VIVIEN LEIGH

CLARK GABLE

To see "Gone With The Wind," which starts today at the Palace Theatre, and continues with three showings a day for the next five days, is a must self-assignment for everyone because of many highlights. There is Clark Gable, appearing for the first time in Technicolor, playing Rhett Butler perfectly and delivering the greatest performance of his career. You will see Vivien Leigh, the most important screen discovery of this or any year, as Scarlett O'Hara in every detail. There are dozens of other characters right out of the pages of the great novel, written by Margaret Mitchell. There are thrills and drama in the story that portrays the passing of the Old South, with its traditions and slaves.

"Scant Immediate Prospects For Peace" Says Pres. Roosevelt

President Roosevelt, Friday on breaking the silence on Sumner Welles findings abroad, stated that there was "scant immediate prospects for the establishment of any just, stable and lasting peace in Europe."

He predicted, however, that the information brought back by his ambassador-at-large would be of the greatest value when the time comes for peace.

In a statement read to his press conference the chief executive said Welles' trip had resulted in a "clarification of the relations between the United States and the countries which he visited."

He added he believed it would "assist in certain instances in the development of better understanding and more friendly relations" and would be of the greatest value to this government in the conduct of its foreign relations."

He emphasized again that Welles had not made any peace proposals or commitments and had not received any.

As to the specific information given Welles by the Italian, German, French and British governments, Mr. Roosevelt said that it would be regarded as entirely confidential, inasmuch as it related to the views and policies of those governments.

The president elaborated briefly on the statement that there was "scant immediate prospect" for a just and stable peace."

Mrs. R. A. Bigham was unfortunate enough to fall down the outside cellar at her home last week and injure her leg.

Master Oscar Arend, aged 8, of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Arend near Bula, underwent surgery at the Littlefield Hospital Saturday afternoon for appendicitis.

Miss Martella Graves of Spring Lake was a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Woodruff Friday, Saturday and Sunday last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Bigham and Robbie Louise have returned from spending an enjoyable few days in the mountains of New Mexico. Among the places they visited were Eagle Nest, Taos, and Tree Mesa.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Lyon of Dallas are visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Chester Friday.

Mrs. John Cary has been ill and confined to her home since Saturday.

ALL LITTLEFIELD IS PROUD OF IT'S CCC CAMP AND THEIR RECORD ACHIEVEMENTS

The Soil Conservation service forms one of the links in a great chain that helps promote the progress of our great nation, and without it and its applications, agriculture would suffer severely. Farmers have received unknown value from the services of the C.C.C. Camp, practical and technical. The main purpose of the camp is to combat wind erosion. These purposes they have demonstrated beyond a doubt to be of special value to Lamb county and to adjoining counties. Our Western soil erodes some at the best, so anything that we can do to preserve the soil is priceless.

ALL PART OF CCC CAMP LIFE
SOFTBALL—BOXING—BASKETBALL

Athletics is an important factor in the life of the enrollees at the CCC camp, and the boys participate in boxing, softball and basketball.

Last week B. P. Putnam won first place in the Tri-State AAU boxing matches at Carlsbad, taking the flyweight crown. John Buck won second place in the light heavy weight division. W. D. McCarty and Ed Gantt, local boys, were runners-up in the final bouts.

The boys were accompanied to Carlsbad by A. B. Chapman, Hobart Wallin and Geo. Hull. Mr. Hull is director of athletics at the camp.

The camp softball team won the first half of the Littlefield league last year and they took high honors in 1938.

The CCC boys have participated in local invitation tournaments, and the Golden Gloves tournaments at Lubbock and Clovis. Officials who have conducted these tournaments have nothing but the highest praise for CCC men who have participated.

Whitharral Athletic Club Practicing

By Bruce Wren, Jr.
On March 25, 1940 the Whitharral Athletic Club started baseball practice. About 35 boys were out the first day but now the force has dwindled and each is trying diligently to make the first string.

The club will have a very strong team this year and we are expecting to win district again this year.

Mr. W. G. Sanderson, the coach, is expecting to have a winning team and our goal is not just the district champion, but at least a place in the state.

Reports indicate that the sportsmanship exhibited by the men of the camp has been of the highest type.

The 1938 basketball team from the camp emerged victor in a close game, and took 19 out of 81.

Blair's Cash And Carry Grocery Opens
To Public Saturday

A new business concern for Littlefield is the Blair's Cash and Carry Grocery, which is being established by Mrs. John Blair in the new building recently erected at the corner of XIT Drive and Fifth Street.

The store will be open and ready for business Saturday morning, April 6.

A complete line of staple groceries and cured meats will be carried. Self service will be featured.

This business is being established in a brand new building 25 x 41. A feature of the new store will be the purchase of eggs.

Appropriations Made For Continuance Of
CCC Camps In Nation

Allocation of enough funds from that provided for CCC supervision to that for enrollee maintenance to allow for an increase of 55 camps over the proposed 1227 during the next fiscal year was the chief change made in the CCC appropriation bill by the House of Representatives in Washington last week, and $50,000,000 was added to President Roosevelt's request for $200,000,000 for Civilian Conservation Corps, Thursday.

The president has asked for continuation of 273 of 1,500 camps in the United States.

Among those who spoke in opposition to the president's request was Rep. Pittenger of Minnesota. He said, "There has been no more constructive or valuable work done in behalf of the unemployed youth of the country than that carried on by the CCC. No reductions should be made in this appropriation for that activity at this time."

Rep. Ellis of Arkansas said: "I think that in all the seven years of the New Deal nothing has been thought out and inaugurated that has more completely met the overwhelming approval of the American people than the CCC. Its benefits are both direct and indirect. They will be felt even in the next half of the century.

"Since the proposed reductions have been known, we have been receiving requests from states and districts asking us to restore the cuts. Members of the Senate have been receiving the same requests. The reason is that the American people do not favor this reduction in the CCC. I hope some will offer an amendment, and if no one else does, I shall do so, to increase this appropriation by $50,000,000, so that all the camps may be retained."

Miss Maxine Cash returned home Wednesday afternoon after a three weeks visit with friends in Blythe and Los Angeles, California. She resumed her duties as secretary at the Payne-Shotwell Hospital this morning, Thursday. Mrs. Mary Beth Spears has been working in her place.

New Enterprise Gets Underway Monday Morning Hopping Establishes Dairy At His Farm In Fieldton Territory

A new enterprise has been added to the business establishments of this section.

J. W. Hopping has established a new modern dairy at his farm 13 miles north of Littlefield, in the Fieldton district, and Monday morning started his milk delivery service.

40 Head In Dairy Herd

A herd of 40 Jersey and Durham cows will supply the milk from the Hopping Dairy, which have been T. B. and blood tested by the State veterinarian.

All equipment and supplies are new and the most modern available, including the cellophane wrapped bottle caps.

New Panel Delivery

Included in the equipment is a beautiful Ford white panel delivery job, which is enamelled in white with red and blue lettering.

Mr. Hopping is one of the pioneers of this section, and has been closely associated with farming and stock raising all his life. He has been fieldman for Elwood Lands eleven years, maintaining his office in the Littlefield National Farm Loan building.

J. O. Connell will be in charge at the Dairy, while Dewey Connell will act as deliveryman.

pupils are out of school with the measles.

Neighbors of Fae Moore of Hart Camp are to be commended for their very worthy deed. Since Mr. Moore is ill, they finished the plowing at his farm. Rendering this kindness were: Leonard Sullivan, Mr. Shinn and Mr. Nixon.

Billy Frank Johnson, aged 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Johnson, who has been very ill with measles, is somewhat improved.

Bill Lynch, janitor at the school, and mechanic, is building a new garage on the east side of the Baptist church.

Haas Lynch, farmer of Hart Camp, has recently run a new foundation for his home, and installed a cellar. He has one of the most modern places, with irrigation well, etc.

Mrs. L. K. Kinsey, wife of the superintendent of Hart Camp schools, was rushed to the Littlefield Hospital Thursday night. He had been sick five or six days.

Plans are underway here to conduct a revival, but nothing definite arranged as yet.

Springfield, Ohio, Firm Low Bidder On Local Postoffice

Award Of Contract Scheduled To Be Made In Very Near Future

Names of the construction firms seeking the contract for the construction of the proposed post office for Littlefield have been reported to Federal Works Administrator John M. Carmody, by W. E. Reynolds, commissioner of public buildings. The three lowest bids of the eleven submitted were:

James I. Barnes Construction company, $53,400; Springfield, Ohio.

J. O. Boyd Construction company, $54,990; Dallas, Texas.

Quisile and Andrews, $55,800; Fort Worth, Texas.

Award of contract is scheduled to be made in the very near future after due consideration by the

"Honeymoon Isle" Free To Honeymooners

NEAR TAMPA, Fla.—Clinton M. Washburn of St. Petersburg recently broadcast an invitation to honeymooners all over the United States to make use of his romantic, sub-tropical island in the Gulf of Mexico for a two-week honeymoon. The honeymoon expenses are being paid by Mr. Washburn and a group of civic organizations which have taken an interest in the project. Some 2,000 couples sent in requests and from these the first lucky couples were selected. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Burkett, who arrived with the first group of honeymooners, are shown here in front of their thatched hut which they will occupy for two weeks.

Board of Awards, Mr. Reynolds said.

The new building has been designed for the Post Office Department by the Office of the Supervising Architect of the Public Buildings Administration. An allotment of $70,000 was made under the Construction Program act of 1938 to include the purchase of the site at the northeast corner of the City Hall Park, construction and administrative costs.

The architecture of the new post office will be modern and functional. A series of large windows, extending almost from base to cornice, are to be used as wall panels, where the spaces within demand ample light. Smaller wall facings will be brick above a concrete base. The entranceway, providing a glazed doorway and transom, will be reached from the street by means of concrete steps and platform which extend from one end of the facade to the other.

Interior plans indicate that the lobby will be fourteen feet wide and is to provide five service windows and almost 600 lock boxes for the convenience of the public. The postmaster's office, and workroom occupy the balance of the first floor.

Circle Back School Elects Teachers

The Circle Back School Board recently re-elected teachers at the regular board meeting.

Supt. M. W. McConnell and four teachers were elected, as follows: Smith Edwards, Miss Opal Hartzell, Miss Ruth Smith and Miss Maude Coates.

A P.T.A. meeting was held Monday night, March 25, when an Easter program, in charge of Miss Coates, was rendered, including readings, a play by Miss Smith's and Miss Coates' rooms, and several numbers by the Rhythm band.

Wyllis Allen, small son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Allen, was operated on for mastoid infection at Lubbock the first of last week. Miss Geneva Davenport of Aber-nath is now serving as post operator at the Littlefield Telephone Exchange. She has been here several weeks.

Littlefield Is Very Proud of It's CCC Camp
OUR CONGRATULATIONS . . .

The Officers, Supervisors, Technicians and the Fine Young Men Who Have Had A Part in Making the Littlefield Unit One of the Best in the U. S. During the Past Seven Years.

Fred L. Nix Is New FSA Supervisor For Lamb County

Fred L. Nix, who has been acting manager of the Ropesville project for the past two years, has been appointed farm supervisor for the Farm Security Administration in Lamb County, succeeding T. Euel Limer. Mr. Limer was transferred to the regional office in Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Nix arrived in Littlefield last weekend and are residing in the house owned by H. L. Collins, across the street from Peoples Laundry.

It is coincidental that Mr. Nix follow Mr. Limer as FSA supervisor in Lamb County, as their lives have been similar since they shot birds, played marbles and had fist fights, as little boys do in the same school. Each of them has drove their cars from their farm homes in the Canyon community, near Lubbock, to attend Texas Technological College, and were on the same livestock judging team. They graduated from Tech in 1932.

Both of them have been vocational agricultural teachers in Lamb County, Mr. Nix at Spring Lake and Mr. Limer at Littlefield. They were teachers three years before entering the Farm Security.

Oh, yes! They both married school teachers. Mrs. Nix is the former Miss Johnnie Kelley of Earth.

"BEST MAN WINS"

This man won the fight! That was the opinion of local officers Sunday afternoon when two men at Earth had a "good" fight and one of them came to Littlefield, told M. W. Brewer, local justice of the peace, about the "scrap", and immediately paid his $10 fine.

Deputy Sheriff Sid Hopping went to Earth Monday morning and arrested the other man, who had to pay a fine almost twice as much as the "winner of the fight".

Weather Recorder Found By Carl Smith; Returns To Uncle Sam

Carl Smith Tuesday sent a radio-meteorograph to the United States Weather Bureau in Baltimore, Maryland. He found the instrument when he recently visited the ranch owned by Lowell Short, near Encino, N. M., Mr. Smith has loaned Mr. Short's ranch.

The radio-meteorograph was released from the Weather Bureau department at Albuquerque. It is a metal box, six by twelve inches that is ascended by means of a balloon, and at the greatest height the balloon bursts returning the instrument to earth. While in the air this machine acts as a radio broadcaster of temperature of air, moisture of air, and heights through which it has passed. This information is received on the ground as the instrument falls.

It is possible that the instrument can be used again for the same purpose, so rewards are offered by the government for the return of the boxes.

Improvements Are Reported By Cicero-Smith Lumber Co.

Improvements in the building line this week reported by the Cicero-Smith Lumber Company, who supplied the following materials were:

A garage under construction for Reda Evans on the Evans property in Southmoor addition;

A four room residence under construction for B. F. Rutherford at Whitharral. The foundation is complete. Mr. Rutherford operates a store in Whitharral.

Seven Hundred Members Of Farm Families See Motion Pictures

At the Palace Theatre, Monday, March 25, about 700 members of farm families had the pleasure of seeing motion pictures and hearing A. C. Williams, president of The Federal Land Bank of Houston, tell of a trip last summer to European countries. The pictures were made by Mr. Williams while on a tour with a group of students from A. and M. College, visiting England, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, and Germany. As a principal purpose of the tour was to study the cotton spinning industry in all its phases, visits were made to manufacturing centers as well as the docks and warehouses where cotton is handled.

In telling of his experiences on the trip, Mr. Williams brought out many interesting facts about agricultural and economic conditions and the operations of farmers' cooperative societies in European countries. Spinners with whom the group talked liked American cotton, but for various reasons they have been using large quantities of cotton produced in other countries. He suggested that farmers who grow cotton give more attention to the quality of their product and the condition in which it reaches the market, and that they cooperate in campaigns to find new uses and increase the consumption of cotton.

Of particular interest was Mr. Williams' description of the manner in which the farmers of these older countries take care of the soil. They plan first, he said, for the family food supply and feed for their livestock, and by intensive cultivation they make a few acres do the work of many. Land is valuable, and not only do the farmers make every effort to prevent erosion, but they are constantly striving to build up the fertility of the soil so that it will produce bountiful crops.

In traveling through England, the group was impressed with the gardens and pastoral beauty of the English countryside. From the windows of the train they saw countless vegetable gardens, the green pastures of the rolling stockfarming section, dotted with well bred livestock. Pastures are small as compared with those in Texas but special attention has been given to increasing the carrying capacity.

"Norway is one of the most picturesque countries of Europe," Mr. Williams said. "One of the things that interested us most was the fact that most of the farms are so small. About 90 per cent of the farms have 25 acres or less in cultivation, of which 85,000 have five acres or less of cultivated land. Nearly two-thirds of the land in cultivation is in tame hay, and the agriculture of the country is built largely around livestock—dairy cattle, swine and poultry. Many farmers raise silver foxes and some have herds of reindeers. Another important crop is Irish potatoes." In Sweden, the group visited a large cotton mill that took cotton from the bale through all the various processes to finished articles of clothing, towels, etc. Farming units were larger in Sweden than in Norway. Not only in the private gardens and the parks, but in the most unexpected places there were blooming flowers in profusion. Even the lamp posts in Gotesborg were decorated with a sort of urn encircling the post in which bright flowers bloomed.

A brief stay in Holland afforded a glimpse of yet a different type of farming. With much of the country below sea level, drainage is sometimes a serious problem. In some sections, the water level in the canals is higher than the adjacent farm land, and pumps must be employed to take care of heavy rains or overflows. As a result, much of the land is devoted to pasture, butter and cheese production being one of the principal industries of the country. In Holland, Mr. Williams saw many Holstein and some Dutch belted cows.

"The Danish people," he said, "have made more progress than the people of any country in the development of cooperative organizations. It is reported that half of the people in Denmark belong to some form of cooperative, and the social business and political life of the people is built largely around these associations. Cooperative farm credit and cooperative marketing of farm products have reached a high state of development in all of the Scandinavian countries. In Copenhagen, a city of about a million people, we visited a large livestock show at which they exhibited only one type of cattle, the red Danish dual purpose cattle, and only one type of hog, the white Danish hog, that is noted for its fine bacon. It is hard for anyone who has not seen the country to realize the intensive type of agriculture that is practiced in Denmark. Of his trip to Germany, Mr. Williams said, "This was the first time I had seen regimented agriculture. While I was there, they were busy harvesting a bumper grain crop, and being short of farm labor they issued an order for the mobilization of college boys to assist with the harvesting. The German farmers are thrifty and industrious, take excellent care of the soil and produce good yields of staple crops. Most of the people I saw working in the fields were the older men and women. The younger men were either in the army or employed in the war industries."

"I was surprised to learn that one could not then buy in Germany a cotton bed sheet, cotton or cotton dress material. Those with whom I discussed the subject stated they would like very much to buy large quantities of our cotton because they did not have sufficient cotton and since they could not trade for things they manufacture for cotton it is necessary for them to use cotton substitutes of wood fiber."

In addition to agricultural and industrial scenes, the films contained many scenes of natural beauty and places of historical interest. This program was sponsored by the Littlefield National Farm Association of Littlefield.

Sheppard To Be Candidate For Senate In 1942

Senator Sheppard sent the Leader a copy of the following letter he mailed William M. Thornton, Staff Correspondent, Dallas News, Austin, Texas. Thinking it may be of interest to some of the Leader's readers, it is published below:

"I note your statement in the Dallas News of February 8 to the effect that it is felt by some that Morris Sheppard might be willing to step down in 1942, after having reached the age of 67 years and having seen 30 years of service in the Senate. In order to dispel this illusion let me say that I shall be a candidate for re-election in 1942. I have an ambition while continuing to serve the people with the best energies I possess to break the all-American record for length of service in Congress. Another elec-

Help Promote Safety — Dim Your Lights When Passing.

IN OTHER, blunter words, why be satisfied to trail?

Why buy a car that's content to follow along—when little, if any, more money will put you in a Buick up where the banners are flying?

For as five minutes on any busy street corner will show you, this year's automotive style pattern was cut by Buick a good twelve months ago.

This year's performance tempo was set two years back when the Buick Dynaflash engine appeared.

And this year's comfort standards still have some catching up to do to equal Buick's combination of four coil springs, recoil-mounted Knee-Action, the SUPER's five-foot front seat room and Foamtex cushions.

Eventually, perhaps, others may find a way to micropoise-balance engines after assembly in search of Buick's present silky smoothness.

They may get around to making Two-Way Direction Signals standard equipment instead of extras; they may heavy-up their frames, and generally seek to equal Buick's staunchness.

Meantime you'll have those Buick blessings to enjoy.

You'll step out front at the touch of an eager treadle, swing through the gear changes with light-and-easy finger-flicking, pilot a joyous traveler that's equally ready for work or play, and does everything with ease matched only by its smartness.

You'll drive the style-leader, the comfort-leader, the value-leader—a car full of things that will still be "new" a good two years from now.

And as a visit to your Buick dealer will show, you'll get it at prices like those you find on the sixes.

That gives you something real to look into. Start looking early — to get in on all the fun.

Under THE DOME At Austin

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press
Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, Texas, March 30.—(UP)—Texas bubbled with politics this week. Representative Albert Derden of Marlin and Alex Boulton of Palestine opened their races for governor, and the fight to align Texas' 46 delegates in the National Democratic convention for a third term for President Roosevelt got into full swing.

Mayor Tom Miller of Austin, chairman of the Roosevelt enthusiasts, launched the third-term campaign with a radio broadcast at Fort Worth after a challenge to debate was declined by Chairman E. B. Germany of the Garner-President forces.

Almost overshadowing the contest between the supporters of the president and vice-president for the time was interest in the political alignments brought about by the third term movement.

Former Governor Dan Moody shattered the choicest of these—a report that he and his ancient political foe James E. Ferguson were pulling together in the same Roosevelt harness. Moody spiked the report with the salty statement: "The only thing that Jim and I belong to together is the human race."

Personal differences failed to keep two of Texas' fiery mayors from joining in the Roosevelt third term movement. Mayor Maury Maverick and Mayor Tom Miller were almost at each others' throats a few weeks ago about realitory ordinances between Austin and San Antonio.

Mayor Maverick was not enthusiastic about Mayor Miller being head of the Roosevelt movement but announced he would "go along."

"We are in the same boat about this," Miller commented.

Roosevelt supporters hailed with delight the visit of U. S. Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes to Kilgore. Ickes has been a consistent advocate of a third term. Garner supporters were equally buoyant over the scheduled visit of Postmaster General Jim Farley. Postmaster Burrus Jackson of Hillsboro and Former State Democratic chairman Myron Bialock of Marshall, both Garner-for-President leaders, arranged to be hosts to Farley.

Politics for a time threatened to mar Secretary Ickes' visit. Mayor Roy Laird of Kilgore invited Col. Ernest O. Thompson to introduce Ickes at Kilgore. It was a gesture to show cordiality, for Thompson and Ickes have been opposing leaders in a battle over Federal vs. state oil control.

Secretary Ickes however objected to Thompson as his sponsor. He notified the Kilgore Chamber of Commerce, banquet hosts, that he did not want to become "involved" in Texas politics. Thompson will be a candidate for governor.

Colonel Thompson gracefully saved the situation by withdrawing. "I was not thinking of politics in accepting," Thompson said. "If I had been thinking in that vein, I would most assuredly have declined. To me it was merely a courteous gesture to an adversary who was a guest in Texas." Ickes eschewed politics in his speech, talked only of oil.

Equally interesting to Texans was the apparent linking of a third term of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson with the Roosevelt third term movement. Though her terms would not be successive ones, Mrs. Ferguson pointed out that if they run both she and the president will be third term candidates. This tying of the two candidacies together made the Moody-Ferguson combination all the more impossible.

Whether "Ma" will run again, she said, depends on the result of a post card response to the suggestion.

Copyright question entered into two state events of the week. Listeners to Governor W. Lee O'Daniel's radio broadcast last Sunday had a sudden interruption when he called upon Leon Huff and the Hillbilly Boys for a rendition of "The Easter Parade." Some stations hastily cut off the broadcast and turned on transcribed music, explaining that "The Easter Parade" is restricted. Others thought it unrestricted and proceeded.

Candidate Derden as part of his platform for his campaign for Governor announce a plan to abolish the four-cents-a-gallon tax collected on use of gasoline and proposed instead a tax of 1 cent on manufacture of each gallon of gasoline. He said the lower tax on processing would amount to much more than the higher tax on consumption in Texas and shift most of the burden to consumers elsewhere.

Former Representative Harry L. McKee of Port Arthur, candidate for state treasurer, is advocating the same plan and has copyrighted a bill with such provisions.

Two other issues put into the campaign by Derden were noteworthy. He proposed divorcing oil pipe lines from other oil activity and said it could be done by prohibiting one person owning stock in a corporation engaged in piping oil if he were also a stockholder in a corporation producing or refining oil.

His other proposal was a state land bank to finance purchase of small farms, as a means to return dispossessed tenant farmers to the land. The method to finance the bank was not made clear, but after it is established, Derden plans to make its loans for 40 years requiring no down payment from the land purchaser.

First issue of "The W. Lee O'Daniel News" in Fort Worth was waited at week end. The governor set April 4 as tentative date for volume 1, number 1.

It will be an eight column usual size newspaper, he said, carrying his radio broadcasts in full and also publishing in full documents connected with the state government.

Vegetable Laxative Has Important Points

Most people want a laxative to do three things: (1) act punctually, (2) act thoroughly, (3) act gently.

Here's one that usually fills all three requirements when the easy directions are followed. It's an all-vegetable product whose principal ingredient has medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative."

That's the ingredient which enables BLACK-DRAUGHT to help tone lazy bowel muscles. It is the main reason for the satisfying relief from constipation that generally follows next morning when BLACK-DRAUGHT is taken at bedtime. The millions of packages used are proof of its merit.

It was noted that the Governor offered four months subscriptions as a starter. That would carry it through the period for the first Democratic primary election.

If "Ma" Ferguson enters race, another weekly will be field. In that event "Editor" has announced he will revive Ferguson Forum.

HEARTS WALKING

Mrs. Harry Pugh Smith

Chapter II
SYNOPSIS

Phillips has no car of her well-to-do father, like her in Bay City. But now that she has finished high school and is away at finishing school, Janet finds that she is of much of their gayety. Leigh—at the moment in Janet's old friend Gordon—is making herself a dance on an evening, tells a cannot take her as he is with the crowd to a dinner at the dinner. Jim Phillips, brother, is about to play with Ruth Hetchcote.

friends, will you, Jim?"

"Not on you and the Judge." "Father did well for himself when he tolled you into the legal profession."

Jim grinned. "You mean it was my lucky day when he decided to lend me the money for law school."

"You're already worth your weight in gold to him at the office."

"If he hadn't taken me into partnership I'd probably be waiting yet for my first client."

"You'll have to admit that it isn't everybody who'd spend his vacation doing somebody else's work."

"I couldn't let Jock down, Ruth. He gave me my first job."

"You couldn't let anybody down," she said and sighed again.

Jim knew she was thinking of Howard Leigh of whom the same than when he was turning the thumb-screws on Ruth Hetchcote. She had been in love with him for years. It was agreed that they would marry eventually, only Howard was forever flying off after other girls. Until each of his affairs ran its hectic course Ruth suffered exquisite torture. For a week Howard had been devoting himself to his sister's visitor from New York, but Ruth Hetchcote was a thoroughbred. Nothing of her unhappiness was in her even voice.

"How do you do, Miss Sanders?" she murmured and put out her hand.

"How do you do?" murmured the other girl.

"And this is Red, our club pro," Howard went on in an offhand manner.

scent of Babe Ruth than of Walter Hagen. She narrowed her eyes, bit her lip, gave her club head a peculiarly vicious glare and flailed the air. This time she dug up a divot of turf from behind the tee and lost a hairpin, but the ball remained undisturbed.

"It looks as if there's more to this than buying the latest thing in sports clothes," she announced moseously.

"Don't be silly," said Miss Helen Sanders peevishly. "I'll hit the darned pill or burst."

In Jim's opinion she had a rotten temper, nevertheless he found it impossible to watch her without a tingle in his pulses. Every move she made was graceful.

"There!" she cried. "I've done it."

She had indeed connected with the ball, although she topped it and it weakly trickled less than thirty feet from the tee.

"Success!" murmured Jim with an ironical grin.

"Lead on," she said curtly. "I'm in this up to the neck."

In spite of her potent conviction that it was less majestic for fate to permit her to play less than the leading role, Miss Helen Sanders made every blunder possible to the beginner. When distance was necessary, she chopped her ball about twenty feet if she moved it at all. Where only a gentle stroke was needed, she whaled into the branches of a tree in the next fairway. She lost ten balls in the rough, burst three rubber tees, and took from fifteen to thirty strokes on every hole. By the time they completed the first nine holes Howard was in a black rage. He, too, had reached the point where a decent putt was beyond him and his last three drives hooked into the ravine.

"Don't you think this has gone far enough?" he demanded furiously.

"I'll finish if they have to carry me in on a stretcher," she said.

It began to look to Jim as if they might have to do just that, provided that the sun did not set in the meanwhile.

She and Howard Leigh were of a pattern, Jim thought, except that where the Leighs counted their fortune by thousands, Helen Sanders' father reckoned his in millions. She had all of Howard's objectionable traits magnified to the nth degree, and Jim never had any patience with that brand of arrogance.

Nevertheless her glance had an effect upon his heartbeats which disturbed him. He had never had the time or the money to play around with girls. He knew very little about any except his two sisters and Ruth Hetchcote, for whom he had a big-brotherly affection. But he was no fool and he distrusted from the beginning the mixed emotions with which Miss Helen Sanders inspired him.

"If you want golf lessons I'm here for that purpose," he said briefly. "Only I think I should warn you it is likely to be a waste of your money and my time."

She was making one more attempt to put her ball into the cup, "You really mean you don't like me, don't you?"

Jim's eyes were fascinated by her rounded throat where she had turned her collar in. "Yes," he said a little hoarsely.

She smothered a yawn, swung her putter and sighed with satisfaction when her ball flirted with the cup and finally rolled coyly in. "Don't let me worry you," she remarked comely.

"God forbid!" cried Jim.

Janet said she had to pick up her brother at the club, which happened to be true, but not the whole truth. When she borrowed Jim's roadster for the afternoon she promised to collect him later. However, it was useless to call for Jim before dark.

"But I couldn't stay on at Priscilla's as if I were trying to sneak in on the dinner part," she muttered.

It was pure coincidence that she happened to be passing the smart apartment building in which her sister had been living for a year and a half.

"I'll go up and trade my tale of woe for Berenice's," Janet decided with a rueful grin.

Berenice was twenty-two. She had fallen desperately in love with Bill Carter when she was nineteen and married him two months later. Bill had just secured his first job, selling radio advertising. His salary was small. At first they had had to live in two housekeeping rooms and Berenice was compelled to budget rigidly, but they had been tremendously in love. Janet's heart ached when she remembered how radiantly happy Berenice and Bill had been that first year before Bill had a raise in salary and they moved to the new efficiency apartment on Wilshire Boulevard.

"Who is it?" asked Berenice sharply when Janet knocked.

"Do I have to give a counter-signal?" inquired Janet.

"Oh, it's you," murmured Berenice not too graciously.

"You'd think you were afraid of the police," remarked Janet.

She knew quite well of what Berenice was afraid. There was a bridge table set up in the middle of the living room. Appended to each corner were chromium trays in which stood bedewed and partially emptied highball glasses. The three women lolling back in their chairs held lighted cigarettes. Janet had met them all at various times. They also lived in the apartment building and, like her sister, had more leisure than anything else.

"Berenice never draws an easy breath when we're up here for fear friend husband will walk in," Mary Shelton explained to Janet. "You'd think it was the dark ages the way she lets that guy cramp her style."

"There's just enough ginger ale for another highball, Janet, if you want one," she suggested.

"Janet doesn't indulge," put in Berenice quickly.

May Shelton giggled. "Don't tell me you have scruples like Berenice's Bill."

"It's partly that," admitted Janet with a shrug, "and partly that I have more expensive habits now than I can afford."

Berenice scowled and glanced at the score pad on the table. "Speaking of expensive habits," she said, "total up and give us the bad news."

"But we haven't finished the last rubber," protested Sue Berry.

Berenice glanced at the small electric clock on the slender console table in the entry. "Bill will be home in half an hour. Sorry, here're your hats."

May Shelton laughed. "Thank goodness I'm not hitched to a flat tire."

Berenice flushed. "Bill's all right," she said loyally, "only he has old ideas."

"Sue's high," announced Lou Fletcher. "You owe her sixty-five cents, Berenice. I'm a quarter loser. Here it is."

Berenice fished a handful of coins from her purse. "The Berry family will have steak for supper," announced Sue, gleefully pocketing her winnings.

"And here's where I set Bill down to another can of pork and beans," said Berenice.

thing could never be said. Howard and Priscilla were the spoiled and pampered children of one of the town's leading citizens. They were not altogether to blame for being selfish and inconsiderate. Only how Ruth Hetchcote could care for Howard was something Jim had never understood.

"Jock didn't mind an emergency operation for appendicitis half so much as having to be away from the club in the height of the season," Jim explained. "The minute I said I'd take over his duties here, his fever dropped. He called me a blithering idiot to give up the fishing trip I'd planned, but he squeezed my hand, the old curmudgeon."

The foursome ahead of them moved on. Jim and Ruth had no caddy. He stopped and made a tee of soft wet sand for her ball, but before she could drive off a couple came toward them from the clubhouse. Jim did not need to look around. He knew who it was by the painful flush which washed into Ruth's sensitive face.

"Oh, hello, Ruth, how are you?" murmured Howard Leigh. "You haven't met Miss Sanders, have you? Helen, this is Miss Hetchcote."

Jim stared steadily at a point far down the fairway. He always felt like committing mayhem around Howard Leigh, and never more so

Jim glanced at her, muttered an acknowledgment, and then glanced quickly away. She was as pretty a girl as he had ever seen, with a pointed face and exquisite golden skin and long bronze hair knotted on her neck. She had sultry dark eyes and a petulant red mouth, and she was beautifully dressed in a wine-colored sports ensemble with white accessories.

"We were just starting a round," said Ruth hesitatingly. "Would you care to join us?"

"Why not?" asked Miss Sanders. "I've never played golf, but Howard's to take fifteen minutes off and show me how."

"Really?" murmured Ruth.

Howard frowned and again started to speak, only to be forestalled for the second time by his companion. "I've never had a driver in my hand, but if Howard's as good as he says he is, we should be able to interest you two," she remarked.

Jim grinned. Howard's handsome face was crimson. It occurred to Jim that in the arrogant young heiress from New York Howard had met his match.

"All right," said Jim, "let's go."

Ruth drove first and it was a pleasure to see her ball wing straight down the fairway.

"It looks idiotically simple," murmured Miss Helen Sanders.

"You're supposed to hold your club like this," said Jim when she grasped the driver which Howard handed her as if it were a baseball bat.

Jim attempted to demonstrate the interlocking grip but Miss Sanders made it plain that she neither desired nor required instruction.

She took a stance, more remi-

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking, risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

built the past year on the 4,000 acre ranch by the soil conservation service, and at Bull Lake a spring was found and water was piped from the spring to a stock tank. Pasture furrowing and grazing is also practiced on this ranch.

One of the outstanding examples of the work being done by the soil conservation service may be found in the improvements that have been effected the past four years on the Yellowhouse ranch, owned by Geo. L. White, located 12 miles southwest of Littlefield. Work on this project was started about four years ago and there is still more work to be done in compliance with the original contract between the owners and the government.

The 23,000 acre ranch was one of the first tracts of land to be taken under agreement by the soil conservation service. Before the owner decided to cooperate with the CCC camp, his ranch was badly overgrazed and very heavily overstocked. Now—by the development of several water stocking ponds and dams, and pasture contour furrowing and vegetation of denuded areas, Mr. White not only feels that the SCS has stabilized his ranch, but he also feels that it has greatly increased the value of his land.

FASHION for today BY PATRICIA DOW

If you try out this lovely design (8661) you'll be forever converted to the truth that to have dresses that are individual and magically slenderizing, the best thing is to make them yourself! Designed with pointed front panel that belittles the waistline and flattens the diaphragm this dress has bodice gathers to assure correct fit over the bust, and beautifully slim hips.

Accurately sized in the 36 to 52 range, it fits to perfection, and literally melts the pounds from your appearance. It's extremely smart, too, whether you choose to leave the deep v-neckline plain, or add softening frills there and at the sleeve edges. Thin wool, rayon jersey and flat crepe are smooth materials that make up beautifully this way.

Pattern No. 8661 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52.

Pattern 8665—Your own small girl will look pretty as a picture, and feel oh so dressed up, in this sweet little frock (8665) that you can make her, so quickly and easily.

The nice part about this pattern is that it makes up just as well in sturdy cottons like gingham or lawn, for school, as it does in party materials like taffeta, organdy or lawn. Thus you can use it time again. Neither your nor your little girl will ever tire of a dress as well designed and beautifully simple as this, with its pointed waistline, puff sleeves, flared skirt and crisp, beguiling frills.

Pattern No. 8665 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years.

CHURCHES

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
Roy Shahan, Pastor

Revival services will continue through Sunday. March has come and gone. "MARCH TO CHURCH IN MARCH" made this three months efforts the best since we came to Littlefield. Three hundred and ten in Bible school last Sunday. The average per Sunday for March was 290. The offerings were far above the average. Good attendance at the preaching services.

Though March is gone, April is here. People need to go to the Lord's House every Sunday in each and every month. Many of our people did not come during March. We want you. We NEED you. You NEED us.

FIFTY men are wanted and expected in the mens Bible class Sunday. "Come thou with us and we will do thee good". Num. 10:29.

Emmanuel Lutheran Church

Morning Worship, English, 11:00.
Sunday school, 10:30.
Adult Bible class, 10:30.
Morning Worship, German, 9:30.
Evening Worship, 8:00.

Next Sunday morning Holy Communion will be celebrated in the German service. Another communion service will be held in the evening service. Announcements are to be made next Saturday afternoon and evening.

Next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 there will be held the regular quarterly meeting of the Voter's Assembly.

In our evening service we are preaching on the Lord's Prayer. The text will be "Our Father Who Art in Heaven."

Amherst Methodist Church

Last Sunday was another good day with one coming by vows and four on profession of faith. The largest attendance at Church school since we have been here. Thru the illness of the Baptist pastor we were given the pleasure of the Baptist people visiting with us Sunday night. We regret his sickness but appreciate their confidence in coming to worship with us.

The Quarterly conference Monday night was well attended with all reports given in good condition. The District Superintendent failed to call on some but due to all this new setup thru Unification it will take awhile to get adjusted to the change. He was apparently highly pleased with what we had to give him and the conference as a church.

We are sending in the names of our members and delegates to Tulsa pastor for the District conference next week, so if you cannot attend better let us know, so others may have your place.

We are glad to report that Mrs. Warren was much improved Monday and was able to have callers and talk to them in her natural way. Write her or go see her at the Plains Hospital south of Tech at Lubbock. Others are still improving.

Next Sunday is Holy Communion Day and as we have missed some of these days we hope for this one to be a good one. You come and be with us. Encourage your teachers and officers by being at Church school on time. Night services for leagues and group meetings at 7:30 and the church hour at 8.

Methodist Women Have Bible Lesson Monday Afternoon

An interesting program was held at the Missionary Society Monday afternoon at the First Methodist church. Mrs. J. H. Sharp led the Biblical study.

Next Monday afternoon reports will be given from those who attended the annual Missionary Conference at Plainview last week. The highlight of the conference was the visit and address made by Miss Sue Stanford, who has been a missionary to China for the past 22 years.

Three Million Dollar Industry—

"Texas has the finest climatic and range conditions in the world for Karakul sheep raising," declared J. E. McDonald, State Commissioner of Agriculture, on a recent visit to George H. Kiosseff's Parker county Karakul sheep ranch where successful experiments have proved that Texans have a new three Million dollar industry awaiting simple and easy development.

Mr. Kiosseff (pronounced Key-oseff) a native Bulgarian whose grandfathers and one great-grandfather were killed by the Turks and who himself had to wear a fez until he was 12 years old, has shown, through four years of experimentations in cooperation with the State Department of Agriculture, that this fur, wool and mutton producing sheep gives better quality pelts than have been obtained in the native habitat, West Central Asia.

Mr. McDonald said statistics show that the United States imports annually three million dollars worth of Karakul and Persian lambskins, and this country, which consumes 85 per cent of the world's production, produces less than ten thousand skins a year, whereas German Southwest Africa last year produced one million two hundred thousand lambskins.

Of course, women know that the soft, tightly curled, tar-black Persian lamb is born of the Karakul sheep, and from a number of these lovely little pelts are made the beautiful coats and wraps so desired by women.

Right now, with the world trade conditions as they are and the country's foreign source of fur supply cut drastically, Texans stand an unusual opportunity to cop the world market in Karakul, believes Mr. Kiosseff who comes of the third generation of Karakul raisers and has spent his life in the fur trade. He also claims the sheep will do as well on damp lowlands, as on hilly semi-arid lands. With the exception of our milder winters the climate throughout Texas is much like that of Bokhara, in the heart of Central Asia, where the breed originated. "Over there," he says, "the sheep are raised on the hilly country as well as on the lowlands. They will lamb twice a year if their lambs are taken when a few days old, and have been known to produce at this rate for 14 years. No special season is required for the production of fine pelts."

Mr. Kiosseff thinks they are the hardest sheep in the world and declares it costs less to feed a Karakul sheep than it does a turkey. As a mutton producer he says they top the market.

In hopes that Texas farmers and ranchmen will take advantage of Commissioner McDonald's and Mr. Kiosseff's findings, the first of a series of educational meetings is scheduled to be held in Weatherford, Tuesday afternoon, on April 9, at which time the Junior Chamber of Commerce plans to entertain several hundred farmers and ranchmen from this area.

More Than 300 Cooperators In CCC Camp Area

Wildlife Project And Spring Development Outstanding This Year

In the CCC camp area, there are approximately 300 cooperators with the soil conservation service, landowners and farmers who are interested in the practices of the SCS.

One of the outstanding projects this year is the Wildlife Rehabilitation Project on the Cobb Ranch in Hockley County, southwest of Littlefield. The 3,000 acre ranch is owned by Gordon Cobb of Whitharral and Tom Cobb of Brownfield.

The soil conservation service, in cooperation with the State Game and Fish Commission, have made this place a quail refuge, fencing areas for quail protection and planted wildlife shrubs for shelter and food. This is the only quail refuge in this camp area.

The State Game and Fish Commission reserved the right to trap the excess of birds for other projects, and have restricted hunting on the ranch.

Another interesting project is the Spring Development, the only one of its kind in this area, located on the Foust and Smith ranch, southwest of Littlefield, which includes Bull Lake.

Majority Favors Traffic Control On Main Street

Late Wednesday afternoon 37 forms were checked by B. L. Cogdill, secretary of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce and 32 had "yes" written favoring the control of double parking, and five against the question. This was the result of the canvass made through questionnaires given to business concerns Monday.

Explanations and ideas were given by business men on these forms—some stating that all trucks should be restricted from parking on Main Street; others suggested parking lots; no "U" turns only at the intersection at the City Hall; stop signs at the intersections; and speeding eliminated.

No definite action was taken on this matter at the present time.

Wisconsin Votes 3 To 1 For Roosevelt

President Roosevelt and Thomas E. Dewey emerged easy victors in Wisconsin's presidential primaries Wednesday, but the complicated balloting system may cut into their states of national convention delegates.

Mr. Roosevelt, still silent on the third term issue, led Vice President Garner by a nearly 3 to 1 ratio in the Wisconsin preferential voting on the Democratic ticket.

On the Republican ballot, delegates-at-large pledged to District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York ran about 2 to 1 ahead of the ticket supporting Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan.

Consequently, the vote for third term delegates were split, raising the possibility that in final returns one or more Garner delegates might slip into the selected group.
