Littlefield Bank Explains Operation of Check Tax

The First National Bank of this city has furnished the following information relative to the new check tax law:

For the benefit of those who are not familiar with the new check tax law, or those who have possibly been misinformed, we are making the following statement: Section 751 of the Revenue Act, 1932, imposes a tax of two cents (2c) on checks, drafts or orders for payment of money drawn on any bank, banker or trust company, such tax to be paid by the maker or drawer. The United States government has placed the duty on the bankers to collect said check tax and make remittance to the Internal Revenue Department without remuneration. There are several methods used by the banks in collecting the above check tax. We have adopted the following method and believe it the most satisfactory one for our customers and it also eliminates extra work for the bank. Each check as above described will be subject to a charge of two cents (2c) federal tax and the tax will be charged each day as the checks are paid. Checks that are not paid are not subject to tax. In any event checks will not be charged more at this bank than the federal tax, which is two (2c) cents.

Do not place postage stamps on your checks because the check tax law is a miscellaneous revenue measure, and not a stamp tax, and therefore your checks will be subject to a two-cent tax which will have to be charged at the bank as the checks are honored. When

THE ROAD IS LONG, COMING BACK

The only thing that keeps most of us from realizing our own possibilities and of getting the highest satisfaction out of life is fear. There are very few human beings in the world who are not afraid of something, and as long as one is afraid of anything he cannot achieve perfect happiness.

Primitive man must have lived in a state of almost constant terror. He was afraid of wild beasts, afraid of enemies of other tribes, afraid of the thunder and lightning, afraid of evil spirits that lurked in the darkness of the forest—of real dangers and of unreal dangers which he imagined. Very few people in these days have the perfectly natural physical fears that surrounded the lives of our ancestors. But who of us has not some mental fear, fear of something that has not happened but which we think may happen to ourselves or our loved ones?

In the past two or three years the people of the United States have been the prey of a new kind of fear. They have been afraid that in the popular phrase, "the bottom had dropped out of everything." They have feared that never again would they have a job, that the factories that have shut down would never start up, that they would never be able to sell the products of their farms—those and a thousand other fears which have no relation to common sense or reality seemed to take possession of perhaps the majority of Americans.

And that is one of the reasons we have been so slow in coming back from the economic crisis. We have been afraid to use our intelligence and common sense and go ahead when everybody else was afraid to do anything but accept conditions as they are and paint them, mentally, much worse than they are.

We see signs that this widespread fear is beginning to disappear. We do not believe it ever had any real foundation, and we believe people are waking up to that fact. If we are right, and hope and courage are beginning to replace fear, then we have made a good start toward the return of good times.

EIGHT YEARS AGO IN LITTLEFIELD

(Exerpts from Lamb Co. Leader)

C. B. McCormick, formerly of Pecos, has moved his newspaper plant to Levelland and will soon begin the publication of a newspaper for Hockley county.

Levelland is now rapidly developing as a county seat, several new buildings have been recently completed, and others are in the process of construction.

Last week the Littlefield Hotel changed hands, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hilliard, former owners, selling to Messrs. J. C. Whicker of Littlefield and R. S. Thomas of Lafayette, Ind.

Mr. Whicker is well known in this community. He is at present the local general salesman for the Yellow House Land Company, and for several years past has been vitally instrumental in the development of Littlefield and surrounding territory. Jumps Cauthorn of Kansas City, former assistant editor of the Hereford Journal and Poland China Journal, has heard the call of the West and resigned his position to take up work with the Halsell Farms Co.

About 36 people from Littlefield and adjoining towns attended a weekend party at Silver Falls near Crosbyton.

Traveling in autos they arrived at the camp grounds about midnight of Saturday, camping in the grove near the water's edge.

Chas. Barber went along in charge of the culinary department, and many are the praises resounding in his favor for the fine eats he put out. Those who comprised the party were: Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Arnett, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Steen, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Thomas, Mrs. Pool Earnest, Miss Nell Ruth Earnest, Mrs. F. G. Sadler, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lewis, Mrs. R. W. Frost of Dallas, Simon D. THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK
 LITTLEFIELD

To the Voters of Lamb County

The 30th Senatorial District comprises 24 counties, with approximately 50,000 voters. It is therefore impossible for any candidate for State Senator to see and talk with every voter.

Since I have spent the past 20 years in Lamb county, dealing and associating intimately with the people of this county, and since they therefore know me, have a personal knowledge of my ability, and the things I stand for, I have made no personal solicitation at home. But I, nevertheless, solicit and will appreciate the votes and active support of the people of this county. I wish to thank the large numbers of people who have so long supported me in the race so far.

MY PLATFORM IN BRIEF

Being one of the large taxpayers of the county I have a very personal interest in reducing the cost of government in its many branches—school, county, state, and national. As your State Senator I would work earnestly to that end. Economy in government is the only solution to the tax problem. It would do no good to shift the burden from one thing to another.

I would work hard for a Square Deal for West Texas, which is something we have not enjoyed in the past. I do not think that it is fair for Lamb county to educate its own children and then contribute from $10,000 to $15,000 annually for the education of the children in other parts of the state, which is now being done. State aid should be granted counties in some fair proportion to the amount of their local school taxes.

I am against bond issues for building roads, or for any other purpose at this time, and will so vote as your senator. HAVING BEEN BORN AND RAISED IN WEST TEXAS, AND HAVING KNOWN THE NEEDS OF THE PEOPLE AND OF THE COUNTRY; HAVING AN EARNEST DESIRE TO SEE THAT THESE NEEDS ARE MET, AND WILL PUT ALL OF THE ABILITY AND ENERGY I HAVE INTO SEEING THAT WEST TEXAS GETS A SQUARE DEAL.

Feeling that I have the qualifications for the very high office of State Senator; believing that I have the ability to meet the tremendous responsibility which that office entails, and knowing that I have the earnest desire to serve this district, I am making this personal appeal to the voters of my home county, not only to vote for me, but to actively support me in this race.

Sincerely, Your Friend,

ARTHUR P. DUGGAN

FIRST LOVIES

Breen, 16 years old, all of his life in a tugboat plying the river. He tossed into the collision which his mother and father. Ignorant, driven, he drags in the friendly covered truck—out at dawn—and a tough gang of beat and chase and, exhausted, basement doorway. The trap door slam, and he is trapped. He falls asleep. It is day light and a place to wash from his face and the hole. He showed the bright silver coin to Becka. "Say—" Becka clasped his arm with an insinuating pressure, leaning toward and in front of John, as she looked up into his face, for he was a head taller than the girl. "Say what?" he asked, shoving her back somewhat roughly in his embarrassment. "You're green," she laughed nervously. "Say, you are green," she affirmed, as if a great truth had just then been disclosed. "You don't have to work for nothing," she added hastily. "Pa should pay you," she urged, again looking up into his face, still holding his arm, but refraining from closer contact. The boy walked straight ahead and failed to answer. "You should get a dollar a day," Becka continued, "and board too—he would have to give it—I will make him," she said positively.

dollar—you earned it—vages, Chon—remember, vages," he repeated, the boy the large coin, thrusting it toward him impulsively, as if afraid John would not accept it. "Ant remember, Chon, I don't charge you nodding, nodding a tall fer board. You ged id all fer nodding." Then, after an interval of pregnant silence, Becka having again linked John's arm through her own, doing so with a small laugh, a friendly, forgiving laugh, they walked out on Broadway at a point where its wholesale commercial aspect stretches northward.

To America, New York was Rome, and still is; the feudal city of the Western World, taking tribute from the ends of the earth. Other cities may attempt to dispute this, but New York, true to its name, keeps rising new and fresh and more powerful from its own continuous disintegration, shafts of steel and stone springing up out of the dusty demolition constantly under way. The wrecks and mistakes of the past feed ambition, flaring to higher and dizzier achievement.

Never was the town so young and bright and hopeful as on the summer night when John and Becka, far from their environment, walked on air, and literally rode on it, as they sped up-town on the West Side L. The squat, green-bellied steam locomotive puffed and wheezed, blowing its whistle as it approached the curves, where Becka with an "Oh!" clung close to John; they sat in a cross seat by an open window.

Descending at Fifty-ninth Street, Becka led him eastward to Columbus Circle. The tall shaft in the center, the different aspect of the people, the absence of push carts, and the dearth of children, puzzled John. Dodging the whirling stream of cyclists, they entered the shaded walks of Central Park through a rustic arbor. The dusty white macadam drives were lively with the prance of foam-flecked turnouts, and the "clank" and "clink" of fashionable harness trappings.

And with the black art of this night of swift unusual motion and of rare sights, with Becka, soft and confident, clinging closely on his arm, with the dread of Grogans forgotten in the distant alleys of the slums, the boy expanded to an influence beyond the measure of his understanding. He felt the secretive whispering of the dark.

Far to the North, from the direction of the Mall, band music filtered through the leaves, for the air was still, and presently captured moonlight, prisoned in a lake, was discovered through a parting in the trees. John and Becka turned toward this, to the lower walks, the perfect ones planned long ago by a master gardener. Finding a secluded spot they sat down, the still surface of the reflecting pond almost at their feet. They were close together, a lilac bush screened them from the walk; they talked idly. Suddenly the light of the lake went out as a cloud drifted across the moon.

"You do, John, I know you do. Lilly Firkin saw you." Becka, in tones of pouting banter, was accusing John. Suddenly he found himself forgiven, forgiven for things he had never done, for lapses he had not committed, for things he had never even thought about, forgiven with the cool moist lips of Becka pressing eagerly against his own, stilling all protest of innocence, or of revolt.

His voice rasped. He choked and struggled, vibrant with the contact, holding Becka with convulsive strength. The first drops of rain found them oblivious to the coming storm. The boy, ill clad, hard in body, with few ideas but those of strife, released the girl; her sudden "Oh!" coming with the return of her breath almost crushed out of her. John jumped up, picked up her straw hat, and pulling her by the arm led her to the bole of a huge sycamore whose broad leaves promised some shelter from the rain. Quick flashes of lightning, followed by harsh, rumbling peals of thunder, were punctuated by the puny cries and screams of women running from the park as sudden swirls of cool air and rain whipped about the trees. Then John and Becka, like Paul and Virginia of the story, naked, not of body but of mind raced beneath the trees and the lashing of the storm for the park gate at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street. They took the East Side L. down again into the familiar closeness of the slums.

The end of September in the city of perpetual change, brings with it the first refreshing whisper of cooler airs; a new vitality springs to life among the heat-weary dwellers in the city. Sol Bernfeld had come back from the road after questionable success in providing crayon enlargements of family album portraits, with the Paris Spicy Package as a side line. The spicy package being a bulky surreptitious envelope, sold sealed "Against the law, you know, to show it," to be opened by the purchaser "Strictly in private." It was a suggestive package, retailing at twenty-five cents, or two-bits, and sold at wholesale to candy shoppers on trains at seven flat, a gross. Sol sold few of the crayon enlargements but did get rid of his entire stock of spicy packages to the farmers and their hands, even disposing of them to women by the simple process of refusing to even tell them what he was selling.

On his return to the city, Sol found Becka in a receptive mood and John Breen pursuing his way in dogged silence. Becka's efforts, balked by his awkward inexperience, had at least served to place him upon a meager wage, in the size of which she evinced small interest. She soon walked out with Sol, then earning, as she boastfully confided to John, the princely salary of twenty-five dollars a week as runner for a Bowery burlesque show. And, furthermore, she was to appear in the chorus, of a leg show "in tights"—a secret, carefully kept from Channon Lipvitch, but whispered slyly to John. And to prove it Becka showed John a photograph that brought a hot flush to his face. "Silly," she cried, "I'm an actress, you know." But for all that a coolness sprang up between them, and John refused tickets to the show.

And, as another side line, Sol Bernfeld began to match John against likely boys in clandestine boxing bouts of the lower city, taking him from hall to hall on Saturday nights, acting as his manager. These adventures were a relief for the growing dislike he felt for the Clothing Emporium and its cloying sameness. Fighting had become second nature to him. He liked the heat of combat and his craving for the excitement of the fight grew with his success.

It was late in November when Sol Bernfeld matched John against "Rasper" Jorgan, known to the Greenpoint section as the "Polack Wonder." The boys were to weigh in at one hundred and thirty-three, ring-side, and go ten rounds in one of the preliminary bouts before the famous Samson Sporting Club. It was the most ambitious bout yet secured by Manager Bernfeld, and the purse, so Sol stated, was to be twenty-five dollars, to the winner. If John won he would split with John, taking ten dollars for his share, and John Breen, glancing curiously at the typewritten letter from the trainer of the Samson Sporting Club, wondered at the queer kind of printing that he had never seen a typewritten letter before and he was ashamed to admit that he could not read a word, a deficiency manager Sol was thoroughly aware of.

FIFTH AVENUE

Let us go back, in an orderly way, and sketch the story of the Van Horns as generally understood the myths of the new city are its "old families," running back two or three or even four generations.

Guysbert Van Horn, great-grandfather of Gilbert, was a man of hard common sense and the son of no less a man than Peter Van Horn, who came over from Holland as a young man, preferring an English colony, with Dutch traditions to life at home.

Guysbert was a man of frugal habits and of strong religious convictions, when drunk or sober, in fact a man well calculated to prosper in the new New York. His son, Van Winkle Van Horn, proved a true son of New York. Born in 1800, he married a Lambert and determined to found the Van Horn fortune on the future of the city. He believed New York would eventually grow northward, in spite of its width from river to river. In the face of much contrary advice he bought cheap land far to the north in the tract of Greenwich Village, and he held on.

The only son of Van Winkle—the Van Horns ran to only sons—was Brevoort Van Horn, father of Gilbert. So this family tree had its simple roots back in the rocky soil of Manhattan.

So at the time we make the acquaintance of the last of the Van Horns, as he was generally called, Gilbert Van Horn was forty years of age; his hair was iron gray and he might easily have passed for a well-preserved man of fifty.

Given—With the cool moist lips of Becka pressing eagerly against his own.

Late that afternoon the dollar in his pocket had been given him grudgingly, guiltily, by Channon Lipvitch. And this only after an argument with Becka. "All right, don't give it him," she retorted to his repeated protest. "When he finds out—you look out. You ain't so smart," she warned. "John can sue you for damages, for back wages, some day. Give him something now—five dollars," Becka had argued.

"No! No!" Lipvitch knew the danger, also the expense. "You got to pay him something today," Becka was insistent, and as John entered the Emporium on his return from an errand a few doors away, Becka bent a parting glance of warning on her father, her eyes threatening exposure as she nodded meaningly at John. Lipvitch had his hand in his pocket. He fingered a coin, a half, then in a prudent flood of generosity he seized a silver dollar.

"Here, Chon," his throat was husky. "Here, Chon, I god someding by you." He spoke rapidly. "A

Mrs. Davis Hostess to H. D. Club July 9th

The club women met Wednesday evening, July 9th, in the home of Mrs. W. P. Davis. She is our wardrobe demonstrator. A complete outline of her work was given and she showed us her clothes closet.

The club voted to send a representative to College Station. Other business was discussed. The program was turned over to the program committee, composed of Meadames Jones, Wright, and Crawford. There was a social honoring our secretary, Mrs. E. L. Yarbrough. She was surprised with a box of lovely gifts. The hostess served lemonade and cake to eighteen women.

Our next meeting will be a joint meeting with the Ruby club in the home of Mrs. Neelie. Miss Mashburn will discuss "Pellagra, Its Cause, Prevention and Cure." Each woman should be present for this lesson.
Members please prepare an outline of your year's work up to date, and bring it to the secretary at our next meeting.

BANKER URGES CLIENTS TO MAINTAIN ADVERTISING APPROPRIATIONS AT NORMAL LEVELS

The hoarded advertising dollar should be the first to be put back to work in the opinion of Melvin L. Straus, vice president of the Straus National Bank.

Straus recently stated that firms doing business with the bank would be urged to maintain advertising appropriations at normal levels. Newspaper advertising was recommended by Straus as the best medium with which to stimulate buying.

"Hoarding of advertising money is one of the most disturbing factors in business today," Straus said. "If business lacks confidence in itself, how can the public be expected to have any? What business needs is self-confidence and public confidence, and advertising by the printed word can bring it."
Straus said more than 100 nation-

J. T. Bellomy Home Is One of the Beauty Spots of Littlefield

One of the most picturesque spots in Littlefield is the lawn and yard of the J. T. Bellomy home.

Mr. Bellomy, who owns a corner property on West Second street, deserves great credit for his accomplishments in the way of caring for and acquiring such nice shade-trees, smooth green grass, and the many beautiful flowers, shrubs and fruit trees, which are thriving in his lawn and yard. He has poplar trees, which form a short hedge at the west side of his home, and with other trees keep that side shaded from the sun. He has box olms, cottonwood trees, apricot, cherry and peach trees; sinias, sweet peas, etc.; in fact, Mr. Bellomy says he has seventeen different varieties of flowers, shrubs and trees, which indeed makes his home and yard one of the beauty spots of this city.

The Texas and Pacific Railway shops, closed June 15, were reopened at Marshall Tuesday morning in every department.

Speak gently, think sweetly, and your neighbors will appreciate your presence.

Resolution of Respect

The following resolution, passed by the Littlefield Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, was handed to the Leader for publication:

RESOLUTION

Whereas, the Grand Patron of the Universe has seen fit, in his divine wisdom, to call from our Chapter our beloved sister, Evelyn Long; and it follows that a shadow has fallen about us as we miss the radiant sunshine of her life among us; and that not again here will we feel the warmth of her friendly hand-clasp; her happy smile will no longer gladden our hearts; her cheerful voice will not be heard again within the walls of our chapter hall; and though she is gone from our chapter to rest in a more blissful realm, where trials, tribulations, heartaches, sickness and death shall be no more, and where she will serve in that Celestial Chapter above, eternity cannot efface her sweet image from our minds and her gentle charm will remain with us in living memory:

THEREFORE, be it resolved by the Littlefield Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, that we express it as our unanimous sentiment that we have suffered a great loss that cannot be repaired, and that we extend to the bereaved relatives and friends to whom she was so dear our sincerest consolations. Our hearts are filled with loving sympathy for all those who mourn her going, and our prayer is that the Comforter may always be near them, to cheer and to bless, to comfort and support. We point them to Him, Whose Star we follow, for hope and strength.

From our chain a link has fallen,
In the East a Star has set,
But enshrined in Memory's tablet,
Her true worth we'll ne'er forget
And be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be given to the bereaved family and a copy handed to the Lamb County Leader for publication.

ARTHUR P. DUGGAN

Because -----

He is a West Texas man; has worked for the interests of West Texas, and knows the needs of West Texas.

He will work for Economy and for the Reduction of all Governmental Expense, and for Lower Taxation.

He has the Training, Qualifications, and Ability, as well as the energy and initiative to make us the best representative possible in the State Senate.

We know he will not swerve from a course he deems right and to be in the interests of the State as a whole and for West Texas, in particular.

MR. DUGGAN HAS LIVED MOST OF HIS LIFE IN WEST TEXAS, DURING WHICH TIME HE HAS WORKED UNTIRINGLY FOR THE INTERESTS OF THIS SECTION OF THE STATE. ONLY LAST FALL, MAINLY THROUGH HIS INITIATIVE AND EFFORTS THE FARMERS OF LAMB COUNTY ALONE WERE SAVED FROM $20,000 TO $25,000 IN FREIGHT RATES. THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION, AT THE INSISTANCE OF A COMMITTEE NAMED BY MR. DUGGAN, REDUCED FREIGHT RATES 25 CENTS PER BALE ON COTTON SHIPPED FROM LAMB COUNTY AND SURROUNDING TERRITORY. AS A RESULT OF HIS EFFORTS MANY, MANY THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS WERE SAVED THE FARMERS OF THIS TERRITORY.

We therefore think that you should vote for a Lamb County Man—one who has a personal interest in serving this immediate section. This is Lamb county's only opportunity to elect a high state official. We should lay aside all petty prejudices and jealousies and work together for the election of Arthur P. Duggan, our home man whom we know to be able and worthy of our confidence and trust.

BASEBALL TOURNAMENT TO BE STAGED HERE NEXT MONTH; LOCALS DEFEAT CLOVIS HERE LAST SUNDAY, 18 TO 4

The Clovis semi-pro baseball team took an 18 to 4 drubbing last Sunday from the Littlefield team.

The Clovis team came to Littlefield confident that the locals were just so much applesauce; but to demonstrate their wares they managed to garner two runs on three scratch hits in the first inning, while the home nine failed to deliver until the fourth when five tallies were registered.

Carl Weaver, who has made Littlefield his headquarters for the past four months and who played for the Tevola team out of Oklahoma for a couple of seasons (this team has just won their second championship as the winners of the Amarillo News-Globe tournament held in Amarillo each year), has demonstrated to local fandom that he can deliver the goods from the mound and is due to win a number of games for the locals.

Dick Ratliff, who has recently returned from the Central and New York-Pennsylvania leagues was in his usual place taking care of the catching duties for the locals. His playing was of great interest to the home fans who have not seen him perform this season.

Smiling Newty Moore came over to give all the boys the glad-hand and states that if the Littlefield team will get in some of the many tournaments that he is ready to give his best. Moore is recognized as one of the leading amateur pitchers in West Texas. He has been the mainstay of the Littlefield staff for several years past.

Damon Simmons, who is a former Wilbarger county resident and ball player of real promise and patrols the center field garden for the team was one of the most sensational players of the day. Appearing in the second position in the line-up and slashing out two doubles and three singles as an afternoon's work, besides making a sensational catch in deep right center on a drive that looked good for three bases, not mentioning his speed on the bases, was by far the star of the day.

Chief Hanks, who can always be depended upon, gave Simmons a close chase for batting honors, by getting a long double and three singles in five trips to the plate, while Thornton hit for the circuit on a ball that was misjudged by the centerfielder for the visitors. The best of the home players got one or more safe raps and did themselves justice in their respective places.

The seventh inning was the death blow for the New Mexico boys, when seven runs were scored before the batting rally was checked.

"Jelly" Allen started for the visitors, but retired in the fourth when five runs were scored at his expense. One or two errors that proved costly figured in this rally. Diston, his successor, fared no better.

The Clovis team as a whole appeared well balanced and should have put up a better contest. A return game will be played in Clovis next Sunday by the locals.

Plans are being made for a baseball tournament to be staged in this city next month. Particulars will be released in the next issue of the Leader.

Side Quit Hurting, Got Stronger, Well; CARDUI Helped Her

Mrs. R. L. West, of Huntville, Ala., writes: "I was weak and run-down. I had a pain in my side, and I kept losing weight. I grew nervous over my condition—this was unusual for me, for I am very cheerful when I am well and don't ever get nervous. I knew I ought to take something. My aunt told me I ought to try Cardui, which I did. I began to feel better. I kept it up until I had taken three or four bottles. My side quit hurting and I was soon feeling strong and well. Cardui is sold at drug stores here."

A MESSAGE TO DEMOCRATS

Prediction generally over the country is that this will be a Democratic year, if the party will get behind the leaders. Not everything about the convention was pleasing to any one person. The wet plank does not suit a lot of people, but the Republican party offers nothing better, having completely failed in the enforcement of the prohibition laws under both Coolidge and Hoover. The leaders are not acceptable to every one, but on the whole it was the best ticket that could be elected. Democracy believes in the rule of the majority, therefore staying with the ticket should be the response of every Democrat this year, and assist the party to win in the November election.—Canyon News.

Man Lost 26 Pounds Looks 100% Better

Feels Stronger Than Ever

Just to prove to any doubtful man or woman that Kruschen Salts is the SAFE way to reduce—let us take the letter of Mr. F. J. Fritz of Cincinnati, Ohio, recently received.

He writes: "I've tried extreme dieting, setting up exercises with very little results—but the results from Kruschen are almost incredible. In 3 months I reduced from 205 to 179 pounds and feel stronger than ever—no more wheezing or gasping for breath—friends say I look 100% better."

Bear in mind, you fat man, that there is danger in too much fat—the safe way to reduce—one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning—cut down on fatty meats and sweets—one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle—get it at any drugstore in the world.

Trucks and Busses Pay Heavy Taxes

Trucks and busses in Texas pay $2,675,787 MORE in taxes than the gross amount paid by the railroads. Although trucks and busses constitute only 14% of the total number of motor vehicles registered in Texas, they pay 25% of all taxes paid by all the motor vehicles in Texas.

COMPARISON OF TAXES PAID BY RAILROADS AND MOTOR VEHICLES IN TEXAS:

Table with columns: Assessed Valuation, Ad Valorem taxes (State, Counties, Cities and towns), Districts (Road, Drainage and other Improvement, School, All other), Motor Vehicle Licenses, net (Counties' Part, State's Part), Gasoline Taxes (Highway Department, Available School Fund), TOTAL TAXES, Total paid for schools by railroads, Total paid for schools by motor vehicles, Total paid for highways, etc. by railroads, Total paid for highways, etc. by motor vehicles.

Out of the total taxes paid by motor vehicles of $45,776,973.00, commercial cars, which are trucks and busses, paid $10,462,982.00, which is approximately 25% of the total and $2,675,787.00 MORE THAN THE GROSS AMOUNT PAID BY THE RAILROADS.

These figures were compiled from the records of the State Comptroller, State Highway Department, State Treasurer, and Railroad Commission of Texas for the year 1929. The records for 1930 and 1931 now being compiled will no doubt show a decided increase in the taxes of the motor vehicles and a reduction of railroad taxes.

Bank Robbery—

According to Silcott, the first bandit was inside the bank, pistol in hand when he first saw him. The man ordered the two bank employees and the customer to put up their hands, and they complied. He then instructed them to lie flat on the floor, and as they did this, Tom Matthews, Lamb county deputy sheriff, came in the lobby of the bank, and he, too, was forced to take his place beside the other three men on the floor. By this time the first bandit had been joined by another armed man, while still a third man, who was unarmed, went in the tellers' cages, scooped up all visible cash and currency. The four men were then forced to enter the vault, one of the robbers asking the cashier how to lock the vault door, to which Mr. Silcott replied he did not know without "looking up the combination". In seeking to lock the vault door the robbers turned the combination the wrong way and it failed to lock automatically.

Two girls who saw the three men enter a car and speed away as they emerged from the bank, gave out the alarm.

The robbers' car sped southward from the Lamb county courthouse, and was also reported to have been seen traveling south of the county seat town, and later north on the Plainview highway.

The escape car was described by the two young women as being a Chevrolet two-door sedan, bearing a Coleman county license plate, although another report gave the license number as being from Hale county and the car used for the robbers' escape as a touring car, with yellow wheels.

The entire loss was covered by insurance, according to L. E. Silcott, cashier of the Olton bank.

To the Voters of Precinct No. 4:

In announcing my candidacy for Constable last January, I realized then the duties of the Constable's office.

If elected I will carry out such duties to the fullest extent. I promise to give you the very best of service. I will make the very closest of investigations and examinations, and give the proper consideration to all complaints coming to me. I will answer any call, day or night.

I will conduct myself at all times as a man and as an official.

I have always tried to be the right kind of a man—a loyal friend to my fellow men. Appreciating my friends at all times and the friendship of every person, in so far as it does not interfere with duty, my feelings toward any person will not be altered, whether I am elected or defeated.

All my opponents have held the office which I seek. This is the first time that I have asked election to a public office.

Hoping to receive your vote Saturday, I am,

Sincerely,

Sam Hutson

Rainstorm Causes Automobile Mishap

What might have been a very serious accident happened between Plainview and Amarillo recently when W. E. Jeffries' Hupmobile sedan left the road and turned into a deep ditch. Mr. Jeffries, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lyman and Ben, Jr., were taking Mrs. Jeffries to board a train at Amarillo on a trip to Kentucky, when they ran into a heavy rainstorm between Plainview and Tula, and the car swerved and ran into the ditch. Mrs. Lyman received some scratches and was stunned, remaining unconscious for a short time.

The party, however, was rather fortunate in that no one was hurt, and in about fifteen minutes they were out of the ditch and on their way. Mr. Jeffries said a couple of cars passing by pulled them up onto the road, but that owing to the mud, they were obliged to proceed slowly and missed the train, staying over until the next day.

Mrs. Jeffries will spend some time visiting Mr. Jeffries' brother-in-law, Dr. T. A. Boyd, and Mrs. Boyd at Elizabethtown, Ky., and from there will go to her old home at Columbia, Ky., where she will visit her mother, Mrs. Caroline Jeffries, brothers, Horace and Ed. Jeffries, and sister, Mrs. E. J. Bennett. Mrs. Jeffries will return in about two months.
