We Do Our Part

THE COOKING SCHOOL

The Lamb County Leader is very grateful to the merchants and business men of this city in their cooperation and liberal advertising, which is making possible the bringing to Littlefield of the Happy Kitchen Cooking School, which will be conducted by Mrs. Beulah Mackey Yates Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 23, 24 and 25.

It is expected that two thousand women will attend this school during the three days it is in progress. It will be remembered that as many as five hundred attended in one day at the school put on by this newspaper previously, and many were turned away for lack of standing room.

The school on this occasion will be held in the beautiful and spacious Palace Theater through the courtesy of its manager, W. J. Chesher, and therefore every comfort is assured to the good women of this county and adjoining territory.

Mrs. Yates is the same cooking expert, who is conducting the Lubbock Avallanche School, and has been putting on schools for large daily newspapers all over the country, and is, therefore, a highly efficient woman receiving a high salary for her work. The women of this district are, therefore urged and invited to attend this three day cooking school, not only by the Leader, but also by the business establishments of Littlefield.

Read the advertisements in this issue of the Leader—it is the merchants so advertising who are making possible this school—and then come to Littlefield each morning of the school—visit the stores, inspect the large stocks of new merchandise on display, purchase your needs; and then enjoy the afternoon at the HAPPY KITCHEN COOKING SCHOOL.

A number of Littlefield business men have congratulated the Leader on bringing to Littlefield this high class cooking school.

WELCOME

We extend this greeting to all of those who are planning on attending the "Happy Kitchen" Cooking School. Also we want you to make our store your headquarters while in Littlefield visiting this school. Tell your friends to meet you at Sadler's.

New Requirements Of Higher Standards For Teachers O'ked

The new requirement of higher standards for teachers in four-year high school systems is approved by superintendents throughout the state, according to a report released by Dr. Lewis B. Cooper, director of research of the Texas State Teachers' Association at Fort Worth this week. The data shows that 91 out of every 100 superintendents approve the December action of the committee on Classification and Accredited High Schools requiring higher standards of teachers. Dr. Cooper said that one-fourth of the 7,786 teachers included the study were effected by the rule. Teachers who do not meet the new requirements now will have periods of three years in which to make a minimum of eighteen semester hours credit in some standard college. No teacher will have to be eliminated from a school system on account of this ruling, provided, progress is made toward the objectives set up by the committee.

The regulations which require higher qualifications of teachers are reported by many superintendents from every section of the state to be the most advanced step the profession as ever taken, a step which will be beneficial both to the teacher and to the children of Texas.

HART'S CAMP SUPERINTENDENT WINS
HONORS IN SHORT STORY CONTEST

H. G. Moore, superintendent of Hart Camp school, recently entered a short story contest conducted by the "Writers Digest" and finished with the upper ten percent according to the division of the judges rendered April 11.

Scripts of 6008 were entered in the contest. The communication to Mr. Moore said in part: "In fair and open competition you have finished among the upper ten percent and the competition included hundreds of the best known writers in America today." Among these writers were Saturday Evening Post writers, internationally known novelists, and also a large number of successful writers.

The judges assured Mr. Moore that his work shows an unusual amount of native ability and literary talent. He has done some good work before (but this is the first time his work has been pitted against the best talent of the country).

Mr. Moore is a graduate of Texas Tech and a student of Chicago University and also of University of Wisconsin. At each of these places his unusual ability has been widely recognized and appreciated. Mr. Moore has been superintendent of Hart Camp school two years and has been re-elected for the third term.

against any Car at any Price

THE car that flashed down a Florida beach to the world's land speed record was powered by the V-type engine.

The V-type engine knifed an Italian plane through the air at the record-smashing speed of more than 420 miles per hour.

On the St. Clair River, the V-type engine swept a speed-boat to the world's record of 124.8 miles per hour.

And that's the type of engine that powers the Ford V-8 for 1934. It's the only V-8 engine in a car selling for less than $2,395.

In the individual standings, J. R. Sprawls, Tulia, was high with 452 points, Robert Hawkins, Lamb county 4-H, second, with 451 points, and Cecil Hallway, Lamb county 4-H, third, with 450 points; H. Schuman on April 16 for the dairy judging contest to be held there in connection with the annual Texas Panhandle Plains Dairy Show being held there last week. These boys are all active members of 4-H clubs, having just completed the feeding of calves which were sold at the Lubbock show, and are also members of the vocational agricultural classes at their schools under the direction of J. W. Hulse, Olton, and H. C. White, Sudan, teachers of vocational agriculture at these schools.

Littlefield Clubs Represented At District Meeting

Representatives from the Littlefield Study Clubs attended the annual spring three day convention of the seventh district, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, which met at the Central Presbyterian Church, Amarillo, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Miss Lucille Nance was a delegate from the Junior Study Club, and left Littlefield Sunday for the North Plains city, while Mrs. J. M. Stokes, Mrs. C. E. Cooper and Mrs. A. P. Duggan represented the Woman's Study Club, and went to Amarillo Monday morning.

Mrs. F. G. Sadler, chairman of the department of American Home, accompanied a number of Lubbock club women to the convention.

The meeting was opened with an every woman's luncheon served at the Amarillo Country Club at noon Monday, immediately followed by a board meeting at the Presbyterian Church with the district president, Mrs. W. P. Avriett of Lamesa, presiding.

"Growth" was the convention theme. Highlights of the convention was the president's evening on Monday, at which time Mrs. Volney Hill, state president, made a talk. Mrs. Avriett, district president, also addressed the gathering on "The Growth of Woman From Angel to Amazon," and Dr. J. A. Hill, president of West Texas State Teachers' College, Canyon, also made a talk.

A Texas luncheon with Mrs. W. E. Davis of Childress as toastmistress took place Tuesday. Senator Clint Small of Amarillo addressed the group on "Beautifying Texas for the Centennial." Mrs. Ewing Leech will discuss the woman's part in this beautification.

A dinner on Tuesday evening honored Mrs. Avriett commemorating the 13th anniversary of the 14th district.

Mrs. J. W. Fincher of Houston, state finance chairman and past state president, presided at the permanent headquarters session on Wednesday morning. The meeting adjourned Wednesday afternoon, following a luncheon.

Revolution in Austria
Why Paint Toenails?
Slow Waltz, Less Fighting
Watching the Hen Lay

Vienna and what is left of Austria are threatened with a revolution. Signs placed secretly on mail boxes read:

"Workers and comrades, remain united and be careful. The day of revenge is coming." Signed "A Fighter."

With that comes news that the Vienna-Paris-London express train was wrecked in Austria by the removal of a steel rail, causing the death of a fireman and one other and injuring many. The result of such tactics, keeping travelers and money out of Austria, may be to bring revolution more rapidly.

In New Orleans the convention of "American Cosmeticians," manufacturers and distributors of things that ladies put on their faces, announce more in the way of transformation than has been seen thus far—hair of many colors, easily changed; very fine "precious stone" effects on the finger nails.

Many things can be forgiven, but hope and pray that ladies and cosmeticians can be persuaded to give up painting the toenails. It is a terrible thing when a young woman crosses her legs to see, peeping out of new-fangled sandals, a big toe with a nail made to look like a cabochon ruby.

Knowledge of mob psychology is shown in the statement of a night club manager.

"When a fight breaks out in the club the orchestra has orders to stop jazz and everything exciting and play a slow, dreamy waltz. That quiets them."

According to information obtained by Mr. "Whirligig," a quiet waltz keeps those not interested in the fight from joining it.

An intelligent Frenchman, Gustave Le Bon, has written a book called La Foule ("The Crowd"), that confirms the night club manager's theory. Crowds do not reason; logical arguments have no effect on them. But music does affect them, and so does loud yelling.

A distinguished American, living in Spain, told how wonderfully fresh the eggs were. The farmer's wife would watch the hen sitting on the nest, taking the egg as soon as it was laid, and give it to the American for breakfast.

tional, including hymns; duet by Miss Fleta Eagan and Miss Eloise Collins; scriptural reading, and pageant, in which those taking part were: Misses Eva Gertude Chisholm, Estelle Lee, Cloice Knowles, Dan Hemphill, Marie Knowles, Melva Dunn, Fleta Eagan, and J. E. Chisholm, Darrell Hemphill, following which refreshments were served.

Similarly, the earnest, conscientious American tax collectors watch the country's business men sitting on the industrial nest and take away the dollar as soon as it is made.

The veterans' administration in Washington laid down the interesting rule that blind veterans of the World War should receive almost twice as much as a soldier who lost a leg in battle.

The legless veteran gets $119 a month as a maximum. If he has lost the use of both feet, or both hands, or one foot and one hand and one eye, he can get a maximum of $175 a month. A veteran totally blind is entitled to $150 a month, plus $50 for a nurse or attendant, "even though the blindness resulted from willful misconduct."

Except insanity, no misfortune is greater than loss of eyesight.

If you feel gloomy and perhaps begin to feel that "the world is going to the dogs," remember that the Graecis believed it in Rome long ago. Adam and Eve believed it when they were put out of the garden. The world has always been "going to the dogs," yet always getting better.

May first, according to the President's proclamation, will be "Child Health day." The best way to promote child health is to encourage abundant distribution of the right kinds of food for children, particularly good, fresh milk, butter, eggs, fresh vegetables, fruits, at reasonable prices.

To pay farmers to cut down production of such things, and force up prices, may be good for prosperity, but it will not be good for the health of children.

In the Stroud (Okla.) prison young Mr. Raymond Boles, if that is his right name, knows that young, shrinking, timid American girls are sometimes dange ous. He walked into the Rudell home, pistol in hand, told Mildred, sixteen, and her sister, Lillian, seventeen, that he was none other than the famous bandit, "Pretty Boy" Floyd, demanded the key to their absent father's automobile. Lillian took away his pistol, Mildred held him by the hair.

Since Uncle Sam went off the gold basis and began buying gold at any price he had to pay, he has brought across the water about $700,000,000 worth of new gold, an increase in our gold reserve greater than the total gold ownership of any other nation of earth, except France, England and Spain.

This makes Europe feel dubious about "selling dollars short." To get off the gold, and then own nearly all of it, is confusing. We might get back "on."

SPONSORS DRIVE FOR USED CLOTHING

Littlefield's two Boy Scout troops, led by W. H. Haynes and Gene Lattimer, will collect used clothing for the local Red Cross chapter Friday afternoon beginning at 4 o'clock. The entire city will be covered street by street and all Littlefield citizens are urged to place on their porches in bundles, old clothes that they will give for distribution to the needy of this territory, through the local offices of the Red Cross.

The national organization has been very generous in furnishing the local organization with large quantities of new material through the past fall and winter, but the supplies are now almost completely exhausted and the need for clothes for the needy continues.

Used clothing will be the only means throughout the summer of supplying this need, and the local Red Cross officers are extremely anxious that Littlefield respond and cooperate to the fullest extent in this drive.

Those in the rural territory who will contribute old clothes will please deliver them to the Red Cross office at the city hall.

Dow placed second in javelin throw; and Pierce tied for third and fourth place, which will make them both eligible to take part in the regional meet to be held in Canyon next Saturday, April 21. These boys, accompanied by Coach L. T. Barksdale, plan on going to Canyon Saturday morning.

COUNTY AGENT ANNOUNCES FARM MEETINGS

The State Review Board has completed the analysis for Lamb county and in a letter received by D. A. Adam, county agent, their findings were that Lamb county acreage and yield are too high, and in order to get a letter of approval it is necessary for a reduction on every contract in order to bring Lamb county figures in line with the official figures. This must be done in order to get our pay on the cotton reduction program.

The county agent has called the following meetings to explain all the details to contract signers: Thursday afternoon, April 19, 2:30 p. m., Spring Lake; Thursday night, April 19, 8 p. m., Amherst school building; Friday afternoon, April 20, 2:30 p. m., Olton in district court room; Friday night, April 20, 8 p. m. at the school building, Sudan; Saturday afternoon, April 21, 2 p. m. Baptist church in Littlefield; Saturday night, April 21, 8 p. m., Spade school house.

All contract signers are urged to be present to receive this important information, states D. A. Adam, county agent.

but no distance, accuracy, or direction. I just charged in, and arrived there just about the time the ball had left.

They had their own polo field on their beautiful old estate, and by the way just about the prettiest and most horsey looking one on the whole Island.

I was running right behind Frankie when he and Buzzy Smith ran together. It was on the Cocoran Field at Meadowbrook.

Then I come to know her under real stress, as I had a place rented not far down the road, (I was playing in the Follies at nights) and I used to go up to see how Frankie was. Her courage was a household word among all that ever saw her ride, but to see that fine strong healthy youngest son of hers lay there day after day with no sign of returning consciousness, that was real courage. There was no excitement of the hunt, no yell to "Back That Bull." Just days of constant waiting. I think it was 17 or 18.

She was a grand soul, and if ever a person loved a horse it was her, she went to heaven in a chariot, she will go horseback, and she went holler for St Peter to open that gate, I don't care how high his gate is, she will give that horse his head and kick him, and she will sail right over that gate, and St Peter will phone up to the Lord's Manse, and say, "Look out, Lord, there two thoroughbreds coming!"

First National Is A Safe Place To Deposit Your Money

WHY DEPOSIT YOUR MONEY IN THE POST OFFICE? It is in your own interest, the interests of your city, your community and your county that you deposit your money in the home bank? Every dollar which is taken out of circulation in this city and section retards the progress of us all. Money deposited in the home bank is reloaned to those who need funds to carry out their various projects. Without the money available from your bank for loan purposes the progress is retarded; you do not become as prosperous, and neither does your neighbor.

From every standpoint there is no more logical place to deposit money in a bank, especially when you know that there is ABSOLUTELY NO DANGER OF LOSS.

There are two outstanding reasons why the FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF LITTLEFIELD, is a safe place for your funds. One is that the First National is a highly sound bank with assets for the protection of all depositors; the other is that the First National is participating in the benefit of the Federal Insurance Co., a government agency set up to insure deposits.

The First National Bank in Littlefield is a participating bank in the Federal Insurance Co. which insures all deposits up to $2500 in the Littlefield bank are fully insured. Guarantees depositors against loss.

With the First National Bank in Littlefield, you have an excellent financial condition, with deposits insured, this bank is a 100 per cent safe place for depositing your funds.

You are invited to visit the First National Bank and look over the financial statement, and also to discuss the financial condition of the bank with any officer of this institution. (Adv.)

To The Voters Of Littlefield Independent School District

I want to take this opportunity to express to the people of the Littlefield Independent School District my deep appreciation for the splendid cooperation you have given me in the past 15 months as a member of your school board. Without such fine cooperation our work as school trustees could not have been carried on as efficiently. Each and every member of the board wishes to extend to you our appreciation for your part in this important work.

I want to say in regard to the recent school election, I would have appreciated it very much if you had relieved me of my duties, but that not having been in line with your wishes, I will continue to serve you with proper regard at all times for what is right and fair in the conducting of our schools.

It is hard for me to refuse to render public service to the people among whom I reside, when requested by them to do so. It is not easy to serve in a public capacity, and I, therefore, will deeply appreciate your kind cooperation in the carrying out of my duties. Cooperation of the voters with the school trustees has always resulted in the best in schools and the greatest opportunities for education for our children at the lowest possible cost.

We are all aware of the fact that there must be taxes to run the schools and to take care of our bonded indebtedness. I wish to point out in this connection that delinquent taxes are a factor which enters into the cost of school taxation; in other words, when taxes are paid promptly by all the property owners the board has the necessary funds to operate our schools in a very economical manner.

In conclusion I wish to say that our schools should be our second thought as it is the most important thing next to our home.

Again thinking you for your confidence, I am,
Yours For Better Schools and Lower Taxes.
J. W. JAMES.

were in last week's Leader, but more are being added all the time which will make the carnival bigger and better. The teachers in the entire system are wide-awake thinking of some new attractions every day or two that will help put the carnival over. And the students, well, everybody knows we are blessed with a wide-awake hard-working, peppy and enthusiastic student body in each building. And members of each class are working hard to elect its candidate as carnival queen.

The classes have been working two weeks now and will run the contest between the four classes of grammar school and the four in high school right on up until eight o'clock next Friday night. There and then the contest will close long enough to see who is the winner in high school and also to determine the winner from the grammar school. One of these two girls then will be crowned as carnival queen in the auditorium Friday night.

Besides the coronation of the queen there will be other interesting parts to the program, such as a clown minstrel by the band, Mr. Taylor directing. The New Deal, Mr. Hanes directing. Miss Nance will have a short program by some of her expression pupils. Prizes will be given away. Duplicate tickets will be given at the door and some ten or twelve prizes will be given away.

The school parade will take place Friday noon, about 12:30. The Littlefield Band will lead the parade, and each class, from the fourth through to the eleventh, will have a decorated float for the candidate leading the class.

Folks, the royal party plus all of the other parts of the auditorium program is one you cannot afford to miss. Be there, support your favorite candidate and who knows you may be lucky and get a valuable prize.

The price of admission will be 15 cents to everybody.

Miss Lucille Nance is working hard to make the carnival a success. We believe that this will be the greatest school carnival you will have attended in this section of the country.

ROCKY FORD NEWS

Sunday School as usual Sunday. Brother Booth filled his regular appointment Sunday and Sunday night.

Mr. Louis Cate and wife of Hale Center visited Mrs. Cate's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Goldston, over the week-end.

Floyd Rogers and wife visited Clarence Bullin and family at Spade Sunday evening.

Mrs. Bussanmas entertained several of the intermediate and juniors Sunday with a nice dinner, honoring the birthday of her son, Harley. Those enjoying the occasion were Bennet and Overton Phillips, Lionel and Lester Burl, Cletus and Newt Dunn, Ancil and Junior Miller, Ross Fisher, Rex and Ray Booth, Aubrey Farmer, Misses Pauline and Vivian Fisher, Sabra Rogers, Naomi Miller, Fannie Goldston, Dorothy Farley, Dorothy and Doris Booth, Erlene Baldwin, and Mr. and Mrs. Horace Fisher. All went away wishing Harley many more happy birthdays.

Mr. and Mrs. Cotton of Lamesa are spending a few days with their children, Mrs. Raymond Edwards and Truman Cotton. Glad to have them in Sunday School and church Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ballard, down on Black Water Draw were not among those at church Sunday night.

Cupid has made another raid in our community with his arrow and succeeded in ringing the golden wedding bell. We lost Miss Hattie Dunlap to Mr. Lester Hood. The happy couple will be at home to their friends near Lazbudy. Their many friends wish them a happy and prosperous journey down life's path way together.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Miller returned from Woodson, Saturday having visited their daughter, Mrs. Noel Scott.

Brother Booth and wife were Lubbock visitors last week. Jack Slayton and family were visiting W. L. Slayton and family Sunday.

W. L. Slayton came home Friday from points in East Texas. After attending the ginners' convention at Dallas, he says that West Texas still looks good to him; that East Texas is the wettest place he ever saw. Water seeping out of every hillside and many wells have water standing level with the top of the ground. A good old friendly sandstorm, is, we think, better than that. Hurrah for the Plains in spite of some drawbacks. The nice showers Sunday still add to our good prospect for an abundant harvest this year.—Optimist

LOCAL SCHOOL TO BE REPRESENTED AT REGIONAL MEET AT CANYON

Littlefield high school was represented at the regional meet, being held in Canyon this week-end by three high school people who qualified to participate in that meet, last Saturday at the district meet in Lubbock. George Lightsey won first place in senior boys declamation and will represent the school and the district at the regional meet Saturday. It is the plan of the coach, Miss Nila Jones, to make the trip to Canyon after school Friday in order that contestants may have plenty of time to rest before speaking.

Mr. Barksdale and the two track boys will leave early Saturday morning for Canyon where Lwood Dow will compete in the javelin throw. Lwood placed second in the district in this contest. L. V. Pierce will represent the district in vaulting.

This regional meeting is something new "under the sun." This being the first year that the winners at the district have not gone directly to the state meet. The league authorities claim that it will lessen the expense to the schools who have contestants and of course it will cut down their rebate responsibilities to the state meet. The school people of this part of the country do not like the idea nearly so well as the old plan. This sentiment was expressed officially at the meeting of the Class B school heads in Lubbock Saturday in the form of a resolution to Mr. Henderson of the University Interscholastic League in which they protest the plan.

BULA NEWS

Another record crowd attended the presentation of "George In A Jam," given at the school auditorium last Friday night. From all indications, the play was enjoyed as much as the others.

"Clouds and Sunshine," the play presented two weeks ago by the faculty, is to be repeated at Goodland Friday, April 20.

Most of the high school students, chaperoned by Miss Helen Jackson, science instructor, Miss Esther Mae Smith, and Miss Corrine Ratliff, attended the annual engineering show staged at the Texas Technological College Saturday. The trip was enjoyed by all.

Mr. J. Hollie Cross, principal of the high school, visited in Lubbock during the week end.

The supervisor's report from the state department of education has been received. The report was quite commendatory, and new heart is being taken by the teachers and students in the work of affiliation.

Charles Glenn, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Clark, ate 16 Ex-Lax tablets Friday. Dr. J. G. Little was called and it was necessary for the physician to pump the child's stomach three times before he got relief. He is now getting along nicely.

The Brief Presented at Washington In Seeking Higher Land Appraisals

The Lamb County Leader is publishing herewith the brief, which was presented to Washington officials by the delegates, which went from this section in connection with increased appraisals in the making of federal farm loans.

This brief makes especially interesting reading in that it presents a word and figure picture of the growth and development of this part of Texas.

"It is the purpose of this brief to show that the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933 is not proving to be the benefit to the farmers of the South Plains of Texas that the President and Congress intended it to be, this is due to the fact that the federal appraisers are appraising the lands of this section below their normal value.

The basis of appraisal is the normal value of the land for agricultural purposes and its earning power for such purposes is a principal factor. And to show that the appraisers are not following these instructions we attach hereto as exhibit No. 1, Farm Business Report, High Plains Cotton Area, 1931-1932, Division of Farm and Ranch Economics, Texas A. & M. College, Page 5, for the year ending March 1, 1932, shows that 29 farms of 281 to 380 acres, upon a capital of $35,900, after paying all expense of farming earned 7.89%, then on 26 farms of 381 acres and over, earned 4.55% upon the capital value of $34.34 per acre. The smaller farms earned a percentage of interest on the investment in figures ranging between the 7.89% and 7.45% for the year ending March 1, 1933 the same farms earned 5.28% on the farms ranging from 281 to 380 acres and 3.72% on the farms of 381 acres and over, this on a capitalization of $34.37 per acre on the 281 to 380 acre farms, and $32.94 per acre on the farms of 381 acres and over. The 30 to 180 acre farms, on the valuation of $40.75 per acre earned 6.77%. This at the very low commodity values of these two years. Then based upon the normal value of farm commodities, under letter issued by the Farm Credit Administration under date of July 24, 1933, addressed to all Federal Land Banks and signed by Mr. C. F. Cardon, chief appraiser of the division, the capital value of these farms based upon the returns as above set out would yield 6% interest on an average investment of $86.31 per acre. For verification of these statements, refer to the reports above set out, which are attached hereto.

And further proof of this statement we give below comparisons of the production and loan value per acre of five West Texas and five East Texas counties picked at random, these comparisons are as follows:

COUNTY	5 Yr. Av. Lint	Cotton Acreage	Average
Lamb	239	$17.00	$12.50 to $15.00
Hill	158	11.00	20.00 to 40.00
Hockley	200	14.00	10.00 to 12.50
McClennan	144	9.00	20.00 to 50.00
Bailey	225	14.00	10.00 to 12.50
Williamson	158	11.00	25.00 to 50.00
Lubbock	155	11.00	12.50 to 15.00
Dallas	158	11.00	25.00 to 50.00
Hale	144	9.00	12.50 to 15.00
Navarro	146	9.00	25.00 to 40.00

Another interesting comparison bearing out the same relative statements taken from the U. S. Census Report showing the total acreage, crop land harvested, cotton acreage, and 1933 cotton production:

COUNTY	Total Acreage	Crop Land Harvested	Cotton Acreage	1933 Cotton Production	No. Acres Per Bale
Lamb	654,080	316,214	100,727	51,204	1.95
Hill	618,240	388,355	273,314	87,958	3.17
Hockley	554,880	174,836	95,145	18,130	3.54
McClennan	671,360	417,198	272,896	75,171	3.63
Bailey	659,200	45,926	24,188	19,476	1.24
Williamson	722,560	370,234	268,328	80,244	3.32
Lubbock	555,520	341,574	205,276	79,244	2.59
Dallas	649,760	263,456	141,545	35,040	4.40
Hale	663,040	385,939	64,882	26,193	2.47
Navarro	678,400	411,323	313,174	70,579	4.43

With reference to community values beg to submit table showing the comparative increase of population:

COUNTY	1920	1930	Increase	Decrease
Lamb	1,175	17,452	16,277	294
Hill	43,332	43,036
Hockley	136	9,298	9,162
McClennan	82,921	98,682	15,761
Bailey	517	5,186	4,669
Williamson	42,921	44,146	1,212
Lubbock	11,096	39,104	28,108
Dallas	210,551	325,601	115,050
Hale	10,104	20,189	10,085
Navarro	50,624	60,507	9,883

We submit upon the above showing that for increase for population the values in the West Texas counties are sure to increase because of the fact that the West Texas counties have been in cultivation but a few years and not subject to erosion and depletion, as the East Texas counties, that the population increase in the East Texas counties will probably remain stationary and hence from this source their values will remain stationary.

Then another startling comparison is revealed in the study of the Bureau of Agriculture Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the A. & M. College of Texas, which shows that the production cost per pound of lint cotton in Lubbock county was 19 cents, and in Dallas county the cost per pound was —, that with the methods and conditions prevailing it required six man hours and 18 horse hours per acre in Lubbock county, and 30 man hours and 30 horse hours per acre in Dallas county, these comparisons, with slight variations, apply to each of the other counties, which shows that the cost of producing a bale of cotton in the West Texas counties is very much less than the cost of producing a bale of cotton in the black land counties, and therefore, the earning power of the West Texas counties is necessarily greater than the earning power of the black land counties.

With reference to the rainfall quota from R. E. Karper, former director of the Lubbock Experiment Station:

"From a study of the rainfall for a period of years, it is noticed that 75% of the yearly total falls within the six months of the crop growing season, April to October, inclusive. This seasonal distribution of rainfall has a very vital connection with plant growth, and is a distinct advantage."

Attached hereto are two rainfall charts, exhibits, and which prove this statement without question, and it is because of this distribution of rainfall that this is an assured farming country.

A soil survey of the South Plains has been made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and this report shows that not only is the soil of this section very productive, but that because of the levelness of the land virtually all the rainfall is absorbed, with very little, if any, run off, and that this moisture is conserved for plant growth.

The local experiment station furnishes the following information which may be relied upon as strictly accurate:

"The Plains country is fortunate in having a delightful and healthful climate. The air is dry and invigorating. The winters are usually long, permitting of farm operations throughout the winter months. The altitude of the Plains is about 3200 feet. In the summer the nights are cool and pleasant. * * * the average date of the last killing frost in the spring is April 1st, and the average date of the first killing frost in the fall is November 1st. This gives a long growing season and permits of a comparatively wide range for the planting period."

The South Plains is a proven farming country, and, without question will in the next few years produce more cotton and grain sorghums, cattle, poultry and dairy products than will any other area of similar size in the United States.

W. D. Hunter, former entomologist of the United States Department of Agriculture, stated a few years back, "Within a hundred mile radius of Lubbock, Texas, will some day be grown as much cotton as the state of Texas now produces."

Attached hereto is exhibit —, "Growth of Section as Shown by Grain Sorghum Production, U. S. Census Reports." This exhibit shows the rapid growth of the section, as indicated by the increase in land planted to grain sorghums.

Attached hereto is Exhibit No. —, "Development of South Plains, as Shown by Census Figures for Certain Items." This exhibit shows the increase in population, the increase in the number of farms, the increase in the number of acres and the increase in cotton production for the 15 South Plains counties. The interesting point to observe in this exhibit is that the census reports did not show any cotton production for 1910, and then to realize that in spite of the cotton plow-up of last year, this section produced something like 500,000 bales of cotton.

And other sources of income to the farmer in this section is a statement of shipments from Lubbock, as follows:

	1932	1933
Cotton	391,200 bales	318,640 bales, plus 50,000 bales still in 718 carloads
Hogs	536 carloads
Grain—Wheat and Grain
Sorghum	7,136 carloads	8,242 carloads
Cattle	2,140 carloads	2,872 carloads
Poultry-Dairy Prod.	457 carloads	556 carloads
Sheep	1,015 carloads	1,150 carloads
Sheep	1,015 carloads	1,150 carloads

With further reference to community value and development of this section, attached hereto Exhibit No. —, quotation from letter from Hon. Jess Mitchell with reference to the growth and development of Lamb and adjoining counties.

In conclusion will submit that the federal appraisers and the action of the Federal Land Bank show a discrimination against this section in that they are not taking as a principal factor the production value of our farms as shown by the comparisons between the five counties of this area and the five counties in the black land belt. Then with reference to the community values the appraisers have not studied and given proper consideration to the ties under consideration, that proper consideration has not been given to the fact that about 90% of the average farms in the West Texas counties and only 72% of the average farms in the black land counties can be profitably cultivated, then in view of the fact that these loans are made on the basis of 36 years repayment, proper consideration has not been given to the fact that actual community value in this section as compared to the black land counties in the West Texas counties are practically virgin, not subject to erosion, while the area in the black land belt, having been in cultivation from 25 to 50 years, and on account of different topographical conditions have been subject to greater erosion and loss of fertility, that no consideration has been had by the appraisal division that the population of the West Texas counties will probably increase four-fold during the term of this loan, whereas the black land counties, the population will probably remain stationary, that the appraisers have not taken into consideration the difference in the cost of production of a bale of cotton in the West Texas counties as compared to the cost of production of a bale of cotton in the black land counties, for all of which reasons we believe that a greater loan value should be placed upon the lands of the West Texas counties.

For further consideration of the Farm Credit Administration and the appraisal division we are attaching hereto an exhibit statement from the several counties in this section letters from the feeders of livestock showing the price and quantities of feed consumed in the feeding of livestock as shipped from this section, which compared favorably with the best sections of Iowa and Illinois.

Senate Approves Bankhead Bill

Compulsory control of cotton production was started on its way Saturday with senate approval of the conference report on the Bankhead bill. Almost certain house approval and President Roosevelt's signature were all that remained to make it law, and impose a forbidding tax on all cotton production in excess of 10,000,000 bales.

The senate gave its approval for the second time by a vote of 39 to 28, despite a prediction from a southern senator—Bailey (D-NC)—that it would lead to "a political revolution."

Three Republicans joined with 36 Democrats to send the conference report to the house. Six Democrats cast their ballots against the bill.

It would levy a tax of half the current market price, or a minimum of five cents a pound, against all cotton produced in excess of the 10,000,000 bale limit.

State quotas would be based upon the average production for the last five years.

The law would apply to the cotton crop for the current year and could be extended by the president for another year if he should find it imperative to meet an economic emergency.

Final senate debate centered on the action of the conferees in striking out a senate amendment to base quotas on the average production for the last 10 instead of five years.

There was no discussion of the elimination of the senate's amendment exempting six bales on each farm from limitation.

Senator Thomas (D-Okla) launched the fight on the five year plan, saying it reduced Oklahoma's quota by 20 per cent and amounted to an annual tax of $4,200,000 on the state.

Chairman Smith of the agriculture committee said the five year plan would limit the eastern states more severely than Oklahoma.

Bailey said the five year base would harm, North Carolina and aid Alabama, the home of the Bankhead brothers and authors of the bill—Senator Bankhead and Representative Bankhead.

Recalls Promise

Bailey recalled President Roosevelt's campaign promise to the "forgotten man" and said the bill would harm the small producer.

"When you put this bill into operation," he warned, "the resistance of the south will amount to a political revolution."

"If you are ever going to strike a blow in behalf of the humble man and assert the right of the little man to live, there is the best opportunity the senate will have in the present session."

Recently, everybody worked in the editorial offices of the Mineral Wells Index and the Cleburne Times-Review except the employees.

Chevrolet Dealers Deliver 97,194 Units For March

Chevrolet dealers during the month of March delivered at retail a total of 97,194 units, according to William E. Holler, general sales manager of Chevrolet Motor Co.

This compares with retail deliveries in March a year ago of 41,093 units, or more than 236 percent of the 1933 March figure. This is the largest March retail sales reported since March in 1930, Mr. Holler said.

Sales during the month just past bring the total for the first quarter of this year up to 177,271 units as compared to 124,674 units in the first three months of 1933, making the period 142 per cent of the 1933 quarter.

Large gains in retail deliveries of commercial cars and trucks are also reported by Mr. Holler. Deliveries by dealers in March were more than three times those of March a year ago, amounting to 25,974 commercial cars and trucks and bringing the total for the first quarter of this year up to 59,312. First quarter sales in the commercial field were more than double those of the same period in 1933, Mr. Holler pointed out, and established a record first-quarter figure unequalled in five years.

1933 CROP LONGER STAPLE

The bureau of agriculture economics reports that the 1933 cotton crop is about the same in grade and slightly larger in staple as compared with the crop of 1932.

Throughout the season a smaller proportion of the higher grades of white cotton, strict middling or above has been ginned than last year. On the other hand there was a larger proportion of extra white cotton ginned, most of which was of the higher grade.

The proportion of spotted cotton was 31 per cent in 1933 compared with 17.4 per cent in 1932. A total of 12,659,953 bales of cotton were ginned in 1933 of which 9,683 bales were American-Egyptian.

The Dollar Bride

by Mary Inlay Taylor

SECOND INSTALLMENT

Roddy Gordon, who has come to York to make his fortune, returns home to confront his parents and his sister Nancy with the fact that he has stolen fifteen thousand dollars from the bank where he works to help "the loveliest woman in the world" and will soon be found out unless he can return it. "But I love her," declares Roddy to his angry father. "I'd steal for her, I'd die for her—" "A pretty story," shouts his father. "You've broken your mother's heart, you've disgraced your father and your sister—your young sister. Look at her, a girl in the morning of life—with a thief for a brother!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Roddy—my son, my son!" He recoiled violently. "My God, what was I going to do! I—" he turned stupidly, blindly, groping for the door. "I'd better go out now and—hang myself!" He groaned. "Oh, my boy, my poor boy!" his mother cried after him, trying to reach him, trying to belt on to him with mother hands that never give up.

But he did not look at her, he fumbled at the lock of the long French window, found it and, hearing it open he walked out over the sill like a blind man. They heard the soft thud of his plunge to the ground below.

Mrs. Gordon's sobs came in gusts. "Oh, William, what have you done! You've driven your own boy crazy—he'll kill himself—I've got to stop him, I've got to—" She was actually at the window herself now, trying to climb out.

But Nancy caught her, throwing her back with firm young hands. "I'll go, stay here! I'll go—I'll stop him—leave it to me!" She pushed her back gently, looking over her head at her father.

The light outside was ghastly; white squares of ground with black shadows etched where, in the darkness, there were tall shrubs and hemlocks.

Nancy stood still, too, rooted to the ground, listening, her heart in her throat. Then she heard the faint crunch of gravel on the path behind the lilac hedge. Roddy was there, of course, she might have known it! She gladly, making no sound, in his direction and overtook him at the end of the garden; it opened there—through a broken gate—on the river meadow.

"Roddy," she called to him. "Roddy—wait!"

He stopped short and turned, the moonlight whitening his haggard young face.

"Don't come near me, Nancy," the young fire-brand said fiercely. "You'd best keep away from a—dirty thief!"

She came up, panting. "Rod, you're killing Mama."

That reached him; he put his hand up with a despairing gesture and pushed the lock of hair out of his eyes.

"I wish to the Lord I'd shot myself in New York!" he said bitterly. The approach of this tone went to his sister's heart; they were close to an age, she was just twenty-one, and they had always been together. She clung to him, shaking.

"Roddy, are you sure they'll find you right away? I mean those people in New York—before you can get the money back?"

"Oh, they'll find out! They've got an accountant there—old Beaver. He never liked me, he's got his nose to the ground like a hound now—looking for the trail. I think he knows already."

"Then they might come after you—arrest you—tomorrow?" Nancy shuddered, remembering the time; "it's after twelve now—it must be, to-day then?"

He nodded. "I don't care any more; I've had all I want from father. I reckon I can take everything now—even handcuffs."

"He didn't mean it, he didn't mean half of it, he's mad and crazy with grief about it! You mustn't go, not this way, Roddy. Mama can't stand it, you know how she feels—you're all she cares for!"

He choked, irresolute. "I won't let father—I won't stand for it—he's insulted the woman I love, a beautiful, good woman, whom he's never seen! I—Name, what did I do? I was wild—did I really try to strangle him?"

She nodded, pressing her lips firmly together to keep from crying.

Roddy looked down strangely at his own hands, stretching them out. "Lordy, I might have killed him—I—I've clean forgotten myself."

Nancy tugged at his sleeve. "Come back, Rod."

He shook his head. "I'd do something worse if he called her names."

"You needn't go in there; go up to your own room; you're tired out. I'll tell Mama—that's all."

He stood irresolute. "It wouldn't be far long anyway—" he said at last. "Don't tell him if I do stay tonight—tomorrow—" he laughed wildly—"there's be a jail ride tomorrow, Nance!"

It was long past midnight; morning was in the air and the frost seemed to strike to the marrow in the city bones. She shook with a chill at fear.

"Rod, why did you take it?"

He did not answer for a while; he stood staring at the ground, his face distorted at the ground, his THITHTHIT distorted in the moonlight. He looked a mean boy, but his misery had made black rings around his eyes.

"Nance, you know I didn't mean to keep it. I took it little by little at first. I—well, there was a reason for it even then. I was going to put it straight back, but I couldn't, I took some more. There are some queer people there. Nance, you wouldn't understand—curb-brokers, I thought I'd make enough out of the second lot I took to return the whole sum, don't you see? It was gambling, of course, but I wanted to get rich, too. You get that way in New York; you just have to get rich quick! And I—well, I loved her and she won't marry a poor man."

"She made you steal?"

"That's a lie!" he said brokenly. "She couldn't, she's beautiful, she has such wonderful eyes, Nance, they're like jewels, topazes, you know."

"She was in dreadful trouble, she had to have money—she told me about it, her poor old father might have gone to jail—through a mistake, you know, and it took all the money to save him—she was so grateful, so broken when I got it, Nance. She was going to pay it all back—she will yet—she feels dreadfully because she can't right off. She feels as bad as you do, but she's grateful—I did it for her to save her, Nance. I'd do anything for her—I'd go to hell for her!"

"Rod?"

"I would!" he cried passionately. "I love her. My God, Nance, you don't know what love is, it runs through your veins like fire! When I look into her eyes—I'd give my soul for her, I'd—" He clenched his hands, shaken with passion, a mad boy, mad with love. "I've saved her anyway! They can send me to jail—jail's nothing, death's nothing, shame's nothing—if you can give yourself for the woman you love!"

He choked, clenching his hands again, and Nancy said nothing. She stood looking at him. She thought she knew something of love, too, but—to steal for it!

For a long moment they were dumb, then she spoke hesitatingly. "If—if we could only raise it—the whole of it—right away—the trouble is—if we do it, it would clean us out and Papa's too old to begin over again."

"I won't have that!" said Roddy quickly. "I don't want a cent from him—and he can't do it, Nance, he's got something weak about his heart; anyway, he's too old—why they'd fire a man as old as he is in New York!"

"They must be cruel in New York?"

"They are; that's it, Nance, they get you and they break you. They have no hearts. I can see how they'll break me—even old Beaver with his nose to the ground. He wants my place for his nephew and he's going to get it."

Nancy's hand clung to his shoulder. "Roddy, you can't go to jail," she whispered with white lips. "I won't let you!"

He smiled at her, an odd, twisted smile. "You can't help it, Sis, I've got to go. D'you remember old Major Lomax? He was always sending his enemies to jail to crack stones!"

Roddy laughed hysterically. "I think he knows about this Rod. I met him tonight and he asked about you—in such a strange way."

"They'll all know presently. How they'll talk, Nance, all the old fogies, and the girls, too."

"Roddy, you're only twenty-two! How long will they keep you in jail? It's grand larceny, I reckon that ten years in New York."

She gave a stifled cry, clinging to him.

His face was ghastly in the moonlight, like a white mask, and his eyelids twitched nervously.

"Don't cry!" he said harshly. "I'm a thief—and done for. They won't forget a fellow with a jail sentence, well, there's a way out of it, Nance, a way for the family honor, too, reckon father thought I'd forgotten it, but I haven't—I've seen it all the time, I—" he laughed bitterly—"I'm working up to it."

She tightened her arms about him frantically; she knew.

"Roddy, you can't—you won't!" He laughed at her, his lips twitching like his eyelids.

"Father meant that—he knows he means it now—he thinks I'm a coward because I didn't."

"Rod," she clung to him, "not to-night—promise me. Roddy, not to-night! Come in—you needn't see father, go upstairs to your own room—you need the rest; yes, you do, you're crazy! Rod, it'll kill Mother, promise me, not tonight!"

Her frantic, clinging hands, the love and pity in her eyes, pierced the boy's tortured soul. His lips shook, a sob choked him.

Nancy's arm slipped about his neck, she drew him along, she held him tight. She understood how her mother felt. It couldn't happen, it mustn't!

She had dragged him to the back door now.

"Roddy, go up to your room—I'll tell Mama you'll stay tonight," she whispered as if she thought her father would hear it and break up again. "Don't frighten her, Rod, go to bed—she'll die if you tell her this!"

He stood irresolute, half pushed to the kitchen door. It was dark as there and silent and he could go up the back-stairs. The thought of his own room and his white bed—when he had slept as a boy—suddenly leaped on him and pinched him with a sharp little pain he carried with him. He groaned.

"I'll stay, Nance, until—until I have to go," he said thickly, "for her sake—Mother's I mean."

Mrs. Gordon's relief at Roddy's return made her yield to Nancy's persuasion.

"Let him be in his room for a while, Mama. He's worn out, perhaps, he'll sleep a little—if papa doesn't break out again."

Her mother had come upstairs with her to see Roddy, and Nancy had coaxed her away from his door and into her own room. No one had thought of sleep that night and it was daylight now. The soft gray of the dawn crept in like a mist, and they heard suddenly—in their broken pauses—the twittering of the birds in the vine outside the window.

Mrs. Gordon sank into an old armchair beside her vacant bed, hiding her face in her hands. She was a mere huddled heap of misery, and Nancy saw her shoulders rise and fall with the struggle of suppressed sobs. The whole figure, the disheveled head and the blue-veined hands, tore the young girl's heart.

"Don't," she whispered, patting her shoulder. "Please don't!"

Her mother raised a haggard face, blurred and puffed with weeping.

"Oh, Nancy, what shall we do? What can we do? I've lived too long!"

"Hush, don't say such things," Mrs. Gordon drew a long sigh, wiping her eyes.

"Lie down, Mama," she advised her softly, "please go and lie down. If you're ill you can't help Roddy at all."

But her mother only sank lower in her chair.

"I can't rest," she said, and then, petulantly: "leave me alone, Nancy. I don't want anything in the world but my boy!"

Nancy turned silently and went back into the hall, but not to her own room; instead she went cautiously downstairs. The light was still burning there and she saw her father sitting bolt upright in his chair beside the blackened hearth. She went softly into the room, drawing nearer step by step, staring at him in silent terror. She thought he had died in his chair. He had not. He looked old and gray and broken, and his mouth hung open like a dead man's.

METHODIST CHURCH J. W. Hendrick, Pastor

Of course you will want to attend the church school at its regular hour, 9:45 a. m. The interest in this hour has greatly increased; also the number attending. It may be you have not been, do not make it a custom to be present at any such hour anywhere. At least go somewhere and learn the scriptures.

It is the honest judgment of the pastor that we have a treat prepared for next Sunday. Our old friend and acquaintance, Rev. A. E. Butterfield, is to be presented at both hours. He went first among the Indians of Oklahoma in 1892, actually living among them; studying their customs, their religion, and preaching to them. During these years his acquisitive mind has stored away a wealth of information. This is not just another ordinary missionary lecture or lecturer. The pastor has made wide inquiry of people, of pastors, where he has been presented and they are as one in their praise of his work, of his presentation.

The morning hour will be given over to a careful description of the condition of the Indians when he first went among them, in the raw, pure pagans. The evening hour will be given over to a description of the results of christianity among them. He will display relics and curios, especially at the evening hour. You'll like it. Come!

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock the pastor, together with the presiding elder, Rev. W. L. Title of Plainview; Rev. Ewell B. Crosby of Ralls, will start a Standard Training School in the Sunday school work. This school will run until Friday evening. Each evening there will be two classes. This school will include all this end of the district—Muleshoe, Sudan, Olton, Littlefield, and other churches.

It is reported that the service at the Methodist church next Sunday will be of special interest as a study of religions, and that, too, by one who knows his stuff by actual experience. Rev. George E. Turrentine, whom most of us know, bears this testimonial: "Rev. A. E. Butterfield spoke to our missionary zone meeting most acceptably. I do not hesitate to recommend him most heartily."

CHURCH OF CHRIST Ninth Street

The two weeks' revival meeting at the Church of Christ, Ninth street, closed Sunday evening, with several additions to the church.

Rev. Van Bonneau of Dodsonville, Texas, did the preaching.

Regular services are held at the church as follows: Sunday morning at 10:30, and at 8 o'clock in the evening, with a mid-week service Wednesday evening at eight o'clock.

"Dinner at Eight," Greatest Motion Picture Entertainment of Screen History, Coming to Palace Theatre

Described after its sensational opening at the Astor Theater in New York City as the greatest piece of motion-picture entertainment of all times with a cast, the like of which has never been assembled before...

It is almost unbelievable that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer was able to gather together for this one picture such outstanding film names as Marie Dressler, John Barrymore, Wallace Beery, Jean Harlow, Lionel Barrymore, Lee Tracy, Edmund Lowe, Billie Burke, Madge Evans, Jean Harsholt, Karen Morley, Louise Closser Hale, Phillips Holmes and May Robson...

...together with a supporting cast of eleven players.

Each Has Meaty Role

The remarkable part of the picture is that its splendid situation offers each of the principals in the film a meaty role. Just as there are several stars in "Dinner at Eight" so there are more than a dozen film veterans of its story who furnish plenty of adequate cinema entertainment...

One phase of the picture, Lionel Barrymore, who is worried over the collapse of his shipbuilding concern, the while his wife, Billie Burke, wisely arranges a dinner for a pair of visiting British aristocrats. It is in this aspect of the story that Marie Dressler is introduced as a retired trouper of the "gray matter" and an old friend of Lionel. Also concerned is Lionel's daughter, Madge Evans, who is to leave with John Barrymore, a "has-been" movie star.

Falls at "Come Back"

The tragedy of this movie, one who tries desperately to make a "come back" presents a new angle. The intrigues with his agent, Lee Tracy, to appear affluent before Jean Harsholt, a theatrical producer, and the tragedy which results when he fails to get a coveted part in a Broadway show, also involves Marie Dressler and Miss Evans.

Then is presented the domestic picture of Wallace Beery, the tormented business racketeer who is responsible for the upheaval in Lionel Barrymore's shipbuilding interests. Beery is married to the flashy Jean Harlow, who carries on an affair with Edmund Lowe behind her husband's back and whose social ambitions bring her into contact with the other principals at this all star dinner.

George Cukor was given the difficult assignment of handling this amazing aggregation of stars. The picture was adapted from the George S. Kaufman-Ellis Forster play by Frances Marion and Herman J. Mankiewicz with additional dialogues by Dennis Ogden Stewart.

Condition Of Miss Katherine Jones Is Better

Katherine Jones, 18 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Jones, who has been very ill for the past few days with severe malaria, headache and complications, is reported some better.

Miss Jones was taken to a Lubbock hospital Tuesday of last week and underwent an ear operation, returning home Thursday. Not showing any improvement she was returned to the Samaritan Friday, and was again operated on Saturday afternoon. It is reported she was suffering from spinal meningitis complicated from the ear and nose trouble. She had a temperature of 104.0 for some time, and was unconscious Sunday and Monday but was given a blood transfusion and her condition is now reported better.

BIRTHDAY DINNER IS ENJOYED

A birthday dinner was given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Miller in honor of Mr. Miller. Those present who enjoyed the dinner, which was served in a most palatial manner were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fletcher and family of Edenton, Mrs. Max Brownlee and daughter of Lenoir, Mrs. Mrs. Leonard Miller and family of Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Miller of Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Don Lentz and family, Edna West-endorfer of Marion, and John Wolfenbarger of Marion.

SURPRISE PARTY AT BREWER HOME

A surprise birthday dinner party was given by Mrs. Miss Brewer for her daughter, Kathleen, at the Brewer home April 18.

Useful gifts were received by the honoree. Sandwiches and cake with banana and whipped cream and tea were served to the following: Misses Freda Charles, Edna, Madge, Ruth, Dorothy Stange, Pauline Kendrick and the honoree, Kathleen Brewer.

Afterwards songs were sung and games played. At 1:30 a. m. sandwiches, cake and tea were served. The rest of the night was spent in singing songs and joke telling.

Why Were 14 Stars Used In "Dinner at Eight"?

Director George Cukor Explains Need for Imposing and Tells Why Each Star Was Selected for His Particular Role in Ambitious Filmization of Stage Hit

What were the reasons behind the casting of fourteen outstanding film stars for individual roles in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's photoplay version of "Dinner at Eight?" This question takes on special importance because "Dinner at Eight," which opens Saturday midnight at the Palace Theatre, has the greatest all-star cast ever assembled for a single motion picture. The amazing group of actors and actresses gathered together for this production includes Marie Dressler, John Barrymore, Wallace Beery, Jean Harlow, Lionel Barrymore, Lee Tracy, Edmund Lowe, Billie Burke, Madge Evans, Jean Harsholt, Karen Morley, Louise Closser Hale, Phillips Holmes and May Robson.

Has Many Climaxes

George Cukor, director of "Dinner at Eight," explains why each star was picked for his or her part. "In the first place," stated Cukor, "we have in 'Dinner at Eight' a picture of not one or two dramatic climaxes, but more than a dozen. That means our story gives strong individual characterizations and big scenes to not just one or two stars, but to a great number of them. Such a story is rare, but when it comes it indicates the very best talent one can secure, for with stars we can be assured that each climax will be carried through to its best possible conclusion.

"There could be no question about Marie Dressler as 'Carlotta Vance.' I know of no other actress who could so thoroughly portray this vain, flirtatious, ex-musical-comedy star, her beauty gone but not her wit. David G. Selznick, who supervised the production, and I never even thought of another player for the role. Spelled John Barrymore. "It required great acting to play the role of 'Renault,' the established film star who commends the part spelled John Barrymore, and no one else.

"We also cast Wallace Beery and Jean Harlow as 'Mr. and Mrs. Packard' with no second thought reservations. Beery was the part of the ruthless financier, the crudities of all towns off him, and as for his wife, a black-cloak-room girl carried to where there could be no more choice than Jean Harlow with her inimitable handling of just this of hardboiled role.

"Lionel Barrymore as 'Jordan' played a role he has played hundreds of times, that of a harried business man caught in a maelstrom of financial confusion. There isn't an actor in pictures can stand up to Barrymore in a part. As long as we were all of our roles with the best available in the entire film industry we have to have Lionel.

"The character, 'Max Kane' fighting, fast-talking theatrical agent. Both Mr. Selznick and I immediately said 'Lee Tracy.' The characterization fits him like a glove."

Large Attendance Expected At WTCC Convention In May

Participation of every city and town in West Texas in every phase of the many-sided program of the sixteenth annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce here May 14-16 is being sought by the regional chamber's officials, and in the San Angelo general arrangements committee.

From the convention headquarters office in San Angelo in charge of Convention Manager Maury Hopkins of the regional chamber, hundreds of letters have already gone out to chambers of commerce, WTCC directors, school superintendents, committee chairmen, and others aimed to fully acquaint the cities and towns on how they may participate in the convention first, to the advantage of the individual town, and second to the advantage of the region as a whole.

Every town has already been asked to do six things: (1) send an organized delegation to the convention; (2) conduct a poster exhibit contest in the public schools, the winning poster to be sent to San Angelo for display and for entry in the All-West Texas Poster Exhibit Contest; (3) report upon beautification activities; (4) elect a young lady to represent the town in Rainbow Roundup, the big revue and show at the convention; (5) nominate directors to represent the town on the official board next year subject to election at the convention; and (6) select a contestant for the My Home Speaking Contest.

West Texas Chamber of Commerce directors in every town, and the local Chambers of Commerce, are the chief sources of contact. To them invitations have gone to begin to organize delegations to attend every session and feature of the convention program, and to acquaint the citizens of the respective towns with the convention program.

Rules and regulations for the poster exhibit contest have been sent to all school superintendents, WTCC directors, and local Chamber of Commerce secretaries in West Texas asking them to promote and conduct local poster contests in the schools, and send the winning posters to San Angelo for display in the convention headquarters. The big West Texas relief map which formed the center of the West Texas exhibit at A Century of Progress in Chicago will be exhibited in the same display with the posters. A silver loving cup will be awarded for the winning poster.

Chairmen of the beautification committees in the one hundred five West Texas towns entered in the Inter-Community Beautification Contest, and the secretaries of the Chambers of Commerce have been furnished with forms upon which the competing towns will file their reports on beautification activities and progress for judging the winner of the second year contest. A silver loving cup will be awarded the winner. The first year contest last year was won by Hamilton and the cup presented to Mrs. M. Brent's Witty, chairman of the Hamilton beautification committee by Houston Harte, chairman of the West Texas beautification program.

Local WTCC directors, and Chamber of Commerce secretaries have been asked by the San Angelo Board of City Development to immediately select a young lady to represent the towns in the big All-West Texas show and revue, styled Rainbow Roundup, every evening of the convention. These young ladies will be guests at a number of social functions to be given in their honor at the convention.

C. M. Caldwell, Abilene, chairman of the My Home Town Speaking contest, was the first to notify towns of a convention feature. Early in March Caldwell sent rules and regulations of the contest to every school superintendent, and Chamber of Commerce in West Texas urging them to immediately begin preparations for participating in the contest. Already over two dozen cities have indicated they will have entries. Caldwell's committee expects over sixty contestants.

High school students are eligible. They must present original speeches about their towns, not over five minutes long. To the winner will be awarded the Thos. Etheridge loving cup, a cash award, and a choice of scholarships in Simmons University, Abilene Christian College, Baylor College, and Texas Christian University.

Every city in West Texas through its Chamber of Commerce has been notified by H. O. Timmons, chairman of the convention election committee to immediately nominate the West Texas Chamber of Commerce directors, reporting their nominations to the convention manager. The directors will be elected at the opening session of the convention to serve for one year. Already seventeen cities have responded and every mail brings additional notices of nominations. At present 180 cities have directors, and are affiliated. Timmons hopes to report an increase at the convention.

Still Time To Sign Wheat Contracts

Texas wheat farmers who did not sign acreage reduction contracts in last fall's campaign may sign up in the national program which will soon be re-opened for the purpose of getting American production down to the level of the London wheat agreement, it is announced by O. B. Martin, director of the Extension Service of Texas A. & M. College. The campaign will be re-opened on a liberalized basis, he says.

Growers who now sign contracts will not be paid the first benefit payment for 1934 but are eligible to receive all future payments. There is no more prospect of improvement in wheat prices than there was last fall, advises from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration indicate. The farmer who signs a contract is assured a parity price for 54% of the average crop he produced in the base period of 1928-32. The grower who stays out has no protection.

In the re-opened campaign the wheat grower who had no wheat in 1928 to 1931 but who grew some in 1932 and 1933 now has a chance to come into the wheat adjustment program with an attractive acreage allotment. His benefit payments, however, will be less than those for the grower who had wheat two or more of the base years.

The 1932 wheat grower, who had at least 75% as much wheat acreage again in 1933, can now sign a contract on the following basis:

1. His base acreage shall be his acreage planted to wheat for harvest in 1932. He can seed up to 85% of that base for harvested in 1934.
2. His base production shall be his adjusted 1932 production divided by five.
3. His benefit payments will be paid on 54% of his base production.
4. He will get both installments of his 1933 payments and all his 1934 and 1935 payments.

To give an example, a man had no wheat in 1928 to 1931, but 100 acres in 1932 and 80 acres in 1933. His base acreage is 100. His base production is 100 times his yield per acre, divided by five and subject to adjustment, or 100 times the modified county average yield, divided by five and subject to adjustment. His adjusted base production might be 1500 bushels, divided by five or 300 bushels. His payments are based upon 54% of 300 or 162 bushels. At 26 cents per bushel net for 1933 payments, this man would get $42.12 for leaving 15 acres out of wheat for the 1934 harvest year, plus his 1934 benefit payment. His 1935 reduction would bring him another payment.

In certain specified counties where serious drouth conditions prevented the seeding of wheat last fall contract signers who failed to sow enough to normally produce at least 54% of the average 5-year production may secure waivers through their county committees. By so doing these farmers will be entitled to receive their 1934 benefit payments which otherwise would have been withheld.

Similarly, new signers who are in the same predicament, may, in these specified counties, secure waivers at the time of signing contracts and thereby become eligible for the remaining 1934 payments.

Farm Mortgage Bonds Are Well Received

J. S. Hilliard, secretary-treasurer of the Littlefield National Farm Loan Association, recently received word from the governor of the Farm Credit Administration, Wm. I. Myers, telling him of the ready reception which farmers and their creditors are giving to the bonds of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation which are now being tendered by the Federal Land Bank of Houston in place of cash in settlement of farmers' debts.

"These bonds have been selling in the large markets at a little above par, indicating a ready market for them. Just a week after the bank began using bonds instead of cash, the first bonds to be sold on the New York market were purchased at 100-3/4. We anticipated these bonds which bear 3 1/2 percent interest per annum would sell at par or above at the time we set the interest rate, for government bonds maturing in 1941, bearing the same rate were selling above par."

Mr. Myers pointed out that these bonds were not only exempt from local, state and federal taxation with the exception of surtaxes, inheritance and gift taxes, but that they are as readily salable as government securities. He said they are being quoted in the metropolitan papers but if such quotations are not available readily to farmers that they will be given the quotations if they will write to the Federal Land Bank of their district.

McIlhenny the seeds pers, which he said had fine flavor, and grew Tabasco, Mexico. These were planted by Mr. Mc- the family plantation near New Iberia, and of the peppers was so continued to grow them in the kitchen garden as both he and his Judge Avery, were seasoned food. war between the north and after the occupation by the federal troops, McIlhenny families from their home state General Banks to Austin, returned to their plan- at Avery Island at the war. Like all southern- families were financial- the war, and being with- with which to buy the help to make food tasty. began experimenting condiments from the peppers found growing at home. Among other plants that had survived the lack of cultivation during his absence were some pepper bushes like those that grew from the seed Gleason had given him. With the pulp of these peppers as a base, he made a hot aromatic sauce for table use, and gave some of it to his friends, who liked it so much that Mr. McIlhenny continued making it. Among those who tried the sauce and liked it was General Hazzard, who was federal administrator for southwest Louisiana. General Hazzard induced Mr. McIlhenny to make a sufficient amount of the sauce, so he could take some north on his next trip. This was done, and General Hazzard gave some of the sauce to his brother, B. C. Hazzard, who was head of the largest wholesale grocery house in New York. Mr. B. C. Hazzard was so impressed with the value of the sauce as a food seasoner, that he got in touch with McIlhenny and induced him to pack the sauce for market, and give his firm the agency for its distribution in the United States. Mr. McIlhenny consented to do this, and in 1868, Tabasco Sauce put up in New Iberia, Louisiana, was offered to the public. Since that time, Tabasco, through its high value as a piquant seasoning has become world wide in its distribution.

In 1872 an agency was established in London for marketing Tabasco in Europe, and this sauce on each bottle Iberia, Louisiana, can now be found in every civilized country in the world. An instance showing the wide distribution of Tabasco is given in Lord Kitchener's report to the British government after his conquest of Khartoum. This report states Tabasco was found further in the desert than any other civilized food product.

Tabasco is a pure pepper sauce made without cooking, but by fermentation in oaken casks, and it requires the heat of two summers to properly ferment it, and give it its mellow delightful flavor. Tabasco is especially valuable for seasoning eggs. As the English say, "It makes a good egg better and a bad egg good."

Tabasco has the greatest value when used in the kitchen. A few drops in your gravies gives the meat an exceptionally fine flavor. It also adds a wonderful flavor to mashed potatoes, or, when used in connection with butter on baked potatoes. When cooking eggs in any form Tabasco should always be used in order to bring out the highest flavor of the egg. A little Tabasco in soups when cooking adds greatly to their palatableness. On the table a few drops in your breakfast eggs and milk changes the flavor to such an extent, that the food is much more palatable.

INSPECTORS VISIT SCHOOL

G. V. Holbrook, deputy state superintendent, and Miss Olga Juniger, fire inspector, both paid a visit to the Littlefield schools last week.

Mr. Holbrook visited several classes making many favorable comments thereon. In looking over the school papers he found many improvements of which we are proud.

He visited the three schools and was greatly impressed by the large number of pupils per teacher, especially in the grammar school. Arrangements have been made since his visit to accommodate the crowded conditions there.

Recommendations have not yet been received for improvement of the schools, but an endeavor will be made to carry out the suggestions when received.

Miss Juniger, fire inspector, had each school have a demonstration fire drill, and she was well impressed, especially with the drills in the grade schools. She declared the grammar school gave the best demonstration of any school that she had seen in the state.

After checking instructions for fire prevention, she suggested that separate fire gongs be installed. This suggestion was immediately carried out.

Miss Juniger indicated that because of the school's cooperation in teaching fire prevention that Littlefield will in all probability continue to receive the three per cent discount on fire insurance rates.

JUST IMAGINE

Straus Atkinson disputing Miss Perkins—Bobby Moody acting as math teacher over four students—Frances Brice acting civilized—Mr. Hemphill not blushing—Margaret Pinkerton acting dignified—Louise Thornton as a queen—Jack Harvey writing poetry—Mr. Irvin acting dignified—Edith Huffman making a dress—Could any of these things be possible?

"Julius Caesar" a one-act farce comedy was given in assembly by members of the sophomore class.

The cast was as follows:
Prologue speaker—Irby Davis.
Julius Caesar—Jack Norman.
Brutus—O. K. Yantis.
Cassius—Bob McKnight.
Antonius—Delbert Falk.
Caesar—Richard Pinkerton.
Tribonius—Gene Stephens.
Caesar's Ghost—Jack Norman.
Stage hands—Travis Tomson and Gerald Lakey.
All actors were appropriately attired in togs, short trousers, and sandals, and were armed with daggers, swords, and spears.

Perhaps the highest point of interest in the play was when the straw hands brought out Brutus' oration—a small tree with several apples tied to it. Another part that took the house by storm was during the funeral oration, the orator stepped on Caesar so hard the dead man groaned aloud.

SCIENCE LABORATORY EQUIPMENT INSTALLED

New equipment for the science laboratory has recently been installed. The desks are equipped with hydrants, cabinet space, test tubes, Bunsen burners, etc. The new equipment will greatly aid in the teaching of science in that department.

are back in school after having been absent because of illness.

Bobbie Lee Brannen is visiting relatives in Amarillo, his former home, for a few days.

The following animal stories were selected as the best by the pupils of this room:

The Lion

The lion is the king of the beasts. He can "whip" any other beast in the forest. He has a great mane around his neck. You know I said he could whip any other animal in a fight. Here is the way he does it. He jumps on its back and bites its neck. His paws are very much like cat paws. He is said to be kin to the cat family. He creeps along quietly when he is following his prey. When he gets close enough he leaps without warning. The lion's native home is in Africa.—Bobbie Gray, high third grade.

My Pet

I have a little prairie dog. Her name is Tee. When she goes to eat she stands up on her hind legs and eats bread, peanuts, candy and other sweets. Her bed is under the wagon bed. One time there was a sandstorm and a plank hit her and broke her legs. We made her a bed under the cook stove. She finally got well. Once my daddy let her fall out of the window. When we moved she ran off. My brother went to get her and made her come back to the house.

Her hole is out in the pasture. I don't believe she will run away again.—Tommy Sus Sisson, high third grade.

The Adventures of Joey

Once upon a time there was a little negro boy. His name was Joey. He lived in far-away Africa. One day his mother sent him to get some water. As he was walking along he heard a scream. It scared him nearly to death but he wanted to be a hero, so he ran in the direction that the scream came from. He came to a clear spot. There he saw a panther attacking a little deer. He started to throw his water bowl at the panther, but the panther saw him first. Little Joey thought the panther looked worse than anything he had ever seen, so he ran as fast as he could. Finally he came to a big cave, and ran in it. It was so dark that little Joey couldn't see. He was terribly frightened. After a long time had passed he went home. "It is nice to be a hero," thought Joey, "but it is also nice to be safe at home."—Lewis Fleming, Jr., high third grade.

No Fear Of Milk Shortage Under Adjustment

Consumers need have no fear of a milk shortage under the dairy production adjustment program which farmers in Texas now considering will create "famine" or even a shortage for children and other in the cities, according to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

As a matter of fact, production of fluid milk in cities has increased rather than decreased because of the fact that for an expenditure of $5,000,000 provide milk for undersupplied it was pointed out.

The proposed reduction of 1932-33 sales quotas would be made up of the surplus supplies and would not exhaust the plus. Statistics compiled by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration show that farmers produce nearly all the larger cities forced to sell from 10 to 15 per cent of their milk as surplus to manufacture into butter, cheese, and milk and ice cream makers get much lower prices for milk than they do for the Class One milk.

Another point that should be in mind is that the plan will gross sales of dairy products where they are now. The plan that is sought is from the year of 1932-33. Without reduction there is the threat of a milk shortage that would further mine dairy prices, drive them out of business, and leave us facing a real worry as to our supplies.

It is estimated that at least a million pints of milk and more could be supplied to undersupplied children with the fund proposed for this purpose. Another $5,000,000 spent in transferring cows to farm families that are now adequate milk and food. This would increase rather than decrease the present use of milk consuming public, it is pointed out by Agricultural Adjustment Administration officials.

Why Liquid Laxatives are Back in Favor

The public is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that the properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a prompt movement without any danger at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative should be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can be regulated. A child is easily given the right dose. And mild liquid laxatives do not irritate the kidneys.

Doctors are generally agreed that Senna is the best laxative for the body. Senna is a natural laxative that does not drain the system like cathartics that leave you so tired. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin liquid laxative which relies on Senna for its laxative action. It has an average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time.

You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore for use. Member N. R. A.

Seven Million Dollars To Texas From Corn-Hog Plan

A total of 27,354 corn-hog contracts were reported signed by farmers in 199 counties up to Saturday night March 24, with figures incomplete in 65 counties, according to E. M. Regenbrecht extension swine specialist at Texas A. & M. College. The active campaign ended March 17 and the increase in total signers since that time represents farmers whose contracts were in process of making before the deadline was reached. When all returns are in it is expected that Texas will have about 30,000 contracts, making it the largest sign-up state outside the corn belt. THE CROSLEY TRI-SHELVADOR Electric REFRIGERATOR

TO BE USED AND DISPLAYED AT THE Happy Kitchen School of Cookery

The Tri-Shelvador Electric Refrigerator has received the enthusiastic indorsement of Mrs. Beulah Mackey Yates, who will conduct the Lamb County Leader Happy Kitchen School of Cookery. This refrigerator will be used and on display at each session of the school.

We extend to you a cordial invitation to attend the Happy Kitchen School of Cookery and to inspect this wonderful refrigerator.

In looking at the picture of the interior of this refrigerator you will notice the many special features of the Tri-Shelvador.

For example, the SHELVADOR increases the usable capacity 50 per cent. Open the door and there are the butter, bacon, eggs and other small food articles—INSTANTLY findable.

And notice the SHELVATRAY—a great time-saving, labor-saving convenience. When the door is opened, the SHELVATRAY, by a mere touch of the finger, is placed in a horizontal position. Then the items wanted are placed on the SHELVATRAY and carried on the SHELVATRAY to wherever they are wanted.

The Crosley Tri-Shelvador has many other special features. Compare it. See it. Judge for yourself. It's a truly sensational value.

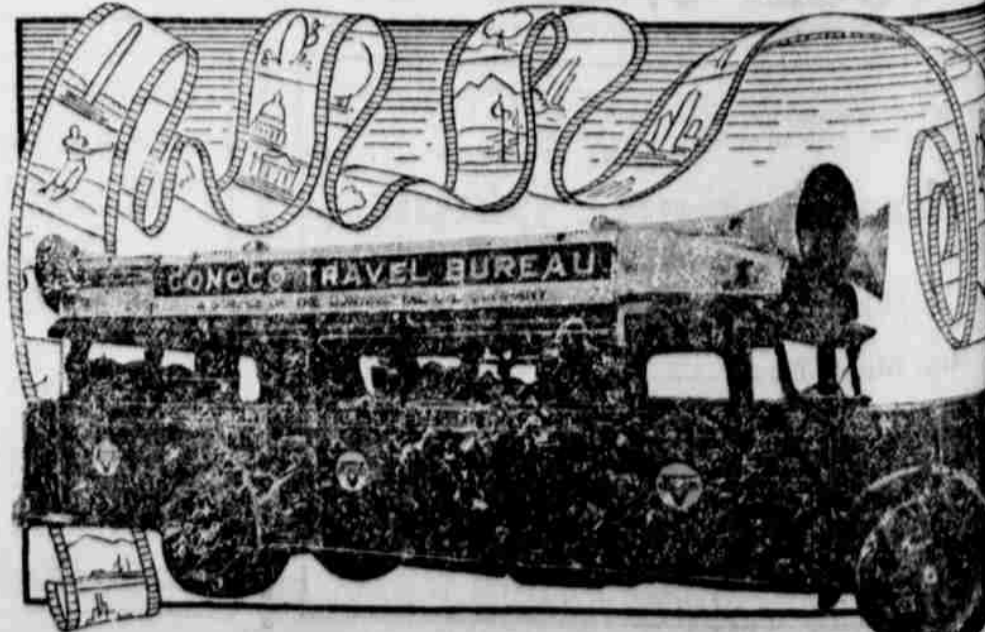

For use on farm homes, this refrigerator can be hooked up to a Delco lighting plant at an additional cost of only $8.00.
