CAPT. HARWELL

Harwell Given Captain Rank

Harvey Harwell, commander of Littlefield Salvation Army, was promoted Monday to the rank of captain.

The promotion marks the highest rank held by any officer in command at Littlefield since 1944. Capt. Harwell has been serving as lieutenant.

His wife, Wilma, simultaneously was awarded the same rank, fulfilling a policy of The Salvation Army that husband and wife members are the same rank, Capt. Harwell said.

Captain Harwell and his family came to Littlefield June 8, 1965, from Atlanta, Ga., with command of the Littlefield Corps as his first appointment.
Both he and his wife are ordained ministers.

Although his wife is his co-equal in rank, Capt. Harwell explained his authority exceeds in that he is commander of the unit here which serves Lamb County and, in cases of emergencies, outlying areas.

A native of Abilene, Tex.,
Capt. Harwell was commissioned into the Salvation Army June 5, 1965 at the Territorial School for Officers Training at Atlanta. His promotion came exactly two years to the day after his commission. He said the promotion came after completion of two years advance training lessons.

Captain Harwell was notified of the promotion by Col. Ernest Pickering, field secretary, who said, "It is with pleasure that I inform you . . . (of) your promotion to the rank of Captain. . .
This further recognition by your leaders is evidence of your faithful service in The Salvation Army."

EGYPTIAN PEOPLE 'DON'T WANT WAR'

Cairo Evacuee Says Embassy, CARE Goods Black-Marketed

Woman, Son Now Safe In Littlefield

BY HOMALU HOOD

Exactly 11 days ago Mrs. J.C. (Jim) Parker and her seven-year-old son, Jimmy, walked out of their apartment in Cairo, Egypt and toward a car waiting to take them to the airport. They carried only the barest essentials of their possessions.

Suddenly, an Egyptian man came running to them from the apartment building. Tears were streaming down his cheeks and he was sobbing, "I am so sorry.
We do not want you to leave.
It is all our fault that you must go. Please, we do not want war."

The man was a servant from the apartment house.

Mrs. Parker, the former Janice Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Johnson of Littlefield, watched the man's face with sympathy, while similar words spoken a few days earlier by a Cairo merchant findashed through her mind,
"Please, Mrs. Parker, when you get home -- tell your people we do not want war."

Janice, her husband Jim and their son entered the car and drove to the airport. Mother and son boarded the big plane readying for take off.

IN A FEW MOMENTS, the plane was pulling away from Cairo, away from danger -- and away from Jim Parker.

Today, Janice and Jimmy are with her parents on their farm near Littlefield. Where Jim is, no one here knew at press time.
His family has heard nothing from him -- and nothing definite about him.

Jim is associated with Pan-
American Oil Co. at Cairo, Monday, Janice telephoned the company's New York office and received the sum total of nothing in return. She was assured of "their safety" regarding the men left behind when their wives were evacuated.

"What they mean by safety,
I don't know -- there is no such thing as a safe place over there. So, in reality, they told me nothing."

But Mrs. Parker has plenty to tell about the boiling Israeli-Egyptian situation -- and about conditions prevailing in Cairo, including shocking information concerning the indifference of the American Embassy toward Americans there -- and -- a black market she says somehow is dribbling from the Embassy commissary and from supplies sent by CARE.

SHE HAS MEMORIES of terror when her car was stoned and of hissing tossed her way by the rabble on the street -- and remarks she couldn't understand but "I knew they were bad."

She has memories of wailing sirens and seemingly endless periods of impenetrable darkness, of quivering under the wonder of whether each was a practice raid or the real thing.

And she has memories of telling the Cairo merchant and the man-servant, "We don't want war, either. But -- like you
-- we sometimes don't have anything to say about it."

All during these trying experiences and others she describes, she and Jimmy -- like other wives and children -- were alone. Her husband was away on assignment in the oil fields.

"Conditions are terrible over there," she said. "The way we had to live was by buying, at outrageous prices, food sent through CARE and plainly marked, 'Donated from the people of the United States -- not to be sold.' We bought it through a black market man but I don't know how he got it."

SHE CONTINUED, "We bought other items on the black market that apparently -- in fact obviously -- came from the American Embassy commissary.
We paid $2 and $3 for cereal. Catsup sold for about $2. Often we couldn't get flour,

SAFE IN LITTLEFIELD HOME -- Mrs. Jim Parker, right, and seven-year-old son Jimmy are relaxing here in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Johnson, for the first time since hostilities broke out in Cairo where they were residing. Or rather -- they would be relaxed if they were certain of the safety of Jim Parker who remained in Cairo on assignment with Pan-American Oil Co. They are shown above with Mrs. Johnson, left, in whose face can be seen a mother's relief at her daughter's safety. Items on the table, brought from Egypt, are plaques, a tea service and, at right, a chip broken from the famous Pyramids. (P.S. -- Jimmy was not over-enthusiastic about having his picture made, just didn't quite trust that camera.)

$50 BOND AWAITS TWO EMPLOYEES

Readers To Name Littlefield's 'Friendliest, Most Courteous'

Littlefield is known far and wide as a friendly, smiling city, but it always is wise to take stock of the situation now and then. For instance:

Do you enjoy shopping in Littlefield? How friendly and cooperative are the stores? How helpful are the employees in retail shops and in offices? Do they make you want to come back again and again?

Favorable answers undoubtedly would be given in most instances. Littlefield has that kind of reputation. And the persons who give it that friendly, cooperative reputation are the sales and office personnel who meet the public.

To further this fine reputation and to bestow honor upon those to whom honor is due, The News-Leader starts asking its readers two questions:

1. Who is Littlefield's
"friendliest and most courteous" woman employee?
2. Who is Littlefield's "friendliest and most courteous" man employee?

Everybody is asked to help make the important decision.
It's a Littlefield voting campaign, without obligation on the balloting.

Store owners and managers are not eligible as contestants in the voting.

by readers of The News-Leader. Everyone can and is urged to vote. The only stipulation is that voters use the special award ballot which will be pub-

News-Leader. Voters may cast as many ballots as they wish.

Winners of the "Friendliest, Most Courteous" Employee Awards will be announced in a "Salute to Employees" edition of The News-Leader to be published in July. The edition will spotlight the sales and service personnel, presenting them as friendly persons who serve the needs of Littlefield and surrounding area.

Voting will close July 13, allowing plenty of time to cast extra ballots for those whom the voters consider deserving of the special awards.

Voters, however, are urged to get started right now, clipping and marking the ballot which appears on Pages 1 and left at or mailed to The News-sities of courtesy and friendliness.

Gem Exhibit Captures Blue Ribbon For Owner

By MRS. TOM STANSELL

At the Amarillo Gems and Minerals Federated Show last month, Mrs. Myrtle Clayton of Springlake won a blue ribbon on a styrofoam Bible decorated with precious stones mentioned in the Bible. The white Bible on a red velvet background is enclosed in an exhibit case. The book marker is made of a ribbon in the rainbow colors.

Mrs. Clayton bought some of the stones, traded other stones for some and found the others during excursions she has made for the past ten years.

Mrs. Clayton has won three other blue ribbons with her gems and mineral exhibits. Presently she is collecting minerals and metals mentioned in the Bible.

Mrs. Clayton and her husband, the late Bill Clayton, secured many gems and minerals in their stone hunting expeditions. Among those from Texas in Mrs. Clayton's collection are llanite stones, green epidote crystals and pink feldspar from the Llano area; petrified wood, agate and fossils from Archer and Baylor counties; fossils, leaf prints, and pyrite from near Weatherford and selenite blades and crosses from Bastrop County.

Some of the out-of-State collections include petrified dinosaur bones from Western Utah; ricolite from Silver City, Colo.; agate from near Deming, N. M. and turquoise from the Los Cerrillos area of New Mexico.

AMY'S ADLIBS

In The Swim

By Amy Turner

WHAT EVER happened to the good ole' swimming hole?

Not that there was anything so good about it except that it was absolutely adult-free and contained six glorious inches of slimy mud on the bottom.

Sometimes I think maybe our kids are missing something with their fancy miles-of-concrete swimming pools. Imagine growing up never knowing what it's like to squiggle your toes in the mud!

With the swimming season in full progress, I find myself once again (over-protective mother that I am) confined to the pool side trying desperately to keep an eye on my youngest.

Along with a number of other mothers, I bite my fingernails, chew my lower lip and try to keep my eyes uncrossed as they attempt to follow one little blue suit among 50 other little blue suits.

After an hour or so of this, I return home in a state of physical and mental exhaustion and proceed to collapse in the nearest chair, congratulating myself that I have once again averted disaster.

All this just to go swimming?

I THINK maybe mothers must have been a little less nervous when I was growing up because I surely don't remember my mother or anybody's mother going swimming with us. Why, that was half the fun! We always thought we were sneaking off and what a laugh it was to put one over on somebody (or so we thought). How dull it must be to go swimming WITH PERMISSION!

Then, there's this matter of swimming lessons. Today, everybody must have swimming lessons and I think this is a very good idea. All of my children have had the lessons . . . now, if they only knew how to swim.

When I was a youngster, we had a rather primitive solution to this problem.

One day someone (I can't remember who, but it was probably my older brother) decided I was old enough to swim.

Result: I was tossed into the middle of the swimming hole. The idea was, I think, that if you were too stupid to get yourself out, you deserved to drown.

Somehow, in those days, it seemed to work out all right. Today, the very thought of this system is enough to send me to bed with a tranquilizer.

WE DIDN'T have any diving boards or slides back then so maybe we missed a lot. If we did, we didn't know it because, being from East Texas, we had a ball just playing Tarzan on the grapevines. Yes, the same variety of the would-be smokers used to sample Somehow, I don't think there's anything quite like swinging out on a giant grapevine, giving an ear-splitting yell and dropping kersplash into a muddy lake.

Of course, there was always the danger of getting your head stuck in the mud if you dived too deep but nobody worried too much about it.

Maybe that's the whole secret . . . nobody worried.

I remember once a friend and I visited my grandmother and decided to take a row boat across a lake. Unfortunately, there were a number of undetected holes in the bottom of this boat.

When we came in dripping and laughing, my grandmother never said a word.

She did, I think, phone my mother with one comment, like:

"Come and get 'em . . . NOW."

I REMEMBER, too, another time when we decided to sneak off for a day of fishing. We, of course, never thought to ask anybody . . . why ruin all the fun?

We didn't catch a single fish but we had a grand time even though I did suffer from a severe sunburn for three days. My mother seemed to think that was enough punishment.

What I can't understand is why she didn't call the police. If my kids were gone for over an hour and I didn't know where they were, I'd be yelling for the Texas Rangers.

But like I said, nobody seemed to worry much about anything in those days.

Or could it be that it just seemed that way to me and the good ole' carefree days of summer haven't vanished but are still here hidden in the hearts of the young?

I don't know, but just thinking about all the hare-brained things I did and wondering if my three angels are likely to pull some of the same stunts presents a problem to which there is only one solution:

Another tranquilizer.

OWNER'S REPORT

Let's Be Old Fashioned

By Bill Turner

GUESS WHAT next Wednesday is. That's easy, you say, it's June 14. If you were a cornball, like me, you'd know.

Tears well up in my eyes when school children sing the Battle Hymn of the Republic. I get that choked up feeling when they hoist the American flag at international events.

I'm a cornball. If you still haven't guessed what June 14 is, it's Flag Day.

So what's the problem? I'm afraid my kids won't grow up to be cornballs.

In the sophisticated times of today, I'm afraid someday they'll look upon Betsy Ross as a chairman who needed a service project . . . upon the little old man who doffed his hat as the flag went by as a town drunk who never missed a parade.

MAYBE I'm overly worried about it. Maybe it just seems that in recent years the flag is becoming less symbolic.

I remember when it used to fly in parades, on porches, in cemeteries, on speaker's platforms, on lawns, in windows, and from the chubby hands of children as they lined the streets.

Today, it's placards and homemade posters that tell you what people are against. But where is the flag that told you at a glance what people are for?

THANK HEAVENS for the Littlefield Boy Scouts. Without them we might not have a single flag flying here on Memorial Day. And I'll bet they have the flags up again next Wednesday, Flag Day.

But our Boy Scouts are about the only flag wavers left around here today.

FOR A SHORT WHILE, this country had a real flag-waver in the person of John F. Kennedy. His personal excitement for the rich heritage of this country, together with his quality for making this excitement contagious to other people, could have put a flag in every window.

It put him in the White House. There was a need for it. To some people, it was like someone opened the window on a three-day poker game. They had forgotten what it was like to breathe the fresh, vibrant air of enthusiasm for this great country.

THIS NEXT Wednesday is Flag Day. Shortly after it comes July 4.

If you choke up when you hear the Star Spangled Banner in the quiet before a football game, and have to blow your nose when you read "The Man Without A Country," grab a flag and wave it, friend. You're a cornball, too!

WHAT HAPPENED TO THAT SPRING YOU USED TO HAVE ?

'Nuts To You'

BY PAUL HARVEY

The airline ground crewman was replacing the fuel hose on his truck, lodging the coupling into its receptacle somewhat more than deliberately.

"Hurry it up!" a supervisor admonished. The ground crewman replied with an obscene epithet and continued to dawdle.

We got off five minutes late.

As I watched this trifling drama unfold at Chicago's O'Hare Airport it suddenly brought into sharp focus all of the indifference which many and varied industries suffer these days because of union contracts against "speech" and because manpower shortages contribute to insubordination and indifference breeds unnecessary waste.

"Five minutes late" was of little consequence on this flight, except that five-minutes times 200 businessmen robbed our economy of two man-days of potentially productive work.

Further, if this attitude represents even 10 per cent of today's total work force, "five minutes late" costs our nation a total of 14 million man days of potential productivity every day!

Thus, the "nuts to you, don't rush me" attitude costs us infinitely more than all our strikes and layoffs combined.

Part of the problem is that we have a simplified and systematized work that isn't "interesting" anymore. Experiments reveal that the mentally retarded, the insane -- even apes and pigeons -- are able to outproduce healthy humans on some jobs.

THUS, irresponsible behavior may become a worker's only way of maintaining some semblance of self-esteem!

"I sure told the foreman off today!"

Further, seeking to satisfy every man's need for "importance," he preoccupies himself with better wages and working conditions -- though these can never be adequate compensation for his dissatisfaction.

Some industries purposely have tried to put complexity and challenge back into the 'jobs, with some success measurable in reduced absenteeism.

ONE MANUFACTURER has even abandoned the assembly line in favor of allowing each man to assemble an entire voltmeter from start to completion, a three-week process. His sense of responsibility for his product has resulted in a 50 per cent reduction in man hours required to build that instrument.

Some banks have intentionally remained unmodernized, so that every employee would KNOW that he is important.

Such evidence notwithstanding, too many imagine that men are motivated by "happiness" and "pleasure."

Most every advertising pitch presumes that we seek "pleasure." Most every union contract is geared to more money and more security. While our hunger for self-realization remains unsatisfied.

THE OLD DAYS when a man proudly signed his own name to the product of his own hands are gone; such a practice is seldom practicable in a closely controlled time-and-motion cost-cutting production-line economy.

In wartime, we all "work for our country." That challenge is blurred by today's diluted allegiance.

This is a challenge for conscientious management and union leaders: To make work prouder again, as well as productive. Otherwise, free men might be made slaves again. Our 15m could lose the Cold War by just five minutes.

The Countrywoman

By LIBBY MUGGETT

She and her family are very weary by night fall now that the growing season is in full swing and the days are so very long. Full-time is looked forward to with great anticipation. Many hours spent outdoors, worn-out bodies and tired bones require no such thing as a sleeping pill.

She hears the gay and tuneful song of the field lark come with the morning breeze; the sad and haunting song of the mourning dove drift with the evening winds. Both songs are arrestingly beautiful, though as opposite from one another as youth and old age. But both ages can be very appealing and what would life be without extreme opposites!

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Be Enthusiastic

BOB WEAR

It is readily admitted that the unique quality of life known as enthusiasm is elusive, and, once acquired, it is difficult to maintain. This does not mean, however, that it is out of reach. Even so, there are many barriers, and some are difficult to overcome.

The constant challenge of living, with the normal percentage of problems, disappointments and frustrations will surely cause us to flag in zeal unless we are well equipped spiritually. We must never make the mistake of depending upon the material and the physical for our enthusiasm, because enduring enthusiasm is spiritually begotten and spiritually nurtured.

THE BASIC meaning of enthusiasm is "God inspired." In general usage, it means ardent zeal or interest. Fervor is sometimes used as a synonym.

Unfortunately, many people equate enthusiasm and excitement, but enthusiasm is not excitement.

True enthusiasm is warm and vigorous, and it is also steady, wisely directed and embraces the most wholesome motivations and aims.

Coleman Cox said, "When enthusiasm is inspired by reason; controlled by caution, sound in theory; practical in application; reflects confidence, spreads good cheer; raises morale; inspires associates; arouses loyalty, and laughs at adversity -- it is beyond price."

WHATEVER our socio-economic station in the existing social order, enthusiasm will enhance our life. It is the spirit that brightens and enlivens the many experiences of useful living.

To serve the greatest good, it must be more than a temporary, spasmodic experience. It must be a steady, continuing element of our character.

SANDHILLS PHILOSOPHER

The Answer? No Taxes

(Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm gets off on taxes this week, his letter reveals.)

Dear editor: I was sitting out here on this Johnson grass farm trying as a public service to think up some new sources of tax revenue which wouldn't affect me -- as I understand it, there's nothing this country or any part of it, state, city or school district, can't do if it could only get more money, which fits my situation too, although I can't help mentioning that while politicians are always hunting for new tax revenue, you don't see much thought given to new methods of enabling a taxpayer to raise the money for the taxes he's already paying -- at any rate, to get on with this. I pulled out a copy of The Dallas Morning News I'd been saving to rest my mind on and the first article I noticed was talking about taxes.

According to it, a lot of states are demanding that Washington return to them a part of the income taxes they pay.

Under the proposal, Washington would return say 5 or 10 per cent of all the Federal income taxes a state's citizens pay, and the state could use it as it sees fit, maybe to raise school teachers' salaries or policemen's salaries or, failing that, at least to enlarge the penitentiary.

I got to thinking about this and I'm afraid it has some hitch.

In the first place, since Washington isn't making ends meet as it is, the same as me, if it handed back 10 per cent of its revenue to the states, wouldn't Congress then just add 10 per cent more in its take?

Furthermore, if a state got back 10 per cent, wouldn't every county and city in that state start demanding a refund on the taxes they pay to the state?

In turn, wouldn't the state, which is having about as much trouble as me and Washington in making ends meet, then have to add 10 per cent more on the taxes it's collecting?

Thus the net result would be a 10 per cent increase in taxes, all up and down the line, which wasn't the aim at all.

Instead of handing refunds back down the line, from Washington to the smallest town and taxing district, has anybody ever thought of just letting us keep the money in the first place?

Yours faithfully, J. A.

BITS AND PIECES

Stormy Weather

HOMALU HOOE

It's not that I'm afraid of storms. It's just that I was raised as a Girl Scout and believe in being prepared.

That's why the first thing I do when I move to a new address is find out if anyone in the neighborhood has a "scare hole," and if not, search out the least deadly spot in the house in case a twister decides to call.

But I prefer a scare-hole. That's why whenever a cloud bank appears on the horizon I put on my rain coat, fill up my shoulder-strap thermos bottle, test my highly powerful flash lamp, locate my emergency first-aid kit and place all near the door -- except the rain coat, of course. I'm still in it.

And that rain coat has big pockets. In them I place a box of matches, extra medicinal items, cigarette lighters, transistor radios, facial tissues and such.

My work purse is big as a wardrobe case. It will hold irreplaceable things like my late father's Bible and valuable papers, plus bills and insurance premiums due, trading stamp books, a small thermos of coffee with a cup or two, stuff like that.

ONCE THIS is done -- and it doesn't take long when you're as experienced at it as I am -- all there is to do is wait.

Or, like last Thursday night -- when there was work to do -- I opened up my portable typewriter (which also is among "things" to be taken) and, wearing weighted-down rain coat, wrote the Sunday editorial for County Wide News. 'Tweren't easy, with 16 pounds in each pocket.

You can laugh if you want to, but there's more wisdom than foolishness in above paragraphs.

In my own weird way, I'm suggesting preparations for the moment a real town-busting tornado should hit.

YOU SEE, I was at Hale Center within 20 minutes after that $8 million storm struck. Any of you who may have been there know what I mean.

There was no water -- not a drop. No lights. No gasoline available (oh, yes -- my car is kept full of fuel during the storm season) in fact, there was no nothing.

Worst of all, no coffee.

On-the-spot first aid equipment was needed desperately.

And block after block of homes were leveled, with items irreplaceable and priceless to their owners strewn as far as two miles away -- many never to be found again.

And much of what was found was reduced to rubbish and wet pulp.

IF YOU DON'T believe me, drive out by the tornado graveyard west of that town where debris was placed in a mammoth hole, dug for that purpose, and covered over with dirt.

There's only one flaw in my "Be Prepared" theory -- I haven't quite figured out how I'm going to get out the door with all that stuff.

I can just see me holding all the conglomeration, with things under each arm, my typewriter handle in my teeth and my flashlight tucked under my chin -- rooted to the ground by dead weight.

One consolation -- if this happens, I honestly doubt if even a tornado could move me from the spot.

OLTON--Jimmy Huckabee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Huckabee, has received an invitation to play in the Greenbelt Bowl at Childress.

Huckabee, who plays defensive line backer and offensive end positions will play in the All-Star Class Six game in the Greenbelt Bowl, August 12.

Miss Kathline Carson will represent Olton in the Queen Pageant, which will be held on the football field Friday night prior to the game Saturday night. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Carson.

Visions Of Hula Skirts Give Him 'Moonlight Madness'

Charles Barrett, manager of Anthony's here, has visions of Hawaii, pretty girls, hula skirts, etc.

But don't tell his wife. As far as she's concerned, he'd like to win his trip to Hawaii just for a rest.

Barrett's store here and other Anthony stores are in a sales contest, the winner of which will get an expenses-paid trip to the land of the Hula.

Right now, the Littlefield Anthony store is running a close second to the Levelland store.

That's the reason for a big promotion scheduled at the local store Thursday night. Barrett's calling it "Moonlight Madness," and he has the specials to prove it in an ad elsewhere in this issue.

At any rate the store will be open from 6:30 to 9:30 Thursday night, with prizes to be given away along with free refreshments.

Another store here, Perry's, is joining Anthony in the "Moonlight Madness", in an effort to boost its 25th anniversary promotion.

'No, It's A River!'

Early Harvested Wheat Allows Double Cropping

A High Plains Research Foundation release points out the wheat picture does not look too good for the High Plains of Texas this year. In addition to the damage already done, most observers feel that the wheat crop will probably be harvested earlier this year than most years in the past. Many farmers have never considered a double-crop system, but for those who have been hurt by freeze and drought, followed by recent storms, this might be an ideal year to consider planting soybeans following wheat. No accurate data has been collected, but it appears that farmers who have tried double-cropping in a normal year have been averaging about 20 to 25 bushels of soybeans after wheat.

Most of these seed have been planted in the first or second week of July. However, according to tests at the High Plains Research Foundation, it appears that if soybeans could be planted approximately 10 days earlier, a farmer could expect from an 8 to 10 bushel increase in yield, and should be able to expect better quality beans.

There does not seem to be an abundance of good quality soybean seed available this year, and it is very possible the wheat problem, coupled with possible hail-out on cotton, may cause the supply to be even shorter. For these situations, the early maturing varieties are recommended, such as the PATTERSON, CLARK 63, and WAYNE.

If a farmer can foresee a need for soybean seed for any purpose, he would probably be wise to seek out a source of supply in the near future, because a poor quality seed can only result in less net-dollar return for himself.

BACK COUNTRY "Boondocks," slang for the back country, derives from the Philippine word bundok, a remote area of Luzon.

County Agent's Corner

BY BUDDY LOGSDON

Olton OES Has Installation Set

OLTON--Chapter No. 847 Order of Eastern Star will hold open installation Saturday, June 10 at 8 p.m. in the Olton Masonic Hall. Following installation ceremonies, refreshments served and entertainment provided. Present Worthy Master Lee Glover and Worthy Secretary Ralph Glover.

Some South Plains cottonfarmers face an important decision--whether to replant hilled-out or cold damaged cotton or to plant permitted cotton acreage to soybeans.

If the decision is to plant soybeans, growers must receive prior approval from the county ASCS office, says Buddy C. Logsdon, county agricultural agent. With this approval, cotton price support payments may still be received.

Growers can expect a decline in lint yields as planting dates become later in the season, Logsdon points out. In fact, some yields have decreased as much as 728 pounds per acre.

AVERAGE LINT YIELDS obtained at the South Plains Research and Extension Center over a five-year period have been 800 pounds per acre for June 1 plantings compared to 662 pounds per acre for plantings on June 8-10. Based on an average price of 16¢ per pound, this difference alone amounts to $14.08 per acre.

Logsdon adds there are a number of factors to consider before planting soybeans on cotton acreage. First of all, adequate irrigation water should be available to produce sufficient yields.

Also, tests have shown yields are increased if cotton follows soybeans in a rotation. Thus higher yields should be obtained on next year's acreage if soybeans are planted this season.

OF COURSE, the rental agreement between the landlord and tenant must be considered, points out Logsdon. Usual agreements call for one-fourth of the gross income from cotton to go to the land owner whereas one-third of the income from soybeans is paid.

Expected income above operating costs is another important factor in deciding between late-planted cotton and soybeans, points out Logsdon. On a per acre basis, to produce a lint yield of 800 pounds, a grower may spend $80 and thereby leave a net operating return of $40.

In comparison, irrigated soybeans planted by June 6 normally yield 30 bushels or more per acre. Considering a production cost of $35 per acre for soybeans, a producer could expect reasonably more net operating return from soybeans than from cotton.

IF COTTON is to be replanted, the county agent feels a few guidelines should be considered with regards to varieties. Only early maturing varieties should be planted at this late date due to the shortened growing season. Long staple varieties such as Acala and Del Cerro will not have sufficient time to mature.

Irrigation of late cotton also becomes more critical, says Logsdon. Less water should be applied in order to insure fruiting. Following preplant irrigation, generally one additional application at peak bloom is sufficient.

HEY, WAIT MINUTE! LET'S THINK THIS REPLANTING OVER!

Because of the recent bad weather that heavily damaged the cotton crop, let's not be hasty about replanting that acreage to some other crop . . . especially if you have no experience with the other crop.

Sure we had a bad year in 1966. Sure there was no profit in it, because of the September rains and early freeze. But that was just last year . . . an admittedly most unusual weather year.

If you are looking toward planting a substitute crop . . . which is permissible by the government farm program . . . let's stop for a minute to look at the possible, and probable, economics of cotton vs. soybeans.

Cotton can still be planted, and still make a bale to the acre of quality lint with any kind of normal fall. With the available planting moisture, one irrigation would get the crop laid by. With only 14-cent cotton, that's a gross of $70 an acre. This doesn't include cotton seed sales, either.

Like any other farm crop, it takes experience to grow a profitable crop. If you've not had experience in growing soybeans, you can probably look for 20 to 25 bushels average. But you can also look to a minimum of three irrigations. The 25 bushels, based on the government loan value, would gross you only $75 an acre, but at a greater cost of production. And, also, do you have a combine to harvest the beans with?

Soybeans are a good crop. They yield good profit on most years. But, as we said, the farmer needs experience to grow soys for profit.

Can you afford to put all your cotton acreage into a crop you know little or nothing about? We think not.

Cotton can still come back this year and make a good profit . . . for the farmer as well as the business man who serves him. Remember the big hail storm in 1959? The one that wiped out 600,000 cotton acres, six times as many as have been lost in the recent storm? This area came back and produced 1,869,353 bales. Not a bumper year, but a good year considered.

Before you replant to soybeans . . . give a second look to the cash crop that helped build this country. Give cotton a second chance in 1967.

YOUR VOICE IN STATE GOVERNMENT

Long, Hard 140 Days

By BILL CLAYTON

The 60th Legislature adjourned near midnight on May 29, after 140 days of the hardest work that any legislature in history has done. I know that longer hours were spent on committees and sub-committees, than at any time during the years that I have served my district as a member of the legislature.

Very shortly now I shall close my office here in Austin, and will be in Springlake. It has been a pleasure to represent you during this session of the legislature. I just hope that I have represented you well, believe me I have tried.

I sponsored and passed 23 bills, and had 4 bills that did not pass the House, and 2 bills that were lost in the Senate. Besides these I co-authored about 20 other bills.

The State Affairs Committee of which I was a member, heard 291 bills. The Counties Committee, of which I was chairman, heard 230 bills. The Conservation and Reclamation Committee, of which I was a member heard 275 bills. The Urban Affairs Committee, of which I was a member, heard over 60 bills.

So, you can see these four committees considered 40% of the 2000 bills introduced in the House and Senate. The Rules Committee, of which I was a member, considered all of the bills that were reported favorably from the various committees before they were placed on the calendar for House action.

I was chairman of 24 sub-committees and on 65 other sub-committees. It is the policy of the House of Representatives to send each bill, that the committee hears, to a sub-committee for closer study than the main full committee can give to every bill. The sub-committee then reports the bill back to the main committee for its action.

Some of the major pieces of legislation that passed this session included the following measures:

CITY SALES TAX - this measure allows any city in Texas to call an election to determine whether that city shall impose a city sales tax on the people who purchase retail items within the city. A number of the larger cities plan, in the near future, to exercise this right to vote on whether or not they will have a city sales tax. The tax can not exceed 1%.

TRAFFIC SAFETY - this legislation provides that a person must be 16 years of age, and must have taken driver training before he can be licensed to drive an automobile; otherwise the person must be 18 years of age; it also provides that drivers' licenses of persons under 21 years of age will be a different color. This will keep minors from giving false ages in trying to purchase alcoholic beverages.

INDUSTRIAL REVENUE BONDS - This measure allows cities and counties to issue bonds to attract industry; these bonds are to be paid for by the revenue from the industry that is attracted. This should be one of the best ways for small cities to draw industry. I sponsored and passed this bill.

WATER ADJUTICATION ACT - this act allows the Water Rights Commission to adjust water rights in Texas. This is something that has been needed for many years. This will help determine the amount of water available to move to West Texas.

STATE EMPLOYEES' PAY RAISE - gave to the employees of the State the first major raise in salary that they had had in many years, and allowed the State agencies to compete for capable personnel to fill vacancies that have existed because of inadequate salaries. Some of the major areas that were helped were the personnel to staff adequately the Texas Highway Patrol; the State Health Department; the State Highway Department, and other State agencies over the entire State.

EDUCATION BILLS - One of the bills of major interest was the increase in teacher pay by $600.00 a year; other legislation would set up a sick leave program for teachers; allows pilot programs for 10 months and 12 months school systems, and more money for higher education.

LOCAL COUNTY GOVERNMENT - this legislation affects our local county offices, and standardizes the fees in certain offices such as clerk's and offices of the justice of the peace.

INDUSTRIAL SAFETY - for the first time Texas has an industrial safety act, which will serve to lessen the number of accidents in the industrial areas of Texas. This was a compromise bill, and was agreed on by industry and labor.

CODE OF CRIMINAL PROCEDURE - this legislation tightens the law in favor of law enforcement. It will help in the apprehension and prosecution of those violating our laws.

OPEN MEETINGS BILL - this measure provides that all State Agencies and political subdivisions shall hold public meetings. Open to the press and anyone interested. Nothing can be withheld from the public.

AIR AND WATER POLLUTION - this measure will help the State clean up pollution in the streams, and the air pollution act was strengthened.

PARK BONDS - a revolving fund has been set up for the development of State parks by charging admission to State parks. The charge will be much the same as is now done at Palo Duro State Park.

LEGISLATION WAS PASSED THAT WILL ALLOW COMMODITY GROUPS TO ORGANIZE TO HELP THEMSELVES through research and promotion. This is permissive on the part of each individual farmer.

NATURAL FIBERS COMMISSION STUDY WAS AUTHORIZED - in all probability this study will lead to the creation of a commission for cotton, wool and mohair research. This could create a demand for our short staple cotton.

LSA was placed under the dangerous drugs act - I hope this will stop the use of this drug by many of our young college students.

LEGISLATION TO ALLOW RESEARCH BY CERTAIN INDUSTRIES IN CONNECTION WITH TEXAS TECH COLLEGE - this should be a boom to Tech and the area in finding industries that are suitable to West Texas.

THE CREATION OF THE WESTERN INFORMATION TELEVISION NETWORK which will be one of the greatest strides in higher education to the people of our area. This system will eventually save millions of dollars by using a combination of talent from the various schools in the network. It might provide a method of taking college classes in some of the smaller towns or even at home.

These are a few of the more than 900 bills that passed at this session.

Probably three of the most controversial bills that did not pass at this session were:

1. State minimum wage legislation which would have set a minimum of $1.25 for all workers including farm workers.
2. Liquor by the drink proposal which would have permitted open saloons in Texas.
3. Pari-mutuel betting on horse races which would have allowed several race tracks and gambling in our State.

If you have any questions or if I can be of help to you in any way feel free to call on me at Springlake.

Journey To The Past

BY EVALYN PARROTT SCOTT

Mrs. H. R. Miller, Sr. When moving time rolled around, this proved no easy job with 350 head of cattle, and a family of four boys. They had to camp on the banks of the Red River for four days while the water receded. It took more than a month to make the trip. The arrived in Lamb County April 3 with a tired bunch of horses and cattle.

The nearest post office was at Running Water, 15 miles distance.

They found three neighbors in this area. There was only one fence in the whole county, a drift fence running north and south located four miles west of Olton and just west of Circle. Each neighbor had a horse pasture of about 10 acres fenced. In this they kept their rustling horses. H. R. Miller fenced the first large pasture in 1909, this was the section on which the Olton Cemetery is presently situated. Mr. Miller donated four acres of this land for the cemetery. (Mr. Charles Kenan was the first person to be buried there).

In 1900, a very wet year, Mr. Miller took pneumonia, a big rain drove all his cattle off his range. It took Bob, the 9-year-old son, a whole week to find them. When he did find them, in the Hale Center vicinity, not a cow or calf was missing. It then took him about ten days to get them home.

Pa and Ma Miller (as every one now called them) were always the first to build and helped in the settling of the community.

In 1903, Soash, brought excursions from the north to sell land from the Long S Ranch that belonged to C. C. Slaughter of Dallas, Texas. Ma Miller was supposed to cook their dinner, but they came one day earlier than they were expected and missed up a good antelope hunt. The first thing everyone did was look in the house to see how much meat there was. Two antelopes were hid in the smoke house, the men were told if they would not tell anybody they would have antelope for dinner, everyone was happy. Pa's and Ma's time on this earth is passed, but, their influence and love lingers in the hearts of those remaining till we meet them in that heaven above, that they taught us about all their lives.

Miller was one of the pioneers of the county in 1908 served as the first County Clerk. Mr. and Mrs. Miller organized the Methodist Church in 1907. The first school remembered by members was Burro Galloway. Mrs. Fred Pilley was first teacher. She received $100 per month salary, the first paid four dollars per month. (Happy) Miller was one of the first babies to be born in Lamb County. He was the son of the Millers. Mar was born in 1913, and in 1916. Mr. Miller liked to recall pioneer days in Texas. Mr. James Leon Miller, ranch west of Dallas containing 30 sections of land. This was before the Civil War; after he gave all of his slaves acres of land and all the land took the name of Miller. The Negro descendants were a part of this land. Mr. Miller had drug stores near Hill and Vernon. In 1891 he filed on a 160-acre tract of land in the west of Memphis. He traded this land for a love for cattle instead of money. For his land he received a head of cattle and $300 (one hundred). He then came to Lamb County and filed on sections of land.

Request Granted

Dear Bill:

Attached is a newspaper clipping concerning the recent "weather" we had in and around Littlefield, which appeared in THE DALLAS MORNING NEWS and was forwarded to us by a switchboard operator in the Dallas office of Nipak, Inc.

She is always kidding us about the "big city" of Littlefield and the employees in the Littlefield office were wondering if maybe there was a way for her name to appear in the Littlefield paper, even though she didn't make it to Littlefield.

Sincerely yours,
Gene Bartley

(Editor's Note: The name of said Nipak, Inc. switchboard operator, Mrs. Ella Mae Faulkner, now and hereby appears in the News-Leader. But it does not excuse her from some day visiting Littlefield--and the News-Leader.)

potatoes, things like that. We paid enormous prices for bread which often was full of bugs."

When asked if she objected to being quoted, Mrs. Parker's immediate answer was, "I certainly do not object. I want these things told. I'm hopping mad about them, and so were all the other Americans like us, working there for companies."

"I also want it known how we resented the attitude of the American Embassy, and how they treated us. Everyone felt the same way about it and wants it told here. Everyone resented it."

"For instance, the Embassy issued an evacuation date and stated flatly it would not be responsible for any American after that date -- with no stipulations at all for circumstances beyond our control. They simply were through with us if we remained after that date."

SHE SAID ALL WIVES who did not have furlough to come home were shipped to Athens the same date she was flown to the States. She continued, "Embassy employees apparently were jealous because we made more money than they did. They seemed to think we didn't need anything -- we could just go out and buy on the black market."

"For instance, one Embassy woman who lived near us would come home with candy, cold drinks, anything and everything for herself and her family. My little boy wasn't quite old enough to understand why they could have these things and he couldn't."

She paused a moment, then added, "Everyone resented this -- we all felt the same way. They (the Embassy people) seemed to think we didn't even need those things that are the very sustenance of life."

WHEN ASKED WHY they did not expose the existence of a black market on CARE and Embassy supplies, Mrs. Parker answered, "We didn't dare! Not only would our main source of food have been cut off but our lives would have been in danger. We couldn't expose them for fear of hunger and even vengeful death. We had no choice but to buy everything we could!"

She said the only way they could explain the black market's existence was that possibly "some man in charge" would take more supplies than he needed in order to let the excess be sold on the black market.

Mrs. Parker said she did not feel that the Embassy or CARE were in any way responsible for the black market practices -- but that they were stemming from some inside source.

"CARE is operated to help people in times of need. Some man or group is somehow responsible for the misuse. The CARE people ought to know about this so they can stop it. Over there, we couldn't say anything, but here in America we can say plenty."

(Earlier, Mrs. Parker's mother, Mrs. Johnson, told the News-Leader her daughter had commented Americans who criticize this country "just don't know what they are talking about. They should be forced to live over there a while.")

Mrs. Parker said, "The people of Egypt don't want war.

Anti-Americanism is mostly practiced by the young, who are easily influenced, or by the poor whose living conditions make them ready to attack anyone.

"THE MASSES are half-starved. You see them lying in the streets. These are the people who do the hissing and insulting."

"Little children come up to the cars, shine a big space by spitting on it and rubbing it, then ask for a piastre for the job. A piastre is only a small portion of an American penny."

"Unrest is creating squalid conditions. People are without homes, sleeping when and where they can -- eating when and what they can."

AS FOR immediate conditions leading up to the evacuation, Mrs. Parker said it all began about the middle of May.

"One morning the newspaper came out with a story on the trouble between Syria and Israel. The paper was announcing that day that Egypt would not let Israel attack Syria. This was about two weeks before we had to leave," she said. She continued, "Then other countries began taking sides in the matter. About a week after the first newspaper story, the Cairo paper said the United States was to blame for the whole situation. Nasser, of course, was making a lot of comments."

"AFTER THE PRESS denounced the U.S., demonstrations began. Really, it all happened so suddenly, within a week's time."

"The demonstrators mostly were just a worked-up mob, the result of Nasser's accusations in the newspapers."

"We received notice from the American Embassy on Thursday, May 25, to evacuate. Earlier, I had been told by a girl who worked at the Embassy, to keep one suit case packed at all times. (Evacuation date was Sunday, May 28.)

On May 27, the day before I left, we were scheduled to have a practice raid. As Jimmy and I were alone, (Jim was still in the field) we started across town to be with friends during the 'raid' -- it was rather terrifying.

"Almost all roads were blocked by trucks, machine guns and other artillery."

"WE HAD TO TURN down an alley and just before we turned we saw a dummy labeled 'American' lying in the street and completely filled with knives. (Earlier, a friend had told the Parkers about a piece of cloth, at an outlying Egyptian camp, which had been painted to resemble an American flag with a shoe tied to one end. The friend inquired and learned the symbolism meant, 'Kick the Americans out.')

"As we drove down the alley, people began to appear and throw stones at us. Our car was so heavily stoned I didn't think we were going to make it, but we did."

"When we passed the American Embassy we could hardly get through -- at least a hundred police were standing guard."

"WE REACHED our friend's house and began to wait for the practice raid. We never knew the exact time to expect them. The only notice we ever received was a small ad in the newspaper which merely said one would take place the hour. Many people even see these notices.

"Finally the sirens wailing and everything totally dark. No one could smoke a cigarette. We were in the beginning to open doors, take everything shelves, etc., because would be shattering egg which would break with all loose items in the house."

"When the raid was Jimmy and I went on a frightening trip -- because thought it was all over night. Then about 10 of the sirens blew again. We know if it was a practice or the real thing. It lasted about 30 minutes we were scared to death."

She said the practice began about a week after first newspaper report trouble with Israel.

MEANWHILE, the company had radioed Jim to "come in," giving reason.

When he arrived, Mrs. Parker said, he found his son preparing to be evacuated. "That was the first I knew of the trouble," Parker explained. "The man who were not called in even know their wives."

She said the company not let the men leave. She believed the reason they kept the company believing was bluffing and that evacuation soon would blow over. We're just guessing, you stand."

"I think the company was waiting to see the outcome of the U.N. conference next week."

(Tuesday night the company voted an unanimous evacuation order, although the Soviet Union voted with apparent reluctance and made clear its intentions if Israel did not "aggression" immediately. Arab nations broke relations with the U.S. and Britain.)

SHE SAID JIM arrived time to go to the airport. "Even then, at 4 o'clock in the morning, people in the streets aroused and had remarks at us."

The company assured Parker, when she Monday, that its officials keeping in contact with government officials at Cairo.

Mrs. Parker paused a moment, then concluded the evacuation. "I just hope they let him out of there."

The Parkers were in Cairo Aug. 3, 1966 and there about 10 months.
