Apply For Loan To Install Farm Electric Lines

Propose To Build 150 Mile Line To Care For 450 Farms

At a meeting of the board of Directors of the Lamb County Electrification Committee held Monday night in the Agricultural rooms of the Littlefield High School Building, an application was completed and executed, and mailed Tuesday to Rural Electrification Administration, Washington, asking for a loan to construct a distribution system of approximately 150 miles in this county, that will serve 450 farm families with electricity, and power for 43 irrigation wells now irrigating approximately 7000 acres.

Members of the Committee are: C. W. Smiley, Chairman; J. R. Kuykendall, Secretary; and Don Bryant, C. G. Barnett, H. P. West, C. A. Thomas and Ben Gann.

Mr. Smiley stated that further supplements to the above application will be sent to Washington as and when the potential along the routes will make it self sustaining.

Why I Want to See The Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition at Dallas

I should like to see The Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition at Dallas for educational purposes, as well as for social entertainment. It would enable me to become better acquainted with the historical past of Texas and her busy present.

The history of Texas is more discussed and appreciated by the Texan than any other topic. Being a native of Texas, I should like to see this history presented by the Exposition.

Since I have not studied geography for several years, many geographical facts have been forgotten. A review over the many products and leading industries of Texas at the Exposition would recall to my mind the greatness of these.

Texas ranks first in the production of petroleum, and since oil wells are being drilled in all parts

Colored Boy Drowned In Lake On Hopping Farm Near Fieldton

Pete Lackey, aged 13, colored, was drowned Saturday morning at 10:15 o'clock in a lake on the Jake Hopping farm near Fieldton, when the row boat, in which he and three white children were riding, capsized.

The children were going out to set a trap line for fishing when the accident happened. The colored boy is reported to have had a row line in his hand, which wrapped about him when the boat tipped, and having on heavy rubber boots and a heavy coat, and unable to swim, he was dragged under and drowned.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Lackey, and survived by several brothers and sisters.

The white children in the boat at the time of the accident were: Barty Johnson son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Johnson, Billie Vannoy, aged 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Vannoy, and Stevor Long, aged 15, son of Mrs. Estes, all of Fieldton community.

The lake is about a quarter of a mile from the J. W. Hopping residence, and is a private lake Mrs. Hopping was alone at the time of the accident and at once phoned a local physician, but the colored boy was dead when he arrived.

Mrs. Hopping states that the boat was a small home made boat owned by one of the children, and that the lake keeper had warned boys previous to the accident to keep out of the lake, which had risen to a high level, and extended to the highway.

Funeral services were conducted at the colored church Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock by Pastor Black, with interment in the colored cemetery, with Hammons Funeral Home in charge.

Mr. McCraw was accompanied to Littlefield by Assistant Attorney General, Llewellyn Duke.

After being introduced by Glenn Burgess, secretary of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, Mr. McCraw, who visited Littlefield for the first time, opened his address by expressing his regard and affection for the late Senator A. P. Duggan, stating he was particularly interested in coming to Littlefield to see just "what kind of a town Senator Duggan lived in and called home."

He spoke on the resources of Lamb county, stating it had more tillable soil than any other county in the state, mentioning that Littlefield was fortunately located and that it had prospects of being a city of from ten to fifteen thousand population in the near future.

Further commenting on the bright outlook, Mr. McCraw said: "Texas is the greatest State in the Union. Within our boundaries is every type of soil and within our boundaries are many types of people."

"The people here are broad of vision and tender of heart. The prosperity of this town depends not only on your ingenuity, but upon the progress of Texas, and Texas in turn upon the Nation. Through peace and harmony we are going to have the greatest opportunity we have ever had in the next few years. American people have grown to appreciate what their land is, and you are going to have an opportunity to build a city that will reflect on

Ed Link of Hudson Believes in Diamonds

For accuracy on this operation there is nothing like a diamond drill, says Ed Link, veteran machinist in the plant of the Hudson Motor Car Company. This is one of the many operations that has to be held to extremely close limits. Ed Link states that he has very little leeway on this operation. In the parlance of the machine shop the hole has to be held within plus zero and minus three-tenths. This means that it cannot be oversized at all nor undersize more than three-tenths of one-thousandth of an inch. This is splitting hairs as far as accuracy is concerned and that is why the diamond drill is used on Hudson and Terraplane piston pin holes drilled in the aluminum alloy pistons.

SCOUT RADIO

Editor-in-chief—
—Mr. Eugene Latimer
Co-editors—
—J. G. West
—David C. Storey

We appreciate the courtesy of the Leader office and staff in giving us space for the Boy Scout News. The purpose of this column is to try to bring to our fathers, mothers, and friends the purposes of scouting, its possible achievements and the need for Scouting among the boys of 12 to 18 years of age. Scouting fills a need for boys of the teen age that school cannot. Boys of this age have a tendency for gangs or groups, and so often these gangs do not have the proper leadership for very often they have a bull or other unqualified boy as leader that will eventually have the gang doing petty robberies and other things causing them to become law breaking instead of law abiding people. Scouting has a program that takes care of the group problems and directs the boys activities along more proper and satisfactory channels.

There is a place of activities in Scouting to take care of the boy from nine years of age through 18, as cubbing, scouting, and sea scouting. Various angles of achievement will be brought to you through this column.

THE SCOUT BADGE

Practically every citizen has seen the scout badge from a distance or close-up and have wondered what the different points and stars mean. Very little changes are in the badges all over the world, yet all are marks of good citizenship and friendliness.

The points at the top stand for the three points of the Scout oath; (1) To do my duty to God and my country, (2) To help other people at all times, and (3) To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight.

The two stars on the two outside top points refer to the ideals of truth and knowledge. These stars guide the Scout in scouting.

Our national emblem, the eagle and shield, symbolizes the freedom of the American Scout.

At the bottom of the badge is the scroll which represents the Scout's mouth, because a Scout smiles as he willingly does his duty or enjoys his play.

Underneath the scroll is a shaple overhand knot, reminding the Scout to do his "good turn" daily to someone.

THE SCOUT LAW

(This is the first in a number of discussions of the twelve scout laws. The Scout law may be known as a set of rules to guide, help, and direct the life of a Scout throughout his later years.)

"He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much, and he that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much." (Luke 16:10). How true is this in our every day life? A Scout is not likely to be entrusted with big matters, but he should look forward to the time when he can be.

What is trustworthiness? The dictionary says a trustworthy person is one who is "worthy of confidence, reliable." A trustworthy person, then, must be reliable whatever else he may be. This gives rise to the question, who is a reliable person? He is one who always does as he promises, one whose past conduct has been such that the people can believe that they can count on him; one that can keep "mum" when trusted with secrets, and one whose past record of faithfulness is one that may be trusted to keep what is committed to him, or do what is relied upon him.

Do you think a person that ignores a "stop" sign or drinks while driving is trustworthy? No! Neither is one who shirks his duty, give up when the problem is tough and difficult, breaks his promise as if he had never made one.

Are you trustworthy? Maybe you are in your own eyes, but what do your friends and neighbors think? Why not made a self-check-up of yourself? It certainly won't do you any harm and might do you some good.

Scouts, there are some rumors of a hike for Troop No. 25. Encourage this and be at the next scout meeting to learn more about it. Keep your eyes peeled and your ears open for the first troop hike of the year.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

The Scout neckerchief can be used 23 different ways for triangular bandages?

The first battle that a flag of the Stars and Stripes was flown over, was at Brandywine, in September, 1777?

A Frenchman fired the first salute on February 14, 1778, in honor of Captain John Paul Jones and the American Flag, as the Scotchman's ship "Ranger" entered the harbor of Quiberon, France?

The Flag of the United States flies continuously over the East and West fronts of the Capitol, over the House of Representatives office building, and over the Senate office building?

A shipment of mules had just arrived in an army camp. A rookie who claimed to know all about horse flesh was inspecting one of the mules a little too closely when it kicked him cold. His buddies got him on the rebound, placed him on a stretcher, and started with him toward the infirmary. Regaining consciousness, the rookie felt the swaying motion of being carried. He lowered his hands over the side and found only space.

"Oh goodness!" he cried, "and I ain't hit ground yet."

SEA SCOUTING

"Ahoy! Ye Landlubbers," cries a veteran of the seas.

Even though, we, the population of West Texas, may never sail a ship or boat, we have a slight knowledge of the sea and its values.

From the time of life crickson or even the Egyptians the sea has been a great factor in life—transportation and communication. Since the oceans are such large factors in living, the Boy Scouts of America established an older Scout's organization called "Sea Scouting." Sea Scouts live up to the same ideals of citizenship and goodwill as do the land scouts.

Instead of the Scout Oath is the "Sea Promise." It is: On My Honor, I will do my best: 1. To learn swimming and always be prepared, to render aid to those in need in connection with water accidents; 2. To make it my practice to learn the location of the life-saving devices on every boat I board, and to mentally outline my responsibility in maintaining order for myself and shipmates in case of emergency; 3. To be vigilant and cautious, always guarding against water accidents; 4. To cooperate with the responsible authorities for the observance of all regulations for the conduct and safety of boats and ever seek to preserve the motto, "Women and Children First."

To become a Cabin Boy, a Sea Scout must learn the above promise and the following things: 1. Demonstrate his ability to tie all the knots in the Boy Scout Handbook required for Tenderfood rank; 2. Demonstrate the proper method of using the life belt and life buoy; 3. Write an article of at least 200 words on the sea history of the United States.

SAFETY EXPERTS TO MAKE SECOND VISIT TO CITY

Texas Patrolmen To Conduct Courtesy Motor Vehicle Inspection June 16

A squadron of safety experts from the Texas Highway Patrol will pay their second visit to this city during the past 18 months to conduct a courtesy motor vehicle inspection program according to information received here today from Captain W. W. Legge of Lubbock.

The crew is in charge of Hammett Vance one of the leading safety experts of the Department. The entire program for this sector is under the personal supervision of Captain Legge.

Several new innovations have been added to the program this year including the big white safety patrol ambulance which is equipped with radio and loud speaker attachments. It recently made a record run from Beaumont to the New London school disaster with Sergeant Ross Dicket, first aid expert and lecturer at the wheel.

"The wonderful cooperation received here last year prompted Chief Phares to give this district a very favorable date for this program despite the fact that 86 cities are now awaiting their turn for this work," Captain Legge said.

The Patrol will be in Littlefield on June 16 and will set up adjacent to the business area for the inspection of brakes, lights, horn, muffler, steering gear and windshield visibility he said. This will afford many vacation bound motorists an opportunity for a free check of their vehicle and possibly avert any number of unnecessary accidents, it was pointed out. The work will be in cooperation with local authorities.

Leashed Guns of Circle L

by Perry Westbrook

SIXTH INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS: Slim Loyale is paroled from prison after serving 18 months for a crime he did not commit. He returns to his Circle L ranch to father dead and sinister forces at work, trying to make him violate his parole so that he can again be railroaded to prison. The Brockwells and their gang are plotting to gain possession of Circle L ranch and the property of Mona Hall, a neighbor and life-long friend of Slim Loyale. Slim discovers that Sheriff Starbuck has joined the plot against him. With the help of Dakota Blue and his cowboys, Slim Loyale defies the land-grabbers to do their worst.

"But why can't we both ride a circle home?" demanded Slim.

"Because of this devil of a light-colored boss an' hat of yores. Yuh loom up like a lighthouse, lad. Do as yo're told. Or does old Roy have to muscle yuh down an' make yuh?"

At last Slim was beginning to realize what was up. Somewhere along the home trail men were hidden out, waiting to throw a slug through him as he rode by. Roy had found it out, and the faithful Irishman was going to take Slim's risk upon his own willing shoulders.

"Damn it all, Roy, I cain't let yuh do it," objected Slim huskily.

"They'll plug yuh for me sure." "Not if, sing loud enough," stated Roy. "I sing like nothin' else in the wide world. Besides I've got my guns an' I can use 'em without worryin' about bustin' no parole. Now do as I say like a good lad. Yo're wastin' time arguin'."

The irony of position dug deep into Slim. It was maddening to be placed always thus, on the defensive with no way of fighting back. His pride was quick and fierce, more so perhaps because of the wrong which had been done him by the miscarriage of justice.

Blind, primal fury pricked at his brain. He did not want to run. He wanted to stand and fight, to rip and tear, to pour hot lead into the vitals of those who were persecuting him. Yet his hands were tied. Once involved in a gunfight, regardless of whose making it might be, Slim knew that it would mean going back to that hell on earth.

It meant being enclosed between crab, gray walls of stone, way from the sky, from the warm stars, away from everything worth while. Realization of this steadied him, and drove the fungus of rage from his mind.

John D. Dead at 97

ORMOND BEACH, Fla. . . . John D. Rockefeller, Sr. died here May 23, little more than a month before his 98th birthday.

"Okay, Roy," he said, his voice steady once more. "Some day mebbe I'll be able to pay yuh boys back for stickin' with me like yo're doin'."

Roy snorted. "Tis nothin' at all that we do, lad, exceptin' to be shore yuh git a square deal from now on out. Off with yuh."

"Don't take any fool chances, Roy," said Slim over his shoulder as he reined away. "Should they get yuh, I'm comin after 'em with hot lead, parole or no parole."

But Roy was not listening. He was climbing into Slim's saddle and urging the gray away into the darkness. Good old Roy! What a faithful, fire-eating fighting machine the jolly Irishman was.

Viewing the affair calmly, Slim knew that there was little chance of Roy getting the worst of the deal. He could be as wary and cunning as an Indian when the occasion required. Tonight, forewarned of what to expect, the odds were greatly in favor of Roy coming through with flying colors.

So Slim rode home, taking the roundabout route Roy had suggested, and arrived at the Circle L ranch buildings without seeing a soul. As he drew up at the corral and dismounted, a dark figure sauntered over from the bunkhouse. It was Dakota Blue again.

"Roy," Dakota called out tersely. "Where's Slim? Why — what the hell! Is that yuh Slim? How come yo're ridin' Roy's bronc?" Slim told him of meeting Roy and the subsequent changing of mounts and hats. Dakota grunted with approval. "Roy's usin' his haid all the time," he added.

"But I'm getting to the narrow edge, Dakota," and Slim wearily. "This ain't life; this is hell, pure an' unswetened. It's almost as bad as bein' in prison. On the dodge all the time, afraid to call my soul my own; hidin' behind yuh fellers — it makes me feel like a damned worm. For all I know, Roy may be takin' a bullet right now that was meant for me."

Dakota's speculative gaze held a queer light in it. "I reckon I savvy just how yuh feel, Slim. Shore, it's a fight an' a tough one. It takes a lot more nerve to handle this kind of a ruckus than it does to hit the ground with a gun in each fist an' talk it out through smoke. That-away yuh can let yoreself go — jest be darn good and mad an' let that mad run loose."

"Yuh cain't do that. Yuh gotta keep yore feelin's bottled up an' sidestep trouble every time yuh meet it. That takes spin an' plenty of it. Any danged fool can fight. It takes a real man to hold in when he's plumb wild an' achin' to bust the halter rope an' cut loose. We fellers appreciate how tough it is, Slim. But if we're willin' to see yuh through, yuh oughta be willin' to do yore part."

Slim put his hand on Dakota's arm. "I savvy, ole-timer. I promise yuh I won't go muffin' around any more. It's my fight an' I gotta make it. One thing, I got some of the poison outa me tonight."

"Leo Brockwell was at the Dot

H Dot, talkin' over a cattle deal with Abe Fornachon. He butted into my visitin' with Mona an' got nasty. I saw red an' beat the daylight outa him."

"I don't reckon he dares make a complaint to Jigger Starbuck about that. Brockwell had a gun an' me only my fists. But man, what a satisfaction it was to feel that polecat's jaw under my knuckles!" Dakota stared gravely into the darkness. "If young Brockwell was half a man, I'd say he'd be ashamed to go to Starbuck with that yarn. But he's low enough to do anythin' to gain his ends, Slim. Trouble's liable to come of that."

"Don't think so," demurred Slim. "Abe Fornachon told Leo if he went to Starbuck about it he'd swear he did the fist-singin' himself."

Dakota chuckled with relief. "Abe's plumb white. Looks like Starbuck is gonna have a very devil of a time tryin' anythin' against yuh, Slim, had as I figger he'd like to. I savvy now why Roy ran into them dry-gulchers along the trail. Leo Brockwell evidently skinned out fast from the Dot H Dot an' rounded up some of his crowd to ambush yuh on yore way home. Well, he'll be disappointed again."

Slim turned the bronco into the corral, then rolled and lit a cigarette. He squatted on his heels beside the gate. "No use me goin' to bed until Roy gets back," he announced. "I couldn't sleep anyhow."

Dakota nodded, manipulated the makings himself and hunched down beside Slim. "Mona say anythin' to yuh about losin' cattle?" he inquired presently.

Slim nodded. "Uh-huh. Said Flash

Courtney an' his gang had rkin' on her herd, I didn't so, but that don't sound to me. Far as I know Court allus hung out around here, untain, an' that's fifty miles from here. "No call for him to over here to rustle stock

Mrs. Griffin was ably assisted in the entertaining by her daughter, Ruth, and Miss Alice Lynn Street.

The Land of Manana

Four under fed and over worked husbands of Littlefield pointed the nose of a Chevrolet toward the "Land of Manana" for a vacation trip for the purpose of recouping a bit of nervous, and physical energy. The principal activity being that of pursuing a certain order of fishes, better known as fish to the layman.

The accessory activities incident to the major program consisted of a typical camp life with the usual assignment of duties enjoyed by each of the aforementioned neglected husbands.

Upon arriving at the Rio Sabinas at sunset, one of the more ardent of the quartet landed and began casting for the lucky strike. Before the remainder of the party could dismount and prepare themselves for the fray he had gained the championship for catching the first fish. By late candle light the grease was hot and a nice mess of fish were becoming browned to the taste of each individual on the party.

Just such rousing activities as this continued until the hour to depart arrived and pushed the weary campers reluctantly out onto the road that wound a long way back to Gods country and the women who had kept the home fires burning. Ernest Cundiff, Bill Sanders, A. B. Sanders and Edd Seely admit that they are recreated in every respect except financially.

Former Littlefield Residents Figure In Automobile Mishap

The Leader, believing that a portion of a letter received from Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Spinks Sunday would be of interest to their many friends here, are publishing below as follows:

"We started to Littlefield last Sunday, with Mr. and Mrs. Alex Reeves in their Oldsmobile, and 3 miles this side of Dickens failed to make a curve and turned completely over. None of us were badly hurt, just bruised and shaken up pretty bad. Yet very fortunate we escaped as we did. All that saved us from serious injury, was the all steel body and top. (Wilmon should pay me something for that)."

"We are interested in the many progressive steps being taken by Littlefield at this time and will try to be more successful in our trip up that way soon."

EDITOR'S NOTE: No doubt Oscar Wilmon will understand the note at the bottom.

WILL PLAY PHILLIPS "66" HERE SUNDAY

Promises To Provide Plenty Of Excitement

Littlefield cut loose on the Tip Toppers from Lubbock for 16 hits and 14 runs here Sunday. Ratcliff and Coffman leading the attack by collecting four hits each, Ratcliff hit a homer along with a triple and two doubles, which Coffman came up with a triple and three doubles. Tommy Shaw, new ace hurler, besides setting 18 down hit the longest home run that has been hit out of the new park this year. The ball went over the centerfield fence and hit in the middle of the highway. All the boys pounded the horseshoe Sunday. Looks like the batting eyes are getting better.

Tip Toppers collected 5 hits and 5 runs for their days work. Stephenson, Tip Top hurler hit a home run with two on the sacks, made a big day for him, but had hard time getting the locals out so went to the showers in the fourth inning.

Bill Pass said that he was expecting three or four new ball players in by the last of the week who will improve the club fifty percent. He is expecting two infielders and a couple of outfielders also he expects to add one or two more on the pitching staff.

Littlefield will play Phillips "66" here Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Which is expected to be one of the best of the season. More than likely Tommy Hall will be on the mound Sunday for the locals which may mean trouble for the "66" nine. So don't fail to see this game Sunday at 3 o'clock, you may miss something.

Plans Underway For Cowboy Reunion At Stamford July 1st

Stamford, May 24—Rapid progress is being made on the construction of the new buildings and other betterments in the $10,000 improvement program at the Texas Cowboy Reunion grounds. The work will be completed well in advance of the eighth annual Reunion which will be held on July 1, 2 and 3.

Work is well advanced on the $5,000 pavilion and exhibit building, a two story structure 60x100 feet. First floor of this building will be used for ticket offices and commercial exhibits, while the second floor will be used for sponsors' dances and other gatherings. Two modern rest rooms are included in the building.

Another important still to be completed is a new lighting system for the rodeo arena, designed to make it the best lighted outdoor rodeo arena in Texas and remove the handicap under which night rodeo contestants have labored in the past.

Two new horse barns have been finished with some 44 individual stalls which will be rented to cowgirl sponsors or to cowboys who want special quarters for their horses. New pens for the sponsors' horses also have been built.

In the vicinity of the new barns, a dam has been built to form a small lake, holding some 10 1-2 of water when filled. This is in addition to the beautiful lake near the center of the grounds.

To speed up the show at the arena, a tunnel has been constructed at the opposite end from the chutes, through which will be removed after being used in the rodeo. This will avoid herding the stock back through the arena between events. After passing through the tunnel, the stock will be driven through a lane back of the grandstands to the corrals.

To assure seats for all comers at the Reunion this year, 1,000 additional bleacher seats are being provided. This gives a total seating capacity of 11,000, of which 8,000 are grandstand seats under roof.

has got a hole through it. But the spalpeen who ruined it paid plenty, my lad. He'll never need a hat again himself."

Roy reined in and dismounted. Slim caught him by the arm. "Yuh mean there was shootin' Roy?"

Roy laughed. "A little. Three shots, to be exact, lad. When I left yuh, Slim, I eased along slow fer a time, givin' yuh a chance to get well on yore way. Then I struck straight fer home, singin' with all my lung power. I guess the liquid purity of my voice musta charmed most of them polecats hidin' along the trail, fer I got by all but the last one. He stopped me, with a gun pointed at me middle.

"I asked him, polite-like, what the hell he wanted an' what he meant by holdin' up a pore harmless cow-punch, who was after lurin' of his soul with song. He called me a low-down, tricky sidewinder. So I thanked him like a real gentleman an' told him the same to him. He wanted to know what had become of yuh, Slim. I told him yu'd decided to go home another way an' was safe in yore little downy by that time.

"Shore, that made him mad. He cussed pore old Roy plumb outrageous, but I was after laughin' at him. Then he up an' shot at me. I saw it comin' an' ducked my head, at the same time throwin' my own gun. We shot almost together the second time, an' I got him. An' then—yuh can believe me—I came away from there."

"D'yuh know who it was?" demanded Dakota.

"I can't be positive, seein' as how he was masked. But shore he talked an' acted a lot like that long-legged Half Diamond B foreman, Rango Deale."

"Yuh shore yuh rocked him off?" "Well," drawled Roy, running his fingers through his hair, "if he ain't broke entirely, he's real had bent. He folded up like a sack."

Dakota shrugged. "Looks like the lid's off," he grunted. "Stoney Shered was right when he said hell was gonna pop on this range. Slim, lad, it's beginnin' to look like they won't pass up nothin' in gettin' yuh. There's a hefty purpose behind all this an' I'm gonna find out what it is."

The next morning, not long after sunrise, Slim and Dakota Blue rode into Pinnacle. Slim had confided to Dakota his plan of taking up the mortgage on Mona Hall's spread, at which Dakota had shrugged.

"I know yore bank balance is plenty big enough to cover the note, Slim," Dakota had observed. "But whether George Arthur will deal with yuh is another proposition. Me, I don't think he will. I don't believe he wants the five thousand dollars. What he wants is the Dot H Dot Ranch."

Slim had avowed that he would tackle the lawyer just the same, so Dakota rode into town with him. The lawyer's office, a dusty, unkept little cubby, three doors up from the Wild Horse Saloon, was still locked when they arrived. So Slim and Dakota went into the saloon where Joe Rooney was swamping out and fat Spud Dillon was yawning behind the bar, while poring over a tattered newspaper.

"Hi, gents," hailed Spud. "What brings yuh to our fair city so early the fine mornin'?" "Little business deal," answered Slim with a grin. "No, thanks; too early in the day for spiritous liquor, Spud," he added, as Dillon began setting out a bottle and glasses. "What's new?"

The next morning, not long after sunrise, Slim and Dakota Blue rode into Pinnacle. Slim had confided to Dakota his plan of taking up the mortgage on Mona Hall's spread, at which Dakota had shrugged.

"I know yore bank balance is plenty big enough to cover the note, Slim," Dakota had observed. "But whether George Arthur will deal with yuh is another proposition. Me, I don't think he will. I don't believe he wants the five thousand dollars. What he wants is the Dot H Dot Ranch."

Slim had avowed that he would tackle the lawyer just the same, so Dakota rode into town with him. The lawyer's office, a dusty, unkept little cubby, three doors up from the Wild Horse Saloon, was still locked when they arrived. So Slim and Dakota went into the saloon where Joe Rooney was swamping out and fat Spud Dillon was yawning behind the bar, while poring over a tattered newspaper.

"Hi, gents," hailed Spud. "What brings yuh to our fair city so early the fine mornin'?" "Little business deal," answered Slim with a grin. "No, thanks; too early in the day for spiritous liquor, Spud," he added, as Dillon began setting out a bottle and glasses. "What's new?"

this whole section of the country." He spoke on the necessity of peace and harmony, stating it was bound to result in progress.

He gave an interpretation of the "man who is friend to man," saying that this is the man who puts his shoulder to the wheel and assists in whatever undertaking is at hand, stating that every man living in this town should be a member of the Chamber of Commerce, no matter how small his contribution is.

Mr. McGraw stated that the buildings in a city was a reflection of the kind of citizenship in that community. He complimented Littlefield, saying, "you have a splendid town. I wish for you determination in years to come to make your town the best in West Texas. There is no obstacle you cannot overcome. There are so many things possible for you to do that will reflect on the entire community."

He spoke of the progress of this section in spite of the depression, adding that, "the sun may burn the cheeks of many, but it has not burnt the instinct of the people of this section to build a great West Texas."

In closing Mr. McGraw said: "It has been a great privilege to be here. I shall always feel a great debtor to those who have made my trip here such a delightful visit. I congratulate you on your fine city, and wish for you an abundance of years and years to come."

Mancil Hall, retiring president presided at the banquet meeting, and following two base violin numbers by Prof. Blitz, head of the Music Department of Tech college, accompanied by Mrs. Blitz at the piano, out of town guests were introduced as follows: Prof. Webb and Postmaster Wiles of Olton; Herbert Teal, Homer Wright, Forrest Weimholdt and Walter Price of Sudan; Charlie Guy, J. H. Brock, K. L. Riggs, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Burgess, George Meiser, Charles Whitacre and John D. Mitchell of Lubbock and John Hunter and E. T. Phillips of Amherst, and Mr. Allen of Bula.

Glenn Burgess, new Chamber of Commerce secretary, addressed the gathering. Asking cooperation of all the citizenship in the progress of Littlefield, he said that it was going to require the help of everyone; that the nine directors were not going to be able to put over projects in the betterment of this city without everyone's assistance.

He spoke complimentary of Attorney-General McCraw, bringing out the thought that he had made good on his own merit; that he carried on his duties very efficiently, and was a man "not afraid to say no."

Mancil Hall extended a hearty welcome to Mr. McCraw, and his assistant, Llewellyn Duke, and also the other visitors at the banquet, following which he announced the election of the following new officers of the Chamber of Commerce for the ensuing year:

Homer Hall, president; E. O. McIver, vice-president; Clyde Hilburn, treasurer, with the following as directors: J. O. Garlington, L. C. Hewitt, Dr. Ira Woods, Clyde Hilburn, W. D. T. Storey, and J. W. Keithley.

of Texas. I should find it very interesting to watch in miniature an oil well being drilled at the Exposition. Texas is the nation's chief cotton producer. I should enjoy seeing the interesting changes cotton undergoes from the time it is made into clothing. It would interest me to see the different products made from lumber, for forest products are important sources of wealth to everyone. Cement, clay products, gypsum, stone, asphalt, silver, salt, quicksilver, all help to place Texas fourth or fifth in mineral production. It would be interesting to see samples of each of these.

Dallas was founded in 1841 by John Neely Bryan. He started the town with one log cabin, and from this during these ninety-six years the Dallas of today has grown. Dallas was named for George M. Dallas, vice-president under President Polk. I should like to explore the many interesting parts of the city and to see the mayor and the four commissioners of the city. There are many publishing houses that would be interesting to visit.

On the Exposition grounds the State of Texas Building with its statues of Texas' great heroes and presidents would be a thrilling sight to me. I want to see the new collection of paintings which have been obtained for the Art Museum. The Natural History Museum with its hundreds of specimens of wild animals from the Southwest and the Horticultural Museum of plants I also want to include in my sight-seeing trip.

To see the charm of Old Mexico and to sense the romance, to hear the gay songs, and to see the dances of the South American gauchos in the Latin American Village would be a vision I have always wished to behold. I am sure that I, as a visitor of the Exposition, would enjoy immensely the hospitality the Dallasite offers to all visitors.

The greatness of this Pan American theme cannot wholly be put into words. I feel sure the world is as grateful as I am to Dallas and to Texas for such a great theme, and I want to see it to be all the more able to appreciate it.
