Consumer Goods Price Specialist To Be In C. of C. Office Monday Morning

To assist the merchants of Littlefield and this immediate area in obtaining full compliance with Office of Price Stabilization pricing regulations, C. M. Erickson, price specialist from the Lubbock district office, will be here Monday morning, June 4th.

The Chamber of Commerce, co-sponsor with the OPS in the price clinic day, said he would be at the Chamber of Commerce office to consult with business men concerning the federal pricing program. All business men are urged to bring their questions concerning regulations and compliance to the official OPS representatives.

Although he is a specialist in the Consumer Goods branch, he will be able to answer most questions concerning any business concern pertinent regulations. It is the plan to have an OPS price specialist here on this day every week during June and July for convenience of merchants of this area.

The Lubbock district office, which includes 66 West Texas counties from the Oklahoma line on the north to the Rio Grande on the south, reminded business men of several compliance deadlines in the next week or so. Ceiling prices on beef cuts must be posted by retailers not later than June 4; and sellers on consumer services must file their ceiling prices, along with adequate descriptions of each service with the Lubbock district not later than June 16. The address is: Office of Price Stabilization, Broadway building, 1202 Texas avenue, Lubbock, Texas.

100 Attend Farm Dinner Thursday

Approximately one hundred farmers of the Yellowhouse community and Littlefield business men attended a second of a series of Farm Dinners held at the Claude Jones home at Yellowhouse Thursday night.

A delicious menu, with baked ham and all the trimmings, topped off by homemade apple pies with large scoops of ice cream.

An informal program was enjoyed during the evening, with Nelson Naylor acting as master of ceremonies. Guests of the business men made brief talks, and David Eaton, Lamb county agent, made a talk on Cotton and Cotton Insect Control.

Bob Crowell, Chamber of Commerce manager said that a date for the next Farm Dinner will be set in the near future.

Temperatures Are Lower

It was not so warm Friday, only a mere 95 degrees, dropping five degrees from Thursday's reading of 100, and 8 degrees cooler than last Wednesday, when the thermometer at West Texas Gas office reached 103 degrees. The high for the year has been 104, which was reached last Sunday and again on Tuesday. The low for Wednesday and Friday was 79, while on Thursday the mercury stayed at 78 degrees.

High winds filled with lots of dust must have prevailed for the past several days. Rains have been reported at various places on the South Plains but Littlefield has received no precipitation since the heavy rains two weeks ago.

Farmers report that cotton planted since the rains has broken through in most parts of the county; and many predict that Lamb County will have the largest crop in 1951; it has ever had.

Texas July Draft Quota 367 Men

National draft headquarters has called on Texas for 367 men in July. State Selective Service Director Paul Wakefield announced Thursday.

The quota was the smallest Texas has been asked for since the start of the Korean war. It was the state's share of the 15,000 man national quota set earlier this week.

The July call brings to 27,207 the total of Texans called since the start of hostilities in the Far East. Local board quotas are presently unavailable at state headquarters. Quotas will be sent to local boards some time after June 15, according to current plans.

Soldier Cited For Action in Korea Will Visit Here

Mrs. Leona Logan of Littlefield is expecting her grandson, Cpl. Russell L. Dillon to arrive here this week-end. He is the first Lamb County soldier to return home under the Army's rotation plan. He landed in Seattle, Washington, Sunday.

The young man lived with his grandmother in Denver, Colorado, before enlisting in the Army in November of 1949 and is expected to come here to spend his furlough with her and with his sister, Miss Virginia Rogers, who also makes her home with her grandmother.

Helped Rescue GIs The 19-year-old soldier has been decorated with the Bronze and Silver Stars for heroism in Korea. He led six men of the pioneer ammunition platoon, 25th Infantry division, in rescuing six wounded buddies from a vacated company area.

During a battalion withdrawal, the unit got word of two wounded left in a medic shack and four others in a vacated company area. Under a captain's orders, Cpl. Dillon called for five volunteers to go back after the wounded men.

The volunteers located two wounded in the shack, but proceeded to a pass to bring out more men feared left behind. Then they decided to salvage some abandoned radio equipment and destroy the rest.

A machine gun opened up on them from a nearby bridge. They reached the road just as artillery pounded the area they had so recently left. They picked up the two wounded at a medic shack and rushed back to their battalion's aid station, after rescuing four more in their vacated company area.

The "dipping vat" was hauled out and has been placed in service again this year. It's located next door to the Texas Public Service company offices on Phelps avenue — and a ducking in the tank is the incentive that will convince local business men that it pays to wear Rodeo regalia, a ten-gallon hat and a bandana around the throat, just for good measure.

Rev. Carter McKemy, pastor of the First Presbyterian church has announced that Dally Vacation Bible School will begin at the church next Monday morning, June 5th at 9 a. m. and classes will continue through to Friday, June 15. Now only twelve days away, with the opening of the annual 3-day Jaycee Rodeo scheduled for Thursday, June 14, every member of the Jaycee, and every committee member is on the job both day and night, completing plans for this sixth annual show, which is promised to be as good as anything ever in West Texas, and bettering the five previous shows staged here under the same auspices, in five previous years.

Whiskers, and more whiskers is the watchword all over town, and some of the facial "hair-dos" on local males are nothing short of a knockout potion. If those things don't succeed in convincing folks that there's going to be a Rodeo, and also that its going to be an event of events, then all of the publicity men are just wasting time.

"MILLIONS OF WHISKERS (of beards, moustaches and goatees) FOR PUBLICITY BUT NOT A SINGLE TWO DOLLARS FOS TRIBUTE", is the attitude assumed and publicly espoused by the Jaycees, especially Jaycees, whose motto is a $20.00 bill (instead of the $2.00 assessed to other mere business men) for failure to grow and keep on growing a beard, to show beyond a question that they are, face and whiskers, solidly behind and backing this biggest West Texas Rodeo.

The "hair-dos" are so fine you see on the streets, wearing little badges, and some of them not so little, either, received that beard exemption from the publicity committee, and were presented with their badge, with a warning to wear it at all time. It's whiskers—or cash—or else.

Lamb County Sheriff's Posse has agreed to take charge of the parade, and the entries are said to be numerous. Other surrounding posses have also been invited.

But the highlight of rodeo days, is the selection of the Queen, and her subsequent crowning to rule over Rodeoland throughout the 3-day show, and the competition is going to be keen for the coveted honor among the ladies of the area. The details of the selection (Continued on Back Page)

You And Your Congress

A familiar wisecrack is heard around Washington almost every time a prominent representative of a foreign government arrives for an official visit.

"How much does he want?"

It may or may not be an appropriate remark, depending upon the particular visitor.

But the quip didn't get started without reason.

It appears to stem from a United States policy of foreign aid so contrived or administered, or both, as to encourage dubious handout seekers.

If such is the case, there could be no more appropriate time than now for Congress to reappraise this foreign aid policy. The President has just asked Congress to provide $8.5 billion more in military, economic and long-range (Point Four) assistance to foreign governments.

Some of these official visitors are strongly suspected of trying to play Uncle Sam for a sucker. They apparently figure the United States has a bottomless purse. Frequently their reason for wanting loans or money gifts are so flimsy as to be laughable to those wise in the ways of international economics and politics.

Others of the visitors come on perfectly sincere borrowing missions. Their reasons for wanting to borrow are sound. And their intentions of repayment are as good as can be expected under conditions, like today's, that make the future of more than one foreign government highly uncertain.

But the wisecrackers usually don't distinguish between these two types of visitors and tend to accuse all of them of dropping in at the White House for a handout.

This can be demoralizing to the sincere visitors and, it can cause them to resent the position of the United States—a creditor who has not felt the economic impact of war and world unrest nearly so much as most of the homelands of these visitors have.

That is hardly a situation conducive to the world friendship which the United States seeks to promote, both within and without the United Nations.

The United States Council of the International Chamber of Commerce put it this way the other day:

"We dislike the idea of continued (government) grants because the availability of such grants tends to demoralize the relations between the United States and recipient countries. This demoralization has reached the point where every high official of a foreign government coming to the United States is suspected of coming for a handout—and often with good reason."

This country must spend to arm against the communist threat. And it has decided to help its allies rearm, rather than try to fight communism by itself.

The economics of most of these allies are still too shaky from World War II for them to bear the financial burden of rearmament piled atop the cost of the postwar recovery. They find pay-as-you-go virtually impossible. And they can't get much long-term credit outside the United States because the futures of these governments are too uncertain—what with the Russian Bear constantly breathing down their necks.

So some foreign military assistance by the U. S. is clearly indicated.

Each Camp will start on Saturday afternoon at 3:00 p. m. and will close on Sunday following Bullets began to slam against the side of our amtrack.

Then we were ashore and climbing a steep sandy bank. The machine guns were rattling. Our amtrack pulled away from the river about 1,000 yards and swerved through a rice paddy to an embankment. The men were tense. They gripped their weapons, ready for the dash through the door.

Slowly the door opened. Sergeant Kent was first out, carrying the box with the rabbits. As he hugged the shelter of a bank he put them down carefully beside him.

Marines Hit

I dashed after the sergeant and then the man behind me screamed and pitched forward. At the same time we heard the crack of the rifle.

Then another marine screamed and fell from the amtrack. The enemy on the hill above us was shooting straight down into our men as they came out the door.

The marines hugged the embankment as the bullets cracked into the vehicle. The driver fell wounded.

Mike Ehrlich thundered at his men to get out of the vehicle. Then he coolly sent a rifle squad around the ridge and ordered an amtrack machineunner to swing his gun around and open fire.

An empty amtrack came by and Mike stopped it. He ordered the door opened and we carried our wounded inside to be ferried back across the Han.

Down the hill came frightened, whimpering civilians. Two women carried rosaries clutched to their breasts. The children were sobbing and frightened, their eyes wide with fear.

Sergeant Kent looked at the children and then went back down the hill. When he returned he carried the box with three white rabbits. He sat down and slowly opened the lid and took one of the rabbits out in his big hamlike hand. He smiled at the children.

The fear went out of their eyes and tears stopped. Then they smiled and came over to peek into the box and exclaim over the mascots of the Third Battalion.

The sergeant grinned and put the rabbits back in the box and went back to his job.

In a short time our mortars were thumping shells into the enemy lines.

This time the marines had landed and the situation was well in hand.

A $4 reservation fee will be included; this fee will be the tuition and in the prospective student camp the fee will be refunded.

Good Health--A Matter Of Choice In Hot Weather

"Good health in hot weather may be largely a matter of personal choice," according to Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer, as he called for Texans to take life as it comes in summer and live with it as comfortably as possible.

"These modern scientists can drop ice from airplanes to make rain and they can forecast weather several days in advance, but nobody has figured out a way to keep the thermometer from rising sky high in a hot summer afternoon," Dr. Cox said.

"Therefore, Dr. Cox continued, "a few common sense practices will help us to live with summer and like it. Texas summers are hot and the hottest part is still ahead, so one needs to remember certain things that are good hot weather practices.

"For example: drink plenty of cool (not ice) water; eat moderately of simple, but a wide variety of foods, exercise daily in the fresh air and have plenty air in sleeping rooms; take a fair amount of salt to replace large losses through perspiration; avoid alcoholic drinks, get plenty of sleep; keep clean; don't worry. Do not overeat.

"One of the essentials of summer comfort is the daily bath to wash away perspiration and with it body wastes eliminated through the pores, and to relax tired muscles and strained nerves. There is nothing better than a leisurely bath followed by a short rest."

The Crossing of the Han River

By Don Whitehead

Editor's Note:

The following news item was written by one of the prize winners of the Pulitzer prize in Journalism for distinguished reporting of international affairs—Don Whitehead.

Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead was in the assault wave of U. S. marines to cross the Han river near Seoul. His amphibious craft was hit by a shell, but he was unhurt. Her is his dispatch, sent back from the front by courier and telephoned to Tokyo.

BY DON WHITEHEAD WITH U. S. MARINES OUTSIDE SEOUL, Sept. 20—(AP)—A pale three-quarters moon was sliding below the horizon when the marines came out of their foxholes and started trudging toward the Han river Wednesday.

Ahead of them somewhere on the dusty road were the big amphibious tractors the assault waves would ride into the battle for the Han river bridgehead on the Seoul side.

The men came out of their holes unwrapping themselves from blankets and shelter halves and cursing softly. The night was cold and damp.

Map, Mik Ehrlich of San Diego yelled at his men, the heavy weapons company of the Fifth regiment's first battalion: "Get ready to move. Assemble in boat."

The men shouldered heavy machine guns and mortars and ammunition and radios as they came stumbling out of the cotton patch onto the road. The assault was set for 4 a. m. and Ehrlich's men were to ride with the assault.

The river crossing didn't look so good now. A few hours before a reconnaissance company had tried to cross the river and take limited objectives. The radoman had called back to headquarters: "The marines have landed and the situation is well in hand."

But that was before the Reds had attacked the company.

Reds Hit Hard The Reds hit hard and the little reconnaissance unit had to pull back across the river. The enemy had not been taken by surprise. And now we knew the enemy would be waiting for the main attack.

But Mike Ehrlich checked back with his battalion commander, Lieut. Col. Robert D. Taplett on San Francisco.

The H-hour for attack had been delayed because of the failure of reconnaissance mission.

The troops milled around in the darkness. Confusion seemed to be everywhere as units groped for the right road which would lead them to the amtracks.

A lieutenant kept muttering to himself. Mike said: "What's troubling you, lieutenant?"

"Operations Never Hurries" "Why is it," the young officer said, "that S-3 (operations section) always wants everything done in a hurry? But if you ask them for something they never hurry it up."

Mike said: "That's just the way it is, lieutenant. It's like a man and a woman. They're that way and always have been and you can't do anything about it. When you are a staff officer you'll be the same way."

"I hope not," the lieutenant said.

Finally, the third battalion sorted itself out and the confusion resolved. The men climbed into the big amtracks with their weapons and ammunition packed closely together.

"They should pack us in these things with oil and then we would really be sardines," someone said.

Then I noticed the sergeant carry the carbidoard box—M-Sgt. Anthony Kent of 115 South Third Street, Salina, Kansas. He noticed my curiosity and opened the top. Inside were three fluffy white rabbits sleeping soundly on a bed of straw.

Rabbits For Mascots

"Bought them with a package of cigarettes," Kent grinned. "Now they're our mascots."

Rabbits going into battle with the big tough marine! suddenly I realized how young these warriors were.

They were thirty-five men in our amtrack. They groaned when Mike told them the assault had been delayed another hour—until 6:45 a. m.

Dawn had broken when the amtrack column lurched forward and roared down the road toward the river. And in the bowels of each were sealed a unit of marines ready to begin fighting when the amtrack doors opened on the Seoul side.

Artillery Thunders The artillery thundered. We could hear the rush of shells and feel the shudder of explosions as our artillery pounded the enemy shore of the Han. The amtrack bounded and jerked down the road and then we were in the river.

Town Fights For Survival

PUSING, Malaya —(AP)— The 3,000 residents of this little mining town in Perak state of Malaya are fighting to "make good." If they don't, they may suffer the same fate as the village of Jenderam in Selangor state.

The British forcibly evacuated all of Jenderam's 1,600 people in February and ordered it burned off the map of Malaya because it was a "wasp's nest" of Communist terrorism. The people were screened and the worthy ones resettled elsewhere. Pusing has seen a lot of Red terrorism, murder and sabotage in and around Pusing.

The British have delivered an ultimatum—that there must be another single act of terrorism in Pusing, or "other arrangements" will be made. The hint was that Pusing would get the same medicine as Jenderam. The British ordered the Pusing people to organize themselves a home guard within 48 hours to protect themselves against the terrorist. All able-bodied men rushed to join up.

Know These Garden Pests and How to Kill Them

These are the common insects for which some other insecticide than D.D.T. should be used by the amateur: 1, Mexican bean beetle; 2, tomato horn worm; 3, most aphids; 4, cucumber beetle.

Insects which attack vegetable and flower plants are usually specialists. They attack one variety or group of relatives, and their appearance can be foretold by experienced gardeners. It pays to identify them, and learn their habits, so that you may prevent them from damaging your plants.

There are red, black and green aphids. They cling to the underside of leaves, or on the growing ends of stems of many vegetables, multiplying with amazing rapidity. Use rotenone, pyrethrum or nicotine dust or spray, immediately first specimens are detected.

Asparagus beetles are blue-black with lemon spots, one-quarter inch long. Use rotenone dust or spray while harvest is on, and these or D.D.T. dust or spray after the harvest.

Blister beetles are grey, striped or black, three-quarter inch long, prey on potato and tomato plants. Use rotenone or D.D.T. spray or dust, or calcium arsenate dust.

The striped cucumber beetle is one of the worst home garden pests, yellow body with three black stripes. It breeds in the blossom ends of cucumber, squash and melon vines, eats leaves and spreads disease. Dust new growth as it develops with dust composed of 1 lb. calcium arsenate and 10 pounds of talc or gypsum, repeating until vines are several feet long. Young plants should be protected from their first appearance. Do not use lime.

Flea beetles are small flea-like insects which attack cabbage, eggplant, potatoes, tomatoes, turnips and other vegetables, and riddle the leaves with small holes. Use D.D.T. dust or spray.

The potato bug or Colorado beetle, which may also attack eggplant and tomatoes, is red with black stripes, half inch long. Spray or dust with D.D.T.

Potato leafhoppers are pale green, one-eighth inch long. Also found on beans, swarming on your approach to the plants, on which they cause leaf-curl. D.D.T. kills them quickly.

Cutworms are caterpillars of various moths which hide by day and at night cut off young plants at the soil surface. Protect the plants with collars of heavy paper or cardboard surrounding the stems, extending an inch below the soil surface and two inches above, when the plants are set out.

Squash bugs are reddish brown to black, three-quarter inch long. They lay egg clusters on underside of leaves, and can be controlled by rotenone spray or dust.

The Mexican bean beetle is a black sheep of the lady bug family. Coppery brown, 8 black spots on each wing cover; it eats vines and lays yellow egg clusters on under side of leaves, which hatch out into larvae with voracious appetites. Plants must be thoroughly sprayed or dusted with rotenone or D.D.T.

Tomato worms are green caterpillars with conspicuous yellow markings, three to four inches long. The worm eats tomato leaves but is easily picked off, or killed by a rotenone or D.D.T. spray or dust. The corn ear worm is a caterpillar two inches long, striped and marked green and brown, hatched from eggs laid on the young silk. Inject from an oil can a few drops of medicinal mineral oil in the silk channel of each ear.

Cabbage worms are pale green caterpillars one and one-quarter inch long, hatched from eggs laid by white butterflies, which are found on cabbage, cauliflower and other members of the cabbage family. Dust with rotenone or D.D.T.

Grasshoppers may attack all garden crops and are best controlled by using poison bait.

Sometimes It Pays to Be Crazy

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A mid-western psychiatrist recently came up with the idea that all candidates for public office be required first to pass a sanity test.

I suppose in time to come, each of us will have his own psychiatrist just as we now have our own dentist or medical practitioner. But I doubt if the time is close when a man or woman with political ambitions will first have to win a clean bill of health, duly notarized.

Granted that psychiatry and psychoanalysis are important developments in our time and of inestimable help to suffering millions, I think a requirement of problem sanity would do nothing to improve our political climate.

As things stand right now, the voting public frequently complains about the over-all calibre of its public servants. Government officials complain about the difficulty of wooing successful men from private industry into federal, state or municipal employ where, for less money, they frequently find themselves targets for abuse.

If in addition, these men and women find it necessary to prove to the satisfaction of a board of psychiatrists that they were in full control of their senses, I'm afraid public service would prove one of the world's least attractive callings.

Psychiatrists, apparently, are a very ambitious bunch of people—or as a group they must be certain they hold the key to life's riddle. Maybe they do, but in fairly recent months I have encountered all manner of suggestions about using the science to pre-test all manner of things, ranging from the issuance of automobile operators' licenses to matrimony.

I'm conscious of the great good that the mental hygiene men and women of the nation are doing with individuals on one hand. On the other I shudder at what might happen if a group of them were given absolute control over phases of the average citizen's life.

As an old police reporter I've covered many a homicide trial where the eminent psychiatric experts for the prosecution and for the defense split neatly into two camps, both with persuasive cases designed to show clearly that the defendant was manifestly completely loony or in full command of his reason at a given time. Obviously they both couldn't be right. And if it were a question of my being their pigeon in my search for a driving license, a husband, a production line or a seat on the town council, I just wouldn't play. The meek thought makes me nervous.

As a matter of fact, the whole project probably would blow up in smoke. In the first instance, the sanity-test requirement would have to be set up by some group of lawmakers. These people would be interested for their own sanity. And who, then, would pick the examining psychiatrists? How would the examiner be sure his examiners

Five Year Old Boy Knows Way Around

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Tommy Powers may be only five but he knows his way around.

His father took him to town recently. Tommy stopped to watch the antics of some chickens in a poultry market window. When his daddy looked around, Tommy was nowhere in sight.

Squads of police scoured the crowded streets in vain. Late that day Tommy's father started home to tell the bad news. It took him 25 minutes by trolley to reach his home on the outskirts of Pittsburgh. The distance is close to five miles. The first person to greet him was Tommy.

"Pop," he had shouted, "what did you go off and leave me for? I had to walk home by myself."

Were within the normal mental brackets? In my time I've seen some psychiatrists who acted in rather strange ways.

With the whole business of psychoanalysis and psychiatry the inexact and somewhat mysterious science it still is today, it would seem more logical to let it age and mature a while longer. The mere suggestion that psychiatrists attempt to screen the heads of ambitious politicians brought, I am certain, loud laughter from the politicians themselves. As an old eavesdropper in smoke-filled rooms, I know that their favorite expression is "Anyone who goes into politics must be crazy . . ."

MRS. B. D. GARLAND, JR. —Photo by Nail.

Elsie Kloiber and B. D. Garland, Jr. Married At Methodist Church Friday

In a beautiful double ring ceremony performed at the First Methodist church Friday evening, June 1, at 8:30 o'clock, Miss Elsie Laverne Kloiber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe F. Kloiber became the bride of B. D. Garland, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Garland, sr. Rev. Frank Beauchamp, pastor, read the impressive wedding vows.

The couple stood before a tall palm tree of jade leaves, flanked on either side by tall baskets of white gladioli and Marconi daisies. White tapers in tiered, wrought iron candleabra formed a background for the ceremony.

Mrs. Findley Sings
Pre-nuptial wedding music was played on the pipe organ by Mrs. Dewey Hulise, who also accompanied Mrs. Weldon Findley when she sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly," and she played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of white satin, and imported chanelly lace, fashioned with high neckline, outlined with lace applique. The fitted bodice of lace had long tight sleeves, and a princess panel of lace that extended the entire length of the skirt at center front. Joining this, with lace applique at waistline, an immense satin skirt swept into a long and graceful train at the back. Hoops underneath emphasized the skirt's fullness. The short veil of silk illusion, dotted with sprays of white lilacs was joined to a Juliet cap of horsehair braid, with lilac trim.

The bride carried a bouquet designed in a cascade of orchid satin ribbon centered with an orchid.

Peggy Webb Maid-Of-Honor
Miss Peggy Webb was maid of honor and she wore a lime green formal dress of nylon, fashioned with a full skirt over a hooped petticoat. The bodice was fitted, and fashioned with a wide bertha collar of the same material. She wore orchid mits, and a headpiece of orchid maline, with white daisies with yellow centers. Her bouquet was designed on the same lines as that of the bride's, and was made of white and yellow daisies.

Bridesmaids
Mrs. Robert L. Payne of Quitaque and Mrs. Kenneth Bales, Littlefield, served as bridesmaids and they wore identical dresses of yellow nylon, designed similarly to that of the maid of honor. They carried lime green colored muffs, with clusters of yellow Margarite daisies. They wore matching headpieces, using the same kind of flowers.

Candlelighters
Cousins of the bride, Miss Amelia Zahn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Zahn, of Oakland, California, who wore a green nylon formal dress with a tier of green net and daisies, and mits of green net, and Miss Mary Lee Bolton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Bolton, of Morton, who was dressed identically like that of Miss Zahn, lighted the candles, preceding the ceremony. Mrs. J. C. Smith, jr., presided at the register. She wore a formal orchid colored taffeta dress and a corsage of white carnations.

Groom's Attendant
L. J. J. Don Egan, with the Naval Air Reserve, stationed at Grand Prairie, formerly of Littlefield, acted as best man.

Ushers were the bride's brother, Cpl. Curtis D. Kloiber, of Biggs Air Force Base at El Paso and Moreland Payne, Littlefield.

Mrs. Kloiber, mother of the bride, chose a pretty pink lace dress for her daughter's wedding, and wore white accessories. Her corsage was of orchid Ester Reed daisies.

Mrs. Garland wore an off-white linen dress with matching accessories, and she also wore a corsage of orchid colored Ester Reed daisies.

Reception At Country Club
Immediately following the wedding a formal reception was held at Littlefield Country club. Guests were greeted by the bride's parents, the bride and groom and the groom's parents, and members of the wedding party.

The table laid with a floor length white organdy cloth over yellow, was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. White tapers in crystal candleabra were placed at either side of the cake, while an arrangement of fern and Ester Reed orchid daisies placed along the edge of the table, formed a background. After the bride and groom had cut the first slice of cake, Mrs. Oscar P. Wilemon served the guests. Mrs. Anna Jo Pierce of Lubbock presided at the punch bowl. Others assisting with serving were Mrs. J. C. Smith, jr., Mrs. Gaylon Young, Mrs. Jack Pritchard, and Mrs. Virgil Zoth.

Trip To Old Mexico
Immediately after the reception the couple left for a two weeks' trip to Old Mexico. They plan to visit Mexico City, and other points of interest. The bride was dressed in a pretty natural colored linen suit, with brown and red accessories, and wore a corsage fashioned from her wedding bouquet, when she and the groom left for their honeymoon. When they return they will live at 1017 W. 10th street.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Garland have lived here their entire life, and they both graduated from Littlefield High school. She is a member of the class of '47 while he finished High school with the class of '41. Since graduating from high school Mrs. Garland has been employed in the bookkeeping department of the First National bank.

The groom enrolled at Southern Methodist University in June, 1941, and in October, 1942, he joined the U. S. Naval Reserve. He was called into active duty in June, 1943, serving a short time at SMU and was then transferred to Columbia University, N. Y. In 1944, he was transferred to the Marine Corps, serving overseas at Guam, Saipan, Okinawa and did occupational duty for six months in Japan. He was discharged in 1946, when he re-entered Southern Methodist University and graduated with a BA degree in 1947.

After graduating he returned home, and entered business with his father in the Garland Motor company in June, 1947. In June of last year, Mr. Garland formed a partnership with Moreland Payne and bought the South Plains Motor company here, now known as the Ideal Motor company.

Lentil soup with frankfurter slices makes a good Sunday night supper dish. Add a salad and pumpkinnickel bread to the menu, and for dessert serve cheese and crackers.

Lucille Johnson and Clarence Friday Married In Quiet Ceremony

Old New Look Comes Back In Paris

By Florence Mills

(AP) Newfeatures.

PARIS — That old "New Look" is back this summer looking as handsome and hippy as ever.

The comeback of this most controversial yet successful of all female fashions has been staged by leading couturier Jacques Fath. His summer fashion parade features decollete dresses with enormous, padded skirts which compete with Dior's three year old "New Look" for sheer hip-piness. The skirts, which are often sunray pleated, eat up yards and yards of material. He uses shantung, organza or pique with an occasional Broderie Anglaise.

Accompanying tailored jackets, usually of the same material, but sometimes in a contrast such as tulle, are yanked in to fit an almost nonexistent waist, then spread out over the hips to cover the almost crinoline dimensions of the skirt.

Fath hasn't dropped his hemlines to the long "New Look" level, but all his skirts are definitely a little longer than last season and knees are well hidden.

Fath is also showing halter-necked coats. The coats are reversible, being either sunray pleated one side and plain the other, or in a dual color scheme. Typical example is in navy blue alpaca with white lapels that widen and continue right down to the hemline. When the coat is reversed, it becomes white with avyn blue lapels.

Sheath dresses—a Fath specialty—are as snaky-hipped as ever and definitely built only for very lean women.

He dresses them up with enormous collars and cuffs of glazed white linen or with long scarves of chiffon or candy-striped taffeta. The scarves usually encircle a wedge-shaped neckline then extend into two loose panels, held in at the waist with a black patent leather belt.

Another style by Fath has a scooped out decollete set with a wide, off-shoulder, shawl collar which disappears into the bodice just below the bust, then re-emerges to form a wide, loose-hanging panel down the skirt.

Heaviest applause at his summer fashion showing was accorded a loose coat in pale rose satin, lined with pale blue satin, worn over a short evening dress in white organza. It was strapless and had the typical skirt.

No modesty is wasted in Paris this summer as far as beach fashions are concerned.

Seamless swimsuits, both one and two-piece affairs—seem designed specially to make the onlooker blush.

Bikini styles that have pants terminating well below the navel and bra's that only just serve their purpose, are well to the fore.

But one of the most daring efforts is being shown by designed Jacques Heim. He makes a one-piece suit in blood red satin luster which has a "figleaf" insert of white satin.

Bright colored terry cloth (toweling) is used extensively for long beach stoles, and jackets and particularly for lining loose, sleeveless smocks that barely reach the top of the thighs.

Schlaparelli lines a whole pool coat of navy blue blanket wool with white terry cloth. Heim uses buttercup yellow and Kelly green terry cloth for huge stoles set with big patch pockets, and embroidered heavily with tan and black straw flowers.

He covers a Bikini suit in white pique with a matching smock lined reversibly with turquoise terry cloth.

An ensemble called "Sardine" has a sack-shaped cape and hood of red shantung placed over a black cotton swimsuit overlaid with coarse white fishnet.

Sensational outfit by Heim has a faded larkspur blue cotton sunsuit teamed with an outside fisherman's hat in multi-colored straw which sweeps down to thigh level at the back.

On the more conservative side, he shows tight-fitting kneepants in black and white checked gingham, topped with a halter bodice and little flared apron in raspberry Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Lucille Johnson, daughter of Millard Johnson, and Clarence Friday, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Friday, which took place Saturday evening, May 26th at the home of the officiating minister, Rev. H. A. Heckman, pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran church, at 7:30 p. m.

The bride's cousin, James A. Timian and wife were the only attendants.

The bride chose a pale pink dress with white accessories for her wedding. Her corsage was of white carnations.

After the ceremony the couple left on a wedding trip for Tanglewood, near Cameron. They will make their home at Hereford where the groom is employed by a telephone construction unit.

Mr. and Mrs. Friday have both attended Littlefield High school. The bride was a member of the graduating class of '51.

TO APPEAR ON RADIO PROGRAM

Catherin Polyn, a Sudan girl who is a student at St. Mary's College at Notre Dame, Indiana may appear on the Welcome Traveler's radio program on June 7.

In a letter to the editor, Catherine mentioned she would attend the program, however, she didn't say she would be interviewed.

She is staying for St. Mary's graduation exercises on June 2 and for Notre Dame exercises on June 3. From there, she will go to Chicago and besides attending the popular Welcome Traveler's program, she hopes to see the stage show "South Pacific" enroute home. Catherine writes that she will stop off in Kansas City to visit a school chum.

Mrs. Martha Gardner and daughter, Mrs. Lucille Smith, are spending the weekend in Pampa with the latter's daughter, Miss Georgia Lou Smith, and also attending a family reunion of the Davis family, held at the home of Mrs. Gardner's brother, W. H. Davis, at Pantex, Sunday.

A pot luck picnic dinner will be served on the lawn at noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burch and children, Sandra and Gary, of Cleveland, Ohio, arrived Thursday for a visit with her mother, Mrs. H. H. Hale. Mrs. Burch is the former Miss Ella Mae Hale.

MRS LEWIS GOING TO CALIFORNIA

Mrs. Era B. Lewis, who has been employed at Allan's Apparel for the past two years has resigned her position, and plans to leave today for Berkeley, California, for an extended visit with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Morris and family. She will be accompanied by her other daughter, Mrs. Lynn Nelson and two children of Brownwood.

Designer Jean Patou goes in for the covered-up look this summer and shows long shorts, complete with creases, that reach to the knees. With it goes a boat-necked bolero and a roll-brimmed bowler hat in black linen.

In this incongruous outfit he competes with Heim who shows a model wearing white pique gloves with a swimsuit.

Another designer, Carvin, goes all native this summer. Her mannequins go barefooted as they parade in fringed sunsuits made of cotton printed with African jungle scenes.

Carven either wraps material around the figure, native style, or else she favors brief, puffy bloomers, bare midriffs and bra' tops that cover one shoulder.

She also favors the short, sleeveless smock, shown by other designers this summer. One in green, black and white, zebra-striped cotton, covers a green sat-in swimsuit scalloped at all edges with white silk embroidery.

HADACOL HELPS LEE AND MARILYN SUE

HADACOL Helps Children with Weak, Run-Down Conditions When Due to Deficiencies of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Niacin and Iron

Young Lee Horton and Marilyn Sue Scieszinski live many miles apart, but they both have one thing in common—they both take HADACOL. When Lee was not feeling as good as his father, F. W. Horton, thought he should feel, he gave Lee HADACOL. Lee, who lives at 108 74th Ave., Houston, Texas, took his HADACOL regularly and his father says he now feels real good.

Mrs. J. Scieszinski, Marilyn's mother, who lives at 514 Kruger, Ottumwa, Iowa, sees that her daughter takes her HADACOL each day, too, and Mrs. Scieszinski says Marilyn likes to take her HADACOL. Their stories will show you how you may be helped by HADACOL, if you are suffering a weak, run-down condition and poor appetite if due to a deficiency of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin.

Mr. Horton says about Lee: "Lee was very weak and run-down and just didn't want to eat at all. We heard about HADACOL and decided that was what Lee needed. After he started taking HADACOL his appetite picked up right away. He started gaining weight and eats real well now, and has been feeling real good. HADACOL has been good for Lee and I heartily recommend it to everyone."

Mrs. Scieszinski says about Marilyn Sue: "My daughter, Marilyn Sue, is 5 years old, and for some time had a poor appetite, was generally run-down. Since giving her HADACOL, we have noticed wonderful results. She has a much better appetite, eats everything on the table, and doesn't seem tired like she used to. In fact, she likes to take HADACOL, too."

TEEN TALK

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures

Young adults keep themselves busy whether they are interested in stamps or horseback riding. Here are some highlights of teen news.

Spotlight on Fashion . . . New fluorescent materials have gone to the feet as well as the head. You'll see Susie Smart wearing shoe laces of neon red or a hat of fire orange or a jacket of are yellow or signal green. These colors, which the army adopted during the last war so that they could be visible for several miles, sure do make a gal stand out. Boys are wearing sportswear emblazoned with leaping leopards; roaring lions or sailing clipper ships of these day-glow colors. Some young moderns hold dances with spotlights which make their costume motifs shine. Above all, these fluorescent day-glow colors make good safety apparel for summertime. They are ideal for hunting or for cycling hostlers.

Attention Girl Scouts . . . The Pakistan Association of Girl Guides will send representatives to the 1951 International Encampment of Girl Guides to be held near Stevenson, Washington (July 17 to August 6). This brings to 12 the number of countries sending ten-age guides to the pioneer encampment. Australia, Brazil, Canada, Colombia, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Haiti, Mexico, the Netherlands, Philippines and the Netherlands West Indies will be represented. Representatives of the Girl Scouts of the U. S. A., hostess movement at the encampment, will come from 31 states, the District of Columbia, Canal Zone, Hawaii and Alaska. All the girls (about 100) will camp in pioneer style—living in tents, cooking their meals over open fires, and exchanging camp skills developed and practiced in their various countries and regions.

Hot-Rod Headache . . . New York car owners under 21 years of age will be required to carry automobile liability insurance beginning July 1. The law was enacted to cure reckless driving by ten-age "jalopy" owners. Owners under 21 can't get a license unless they carry at least $5,000 liability insurance for injuries to one person and at least $10,000 to cover injuries to more than one. The bill's preamble stated that there was a steady increase in the number of motor vehicle accidents and that a startling number of these accidents involve youthful drivers and that . . . "Their reckless disregard for public safety and the rules of traffic has contributed enormously to the increasing accident rate." This doesn't solve the problem of life and limb being in jeopardy, however, so how about it kids—let's observe the safety rules.

Sing Something Simple . . . Like opera, for instance. Met tenor Felix Knight advises would-be songbirds to take their choice of an opera coach instead of a popular-song coach, if they want to learn to warble. Opera training he says, gives the voice more control and power and enables you to sing all types of music, be it opera, light classical or popular. Early training should be in harmony, composition and possibly piano—the basic instrument. Dramatic study will provide experience and ease of movement. A voice education takes several years, sometimes ten or fifteen. You'll need stick-to-it-iveness advises Felix. Although part of his own musical education was achieved with scholarships, he also worked in many jobs to get enough money to pay for lessons. It's worth it, he says although he offers this advice: "If you're already convinced that operatic training is most desirable, remember not to train your sights and voice only at the opera." There are very few singers, he says, for whom opera pays the rent.

Dancing daughters . . . Have teen-agers lost interest in dancing? The answer seems to be "no" in spite of bandmaster Freddy Martin's recent meeting with New York high school editors to find out why fewer kids hit the light fantastic. The teen-agers pointed out to Mr. Martin that kids still like to dance, but they too have been hit by the shrinking dollar. Instead of dancing at places where "name bands" perform most teen-agers were dancing to records at home or to bands composed of high school students.

Barbers Take Note—Beards Are Returning

DALLAS, Tex., May 29—Beards are fashionable when our culture is romantic, while men are clean-shaven during periods of rationalism, says Thomas F. Mayo in the Summer issue of "Southwest Review," just published.

From twenty years to research, Professor Mayo, who teaches English at Texas A. and M., has found that wearing beards is an exclusively romantic custom. Beards were fashionable in the twelfth, thirteenth, sixteenth, the early part of the seventeenth and the nineteenth centuries—all romantic ages—when the difference between the sexes was accentuated and beards were worn as a gesture of virility.

Western culture has been rationalistic since 1900, but now the pendulum is beginning to swing back toward romanticism. So watch for beards again.

Shannon Elevator Starts Construction On Office Building

Construction of modern date offices for the Shannon Elevator in Sudan was started last week. The new office building is 40 feet, of white brick. According to O. L. Shannon, president of the company, the new 100,000 pound capacity elevator is being installed on the second floor. The remodeling job is also being done on the old office building. Shannon estimated that construction work would be completed within 30 days and that present construction would in no way hamper the efficiency of the elevator.

Minister to Speak

Mr. Gruber who lived under Communism a number of years will speak on the subject "Communism vs. Christianity."

Having suffered under Communism himself, Mr. Gruber is highly qualified to give a realistic picture of this bloody slavery. He receives information from behind the "Iron Curtain" where his native land is groaning under Stalin's ruthless regime.

The Brotherhood meeting, which will be held in the new auditorium of the Church, will open with a dinner served by members of the organization at 8 o'clock. Tickets will be sold for the dinner.

Mr. Gruber has spoken to numbers of church groups over the State and his warning to the American people is:

"The greatest enemy that the world, America and Christianity are facing today in ruthless godless Russian Communism. We should know the facts about this dangerous evil that has enslaved hundreds of millions of people around the world and is threatening America today."

For engagements Mr. Gruber may be contacted by writing him care of Wayland College, Plainview, Texas.

Mr. Gruber was born in Riga, Latvia.

Marianne Estes, Arena Secretary, will act in that capacity at this year's rodeo.

As easy as this may sound, it is really quite a job. She not only has the responsibility of handling thousands of dollars worth of prize money, entry fees, and making the program, but also has to remember names of hundreds of bucking horses and cowboys, as well.

Marianne represented the State of Texas for three different years at Madison Square Garden Rodeo, as a Ranch Glamour Girl.

Large Numbers Attend Vacation Bible School

One of the most successful Vacation Bible Schools in the history of the First Baptist church is now in progress, with an enrollment of approximately 250.

The school began last Monday morning, and will continue through this week, closing Friday night, June 8th, when Commencement exercises will be held in the church auditorium at 8:30 o'clock. Parents and friends of the children are invited to attend, and handwork will be displayed, and a program will be presented.

Rev. Lee Hemphill, pastor is superintendent of the school and is assisting the boys with woodwork.

Canadian Fishermen Using Biblical Fishing Methods

PORT ROWAN, Ont.—(AP)—Fishing methods of Biblical times are repeated on the shores of Lake Erie's Long Point Bay near here by fishermen who cast their nets into the shallow water and draw them into shore.

One end of their long nets is anchored close to shore and the other pulled through a long semicircle by men wading or in boats. The fishermen begin their season when the ice leaves the bay and end only when it freezes over.

OFF ON THE RIGHT FOOT

PITTSBURGH —(AP)—Pittsburgh's new fire chief won't forget when he was sworn in as chief.

James T. Coslett donned his uniform not long ago for the ceremony in City Hall. His mother and wife were on hand to watch him take his oath. Just then, an alarm rang in, quickly followed by another. Coslett was the first man out of the room, rushing to direct six companies fight a stubborn blaze.

Coslett, a veteran of 20 years in the fire department, is the son of a fireman killed in line of duty 24 years ago.

TV Owners Buy Less Clothes, Says Home Economist

LOS ANGELES — (AP)—Television may have brought families closer together, but it has also reduced the family income spent on clothing, according to Norma N. Shenk, home economist at the University of California.

Miss Shenk claims that payments on TV sets, together with increased food and housing cost, reduce savings of middle income groups for clothing.

"The silver lining to the problem," she says, "is that people don't need as many new clothes when they stay at home watching video."

Miss Shenk explains that small boys from six to 12 years of age, usually need a pair of new shoes about every two months, but with TV keeping the youngsters indoors, shoe requirements have dropped.

A teaspoon of grated orange rind added to a cup of sugar makes a good glaze for a ham.

Crowning of

will be announced next week.

Already announced is a two-day, or night, appearance of that famed musical organization, The Light Crust Doughboys, who will furnish the music for hundreds of fast-stepping boys and girls, in high and handsome cowboy boots.

Speaking of boots, they're here and more coming in profusion, some of them almost gorgeous, and costing as much as a prime steer sold for a few years ago, in those days when a cowboy would opine that a steer should bring the price of a good saddle. But, those are bygone days, probably before the 1949 Washington order of the beef price rollback.

The wildest collection of rodeo animals ever to be brought to Littlefield, is promised, and it will probably be brought in the latter part of next week, as will also those five beautifully trained horses, who will perform nightly before the grandstand. They are one of the higher-priced, much-sought-after rodeo attractions—worth traveling miles to see.

Flags started flying on Phelps avenue the first of last week, and the window decorators, armed with pots of gay-colored paints, and brushes, are painting anything and everything that resembles a horse, a steer, or a cowboy, on practically every business window in town, along with the all-important dates—Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, June 14, 15, and 16.

Get that cotton seed in the ground, and get the bollworms poisoned now—because "how you gonna keep 'em down on the farm," when the rodeo gets underway?

Salvation

(Continued From Page 1) and prepared for use to wear at Sunday Divine services. On the closing day of the week, Sunday, they attended services and presented a play, on which they had been rehearsing for some days.

The climax of it all came Sunday night, when the Guards led a song service for colored children, with 30 boys and girls attending.

The Girls Guard numbers its members in the high thousands, and the membership grows with each passing year.

The theme or slogan of the organization this year is "Guarding the Lamps of Freedom."

"To Save and To Serve" is another motto and goal, toward which accomplishment they are taught.

In many places the girls do into hospitals, homes for aged, and do tasks such as ironing, cleaning, baby-sitting, all on a voluntary basis. "Sunshine Baskets" were distributed to ill and needy at both Christmas and Easter time.

And last, but not least, they have sent hundreds of food-gift boxes overseas, through the Salvation Army's International network of Girls Guard organizations, which co-operates by supplying names of needy persons abroad, to whom the gifts are addressed.

It is a very much worthwhile organization, and the girls make a pretty appearance in their uniforms of gray and red—of which along with their organization, and their leaders, they are, unanimously, very proud.

Give Your Garden a Drink When Top Soil Dries Out

Canvas Hose Which Leaks Through Mesh Spreads Water Evenly Over Garden.

Veteran gardeners have long practiced the maxim: Give a plant (or a garden) a drink when it's dry. In other words, do not keep the soil wet, but let it get thirsty between drinks.

In a lecture to florists, Dr. J. Boyd Page of Ohio State university gave a scientific view of the problem of watering, which indorsed this old gardener's maxim.

A good soil holds both water and air at the same time, he said. These are held in spaces between the soil particles, called "pores." When there is an excess of water, air is driven out, and the plants suffer for lack of it. This occurs in gardens when water stands on the surface; and is the reason why quick drainage of excess water is so important.

Lack of water, on the other hand, is also harmful to the plants. A balance between air and water must be maintained. A plant will make the best root growth, said Dr. Page, when it is drying the soil down. When the soil is soaked, and the excess drains away quickly, fresh air enters the soil to take the place of the water. The roots reach out for water as the supply diminishes, and vigorous growth results.

Dr. Page's explanation makes it clear why an alternating cycle of thorough watering, and a period of drying out should be followed.

But watering should be thorough enough to wet the soil as deep as the roots go, at least. This cannot be done by sprinkling a brief period every day; that is bad watering practice because it moistens only the top few inches of soil, and encourages root growth near the surface where the soil dries out quickly. The soil must be soaked deeply whenever rainfall is insufficient to provide abundant water. That means, when less than one inch each week falls on the garden in summer time.

Let the hose run without a sprinkler, so that the water falls upon a board which scatters it and prevents washing out a gully, or use a canvas hose which leaks all along its length, and serves as a portable irrigation ditch.

In growing melons and tomatoes, many amateurs find that by sinking a tile into the ground near each hill, before the seed is sown, they can simplify the task of watering. Water poured into the tile is carried immediately down to the deepest roots, and this often results in exceptional growth.

SUDAN DEFEATS ANTON 7-6 IN GAME SUNDAY

The Sudan baseball club won by a score of 7-6 in a close game with Anton last Sunday afternoon on the Sudan diamond. It was described by fans as one of the best games of the season.

Sudan scored twice in the 1st inning, made 4 in the second and one in the last of the ninth.

Don Lance was on the mound for Sudan until the 7th when he was relieved by Billy Hanna. Bill Eddins was behind the plate. The umpire was Charlie West.

Vacation Code GIVEN PARENTS

A vacation formula to carry on into the fall some of the joys from summer play was offered Texas parents this week.

The designer was Mrs. R. O. Pearson of Abilene, director of state women's activities for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

In a bulletin to NFIP chapters, Mrs. Pearson admonished parents to convert between-school relaxation into "a vehicle for future strength" by supervising youngsters' activities during the hot weather.

She cautioned that childish enthusiasm often times prompts excessive play and extreme fatigue, there by inviting polio to strike.

"Many families find themselves compromised after school lets out for the summer," said Mrs. Pearson. "They have become accustomed to depending on the schools as the major factor in supervision. By now accepting their full responsibility and by realizing their obligations extend beyond feeding, clothing and housing their children, parents may help extend the gaiety of summer into the fall. Above all they will have helped prevent the vacation period from proving detrimental.

"This is simple logic because polio is more prevalent during the summer months. The record Texas incidence during the last three summers should stimulate interest in these safeguards."

To Study at Monte Sano Hospital in Los Angeles

Dr. E. B. Knollhoff of the Sudan Clinic and Mrs. Knollhoff will leave June 9 for Los Angeles where he will take a post graduate work in obstetrics, gynecology, pediatrics and Atom medicine for 10 days. He will study at the Monte Sano Foundation Hospitals.

Dr. Knollhoff will visit his mother, Mrs. Sarah Knollhoff of Long Beach during that time. They will return to Sudan on Saturday, June 23.

TO RECEIVE BA DEGREE FROM NTSC

Leola Vincent of Sudan is approximately 450 students who have made application to the bachelor's degree commencement exercises June 10.

The Honorable John B. Ford, Texas Secretary of State, will deliver the commencement address. The baccalaureate will be given by the Rev. L. Potter, minister of the First Avenue Christian Church, Springfield, Missouri.

Miss Vincent, daughter and Mrs. J. H. Vincent, will deliver the commencement address. She is a senior student majoring in music education at NTSC, a member of the Merit, a standing senior society, Epiphany, honorary member of the Omega Workshop, and a member of the Opera Workshop.
