direction, Erwin says, stating that, "The Legislature and some of our people are beginning to realize the absolute necessity of drastically upgrading the quality of our higher education if we are to assure the safety of our country and the prosperity of our state." Texas has dropped from 20th to 29th among the 40 continental states in the median number of school years completed by its citizens.

Thirteen per cent of the Texas population over the age of 25 is functionally illiterate; only 40 per cent of the first graders successfully finish high school; and less than one-half of the college freshmen classes remain to obtain degrees.

Erwin says that Texas has to first catch up, and second, it has to keep up. "The average state has been improving at a faster rate than we have," he claims. "We must hire and Texas has to get ahead. "We must hire and keep in Texas the best educational leadership. Texas cannot progress without it. We cannot reach the goals we talk about without it. There is no problem more important, no task more challenging, no responsibility more demanding than the future of higher education in this state.

"The critical question in 1967 is not whether Texas can afford higher education of the first class. The critical question is how much longer can Texas afford to be without it," Erwin believes.

So That's The Hat That Won The Lampshade Decorating Contest.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Keep Life Simple

The complicated clutter of present-day living is one reason for our neglect of many important things. This condition is also causing nearly all of the frustration which annoys us in our daily experiences. Most people have everything necessary to effective living, but many are so distracted by the artificial and spectacular aspects of modern society that they do not appreciate their blessings. They are carrying too much excess baggage.

We are trying to go too many places, and do too many things. In much of this activity, there is no worthwhile accomplishment, but oftentimes an actual neglect of the greater and more meaningful opportunities and obligations. We live in a time when it seems that everything has to be big, and fast, and popular. This is leading us more and more to a superficial type of living in which there is almost no satisfaction.

Oscar Wilde said, "Life is not complex. We are complex. Life is simple and the simple thing is the right thing." Many of us have lost sight of the value of simple things. These have been discarded to make room for the meaningless clutter of a complex and disordered pattern of living. Wise people know the value of simple things and give them a place of preeminence.

The complex, sophisticated and ostentatious situations and conditions may be of some interest from the spectator's viewpoint, but they are not productive of human happiness or of a sound social structure. The important things in one's life are the simple things; the things essential to abundant living.

Most people appreciate sincerity, honesty, humility, genuineness and lack of affectation. These are some of the things which are being crowded out by our excitement, pretense and affected behavior. Paradoxically, it seems that most folk appreciate and prefer the simple things, but they often push these aside and give first place to the superficial and artificial elements which are so prominent in our materialistic culture.

All discerning persons know that the simple things are necessary to satisfying and enduring living experiences. Many of the important areas involving human associations, such as the family, often lose their real meaning for people because the simple things are minimized or completely discarded.

To whatever extent we become ostentatious or affected in attitudes and mannerisms, to that extent we jeopardize our personal happiness, undermine our social order and mar our culture. When we move away from the basic, down-to-earth elements of living, we are moving in the wrong direction. Rhoda LaChar said, "Your life is what you make it. Your life can be simple if you will set it up with simplicity as a goal! It will take courage to cut away from the thousand and one hindrances that make life complex, but it can be done!"

It seems to be generally agreed that simplicity is an important element in all true greatness, all enduring beauty and all lasting accomplishments. The same element is essential to a satisfactory life.

PAUL HARVEY SAYS

Frozen Man, Part I

They are calling it the "new science of Cryogenics" or the "new research in Cryobiology." I'm not sure it is "new."

Freezing human bodies into a state of suspended animation so that they might be awakened — brought back to life — at some future date may not be "new" at all.

Recently public attention has been focused on a Glendale, California, college psychology professor, James H. Bedford, 73, a victim of terminal cancer. He donated his body for a freezing experiment.

In his will Dr. Bedford left enough money to pay for an 11-foot capsule, plus additional yearly upkeep. He donated an additional sum to the Cryogenics Research Foundation.

His body, at the point of death, was infused with a special chemical and shipped in dry ice to Phoenix, Arizona. There it was placed in the capsule for a three-day freezing process. There it is being preserved at a temperature of 220 degrees below zero, Centigrade.

The idea is to revive Dr. Bedford at such a time as science has developed a cure for his cancer.

Understandably, many scientists scoff at the experiment — insisting that we do not yet have the technology necessary thus to preserve tissue. I don't know. But I have found, in a 1939 edition of the Rutland, Vermont, Herald a "reprint of a letter" which purports to be an "eyewitness account" of human hibernation.

Neither the Herald nor I have been able to authenticate this account. We cannot even trace its author or its original publication date. I am re-re-requesting it only because it makes fascinating reading.

A city-wide Health and Safety Committee, which will make recommendations and advise primarily with school officials, but also with various civic organizations, was organized here Wednesday night, after an interium study and planning, following a preliminary meeting held here on January 16.

American Cancer Society, through its Texas headquarters offices at Eastland, this week announced the appointment of Mrs. A. C. Chesher of Littlefield, as head or leader of a Lamb County chapter of the organization. The announcement was made by Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins, vice president, of Eastland.

Installation will start in the immediate future in the installation of three additional switchboard positions at the Littlefield exchange of the Southwestern Associated Telephone Company.

Tired volunteer workers at 9 o'clock Monday night closed the doors of the several Lamb County registration places, scenes of the county's participation in the first national "R-Day" since the war began.

Residents of the Littlefield area will go to the local school building for their sugar ration books when the rationing system is started, probably the early part of next week.

Plans will be mapped today for a special campaign in Littlefield to bring about the universal use of the salary allotment program in the purchase of Defense Savings bonds and stamps.

First place heavyweight Berkshire and second place heavyweight Poland China were also chosen at the show. The chapter attends the Dallas and Houston Livestock shows each year.

Among the many activities of the chapter is the current building of a 16 foot tandem livestock trailer. It is equipped with a metal top, fenders, and sliding doors. Cost of the trailer will be approximately $425.

The chapter holds an annual weanling sale in the Ag-Barn. The last sale, held October 26, 1966, grossed $11,288 with the sale of 310 pigs. Top price paid for a Poland China pig was $150.

The last week in February is highlighted by a pig show with local entries. Another project of the chapter is the recent purchase of a Hampshire boar. Members own shares in the project worth $25 each. The pig was purchased when weaning size for $500.

Eight chapter members will attend the Lamb County Fat Stock Show. Seven Hampshire barrows, one Poland China, and one Crossbred pig will be entered in the show. Also to be entered are four Angus, one Hereford steer and one Hampshire lamb.

Good Season For Grapefruit

Have you checked the fresh fruit bins at your super market recently?

You'll find almost any kind of grapefruit you prefer — pink or white, sweet or tart, seeded or seedless.

Both Texas and Florida growers are harvesting larger crops than last year. The total national crop is estimated to run 10 percent larger than 1966, says Lady Claire Phillips, Co. Home Demonstration Agent.

It's easy to make a strike with grapefruit and get "tree ripened" fruit, because it is.

Grapefruits will not ripen after harvest like pears or bananas and is therefore kept on the trees until its peak of eating enjoyment is reached.

Do you know how to determine when grapefruit is good?

Give it the "soft" should feel firm yet to the touch. It should be shaped.

If the fruit is large size, it will usually be skinned and juicier than spougy.

Don't worry about mishaps like scars, and other minor defects for they do not affect quality.

Fresh grapefruit is a vitamin C, the nutrient for everyday good health. 1/2 grapefruit will supply daily needs of vitamin C.

FFA Activities Help Build Better Farmers, Citizens

When the FFA was founded in 1928, many decisions were made concerning its function that served to shape its destiny. Its form of government, who could become members, and how it would be financed were a few. None was more important, however, than the making of a list of activities that would be entered into by the Future Farmer members. Each activity was carefully evaluated in order that members would receive the most valuable training from each activity.

Programs of work participated in by the members are set up by the local chapter, Texas Association and the National organization. These programs are built on the needs of the local community and of the individual himself. The items included are guideposts pointing the way.

A program indicates the direction and course to follow in order to reach definite goals, and there is a relationship among local, State, and national programs. All FFA activities are boy initiated and boy directed. Results attained, are therefore, due to former training objectives set up and carried out by the boys themselves. Cooperation, group thinking and purposeful action are displayed in all programs of work.

The FFA was and is designed to supplement training opportunities for boys who are progressing toward the goal of establishment in agriculture. Through FFA activities, the cooperative spirit is fostered and individual talent is discovered and developed.

Here is a school of experience in the art of working together for a common good. Members have a splendid opportunity to learn how to deal effectively with themselves as well as with others. The organization embodies a true democracy. Each member has a voice in setting up policies and regulations by which he is to be governed. Each member also has individual responsibility resting on his shoulders, but teamwork is essential to lasting accomplishment.

However, the leadership training activities are of no value unless they are being put into use in adult life by the Future Farmers in their dealings with other people. To determine the effectiveness of an organization, one must study the product.

Is the FFA actually training for rural and agriculture leadership by its activities?

To answer this question, one has only to observe and review the records of outstanding members and other members who are making good as young farmers—leaders in their homes and communities.

Thousands also have passed on into the ranks of the Grange, Farm Bureau, Farmers Union as well as other agricultural and civic organizations, there to accept and fill creditable places of trust and responsibility while still in their youth.

Go into local communities where FFA chapters are located. Observe the interest and achievement of FFA members in improving their local communities. The FFA is developing a trained leadership and a farm citizenry which serves and exerts an influence for good wherever found.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?
WINTER GARDEN, Fla. — Officials look twice when they ask Miss Dawn Princeton for the name of her parents at Florida Southern College. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvard Yale Princeton.

We'd ask you to compare it... but with what?

Comparing a Cadillac has always been a problem, for the car has long been clearly in a class of its own. In 1967, the challenge is even greater... because Cadillac has never before asserted its leadership so convincingly.

Start with beauty. Cast about for a luxury car contender that can list such styling advancements as Cadillac's dramatic new roof line, its forward sweeping front design and its graceful and flowing side contours. Then consider that there are eleven exciting examples of this kind of Cadillac beauty... as well as the totally new Eldorado, the world's finest personal car!

Consider also the incomparable newness of Cadillac's beautiful interiors and their unexcelled safety and convenience. There are passenger-guard door locks, a hazard warning system, a dual circuit braking system, latches that hold folding front seats securely in place and dozens of other safety features.

And, of course, there's performance. There's nothing else smoother than Cadillac's V-8 power; nothing else easier than Cadillac's improved variable ratio power steering; nothing else surer or steadier on the highway.

Visit your authorized dealer and measure Cadillac against your own motoring requirements. It's the only valid comparison test for the Standard of the World.

PROCLAIMS FFA WEEK—Governor John Connally has proclaimed the week of Feb. 18-25 as FFA Week in Texas. Left to right are Don Weeks, Jr., Executive Secretary of the Texas FFA, Governor Connally and Marcus Hill, Texas Association of Future Farmers of America.

Future Farmers In Littlefield Was Organized Back In 1929

The history of vocational agriculture in Littlefield is one of the longest in Lamb County, dating back to 1923 when the course was first taught in Littlefield High School.

The Future Farmers of America Chapter was organized in 1929 and became a member of the state association in 1930. T.L. Leach was one of the first agriculture teachers, from 1932-33, followed by Eual Liner from 1934-35.

Agriculture teachers from 1945 until today include Ray Walker, L.M. Bridges, Jr., Raymond C. White, Edwin P. Matthews, W.W. Hall, James Pirkey, Gary Vaughn and Finus Branham. Branham, the agriculture teacher at Littlefield High School now, has been there since 1961.

Such an old chapter is bound to have produced some outstanding farmers. A total of 68 Lone Star Farmers have come out of the chapter, and four in 1965 and 1966.

Also, one American Farmer Degree has been earned. The latest large project of the FFA has been the purchase of a 16-foot stock trailer with money made from concession stand receipts.

Officers this year for the chapter are Kenneth Carr, president; T.J. Reed, vice president; Fred Koontz, secretary; David White, treasurer; Gordon Graves, sentinel; Quinn McKinnon, parliamentarian; and Mike Brandt, historian.

Jan Holder is chapter sweetheart and Kathy Hill is plow-girl.

Branham also is Littlefield FFA district advisor, and Carr is district president.

Littlefield FFA members participate in livestock shows throughout the state, and have placed high in competition at the State Fair, Fort Worth and El Paso shows.

Ronald Hill showed the champion and grand champion Duroc last week at the Southwest International Livestock Show in El Paso.

Also, McKinnon and White showed second place swine in the Fort Worth show.

Littlefield FFA members will have three calves, 21 lambs and 32 swine entered in the Lamb County Livestock Show this week.

Save Money On Weekend Sales

Food shoppers! Do you take advantage of advertised weekend food specials? If you can use them, they will definitely save you money.

For this weekend, look for best beef values on chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef, stew meat and round steak, says Mrs. Gwendolyn Glyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

Pork values include picnics, end-cut loin roasts, shoulder roasts and steaks, and pork liver. Fryers remain the number one bargain in most retail meat departments and grade A large eggs offer the greatest quality and economy combination.

Fresh fruit and vegetable items available at moderate prices include oranges, red grapefruit, apples, lemons, avocados, sweet potatoes, lettuce, celery, dry yellow onions, tomatoes, cauliflower, and carrots. Cabbage supplies are less than usual at this season and prices are relatively high. Prices on red potatoes are up a bit, but are still a good choice.

Highway Patrol Works 4 Accidents During January

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated four accidents on rural highways in Lamb County during the month of January, according to Sergeant Thurman Keffer, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in one person injured and an estimated property damage of $975.00.

April 15 is the deadline to have motor vehicles inspected. During the past five and one-half months 230,000 or 33 percent of the approximately 700,000 registered vehicles in this region have been inspected. This leaves 470,000 vehicles to be inspected between now and the April 15 deadline. If this number of uninspected vehicles were divided evenly among the 700 official inspection stations in this region, each would have approximately 672 vehicles to inspect in about 40 working days, or about 17 vehicles per day. The inspection stations in heavily populated areas will have more than this average to inspect. In areas where there are only a few inspection stations you may have many miles to travel to get your vehicle inspected.

The Sergeant urges motorists to have their vehicles inspected without delay to avoid the inconvenience of waiting lines.

Remember—no extension of the safety inspection deadline, April 15, 1967.

FA Has Grown 38-Year History

Future Farmers of America organization is in its 38th year in Texas. There are 46,000 members studying vocational agriculture in 868 high schools in Texas.

These vocational agriculture students are provided an opportunity to secure practical and scientific training in agriculture as well as to receive training in leadership,

Texas membership has grown from 28,643 in 1950 to 46,604 in 1967. In a recent study conducted by George Hurt, State Director of Vocational Agriculture, it was found that over sixty per cent of the vocational agriculture students who graduated from high school last year and were available for employment are now in full-time farming or in agricultural related occupations. Over forty per cent of this number are in full-time farming.

The theme this year for the FFA is "Agriculture-Strength of America," and it certainly is. It involves those who process and distribute many agricultural goods. Many people are employed in agricultural occupations such as engineers, scientist, management personnel, sales and service personnel and educators. Also there are over 60,000 desirable openings each year for farm operators, farm engineers and full-time hired farm labor.

Vocational agriculture and the FFA are striving to provide a sound and a continuing education to help produce the leaders and work forces directly needed in our nation's agriculture industry.

'66 Employment Census To Be This Month

A selected sample of households in this area will be asked questions about their employment during 1966 as part of the February Current Population Survey conducted by the U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census, according to Francis H. Wilmer, Director of the Bureau's regional office in Denver.

The 1966 employment survey will supplement questions on employment and unemployment asked each month by Bureau enumerators for the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The annual survey questions will be aimed at finding out the number of weeks worked during the year, the amount of time lost because of unemployment and other reasons, and the principal job held during the year by each person in sample households.

All information given to Census interviewers will be kept confidential and may be used only for statistical purposes, Director Wilmer said.

Census interviewer who will interview households in this area is Mrs. Rosemary McNeese.

Band Boosters Deadline

Band Booster Club membership chairman, Mrs. Aaron Weeks, announced the deadline for club membership. The deadline is Feb. 20 at the Band Boosters meeting.

The cost for a membership is $5.00 per person which entitles the member to attend the concert that will be given on Feb. 20. Otherwise the tickets for the concert are $1.00 per person for each concert.

The first concert, Feb. 21, will be no memberships at the door which has been the policy in former years. February 20 is the deadline for memberships.

Building Highlights Amherst Year In Vocational Agriculture

An interesting history has developed the Amherst FFA chapter. Highlighting this history is the new Vocational Agriculture building which according to current plans will be occupied by March 1, 1967.

Prior to the erection of the modern facility, the Amherst chapter has had a varied and sorted existence. In July of 1927, John E. Smith, Sr., began teaching agriculture in Amherst High School for the first time. At this time Mr. Smith was a classroom instructor and worked with the project programs and adult education after school. The veterinary, Vo-Ag teacher, and county agent all rolled into one was the principal asset of the chapter.

Later, in 1931, agriculture was dropped from the Amherst schools and home economics was offered in its place. The school went for 19 years before Vocational Agriculture was again introduced in the curriculum, with A. T. Hedgepeth as instructor. A new Vocational Agriculture building was started at this time with the work being done by the Vo-Ag classes. With the completion of the new building in 1950, the FFA chapter was re-organized with the old charter which had been secured in 1930.

With the re-organization of the chapter attendance by Amherst at the major shows and fairs in the area was in evidence. The chapter also attended the Dallas State Fair, Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio, San Angelo, El Paso and Lubbock livestock shows.

The chapter has continued since 1950 with sponsors Kenneth Noles, 1958-1961, and Raymond Duvall, present sponsor who began in 1961.

Among the awards received by chapter members were the Lone Star Farmer Degrees, the first of which was presented to Barry Bearden, Benny Harmon and Joe Mac Bush in 1954. Ronnie Schroeder and Gary Sherrill received the honor in 1961. In 1964 Bobby Cowen and Benton Hill received the top state award. Bobby Cowen received the highest degree offered by the National FFA Organization, the American Farmer Degree. This award was the first of such to be won by the Amherst Chapter.

Amherst has qualified for the State contest in Land Judging in 1962-63, 1964-65, and 1966, Livestock Judging in 1964, Dairy Cattle Judging in 1962,

In 1962 Marilyn Nix Cox was chosen Chapter Sweetheart and was also chosen District and Area Sweetheart which advanced her to one of ten finalists in the State contest.

Activities for the current FFA chapter of Amherst include their entrance of the El Paso Livestock show and plans to enter the Lamb Co., Lubbock and the area show and sales. Members have for their supervised Farming programs, this year, 50 pigs, which include show and breeding stock, 34 head of cattle, 20 lambs, 40 acres of Cotton and 24 acres of milo.

Among the money-raising projects sponsored by the chapter this year are the annual Father and Son Banquet in March, sale of fire extinguishers, and concession stands at home ball games.

The chapter for 1966-67 has a membership of 53 with 17 honorary members. Chapter officers are Johnny Norwood, president; Gary Johnson, vice-president; Jimmy Hufstедler, secretary; Rodney Maxfield, treasurer; Ronnie Hedges, sentinel; Leon Hardwick, historian; David Lightner, reporter; and Darlene Dysart, sweetheart.

Working Wife Doesn't Mean More Savings

Don't expect to live in comparative luxury just because your wife has decided to take a job. Recent studies show that employed wives cause family spending patterns to rise. So reports Finance Facts, monthly newsletter published by the National Consumer Finance Association.

While employed-wife households spend fractionally less for food and medical care, more goes out for alcohol, and tobacco, clothing, home furnishings, and equipment and recreation than in households where the husband only is employed, says Finance Facts.

One in three, or about 15 million wives earn a pay check today, with half earning approximately one-quarter of the family's total income. Roughly 40 per cent of total consumer spending is estimated to come from homes where the wife is employed, however.

Nearly half of the employed wives are in clerical jobs or are operatives in factories. More than half are in the 35 to 54 age bracket.

Sudan FFA Stresses Complete Participation In Projects

Specializing in some occupations is fine, but in agriculture, a complete farmer is desired, and that's what is stressed in the Sudan chapter of the Future Farmers of America.

Vocational agriculture instructor Don Ham, who has been at Sudan six years, believes that every boy in the chapter should be able to handle every phase of agriculture.

Thus, every member takes part in every phase of training offered in FFA. That means that every boy works on livestock judging, leadership, farm mechanics and shop.

Ham says that the chapter may not win many awards that way, but those who take agriculture at Sudan are generally better all-around farmers.

Actually, the Sudan FFA can hold its own in the way of recognition, because six Lone Star Farmers have been produced in the past six years. Undoubtedly, many more Lone Star Farmer degrees have been earned since the chapter was chartered in 1934.

Also, the chapter received superior ratings in the National FFA Chapter Awards Program in 1961-63-65-66.

This year's Sudan chapter has 39 members, and each is active in FFA work. Most of the chapter projects, individually, are in swine breeding, but also there are projects in steers and crops.

The chapter also has a money-making project each year which is sale of calendars. At the end of school, the chapter usually takes a three or four-day camping trip.

Officers this year at Sudan are Jeryl Bellar, president; Rodney Bowling, vice president; Blake Wallace, secretary; Damon Provence, treasurer; Leonard Womack, sentinel; Mike Hanna, reporter; Green Underwood, historian; and Phelps Blume, parliamentarian.

Sharon Baker is chapter sweetheart and Nancy Nix is chapter plowgirl.

Sudan FFA members will enter some 16 head of stock in the Lamb County Livestock Show this Friday and Saturday.

Spade FFA Chapter Among Youngest In Lamb County

The Spade chapter of the Future Farmers of America is one of the youngest and smallest chapters in Lamb County, but certainly not the most inactive.

With 17 members, the Spade chapter has captured its share of honors since it was chartered in 1947.

High honors include Lone Star Chapter recognition in 1964-65-66, and a superior rating in 1964-65 in the National FFA Chapter Award Program.

Also, the chapter has had its share of Lone Star Farmers through the years. Latest to receive the high degree were Bill Adams in 1966, Jim Johnson, Gary Reed and Jerry Smith in 1965.

Don't Drown House Plants

Probably more home plant failures are caused by improper watering techniques than any other factor, according to Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist with Texas A&M University. This is especially true during the winter months when plant growth is very slow because of the low light intensities. We frequently get impatient and apply additional water and fertilizer to make the plant grow large and healthy, says Janne. Actually, during periods of low light intensity the plant is producing very little food and as a consequence cannot grow rapidly.

The worst thing to do is to over-water during periods of slow growth. Plant roots must have air as well as water. If the soil is saturated with water, little or no oxygen can reach the roots. This results in loss of the small feeder roots and eventually the death of the plant.

Never water plants by rule of thumb, says Janne. Once the soil is thoroughly moistened, water them only when they need it. In watering houseplants, supply sufficient water so that it runs through the potting soil into the saucer below. Always discard the excess water from the saucer. This prevents the accumulation of soluble salts in the potting soil.

With a little experience, you can determine the moisture content of the soil from its color and feel. Plants in a cold room need less water than those in a warm, dry atmosphere. Flowing plants and those with much foliage require more water than those without blooms or with very little foliage.

If your house plants are not growing properly, it is probably due to low light intensity rather than the lack of water or fertilizer.

EXCLUDING TAXES Gas Costs One-Fifth As Much As Either Milk Or Root Beer

What common liquid costs one-fifth the price of milk or root beer, and one-third the price of distilled water?

Give up? The answer is gasoline, if you exclude the taxes on it.

Whether you call it petrol, essence, or just plain "gas", this fuel that powers the world's automobiles is a curious and remarkable substance.

The current issue of Petroleum Today reveals some little-known facts about gasoline. It points out, for example, that gasoline efficiency has been improved 50 per cent during the past 40 years. Yet in the United States at least, the retail price of the fuel, before taxes, has actually decreased. The combined state and federal levies on gasoline now average 10 1/2 cents a gallon.

Gasoline is really no longer gasoline, at least as the word was understood half a century ago, the article states. In those days, the fuel was obtained by a simple formula: heat crude oil in a still, capture the gases that form at the top, and wait for them to condense.

By contrast, today's gasoline is extremely complex. The molecules in the gases are pulled apart and reorganized beyond recognition. "About 80 per cent of modern high-grade gasoline is composed of custom-made molecules," Petroleum Today observes, "and that figure does not include chemical additives, none of which occur naturally in crude oil."

The magazine article also points out that octane rating is one key to gasoline quality. "The octane number," it explains, "is an indication of the gasoline's antiknock capacity: the more powerful an auto engine, the higher the octane rating must go. Which explains why the octane numbers of premium fuels have climbed from 72 to more than 100 since 1930. Today's ultra-grade gasoline has a higher octane rating than your fuel had a decade ago."

For all its excellent low cost, gasoline might well be invisible. "Unless spills on the way from the pump to the gas tank," the notes, "the motorist need not see it."

"Pound for pound," Petroleum Today says, "oil can produce more gasoline than the combined output of lumber mill, meat house, dairy, and wheat in the nation, yet this mysterious product remains so dependent upon clock collectors."

There are more than 100 million clock collectors of clock collectors.

Congratulations
