Every effort is being made by the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce to push the construction of the north and south highway, and as the Highway Commission is now in session, Dr. Ira E. Woods Monday tried to get Chairman W. R. Ely by telephone in an endeavor to have him instruct Guy R. Johnston, State Resident Engineer, to make the necessary survey of this highway, but was unable to do so.

According to Dr. Woods, everything possible is being done to bring about this highway.

NEW HEALTH LOCAL SCHOOL

F. O. Boles Re-Elected High School Principal; Other Appointments Made

A. B. Sanders, for the past two years superintendent of the Brownfield schools, was elected superintendent of the Littlefield schools at a recent meeting of the local school board.

Mr. Sanders comes to Littlefield highly recommended, and was re-elected to the Brownfield place for the next school year, but declined the offer after receiving the local appointment. He will assume his duties here at the beginning of the next school year.

Prior to moving to Brownfield, Mr. Sanders was superintendent of the Ralls schools for a number of years. It was not learned just when Mr. Sanders would move to Littlefield, but it is likely that it will be shortly after the close of the present school term.

Former Littlefield Resident Dies After Undergoing Operation

Mrs. Bascom Webb, aged about 31, formerly of Littlefield, passed away Monday morning about three o'clock, following an operation, according to a telephone message received by Mrs. J. A. Davenport of this city Monday afternoon.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock. Deceased, with her husband and family, lived in Littlefield for two years, leaving here about a year ago for Lella Lake. While in Littlefield he was manager of the Coca Cola Bottling Works.

Decedent is survived by her husband and two little daughters, aged about five and seven years, and a host of friends in this vicinity.

Among those who attended the funeral from Littlefield were Mrs. Davenport and Mrs. Goodwin.

Resolution Allotment of a part of the funds to be appropriated by congress to Texas for unemployment relief for emergency highway construction was requested in a resolution adopted unanimously by the Littlefield Rotary club at its regular meeting last Thursday.

The resolution was presented by Dr. Ira E. Woods, and was approved after J. C. Watson, Lubbock, manager of the West Texas division of the Texas Good Roads association had explained the present condition of the highway program in Texas and urged that local people interested in the paving of the gaps in our important state roads, let their desires be known.

"In other sections where the highway program is nearer completion than it is in West Texas," Mr. Watson asserted, "the leaders are saying that federal aid for highway building should be eliminated. Those same people, are, however, calling on the government for appropriations for reforestation and controlling their streams."

This Area Entitled to Aid "Out here we need roads and we are entitled to federal aid in building them. We can get it if we will get busy and let our representatives in congress know that we want our share of the money that is going to be spent for unemployment on the public works program.

The only way this part of the state can expect to get anything in the way of quick action on having the unpaved gaps in the highways improved, is to do everything possible to get federal aid for the state," Mr. Watson said. He stated that his organization had been advised by the state highway department that unless the federal help was secured it would be impossible to let any more construction contracts for the next several months, at least.

The Resolution The following resolution was passed by the Rotary Club:

"To Hon. Morris Sheppard, Hon. Tom Connally, Hon. Marvin Jones, Hon. Arthur P. Duggan and Hon. A. B. Tarwater.

"The Littlefield Rotary Club in regular meeting on April 20, 1933, adopted by unanimous vote a resolution as follows:

"WHEREAS: The highway system of Texas, and more especially this section of Texas, is far from complete, and,

"Whereas: This work must and will eventually be done at the expense of large sums of money, a large part of which can be saved by doing the work now at reduced cost, and,

"Whereas: We feel that little permanent good will come to this state as a result of the other relief employment projects under consideration and in operation, and,

"Whereas: We believe that more beneficial employment can be created

SCHOOLS WILL RECEIVE TRUCK AID IN ARREARS FROM PAST SCHOOL YEAR

A bill has been passed by the Texas Legislature whereby the state will be enabled to pay the school districts the truck aid in arrears since last year.

This bill was passed following a conference in Austin Thursday and Friday, participated in by county superintendents, state school officials, and members of the legislature.

As a result of the new legislation, Lamb county will receive more than $10,000 in arrears in truck aid due last year, according to County Superintendent L. D. Rochelle. Littlefield will receive $5,100.

The Senior Class of the Littlefield high school will present at the school auditorium, Monday evening, May 1, at 8 o'clock, a three act comedy entitled "The Charming Goose," which is the story of a mythical kingdom in Europe. All of the action takes place in the drawing room of the castle.

Princess Beatrice (Lucille Hall,) a modern, up-to-date princess, who has seemingly lost her throne because of Napoleon, seeks to regain it by marrying her charming daughter, (Helen Rumback) to a real heir-apparent, Prince Albert (Tilden Wright.) Alexandra falls in love with the Tutor, Dr. Nicholas Agi (Farris Vinther.) This complicated love triangle will

Farmers Meet At Plainview

A group of Northwest Texas farmers endorsed principles announced five weeks ago at Des Moines, Ia., by the National Farmers' Holiday association, at a meeting held at Plainview on Wednesday of last week.

Among the counties represented were Swisher, Deaf Smith, Dawson, Reeves, Hockley, Lamb, Floyd, Potter, Cottle, Lubbock and Hale.

The principles endorsed here asked that farm commodity prices be based on cost of production, that a national moratorium on foreclosures of farm and city dwellers' property be declared by executive order, that some fair means be found for removal of ownership of land from insurance and mortgage companies, that land be opened up for settlement to actual home owners, that land indebtedness be refinanced and that control of money of exchange be taken over by congress.

Principles of the Des Moines meeting as read by T. W. Moss of Hockley county were given blanket approval and included the warning that unless actual legislation in compliance be adopted by May 3, "we shall prepare for a marketing strike within 10 days and refuse to deliver farm products until production cost be maintained."

Seventh Installment

So far: Joyce Ashton, poor spher, in a skidding taxicab in Chicago, suffered loss of two years later she woke up after a fall from her find herself, under the name s, married to Neil Packard, ifornia fruit packer. From n her desk she learned some- out her life in the two-year and realized that she had heartless, reckless young wo- that she is seriously involved affair with a man named d. She decided that at all costs d and it, but she found d hard to manage. Her trouble further complicated when d a letter referring to a baby d hers?—that the writer, So- ought Frills ought to have r. Much to the surprise of n her husband's employ, she r for a dog and he got her one. GO ON WITH THE STORY

"You had it coming to you! It's a wonder we're not viewing the remains today. How did it happen anyhow, Frills?"

"Oh, forget it!" said Joyce. "It's all over now. I hate post-mortems."

"Sure, so do I," agreed the dark one, "guess it gave you a shock though, didn't it Frills? You don't seem to have much zip today, somehow. That's what Mait noticed about you, said you acted half-dead."

"Did he? Well, that's the way I felt, but it's better than being completely out."

"I'll say, assented the blonde. Suddenly she started violently and let out a terrific oath . . . "Who let him in here?" she screamed shrilly, for Dickie had come up behind her and pushed his cold little nose against the plump pink hand which hung over the arm of the chair.

"Where did the cur come from, Frills?"

"He's mine. Sorry he scared you. Come here, Dickie." She jumped up, and a parrot, if you're going in for pets," said Clarice, on her way out.

"Thanks," said Joyce coldly.

She was so thoroughly disgusted and repelled by Ethel and Clarice that she could not bring herself even to attempt an imitation of what she supposed to be the Frills manner. She accompanied them to the door, and watched them get into the bright, green car.

At the opening in the high wall, they turned aside to let another machine enter, and Joyce's heart gave a disconcerting leap when she recognized Maitland's handsome face in the gray roadster that was entering. She turned and fled upstairs. "I can't face him till I've at least powdered."

Listening carefully she heard Maitland enter the house without ringing, and then whistle a few notes, which she knew must be his way of signaling Frills. She stood irresolute for a few moments, stroking Dickie. It had not occurred to her that he might come upstairs without an invitation.

"It's all over, and I want you to let me alone."

and sitting back in a chair, took Dickie in her lap, facing calmly the battery of disgusted surprise on the two faces.

"Are you coming out to Tess' tea at the club, Frills?" said Ethel.

"Why no . . . No, I'm not going anywhere this week," answered Joyce, trying to speak in a careless manner.

"Come on, Ethel," said Clarice, "you'll never go around in less than a hundred and fifty if you don't get out on the course more than once a month, you poor fat lazy female."

Ethel got up resignedly, and yawned.

"We'll come over tonight. It sure isn't natural to see you so quiet, gal."

"I know where you can get a cat

Therefore, she was distinctly startled when he calmly walked into the room, looking for her.

She faced him apprehensively, uncomfortably conscious of what had happened the day before.

"Hello, sweet! Everything O. K. new? Did you get a good night's sleep? It gave me a funny feeling when you refused a cigarette yesterday."

Joyce had taken a cigarette when he came in and lighted it quickly. As he approached her, she retreated a few steps. Before she could reply to his words, however, he became aware of Dickie who jumped up at him with instant friendliness.

"Well! Hullo, old feller. Where did you come from, boy? Say, you're all right! How come, Frills? You've never had any time for dogs before?" He looked at her questioningly.

"I expect to have more from now on," replied Joyce coolly, though her heart was beating with suffocating speed, "because I shan't have you to take up so much of it."

Maitland looked frankly bewildered at her tone. "But what's the big idea? Am I going to be treated to more of this upstage stuff? I don't get you—"

"You seem surprisingly slow at understanding plain English. I mean that whatever there has been between us is all . . . all over now. I'm through."

As she spoke Joyce moved toward the door. "Please come downstairs, I prefer not to discuss the matter up here."

Maitland followed her and attempted to put his arm around her, but Joyce stepped hastily aside and ran down the stairs into the living-room.

"Oh well, all right," he agreed, "but . . . Frills, for Heaven's sake, think what you're saying and doing! You can't mean it, sweetheart! What's the use of going through all these noble dramatics for nothing! It's such a waste of time, when we could be so happy. Every minute when we're not together seems a waste of time to me . . . Oh, sweet, I love you so! You know that—" he came up to her, his voice thick, his handsome face intense.

Joyce hastily moved around to put a chair between them. "If you can't keep your hands off me," she said curtly, wandering at her own self-possession, "I'll simply refuse to talk at all." She eyed him warily, prepared to flee to the kitchen if he made a move toward her.

Maitland stared at her. He was breathing heavily, but he controlled himself by an obvious effort and lighting another cigarette with hands that shook, he said, "Oh, all right! Let's sit down quietly . . . I won't touch you, I swear it. Just sit down and . . . let's—let's talk it over."

As they sat down Joyce had a feeling of being on a stage and not knowing what her lines were. How would this act end? A return of panicky terror swept over her, which turned into resentment against the man who was responsible for getting her into this uncomfortable situation.

"I can't see that there's anything to talk about," she began, "I meant what I said. It's all over, and I want you to let me alone."

"But good God!" he exclaimed violently, "you can't just calmly throw me down that way, Frills, without a reason, without a word, without an explanation of what it's all about. You sit there and say in that frozen voice, 'It's all over'—you, who only Friday night planned to go away

This sound philosophy of that great American, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, is worth reading and following:

What signifies wishing and hoping for better times? We may make these times better if we better ourselves. Industry need not wish and he that lives upon hope will die fasting. There are no gains without pains . . .

Industry pays debts, while despair increaseth them. Diligence is the mother of good luck, and God gives all to industry . . .

Then plow deep while sluggards sleep and you shall have corn to sell and to keep."

with me Wednesday, you, the only girl who . . ."

With flaming face, Joyce interrupted hastily. "An affair like this can't . . . can't go on forever, so it might as well end now—"

"But why, why, why? Judas, you never talked this way before."

He leaned forward and suddenly seized her wrist in an iron grip, exclaiming, "Frills, do you think I'm going to be thrown out like this with no more reason in the world than that you're through? Well, you're damn well mistaken if you think so. I'm going to stick around and find out what you're up to, believe me. You're going to be mine, and by God, I don't give you up to any one else without a fight."

"Don't be so melodramatic," retorted Joyce, "and let go my wrist. You hurt me."

Her very calmness seemed to disarm him. Mechanically he took his hand away. Then, resting both elbows on his knees, he plunged his hands through his short black hair with an eloquently despairing gesture.

Joyce's spirits rose a little. She began to feel more confident of victory. She rose, and still holding Dickie, she continued, "You might as well go now. I haven't anything more to say. It won't do any good to talk about it."

He lifted his head and looked at her searchingly. He was still nonplussed. Then he got to his feet and said, with unexpected calm, "All right. Whatever you say, goes. But don't think for a minute that I'm through."

Joyce said nothing. Maitland walked out without another word and without attempting to kiss her again.

When Joyce woke, it was past six o'clock. Dickie had left her, and, slightly alarmed, she hurried downstairs to find him. Suppose he had gone home! She discovered him, however, in the kitchen calmly finishing his dinner, while Roxie, still not quite friendly, watched him closely.

She returned to the living-room to wait for dinner, and there found on the table another pile of letters with a telegram on top of them.

"Please mail brown envelope left on my desk to me hotel Blackstone love Neil."

But where was Neil's desk? wondered Joyce, puzzled. She glanced vaguely about the big room but she knew already there was nothing so workmanlike as a desk in it.

When she had finished her dinner, she remembered Neil's telegram. She had better find the papers and mail them immediately. There must be a study or "den" somewhere in the house. Perhaps they even called it a "library." Where would it be? A little reflection suggested to her that the natural location was probably beyond Neil's dressing room, in the wing opposite her own boudoir. She did not remember a second door in the dressing room but when she went up to it, she found that there was one.

just at the foot of the narrow bed, in the wall opposite the bathroom door.

She pushed on the electric button inside the room when she had opened the door, and a shaded desk lamp sprang into light. Exactly in the middle of this luminous circle lay the object of her search, a long brown envelope. "Well, that was easy," thought Joyce, relieved. She crossed the floor looking about the room with interest. What would his study reveal of the character of Neil Packard—or her husband?

Joyce sat down at the desk to examine a square photograph frame more carefully. The picture, which showed a man and a pretty girl, was obviously an enlargement of a small snap. The girl was perched upon a shelf of rock, while the man stood close beside her. His right arm was around her waist, her left hand curled about his neck. Both were smiling broadly, and the girl's right hand waved an impudent greeting.

"Do I look that way when I smile?" wondered Joyce, "so . . . so self-confident and . . . saucy?" She stared at the picture. "Neil has a nice smile. There's something about it that's quieter and more sincere than Frills' grin."

There was a short row of books standing on the desk top, held in place by two heavy bronze bears; and a basket in which she found stationery and leaflets inscribed "Packard Fruit Packing Co., Inc., Manzanita, Cal." So that was Neil's business.

She could find no pen with which to address the brown envelope, and decided to take it to her own room to prepare for mailing. Before she left the desk, however, she discovered something which set her heart thumping with mingled pain and pleasure. In one of the side drawers, which she had opened to look for a pen, she found a few loose snapshots.

One picture Joyce lingered over. It was Neil sitting beside a sweet-faced elderly woman against a background of roses. That was undoubtedly his mother. She wondered if Mrs. Packard was living, and if so, what she thought of Frills.

POISON in Your bowels!

Poisons absorbed into the system from souring waste in the bowels, cause that dull, headachy, sluggish, bilious condition; coat the tongue; foul the breath; sap energy, strength and nerve-force. A little of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will clear up trouble like that, gently, harmlessly, in a hurry. The difference it will make in your feelings over night will prove its merit to you.

Dr. Caldwell studied constipation for over forty-seven years. This long experience enabled him to make his prescription just what men, women, old people and children need to make their bowels help themselves. Its natural, mild, thorough action and its pleasant taste commend it to everyone. That's why "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin," as it is called, is the most popular laxative drugstore sell.

"Is Put Over" with the aid of the LEADER—

J. H. WARE DRY GOODS

LITTLEFIELD, TEXAS

April, 24, 1933

The Lamb County Leader, Littlefield, Texas.

Gentlemen:

Since we used the columns of your paper exclusively in advertising "The New Deal," one of the most successful campaigns we have ever staged, we believe that you would be interested in knowing the results of our efforts.

We have added countless numbers of new customers since we put this policy into effect. No "baits" or "blood and thunder" tactics were used in putting this "New Deal" before the people. That isn't in our new policy, and in view of this fact, we highly praise your advertising medium for the results we obtained.

Under this policy we have made an effort to increase the buying power of every person, regardless of their income, by cutting our margin of profit in every department. Too, we have refused to stock our store with merchandise that was anything short of the highest quality, nationally advertised goods. Thus assuring each of our customers satisfaction in every way.

The large number of patrons turning to us daily for their dry goods needs, prompts us to feel that we have made a wise selection in using your medium in sending our messages to the buying public of Littlefield, Lamb county and the South Plains.

Assuring you of our continued patronage, and with best personal regards, we are,

Very truly yours,

J. H. WARE DRY GOODS, By Jimmie Ware.

Mrs. Cooper Writes to the Editor

THE EDITORIAL PAGE

MORE ABOUT MUSIC

A letter in support of the thoughts expressed in an editorial, "Let's Give Them A Chance," which was published in last week's issue of the Lamb County Leader, has been received by the editor from Mrs. C. E. Cooper. The following is the letter:

"Littlefield, Texas
"April 24, 1933

Mr. Morley Drake,
Editor, Lamb County Leader.

Dear Mr. Drake:

"In your last week's editorial, "Let's Give Them A Chance," you touched upon a subject that is certainly worth real consideration by all citizens of Littlefield who are interested in the advancement of our community.

"Littlefield has always had a great many talented people among her citizens. I can go all back in 1913 when there were only about three dozen residents in the town and we had no source of entertainment other than that we made for ourselves. A community entertainment committee was organized with Mr. A. P. Duggan as president. Every two weeks we gave a free public entertainment and there are many 'old timers' who can bear witness that our programs were both good and unusual.

"Today with our increased population and wider range of talent, what interest-entertainments and good times we might have if some public spirited person would again organize a community entertainment committee or in some way gather singers and speakers, our dancers, our musicians and our story-tellers into some organized group.

"Appreciatively yours,
"Ethel Louise Cooper"

In last week's editorial we pointed out that Littlefield possesses a vast amount of talent in music and other arts and that these men and women, boys and girls, should be afforded a greater opportunity for the use and development of their talents.

The editorial read in part, as follows:

"Excellent qualifications for participating in the providing of various forms of entertainment are possessed by a large number of Littlefield residents from the tiny tot to men and women who can look back on many years.

"Too much cannot be spoken and written in commendation and appreciation of these talented people. Properly encouraged and supported these residents are capable of becoming the 'life of the town.'

"When music and other arts are given an opportunity for development, a great contribution to the good of the community has been made.

"What are we going to do with our talented people? Are we going to encourage them, work with them and for them in their interests, our interests, the interests of our city and community, or are we going to let these people just drift along?

"It is a civic duty to encourage those finer things which are very much a part of good citizenship."

We were very much interested in reading an editorial which was published in a recent issue of the Oak Cliff (Dallas) Tribune, which is edited by Al Hill, former South Plains newspaper man. His comment was somewhat in line with the thoughts expressed in the editorial published in last week's Leader.

The Oak Cliff Tribune editorial was published under the caption of "Landmarks of Civilization."

Here's what the Dallas newspaper said:

"Add to our Little Theatres and our productions of original plays and our performances of music written by local citizens and our support of a most remarkable symphony orchestra, the presentation last night of a civic opera.

"These are the intangible assets which, from an understanding of true economics, far outshines all the smoke stacks and skyscrapers in Dallas' famous skyline.

"Civilization now may point to this city of Dallas and exclaim:

Here's a city whose inhabitants look far beyond the call of the dollar sign; where they have long ago learned there is far more to life than the mere making of money."

We hope that large numbers will write to the Leader expressing their thoughts as to what may be accomplished in giving our talented citizens the opportunity which they so much deserve.

TWENTY EIGHT YEARS AGO IN LITTLEFIELD

(Excerpts from Lamb Co. Leader)

Two new towns have been located on the Santa Fe railroad extension to run out of Doud toward the New Mexico line. Spade, one of the towns, named after the famous Spade ranch, located 15 miles west of Lubbock, is midway between Lubbock and Levelland. Cloud, the other town, is located 15 miles west of Levelland, near the Hoekley-Cochran county line.

C. C. Pumphrey, former agent at Littlefield, but now agent for the Santa Fe railroad at Lamesa, has invented a device by which the doors of box cars may be opened without using pinch bars and similar devices. W. Hogan and Miss Juanita Anderson of Tulia were married at Littlefield on last Saturday afternoon. Rev. Mitchell officiating. The young couple are well known here. They will be at home in Tulia, where Mr.

Hogan is proprietor of one of the leading garages.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Parker, former proprietors of the Elite Cafe, have returned here from Clovis, and will make Littlefield their future home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cooper, formerly of Littlefield, but now of Florida, are expected here any day on an extended visit.

William Lowrimore of Bonham, Texas, was in Littlefield the first of this week making preparations for the installation of a new gin here. Mr. Lowrimore states that he expects to buy a home here within the next few weeks, moving his family here, and the new gin will be in readiness for service in ample time to take care of the 1925 cotton crop.

Lon Goolsby is making preparations to open a skating rink in the new building just being completed south of the First and Last Chance Garage. The skating space will be 40x80 feet.

Glennora, the six months old baby of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gillette, died Tuesday from diphtheria. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Silas Dixon, pastor of the Methodist church, and interment made in the local cemetery.

SCOUT NEWS

Regular meeting of Troup No. 25, Boy Scouts met Friday night with quite a few present under leadership of Senior Patrol Leader Linton Smith. There are a few of the boys a little slow about registering. The time is practically up for re-register without a lapse. Would like to see every boy registered an once.

We expect to have a Court of Honor about the 6th of May and would be glad to see every boy pass some tests and every parent be present at the Court. The summer camp will be held at Post this year. A six-day camp under trained men, expert cooks, also medical attention. A fine chance for the boy to learn some real scouting from men who make scouting a life study.

We expect to try to make a trip some place this summer is possible. Every boy should begin to plan now to be ready if we go. It is expected that all boys wanting to go on the trip will register several weeks in advance of the trip. We do not expect to register any one a few days in advance just so he will be eligible to go. We want boys that want scouting and are willing to help build the troop and make a go of it.

Eugene Latimer, Scout Master
Troop No. 25.

A SCOUT BAND

A scout band; Why not? Littlefield needs a band and the best way to get one is to get behind a group of boys and build one.

When about 30 boys, ages from 10 to 15 years, want a band, its time the town became interested and endeavored to start something. Don't you think so?

GOLF COURSE BEING IMPROVED

Considerable improvements are being made at the Littlefield Golf Course, including new benches, new hazards, etc.

MANY CHARTERS GRANTED

New corporations which received charters to operate in Texas during March totaled 142, or two more than the total for February, according to the report on charters granted by the Secretary of State for the month of March, prepared by the University of Texas Bureau Research.

and by far more lasting good for the benefit of all the people accomplished by highway construction, than by any other project that relief funds can be expended on.

"Therefore: Be it resolved that the Littlefield Rotary club request our Senators and Representatives in Congress and in the State Legislature, to use their influence and good offices in any possible way, to have included in the Federal public works program now being considered by Congress, allotment of relief funds for use in highway construction."

South Plains Meeting Friday

All South Plains citizens interested in completing the highway program in this section are invited to attend a meeting at the Hilton Hotel, Lubbock, Friday afternoon, April 28, at 2:30 p. m. P. E. "Percy" Ralls, of Ralls, president of the South Plains Good Roads association, has announced.

At this meeting, resolutions will be submitted and plans made to urge federal authorities to appropriate a portion of the funds for the public works program for unemployment relief to the use of the Texas Highway Commission to be used on Texas highways, in view of the fact that Texas has no federal forests and the present plan indicates that the bulk of the funds will be spent on reforestation.

board, F. O. Boles was re-elected principal of the high school. Mr. Boles has been principal of the high school for the past eight years.

The board went on record as favoring dispensing with the services of married women as teachers for the next school term.

The following statement, relative to the meeting was issued:

"At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Littlefield Independent School District, the board deemed it advisable to go on record as favoring the elimination of married women as teachers for the next school term. Due to the crisis which we are now going through and in line with the general policy of the Lubbock schools and other schools throughout the country, we deem such action in the best interests of the schools.

"The board then proceeded to elect the following teachers before it adjourned to meet again at the next regular meeting to finish the work of selecting the balance of the faculty:

F. O. Boles, principal of the high school; Miss Carrie Lee Collins, Miss Lillian Hopping, G. M. Shelton—

thy. Interment took place immediately thereafter in the Littlefield Cemetery under the direction of Hammons Funeral Home.

Pallbearers were; A. D. Repp, A. B. Cole, Carl Arnold, J. T. Elms, Pat Boone, and Malloy Etter.

Honorary pallbearers were the members of the Fire Department, who attended the funeral in a body.

The accident occurred about twelve miles southwest of Quitaque, and nine miles south of Silverton, about 5 p. m., when the truck, which was being driven by the deceased, and in which two other companions were riding, overturned near Silverton, due to the fact that the driver, blinded by dust clouds, failed to see a turn in the highway.

E. H. McKinney and D. G. Hobson, both of Lubbock, and two other motorists saw a man's arm protruding from beneath the truck as they were driving by. Stopping, they found the trio pinned beneath the truck.

The passersby took Shelton's body to the Lindsey Undertaking rooms, Lubbock, and the injured men, J. O. Barnett of Sudan and C. A. Ferguson of Littlefield, other occupants of the truck, to a hospital for treatment. Barnett suffered a dislocated shoulder, while Ferguson had a bruise on his head. Neither suffered serious injury.

Shelton, Ferguson and Barnett were returning from Estelline, where they had been engaged in highway construction work. They were driving south, and their truck went into the left bar pit when the driver did not see a sharp turn to the right. The ditch was between 8 and 10 feet deep, Mr. Hobson estimated. It was Barnett's arm they saw.

Ferguson, in the cab, was breathing with great difficulty, being pinned across the stomach. Shelton and Barnett, clear of the cab, were held by a portion of the truck frame. The machine had not turned completely over, having been stopped by the embankment.

With McKinney and Hobson were Hammersley of Amarillo and W. R. King of Big Spring. All are Montgomery Ward Co. employees, McKinney being district manager of the Lubbock store.

Deceased came to the Plains with his family from Tipton, Oklahoma, in 1927, locating on a farm in the Spade community, where he lived until 1929, when he moved into Littlefield, where he has since made his home.

He was the son of Mrs. W. G. Shelton of Lubbock, and a member of the Littlefield Fire Department.

Deceased is survived by his widow and three children, Callie Faye, Ralph and Wilmer; his mother, Mrs. W. G. Shelton of Lubbock; three brothers, Austin and George Shelton of Lubbock, and Henry of Wichita, Kansas; and four sisters, Miss Cordelia Shelton of Lubbock; Mrs. W. J. Collins and Miss Carrie Shelton of Wichita and Mrs. Elmer Gray of Olton.

Out of town attendants at the funeral were: Mrs. W. G. Shelton, Austin and Miss Cordelia Shelton of Lubbock; Mrs. W. J. Collins, Henry Shelton, and Miss Carrie Shelton of Wichita, Kansas; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gray of Olton; Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Shelton of Lamesa, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Cook, and Mrs. G. A. DeYong, all of Tipton, Oklahoma; Mr. and Mrs. John Warwick of Post; Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Dennis of Lamesa; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Raper, Mrs. Leonard Webb, and Mrs. Daniel and son, all of Olton.

LITTLEFIELD WOMAN BURNED

Mrs. W. Matthews of the Day & Night Tourist Camp suffered severe burns to her hands, arms and face Friday morning about 9:30, when she lifted a dishpan of blazing gasoline and threw it out the back door. Her daughter, Mrs. Opal Thomason, who lives with her parents, was cleaning a woolen skirt in the pan of gasoline in the kitchen, but had occasion to go into a front room, and in returning was obliged to pass a burning gas heater, and it was believed that the gasoline on her hands in passing the stove caused the gas to take fire, as when she reached the pan of gas it turned into a blaze of fire. Her mother rushed to the kitchen, and grabbing the pan, threw it out the door, thereby burning herself.

Relieves Women's Pains

Here is an example of how Cardul has helped thousands of women: "I was very thin and pale," writes Mrs. F. H. Scott, of Roanoke, Va. "I suffered from weakness and a severe pain in my back. This pain unerved me, and I did not feel like doing my work. I did not care to go places, and felt worn, tired, day after day.
"My mother had taken Cardul, and on seeing my condition she advised me to try it. I have never regretted doing so. I took three bottles and it built me up. I gained in weight, my color was better and the pain left my back. I am stronger than I had been in some time."
Cardul is sold by local druggists.
