LITTLEFIELD, LAMB COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1967

NUMBER 28

MUNICIPAL VOTING BOX DESIGNATED

Option Election Set Dec. 9

Opposition Rally Planned Sunday

An election has been scheduled Dec. 9 to decide whether the corporate city of Littlefield will remain dry or legalize the sale of all alcoholic beverages for off-premise consumption only.

Voting place will be the City Hall, with absentee balloting headquarters in the office of the county clerk at Lamb County Court House.

The action came after a petition bearing signatures of 800 certified residential voters was presented to Lamb County Commissioners Court Monday. Upon finding the petition in order, the Court set the date for election.

According to the state code, Article 666-33, Order for Election, after such a certified petition is presented to the court, an election must be called within not less than 20 days nor more than 30 days after the date of call. Dates involved were any day from Dec. 4 through Dec. 13.

Absentee voting period begins 20 days prior to the election date and continues through the fourth day preceding the election, according to the code. Absentee ballots will be accepted at the county clerk's office from Monday, Nov. 20 through the close of business at 5 p.m., Dec. 5.

County Clerk Charles Jones said numerous persons had inquired why the voting box will be at the City Hall rather than a place designated in Precincts 12 and 16, inside the city, as the city lies within the two precincts.

According to Article 666-33, which designates voting places in optional elections, balloting shall take place "at a voting place within each election precinct established by the governing body of the city or town for its municipal elections if the election is for an incorporated city or town." As the current optional election involves only the area within the city limits of Littlefield, the voting box will be located at the usual place for municipal elections, which is the City Hall.

On Monday, Nov. 6, 56 petitions with 877 signatures were filed at the office of the county clerk. It then became the duty of the county clerk to certify the signatures as those of qualified residential voters within the city limits. The signatures also were checked for consistency with residential address, registration number and signature as listed on the county's official voting register.

From the 877 original count, 61 were subtracted due to inconsistencies when compared with the voting register and another 16 were deleted by affidavit, leaving a net count of 800 certified signers.

After certification, and in accord with code requirements, the clerk presented the certificate to the County Commissioners Court at its next regular session which was Monday, Nov. 13.

About 30 interested persons were present for the court session. A member of the group opposing the election asked the court if the election date could be extended.

County Attorney Curtis Wilkinson explained the contents of the election code and that the Commission is legally bound to call the election according to the time table designated. He explained such a petition, found to be in order, is a mandate to the court to set the election and that the code prescribes the time element involved.

J. D. Smith was appointed as election judge, with Tom Hilburn named alternate. County Clerk Jones is in charge of absentee balloting. Hubert Dykes, serving as chairman of the Commission in the absence of County Judge O. J. Mangum, presided.

The Order For Local Option Election shows that commissioners present for the County Court session were A. J. Spain, Commissioner Precinct 1; H. W. Lewis, Precinct 2; J. L. Yeager, Precinct 3, and Hubert Dykes, Precinct 4.

Excerpts from the Order state: "It appearing to the satisfaction of this Court that said petition was filed with the Clerk of this Court within thirty (30) days after the date said petition was issued by said Clerk on the 20th day of October, A. D. 1967, and that said Clerk has certified to this Court that said petition bears the actual signatures exactly as the name of each appears on the official copy of the current voter registration certificate list . . . 800 qualified voters of said City of Littlefield . . . and that said

Contest Leader Finally Wins Weekly Money

Only two more weekends remain in the Leader-News football contest, and Sudan's Joe Bellar appears to have a comfortable lead in the running for the two Cotton Bowl tickets.

Though he has led in the overall standings since the fourth week, he had never won first place weekly money. But he did last weekend, and in doing so, increased his lead over runner up Lamar Pollard by two.

Bellar tied with T. P. Wingo Jr., another Sudan contestant, and Ray C. Ivey of Amherst. Each man missed one game. But Bellar was the closest on his tie breaker choices and was judged first, Wingo was second and Ivey third.

Bellar missed the Canyon-Muleshoe game, while Wingo and Ivey were surprised on their Amherst-Rossville selections.

Only once before has Bellar placed in the weekly money, though he has been tied with the money winners three times. Wingo took third place money in the third week, but Ivey is winning his money for the first time.

Consistent Bellar, who has had only two poor weeks this season in picking the winners, now has 132 correct guesses. He was off on the second and seventh weeks, missing five in each.

Pollard missed three last week, and dropped six out from Bellar. But he remains in second place, one ahead of Johnnie Blair, Charles Ddway and Don Hevern. Paul Yarbrough and A. A. Smith have 125 correct guesses for the season, followed by H. A. Mitchell, 122; Lee Roy Nuttall, 121; Floyce Pierce, Jerry Williams and Wingo, 120; and James Adair, Monty Rodgers and Arthur Duggan wind up the leaders with 119.

Overall winners will be announced in the issue of Nov. 30.

Clayton Discusses Area Water Needs

State Representative Bill Clayton of Springlake, during an informal question-and-answer period at a coffee honoring him here Tuesday, told the crowd, "through the united efforts of all the people of West Texas, I think we finally have convened the Water Development Board that this is the most critical area."

The comment was made while answering questions regarding obtaining water for West Texas and the Texas Plains.

When asked if Water, Inc. and High Plains Water District are working in conflict, Clayton said, "No, they are not in conflict with each other" and explained both groups are working for the same goal -- to obtain water for the most critical areas. "Being from this part of the state, I feel we have the most critical problem. I have been working both with Water, Inc. and High Plains Water District."

He added, "As you know, they tell us by 1985 we are going to have a real water problem here."

Asked about the potential of refining water containing salt and other such minerals, which can be tapped at about 2,200 feet, Clayton answered, "I suspect that within the next year or two there will be a plant in West Texas" to test and experiment with such a project.

In regard to securing ample water for this area, Clayton was asked, "Would the water distribution be handled by local

Board Proposes Study Of Vocational Agenda

Courses such as aerospace education, electronics and data processing came under discussion by Littlefield School Board Monday night and resulted in decision to obtain cost figures and other specific information regarding possible addition of such courses to the school curriculum.

One Board member referred to statistics he recently heard given on aerospace and said aerospace "in all its aspects" was described as the largest single industry in the United States today.

Emphasis also was placed on the fact that many high school students are not college material. Board President Jack Barton stated, "We have missed the boat if we haven't trained these students for an occupation."

As the discussion developed, occupational training was stressed and one member commented, "This might be the answer to some problem students."

Another noted, "Electronics would be a shot in the arm to boys going into Service." Barton told the Board, "We have the responsibility as a School Board to keep a review going of the actual needs of the students."

Decision was made to investigate interest in nearby towns and communities with an eye toward a cooperative regional vocational school in which a variety of vocational courses could be taught, including courses for girls. Barton pointed out, "We don't have enough vocational training for girls."

As to the specific courses of aerospace, electronics and data processing, the Board was talking in terms of courses for juniors and seniors in high school. Among information offered by Board members was the statement that 15,000 electronic positions are available in Texas for qualified people.

Supt. Paul I. Jones described a visit made by the superintendent and several board members to investigate aerospace courses in El Paso schools. He told the board, "Aerospace is here -- apparently to stay." He noted that local schools may be falling short in not offering "some training of this sort, particularly to juniors and seniors." Jones said the courses observed at El Paso used both lab and theory study. He and the participating board members said students would be ready for plane flight instruction after finishing the course in high school.

While at the El Paso schools, the group became interested in data processing courses and equipment which ranged from key punch machines to computing. Members of the group commented Monday night that girls operating the machines would be ready for good paying jobs when they completed the course if they did not attend college.

As interest grew among members, the Board decided to investigate data processing at every opportunity.

City Seeks Parking Ordinance

Mayor J. E. Chisholm has formed The Leader-News at the City began efforts Monday toward obtaining an ordinance prohibiting certain type vehicles from parking on city streets.

The mayor said the City has been working on such an ordinance for "some time" and speeded up efforts after a traffic fatality occurred last weekend. A park vehicle was involved in the crash.

Mayor Chisholm said, he telephoned the Municipal League at Austin Monday and discussed the possibility of such an ordinance. Also, the city attorney is checking into an ordinance prohibiting certain type vehicles to be parked on city streets.

He said the Municipal League is sending sample ordinances to the Littlefield City Council for study.

Mayor Chisholm said such ordinances are difficult to enforce as it is "hard to know where to draw the line" in defining which vehicles are included in the ordinance.

Throckmorton Takes 24 Firsts

NILAH RODGERS

CLIFFORD THROCKMORTON placed 24 firsts out of 25 possible 25 while showing lambs in three New Mexico fairs at Clovis, Portales and Albuquerque.

In addition to these wins he placed in nine divisions at the Texas State Fair in Dallas.

His biggest pride, however, is for little 14-year-old Diane of Dora, N.M.

Little Miss Hayes bought a job last June from Throckmorton. It placed grand champion fat lamb at the N. M. State Fair in Albuquerque.

She brought $30 per pound at auction for a grand sum of $50. "That will put me through college," she reported happily.

Throckmorton took 12 head to Curry Co. Fair at Clovis. His winnings were grand champion ewe and grand champion ram; first place exhibition lamb; first get of a sire (4 ewes); two of each sex, from sire; pen of three ewe lambs; and pen of three ram lambs, first.

These same 12 lambs also placed identically at Portales, N.M.

The lambs placed in the same categories at the New Mexico

State Fair except here Throckmorton placed a reserve champion ewe, a grand champion ram, and reserve champion ram.

At the Texas State Fair, Throckmorton's lambs won a first place; reserve champion ram; fifth and sixth place with yearling ewes; a sixth and seventh, ewe lambs; seventh place ram; fourth, yearling rams; pen of three yearling lambs, third; pen of three ram lambs, third; pen of three ewe lambs, fourth; and exhibition, flock, and third.

CLIFFORD THROCKMORTON holds the yearling ewe that placed in four fairs in October. The animal was Grand Champion ewe at three New Mexico fairs and took a fifth place--and her first defeat--at the Texas State Fair at Dallas.

NOT TWO PICTURES of the same house but two separate houses which "grace" the corners of Herral and E. 7th directly across the street from each other are shown here. Unoccupied, the houses are almost hidden by weeds and other rampant growth and most windows are broken. Uninviting scenes such as this are the targets of the citywide clean-up campaign now underway.

Forum Meets, Has Program

Twelve members of Forum met at the home of Mrs. Lou Driskill Nov. 9. Each member answered roll call by revealing her personal plans for Thanksgiving.

After a short business meeting, Mrs. Addie Abernathy told of the first Thanksgiving that was celebrated in America by the Pilgrims, and followed the history of Thanksgiving up to the present time.

Astronaut Scott Carpenter orbited the earth three times in May, 1962, in the Aurora 7 Mercury capsule.

After a short business meeting, Americans still prepare many of the same foods for present-day Thanksgiving feasts as was prepared by the Pilgrims, although they may be cooked in a different manner.

One delicacy the Pilgrim enjoyed was pumpkin filled with maple sap and cooked whole. This was served as dessert. The next meeting will be Dec. 14 at the home of Mrs. Daphene Smith.

Anthony's Planning Special Promotion To Honor Founder

All 302 Anthony's stores, including Littlefield will undertake a gigantic project Saturday, November 17, to honor their founder, C. R. Anthony. On that day, according to Charles Barrett, local manager, the stores have set a combined sales goal of $1,000,000 in merchandise, a figure never before surpassed by the department store chain.

Titled "Founder's Day Sell-A-Bration," the event is a promotion designed by the Anthony's employees throughout 21 states to honor their "boss" and mark the 46th anniversary of the C. R. Anthony Company.

"Founder's Day" activities will begin on Friday night with a "party" at the local store from 6:30 p.m. until 9 p.m. The Friday night event will be complete with free refreshments, and registration for a doorprize which will be given away shortly before 9 p.m. Registration for the prize will be conducted only during the night event.

The story of the C. R. Anthony Company is a story of the American free enterprise system. It is the story of Charles Ross Anthony, a Tennessee farm boy who was orphaned at 13 and had to set out to make his own way.

Anthony's parents were Tennessee tenant farmers. When he was seven years old, he was chopping and picking cotton. At thirteen, he was grubbing sassafras and splitting rails to earn money. When he finally accumulated $24, he rode the Home Seekers Special to Indian Territory (what is now Holdenville, Oklahoma) arriving there with a nickel in his home-spun jeans.

He needed a job and applied at a general store owned and operated by a widow. Anthony sold himself to her and it was there he apprenticed in the merchantile business.

When the widow decided to sell the business, she wanted him to buy it. With a little cash and a $6,000 bank loan, C. R. Anthony, at eighteen, was in business for himself. The first year he cleared his indebtedness, but the next year the floods came and he was nearly wiped out when he granted credit until the financial strain was too great.

Karen Carter Has Birthday

Mrs. E. E. Carter honored her daughter, Karen, with a party Saturday, Nov. 11, to celebrate Karen's ninth birthday. Games were played and refreshments of birthday cake, ice cream and punch were served to the guests who attended. They were Leigh Kirby, Christa Beth Bradley, Susie Thompson, Debbie Mitchell, Rana Wheeler, Bradley Wheeler, Melissa Sawyer, Charles Carter, Sandra Carter; Karen's aunt, Mrs. Don Wheeler; her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Henry.

He didn't go bankrupt, but barely got out with his shirt.

Through the years he tried various jobs, but was determined to someday to return to the merchantile business.

It was forty six years ago this year that this goal was realized and the first C. R. Anthony store was opened in Cushing, Oklahoma. This was the beginning of what is now a chain of 302 stores located in 21 states and employing more than 3,400 people.

Children Learn To Use County Library Facilities

Mrs. James Hicks, Lamb County librarian, reports that reading teachers have been bringing groups of students from the local schools to learn how to use a public library.

The children receive instructions from Mrs. Hicks concerning how to use the library's index file, etc.

After a recent visit by such a group, Mrs. Hicks received numerous thank-you letters. One letter, written by the children of a fifth grade class, refers to the librarians as "librarian keepers." It reads as follows:

OLDEST PARLIAMENT Iceland's parliament is the oldest in the world, dating to 930.

HONEY Sweet clover is the greatest single source of honey produced in the United States.

"Dear Library Keepers, We want to thank you for being so good to show us the library and how to find the books we want. It was a good help to me to know how to use the library and see the books. Your friends, The Fifth Grade Class."

Mrs. Hicks said all of the letters were most gratifying and that she "deeply appreciated" them.

Earlier, Mrs. Hicks attended a meeting in Plainview which stressed the selection of adult and children's materials for public libraries. Topics on the program were Policies, Principles, Aids, Budget, Report and Evaluation.

Agenda included coffee and registration, morning and afternoon sessions, a "Dutch" lunch and a tour of the host library.

Phony Project

By Amy Turner

FAMILY-TO-FAMILY project is an idea I read about recently in a newspaper.

Said project is described as "a thoroughly idealistic and completely volunteer undertaking which might well be tried elsewhere."

"It simply brings folks together on a non-pressure basis in a sort of low-key Christian manner," the article explained and asked: "Does anyone have a better panacea as we sit here awaiting the next headline-making upheaval?"

Well, yes, I do. Like maybe making friends with your cleaning lady.

AS DESCRIBED in the article, the Family-To-Family project brings poor families into contact with well-to-do residents.

On a Sunday, let us say, Mr. and Mrs. John Doe and children are invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rich. Perhaps Mr. Doe is unemployed or is stymied in a dead-end job. Mr. Rich might have some ideas. Perhaps Mrs. Doe is seeking homemaking ideas. Mrs. Rich may have some suggestions.

In other words, the Richs could help the Does, give them advice, suggestions, ideas. I wonder if it has occurred to anyone else that the Does just might be able to help the Richs, that conversation is a two-way street with, ideally, both sides benefiting and learning?

Now, if I were Mrs. Poor, I'd think twice before I agreed to visit Mrs. Rich with the idea that she would be polite and kind and serve me coffee and suggest to me how I could manage better around the house, while Mr. Rich offered similar suggestions for self-improvement to Mr. Poor.

PHONY. Sorry about that, but that's the way it hits me.

THE FARMER'S WIFE

A Time To Weep

BY LIBBY MUDGETT

"BEST FRIEND Grassie Roots, I want to ask you something and don't answer until you have given it plenty of thought. Also, you are going to have to use quite a bit of imagination to even conceive the very idea of this situation."

"Is this another one of your parables?" "Call it that if you want. Our little farming community is fast asleep one night. Our crops are all gathered and stored."

"These farms are our own?" "Yes. We are still owners of our land but we are being overrun by other people and we supposedly want freedom so badly that other countries have come to our defense to help us keep our land and our freedom. In fact, other countries are doing most of the fighting for us while we keep farming."

"That right there is a strain on my imagination. I cannot feature red-blooded Americans letting other countries do their fighting for them on their own soil."

"WELL, strain a little and assume that this is the case. Anyway, at midnight 120 guerrillas, supposed to be our deadly enemies, steal into our little village of approximately 1,000 people. Included in this 1,000 population is an armed pacification team trained by the countries that have come to fight for us. The guerrillas have been forced out of their hiding places by hunger and are after our harvested crops."

"These guerrillas, who are they?" "The majority of them are our fellow countrymen that believe in a different cause than we are supposed to. Some of them are our kindfolks even."

"Sort of civil war?" "Right. They go from house to house waking us all up and tell us to walk to the nearest county seat. Now then, do you think that we would do so without even a minor skirmish?"

"NO! A thousand times no! For our crops alone, we would put up a bloody fight. If we believed in whatever our cause in the whole war was, not only every gun and knife in the village would be used against the invaders, but every ball bat, rolling pin, frying pan and broken bottle."

DEAR EDITOR

Dear Ed: I gotta say something; I just gotta We're gonna vote! Yep, vote on this "likker" thing. -- -- Dec. 9th isn't far away and if they don't want a "wet" town it's time to say something. The "wets" are doing their work well. They are managing to keep themselves from publicity and at the same time are working efficiently. It surprises me at the people I hear "parrotting" their pathetic arguments. That is, they would be pathetic if they were presented to serious thinking people. They say: "Liquor will bring prosperity to Littlefield." Do you know that many of our trade area people are already saying that they'll boycott a "wet" Littlefield? Add to that the extra expenses of additional law enforcement, and beer can and whiskey bottle "picker-uppers" and figure out for yourself. They say: "The people are going to drink regardless. Why not legalize it." Makes about as much sense as saying that people are going to commit adultery, let's do away with marriage. Couldn't we, by the same token, legalize heroin, marijuana, opium and L.S.D.? Tell me, just what is the difference between liquor and dope? They say: "If it is legalized, our kids couldn't buy it." How ridiculous can we get? Do we honestly believe that any kid that wants liquor won't be able to get it in a "wet" town? Let us know and remember, to vote for liquor is to endorse and encourage its use. Can we vote "for" and at the same time tell our youngsters they shouldn't use it? Who is trying to kid now? And Y'know? I don't mind my name being published! R. E. "Cornball" Blevins

OWNER'S REPORT

By Bill Turner

ELSEWHERE on this page, you'll note that we are carrying our first "Letter to the Editor" on the wet-dry issue.

It's appropriate at this time to make clear our ground rules regarding this question.

Frankly, we've had a "lack of space" problem all year, but we have gone the limit on Letters and printed, as far as I know, every letter that we've received which complied with the rules.

The letter we're printing today is actually the second we've had on the wet-dry issue. The first did not bear a natural, hand-written signature and will be returned to the sender to sign.

For reasons of space, we will limit the number of words on any letter received between now and the Dec. 9 election to not more than 300 words.

In addition, we will, as always, require a natural hand-written signature. We will accept letters signed by more than one person, but only the first signature will be printed.

No letters without signatures will be published. However, names will be withheld at request of the sender and these letters will be on file and available for inspection by anyone.

The Leader-News reserves the right, of course, not to publish any letter which it believes to be libelous.

PAUL HARVEY SAYS

Program That Aided

OUR FRIENDS made money and learned modern farming, our farmers harvested a decent profit, you saved money on taxes and food bills.

Now that's a "foreign aid program" that makes sense. But it was not a foreign aid program. It was the bracero program under which Mexican laborers since World War II were allowed to cross the Rio Grande to work on farms in the United States.

They helped, particularly at harvest time, with vegetables, citrus and cotton. They received good wages--extremely high by Mexican standards--and the money they took home to Mexico prospered both themselves and their country.

Between September, 1942, and December, 1964, 2.5 million braceros earned between $70 and $80 million a year. And where foreign aid is administered from the top and very little filters down to the poor people, this money went directly into the pockets of those most deserving.

BUT THEN, after much protestation by labor union leaders who could not force unionization and collect dues from these workers, our government disallowed the importation of any additional braceros at the end of 1964.

The excuse labor's leaders used was that these Mexicans were displacing local U.S. workers, forcing lower pay scales.

On the contrary, starting in 1954, our government had arbitrarily hiked pay scales for cotton pickers so high that all Washington succeeded in doing was to mechanize the entire cotton industry within five years.

On the other hand, many braceros took their money and new know-how back with them and went into business for themselves. The large Mexican corporate farms (Hacienda farms) began to disintegrate. Thus, a generation of middle-class farmers, since 1961, has made Mexico self-sufficient in food for the first time in history.

WHILE WE WERE THUS indirectly "aiding" Mexico, our direct foreign aid to that country was reduced by almost 70 per cent.

But now that the bracero program has ended, we have reverted to giving money directly to Mexico, so you pay higher taxes. Without this readily available seasonal supply of workers, harvest is much more expensive--so you pay higher food prices.

And contrary to what our labor leaders had promised, the phasing out of the braceros did not bring about the rehiring of armies of U.S. workers. These, instead, in Texas, Arizona, New Mexico and California most often refuse to perform what they call stoop labor and remain idle on welfare.

BECAUSE our nation's farmers are efficient, they have reduced their own number, and politicians think in numbers. So our farmer has a feeble voice in Washington, and this may eventually cost us all more than we can afford.

He puts a fortune into the ground every year, hoping one good year in five will keep him alive. While organized labor forces his overhead higher and higher.

If he ever gives up, we all go hungry. The government's refusal to issue any more "green cards" means that when the current generation of available Mexican farmer workers is gone, there will be no more.

And your most efficient and beneficial foreign aid will come to an end. That is a shame. We historians have seen the future.

And it doesn't work.

BITS AND PIECES

For The Birds!

AS I UNDERSTAND IT, birds migrate twice a year.

With the approach of winter, they go south to avoid freezing and starving to death. In the spring, they leave the warmth of their winter quarters and return north. Why, I don't know. Maybe the summertime bird grub is better up north.

Now, this is wild fowl we are talking about. They are free as the breeze and do own exactly nothing.

IN ORDER to migrate -- or move -- they don't need packing boxes, trucks to move the boxes, computers to figure out where to put everything after they get where they're going and three bottles of double-strength ultra-reinforced aspirin tablets for concentrated contact with every muscle in their aching backs.

The way these birds move is like this: One day a bunch of the guys and gals are standing around a-chirpin' and a burpin' and eating purple worms when along comes a chilly breeze and someone says, "Errrr!"

In a few minutes, the Wheel of the crowd discovers his feet are a mite cold, so he says, "Okay, everybody -- time to head for the Bahamas."

So then there's a fluttering of wings, the Wheel swoops into the lead and the whole fowl crowd heads south. And that's that.

BUT SUCH is not the case when you poor land-lubbers decide to move even six or eight blocks.

Like Mom and I have been doing since last weekend.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

No Pretense

BY BOB WEAR

MOST OF US are concerned about both the structure of our personal lives and the structure of our social order.

In properly forming and maintaining these structures, many elements of human character are involved.

One of the most prominent characteristics and most necessary to strength and good order is genuineness supported by honesty.

Someone has said, "When you stretch the truth, people can usually see through it."

The structure of a life that is based upon pretense may seem to be quite satisfactory, but discovery is inevitable. E. C. Forbes said, "A shady business never yields a sunny life."

In this connection, it must be remembered that sincerity and genuineness in our behavior must never be used as excuses for hateful and unkind treatment of others.

THE STRUCTURE of our social order is weak or strong, depending upon the level of honor and honesty we maintain.

If duplicity, deceit and hypocrisy are prominent under the cover of pretended integrity, the inevitable, undesirable results will appear in due time. The final outcome can be disastrous.

Pretending may be acceptable in games that children play, but pretending has no rightful place in the reality of human experiences. Sooner or later reality must be faced, and it may be too late.

MOST OF US are probably tempted to make false or hypocritical professions, occasionally.

There may be instances when this seems to be the expedient action, but whatever advantage it may gain for us is only temporary.

We should remember that the use of pretense creates a bad situation for all persons concerned.

This is the result from the standpoint of what it does in weakening our character, and from the standpoint of the eventual attitude of those we may have deceived.

THERE IS ANOTHER WAY in which pretense is commonly used.

When there is a strong desire to make a certain impression upon the minds of others, some folk feel free to make unfounded claims.

They make claims of having done things they have not done; they make claims, without any basis, for the functional ability of products they are trying to sell, and some will even make false claims for their abilities in certain areas.

All such conduct is pretense, and "it is a thin disguise."

ALTHOUGH it may appear that some folk get by with their pretense, a more careful examination reveals that they are over-estimating themselves and under-estimating their fellowmen.

In most instances, pretense is soon recognized.

Someone has said, "no matter what we say we are, what we really are is probably going to become apparent very shortly."

In pretending, there will be more losses than gains, and, eventually, all will be less.

Robert Waters said, "It is not at all necessary for you to make a fortune, but it is necessary that you make a fair-dealing, honorable, useful man, radiating goodness and cheerfulness wherever you go, and making your life a blessing."

PRETENDING to be what we are not, will prevent our being what we would like most to be.

Lamb FHA Takes Loan

Lamb County Office of FHA made one loan for construction or improvement of water supply systems in fiscal year according to Truman J. Jones, County Supervisor.

Over 75,000 Texas farm and rural people benefited from such loans and grants last year. Jones led the nation in total grants, advancing $23,275,870 in grants to develop and improve 139 water or waste disposal systems during 1967. In Texas projects, which were spread throughout 97 counties, were financed with $22,000 in loans and more than $70 in grants.

rural water and waste disposal systems are organized through local initiative by town and other public bodies, other private nonprofit associations formed by prospective communities of less than 5,000 population. The loans are repaid from the earnings of the systems during periods of 40 years at 5 per cent interest.

These systems are becoming a major force in bringing living conditions and economic opportunities up to national standards," Jones explained. "Differences will continue to be less noticeable as communities offer the facilities as cities."

Many of the communities served by FHA were dependent on wells, cisterns, springs, water hauled in by truck or only source of water, on aged, inadequate septic tanks until FHA made available financial assistance.

Construction of the water or disposal systems provides work situations for engineers, well drillers, heavy equipment operators, surveyors and day laborers which in turn causes payrolls and the family economic condition.

Journey To The Past

BY EVALYN PARROTT SCOTT

(Ye author of this column asked Elizabeth Earl Luce Nelson to record her activities during her recent visit to the State Historical Survey at Galveston. To prove it is a small world just read her excellent observations and events occurring bringing memories of early events in Lamb County.)

Elizabeth Earl Luce Nelson

I just returned from a most delightful weekend... a true journey into the past... a visit with those people who feel that if the past is not cherished there is no future. I attended the Texas State Historical Survey meeting in Galveston.

I started my journey to the past in a definitely "present" mode... on a jet airliner. After a pleasant three-hour trip, with more than an hour layover, in that wonderland called "Love Field" in Dallas, I deplaned at Houston International Airport. On the plane from Dallas, I had been impressed by the large number of lovely ladies and gentle gentlemen whom I thought might be going my way. But I learned that most of them were on their way to a state teacher's meeting in Houston.

However, as I was waiting for the limousine to carry me on to Galveston, I discovered that one of those lovely ladies was going my way. So I made my first new friend on my journey: Miss Harriet Barwise from Electra. When I chanced to mention that my parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Luce, were both telegraph operators in Electra in 1927, Miss Harriet responded with, "Why I was an old maid then!" Her family has lived on the Red River for generations. Miss Harriet remembers Indian raids when the redmen were being driven into Indian Territory. She asked me if I knew the Halsells. Of course I do! I grew up at Amherst which is quite near the Mashed O Headquarters and old man W. E. Halsell (yes, we called him "old man W. E.," even when I was a child) built the old Amherst Hotel in the geographical center of Lamb County. You might say Amherst was his "dream child."

I remember when my father was depot agent at Amherst (he was the first), I always made certain that I met the train when "Old Man W. E." was expected. He always shook my hand, quite gravely, and never failed to leave a bright shining silver dollar in my palm! Maybe I was a mercenary little gold-digger, but "Old Man W. E." was certainly one of my favorite people! And I remember a summer when I was seven years old when my parents and I visited him in his luxurious suite at the Virginia Hotel in Long Beach, Calif. I shouldn't say this but that was the summer after Lindbergh's famous flight and we saw his plane, the Spirit of St. Louis in Long Beach. Those who can figure now know exactly how old I am!

Miss Barwise worked at the Fort Worth National Bank some thirty-odd years ago and she was invited by Mr. Wagner, another of Texas' fabulous ranchers, to sit in his box at one of the first races at the new Arlington Downs. There she met Miss Margaret Halsell (the Hal-sons and Wagners are related) who became one of her very best friends. Miss Margaret is either the sister or the niece of Mr. W. E.

Mentioning the Arlington Downs took me on another journey to the past. I remember sitting in the stadium at the Downs and looking across at the big white two-story house where my mother was born. My grandfather, William P. Brewer, sold the land where the Downs were built for a song. Wagner later bought them, built his famous racetrack and today Six-Flags of Texas sits upon the site.

My grandfather Brewer'ad'ed from Senatobia, Miss., just across the state line from Memphis, Tenn. A cousin of my mother's still lives in the old ancestral home and the streets of the town are named for the daughters in the family.

My grandfather came to Texas in 1877, "just to look around." He looked, saw Susan Elizabeth Laster, a comely blue-eyed Irish colleen living at Arlington, and never went back to Mississippi to live. He and his tiny Irish wife reared 12 children, my mother being the youngest. My grandfather Brewer would be 117 now. He lived to be 88 and was hale and hearty to the last.

Well, Miss Barwise and I arrived in Galveston, and guess who was the very first person I saw? As I entered the Galvez Hotel, there was Mrs. Roy McQuatters Sr.! We greeted one another, volubly!

The Galvez is right on the Gulf. And how I do love that water! I'm sure there is a river rat somewhere in my past! I love the breakers and the rougher they are the better! We spent Friday afternoon setting up exhibits and just getting acquainted. Right after lunch I went over to that fabulous Moody Center, one of the great convention centers of the country.

I picked up my registration packet and started toward the exhibit hall... there right in my path was Mrs. Bert Black, past President of District Nine, Woman's Missionary Union, and later of the State W.M.U. of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. She lived in Crosbyton for many years but has recently moved to Weatherford. Leila Black and I have spent many wonderful days traveling together, rooming together, and just visiting together. What a reunion!

I met a lot of other wonderful people that afternoon, too... notably, Mrs. Bill Alderman of Austin, whose husband is publisher of THE TEXAS PARADE magazine, my favorite periodical... and Mrs. C. P. Lannom II of Friendswood, the only Quaker Community in Texas. My main purpose for being at the TSHS meeting was to display PAHA SAPA: LAND OF THE GODS (which I hope everybody has read) so I spent most of my time in the exhibit hall. Mrs. Alderman was with the Texas Parade display and Mrs. Lannom was in charge of the exhibits, so we spent a great deal of time together. We came to feel that we had known one another always!

Thursday evening after dinner we were taken by bus to the Sea-A-Rama... the best aquarium and sea show I have ever seen... surpassing Marine Land in Long Beach and San Francisco's famed Aquarium, in my opinion. I saw fish and denizens of the deep that I didn't know existed!

Since I was a loner at the convention, I had decided to try to sit by a new person each meal and each tour.

That night on the bus I sat down by a darling little old lady. She turned out to be Mrs. Hill from Woodville, officially dubbed "Ma Big Thicket." She drives her own car and is more hale and hearty than most women a third her age! She has a lovely big home in Austin and her children (ages 50-70) insist she should live in it but Ma Thicket much prefers her little log cabin. Never have I met a more memorable character!

Following the Sea A rama tour, we went on a moonlight ferry ride to Bolivar Point and back. I spent that time chatting with our own charming Mr. and Mrs. McQuatters.

Friday was the big day. There were interesting lectures all day, but since I was needed in the exhibit hall I missed them. But between lectures people wandered in and out and I met a host of delightful men and women. There was a lovely luncheon in Moody Center and I was at the table with Dr. and Mrs. Randal. They were from Galveston and utterly captivating! Both had a refreshing sense of humor and I felt that we were old friends by the time lunch was over!

Friday evening was the really big affair... the RAMPS banquet, again at Moody Center, RAMPS... Recordation, appreciation, marking, preservation, survey... the five emphases of both the Historical Survey and the Historical Foundation.

My dinner partner that evening was a lovely lady from Austin. But I soon learned that she was a retired teacher from near Colorado City... the home of my first and favorite college roommate. She had known my roommate's family all her life, had attended high school and college with my roommate's sister, and had taught with my roommate herself! What a small world!

Saturday was "fun" day. It began with an eight-block 6:30 a. m. walk down the seawall. The air was brisk and the breakers were roaring. I loved it! We had the Quota Buster's breakfast at the beautiful new Flagship Hotel, built out on a pier with the water all around! At the breakfast I won a lovely gift and PAHA SAPA was given as one of the gifts! My breakfast partners were "Cliff" and Mrs. Runkels, a charming couple from Post who live right on the Boy Scout Camp there!

After breakfast we boarded buses for a Heritage Tour of Galveston. As the Runkels and I were boarding one of the five buses, Catherine Randal (remember my luncheon companions on Friday?) came by and said she was our guide on the last bus. That sounded most interesting, so we boarded that bus.

Immediately I sensed an entirely different atmosphere. The other buses were uncomfortably crowded; this one was just cozily filled! And there were most of the people I had seen at the speaker's table at the RAMPS banquet the night before; Truett Latimer of Austin, Executive Director of the State Historical Committee, and his lovely wife; Charles Woodburn of Amarillo, President of the State Historical Foundation and the charming Mrs. Woodburn; and others. We were on the VIP bus! Oh, well!

Mr. Woodburn called out to Catherine, "I see we're going by your house, Randal House is on the map." "Yeah! Sure!" Catherine answered, flippantly. I thought, "There's some place named 'Randal House' and he's kidding her."

We started the tour. One lovely old home after another!

Streets and streets of them! Any town would be proud to claim just one of them!

We came to the old Moody House. The Moodys are to Galveston what the Cullens are to Houston, you know! This charming old mansion, now a museum, is truly revered by Galvestonians as a mark of the love and respect they feel for this wonderful family. As we were viewing Moody House, Catherine happened to remark that her husband used to play in the attic and on the grounds.

Quite innocently I turned to my seat partner, a lovely young woman from La Grange whose husband was one of the VIP. I asked her why Dr. Randal happened to play there? In amazement at my ignorance, she informed me that Dr. Randal is a Moody grandson! I was too surprised to even comment! And there we were at the Randal House, a lovely red brick colonial manor... and it really is Catherine's home!

When we got to the medical center, Mr. Woodburn asked Catherine, "Is Dr. Randal there?" "No," Catherine answered, "the good doctor is at home with his feet propped up in front of the TV!"

My mouth really isn't quite big enough for my foot to fit comfortably in it, but I put it there! "Is Dr. Randal connected with the medical school?" I asked. "He's the Dean!" was the answer I got.

My point is that I met such gracious people! Many of them were really "somebody," but I saw no pretensions, only lovely people, the kind one wants for friends!

Another joy of that morning's tour was getting acquainted with Mrs. Woodburn. She is a Lamb County girl, daughter of Earth's Guy Kelly. She was graduated from Springlake-Earth High School the year before I taught there, so we felt almost like kindred spirits.

Early Saturday afternoon we boarded big, ultra-modern, air-conditioned buses for a much longer tour... Nasa, San Jacinto, the Battleship Texas, and many other points of interest. We attended the dedication of a historical marker at Friendswood, the Quaker community. On the lawn of that lovely little Quaker church were served refreshments by my dear new friend, Mrs. Lannom who was in charge of a

I guess the best thing that happens last and I will share last tour that I made with friends who I know will be my long friends. I made the tour with Mr. and Mrs. Erena Hamilton, Mrs. Willy Baker, daughter of Dr. Baker, a dentist in the country, his brother is now a dentist in Hamilton; and they live on a beautiful old ancestral street which was named for their father and runs in front of the beautiful old ancestral home.

Sunday, on my way home I made a little private journey into the past. I met the sisters and a brother who met me at Houston's International Airport for me. There we reminisced on all of our own family history.

The Luce family came to Texas in 1824 with Mrs. Austin, the first Anglo-American in the area. My grandfather Zephaniah Luce fought with the Army in the Civil War. He was in the Battle of Gettysburg in what is now New Mexico and he was a part of that retreat back to El Paso, through the desert with no supplies, no food, no water, used by the Union Army all day. He was captured and a Union prisoner for some time. But he died in his own home in Milan County, Texas in the Texas wood land.

My father, Earl Luce, came to Lamb County in 1924 as station agent for the Santa at Amherst. In 1935 he started a small farm implement company. Through this, he was instrumental in changing great agricultural land from mule-team to mechanical methods.

My husband, Ralph Nelson, an agronomist, carries on tradition. And my elder son, Jim Nelson, is doing his best as he does research for the Technological College on the Conservation and the clamor of a bill in the state legislature.

My mind wasn't completely over when I had lovely aunts and my dear good-by. After an overnight plane, electrical storms, canceled flights, and an entire overnight stay in Dallas, I finally got back home! But another story!

OFFICIAL LHS NEWSPAPER THE SKAT

Page 10, Lamb County Leader, Littlefield, Texas, Thursday, November 16, 1967

LITTLEFIELD HIGH SCHOOL, LITTLEFIELD, TEXAS

Twirlers Put Batons Back In Storage

Practice, practice, practice. This has been the key word for our high school majorettes for the past two months. Their practice has come to an end now since the Levelland game was their last game to twirl for this year. Our majorettes have worked hard and we would like to recognize them in this issue of the SKAT.

Debbie Dutton, senior majorette, can be recognized by her brown hair and brown eyes. Steak heads the list of her favorite foods. Blue is her favorite color. Her spare time is taken care of by sewing, skiing and twirling.

Debbie has been very active during her high school years. She has been in the Wildcat Band for three years, two in which she was majorette. She has been in FTA for three years and president her senior year; the junior play; A Capella Choir and FFA Sweetheart, her senior year.

Blonde hair and brown eyes describe junior majorette, Janie Hyatt. Her favorite foods are lasagna and pizzas and the color purple strikes her fancy. Water skiing and snow skiing claim her spare time.

Janie has been a majorette in the Wildcat Band for two years. She is on the student council this year and won a sweater award in geometry her sophomore year.

Janice Oldham, junior majorette, has hazel eyes and brown hair. Spaghetti is her favorite food and pink strikes a liking in her eyes. She uses her spare time for skiing and just goofing off.

Janice has been a majorette in the Wildcat Band for two years and was majorette in the junior high band for two years. She was the sophomore class secretary and belongs to FTA.

Nancy Henson, our sophomore majorette, has blue eyes and brown hair. Blue is her favorite hue, and shrimp comes first on her list of food. Playing the piano and organ and skiing take up her spare time.

Nancy has been a majorette for three years; two in junior high and one in senior high. She is now pianist for the girl's choir.

OUR HATS ARE off to these majorettes. These girls add color to the Wildcat Band at half-time shows and participate in area twirling contests. Left-to-right, standing are Debbie Dutton, senior; Scarlet Hatley, a junior who lately transferred to Plainview High School; and Nancy Henson, sophomore. Janie Hyatt, junior, and Janice Oldham, junior; are kneeling. The majorettes also participated individually in the U. I. L. Twirling Contest in Canyon.

In Harms Manner

By LEONA HARMS

I had a most enjoyable (?) science fiction dream the other night. Last Thursday to be exact.

Here it is in living color. Ah... living black and white... ah... dead black and white maybe.

Anyway, I was on Third Street, here in Littlefield, heading west when I heard the train whistle blow. I ran and turned at the corner of Third Street and Westside Avenue and headed north. The band, which had been gone to contest, had been traveling by train. I got closer to the crossing and saw the railroad signal lights blinking red, and there was the train, with approximately 40 cars, stretched across the sky. As I stood there I saw a big red object in the sky. It was shaped like a box, very, very large. There was a slender projection at one end which ended in a point. It was heading right for this train load of band students. Well, along comes a jet and heads straight for this red object which by this time is only several feet from the train. The jet nearly runs into the redbox, trying to warn it, but the box runs into the train. The cars, about eight or ten, melt into the box and nothing remains but the box itself which takes off to the wild blue yonder. Meanwhile, a gap appears in the train where the "thing" hit. They are all in a line yet, unmoving, and with a large gap. That's it! Except I remember talking to Sandy Penn about it and she did not even realize that part of the band students were dead in the freak train wreck. By the way, as I stated before, I had this dream Thursday morning and as I was heading for school I heard on the radio that there was a train wreck in Italy that morning. HMMMM!

Allen And Tucker Help With Cats' Training Needs

Marshall Allen and John Tucker, called Marshall Mouse and Tucker Mouse by the varsity football team, hold a great responsibility to the organization. They spend many hours working, more than people realize. Coach Birchfield stated, "John and Marshall are the two finest boys I have ever had. They seem to enjoy it and they do a real good job. We really need four managers instead of two. There is too much work for two managers."

Marshall and John take care of all the equipment. They keep it clean at all times, keep it stored correctly, keep the room in order, and carry the equipment where it is needed. They keep the balls in their proper place and take them out for practice. Usually during practice, one works on the field and the other works in the field house. When someone needs something they are always there to assist them.

They do limited work in the training room, such as minor taping for small injuries. They fill the whirlpool for the boys and watch the temperatures and timing.

The football boys get along with the managers splendidly. They are always being hollered at though, but that stands to reason when everyone is hollering for scissors, and there are only three scissors for 26 or 27 boys.

The SKAT Staff would like to extend their sincerest gratitude to these two boys who have worked diligently with the football team during the 67-68 school year.

GREAT RESPONSIBILITY has been placed in the hands of the two boys, John Tucker and Marshall Allen. They have performed their duties to the utmost. When discouragement prevails they were always there with a cheerful word and a bright smile. Tomorrow night is the last football game of the season, and the last chance these boys will have to show their loyalty to the team while they are still sophomores.

"Unity" Theme For Student Council

"Unity Through Communication" was the theme of the annual South Plains Association of Student Councils District Convention held at Floydada High School on November 11, 1967.

After the general session was called to order and a welcome given by Mr. C. E. Tyler, principal of Floydada High School, stage band entertainment was presented to those attending the convention. The group was then treated to an amusing as well as educational talk made by Mrs. Joyce Brown, secretary of the Texas Association of Student Councils.

Discussion groups followed including such subjects as Teacher-Student Relations, What is the Value of the Student Council Assembly, How Can the Student Council Fight Moral Decay in America, and Effective Social Programs for the Student Council which was led by Bill Nelson, Janie McBride, Mike Richardson, and Bettye Holt. Four members from Littlefield attended a discussion group led by Levelland's Council concerning Effective Money-Making Projects for the Student Council.

After lunch entertainment was provided by a sextet of Negro girls and a hobo pantomime. A business session followed in which the nominations for 1968-69 officers of the S.P.A.S.C. were announced and acceptance speeches given. They were as follows: Dimmitt High-president, Sudan High, nominated by Littlefield, and Anton High-vice president; Brownfield High-secretary; and Lamesa High-parliamentarian. There were no nominations from the floor. An amendment was proposed to the S.P.A.S.C. Constitution to change the procedure of taking nominations of schools for officers from the floor. Voting by elected delegates of the various schools gave Anton High School the vice-presidency and passed the proposed amendment.

Behind The Line

By KENNETH HORN

The Littlefield Wildcats along with the desire and the will to win downed the Levelland Lobos 14-13 in traditional rivalry. The Wildcats working all week on "something special" made everything pay off for them as they drew first blood on the opening play from scrimmage.

Roy Burk threw to end Kevin Hutson who in turn lateraled to halfback Mike Grissom. Grissom out-distanced the Lobo defenders to cop a 64-yard scoring play.

The other Littlefield touchdown came as the Wildcats were faced with a fourth down, a goal situation. The play was expertly called as fullback Danny Bryson powered over from the one yard line untouched.

Roy Burk made both kicking conversions which again, as last week, spelled the one-point difference.

The defensive line was outstanding most of the night as Jimmy Hutson, who recovered a fumble and along with Larry Durham, made key tackles throughout the game resulting in lost yardage to Levelland. With 49 seconds left in official game time a fine defensive play was made by linebacker David Perkins as he picked off a Lobo pass to clinch the victory and the "golden trap."

The Wildcat B team lost last week to Plainview by the score of 22-18. The future Wildcats will journey to Tullis tonight to battle the B team there.

This closing quote is broken by many of us. All of us I'm sure, "Let no one be willing to speak ill of the absent." --Properius. Why not think of this the next time you start to say something bad about a person!

Drum Majors Boost Spirit And Lead Band

The whistles blow! The cadence of the drums sound, and the colorful Wildcat Band steps out! What makes them click?

The band steps off at each of the half-time shows under the direction of Cheryl Reast and Jimmy Williams, co-drum majors. Cheryl and Jimmy promote the school spirit and the desire to excel in the band members. Pride in the organization is encouraged.

Mr. Phil Anthony, band director, stated that Jimmy has the ability to reason with and encourage the band, while Cheryl promotes cheering at the pep rallies and football games.

The job of drum major puts one in command of the band. The drum major is responsible to no one except Mr. Anthony. These leaders must be the best marchers and set an example of the attitudes and actions for the students in the band.

Cheryl Reast and Jimmy Williams are also active in other fields of band participation. Cheryl is the second chair flute player, while Jimmy is the first chair solo coronet player and president of the band.

THIS FAMILIAR SCENE is well-known to almost everyone. The picture above, David Roden rings the victory bell at Levelland pep rally. David has added much spirit to pep rallies and ball games throughout the school year, ever since the bell have been together as loyal partners.

Industrial Arts Names Officers

Harold Lowery was chosen to head the Industrial Arts Club for the coming year, in an election held November 6. Johnny Achee was elected vice-president; Edna Jones, secretary; Quinn McKinnon, treasurer; Lynn Powell, reporter and Jim Hill, sergeant-at-arms. The officers were elected by secret ballot.

Work nights were planned to build jewelry boxes and spice racks to sell at Christmas. Many money-making projects were planned for the coming year to earn money for the club to attend the State convention and many other club activities and trips.

CLUB WORK involves learning to do by doing. These club members are learning to can tomatoes. With help from the home demonstration agent, these girls are learning the values of tomatoes in the diet and how to can them for use. Shown in the picture are: Roxie Wilson, Barbara Bitty Pinkston, Sheila Dangerfield, Diane Kemp, Linda and Marilyn Hunter.

MEMBERS of Spade 4-H Club gave a summary of their projects at an October meeting. These reports indicated experiences in projects and money values earned or lost. Included in picture are Jason Long, Brad and Jeanie Dirickson, Parks, Gail Freeman, Jan Glazner, Marvin Matthews, Cindy and Brad Moore.

Olton, Denver City Clash In Bi-District

Olton, celebrating its first unbeaten regular season since 1960, travels to Denver City Friday night for a bi-district match that will settle once and for all who is the South Plains' best Class AA team this year.

There are a lot of similarities between the two clubs. Both are called Mustangs and both have a head coach named Don. Both have been high scoring machines with stingy defenses.

In the only games between comparable foes, Denver City topped Morton, 42-2, and Olton won by 41-0 while DC took Muleshoe 31-0 and Olton rapped the same team by 18-0.

But there the comparisons end, and they'll mean nothing when the two champions collide at Denver City, starting at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Olton rolled to 10 consecutive wins, squeaking by Hereford and Memphis with a pair of one-point victories. Denver City powered its way to eight straight wins and a 9-1 record after dropping the second game of the season to Seminole, 25-6.

Coach Don Beck's Olton Ponies rang up 268 points for the 10 games, while limiting their opponents to 84. Denver City, coached by Don Orr, counted 391 while allowing only 47.

It's an All-American battle, with Olton's Big Blue facing DC's Big Red and the white coming from both sides' fans, who are nervous about the outcome.

The winner of the game will face the victor of the Phillips-Iowa Park bi-district clash.

Olton has been led all year by a rampaging HB Benny Akin, who chalked up 104 points on 17 touchdowns. Steady QB Johnny Lewis has come through with a fine season at the helm, and the play of several other backs, Kenneth Johnson, Charles A. McClain, Steve Spain, Bobby Turner and Sel Sanchez has given Olton a backfield depth it has not enjoyed in many years.

Tackles Denny Dial and Steve Burleson have anchored a fine line which has Lannie McClain and Stacy Pendergrass at the ends, Tony George and Eddie Hooper at guards and Jason Lattimer at center.

Johnson has been tough defensively at cornerback for the Olton eleven and Ricky Smith is another linebacker who likes it rough.

Denver City's big guns in the scoring department have been Gary Hatfield, 79; Biff Hatfield, 68; John Powell, 54; and Don Looney, 52.

Denver City faced four Class AAA teams prior to entering District play, defeating Brownfield, Levelland and Muleshoe. Olton won both its encounters with AAA clubs, beating Hereford and Muleshoe.

Amherst and Anton will be attempting to wind up their seasons in winning fashion after disappointing losses the last two weeks.

Amherst travels to Sundown. The Bulldogs lost to Ropesville 26-18 last week and the Roughnecks are riding high after their 30-13 win over Anton.

Anton takes the road to Cooper. The latter observed an open date last week.

Bula has one more chance to raise the season record to two victories. The Bulldogs play at Cotton Center against a club that tied Smyer last week 20-20. Smyer beat Bula 48-6.

Only win Bula has had this year was over Lubbock Christian High. The short-handed Bulldogs, playing with only nine men on the squad, have been improving with each game, but are hurt with the limited services of big Newton.

AREA WRAP-UP Panthers Go For Title

Of the five area teams completing their regular 1968 football schedules Friday night, probably the one that will attract the most interest is at Whitharral.

The Panthers have an opportunity to capture the championship of District 1-B Eight Man when they host the high-flying Eagles from Three Way in a conference showdown. Both clubs are undefeated in loop play, and the winner takes all.

Whitharral is 7-2 for the season and has won all three district outings. The Eagles are 6-3 for the season, but have beaten the same conference clubs as the Panthers. The winner goes into bi-district the following week.

While Three Way was tuning up last week with a 57-0 shut-out over Bula's hapless Bulldogs, at the latter's homecoming Saturday night, Whitharral's pride was resting during an open date. The Panthers upset Smyer's homecoming 22-14 in their last game two weeks ago.

Whitharral's score against Bula was only 44-6, comparing Three Way's 57-0 score, but that was against a well Tom Newton, 222-pound Bulldog end. Newton played only the last half against the Eagles, with a finger broken in five places.

CROSBYTON'S CHIEFS pose a major hurdle in Sudan's first state playoff game, to be held Saturday night at Lubbock Field. The Chiefs not only are larger than the scrambling and eager Hornets, but probably average a year to two years older in age than the sophomore-laden Sudan squad. Crosbyton, champs of District 4-A, and 3-A winning Sudan are playing the first Bi-District contest of either school's history.

IN PLAYOFFS

Eager Hornets Face Crosbyton Saturday

A spectacular evening of football is expected Saturday at Lubbock's Lowery field when the offensive-minded Sudan Hornets and Crosbyton Chiefs clash in Bi-District play.

Though this is the first time either team has advanced into the state playoffs in the history of the two schools, neither is unaccustomed to winning.

The young and eager Hornets will pit the scoring poser of their three highly touted backs, Jerry Bellar, Larry Hanna and Ronnie Hill, against a well-balanced Crosbyton club.

Sudan is young, carrying 14 sophomores on the 25-man roster. The Hornets have only three seniors on the club, as compared with 12 on the Chiefs' tribe.

Crosbyton advanced into the playoffs carrying a 9-1 season record and perfect seven-game District 4-A slate.

District 3-A champs, Sudan, lost two games during the regular season, but walked through Bovina, Springlake-Earth, Kress and Farwell with unquestionable ease. Losses were squeakers to the top Class A team in the State, Seagraves, and powerful Plains.

Tahoka, another member of the district represented by Seagraves and Plains, managed a 26-14 decision over the Chiefs early in the season for Crosbyton's only setback.

Hanna, Bellar and Hill wound up among the top 11 scorers in District 3-A. In fact, sophomores Hanna and Bellar were first and second, respectively. Hanna had 100 points in the 10-game schedule and Bellar 88.

Add to the points of the Sensational Sudan Sophomores the 30 turned in by Junior Hill, and it is found that only 18 of the 246 points scored by Sudan were made by others of the club.

Crosbyton, on the other hand, had only two among the top District 4-A scoring leaders. Robert Barrett and Joe Buck combined their 76 and 48 points respectively to account for only 124 points of Crosbyton's 273.

The Hornets scored more points, 114, in their four district games than did the Chiefs, 101, in their seven conference tilts.

Crosbyton allowed 106 points to be scored against its defensive unit in 10 games and only 62 by the conference foes. The Hornets had 84 points scored over the season and 15 by their loop opponents.

Coached by former Amherst mentor Deane Wright, the Chiefs feature the quarterbacking of Lance Morris, all district selection in 1966, all-state basketball performer Barrett at fullback, and speedster Buck at tailback.

As a sample of their passing game, Morris completed eight of eight attempts during the first half against Ralls earlier this season, and he was throwing to four different receivers.

Morris' favorite targets are Randy Holeman, Tommy O'Brien, Leon McDonald, and Buck.

In their 10 games, the Chiefs won 14-12 over Class AA Lockney, 21-20 over AA Slaton, 30-7 over Ralls, 57-0 over Lorenzo, 36-12 over New Deal, 17-3 over Idalou, 27-20 over defending champion Spur, 20-7 over Peters-

BEAMING BECK---Coach Don Beck is all smiles after his Olton Mustangs won the District 3-AA title with their 15-7 victory over Dimmitt two weeks ago. The Ponies meet Denver City in bi-district play Friday night.

HOMECOMING QUEEN crowned at Bula High School Saturday night was Miss Barbara Clawson, senior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Clawson. Dennis Newton, 55, did the crowning in ceremonies preceding the Bula-Three Way football game. Some 250 exes registered during the homecoming activities that began during the afternoon and continued after the game.

HARD TACKLE is applied by an unidentified Bula Bulldog to Three Way runner in Saturday evening's homecoming game at Bula, before a crowded sideline of fans. The Bulldogs suffered their seventh loss of the season, 57-0. Three Way gained 175 yards rushing and 175 yards passing for 352, while the Bulldogs to 76 yards rushing.

Wildcats Close Season Friday At Lake View

Season for Lake View's opener remains a Wildcat Head Coach Birchfield... and he's still that way after a night's season finale.

Donnie Heard, tackle-fullback Howard Wright and very possibly center-tackle Harold Lowery.

Birchfield says he figured his limping crew will have to manage somehow to score at least three, and possibly four, touchdowns to beat the San Angelo bunch.

The Wildcats will leave from the school at 9:30 Friday morning after a pep rally at 9.

SPORTS

THREE WILDCAT SENIORS who will be playing their last high school football game tomorrow night against San Angelo Lake View are fullback Danny Bryson, 40, tackle Tommie Henson, 76, and end Jim Hill, 86. They are among 14 seniors on the 1967 Wildcat squad.

FATHER, LIKE SON—Appearing before Littlefield High pep rally last Friday were 1967 Wildcat senior co-captains, Kevin Grissom, 84, and Mike Grissom, 15, with their father, the dad, Landon "Slow" Grissom, and Roy Allen Hutson, speaking, are former Wildcat football players themselves.

The proud fathers apparently said the right things, because that evening Littlefield shaded old rival Levelland 14-13 before a near capacity stand of homecoming fans.

COTTON TALKS

From Plains Cotton Growers Inc.

The question keeps coming to Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. as to whether substitute crops can be planted on acres diverted from cotton production in 1968, and if so, which crops would be permissible.

With regard to the sign-up dates, Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., is requesting that the March 15 deadline be extended for the High Plains area, basing the request on the fact that the deadline falls at least two months in advance of planting time on the Plains.

Members of "We, The Women" voted to change the group's regular meeting date to the fourth Tuesday of each month. Meeting date has been the second Tuesday.

FIRST, he must divert from cotton production and devote to soil conserving practices at least five per cent of his allotment. Second, he must plant and cultivate in a workmanlike manner at least 90 per cent of his domestic allotment, which is 65 per cent of his total allotment.

groups or by levels of government?" He answered, "This is a vital question. A bill is being worked out to create a master water agency to contract with the government and then in turn contract with the farmer."

WHEN the Secretary permits such plantings it is subject to the condition that diversion payments shall be at a "fair and reasonable rate," but in no event over one-half the rate otherwise payable.

Clayton answered the tax was "a hard fought battle during the last Legislature." He said at first the governor considered the issue "not important" but after conferring with mayors, city officials and further studying the situation he began to change his evaluation.

THE MARKETING QUOTA

THE MARKETING QUOTA referendum to be conducted among cotton growers across the belt is to be held by mail during the week of Dec. 4 through 8 this year, and the "sign-up" period for the cotton program, assuming passage of the referendum, is set for Feb. 5 through March 15 of 1968.

Clayton answered the tax was "a hard fought battle during the last Legislature." He said at first the governor considered the issue "not important" but after conferring with mayors, city officials and further studying the situation he began to change his evaluation.

Regarding four-year terms for state officials, Clayton said he opposes them on the state representative level. "This is the level closest to the people — it is to the state representative that the people first turn for their needs. For this reason, I think the people should have an opportunity as often as possible to endorse or disapprove the man in that office."
