REGISTRATION AND FELLOWSHIP

9:30 to 10 O'CLOCK

Dr. T. R. Timm
To Speak At Luncheon

The first annual Lamb County Agriculture and Business Forum is being held today, (Thursday) at Littlefield Country Club, beginning at 10 a.m. The program is being sponsored by the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce and Lamb County Farm Bureau, in co-operation with the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service.

A panel discussion on "Cotton's Future in Foreign Trade," will be conducted during the morning session. Presiding will be LeRoy Hackler, president of the Lamb County Farm Bureau. Speakers will be Archie Leonard, professor of agricultural economics at Texas Tech, Lubbock, and Jack Crisswell, educational director, National Cotton Council.

Speaker at the noon luncheon will be Dr. Tyrus R. Timm, extension economist and professor of agricultural economics at Texas A. & M. College, whose subject will be "The Growing Interdependence of Agriculture and Business."

The afternoon panel discussion will be on "Are We Exchanging Our Personal Freedom for Security?" (Continued on back page)

Wildcats Band Takes Sweepstakes At District Festival

Littlefield High school 92 piece Wildcat band, under the direction of Don Hays won sweepstakes award at the annual District Music Festival held at Canyon last Friday, in competing with other schools in Class A Levelland and Brownfield were also placed in the Number One bracket.

This is the second time in the five years that Littlefield Band has entered in the competitions they have won sweepstakes. The first time was in 1950.

There were 18 bands entered in class A competitions, with three placing in the sweepstakes bracket and the remainder placing anywhere from division two to division five in various competitions.

The entire band made the trip (Continued on Back Page)

District Conference Of Texas Congress P-TA To Meet Here

MRS. F. E. YOHNER

Littlefield will be host to the 1952 14th District Conference of Congress of Parents-Teachers, winning the honor in closing hours of the 1952 convention held at Brownfield last Friday. Stamford and Muleshoe were both active contestants for the honor of hosting next year's convention-meeting.

The convention will bring between 300 and 400 delegates to Littlefield for next year's meeting. The 14th district covers a large area, with more than 100 PTA organizations being actively enrolled.

At the Brownfield convention last week, life memberships were awarded to Mrs. F. E. Yohner, present president of Littlefield Junior High PTA, from Lamb County Central PTA and to Mrs. Ray Hulise from the Junior and Elementary PTA local organizations. Mrs. Hulise is also titular head of the Lamb county PTA council, and president-elect of the Junior High PTA organization.

A delegation of fourteen Littlefield PTA members attended the Brownfield convention. Judging of projects, and awards presented was a highlight of the convention. Littlefield won two awards, one for their Press Book, graded superior, and their Year Book, graded as "excellent."

JUNIOR CLASS PLAY OF SPADE HIGH SCHOOL TO BE HELD TONIGHT

The annual Spade Junior play, "Good Gracious Grandma," will be presented Thursday (tonight) at Spade High school auditorium, at 8 p.m. Admission is 60 cents for adults and 30 cents for students. Proceeds go for expense of Junior-Senior banquet, and the remainder will go into the Junior class treasury.

The cast includes: Henry Brekenridge, who hates to work any time, played by Lester Mouser; George Breckenridge, his cousin, who hates the same, played by Neal Trull; Mrs. Lennox, who wants her rent, played by Marie Parks; Helen Allen, a daughter of a family friend, played by Wilma Lee Barnhill; Cecile Allen, Helen's younger sister, played by Lavern Gregson; Clancy, a police investigator, played by Tommy Hamilton; Wiggins, his assistant, played by Keith Elkins; P-Sam, a negro house-boy, played by Doyal White;

Dance Each Saturday Night At Lamb County Youth Center

Lamb County Youth Center under the direction of Don Maness is sponsoring Saturday night dances for the Youth of the County up to 21 years of age.

An orchestra from the local high school will furnish the dance music.

Admission is 50 cents per couple, or 35 cents for a single admission.

Parent-Son FFA Banquet To Be Held Tonight

The annual father-son FFA banquet will be held tonight (Thursday) in the school cafeteria. A chicken barbecue with all the trimmings will be served.

Dr. Tyrus R. Timm, extension economist and professor of agricultural economics, Texas A. & M. will be guest speaker.

Approximately 150 FFA members and guests are expected to attend.

Local sponsors are the two high school agricultural teachers, W. W. Hall and Hershel Potts.

Southwestern Public Service Co. Cooking School Set For Wednesday

... Littlefield, is pro- ... cooking school ...

... picture of modern living will be unfolded for Littlefield home-makers when the curtain opens for the first performance of the all-electric cooking school. Twelve sparkling new models of electric appliances will provide the backdrop for the stage setting and will also be the working tools for Miss Patricia Stearns, who will conduct the school, assisted by Miss Clyde Little.

Six Littlefield appliance dealers, co-sponsors with the Southwestern Public Service Company, in presenting the two day show, will provide the stage setting. An entirely new program will be presented Thursday, the second day. Sessions start both days at 2 p.m.

The appliances to be used on the stage are: Frigidaire refrigerator and dishwasher from Best Appliance Company; Hotpoint clothes washer and dryer from W-W Electric; Philco freezer and refrigerator from Rodgers Furniture; Norge refrigerator and Maytag washer from Hill Rogers Furniture and Appliance; Westinghouse range and ironer from Nelson Hardware; and Kelvinator refrigerator and range from Onstead Furniture Store.

In addition to the equipment displayed and used on the stage, the dealers plan to display additional appliances in the auditorium, and the two day event will be a spring appliance showing as well as a cooking school.

FIRST ANNUAL SPRING CONCERT FRIDAY NIGHT

The first annual spring concert to be presented by 93 choral students in Junior and Senior High school will be presented in the high school auditorium, Friday night, May 2, beginning at 8 p.m., under the direction of Bob Irby high school choral instructor.

The program, highly entertaining to all music lovers, will be presented in three parts, as follows:

The program will begin with the Junior High Choir rendering "Disdainful of Danger," "Oh, Western Wind," "Prayer for Today" and "Oh, Thou In Whose Presence."

The Senior High school A Cappella choir will present, "Sing Ye to the Lord," "Adoramus TE," "Go Not Far from Me Oh Lord," "Beautiful Saviour" and "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Part II of the program will be composed of solos and ensembles, to be announced.

Part III will include the following numbers: "Down South," "There is a Balm and Gilead," "Skip to My Loo," "Oh What a Beautiful City," "Cindy," "I Wonder as I Wander," "Rock My Soul," "Fire Flies" and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You."

Local Store Will Join With All Furr Stores In Observing Anniversary

The Littlefield Furr Food store will join with all Furr Super Markets in the observance of the 48th anniversary of the founding of the business by the late C. W. Furr and the father of Roy and Key Furr, the active presidents of the two Furr organizations.

The original store was founded at Kirkland, Texas, by the late Mr. Furr, and was a general merchandise store typical of that day.

From the small beginning back in the young days of the state has developed a group of 57 super markets operating in four states: Texas, New Mexico, Colorado and Kansas.

Furr, is a resident of Lubbock, where the headquarters of the southern group of stores is located.

Participating in Anniversary

The Littlefield store was established in September, 1949, and has enjoyed an outstanding volume of business since the opening of the doors.

Special events are planned for the observance of the 48th anniversary at the Littlefield store, May 1 to 10.

Dan Harris, who came to Littlefield from Lubbock with the establishing of the local store, has continued as manager. Jimmie Garrett, who also came from Lubbock at the time of the establishing of the Littlefield store, has been manager of the meat market. These men will head a large group of employees who will join in welcoming the folks to the local store for the observance of the 48th anniversary of an organization which has enjoyed a steady growth down through the years.

Mr. Harris has been with Furr Food Markets six years. Starting at the bottom, Mr. Harris has advanced rapidly in the Furr organization. He is a native of Hardeman county, and grew up and was educated at Ropesville. Previous to entering the employ of Furr Food Markets, Mr. Harris was in the Merchant Marine Service. The manager of the Littlefield store is married and has two sons, Randy, and Danny.

Eighteen years in the meat business, Mr. Garrett has been with Furr Food Markets for five years. A native of Henderson county, he came to the Plains in 1944 from East Texas. He is married and has five children:

Health Talks

Prepared by the State Medical Association of Texas

From the top of your head to the tip of your toes you are a closely-woven cloth. Some parts of you are bundled like stalks of sugar cane, some are packaged like bales of cotton, some are braided, some are coiled like spirals, some are hollow shells, some are frothy like cotton candy—all shapes and all forms are present in the human body.

A simpler way of saying it is the old saw, "Snakes and snails and puppy dog tails" or "sugar and spice and everything nice."

But the important health fact in what you are made of that whatever goes into the making, you are continuous. There aren't any seams in you, you are woven and underwoven and overwoven and crosswoven in a continuous pattern. That means that what affects one part of your body necessarily affects all parts, since the body is all a continuous pattern.

The threads with which the pattern of you is woven are handed down from your ancestors. The 144 medical question is where the weaving starts—what part of the human body is the focal point where the "signals" are set to make you physically and mentally what you are?

This "target" area has been speculated about for centuries, and the present unofficial beginning point, is placed, by many, in the pituitary gland. This is a pouch like gland that hangs down from the floor of the brain, just above the nasal cavity, almost in the exact center of the head.

During childhood, this pituitary gland is divided into two parts, a front and back part. A third part creeps in between those two pockets and is usually a distinct part of the pituitary in the early teens. You can picture the parts better if you visualize them as signal lights, with the front part as the green light, the middle part as the yellow light and the back part as the red light.

The colors do fit, in fairly well with the known functions of the pituitary gland. The front part is thought to be the regulator of growth, the go-ahead signal for the weaving of the threads that go into your physical structure. It has an effect upon the other glands of the body and releases cells, called alpha cells, into the bloodstream.

The back part of the pituitary gland, the red light of the signal, may be considered the break, the stop of the pattern. It has an effect upon blood pressure, upon the contraction of muscles, and upon the functions of the kidneys. Its cells, also are found in the bloodstream.

The part played by the yellow light, the middle portion of the pituitary is little understood, though some medical scholars believe it has some tie-in with the color changes in parts of the body.

Though disease of this gland can cause changes from normal in the development of the human physical constitution, it is not the only factor involved in growth and development. The genes, the cells that are handed down from ancestors, are one of the important factors in the pattern of development. The nervous system, too, enters the picture, as well as the pituitary and other endocrine glands which have a bearing upon the sops and gos of growth.

Diseases within the body, any place in the body, may change the pattern at any period of a person's development. They may represent broken or knotted threads in the weaving of the cloth that makes up a human being.

Local Cattlemen Elected To Angus Association

V. E. Glumper and son and L. H. Neinaat of Littlefield, have been elected to membership in the American Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' association at Chicago, announces Secretary Frank Richards, Messrs. Glumper and son and Neinaat were among the 17 purebred Aberdeen-Angus breeders elected from Texas during the past month to membership in the organization.

JUST PULLING HIS LEG . . .

AP Newsfeatures

BOSTON—Trainer Jack Fadden of the Boston Red Sox has a system for treating injured legs. Here Fadden, Harvard's trainer since 1920, puts Sox shortstop Vern Stephens through the special exercise which Fadden says cured Stephens' bad leg. Stephens pulled the muscles behind his left leg six times last season and played only nine games during the September pennant stretch drive.

Stampede Rodeo Set For May 2

Dates for the 11th annual Stampede Rodeo have been set for May 2, 3, 4 and 5, with an announcement by G. Neil, president of the association.

More than 12,000 in prize will be distributed in rodeo, bareback, bronc riding, ribbon roping, and wild steer roping, and other sponsor contests.

Stock for the four rodeos to be provided by "Gene" Kestrala. The signal is to the crowd, which is composed of persons and is now in the rodeos, has assured fans entertainment.

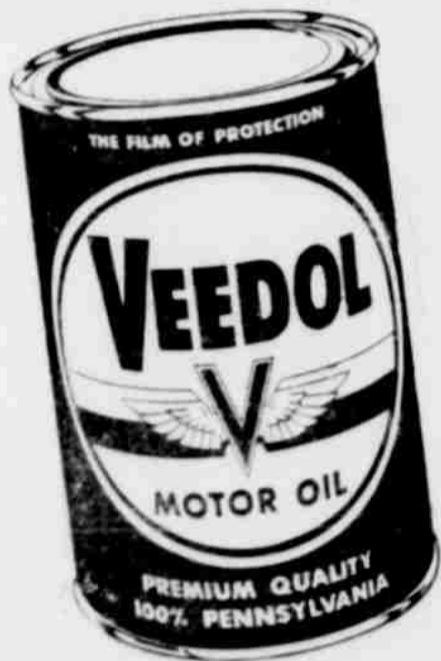

To speed up set up for 1952 show, the Post Stampede association has equipped 900 worth of repairs on its own plant.

Invitations have been sent to more than 15 sheriff posse groups in the area to the pre-rodeo parade, the biggest in history, average 1000 to the four rodeos as best by a panel of judges.

VAST EXPANSION IS FORESEEN
FCC Lifts 'Freeze' On New Television Station Licenses
 By JACK ADAMS
 WASHINGTON, April 13. (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission paved the way today for a vast expansion of the American television industry by lifting its three-and-a-half-year-old freeze on new station licenses. This means that eventually more than 2,000 video stations may be licensed in the United States and its possessions, as compared to 108 in operation now.

Is "Go-Ahead" Sign
 It is expected to take a long time to reach such a total, but today's action is a go-ahead sign for the industry that blossomed into a multi-million dollar enterprise even under wraps.

Eventually television will be available to most of the people who live within tuning range of a station.
 Today's order involves steps:

1. Formal creation of high frequency (UHF) channels added to the 12 very high frequency (VHF) channels.
2. Adoption of a final table of local channel assignments, based on the total 82 channels.
3. A formula for exact and accurate separations between TV transmitters and for best possible service with a minimum of interference.
4. A formula for exact and accurate separations between TV transmitters and for best possible service with a minimum of interference.

Application On File
 One radio station here already has an application on file for one of the channels and a second channel before July 1, it was announced. Even so, no one would hazard a guess as to how long it will be before South Plainsmen will have TV available to them.

Gordon Thompson, manager of Station KFYO, said his station has had an application on file for some time for Channel Sunday, he said, the

The towns, all of which were allotted UHF stations, include Brownfield, Floydada, Hereford, Lamesa, Levelland, Littlefield, Plainview and Snyder. It was not stated whether groups in any of those towns intend to make application for assignment of one of the channels.

Some schools that such stations be permitted some part-time commercial use. A proposal that such stations be permitted some part-time commercial use was rejected.

What Is The Answer To Prison Riots?

Two major prison riots, accompanied by accusations of official mishandling of prisoners, and indictments against the warden and eight other officers of a third penitentiary, must evoke in the public mind considerable wonder at what goes on behind the nation's prison walls.

The Jackson, Mich., mutiny has caused more than $2 million of property damage, and the injury of five guards and four state troopers. One inmate is dead and 11 are wounded. The prisoners advance a long list of grievances, including charges that some had been confined to cells for periods as long as a year, and that medical care was inadequate.

In the Rahway, N.J., uprising there was more complaining of conditions within the walls. It was one in a series of five New Jersey prison outbreaks within the last three weeks.

The indictments were returned against officials of the Colorado state prison and charge the torturing, beating and striking of prisoners.

The current epidemic of riots, the Medical Correctional Association believes, is a natural consequence of the nation's prison systems and is not likely to subside until there is a better recognition of the human aspects of prison operation. The association, a national organization of physicians, psychologists and social workers interested in the medical aspects of crime and delinquency, asserts that prisons must awaken to the urgent need of psychological treatment of their seriously disturbed inmates.

"The most obvious preventive remedy for these outbreaks," the association contends, "is in the choice of personnel. Prison administration will remain a matter of sadistically enforced custody until the public officers appointed for this work show more sympathy for the therapeutic approach . . . There should be clearer and more widespread recognition of the need for placing professional men and women as administrators of penal and correctional institutions."

The public's thinking probably will agree that prison conditions which contribute to the viciousness of prisoners are not the mark of sociological progress, but it will not be quick to condone any pampering of prisoners.

The first consideration of prison management must continue to be the matter of security—the protection of society from its dangerous elements. The second consideration must be reform and rehabilitation whenever it is possible. We should not lose sight of the first in our humanitarian interest in the second. The public's concern with the prison system and its lack of real information suggest the desirability of some independent organization which could oversee prison independent organization which could oversee human rights before they erupt into bloody mutinies, and at the same time protect honest and capable prison administrators from the calumny of felons.

Texans are generally aware that we have what is known as the "community property" system in this state, but many do not understand the significance and implications of this fact.

Most of the property acquired by a husband and wife, or either of them, during their marriage belongs to them jointly and is referred to as "community property." In fact, the law presumes that ALL property acquired during the marriage is community property unless the contrary is clearly proved.

Not included in this category is property owned by either husband and wife before marriage, and that which is acquired by either of them after marriage by gift or inheritance. Such items are regarded rather as the separate property of the individual spouse.

May the husband and wife divide their community property so that each will thereafter own one-half of it as his or her own separate property? Until the passage of a recent constitutional amendment, such action was not permitted by our laws. Now, EXISTING community property may be so divided under certain circumstances. However, an agreement by the husband and wife that future earnings or income will be separate property is invalid.

In contrast, it has always been possible to convert separate property into community property. This is usually done unintentionally when separate property is sold or exchanged, and the parties fail to indicate clearly that the purchase money or the new property is to be the separate property of the husband or wife.

Very often the money received from a sale of separate property is deposited in the joint bank account of the husband and wife, mixing or "co-mingling" such separate funds with the community funds. This ordinarily results in the entire amount becoming community property through the inability of husband or wife to trace the separate funds at a later date.

The distinction between separate and community property is important for many reasons, and married persons owning separate property should normally exercise care to prevent its being co-mingled with the community estate. Lawyers say that separate bank accounts and proper records will help keep matters straight.

Failure to use proper safeguards can result in an alteration of the legal order of descent at the death of a person leaving no will, since community property passes in one way and separate property in another. Or, one of the parties may lose his right to will what was once separate property to whomever he chooses.

Other consequences include the possibility that the separate property of one spouse may become subject to the debts of the community or of the other spouse. Or, if a divorce should occur, one of the parties may lose part of his separate estate during division of the couple's various properties.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)
