BANKERS PROPOSE MAKING LOANS TO FARMERS SO CAN WITHHOLD THREE MILLION BALES FROM THE MARKETS

Raising a fund of $100,000,000 to be loaned at $50 a bale and six per cent interest per annum, to retire 3,000,000 bales of Texas cotton or in five bales of the prospective crop of 5,000,000 bales, this money to be raised through the clearing associations of Dallas, Houston, Galveston, Austin and other cotton centers, is the plan adopted by 100 representative Texas bankers who last week attended a special conference called by the Dallas Clearing House Association.

To put this plan into operation Texas bankers will be urged to convert some of their present loans on the cotton crop into new loans on the actual cotton insured and warehoused, with warehouse receipts or chattel mortgages attached, and thus help cotton growers of Texas to market their crop in orderly manner and stop dumping.

Will Extend Plan.

The same plan is to be introduced in Oklahoma, Arkansas and other southern states until at least 2,000,000 bales of cotton in these states, or a total of 3,000,000 bales will have been removed from the market. This would leave only about 12,000,000 bales of American cotton in the active market, although in the last twelve months the world consumed 12,000,000 bales of American cotton.

Coupled with this financial plan is a 25 per cent acreage reduction in cotton in Texas and in other of the southern states for 1927, starting with this fall through an intensive campaign of education and signing of pledges. With proper acreage reduction next season the 3,000,000 bales are easily absorbed with the cotton crop, it was estimated.

Stop Cotton Decline. Immediate action to stop a further decline in cotton was urged. Clarence Ousley, director of the Texas Farming Association, will be urged by that organization to carry a message of acreage reduction and stopping of the depressing cotton crop to other states so that cotton can be marketed concertedly.

A pledge to reduce the cotton acreage in Ellis county, signed by several hundred landlords and farmers, was read at the conference, and similar action is to be put into force in other counties, as well as throughout the south generally.

Complete faith was expressed in the ability of Texas farming and business men and in the ability of the south's bankers to put the plan into execution in order to maintain and restore prosperity.

Recommendations Made.

The text of the recommendations adopted follows:

Be It Resolved, by a representative group of Texas bankers assembled in Dallas, Texas, this the 24th day of September, who believe that they speak the minds of all bankers of Texas, that:

1. We pledge our resources and energies to co-operate with the farmers of Texas to prevent the further sacrifice of their cotton, which we believe is selling below its economic value.

2. The banks of Texas have always provided the funds for the production of the crop, and the process of liquidation is now under way. We recommend that these banks convert some of their present loans on the cotton crop into new loans on the actual cotton insured and warehoused or put under cover, with warehouse receipts or chattel mortgages attached, and thus assist the producers in orderly marketing.

3. For the assistance of local bankers that may not be able to refinance cotton in this way, we pledge the procuring of $100,000,000 to be placed at $50 a bale at the rate of 6 per cent per annum. We urge with entire confidence the ultimate outcome the holding of at least one bale in five, or at least 1,000,000 bales in Texas, until the next cotton season and the gradual marketing of the remainder. The world's consumption of American cotton last year was 15,160,000 bales, which sold at approximately 20c per pound, and consumption will likely be nearer 15,500,000 bales this year. There does not seem to us to be such a surplus as to warrant present, low prices, and we believe that firmness and patience in marketing will restore much of the lost value reflected in present prices.

4. A necessary part of this plan of relief is the reduction of next year's acreage in cotton by at least 25 per cent. We urge the bankers of each county immediately to assemble their leading farmers and organize schoolhouse campaigns for acreage reduction pledges. This year's great feed crops provide next year's feed supply, and the policy of home production of food and feed must be maintained and intensified.

5. We realize that the complete success of this plan requires the co-operation of other cotton states and we ask the officers of the Texas Safe Farming Association to lend the services of its director, Clarence Ousley, to visit at once the principal cities in other cotton states to urge a like action and theretirement of 2,000,000 bales more from the other states making 3,000,000 bales altogether to be retired, and the president of this meeting is requested to furnish the necessary credentials.

6. Finally, we have full faith in the ability of the South's bankers and farmers to arrest and reverse the present threatening situation and to recover and maintain a reasonable degree of prosperity. It is entirely within their power to retire the apparent surplus and absorb it in reduced production next year. We urge the farmers and their bankers to stand firm to this program and we are confident that relief will come in due course.

TORNADO BRIEFS C. E. Cooper Writes Of Horrible Disaster

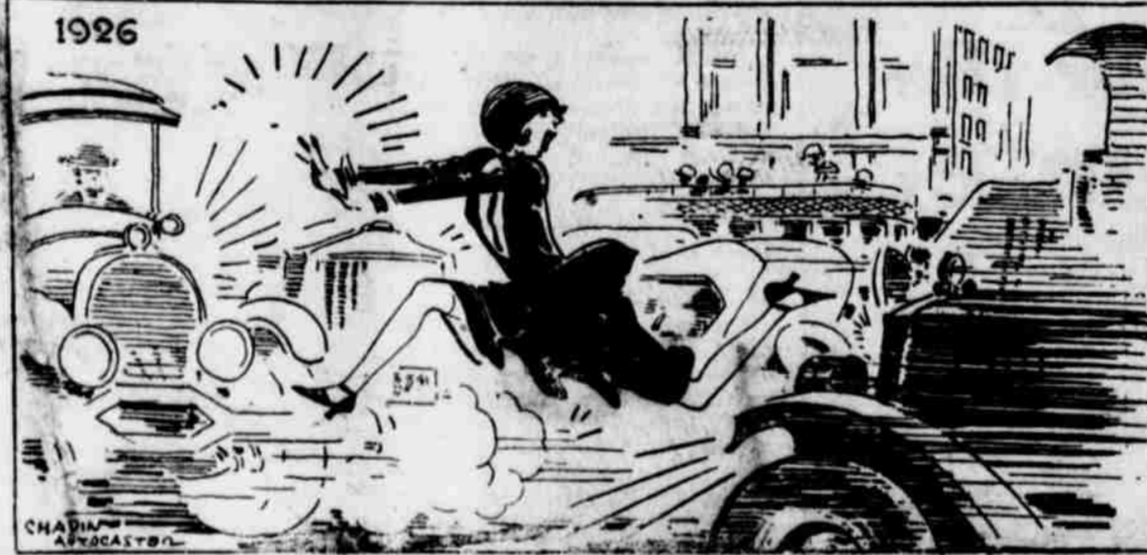

The editor is this week in receipt of a letter from C. E. Cooper, formerly of Littlefield, but who now resides in De Land, Florida, telling of the recent horrible hurricane which swept lower east coast of Florida and also some clippings and photographs from local and state papers.

"The life and property losses were appalling and from the amounts of some of the survivors the physical and mental sufferings of these who escaped alive was horrible, almost beyond description", says Mr. Cooper.

Messrs John W. Blalock, G. M. Shaw T. S. Sales and E. H. Williams left Saturday night for Dallas to attend the Dallas-New Orleans game Sunday.

YESTERDAY AND TODAY

By A. B. CHAPIN

Dr. Frank Crane Says

THE FALL IS INEVITABLE

Elinor Glynn speaks in a recent article of those who are riding for a fall.

She says that the term is well understood by all hunting men, and she applies it to many cases of domestic life.

There is no doubt that there are many people persisting in a course of conduct which anyone with common sense can see must end in disaster. Everybody sees this except the persons concerned.

The nagging wife ought to know that her actions are constantly alienating the affections of her husband and in time will destroy them. Strange that she goes on creating her own calamity!

The boy who is drinking knows that he is undermining his health, ruining his business prospect, and bringing grief to his parents. The fall is inevitable, and he rides gaily towards it. No advice nor guidance seems to help him.

The girl who persists in imprudent conduct is ruining her own chances of happiness. For her sake, however, of some contrary idea about her own independence, she goes headstrong forward.

Many a man in business pursues a policy which in the end will ruin him, but he seems to keep it up in spite of all anyone can say.

There is many a husband who treats his family in a way that eventually will destroy their respect for him and alienate them from him. Nothing, however, prevents him from continuing his course of conduct.

It would seem that there is no remedy for these determined miscreants except the golden axe.

There is a certain cumulative momentum in wrong headedness that drives people forward to their destruction, and how to stop this is a serious question.

THE BULA HIGH SCHOOL IS NOW COMPLETE

We are in our new brick school building. Our program is about complete. Eleven grades constitute our course of study. Special attention is being given to mathematics, latin, history English and science. Mrs. Dyer has charge of the music department.

Can the best carpenter build an up-to-date house without equipment? His knowledge may be stored up ready, but the actual building must be put into a living fact by the use of the necessary equipment.

Twelve months ago we stood with open hands. Now our dreams and thinking stand out boldly to public view. Best up-to-date teachers, best equipped house, best trucks with efficient men to drive them—nothing too good for these school children. They are West Texas Texans, full of energy. Our ten acres with our brick building in the southeast corner will have beautiful trees on the north and west. There is no limit to our great well of water, and our playground equipment will be modern in every respect.

Our boys and girls love to come to this spot. The bell shall ring, the children shall sing and play success to Bula high school.—G. P. Davis.

FERRIS IS ARRESTED

Tom Ferris, living five miles west of Littlefield, was arrested Saturday by Deputies C. A. and Lawrence Rayburn, on a charge alleging the making of liquor, one gallon of corn whiskey being found, according to Sheriff Len Irvin.

The accused was taken to Oton Saturday by the latter and lodged in jail.

EUGENE BLACK TO ASK REPEALING OF COTTON REPORTS

Legislation that will abolish the cotton reporting of the United States Department of Agriculture and that will curb the gambling element operating on the cotton exchanges will be presented at the December session of Congress by Representative Eugene Black, of Texas, he announced last week.

Estimates of the cotton crop made by the Department of Agriculture, the figures of which Mr. Black in a statement disputes, has caused a drop in the markets during the last two weeks of between $8 and $9 a bale. The reaction sent cotton lower in quotations than it has been for some years, or a total of 365 points. He said that the unwarrented losses to the cotton farmer must be stopped "even if so radical a remedy as closing the exchanges is found necessary." Mr. Black explained that his reference to exchanges meant those utilized for the gamblers who never buy a bale of cotton.

In a letter addressed to Southern members of Congress, Mr. Black refers to the agreement of the Department of Agriculture to abandon the minimum and maximum estimates, which, as applied to the Sept. 8 report, "knocked the cotton market for $12.50 a bale," and thereby cost the cotton farmers millions of dollars, and to the Sept. 23 report, which increased the former estimate by 644,000 bales, and sent the market down another $6.50 a bale.

"The Sept. 23 report did not contain the minimum and maximum estimates, but God knows it was bad enough without them," says Black's letter.

The department's last estimate of 15,810,000 bales, Mr. Black believes is 1,000,000 bales in excess of the real situation. The Government report was about 700,000 bales in excess of the average of the private estimates made by those who study the crop conditions for their own protection. The department gave Texas 5,259,000 bales, or 400,000 more than the state ever produced, while conditions in some sections of the state, notably in East Texas, Mr. Black adds, are nearly as bad as they ever were. The department's prediction as to Texas is characterized by Mr. Black as "a monstrous error." He believes the department has over estimated the Texas crop from 500,000 to 750,000 bales.

The Texas member suggests to his colleagues that reference to the ginners' reports this year was 400,000 bales less the second 1,200,000 bales less, and the last one 1,750,000 less, and he predicts that the next will show a loss of 2,000,000 bales.

Says Estimates Disastrous.
"And yet," said Mr. Black, "the Department of Agriculture is estimating the total yield for this year within 300,00 bales of the 1925 crop. The two recent estimates of the crop made by the department have been the most disastrous to the cotton farmer in several years, particularly because cotton is selling below the cost of production in the meantime, however, such predictions ruin the market and the farmer, who has to sell his cotton, is being terribly penalized." DAIRY

PLANT SOY BEANS WITH CORN CROP

The combination of corn and soy beans for silage produced an average increase of approximately one ton of green forage, or 500 pounds of dry matter per acre, as compared with corn alone. In four years of experiments conducted by the agricultural experiment station at Storrs, Conn. The amount of additional protein per acre supplied by the addition of soy beans was figured as equivalent to 300 pounds of 40 per cent cotton seed meal.

The largest total yields of grain and dry matter under Connecticut conditions were produced by growing one stalk of corn to three of beans in every 12 inches of the row. Drilling the corn and soy beans proved decidedly better than planting both in the same hill, or planting the beans between the stalks of corn. Eighteen different varieties of soy beans were tried and the best variety was a stiff-stemmed, reasonably tall, large yielding variety, which will have its pods two-thirds filled when the corn is ready to be cut. One question which has been argued a good deal is whether or not the planting of soy beans with the corn increases the nitrogen content of the corn crop the same season. No such increase was noted in these studies.

It was considered not desirable to grow soy beans alone and corn alone, mixing the two as they are put into the silo. Growing them together as a silage combination added a value of approximately $10 per acre to the silage crop.

Best and Cheapest Way to Maintain Dairy Herd

The problem of what is the best and cheapest way to maintain a herd of dairy cows is always before the man who produces milk. It is practically impossible to give a standard set of rules which will apply in all cases. The method used in maintaining a herd must largely be determined by the individual, recognizing the contributing factors.

A dairy herd may be maintained by continued purchase of mature animals to replace those whose period of usefulness has passed. There are many conditions under which this may be a wise practice. If it is desirable to have the whole herd composed of cows in their full productive capacity; if there is abundant opportunity for selection and purchase near at hand; if there is a reasonably good market for cows that are undesirable, and if one has reasonable skill in selecting, and good ability in bargaining, a herd of high-productive capacity may be more easily and more cheaply maintained in this way than by attempting to raise young animals to replace those that are worn out.

Superior Grain Mixture Recommended by Purdue

A satisfactory grain mixture commonly fed in Indiana for milk production is recommended by L. H. Fairchild of Purdue university. It is made up of four parts ground corn, two parts ground oats, two parts bran and one part linseed oil meal, all by weight. Plenty of legume hay will reduce the need of oil meal. Roughage consisting of nonlegume hay and corn stover needs at least two parts of some high protein concentrate to balance.

Corn silage, alfalfa, clover or soy bean hay and a grain mixture of four parts ground corn, two parts ground oats and one part ground soy beans provide all the nutrients necessary for economical production. A grain mixture of corn and oats or corn and wheat bran is not complete because of lack of protein. Cottonseed feed, linseed oil meal, corn gluten meal, soy bean oil meal or ground soy beans may be used to bring up the protein content.

Dairy Notes

Feed a cow all the roughage she will eat.

The feeding of silage before milking often causes additional odors in the milk.

Protein and minerals are necessary in building muscle and bone as well as in producing milk.

Clean milk requires sanitary conditions. Clean barns and clean cows are the first essentials.

A thin cow with "lumps," enlarged glands about the udder, is always open to suspicion of having tuberculosis.

A very heavy increase in the use of milking machines has been noted in the last few years throughout the country.

Cottonseed meal should not be used in too large quantities. About two pounds per cow per day is all that it is safe to feed.

Pure-bred sires must be used, that will improve the herd from the standpoint of production. Proper feed must be given and fed so that maximum results will be obtained.

MORTON SYRUP MILL RUNNING

The syrup mill west of Morton is making new, and, according to reports, the luscious liquid is pouring out in fulfillment of all expectations.

A large acreage was planted around Morton this year for the purpose of making syrup, and it looks as though it would be a very profitable crop for the growers.

The mill was started several weeks ago and has a long run at its greatest capacity ahead of it.—Cochran County News.

THE REASON FOR LIME

Many soils are deficient in lime, and its addition will often result in larger yields. An important effect of liming is a stimulation of the decomposition of organic matter. When lime in any form is applied to soils with insufficient organic matter, especially in warm humid climates, it is usually advisable to add manure or plow under green crops for the purpose of keeping up or if possible increasing the supply of this essential ingredient.

Some soils require lime for other reasons, among them for correction of acidity, for improvement of the drainage, and to supply lack of lime farmers experiment on their own soils for plant food. It is suggested that with various crops to determine the response to liming.

NOT A CHANCE
"Don't let me miss my train."
Chauffer:—No danger sir, the boss said I'd loos my job if I did."

GIVE CALVES A CHANCE

Diarrhea, or scours, a very common and often persistent disease of calves, always hinders their growth and development. The most important causes of the disease are irregular feeding, overfeeding, sudden change of feed, fermented feeds, the feeding of dirty or sour milk or milk of diseased cows, the use of dirty milk pails or unclean feed boxes, and damp, dirty stables.

As soon as scours is discovered, separate the affected calf from the others and carefully cleanse and disinfect the pen. The feed should be reduced immediately to about one-half, milk pails cleaned and sterilized, feed boxes cleaned and disinfected, and any other causes mentioned above eliminated.

A few of the more common preparations used to treat the disease are blood meal, a teaspoonful at a feed, white of egg; limewater. A dose of four drops of formalin to each pint of milk has been used to advantage, and a drench of three ounces of castor oil followed by a teaspoonful of a mixture to one part salol and two of subnitrate of bismuth also is recommended.

Harden was highly commended by the owners for his excellent services.

COMPARISON OF INCREASE

Authentic figures show that since 1924, the average increase in food prices for the whole United States has been 58 per cent; clothing prices, 70 per cent; house rents, 76 per cent; wages, 120 per cent, and telephone service, 34 per cent.

Inasmuch as these five commodities and services come in for considerable discussion, it is interesting to note these figures. Most anyone can test them, in their own community for the 12-year period. While there will be local variations, it will be found that this is an accurate average for the whole country.

TOMATOES EASIEST VEGETABLE TO CAN

Tomatoes May Be Canned in Glass or Tin.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Tomatoes are the easiest of all vegetables to can at home. Because they contain as much acid as many fruits and are very juicy, tomatoes can be processed by the water-bath method at the temperature of boiling water. Other vegetables are not so acid and therefore need to be processed under pressure at a temperature higher than 212 degrees Fahrenheit. From the standpoint of health and appetizing meals it is lucky that tomatoes are so easy to can at home. Canned as well as fresh, they are one of the richest of all vegetables in vitamins. They add flavor, color, and food value to every course from soup to salad. Furthermore, almost every home garden yields a surplus of tomatoes which can be transferred from vines to cans under ideal conditions.

In a new publication on home canning, Farmers' Bulletin 1471-F, the United States Department of Agriculture gives the following directions for canning tomatoes: Select firm, ripe tomatoes of medium size and uniform shape. Do not use tomatoes which are overripe or parts of which are spotted or decayed. Put them into trays or shallow layers in wire baskets and dip in boiling water for about a minute, according to ripeness. Remove and plunge quickly into cold water for an instant. Drain at once, and core and peel promptly. Pack into jars or cans as closely as possible. Or better still, bring the tomatoes to the boil in an open kettle and pack them hot into the containers. For home use the jars may be filled with a thick tomato sauce or with the juice of other tomatoes. If the tomatoes are to be sold under federal regulations, add only the juice which drains from them during peeling and trimming. Season with one teaspoonful of salt per quart. Process quart and pint glass jars for 45 minutes in boiling water, counting the time when active boiling begins, and No. 2 and No. 3 tin cans for 35 minutes.

VITAL SEED CORN

A good way to dry ears of seed corn is to string them, suspending the strings of ears in an open shed or loft, the ears not being permitted to touch one another.

The vitality of seed corn often is reduced by leaving it in a sack or a pile for even a day after gathering. With some moisture in the cobs and kernels, the ears begin to sour or mildew in a remarkably short time during warm weather. If left on the plant long after ripening, the kernels may sprout or mildew during warm, wet weather or be injured by freezing.

Seed ears should be picked, therefore, as soon as thoroughly ripe and placed where they will be safe. If they contain much moisture when picked they must be stored in such a way that they will have free circulation of air around each ear.

FEED TAINTS TO MILK

Some feeds impart unpleasant flavors and odors to milk. This makes milk less palatable and cuts down the milk consumption. It has been found that feeds impart strong flavors to milk mainly through the body of the cow. If they are fed immediately after milking their effect will disappear by the time of the next milking. Never give such feeds before milking.

Kitty is clever with the boys--she has at least a half dozen suitors on her string, and keeps them all in the dark.

Texas is the greatest producer of raw materials of all the states.

Oil, gas, coal and lignite are abundant in Texas thus making the fuel resources of the state equal to its resources in raw materials.

By the use of native fuels the power supply of Texas is adequate and efficient. It is capable of very great expansion and is being expanded to meet growing industrial needs.

The labor resources of Texas are diverse, and climatic conditions are conducive to industrial development.

Texas has excellent transportation, is well situated with reference to markets, and there is much Texas capital available for investment in Texas industries.

GREEN MANURE MAY INJURE

A green manure crop should be turned under two or more weeks before the next crop is planted, depending on the quantity of green stuff to be plowed under and the crop to follow.

During the early stages of decay the effects on seed planted too soon after turning under the green crop may be injurious. Cotton seedlings, for example, are more sensitive to injurious substances than corn seedlings

DUST AND LICE
 A dust bath can not be depended on to rid poultry of lice and mites. Some fowls seldom dust themselves and those which dust freely never rid themselves of the pests completely. A dust bath does add to the comfort of the chickens, especially when they are closely confined. A box about 2 feet square, or larger, containing ordinary road dust or fine

It should be kept under cover, preferably outside of the chicken house.

Methods which will accomplish complete eradication are, however, much to be preferred. All species of lice attacking poultry may be killed by the application of sodium fluoride among the feathers next to the skin. Do not use the material too freely on young chickens. In applying the powder, put one pinch on the head, one on the neck, two on the back, one on the breast, one below the vent, one on the tail, one on each thigh, and one scattered on the underside of each wing when spread.

Sodium fluoride may also be used for this purpose in the form of a dip—three fourths to one ounce of the chemical to the gallon of water. For treatment of large flocks this is the most economical and expeditious method, but should only be used on warm, sunny days.

Cucumbers are good steamed or boiled and served with white sauce or savory butter.

STYLE SHOW GIVEN LAST WEEK BY STYLE SHOP WAS ATTENDED BY BIG CROWD

The Style show staged Wednesday evening of last week by the Style Shop, at the Palace theatre, was a very pretty and entertaining affair.

The stage was decorated in a profusion of ferns and flowers, forming a path for the models which represented a path through a garden.

Opening the program, Miss Dess Key appeared on the stage, dressed in a black satin dress, wearing a picture hat to correspond. She carried a number of shopping parcels, and appeared as tho she was exhausted, falling to sleep on the back of the stage, and the program that followed represented her dream.

The first number was a reading by C. L. Harless Jr., which received a hearty encore, and the second number was given. Dr. H. A. Maddry then sang, "Too Many Parties and Too Many Pals." The first parade was made by the children, misses and matrons wearing frocks of gingham and wool followed by a reading by Frankie Barton, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Acrey Barton. A fairy dance was a pleasing feature, composed of the following girls dressed in pink costumes: Anna Marie Harless, Wilda Courtney, Ernestine Cundiff, Alice Lynn Street, Blanche Crockett, Bettie Ann Hilliard, Lorraine Henson, at the conclusion of the dance Verna Henson sang: "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," then Lorraine Barnes and Verna Henson sang, "Five Feet Two" with ukulala accompaniment. Jokes and song, "Little Green Hat," were given by Miss Madie Anderson and A. B. Carson. The concluding number was a parade of the models wearing silk dresses and coats in attractive styles and colors.

Those modeling for the occasion were: Mesdames Acrey Barton, Leet I. Austin and Corrie Leach, Misses Alta Anderson, Cleta Blair, Nadine Hailey, Madie Anderson, Josephine Glenn, Emma Lou Jones, Vivian, Ruth and Maxine Courtney, Francis Blalock, Ruth Busher, Meribeth Knox, Anna Marie Harless, Katherine Jones, Letrice Austin and Prudence Courtney.

GOOD SCHOOL LUNCHES

Here are some things you may not have tried in the school lunches; sliced meat loaf; rolls hollowed out and filled with chopped meat or fish, moistened with salad dressing and seasoned; salad; cheese straws; stuffed eggs; tomatoes and whole fresh fruits; cut up fruit; brown sugar or maple sugar sandwiches, made with crackers or hot biscuit so as to melt the sugar; sausage turnovers; stuffed prunes or dates or figs; cup custard; a small box of raisins; a cake of chocolate; little tarts, cookies or frosted cakes; sandwiches of two kinds of bread; a bottle of orange or grape juice; lemon juice sweetened ready to make into lemonade at school.

See that sandwiches, cookies and in fact, everything that goes into the lunch box are wrapped separately in wax paper. This not only prevents crushing, but keeps them moister and crisper, as they happen to require. Provide paper napkins, to keep hands and clothing clean, and to spread on the desk under the lunch.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT
 By F. A. WALKER

GIVE ENCOURAGEMENT

A WORD of encouragement in the dark hour is often followed by a ray of sunshine that lights up a human soul until the end of time! And how little does the helpful word cost the giver!

Look at the burden-bearers passing you, dust-covered, sad-eyed and weary, trudging through the cold and the heat, conscious only of their aching backs, tired feet and breaking hearts. Give them a smile as you meet them. See their countenance brighten and their feet step more lightly as they catch the meaning of your lips and know it is meant for them.

Encouragement makes people believe in immortality because it opens up new visions that reveal vistas and sensations never before seen or experienced.

It stirs new emotions, strikes new chords of music, give new hue to the sky, and awakens thoughts which have been lying dormant in discouraged hearts since they first began to beat.

Instead of censuring the being who has made a mistake, give him or her a kindly word of cheer. Treat him or her as you would like to be treated when your soul is filled with doubt and sorrowing.

Forget the great weighty sermons, the thread-worn parable of advice and conjure up a dainty little posy of encouragement and note how eagerly it will be accepted, sometimes with a twitching of the lips, a trembling, grateful hand and a happy tear.

Try it today on some of the human wrecks you may meet, scuffling along, groping in a dismal world of whose horrors you know nothing and habitually shun as you would a pestilence.

And after you have tried it, look into your own soul and see the new light that has been born there to cheer you in the silent night when you are alone.

A little more friendly intimacy with one another, a few more benevolent smiles, a trifling bit of consolation and a few small words of encouragement scattered here and there as you go along the beaten pathway would in a generation lighten sorrowing hearts, make the world brighter and better and possibly move it closer to heaven!

THE SHOW MUST GO ON

The above slogan was the invention of old John Robinson, one of America's greatest circus managers, the esprit de corps of the whole organization.

This sentiment was drilled into the mind of every performer and employe...there was a date at the next town where the entertainment must be pulled off without fail.

A cyclone might protrait the main tent, trains might be wrecked, lions, tigers, elephants or the monkey cage might mire down in bad roads, but "the show must go on," and most every engagement.

Just as with our country and its institutions. There will be storms and some of the wild animals in the political menagerie break loose, but all important functions of the great show called Government under the Constitution, must go on.

Congress, the Supreme Court, the federal and state institutions and departments of government must perform their parts in the program of self-government by the people, for the people and of the people...the show must go on.

EUGENE BLACK TO ASK FOR REPEAL COTTON REPORTS

said Mr. Black. "For this reason he believes we would be doing the cotton farmer a distinct service to abolish cotton estimates from the governmental sources, and rely only on the actual ginning figures issued by the Census Bureau.

Also, I believe, something can be done to curb the speculative element which takes advantage of such situations and beats the market down to levels much lower than ordinary conditions warrant, even though the crop as great as predicted. I know very well that ways can be found to save the cotton market from such terrific and sudden fluctuations, as the gambling element now encumbers it, and I shall have the bills indicated ready for the December session.

"I am not proposing to relieve the farmer by setting up new government bureaus or machinery, but by abolishing some we already have and keep the gambling element off his back."

FOUR BAD YEARS

The Plant Quarantine Act of -912 gave us authority for the first time to establish notional defense entry against plant pests.

It took four years of effort to get this legislation, on account of the following pests gained entry: Japanese beetle, citrus canker, towart, European corn borer, hor scale, gipsy moth in Nov 1910.

These are all major pests, the worst of their kind in this country, and the list is some indication of the rate of entry prior to the enactment of the Plant Quarantine

In one of our Texas cities recently an automobile owner had the misfortune to run over a small boy, which resulted in the death of the child. The Courts awarded the parents of the child $90,000.00, which the insurance company paid.

Had this car owner not been protected by a PUBLIC LIABILITY policy, probably all of his property would have been wiped out in this deplorable accident.

We can issue you a policy at a small cost that will insure protection against all kinds PUBLIC LIABILITY and PROPERTY DAMAGE.
