They have been telling a story of a recent discovery of a pain-killing ointment by a famous Columbus dentist professor that, by using on the newly-discovered (alleged) pain-killing ointment, the dentist may drill on a person's tooth with little pain to the patient. Littlefield dentists, too, heard of the discovery and by the time the news was spread over the front pages of the country's leading newspapers the local dentists were using it on their patients. In an interview with the local dentists it was learned that the ointment could be used only to lessen the pain in drilling and was not used in extraction work.

Eligible Workers Are Urged To Report To WPA Projects

According to Duanne Orr, County Engineer, about 150 men, who have been assigned for work on the various WPA road projects, within the past three weeks, have not reported for work.

Mr. Orr stated that W. E. Burke, WPA Supervisor of Projects and Planning, was in Littlefield Wednesday, looking over the employment situation, and stated that unless more men, who had been assigned to these road projects, reported for work, it would be necessary to shut down some of the projects now underway, which do not have full crews, and transfer the men employed so that whatever projects are underway will have men enough to do the necessary work. These projects, Mr. Orr, stated are all running with short crews to do the work.

Various Matters Discussed At Tuesday's Meeting

W. D. T. Storey, vice-president, presided at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting Tuesday noon, in the absence of the president, Pat Boone.

Joe Hale, secretary manager, reported on the tree planting project, stating the government had 3700 trees at the CCC Camp, and suggesting that the Chamber of Commerce secure some of these trees for planting along Highway No. 7, stating the official in charge of planting these trees would be in Littlefield shortly, and would be pressing this section for trees to plant.

Mr. Hale reported on the receipt of a letter from H. H. Wright, a Houston Senior High School student of the Woodworking Department stating that he was contemplating making a "Texas Centennial Table," which would be a modernistic, octagonal, drum type table with the map of Texas, with all of its counties inlaid in the top, each county being made of wood from that particular county, and asking that he be sent one or more pieces of wood from this county.

It was suggested at the meeting that Lamb county send mesquite.

More than half the crimes committed in Indiana in the last six years were by persons under 30.

TO PLACE LAMB COUNTY ON CENTENNIAL TABLET

At the Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday, it was announced that H. H. Wright, Houston High School student, of the Woodworking Department, had written the Chamber of Commerce stating he was planning to make a "Texas Centennial Table," which is to be a modernistic, octagonal, drum type table with the map of Texas, with all of its counties inlaid in the top, each county being made of wood from that particular county, and asking that he be supplied with one or more pieces of wood from Lamb county. In Mr. Wright's letter he explained the project as follows: "First, I want to make as many counties as possible from wood that has a historical background. For example: The Davy Crockett tree which stands in the City of Crockett, named after that illustrious hero whose tragic death made him an ideal of patriotism. On his journey from Tennessee to San Antonio, just a few weeks before his death in the massacre of the Alamo, Davy Crockett made camp and slept beneath the protecting branches of this tree. The "tree of justice" which stands at Columbus. It was under this aged liveoak that the first district court of Texas was held. Perhaps you know of a tree or a building in your county that has a historical story. "Secondly, it would not do to make several adjoining counties of the same color of wood, because they

WHO OWNS THE UNITED STATES?

Address delivered by W. J. Cameron of the Ford Motor Co. During the January 12 Ford Sunday Evening Hour Over the Coast-to-Coast Network of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Friends of the Sunday Evening Hour;

Recently we described as mischievous the assertion that the rich 2 per cent of the people own 86 to 90 per cent of the nation's wealth. Forced upon popular credulity by systematic repetition, it is time it were challenged. Who owns the United States? Who owns the homes and farms and personal property, the stores and factories, the money stock and the debts of the United States? Use 1929 or 1933 statistics, it doesn't matter. There are the same number of homes and farms and productive facilities and people, the same amount of land, whether the national wealth is 460 billion dollars, the estimate for 1929, or 320 billions, the estimate for 1933. Who gets the income of the United States? Who controls the productive and distributive process? Tonight we can deal only with ownership.

In 1929 the largest single block of wealth, 22 per cent of the whole, was dwellings, the homes of the people, valued at 102 billion dollars. Who owns them? Next in volume of wealth were the farms at 58 billion dollars, or 12 per cent of the whole. Who owns those farms? Next comes personal property—clothing, household furnishings, jewelry, automobiles—amounting to 49 1-2 billion dollars, or 11 1-2 per cent of the national wealth. All of us recognize that ownership of these is almost entirely with individuals.

Of the 25 million houses and lots in this country, 17 million are owned by their occupants, most of the others are the small investments of the same individuals. In cities, 70 per cent of this property is free of mortgage, and banks hold only one-fifth of such mortgages as exist. Of the 6 million farms, 3 1-2 million are owned by the men who operate them, and 600,000 of these owners rented additional land. Almost two-thirds of our crop land is owned by the farmers who harvest it. But what about the farm mortgage? In 1930 the mortgaged farms were worth 21 billion dollars and the mortgages less than 7 billion dollars. About 30 per cent of the farm mortgage claim was held by farmers themselves, active and retired; 32 per cent by farmers' local financial institutions and insurance companies, and 19 per cent by government agencies. The 1932 turnover in farm ownership was 8 per cent, only half of that being due to bankruptcy. As a source of disaster the farm mortgage seems comparatively small. The farmers debt in 1933 was in better shape than the government or corporation debt. Again, personal property of nearly 50 billion dollars' value is almost completely owned by its users. Take the 25,000,000 automobiles for example. About 38 per cent of them are paid for when bought; 96 1-2 per cent of installment purchases result in full ownership. From

It always works

Just do what hospitals do, and the doctors insist on. Use a liquid laxative, and you can bring yourself to clocklike regularity without strain or ill effect.

A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the secret of any real relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has become. It gives the right kind of help, and right amount of help. Taking a little less each time, gives the bowels a chance to act of their own accord, until they are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that form no habit. The action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve any sluggishness or bilious condition due to constipation without upset.

How Cardui Helps Women To Build Up

Cardui stimulates the appetite and improves digestion, helping women to get more strength from the food they eat. As nourishment is improved, strength is built up, certain functional pains go away and women praise Cardui for helping them back to good health. . . Mrs. C. E. Ratliff, of Hinton, W. Va., writes: "After the birth of my last baby, I did not seem to get my strength back. I took Cardui again and was soon sound and well. I have given it to my daughters and recommend it to other ladies."—Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

facts like these it is impossible to create a creditor class lordling it over a debtor class.

Add to these the 2 per cent of the national wealth represented by a million and a half retail stores—you know that nine-tenths of the stores are little stores, the property or business or both of individuals. Add another 5 per cent for local business buildings,—offices, warehouses, repair shops, clubs—and you have accounted for over 50 per cent of the national wealth. Add to this the wealth we own collectively, the churches, schools, colleges, libraries, museums, parks, government property, and it grows to 58 per cent.

Then we come to what is called corporate wealth. Take public utilities and transportation; together they account for 14 per cent of the wealth, normally 63 billion dollars. Their ownership is distributed among 12 million people—45 per cent of them women—so widely distributed that Government has based a policy on that fact. Manufacturing constitutes 9 per cent of the nation's wealth, or 42 1-2 billion dollars. It consists normally of 200,000 factories with their equipment. Most of the factories are small places owned by one or several persons; 145,000 factories, or 72 1-2 per cent, produce each less than $100,000 worth of goods a year. The rest are the big industries. The Ford Motor Company alone deals with 5,300 other concerns, more than half of which are capitalized for less than $75,000. Conservatively computing the private individual share in these things, we have this—about 72 per cent of the nation's wealth is held by ordinary individual owners.

That disposes of the falsehood that while our people were working and rearing their families and minding their own business, this country was stolen from them. It has been worth while to clear up that point. If you live in long settled parts you can confirm this by personal observation in your own street, or town or countryside. But it doesn't really change anything. The wealth of the country is not owned by a handful of people, but that does not solve our difficulty. It only brings us point blank against the fact that, divided rightly or divided wrongly, there is not enough wealth anyway—not enough, under any division, to permit every American family the standard of life we cherish. Rich as our country is, and no nation is richer, it is yet too poor,—even in its prosperity it is too poor—to realize our common ideal of an opportunity and cultural margin for all. Reduce all the wealth to an exact equality, and even then our economic supply does not anywhere near equal our economic requirement. That is a pill to national pride, but a tonic medicine if we will render it easily accessible; and much more, that the very abundance and overflow of production will adequate distribution.

Complete step by step sewing instructions accompany the pattern, available in Sizes: 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 3 1-4 yards of 39 inch fabric plus 1-2 yard contrast.

PATTERN 8694: The youthful accent of this pert and pleasing model makes it a favorite for campus and classroom wear and for the teas and informal afternoon parties which follow.

Its fashion interest is centered in a ruffled collar and cuff set, detachable and thus easily laundered and easily varied with alternate sets. Utterly simple in design and construction in all respects, there are no trick details to baffle the inexperienced sewer. No end of service will follow the selection of a semi-sheer but durable fabric.

MY IMPRESSION OF HIGH SCHOOL

By Mollie Carter

No longer than I have been in high school, I have not decided definitely what impression it will have upon me. Although there is quite a bit pushing in the halls, probably due to the fact that they are so narrow, the classes are conducted in an orderly way.

Most of the students are friendly, also, and that will help us to get acquainted more easily with both teachers and students.

MY IMPRESSION OF HIGH SCHOOL

I have only been in High School but a short time and no longer than what I have been in High School I like just fine. The teachers and students all seem to be kind and friendly. The halls are very crowded, but in spite of everything, I like High School just fine.

Home Demonstration Notes

SOD YOUR LAWN
"I want to get the yard broken up soon, in preparation for grass planting in the spring," says Mrs. Tom Ham, yard demonstrator of the Yellow House Home Demonstration Club.

The yard will be broken up early and the soil mellowed and pulverized in the same way as garden soil. Then in April the lawn will be sodded or sown with Bermuda grass. A well sodded lawn not only adds beauty to a home but helps to hold the sand and saves the house keeper much house cleaning.

USE SHRUBS TO BREAK LINE
Chinese elm trees will be moved from the front of the house to the side, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Hanks, yard demonstrators of the Rubydale Home Demonstration Club.

These trees will be set along with trees already placed on the west about seventy feet from the house to form a windbreak. The line formed by the trees will be broken by group plantings of shrubs to make a more natural informal planting which will be in keeping with rural setting.

SCREENING THE OUT-BUILDINGS
Plum trees are to be used to screen the barn, other out-buildings, and farm machinery from view at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Drake, yard demonstrators of the Center Home Demonstration Club.

The plum sprouts are to be taken from the orchard and set in the alley at the back of the house in the broken planting to abstract the view from the road to the out-buildings, the trees will not be trimmed, but will be allowed to produce a thick growth from the ground up.

MAKE YOUR HOUSE THE CENTER OF INTEREST ALWAYS
Trees planted in front will be moved to the side and back of the house at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Thomas, yard improvement Demonstrators of the Westbrook Home Demonstration Club.

Trees planted in front abstract the view from the road, and tend to divide the center of interest. If the trees are planted at the side and back they make a frame and a background for the house and make it the center of interest.

MAKE PERMANENT FOUNDATION PLANTINGS
Foundation plantings of permanent shrubs will be made around the house of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. B. Roberts, Yard Improvement Demonstrators of the Spade Home Demonstration Club.

Shrubs varying in texture, form height, and color, will be used in this planting. Tall ones will be placed at the corners and between windows, while lower ones will be used at windows and at the front. Such a planting will break the hard line formed by the foundation of the house and will not have to be planted each year.

Spade Longhorns Defeat Spring Lake
The Spade Longhorns defeated the Springlake Wolverines Tuesday night, February 4 on the Sudan gym by a score of 37 to 30.

The game was close until the last few minutes. Spade taking the lead by a margin of 7 points.

CATS LOSE TO SUDAN HORNETS; KITTIES EDGE OUT HORNETS

Mentor John R. Tucker's Sudan Hornets took an easy victory from the Littlefield Wildcats in a basketball game played here last Friday night by a score of 63 to 28.

On the same evening the Littlefield Kitties edged a two point lead over on the visiting Hornettes. In spite of the fact that Stellar Opal Carpenter was disqualified in the first quarter the Kitties held their own against a determined offense throughout the game. Guards Wharton, Edwards and L. Carpenter showed plenty of nerve and skill in passing the ball for a "time killer" to prevent the possibility of the opponents scoring. Final count in the feminine tilt was 30 to 28, Littlefield.

The Kitties will play in the county tournament at Spade this week end.

The class arrived and entered the store, each one was very busy with fine exhibit of material display. Almost every counter in the store held varieties of beautiful materials at the very low price one could reasonably expect. They found satins, taffetas, linens, sheer materials, organdies, laces, flaxons, and every material that one could find for the various types of dresses, and on each very carefully selected bolt of material was a pattern suitable for that sort of material.

SECOND GRADE NEWS

The children in Miss Teel's room have been studying Community Life since Christmas. They learned how the farmer helps us to live. Each child made a booklet about the work of the farmer and his family. Reading charts about the story of wool, wheat, cotton, and milk were dictated by the children to be used for reading material. Many pictures of farm machinery were brought to school. Riddles about the farm animals were written and illustrated with pictures. The class visited a threshing machine and then went to the elevator to see how the grain was stored there.

When this work was finished, the children wished to know how the city people help us. Picture books on the reading table aroused great interest in such helpers as the fireman, postman, policeman, etc. Some onesuggested that we build a city. Each child chose the work he wished to do. For two weeks, they have been real carpenters. The city has been completed in every detail. It has been named Roosevelt City. It now lies under a blanket of snow.

The children have invited parents and friends to come see it. They are exceedingly proud of it and have every right to be.

Betty Jo Chandler returned to school this week but is out again with the mumps.

Miss Bonnie K. Depart of Texas Tech came over Tuesday to meet with the Primary Teachers. She visited the rooms and gave very helpful suggestions in regard to the teaching of activity units.

FIFTH INSTALMENT

SYNOPSIS — A luxurious five-month cruise around the world aboard the "Marenia" brings together a group of passengers for adventures, romance, entertaining — and tragic — Like in "Grand Hotel" these passengers offer a study in human actions and reactions which unconsciously bare their souls — These characters are aboard the ship: Macduff, dour Scotchman, single, of middle age; Miss Mudge, school teacher, spending the savings of 20 years; Angela, faithful wife of Lovat, gigolo; Dick Charlton, first officer; Clare, a person of experience; Joan, a dissipated flapper; Jenny, run-away wife and Peter; Captain Baring, master of the ship — and his soul—NOW, GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Stealthily Joan started toward Dick's stateroom, then stopped to survey the situation. The rotunda was rather wavy tonight. She lowdled among the plants, dipping her fingers in the water. She must remember sometime to catch a goldfish and take it to her room. Mr. Stein had told her that he had put one in his pocket, and it had wigged so much that he had flung it overboard into the sea. Joan laughed out loud. She liked people who did things like that. Joan moved slowly away from the fountain and knocked at Dick's door. It was opened at once, but not in a friendly way. "Joan, you here? What do you want?"

"You've no business to come here," he said.

"I want to talk to you. Let me in."

Dick looked down the corridor; he was annoyed.

"All right, come in, but you've no business to come here. I've told you so repeatedly."

Joan straightened up. "Don't be ridiculous, Dick," she told him, solemnly. "I can't think why you're so severe. You're not cut out to be a reformer."

She walked in, ignoring his frowning brows, and seated herself on the sofa. Taking her time about it, she crossed her legs and lit a cigarette.

"Got any brandy?" she asked.

"Yes," said Dick, shortly. "Want some?"

He poured out two liqueurs and drank his own in sips.

"Why aren't you crossing India?" he asked her.

"Because I didn't want to."

What did she mean by that? He watched her thoughtfully. "Tell me about yourself, Joan," he said, abruptly.

"Tell you what?"

"Oh, everything—who you are, what you are, why you are? Don't think me rude, I'm interested."

"Do you care, really?"

"I'd like to know. It might help me to understand you."

"Old Southern family, boarding-schools, beaux, plenty of money one day, and not a sou the next," said Joan, flippantly. "And love in abundance, if that's what you choose to call it. It's been hectic enough, but not very satisfying."

Dick watched the pulse that throbbed in her throat, the ripeness of her lips, her disordered red hair, the shadowy hollow of her boom.

"I've never done anything with my life," Joan went on, "just messed about, staying up late every night and sleeping every morning—killing time in between. Restaurants, speak-easies, the theatre and places to dance—forgetfulness for a little while. I was caught in a tangle of excitement before I knew what I was doing, Dick, and here I am, gay at night, and ready to kill myself when I waken up in the morning."

Joan held up her glass, watching it through the light with fingers that trembled. She walked over and sat on the arm of Dick's chair, more sober now than when she had come into the room. How hard it was to make him understand the middle of her life! Always meaning to make things better, always sinking a little lower.

She curved her arm around his neck and leaned her cheek against his temples. Gently she stroked his hair, and let her lips stray over his face in caressing butterfly kisses. Dick sat without moving, until her mouth reached his. Then he seized her firmly and swung her into the circle of his arms.

"Cherub," he murmured, "you get your way, don't you? I ought to slap you, but instead you've forced me to make love to you." He caught her roughly in his arms.

Next morning he regarded her coldly across the breakfast table in the dining-room, regretting his impulse of the night before.

Joan looked appealingly at him across the table, dimly aware of his thoughts. What did love mean to her, anyway? Nothing, except the excitement of the chase. It was really only when she was tipsy that she abandoned herself to the more advanced stages of love. What a long procession of men had loved her once, and slipped out of her life, while she waited at home for their telephone calls! It sickened Joan to think of it. She had been jilted so often that fear was a fixation with her now. Yes, she was a mess.

Now Dick! Joan helped herself to marmalade and thought that he was the most attractive man she had ever known—just as she had suspected. He did not need to be that was painfully obvious. He had lived people who knew their lives and control their destinies.

Dick was looking at her. Miserable, she turned away.

Conoco Hot On Trail Of Motor Oil Burglars
Ponca City, Okla., Feb. 11.—Burglars who break into Continental Oil Company service stations and buick stations and carry away merchandise are writing themselves a one-way ticket to the penitentiary.
Recent activities of oil theft and market rings now operating in southwestern states have caused Continental to declare war on this type of criminal.
By employing specially trained investigators and cooperating closely with local officials, Conoco has already succeeded in apprehending and securing the conviction of a number of bulk station burglars, many of them having previous criminal records.
Four year terms in the Oklahoma penitentiary at McAlester were recently given two men convicted of entering a Conoco warehouse at Sulphur, Okla., and stealing 25 cases of Conoco germ processed motor oil. Both were trailed through several counties before they were apprehended. One of the criminals was on parole from a California prison.

Promenade—

his sagacious scrutiny. Suddenly Dick felt touched. It gave him no pleasure to see anyone unhappy or disappointed. He knew, from his experience with women, that the worst hurt of all was frustration, for it touched them in their pride. Besides, she couldn't help it.
"Joan," he said, catching her arm as she left the dining-room, "I want you to take the pledge for a little while and behave yourself."
"Don't be funny," she said.
Dick shook her impatiently. "Don't wise-crack, Joan. It doesn't become you. I'm in earnest. You've got to stop drinking, and I'm going to make you."

She flashed him a wistful glance. "It's no use, Dick; I'm sunk. It's the only relief I have. I'd do anything for you, but not that."
"Promise me you will for a week." His voice was urgent. Joan laughed in his face.
"All right; it's a go," she said, "beginning today. Watch me."
"Good girl!"

Funny, thought Dick, walking away from the dining-room, he was teaching one woman to drink and another to swear off. Undoubtedly it was the right prescription in both cases. He couldn't imagine that Miss Mudge was ever going to touch a drop when she returned to the States. Meanwhile, it would be a pity if she went home to Ontario without a few memories of downright wickedness.

It was a great relief to have all these people off the boat. Three weeks of comparative freedom! His face was puckered with the sun as he moved away from the rail and passed a row of empty deck chairs. Hello! here was Miss Mudge, still on the boat for some mysterious reason, and under one's feet as usual. Today she was dressed in some sort of gingham thing — her tropical costume—with a hat like a coal scuttle upside down. God! how he hated white cotton stockings. He stopped at her side and greeted her.
"Hello! You here?"

Miss Mudge was blushing violently. She sat up straight, and the stockings disappeared from view over the side of her chair. Was he dreaming, or had she paint on her cheeks at broad noonday, and shockingly misapplied? Good for Miss Mudge? She was getting on, Lipstick and sheer stocking next.
"I'm surprised to see you still on the boat," he said. "I thought you'd be on your way across India by this time."

Miss Mudge's responsive face was suddenly lost in a cloud. She rustled her papers, then lifted her head with a perky air and answered him: "No I'm not going across India. I'm staying right here on the boat."
He checked an exclamation of surprise.

"That's topping," he said. "We're going to have fun together. I always stay with the boat, so I shall show you Bombay. Shall we start tonight?"
Miss Mudge brightened, like a lamp that has just been lit. "That's very kind of you, Mr. Charlton. I'm sure India couldn't be any better than the Holy Land."

"Were you so impressed by that?"
"More than words can tell." Her voice sank to an awed whisper. "Jerusalem was just like the coloured Bible scrolls we used to have in our Sunday school. It seemed so strange, after all these centuries, to see men walking the cobbled streets with their crooks and their beards, and looking the same as they did in our Lord's day. And I'll never forget the night we drove up from the Dead Sea and thought we saw the Star of Bethlehem. Agatha always wanted to see Gethsemane and the River Jordan, so I've brought her a bottle of water from the river. Agatha's never even been to New York."
Miss Mudge's voice trailed off in a diminuendo of feeling. Yes, the Holy Land had glamour.

The train whirled through the Indian night and dust poured in the windows like desert sand. Angela lay awake, staring at the shadows on the ceiling in the stuffy compartment she shared with Patty and Mrs. Minton. Pounding wheels beat on her brain, disturbingly different from the vibration of the boat. Patty tossed uneasily on her hard bed behind the green curtain that shut her off from Angela. Her aunt slept peacefully, with all her anxious night behind her in the past.

"Patty," whispered Angela, "are you asleep, dear? I thought I heard you tossing."

"No, I'm wide awake and chock-ing with dust."
"Isn't it frightful? It's right down to my lungs. Why aren't you sleeping?"

"Oh, I have a little demon at work. I can't close my eyes. Aunt Nell is sleeping like the dead. She always does. It's an easy conscience. Toss me a cigarette, Angela, please."
"Perhaps if we were to put out this beastly corridor light things would be better. It's just like a green eye winking in on us."
"Here's my scarf. Hang it over the transom."
"That's a bright idea. I don't suppose it will stick."

Patty's strong young arms manoeuvred a temporary screen and she lay quiet, in darkness that was now complete. "Angela," she said at last, "I'm going straight out to the Taj the minute we arrive at Agra, for the moonlight is perfect tonight and we mightn't catch it again. Tomorrow night it might rain."
None of them felt like luncheon when they returned to their hotel from seeing the taz and the Ganges at Agra, India.

They found Macduff at work on a new kind of cocktail. He was getting on with his list. He had crossed off the Blue Blazer in Jerusalem, the Sidecar at Shepherd's, the Jaberwock at the Mena House, the Bombay Special at Bombay, the Thundercap at Agra, and was now due to try the Union Jack at Benares.

He had decided not to go out on the Ganges, for he had been there before and knew the worst. In any event, he had a poor opinion of a race that did not drink. He was enjoying himself considerably and had no desire to look at the spindly legs of so many miserable men. It pleased him to sit on a wide and shady veranda with a glass in front of him, and a fakir trying to screw a penny out of his pocket. Macduff chuckled to himself at the mere idea of anyone getting a farthing for nothing from him. He was really enjoying the voyage more than he would admit. The roisterers were settling down, and nobody bothered him now. Miss Mudge was a bore — too skitterish. He had avoided her ever since Monte Carlo. Mrs. Wyant seemed like a sensible person, but he thought it dangerous to pass the time of day to any woman on a boat; she might turn out to be another Mrs. Langford.

His place in the bar was sacred now. He had glared every intruder out of his corner seat, and it was just as much boycotted as if a placard were up: "Reserved for Macduff. The dog will bite."

For some one who never spoke to a soul, Macduff had extensive knowledge of his fellow passengers. He spotted many things they did not know about one another—that was one of the advantages of sitting back and holding one's tongue. Life would be simple for a great many people if only there were less talk.
Macduff downed his fourth and rose in a mellow mood to eat his luncheon. As chance would have it, there wasn't a vacant chair in the place, except across from Mrs. Wyant. He sat down and reached for the menu.

"Good-morning, Mr. Macduff. Have you been on the river?" Angela inquired, turning her dark eyes full on his face. Macduff had never had any trouble in being rude, and had cut more cordial advances than this, but the four Union Jacks were behind him, the sun was bright, and he liked the way that Angela did her hair. He thought he would un-bend.
"No," he said.
"I suppose you've seen it before and then it doesn't matter. I took Patty Arundel with me, and it made her ill. Hygiene, you know. They teach the American young that cleanliness is far ahead of Godliness."

Macduff looked suspiciously at Angela. Was she, by any chance, making fun of him? But no, her face was kind and open.
"It's a pity your husband couldn't make the entire trip."
"Heavens!" thought Angela, "the man's a boor!" A shadow darkened her face. "Yes, I'm very sorry," she said. "He couldn't get away for so long. Of course, when one is a writer it doesn't matter where one is—work can go on. Are you writing, Mr. Macduff?"
"No," said Macduff, shortly. "I never combine my business with pleasure."

New Chevrolet Truck on Economy-Safety Run

Carrying a 10,000-lb. cement block from Los Angeles to New York, a 1 1/2-ton Chevrolet truck—one of the new models just introduced—demonstrated that safe driving means economy. Speed limits were observed in every unit, with 35 m.p.h. the maximum on the open road. The 3511.4 miles were completed on two quarts of oil and 6.6 gallons of gasoline, at a cost of 0.16 cents per mile, or one-third of a cent per ton mile. The entire run was completed without any mechanical failure, repairs, or even a scratched fender. The illustrations show the test truck and the new 1936 models. Coupe type cabs with solid steel roof, full-floating rear axle, and full-length fenders, are some of the improvements. In the lower right, Harry Hartz, who drove the cross-continent test, is beside the 10,000-lb. block. The test was officially observed by the American Automobile Association.

CAR LICENSE TAGS AND RECEIPTS AVAILABLE AT VARIOUS STATIONS

In an interview with Roy Gilbert, Tax Assessor and Collector, Saturday last, Mr. Gilbert stated that although he had had the automobile license plates for 1936 for some time, he had just recently received the receipts.

The tags are yellow with black numbers and also carrying the message "1936 Centennial" under the numbers.

Mr. Gilbert stated that Mike Brewer in Littlefield had a supply of the receipts and plates for sale; and that taxpayers could also purchase same from Lee Payne, Amherst; John A. Dryden, Sudan; Mrs. R. W. McCaskill at Earth; and at the Olton Court House.

Mr. Gilbert stated that although the tags are on sale now, that automobile owners are not supposed to display them until March, but have until April 1 to get their 1936 tags.

"All new cars, or cars that have not been registered for 1935, will have to be registered under 1935 tags until April 1, which is the end of our fiscal year," said Mr. Gilbert.

In 1755 Gov. Barrois sent Bernardo de Miranda to explore the Llano country for evidence of gold and silver. He took samples of gold which was sent to Mexico and pronounced "worth while." Texas Centennial visitors will find the Llano country one of the greatest mineral regions of the west.

Don't Entrust Your or Your Family's Being to Unknown Preparations

When you take any preparation you don't know all about, relief of headaches; or the rheumatism, neuritis or ask your doctor what he has to say about it—in comparison with genuine Bayer Aspirin.

It is this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most "pain" remedies were advised by physicians as being harmful to the stomach; or, often, for other reasons. And the discovery of Aspirin largely changed the picture.

Thousands of people have taken Bayer Aspirin year after year without ill effect, have had the medical findings and safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the best medicines ever discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains and is safe for the average person to take regularly.

New Lubricating Oil Made By Cent

Ponca City, Okla. Feb. 12.—Increasing the safety factor of car operation as well as making possible important basic changes in engine design, was the aim of engineers of Continental Oil Company today as the outcome of field tests of passenger trucks made with a new lubricating oil developed by the tinental company's research working in association with G. L. Clark of the University of Illinois.

Another "alloy" oil developed by Atlantic Refining Company, for which similar claims are made, indicates revolutionary changes are being made in the manufacture of motor oil. The Continental "alloy" explained, is made by using highly oily ester with a solvent base oil, a change in structure resulting, which produces a product capable of sustaining pressures of 15,000 pounds per square inch, three times that while corresponding increase in torque efficiency and life.

Centennial Tablet—

would look as if one big county. In other words, if I ask you to send me only one specie of wood and the adjoining county sent the same kind, I would not have any choice of color. To make this project attractive as well as unique and interesting I must distribute the colors evenly over the map. It would be almost impossible to specify a certain kind as I am not familiar enough with the woods of each county. So I have come to the conclusion that, if you do not have any historical wood in your county, it would be best to send three or four different colors of wood, then I can use the one that is the most suitable.

"Please send pieces not less than one-half inches square, not less than one-eighth inch thick. I prefer colors such as, light brown, dark brown, yellow, white, black, and red or pink. It is very important that I make at least one-tenth of the counties from red or pink wood, such as red cedar, otherwise the map will be dull, flat, and not enough contrast. So, send me at least one piece of a pink wood."

It was decided to appoint a committee to take care of this matter at an early date.

Notes From County Agents' Office

Warm water should be given dairy cows during cold weather. If the water is ice cold the cow will drink little, therefore causing a decrease in production. Give the cow warm water and she will drink a normal amount and she will stay around normal production.

Extension Service recommends a new practice that is giving excellent results for keeping already cured and smoked meat. It is the use of refined cotton seed oil.

ADVANTAGES—

- 1. It retards mold growth 100 per cent.
2. It reduces shrinkage, which ultimately means a hard unpalatable piece of meat.
3. It reduces contamination by flies and skippers and vermin 100 per cent.
4. Oil, being liquid, makes it very practicable to slice pieces from a large chunk and then return unauated pieces for keeping perfect indefinitely.

METHODS OF USE—

- 1. Pack meat tightly in container to reduce amount of oil to cover it.
2. The meat needs to be covered only about one inch.
3. Use of any kind of container is satisfactory; crock best, tin lard cans very good, steel drum satisfactory, wood barrel will work but absorbs some oil.
4. It is advisable to cover container for sanitary reasons.
5. Roughly speaking it will take about 4 gallons of oil for 100 pounds of cured meat.

KINDS OF OIL TO USE—

- 1. Good grade of cottonseed oil.
2. Peanut oil will work equally as well.
3. Use only refined cottonseed oil. This is because crude cottonseed oil will become more rancid than a refined product.
4. If refined cottonseed oil cannot be bought at an oil mill close to you, crude oil that might be available can be refined in the farm home. Instructions for this refining ways Biblical, sane, inspiring and challenging, with the vital note of mental, moral, and spiritual uplift. Farmers of Lamb County who dug and filled trench silos last fall, find that ensilage makes a very good substitute for green feed for their livestock during these cold winter days, according to Donald Turner, County Agent. A silo makes it possible to have green feed when it is too dry or too cold for green pastures. Silage is the dairy cow or beef animal's ration has about the same value as green pasture and a greater value when there is some grain on the feed stuff made into silage.

Prairie dogs should be poisoned during the winter months, when natural food is scarce, state Donald Turner, County Agent.

The Bureau of Biological Survey of the U. S. Department of Agriculture gives the following directions for poisoning prairie dogs in Texas: Dissolve 1 ounce of strychnine sulphate in 1 1/2 pints of boiling water. Add heaping tablespoonful of glass starch, previously mixed with a little cold water, and boil until a clear paste is formed. Add one ounce of baking soda and stir to a creamy mass. Add 1-8 ounce of saccharine and 1-4 pint of molasses and stir thoroughly. Pour over 13 quarts of milo, oats, or kaffir, and mix well until the grain is evenly coated. Allow to dry before using. If hard water is used, add 1-4 pint of vinegar to each ounce of strychnine.

Scatter the poisoned grain on a hard clean place near the hole, using two teaspoonfuls to each hole. The above method may be used in mixing the poison at home or, poisoned grain already mixed may be secured at the County Agent's office.

4-H Club Boys Feed Out Calves For Texas Centennial

An increased number of 4-H club boys, over last year are working with determination to do some outstanding work this year.

Some half dozen boys are planning on feeding beef calves for the Centennial to be exhibited at Dallas in November.

Two trips are offered to Washington each year for boys who have done outstanding work. This year only eight (8) boys out of 13,000 have tried for this trip. Ask your County Agent what you must do to win this trip. Did you know that only forty-four (44) counties out of 237 had boys entered in the contest for twenty (20) trips to Chicago? Do you know that approximately $10,000 in premiums is offered at the Texas Centennial for club boys with winning beef calves, dairy calves, hogs and sheep? Do you know that there is a gold medal offered for the best meat animal demonstration in every county in Texas? Do you know that there is a $10 prize for every county for the best farm record book, and a State Prize amounting to $100.

A 4-H club scramble will be held at the Stock show at Fort Worth on Saturday, March 14; Monday, 16, and Thursday, 19. Club boys having livestock on exhibit will be eligible to compete. A large number of calves will be turned loose in the arena and the boys who catch calves with lucky numbers will get to keep the calf-provided he will feed it and exhibit at next year's show.

Colored Stars To Appear On Palace Stage Saturday

The South Plains All-Star Colored Amateurs will appear on the stage of the Palace Theatre, Saturday Matinee at 3:00 and Saturday Night at 9:00 and again on the Midnite Preview at 11:30.

Such characters as Bozo Bailey, Table Spoon Tommy, Hot-Foot Harry Blossoms and Liza, Hair Lipped Harry and several others who are well known over the plains are appearing on the vaudeville bill.

Table Spoon Tommy is as his name implies a table spoon player, several vitaphone shorts have been produced with various amateur table spoon players but critics all agree that Tommy has them all topped. Bozo Bailey is a black demon when it comes to rattling the ivories on a piano; Blossoms and Liza while playing with amateurs are really professionals having played with various minstrel shows during the past several years. The show consists of singers, dancers, novelty numbers and acrobatics.

These colored stars have appeared on the stage of the Lindsey and Palace theatres in Lubbock four times during the past six months, brought back each time by popular demand of those who had seen them before.

Patriotic, historical and federated women's clubs will have space allotted to them for permanent headquarters at the Texas Centennial Exposition, opening in Dallas on June 6, it is announced by W. A. Webb, general manager of the Exposition.
