

Tenant Purchase County Committee Meets Thursday

Program As Outlined Is Discussed; Number To Purchase Farms

The Tenant Purchase County Committee of Lamb county met Thursday, August 29, at the Methodist Church in Littlefield to complete the final selection of Tenant Purchase borrowers for the year 1940-41. The meeting was called at 10 A. M., and the morning was devoted to a discussion of the program as outlined under the Bankhead-Jones Tenant Purchase Act.

This meeting was attended by Marvin C. Wilson, district supervisor, Lubbock; Homer R. Robbins, regional chief of Farm Tenancy, Amarillo; Mrs. Esther B. Call, regional chief home management, Amarillo; V. F. Jones, county agent, Amherst; L. H. Mellroy, assistant county agent, Amherst; Fred L. Nix, county RR supervisor, Oleta Cole, County home management supervisor; and the TP County Committee, Lester L. Massingill, William E. Bentley and Norman F. Cleavinger.

In the afternoon, the following families were tentatively selected to purchase farms in Lamb county under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act: Wallace Gosdin, Star Route 2, Oton; Walter H. Hill, Rt. 1, Littlefield; R. G. DeBerry, Rt. 1, Oton; R. K. Allen, Rt. 1, Spring Lake, and William H. Gigsby, Rt. 1 Amherst. These families have been instructed to locate suitable farms and take options on them.

He later became head of the AAA and was appointed Under-Secretary last February 1st.

U. S. Trades Ships For Naval Air Bases

To an accompanying chorus of congressional approval and protest President Roosevelt disclosed Tuesday that he was turning over 50 "cover-age" American destroyers to Great Britain to bulwark that beleaguered country against the onslaughts of Nazi Germany.

The United States is to receive, in turn, the right to construct a string of outlying naval and air bases extending from Newfoundland to South America. Their chief value, the president declared, would be in keeping an overseas enemy away from America's front door.

The state department announced that it had received also a British pledge that in no event would the British fleet be sunk or surrendered to Germany. If driven out of European waters, it was said, the English ships of war would be sent abroad for the "defense of other parts of the empire."

The county office is very anxious that all records of production be accurate this year. It is not likely that accurate records will be obtained unless the farm operators have their cards before ginning begins.

Aubrey W. Bingham, secretary, Lamb County A. C. A., said:

"We wish to emphasize again the importance of Form Cotton 422, the report of cotton produced on the farm, which is required of all farm operators in 1940. Separate entries for each bale should be made on this report for each bale as it is ginned, giving the name of the ginner, the bale number and the gross weight of the bale. At the end of the season, the bale weights should be totaled and the report should be mailed to the county office within 15 days after ginning is completed.

"This report is to be executed by the farm operator. The ginner is already required to execute his report of the production and should not be requested to execute the operator's report. Furthermore, the report loses much of its value if the ginner is requested to supply the information necessary for filling out the report since, if an error has occurred in the gin records, it will be repeated in the operator's record.

"This report, if kept accurately and submitted promptly, will result in more accurate records of production, and thereby in more accurate yields for the farm."

Hunt Wins Title From George Vallas

Babe Hunt of Lubbock, who only recently won the mythical Texas heavyweight boxing title from Babe Ritchie, successfully defended it last Monday night against George Vallas, of Mississippi, and added Vallas' Mississippi heavyweight crown to his belt.

The big boy didn't seem to have much trouble with Vallas, who looked out of condition, and technically kayoed him in the third round. Vallas was game, however, and protested when Referee Hilburn stopped the fight.

Following the fight, Hunt announced his challenge to the Southern heavyweight titlist, Bob Sikes, of Little Rock, Ark., and negotiations are underway to book the match in the near future.

This boy, Hunt, looks pretty good, to any of you fans who haven't seen him, and he may be what we hoped Ritchie was before he fought Baer. Watch him!

ANN SOTHERN RETURNS TO SCREEN IN 'OLD RUSH MAISIE' AT PALACE THEATRE

Maizie, the stranded showgirl character whom Ann Sothern created so successfully in the original "Rush Maizie," third in the series, which comes to the Palace Saturday midnight, continues through Sunday and Monday.

Maizie is still stranded, still looking for a permanent place to alight, but she's breezier and funnier than before despite the fact that her latest adventures place her adrift in the Arizona desert.

Livestock Show To Be Best At State Fair

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 4 — The livestock show at the State Fair of Texas, headlined by the National Hereford Show and the Regional Show of the Holstein-Friesian Breeders Association, promises to make Texas and Dallas the livestock capital of the world between October 5 and 20, date of the Fair.

Pedigreed stock of every breed, already being culled and manicured for the event, will compete for a record-breaking $100,000 in cash premiums.

Among features of the week-long Hereford judgments, to be held in a big arena with the public invited, will be an auction of 50 head of Herd Bulls by the Texas Hereford Breeders Association, a sale sponsored by the American Hereford Breeders Association, and the Parade of Champions in which selection will be made of the grand champion of the show. Cattlemen from 13 states and the Dominion of Canada will enter prize stock.

Increase in exhibit space and amount of premiums by the Texas Jersey Cattle Club, the National Holstein-Friesian organization, the American Shorthorn Breeders Association and by breeders of Guernseys will insure the most extensive dairy show ever held at the State Fair, according to Frank P. Holland, Jr., director in charge of the livestock department.

The State Fair and 23 spring dairy shows held over the state are accredited with materially boosting Texas from 19th to 4th place among states in the dairy industry in the past 20 years.

Premiums shown in the 1940 Premium List of the State Fair for Shorthorn cattle indicate an increase by 35 percent over the 1939 show. Due to increased interest throughout the Southwest in Shorthorn production, many northern breeders are shipping fine herds to the Fair for competition.

An added feature of the 1940 livestock show, and one drawing widespread interest from 4-H Club boys, Future Farmers and other youth groups, will be the Junior Fat Stock Show. Winners of the junior show will be entered in the senior show.

TOO MUCH COTTON IN BALE IS PARTLY CAUSE FOR DAMAGE TO FIBERS

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Aug. 26 — Texas farmers who try to get too much cotton into their bales may be at least partly responsible for damage that shows up later when the bales go through the compress, F. E. Lichte, cotton gin specialist of the Texas A. & M. Extension service, points out.

"When cotton is under extreme pressure, as is the case at the compress, fibers in the oversized bales are likely to be torn and cut in such a manner that their value to the spinner is reduced," Lichte said.

Tests conducted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture show a larger percentage of air-cut damage in oversized bales than in normal bales.

Though the farmer does not suffer directly, except in the few cases where he is the owner of the bale at the time it is compressed, he does suffer through the lower prices brokers and mills must pay for other purchases to offset these losses.

The way to reduce this damage is to deliver only enough seed cotton to the gin to produce a bale of ginned lint weighing 500 pounds or thereabouts.

"If the tendency toward overweight does not stop, it is probable that we will see the trade put on a penalty for bales over 550 pounds just as lightweight bales are now penalized," Lichte said. The trade is beginning to reserve the right to reject bales in excess of 500 pounds. The present penalties are $1.00 for bales under 450 pounds; $2.00 for those under 400 pounds, and those under 350 pounds are not acceptable.

Sudan Rites Held For County Farmer

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday, August 28 at 2:30 o'clock for J. M. White, 69, a Lamb county farmer for the past 18 years, who died at his home near Sudan August 27 following a heart attack.

Home services were held at the White home with the Sudan Masonic Lodge in charge of Masonic rites and funeral services were conducted by Rev. H. B. Naylor assisted by Rev. Cole.

The deceased is survived by his widow, one brother and one sister, both of whom attended the services at Sudan, and accompanied Mrs. White and the body to Mercury, Tex. for interment. Several friends of the deceased also motored to Mercury to pay their last respects.

Last Rites Held At Sudan For Pioneer Resident

Last rites were read at Sudan Wednesday, August 28 at four p. m., for Mrs. Charlie Wilkinson, a resident of Sudan and territory for the past 19 years, following an illness of only a few weeks. She passed away August 25 at a Lubbock hospital where she had been confined for three weeks.

Funeral services were conducted at the Sudan Church of Christ with Rev. Ralph Arceneaux, father of a Sudan school teacher, in charge of the services. Interment was in the Sudan cemetery.

Among the survivors of the deceased are two children, Mrs. Jack Milton, and M. B. Wilkinson, both of Sudan; several brothers and sisters, her father and husband.

BUILDING LOCKER PLANT

The construction of the building which will house the Sudan Frozen Food Association locker plant is now showing rapid progress as workmen have partitions partially complete and waiting for special men from the Baker Company to place corking, insulation before additional work on partitions and ceiling can get underway.

Hockley County Crop Prospects Bright

Conservative estimates by county agricultural officials last week placed a 50,000 bale tag on Hockley's expected 1940 cotton yield, as County Agent D. W. Sherrill labeled current farm prospects "best since '37."

With over 110,000 acres in cotton and approximately 156,000 in feed, producers are expected to harvest crops this fall that will compare favorably, and possibly exceed in some instances, the banner year of 1937.

Both cotton and feed crops are "above normal" according to Sherrill with practically uniform crops existing throughout the county. "Bad crop spots" are negligible, he added.

Mrs. Cates Wins In Olton Yard Contest

Mrs. Horace Cates was Tuesday of last week awarded first place in the Olton Garden Club's yard beautification contest in which twenty yards were judged.

Mrs. L. E. Silcott's yard drew second prize and Mrs. George E. Bohner was awarded third prize. Those receiving honorable mention were Mrs. Mark Burns, Mrs. Frank Pavaika and Mrs. R. E. Dennis.

Mrs. Cates' yard was outstanding in attractiveness and arrangement of flowers and shrubs. The broad lawn was especially attractive and a rustic well added the proper touch to the flower garden.

The SNOOPER SAYS...

Littlefield received recognition recently when two pictures appeared in the August issue of the Southwestern Retailer, representing local firms.

One picture shows the special window trimming for July 4 of Ware's Department Store, featuring play clothes for women and children.

The other picture is of Mrs. Hattie Harkey of Hattie's Shop, with a buyer from Kingsville, Texas, who were sitting at a table talking gloves to a salesman. The picture was made while Mrs. Harkey was in Dallas attending Fall Market.

The Southwestern Retailer is a monthly publication, published in Dallas, giving brief bits of news concerning the latest fashions and styles.

Through the mail last week—

"Dear Margaret:

One of the first things when I received the invitation to hold a revival meeting in Seagraves was that this was your home. Bro. Walker, the pastor, tells me that your parents live some distance from town and do not get to attend church regularly. But I am hoping that I will have the opportunity to meet them while here.

"Our revival has just started and I hope that we can have a good one. Maybe you can get off for a day or two next week end, and come home while the revival is in progress. It would be like old times to see you again.

"Give Mr. and Mrs. Drake my best regards. I enjoy reading the Leader each week.

Sincerely,
 Marvin B. Norwood."

Don't look for me around Littlefield this week end!

I have a hunch that quite a number of Rev. and Mrs. Norwood's friends from Littlefield will be going to the little oil metropolis south of here next Sunday.

Next Sunday has been set aside by President Roosevelt as a national day of prayer for peace.

Mrs. Cecil W. Cardwell, who accompanied her daughter, Mrs. Abe Murphy, to Littlefield Saturday, passed many nice compliments on our town. She lives in Shamrock, and she remarked she noticed that Littlefield had many new, attractive homes.

Mrs. Cardwell and another daughter, Jean, came to help get Mrs. Murphy settled in this town. Mr. Murphy is the new athletic coach at the local high school.

Many young women "down San Antonio way" who have taken to wearing innumerable trinket charms on their wrists, have now come forth with a new charm, miniature false teeth, which are worn in necklace form.

Wonder if this style could replace our western trinkets, boots and saddles? *

Contributions for a reward offered for the arrest and conviction of the person who cut off the ears of a dog belonging to an 11-year-old boy in San Antonio, reached a total of $87 Saturday, according to the secretary of the Animal Defense League.

The dog was found with its ears cut off last Sunday, August 25, by the youthful owner. Police were notified and an investigation started.

People who would do such a trick as cut off a dog's ears, are in the same class as those around here who have poisoned dogs belonging to small boys.

MRS. CARL McADAMS

Mrs. McAdams, for whom funeral services were held at the First Baptist Church Monday afternoon, August 26, was reared in Lamb county, a graduate of the local high school, and was popular in social and civic affairs.

The Littlefield citizenship and the entire community were shocked and deeply grieved at the passing of one of the city's most respected pioneers, who was held in high esteem by all who knew her. Her popularity was manifested by the large crowd which gathered for the final rites, and the elaborate floral offering.

For more than ten years, she was employed in the office of J. S. Hilliard, secretary to the Littlefield National Farm Loan Association.

She was born Fern Hoover, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoover, pioneer residents of Lamb county. She was married to Carl McAdams Feb. 12, 1938. Mr. McAdams is employed in the office

MAIZE-HEADING CONTEST WILL BE STAGED AT ANTON SATURDAY

Believed to be the first contest of its kind, a first annual maize-heading match will be staged Saturday at Anton and a national champion crowned.

Up in Nebraska they have corn huskings and award national merit prizes—so why not a maize-heading contest patterned on the same plan? So reasoned Ed Hart, member of the Farmers and Merchants Club of Anton.

The idea seemed so logical that K. W. Wells, president of the club, and Paul Whitfield, secretary, and others began work. A committee of Hart, chairman, A. L. Atkinson, R. J. Alexander, J. W. Greene and Whitfield struck off printed posters announcing the date, prizes of $50, $25, and $10 and registration rules.

The contest will be on the Gann & Pritchard irrigated farm adjoining the Anton townsite, and will begin at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning and prizes will be awarded at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Each contestant will work on a half-mile row.

Oldtimers say the winner probably will have to head his row at the rate of five tons a day to win.

Further, it was announced that there will be no entrance fee required of contestants, and all contestants must be registered not later than 6 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Blanks can be obtained from Anton Drug store, and a complete set of rules and regulations will be furnished when registration is made.

The contest is to be an annual event and the first place winner will be presented with a large silver cup with his name engraved on it. He will be required to defend his title successfully three years to win permanent possession.

Saturday will be a gala time and a large crowd will be in attendance, the committee predicted.

Maxey McKnight Plays In All-Star Tilt Monday

Maxey McKnight scores again! He didn't exactly make a score in the Northern and Western All-Star grid game in the annual Oil Bowl classic at Wichita Falls Monday night, but he was one of the outstanding players, and was picked at an end position on the team selected by coaches and officials as outstanding.

Coach Matty Bell's Northern eleven triumphed in the contest, played before approximately 8,000 persons, 15 to 6.

Tutoring the losers was Blair Cherry, assistant at University of Texas, helped by Goobar Keyes of Lubbock. Coach Ted Jeffries of Wichita Falls high assisted the SMU mentor.

Easily the better team from the standpoint of power and spirit, the North machine steamrolled its way to a much easier victory than the score indicates. Standouts for the Western eleven was a trio of South Plains griders—Joltin' Joe Tyson of Lubbock, Maxey McKnight of Littlefield and Max Minor of Tahoka.

Few Changes In 1941 AAA Program

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 3 — Few changes of importance to Texas were made in the 1941 AAA program as approved by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Such changes as were included were based on the recommendations of the national conference of farmer-committeemen and ranchmen held earlier in the summer.

Soil conservation and maintenance of adequate food and fiber supplies continue as the basic principles of the program, George Slaughter, chairman of the Texas state committee, declares, and still more latitude has been granted the county committees for adaptation of the program to fit local needs.

The $20 minimum payment for each farm has been continued, the chairman pointed out, and an additional $15 is available for planting trees. Thus, any farmer can earn as much as $35 by cooperating with the 1941 program.

Specialist Called For Navy Service

Instructions to report immediately for duty to the commandant of the Philadelphia Navy Yard were received at Lubbock late Monday by Dr. Robert T. Canon, commander in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Dr. Canon is well known by a large number of Littlefield residents, whom he has treated, who will regret very much to learn of his leaving Lubbock.

The order to duty came as a surprise to Doctor Canon, an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist on the staff of West Texas hospital. He had not anticipated any orders at this time, but said he would leave for Philadelphia as soon as he could arrange his affairs in Lubbock.

Doctor Canon had nearly 12 years of active service in the navy, joining in 1917 with the rank of lieutenant, junior grade, and resigning to enter private practice at Lubbock in 1928 with the rank of lieutenant commander. A member of the reserve since leaving active duty, he was promoted to the rank of commander about a year ago.

While in the service, Doctor Canon, in the medical corps, served at various stations in the United States in Alaska, and was attached to the fleet in foreign as well as domestic waters.

Cotton Bagging Program Continues

The cotton bagging program, the Surplus Marketing Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture will be continued for at least another year, F. E. Lichte, cotton gin specialist of the Texas & M. Extension Service, has advised.

The program is designed to encourage use of American grown cotton for cotton wrapping or bagging. A normal crop of cotton in the United States would require the use of about 135,000 bales all were wrapped in cotton.

A maximum of a million wrappings will be used for the current year's crop and the six manufacturers who have received contracts will get payment of 25 cents per wrapping to offset losses from small volume.

The cotton bagging was first tried in 1938, when less than 17,000 bales were so covered. In 1939 the number of bales of Texas cotton covered with cotton pattern rose to 233,976.

Cousin Of Mrs Durwood Howell Dies Monday

Tom B. Coker, Jr., cousin of Mrs. Durwood Howell, of Littlefield, died at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon in a Portales, N. M., hospital of injuries suffered several hours earlier when the plane he was piloting crashed.

The body was taken to a mortuary in Clovis, N. M., Monday night and Tuesday morning it was taken overland to Cisco, where funeral services were held Wednesday morning.

Enroute to Cisco, members of the family held a brief service at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Coker, at Seminole. Mrs. Coker was unable to accompany them to Cisco. Mr. and Mrs. Howell attended the service at Seminole.

When the accident occurred, he was flying alone, having taken off from Clovis Municipal airport where he was employed, when the plane plummeted to earth at Crossroads, N. M., about 50 miles south of Clovis.

Three witnesses told those investigating the tragedy the plane started down from approximately 2,000 feet in slow spirals, then crashed. The ship was demolished.

L. N. (Dip) Childress, manager of the Clovis port, went immediately to the scene of the mishap to start an investigation. Officials of the Civil Aeronautics authority also were asked to conduct a probe.

The Way Of Democracy

One of the chief differences between our country and the totalitarian nations is demonstrated by the fact that two great political parties have now got their lines set for the battle of the ballots next November. One or the other will gain control of the Government. But the losing party will still have a strong voice in the national councils.

It is different in Germany, in Italy and in Russia. One political party and one only commands the allegiance of all the people. None has a voice in the Government of Russia unless he is a Communist. None but Fascists can vote or hold office in Italy. The National Socialist Party, the "Nazis," exercises supreme control in Germany.

Those who do not adhere to the party line are purged by exile or assassination. Secret police and volunteer spies see to it that the party leaders learn of the first sign of disaffection by any citizen. A mere hint may send a political leader to a concentration camp to the prison colonies of Siberia or to face a firing squad.

Those conditions have been imposed since the World War upon the relatively free peoples of those nations, under the guise of democratic processes. Whenever the citizens so far neglect their duty and forego their rights as to permit any group, by whatever name, to have undisputed sway over their nation's destinies, the danger arises that control may become tyranny.

We have never faced that danger in America yet. Our citizens have always been alert to exercise their right of criticism and opposition to the party in power. There have been long periods when one party or the other had apparently unbreakable control, but whenever the people have felt that such control tended to become oppressive, they have voted the ruling party out of office. But the losers still retain the right to representation, and to protest against the acts and policies of the winners. They can strive to regain power, and frequently do. No blood is spilled, none is barred from the seats of authority. That is democracy.

Speaking Of Compulsory Training in Brazoria county operates as deep as 10,670 feet.

The commission report shows that quite a number of oil fields in Texas have ceased to produce commercially. The Batesville field produced only 12,470 barrels before becoming depleted. The Chittin field and Stratton field which once produced oil now are producing distillate. Cooksey field is depleted. Devine, Frio Town, Gonzales, Hantho Nelson, Lost Mulc, McCrory, Sal Mar, Schattel, Schimmel Batts, Werner, Fort Merrill, Hicks, Mineral, Weser, Whittington, Worthington, Nash, Shephard's Mott, Splendor, Hagist, La Blanca, Lamar, Mercedes, Palangana, Stratton, Kose, Camp Hill, Todd and McKenzie all are names of oil fields that once had much promise but now are depleted.

In contrast there are many fields still going strong after producing enormous quantities of oil. The East Texas field, which spreads over Bask, Gregg, upshur, Smith and Cherokee counties, had an accumulated production on Jan. 1, 1940 of 1,886,151,512 barrels of oil.

Corroe field in Montgomery county produced 107,647,737 barrels of oil from 1931 to 1940. Eastland county field had a record of 101,815,007 up to Jan. 1. The Hendricks field in Winkler county has been producing steadily since its discovery in 1926, and up to the beginning of this year had a record of 196,251,455 barrels. The Howard-Glascock field, discovered a year earlier, has an accumulative production record of 90,307,062 barrels.

The Yates field in Pecos county was not discovered until 1926 but in four years it has produced 247, 525,721 barrels of oil. The Corsicana Field of Navarro county which dates back to 1894 still is a producing area, and has an accumulated production of 11,128,969 barrels. One well in Yates field has produced 6,000,000 barrels.

Peculiar names have been chosen for many of the state's oil fields. Some, like the new Pittsburgh field, have been named for the nearest city or town. Conroe field in Montgomery county is one of these, though for a long time it was generally known among oil men as Strake field, in recognition of its developer.

Spanish names designate many of the Southwest Texas fields. Some are named for characters in novels or for movie stars. Others combine the name of the developing company and the land owner like the Conoco-Driscoll field in Duval county. There are four separate Driscoll fields. They are the Clara Driscoll field and the Clara Driscoll South field in Nueces county; the Driscoll Ranch field also in Nueces county and the Conoco-Driscoll.

Guerra field in Starr county did not get its name from the war but is named for the Guerra family which has vast acreage in Starr county received by direct grant from the King of Spain.

There is a Rice field in Navarro county producing oil, not rice, and a Wheat field in Loving county, likewise producing oil.

Flour Bluff field is in Nueces county. Buttermilk Slough field is in Matagorda county. Boggy Creek Turkey Creek and Goose Creek are names of other Texas oil fields. China-South field is in Jefferson county, which also has Clam Lake field.

The K-M-A field in Wichita and Archer counties is the only field Texas designated by its initials. Shortest named field is the Y field in Van Zandt county. Reddon Bend field is in Austin county.

Beside the oil wealth produced Texas there are many wells producing gas. Gas generally is measured in units of 1,000 cubic feet. Gas production last year was computed in units of 1,000,000 cubic feet. The total was 1,298,307 of the million cubic feet units.

Under THE DOME At Austin

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 22—(UP)—Discovery of a new deep oil field in Camp county, known as the Pittsburgh field, has created much speculation about the possibility of deep oil in East Texas.

If deep oil is widespread, experts will have to revise their estimates once more on the oil reserves in the state. These estimates have been rising steadily.

Last year 69 new fields were discovered in Texas. At the beginning of this year the reserve supply of oil under Texas surface land was estimated at 10,974,055,000 barrels.

That is more than half of the reserves believed to exist in the entire United States. It is not far from double the amount of oil that has already been taken from Texas.

The annual report of the State Railroad Commission shows that the 69 new fields are distributed over all parts of the state, except the Panhandle. Most of them were discovered in Southwest Texas. Six of them were in Jim Wells county, five in Duval county and five in Nueces county. Biggest producer among the new fields has been the North Thompson field in Fort Bend county. It was discovered in April of 1939, and by the end of that year had produced 255,824 barrels.

Deepest new field of 11939 was the Martha field in Liberty county. It was discovered July 4, 1939. It produces at a depth from 8,100 to 9,100 feet. It is not the state's deepest oil field. Old Ocean field

CHAPTER X SYNOPSIS

Rollins, tennis ace, dreamed of helping win the Davis Cup for America. He fell in love with Grace Washington who would only marry if he gave up tennis. He did—because of his love for Grace because of a badly injured ankle which healed unexpectedly. He joined the Davis Cup and Grace threatened to leave on the eve of his sailing she is freed in an automobile accident, she sails—knowing that the accident is not serious. In the tournament he cannot keep his mind on game. He has heard that Grace is seeking a divorce to remarry.

From below where he paused momentarily to bite into a piece of grape, Len raised his head toward umpire and laughed. Slapping racquet challengingly against flannel-trousered leg, he went on the court. So she wanted to be a great player did she? Well, she'd read in the papers about tomorrow!

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost smiling smile disappeared. He was as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by man with two sets against him. "Cochet triumphed over Big Tilden in just such a manner so many years ago? And as he did and correctly as Lefevre did the change in his opponent. Frenchman had tightened up, pressing, trying too hard.

There was no stopping Len. He went through Lefevre in that third with relentless and devastating accuracy. There was acclaim from boxes as the referee made the announcement: "Monsieur Rollins the third set 6-3. Score in now is two to one in favor of Monsieur Lefevre." He caught a ray of hope shining in Swanstrom's eyes when their glances met the unbaked marquee as he Lefevre left the court.

When he returned to the court during the rest period Len sensed change in the spectators, the boys, the linesmen, even the referee. There was a lack of confidence in their god Lefevre. At the change was slight, then complete. An easy one-sided victory was turning into a hard and sensational uphill struggle.

Monsieur Rollins' game; Monsieur Rollins leads in the fourth set, 6-2.

A flicker of a frown creased Lefevre's forehead. The French

Davis Cup star broke Len's service for two successive points, but undaunted, Len smashed his way to a lead of three games with bullet-like aces and phenomenal net play.

And now Lefevre was plainly worried. He fretted about a pebble that had become uprooted on the court. It was necessary for him to tighten the laces of his shoes. And once he glared at a linesman who called in favor of the American a shot which nicked the side-line. Len was making splendid use of his height now by the net at a time when Lefevre's stroking had weakened in strength and accuracy. Kill followed kill for telling points. Lefevre then tried to drive him back into the deep court with long, floating lobs and passing shots, but his efforts were futile. Len Rollins was not to be stopped.

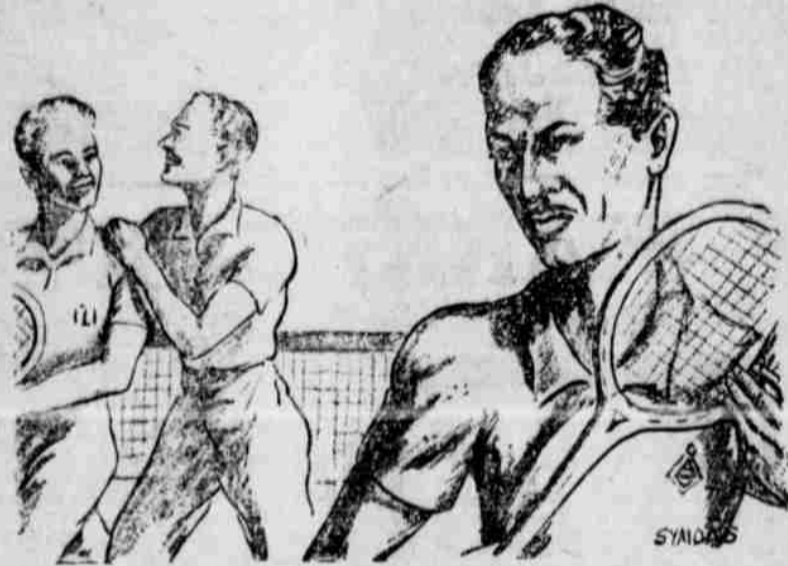

Len noticed, and it was the first genuine thrill he had experienced reach. The match was squared. Four games each. . . .

Their world now was the tennis court. The spectators might have been on some distant planet. Lefevre knew only that the man on the other side of the net must not be allowed to win; and Len just as keenly knew that Lefevre must be driven to defeat.

Len stalked Lefevre now as a beast of the jungle stalks its prey. Not a move did the other make that did not mirror itself immediately in Len's mind. He was close on the trail now, waiting for his quarry to falter. And when he did—swift and sure would be his death.

But Lefevre throughout the ninth game, though it was deuced seven times, did not falter. It was Len instead who finally left an opening. And the Frenchman took quick advantage. . . . "Monsieur Lefevre leads five games to four. Change since he began the all-important match, Clark's hand digging into Wheatley's shoulder, yet Wheatley did not seem to notice. And Swanstrom and Hughes sat forward, breathing unevenly as if they themselves were playing. Len was serving again, and if he won this game it would square the match. If he could take this game and set, it might crash Lefevre's spirit.

Lefevre was plainly worried now

Zing—zing—zing went the ball. Crunching of rubber-soled shoes over clay. Swishing of flannel as legs darted here, there. Cries of "Out!" "Good!" "Fault!" in excited French from the linesmen and referee. The deadly quiet of the stands except at the conclusion of volleys which won the applause. And finally, tonelessly from the referee's chair: "Monsieur Rollins wins the fourth set 6-2. The match stands squared at two sets all."

The sun had dropped some in the sky and it was a little cooler when the players returned to the court. But it was a resolute Lefevre Len faced now. Not the unsettled one of the last two. Rather, a man who realized his danger. His face was grim with determination.

But Len did not fear him. The Frenchman won the first game and they changed courts. Len noticed the set expression on the face of his teammates. He himself felt no strain. He would win because he had to win. Knowing that gave him strength. The fourth game and the fifth were over; they changed again. Racquets flashed, feet scurried over clay; there were cries from the linesmen, bursts of applause from the crowded stands.

"Monsieur Rollins' game; games are three all in the fifth set. . . . Len smiled and winked at a linesman as he went by.

Another game. Lefevre was playing as inspired, but the Frenchman's inspiration sprang from no such deep and demanding wells as did Len's. "Monsieur Lefevre's game; games are four-three in favor of Monsieur Lefevre." Back into the referee's voice crept some of the enthusiasm that had been there previous to Len's stupendous rally. But Len merely took a tighter grip upon the handle of his racquet. A sizzling passing shot which Lefevre courageously but vainly attempted to the maneuver momentarily unsettled Lefevre. The lob, which floated over the American's head missed the base line by a foot.

The shrill sing-song voice from above. . . . "Thirty-five."

Len stood, panting hard, behind his own base line. He took a long, resuscitating breath, a fresh grip on the racquet. Then, like a spring, his body coiled and released, swiftly uncoiled. The ball went wide. The second ball found the box. The invincible Frenchman made it good, however, and after a spirited volley won the point.

"Thirty-five." Again up on toe—and that terrific spinning service nicking the white line so the chalk flew high in the air. Lefevre bit his lip as the ball bounded off the retaining wall and rolled away. . . .

"Forty-five" and after a long volley—"Forty-three."

A daring cut of a trap-shot. Len watched, almost amused, as the French star heartbreakingly tried for it—and missed. . . .

The drone of the referee: "Monsieur Rollins leads in the fifth set, six games to five. . . ."

Lefevre must fight now with his back to the wall. True, the Frenchman was serving. But Len preferred it so. The psychology was all in Len's favor. The man in the hole was serving. Splendid! Lefevre had to make his services good, or. . .

The first ball came and Len drove it off his forehand to the far base line. He laughed confidently to himself as he rushed in, picked up the return at his feet on the half-volley, sent it spinning along the sideline. Took it again on the short volley, this time off his backhand, slashed the ball at the Frenchman's feet. The return came back too high, perfectly angled for a kill.

"Love-fifteen. . . ."

Four more points. Please God! His body trembled, but his hand was firm and sure on the racquet. A double fault! Lefevre saw him smile. The next ball came at him savagely. He drove it back and Lefevre's return just inside the sideline, he could not reach.

"Fifteen-thirty!"

How quiet it was! Lefevre's service came again, a twisting treacherous ball this time that bounced high. But Len returned it safely. The French ace took it prettily on his backhand, sending the ball to the deep corner. But Len was there and angled the ball to the other corner. Lefevre got off a blistering drive which nicked the line. Len just managed to reach it; his return was weak. Lefevre, eyes gleaming, came quickly forward with panther-like grace. He swung from above, his racquet a mere flash in the sunshine.

The ball had all but passed Len before he had an opportunity to gauge or time its flight. Instinctively, he thrust out his racquet, wrist stiff. He felt the vibration of the ball squarely striking his racquet; it made a singing noise as it left the gut and dropped inches within the base line. Suddenly thunder from the stands. There was no favorite now. Here was drama, tennis history in the making!

One point. One point more. One little point between him and the Davis Cup—"I wish you great things, Len, in your chosen field!" Suppose, just suppose Grace should suddenly step out upon the court from the packed stands and ask him to lay aside his racquet? Would he. . . .

But here it was! The service which might bring victory and all that such a victory would mean. He was confident. His legs did not feel

Petroleum Taxes Equal 4½ Cents Per Barrel For School Purposes

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 2 — Taxes paid by the Texas petroleum industry for school purposes now equal four and one-half cents per barrel for every barrel of oil produced in the state.

Figures just compiled by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association from official records of the State Comptroller and the tax collectors of several hundred independent school districts show that the Texas petroleum business last year paid $14.14 in school taxes for each of the 1,549,443 children attending Texas public schools. Based on the per child educational cost of $55.30, petroleum taxes were sufficient to pay all expenses of educating one-fourth of the entire school population of Texas, or about 388,000 Texas school children.

Although the statewide average paid by oil is one-fourth of the total school taxes paid, petroleum pays an average of four-fifths of all school levies, including the state apportionment, in forty larger oil districts.

In these districts, also, the average cost of schooling per pupil is much higher than in non-oil districts. In these forty, the per pupil cost averages $136.36, or approximately two and one-half times as much as the average of $53.93 for all other Texas school districts. In the oil districts the average costs ranged from $100.76 to as high as $257.65. The average for all independent school districts included in the survey is $56.86 per pupil.

Last year the Texas oilman paid in state taxes approximately $32,000,000 of which around $13,000,000 was allocated to the public schools. In addition, he paid over $38,000,000 in local taxes of which more than $8,000,000 went to the schools. Altogether, $21,915,000 was paid by petroleum to Texas public schools last year. This $21,915,000 divided by the 478,192,887 barrels of oil produced in Texas in 1939 gives an average of 4.56 cents per barrel in school taxes for each barrel of oil produced in Texas.

The $21,915,000 paid in school taxes by the Texas oilman is equivalent to the entire yearly salaries of 20,655 white Texas school teachers, or more than half of the 38,620 instructors in all the white public schools of the state. In addition, taxes on gasoline paid by the consumer and collected by the oil industry at its own expense, provide the schools with $10,500,000 more, the equivalent of the yearly salaries of nearly 10,000 more Texas teachers. Thus Texas petroleum and its products now bear taxes equivalent to annual salaries of more than 30,000 Texas teachers or four-fifths of all the white school teachers in the state.
