

Cotton Crop Estimated To Reach 50 Percent Of 1937

Littlefield territory is in full swing, and that the cotton crop is the most liberal in the season, this year's cotton crop in Lamb county at thirty-five to forty thousand bales. Reports coming into the gins and compress here, during the past week, would indicate it is safe now to expect that the cotton crop will be exceeded by 10 to 15 per cent over the earlier estimate, and that this year's crop should reach at least 50 per cent of the record crop of 1937, in spite of the fact that much of the seed this year was planted two and three times. On a careful check of the gins in Littlefield, it was found that up to late Wednesday Littlefield gins had handled about 225 bales.

The grade of this season's cotton is reported to be especially good, and much superior to last year. In an interview with T. J. Sisson of three miles northwest of Littlefield, who had brought some cotton to Littlefield Wednesday for ginning, he said: "the cotton ginned this year is as pretty as any cotton I ever saw. It is much better than last year. We didn't get much rain—it looked like we wouldn't make anything for a while, but my cotton will make half a bale to the acre. We will have more cotton this year than people at first thought." Mr. Sisson has 26 acres in cotton. Up to October 1 a total of 375 bales were ginned in Lamb county and 53 in Castro county, of the 1938 crop.

New Regulations At The Cannery

According to Mrs. J. D. Dodgen, supervisor, new rules will go into effect at the Community Cannery Monday. Instead of the cannery furnishing all the cans, it will be necessary that the producer furnish his portion of the cans. The cannery will take 15 per cent of what is canned, and those doing the work 25 per cent, which leaves 60 per cent for the producer, for which he has to furnish cans and also the produce to be canned. Mrs. Dodgen also urges all those who are planning on canning meat to get in touch with her and make appointment.

RURAL ELEC CONTRACT WILL BE LET TUESDAY

State Highway Dept. Will Put Cars Thru Safety Lane

Several representatives of the State Highway Department will be in Littlefield Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, to check all cars in this area, through a Safety Lane Survey. Sponsored by the State Department of Public Safety, this is a free service in an effort to reduce accidents by finding the defects of all automobiles. Brakes, lights, windshield wipers, wheel alignments, mufflers, exhausts etc., will be carefully checked, and the driver will be requested to correct any defect in the car. The department will have special machinery to make these tests in the Safety Lane Survey. This is not a law enforcement, but this service is important enough to the states to be recommended by the National Safety Council. All automobile owners are urged to cooperate with the state in making this survey, by having your cars checked, for it might include helping to avoid a serious accident, whereas the default in the car might be corrected before such an accident happens. Similar Safety Lane Surveys have been made on the South Plains recently.

YOUTHS MAY GET EMPLOYMENT IN FARM SECURITY

Open To Young People Of Farm Security Families

Word has been received by Miss Freddie Adkins, Home Supervisor, that the N. Y. A. will accept approvals for youths from 18 to 25 from Farm Security families for clerical work in local offices. If a young person of these ages has had some business training in High School, is not at present in school, and would like some part-time work in the Littlefield office, he or she can apply to Miss Adkins or Mr. Liner for such a position.

This will be an opportunity to young people whose families are with Farm Security and who are prepared for such a position, and it should be an encouragement to those still in school to complete their education. The person who is a High School graduate has many more possibilities of getting a good job, and a good chance to work into something better. One who has failed to get this education will have fewer advantages to progress as he or she desires. For this reason parents should encourage their children to finish their high school course, even though it may mean a great sacrifice on the part of the family.

It has been a general observation that it is the youngster who has missed a good bit of school during the early years who will drop out before he has completed his education, even though encouraged to continue his studies. For this reason it is a wise parent who keeps the children in school every day of every year except when absence is unavoidable.

SURVEYING TO GET UNDERWAY IMMEDIATELY

Will Connect Floydada With Highway No. 214

The designation of a highway extending from highway 207, south of Floydada via Littlefield to an intersection with highway 214 in Bailey county south of Muleshoe, was made last week by the State Highway Commission, Judge L. R. Crockett announced. The road is known as the east-west highway, and will connect the above named counties with a shorter route to New Mexico.

This road will shorten the route by from 75 to 100 miles in making a trip from New Mexico to Wichita Falls or Fort Worth and Dallas.

The State highway engineer has been directed by the Highway Commission to start immediately with location surveys and preparation of right-of-way deeds.

The officers of the Blanco-Canyon-South Plains Highway Association met before the State highway commission two weeks ago, and asked that this road be designated as a state highway. The association was organized about two months ago.

In regards to the approval of the designation, Judge Crockett stated, "since the association was only organized two months ago, it is unusual that the state designate a highway of this importance at the first hearing of the highway commission, however, we do appreciate the action taken and feel that Lamb county and Littlefield will be benefited greatly by the road. Although the association was not organized until two months ago, the officers of this county and the other counties have been working on the procedure for some time."

COTTON PICKING PRICES ARE SET AT FRIDAY MEET

Number Of Communities And Cities Represented At Farm Gathering

Farmers from Lamb County gathered at the Palace Theatre Friday afternoon to discuss and make plans for the fall harvest of the 1938 cotton crop.

Communities and cities represented were: Sunnysdale, Rocky Ford, Amherst, Fieldton, Lum's Chapel, Yellow House, Oklahoma Flats, Herring Gin, Amherst, Littlefield and Hart Camp. The committee members voted unanimously to recommend payment of 40 cents a hundred pounds for "snapping" cotton, when the crops are "poor" and 35 cents a hundred in good cotton. For picking it was voted to recommend 60 cents a hundred.

All committee members agreed to pay that price, and said they would recommend those prices throughout the county. It was pointed out those prices

WORTH WHILE INTEREST

As I write this—some musical friends are organizing a little symphony orchestra for Littlefield. This organization is an offspring of the Little Theatre and will be affiliated with it. Last Sunday, a group of young people met and formed an association which will devote itself to the presentation of church programs, religious plays and biblical pageants. They have already cast a playlet and are preparing to produce a pageant in which people from all the churches will take part. Three casts for the opening production of The Little Theatre, are at work rehearsing the three plays which will comprise the opening performance which is to be staged early in November.

There will be several hundred young and old people, who will be active in one or more of the organizations which have just been formed. Hundreds more will find wholesome interests and pleasure, in the varied activities of these groups; the city as a whole, will gain the esteem of people everywhere, and the entire fabric of our social lives will take on a finer and more beautiful pattern.

The eager response, from people in all walks of life, have been most gratifying to us who are trying to blaze a trail towards "WORTH-WHILE INTERESTS." We have unearthed a tremendous amount of fine talent, and it should be comparatively easy, to build up and develop, the cultural enterprises which have set forth in so promising a manner.

Perhaps, it won't be long before you'll hear Littlefield spoken of as "The City of Art, Music and Beauty", rather than, "Another Good Cotton Town."

MORE FEED CROPS

Last Saturday, George L. White shipped 825 Whiteface calves, from his ranch near Littlefield to the Kansas City market. They brought a nice premium. This fine stock was bred and raised in Lamb county, and handled at a nice profit to the shippers. Feed crops have always done well in this section, and those who are wise enough to raise ample feed for their stock have no occasion to worry.

The 4-H boys of the county, are at work writing essays on "Why We Should Feed More". This, is the subject assigned them in a prize essay contest staged by the county agricultural agent.

In discussing the needs and prospects, of farmers in this section, the county agent was very emphatic in urging more feed crops and more stock feeding in Lamb County.

Each year hundreds of farmers in this locality, either buy feed or ship their stock to feeding pens, and then bemoan the fact that profits are so meager on the ranch and farm.

It seems to us, that the sooner they get away from the single crop (cotton) idea, and divide their efforts between cotton and feed crops, the sooner they will achieve independence.

Volumes have been written on this subject by folks who know all about it and it seems presumptuous for us to make suggestions to folks who have spent their lives on farms or ranches, but this information is brought to us by experienced agriculturists who know the conditions in this territory. Any farmer or rancher, can avail himself of all the information and help from the county agents office at Amherst.

If we were trying to make a living out of the land, we'd certainly look into the question of feeding stock.

Howdy Folks:

As I listened, to the broadcast describing the entry of the German army into Sudetenland—I certainly was worried. Especially, when I heard about the people throwing bouquets at the German soldiers and officials. First I got scared—fearing that some of the mob might have some hand grenades wrapped up in a couple of the bouquets—you know the old camouflage stunt invented by the Germans in 1918; then—as the thing went along, I got worried—fearing that they mightn't do it after all.

I was invited out to dinner the other night. Just the nicest kind of folks. They were very particular to notify me that I wouldn't have to wear my swallow-tail or tuxedo suit. So—of course, I was able to go. Don't believe they're wearing high colored evening clothes this season, and my tux is turning into a window-shutter green. So—if you want me in on the party—don't make it too formal.

The fine art of—"Getting To Sleep" has been—at last, reduced to an exact science—and rather simple performance. One sleep promoter, has it worked out in eight exercises; another knock-out suggests a simple diet of milk, maltine and Vitamins X-Y-Z (No mention of cheese, lobster or ninety-proof); still another snooze expert, urges complete abstinence from food of any kind; then—of course, there is the old fashioned eclipse producer, who counsels complete relaxation. "Forget everything and do nothing," says this fogey aid to siestas. This kind o' puts us sleepovers up against a real problem. We don't know whether to eat or starve; drink or dry up; remember or forget, and—with living costs as high as they are, we can't make up our minds, to quit our work and relax. Besides—none of these experts, have been able to perfect snore-removers, or guarantee to eliminate nightmares. So—for a while at least, I'm going to stick to the old formula—not over fifteen hours of honest labor; five or six well balanced meals a day; a good feather bed, and then—let nature take its course.

There was a long spiel in one of the Sunday papers, about a school for educating people how to detect counterfeit money. Went on to describe bills of all denominations up to $100, then went on to say that U. S. banknotes were available up to $100,000 and—right here, is where the writer made a dirty crack at me. Speaking of $1000 to $100,000 bills, he said—"But of course, you wouldn't be interested in those." I resent that deeply.

All summer long, my retailing friends have been criticizing the sale advertisements that I have been preparing for them. Claimed that my stuff didn't produce enough immediate cash register results. Perhaps the fact that most of the people didn't need anything together with the fact that they didn't have any money to pay for anything, might have had something to do with weakening the pulling power of my ads. There can be no question about the beauty and perfection of the ads themselves because I wrote them myself, and I admit that they were good. In fact, every member of my family thinks they were good. Maybe I'll think up some other good alibis during the week. I'll be sure to tell you about 'em.

The Quality of Mercy

For forty years, they were wedded and "Lived as One." Last Saturday, Harry Johnson, old resident of Hewlett, N. Y., gave himself up to the authorities and in mumbled phrases, recited a soul-trying ordeal of having killed his wife—a hopeless sufferer from cancer. Through three days of suffering, the wife pleaded with her to end her life. He—at last, consented to stop agony with mercy death. He kissed her "Go Bye"—and for the first time in two years—smiled at him.

The laws of God and Man, say "THOU SHALT NOT KILL".

very intellectual and learned. All you have to do is to pack away, a few far-fetched questions, and then—at the first opportunity, drop them on some unsuspecting friend—nonchalantly.

I have made a careful survey—trying to find out whether folks are interested in questions. Out of One Hundred elderly maidens interviewed, a hundred and one, replied—"Yes—just one question."

There was a long spiel in one of the Sunday papers, about a school for educating people how to detect counterfeit money. ## EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM OUTLINED FOR FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Campaign To Lessen Fire Menace To Continue Throughout Week; Business Buildings To Be Inspected For Fire Hazards

Because fire plays a dual role in the life of mankind, that of master and destroyer, authorities have been moved to create National Fire Prevention Week. During the week of October 9 to 15, Fire Prevention Week will be observed in Littlefield. Mayor Pat Boone has issued a proclamation calling upon all citizens to observe the week by practicing safety in and out of home, office and factory. The watchword is "Be Careful and You'll Be Safe—Be Insured and You'll Be Protected."

Fire Chief Bob Cox pointed out that, "The fire department will make every effort to illustrate the dangers of fire. Lectures will be given in all city schools. In addition, we are preparing circulars and posters to be distributed during the week."

"We are also going to make inspections of the various business buildings," the chief said, "and warn owners who are negligent in their fire prevention attitude."

Proclaimed by Many
Fire Prevention Week has been proclaimed by the President of the United States and various governors and mayors of practically every state and city in the union. It will be observed throughout the nation by civic, business and fraternal organizations, industrial and mercantile establishments, schools and churches.

A hazard which takes thousands of lives annually in this country and destroys millions of dollars worth of property is a hazard which deserves the serious attention of every man, woman and child, here every where. A continuation of an educational program in fire prevention measures will go a long way in checking deaths by fire and reducing the enormous property losses incurred.

P. W. A. Helps
Elimination of fire traps is one of the aims of the P. W. A. when granting funds for new construction. The P. W. A. has been instrumental in constructing a number of fireproof or slow-burning structures. School authorities are planning fireproof constructions. They too, have built and are now building schools which are of concrete or other materials which are not combustible.

Everyone Helps
The housewife, the merchant, and the manufacturer can greatly aid the fire department by the observance of common sense safety rules. Even though covered by fire insurance, remember that there is nothing that can pay for a lost life. To control fire and prevent devastation may cost a little time and perhaps some effort but that little may save a life, a home, a town or a city. Be careful — STOP FIRE!

Cultivation results in the use of less fuel and allows more to be done. A lot about terracing and farming saving the rain where it falls about better yields as C. Hohn, specialist in water conservation of the M. College Extension has commented. "If I stopped and thought, a little common sense, I have figured out long ago some tests in Kansas that contour cultivation saves time and power. It is easier to walk up than up and down hills and to reason that a pull a plow easier on the slope than a tractor will do and use less fuel under conditions. I imagine lots of Texas could have told experiments quoted by Hohn started by the Kansas State and revealed that when a hand with an 8 percent slope was plowed on the contour as compared with 1.44 percent slope was done up and down. The actual fuel used was 11.6 pounds per acre plowed up and down the slope as compared with only 10.6 pounds per acre work was done on the contour on a 6.5 percent slope in covering 3.58 acres as compared with 3.04 acres down the slope. Similar results were obtained with various treatments and different slopes. Tests show that a man working on the contour and do 10 percent more work with 10 percent less fuel," Hohn said. "It looks like it would be worth the effort to work on the contour that angle, let alone the saving of holding our rainfall

Wildcats "Meow" Crushed By Wink 72-0 Friday

Littlefield Wildcats lacked the weight to crush those Wink players last Friday night, September 30, at Wink, where those shifty and heavy players are crushing defeat of 72-0 made Wildcats more determined to win those tornadoes at Lamesa, October 14. The locals do not play a game on their own field until November 11, when they will meet the Levelland team.

Wildcats were successful in their more arial barrages than in their ground game Friday night, keeping a lead of 73 to 15 yards gains in the air, but the Littlefield boys could not get the Wink team back a yard, then one of those four would get through the line of scrimmage and gallop down the field at a speed that was hard to stop.

With no competition before the Lamesa game, the L. H. S. Wildcats will train to beat Lamesa, and bring back the laurels lost at Wink.

Baby Cats Trampled By Plainview Jr. High Thursday

The Plainview boys proved to be a more experienced and a harder hitting team than the Littlefield grammar school Baby Cats at Seely Field Thursday night, when they blazed a victory of 31 to 6.

Captain Robert Hammons and Coach Pentecost will lead the Baby Cats against the Lubbock Junior High team at Lubbock Thursday afternoon. Next Thursday afternoon they will meet Amherst on Seely Field, in a night game.

Post Wins From Lubbock Cowhands 2 To 0 Friday

The Post Antelopes knocked over the Lubbock Cowhands 2 to 0 in a contest at Post Friday night.

After a determined march down the field, Justice shuffled through center to score before the game was four minutes old. Again in the second quarter Justice stepped off 27 yards around left end to count. Neither extra point was made.

The Antelopes were contented to let scoring go at that, but piled up a heavy margin in statistics.

They gained 258 yards rushing to 55 for the visitors, and picked up 24 yards passing to the cowhands' 20.

Ralls Jackrabbits Lose To Brownfield 12-7 At Ralls Friday

Brownfield Cubs combined long runs and a charging line to eke out a 12-7 victory over the Ralls' Jackrabbits at Ralls Friday.

Starting for the winners were C. Brown, quarterback, and R. C. Morton, half, both making long runs to put the team in scoring position. Each scored one touchdown. Jenkins failed to convert either time.

Scoring for Coach Bill McWilliams' Rabbits was Wright, back, with Parton converting. Both elevens received heavy penalties, Brownfield amassing 90 yards for various offenses and Ralls totalling 75 yards.

Anton Defeats Morton 7-0 In Home Game Friday

A blocked punt in the last period allowed Anton to defeat Morton, 7 to 0, at Anton Friday afternoon.

Sam Minton, end, scooped up the leather and lugged it across from the 10 yard line. Chester Jones, fullback, converted with a kick.

Morton's late threat did not net a score. Fumbling broke several Morton goalward jaunts. First downs were 8 to 6, Anton.

The FEUD at SINGLE SHOT

By Luke Short

NINETEENTH INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS

With his partner, Rosy Rand, Dave Turner is on his way to his ranch at Soledad. Both men are returning from prison where they have served sentences for unjust convictions. On the train, which is carrying a large sum of money, Rosy's quick action and straight shooting foils a hold-up while Dave saves the life of Martin Quinn, a gambler, who is being threatened by a desperado. Stopping at Single Shot, the sheriff tells Dave he is not wanted. Quinn defends Dave but Dave and Rand go to Soledad to meet Mary, Dave's sister, and proceed on horseback to the ranch. Mary reveals she is married and tells Dave that the ranch is doing poorly, being beset by nesters and involved in a claim dispute. Suddenly a shot from the darkness topples Dave from his horse. Rosy fires and kills the unknown assailant and they rush to the ranch to treat Dave's severe scalp wound. Next morning, at breakfast, Dave and Rosy discover that Mary is now cooking for the ranch hands—a bad sign. After discussing financial matters with Mary, Dave and Rosy saddle horses and leave for Single Shot to deliver a corpse to the sheriff and see the town banker. Identity of corpse reveals him to be ex-employee of Hammond's. Dave, Rosy and the sheriff immediately confront Hammond with facts. Fight between Hammond and Dave prevented by sheriff. Dave plans to raise alfalfa on his land and use money to pay off mortgage. Someone blew up the lake. Hammond thought it was Dave and the latter suspected Hammond or his men. A chance meeting of the two gives them an opportunity to clear away this false impression. The hunt now turns to Crowell, the mysterious man of means and ambitions. Rosy rushes to Winter's home to tell Mary of his suspicions about her husband and asks her help to prove his findings. Laredo evolves a scheme to arrest Crowell as a murder suspect in order to hold him for questioning. By a clever ruse, Dave escapes his captors and then frees Dorsey who was held prisoner for ransom.

"Mr. Pearson," Dorsey broke in from Hammond's side, "if you know anything, tell it! It's—it's awful!"
 "For God's sake, yes, Everett!" Hammond broke in gruffly.
 Pearson hung his head.
 The outer door opened and heavy footsteps trailed through the house. The porch door opened to let the sheriff in again.
 "A quick trip," Laredo said quietly.
 "Uh-huh." The sheriff rolled a cigarette and lighted it, then looked at Rosy. "Well?"
 "No go."
 The sheriff walked over to Rosy's side and stood looking down at Pearson. There was a faint smell of gunpowder on his clothes.
 "Better come along, Pearson," he growled.
 "One's enough, Hank," Hammond put in curtly.
 "It might be for you, but it ain't for me, I got elected on a oath that I'd do my best to prevent crime. If you think I'm going to let him go and have this to go through all over again, you better take a longer guess."
 "How you goin' to cover it up?"
 "Crowell's over at Pearson's place now, lyin' on the floor with a gun in his hand," the sheriff said bluntly. "Pearson can be across the room with a gun in his hand when I come in with my deputy in the mornin' after the bank asks me to find him. Just a plain case of two men shootin' each other."
 He turned to face Pearson, but the banker had crumbled.
 "Oh, God, get him away!" Pearson moaned through his hands. He crawled down the bed against the wall, where he huddled like a small boy fearing punishment. "I did it! I did it! Get him away!"
 The sheriff made his way out of the room.
 "I reckon it begins with the train hold-up, don't it, Pearson?" Dave asked.
 Pearson nodded. "How did you know that?"
 "That ranny by the name of Chinch out at Sayres' place," Dave said.
 Quinn frowned then turned to Pearson. "The money in the baggage car was goin' to your bank, was it?"
 Pearson nodded. "Crowell gave Sayres the order to stick up the train. Part of the money would be given to Sayres, and the rest turned over to me. You see that money was insured. I would get that same amount back from the insurance company—"
 "And about three-quarters of what was stolen back from Sayres through Crowell, is that it?" Quinn said.

 "That's it," Pearson said.
 The porch door opened and Crowell stepped into the room, prodded by the sheriff's gun.
 Pearson's jaw slacked and he stared at Crowell.
 Rosy grinned at Pearson.
 Crowell walked to his seat by Pearson, glaring at the sheriff.
 "Want to go on?" Rosy said to Pearson.
 The banker shook his head.
 Rosy grinned. "It's a little too late to stop, now, I reckon. You've confessed to robbin' a train and falsifyin' reports to the insurance company. That ought to be worth about twenty years apiece in the pen."
 Still Pearson said nothing.
 "Maybe it's that you don't want to mix Crowell in this? Is that it?" Rosy asked. He laughed softly. "I reckon you will, though, Pearson. To begin with, you couldn't stand to see Crowell turned loose, freed, while you were servin' a life term in the pen, could you? He did all the dirty work, was responsible for all the crimes and he goes free. It ain't fair, is it?"
 "Maybe he'll send you some tobacco around Christmas time," Rosy taunted.
 "He will not!" Pearson suddenly snarled. "He'll go with me!"

Crowell's fist drove into Pearson's face and Rosy leaped on the two figures. Crowell struggled as if insane, clawing Pearson's face in a maniacal rage, kicking, biting and cursing impotently. Laredo stepped in to help Rosy and after a mild clubbing with gun barrels, Crowell gave up.
 Rosy and Laredo sat down again. "Let's have it, one of you," Rosy said.
 Both men began to habble at once.
 "Pearson, let's hear you first. No. Wait." Rosy's eyes sought Dave, and he leaned over to him. "What about it?" he asked softly, motioning to Mary.
 "Is it about Ted?" Mary asked calmly.
 Dave nodded.
 "I'd rather hear it now," Mary said.
 Pearson drew a long breath and began. "It starts when I offered to buy the Draw Three, Buck," he said to Hammond. "You remember when I had the expert come look at it? He told me there was gold there, lots of it, but that you were missing most of it. He said it would be over to the north more, in the quartz. So I tried to loan you enough money so that the control of the mine would be in hands. It didn't work."

 "And there's gold there now?" Hammond asked incredulously.
 "Enough to make you rich," Pearson said. He addressed Rosy again. "Then I got hold of Winters. He tried to forge a check once and I caught him."
 Rosy looked at Mary. Her eyes were moist but her chin was up. "Was that before he was married?" he asked.

"Yes."
 "Why didn't you prosecute him?"
 "I can always use men that have brains but no courage," Pearson said. "I was repaid, all right. A little while after he had been married, he came to me with the story of gold on the Turner place. He wanted me to buy the place from his wife and Turner, and then we'd work it together. That was when I conceived my plan. I wanted a man with brains, with courage, with resourcefulness—and who was poor. Crowell fitted that order. He was out to get rich, and when I found him in Walpais, I knew my scheme would work. Crowell was a gambler—and a poor one."
 "A fool, you mean," Crowell said.

"So I was careful to work it all out," Pearson said. "I knew that Sayres was a blackguard, and that he could be bought. So I put Crowell up as my front, for I was to remain unknown. Crowell tried to buy the D Bar T from Mrs. Winters. She wouldn't sell. He tried to buy the Draw Three. Hammond wouldn't sell. I knew of the quarrel over the lake, and that fitted into my scheme to perfection. I thought if the lake was blown out, both the ranch and the mine would be ruined, and that Turner and Hammond would both sell to Crowell. Winters was to persuade Mrs. Winters."
 "And he was cheating you all the time," Quinn put in quietly. "He was mining that gold on the sly and selling it, and gambling the money away." He told them of his discovery of the room Winters kept in the barber shop and the source of his money. "That's why I went to see you this afternoon, Pearson. And"—he smiled slightly—"that's what's goin' to get you hung."
 "Why?" Rosy cut in.
 "Because Pearson told Winters I was snooping around and Winters decided to kill me before I found out too much and told Pearson." He told them of the note, and the killing in the hotel room. The sheriff listened intently, nodding his satisfaction. "And when I caught this Jasper that was Winters down in the alley, the job finished, "we had it out. I told him. Then I knew Winters had learned about me from two people—Sam, the barber, Pearson. And Sam was too tight to talk. So I headed for my son's."

Rosy looked at him for a moment, then turned to Pearson. "Go on."
 "I'll go on," Crowell rapped sneering at Pearson. "Let me about this Eastern genius. Turner was ready to blow when D Bar T home. When Pearson heard Turner coming home, he had a nerve. He hired Freeman to whack Dave, and make it look like Hammond did it. Then he had Sayres blow the lake out. When Hammond wouldn't sell, even then I ordered Dorsey Hammond to sell. Hammond would have to get the mine to get the money to pay her, and of course, Pearson's that I would give Hammond the mine would go to Sayres and then to me and then to Pearson's account at Pearson. "He even ordered D Bar T spread burned, for Winters would be frightened by selling her half the place."
 "And I was to be murdered?"
 Dave put in quietly, "Murdered by those whippoorwills of Sayres who tortured me into signing away my half."

"C'mon," the sheriff said to the two of them. "Put on your hands." He leaned over his desk to handcuff them together.
 With the swiftness of a cobra, Crowell whipped one of Ludo's guns out of the sheriff's belt and pointed it at the sheriff's well backed away a few feet across the bed, his gun nosing around at his captors.

He was laughing quietly, and insanely, in the still room.
 "You'll never make it, Crowell," Rosy said softly. "You'll only get one of us before we cut down on you."

YOUR MILEAGE MERCHANT backs up his personal assurance of easy winter starting and oil economy by OIL-PLATING YOUR ENGINE —more than an oil change!

JUST because this is in print instead of coming direct from Your Mileage Merchant's lips doesn't change the fact that he backs every word personally. How does he go through with that? By giving your engine the only OIL-PLATING. That's not mere words; it's what patented Conoco Germ Processed oil does.

Activated by an added man-made compound—added to oil's best natural qualities—added to the best refining—this exclusive Germ Processed oil adds itself direct to the inner engine surfaces... unites so thoroughly that every working part stays constantly OIL-PLATED.

Does the chrome plating on the bumpers drain down every time your car stops? Neither does OIL-PLATING in your engine. When you want to start up again, after hours of wintry parking—after nights or even weeks in the coldest garage—you've got ready lubrication faster than instantly!—in advance of the fastest oil-circulation. For drain-proof OIL-PLATING has stayed lastingly plated all the way up, to make things slide lightly and swiftly for your starter and battery. That also tells you why you're rid of costly starting wear. And OIL-PLATING stays in as long as you use Germ Processed oil. The gauge-stick backs Your Mileage Merchant!

"HOLD THAT CO-ED" TO BE SHOWN AT PALACE OVER THIS WEEK END

If you can imagine John Barrymore as a budget-bouncing, co-ed-chasing governor who mixes good football with bad statercraft, you will begin to get a rough idea of the uproaring going-on at the Palace Theatre, where "Hold That Co-Ed" will open Saturday midnight and continue through Sunday and Monday, with George Murphy, Marjorie Weaver, Joan Davis and Jack Haley all contributing generously to what is probably the funniest comedy of recent months. Although they don't call it a musical, 20th Century-Fox has liberally punctuated the hilarious proceedings with several lively new songs. For those who take their football seriously there are some of the most exciting gridiron sequences ever screened. And for those who don't, there is Joan Davis — who turns out to be the world's best goal-kicker and, as far as we know, the only female full-back in existence!

The story of "Hold That Co-Ed" is particularly topical in view of the medicine-show electroneering seen around the country lately. Barrymore appropriates $10,000,000 of the taxpayers' money to build up the state university—and particularly, its football team, the idea being that a winning team will bring him tremendous publicity for his forth-coming election campaign.

If "Hold That Co-Ed" may be considered as an example of what the studios mean when they say "Motion Pictures Are Your Best Entertainment," there can be no argument whatever with the industry's current slogan. Played to the hilt by as fine a cast of entertainers as you could ask for it is a mischievously conceived film, half satire and half farce, that skips along light-heartedly from start to finish.

Salvation Army Secures Loan For Building

Captain Eula Trummell of the Littlefield Salvation Army has been notified that a loan will be secured for the completion of the Armory for the local Salvation Army, and the money is available now for this loan. The loan will come from the headquarters in Dallas, Capt. Trummell was informed by Brigadier Wm. George Gilks, who gave the local army permission to receive a nominal amount to complete the building.

The work has been started, and Capt. Trummell reported that she did not know how much money would be needed to complete the building according to the plans, since much of the labor will be donated. The building will be stuccoed, partition will be put in the basement, the ceiling of the Chapel will be sealed and a concrete porch and steps will be put at the front. The building was started several months ago.

India Missionary Guest Speaker At Auxiliary Meeting

The Ladies Auxiliaries of the various churches were guests of the Methodist Missionary Society Monday afternoon in the Fellowship room of the Methodist church. The room was beautifully decorated with autumn cut flowers. The Denmark, American and India flag were on a pedestal in honor of the guest speaker, Mrs. T. M. Wiley, a native of Denmark, who has been a missionary of India for 16 years.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Van Clark. The group sang in unison, "We've a Story to Tell the Nation."

PICK-UPS ABOUT THE SCHOOLS

The primary tots have smiling faces this week, after their achievements were attained in publishing the Primary News, the latest thing in newspapers for Littlefield, that will be printed each week on a hectograph. Determined not to be out-done by the high school journalism students, the boys and girls put their heads together, and declared, "we'll have a paper of our own." The teachers report that they already show signs of great journalistic ability. They sell their papers for one cent each, and they have important news, as "James Ball has a cow of his own. . . We are going to have a birthday party Friday. . . It is for Johnnie, Donna Joy and Maxine. . . They are 7 years old. . . Meiba Joyce went to the circus in Lubbock and saw many funny animals."

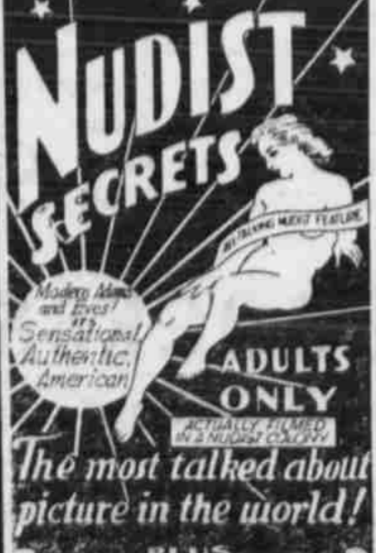

The grammar school students will soon publish a paper of their own, too.

The grammar school pep squad has a total of 80 members, and Linda Beth Stokes, Frances Budd, Pearl Louise McMinn, and Patsy Batton have been chosen leaders.

Free first aid supplies for the school were approved by the Parent-Teachers Association. A room has been furnished at the high school for the Dean of Girls office, and will be used for those stu-

After the mid-week Bible study at the Church of Christ on Littlefield Drive, Wednesday night, September 28, those present were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bigham, for a surprise pounding for Bro. Troy Cummings, pastor, and Mrs. Cummings.

The articles brought was placed in the back yard, that was beautifully lighted and where chairs and tables were arranged for serving hot chocolate and cake. Bro. and Mrs. Cummings were then asked to go to the back yard, where they were surprised when presented with the gifts. There were about 45 present.

Missionary Of North India Addresses Groups

A large crowd attended the service at the First Methodist church Sunday night to hear Mrs. T. M. Wiley of Lubbock, who was a Missionary in India for 16 years.

"The Mohammedans are eager to know about Christ," Mrs. Wiley said, "and in order that one might understand their religion, it is necessary to study their books and learn their language."

Mrs. Wiley had a large selection of costumes and curios that she displayed, and told of the customs of the Indian People. She is a Dane, and was reared in Denmark. She was sent as a Missionary by the Lutheran church to North India, where she met Mr. Wiley, who was a Presbyterian Missionary from the United States.

She gave an address to the Women's Missionary Society Monday afternoon, and Tuesday afternoon, she told of her experiences in India to the school students.
