Weighting only 132 pounds and the lightest man on the squad "T" played fullback on the Estelline squad and was captain of the team in his last year. Before that he had been filling the end position for two years and had been chosen all district end.

Study The Water Law!

Lamb County farmers will receive by mail an eight-page booklet published by the Agricultural Extension Service and designed to familiarize them with the underground water conservation law. County Agent David Eaton has announced plans for mailing the booklet to all farmers and water users in the county.

Using a question and answer method, the booklet outlines the basic concept of the Underground Water Conservation Law, which was passed by the Texas Legislature in the spring of 1949.

"Every farmer and every water user in an area depending on underground water should be familiar with this law and how it will affect him," the Extension Service points out.

The law hinges on two points. First, it declares that the water under his land belongs to the individual owner and its use cannot be limited, allocated, pro-rated or taken away.

Second, they lay the framework for organization of underground water conservation districts assigning to them powers of conserving, preserving, protecting and re-charging the underground water in reservoirs over which they have jurisdiction.

Coupled with power to re-charge underground water reservoirs, the district has the right to prevent waste of irrigation water, thus insuring a continuing supply of the irrigation water which is vital to the prosperity of thousands of High Plains farmers and businessmen.

Control of districts is strictly local, by an elective board of five directors.

Brother And Sister Reunited After 50 Year Separation

M. G. Deason, 83, of Blooming Grove, Texas, who for the past 25 years has believed his sister to be dead saw her for the first time in 50 years in Anton on Sunday.

The reunion with his sister, Mrs. A. M. Spain, 86, of Anton was made possible through the efforts of Mrs. C. D. Stafford, granddaughter of Mrs. Spain. She learned that Mr. Deason was living in Blooming Grove from friends who were passing through Anton and wrote him to inform him that his sister was living with her.

It was a great shock to receive the letter, according to Mr. Deason, but a very pleasant one.

The Deason family scattered around the country when their mother died and lost contact with each other. Mr. Deason went to Blooming Grove at that time to become one of the first settlers there. About 25 years ago he tried to contact his sister but was unable to do so and presumed she was dead.

After arriving in Anton Sunday he enjoyed a long talk with Mrs. Spain catching up on what has happened in the past 50 years. He plans to return to his home sometime this week.

BULL LAKE PHILOSOPHER FINDS THERE'S NOT MUCH DIFFERENCE IN THE EUROPEAN PROBLEM AND HIS OWN

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Bull Lake no doubt has misinterpreted the newspapers again, but that doesn't bother him. Dear Editor:

I have been readin' a good deal lately about the condition Europe is in, found a paper this afternoon caught on a bob-wire fence out here which explained that the world is now so closely tied up together we got to have prosperity everywhere if we expect to keep it any one place, and this article went on to explain that the reason for example England or France or Italy are all having such a hard time these days is because they're having to buy more than they sell. Furthermore, the article said, it's gonna take a lot of deep study to solve the problem and the writer suggested the United States ought to send some experts abroad to give the matter further attention.

in the United States spending a lot of money sendin' experts over there. They can come out here on Bull Lake and study me. I got the same problem.

As best I can tell, needin' to buy more than I've got to sell has been my problem all my life, and if that's what's botherin' Europe, there ain't no cure for it, and the experts might as well settle back down.

However, if the government wants to send the money I'll offer my farm as a investigatin' place, to sort of keep the money at home, but if this don't satisfy Congress and they insist on goin' abroad themselves, to study Europe's problem, which may be surrounded by more culture than mine, I'll appreciate you usin' your influence to cut me in on whatever relief

Now I ain't even able to solve the problem of Johnson grass in my wife's garden, not to mention any of the problems Europe's got, but I been thinkin' and if Europe's trouble is that she's having to buy more'n she sells, there ain't no use

Do you want A WORLD AT PEACE

Today's newspaper headlines and radio newscasts tell a story of chaos in the modern world. They continually speak of broken relations between countries, of ineffectual efforts for nations to understand each other, of the seeming impossibility of men to live together peacefully in one world.

And always the news and editorial columns are saturated with references to the "A-bomb" and the even-more-powerful "H-bomb." Underlying all this is the ever-repeating fear that a third world war is inevitable.

Do you actually want and hope for world peace? Or have you accepted as unavoidable another international conflict? Is it worthwhile to strive for peace among men when confusion, misunderstanding, distrust constantly point toward futility? And, after all, would your home and family, your community, really be vitally affected by another war among nations?

WHAT CAN WE DO ABOUT IT?

teach peace, to educate men and women, to guide them spiritually and to minister to their physical needs.

In recent months President Harry Truman, General George Marshall and General Douglas MacArthur have declared the answer to world confusion lies in the spiritual realm. Do you agree with these statements? Is there another solution to the growing threat to international security? Or is there no hope for a world at peace?

The Bible gives a clear answer to these and many other questions of everyday living. Hear it at the . . .

Golden Rule Brings Popularity

THERE WAS a young boy back in Satanta, Kansas, who in the short time he lived learned a valuable lesson which his mother passes on to you and me. His name was James Eldon Conover.

Jimmy Conover died suddenly just after he had completed his sophomore year in high school. He had lettered in football and track one year and in scholarship another year. He was active in basketball, the boy scouts, and had been president of his class.

I am sure you will agree that Jimmy was headed for a useful and splendid life. But his Maker decided otherwise.

Carnegie

The point I want to bring out in Jimmy's story is something his mother told me. When Jimmy was a small boy, he found it difficult to get along with the other children. He couldn't understand why the other boys didn't like him and he was extremely sensitive about it. But Jimmy was an inveterate reader, and he read books that opened his eyes to his own shortcomings.

Many a boy might have just passed up what he read, but not Jimmy. Jimmy was headed for better things. He took stock of himself and he began the practice of the golden rule; he treated the other fellows as he would want to be treated. He went further, and became interested in what the other fellows were interested in.

It wasn't long before Jimmy was a much happier boy than he had been previously; it wasn't long before his friends were hanging around him. And if you want proof of this, just re-read paragraph two above. Unlike boys don't receive the honors Jimmy received. Here is a quotation from a write-up in his home town paper after his death:

"Jimmy was one of the most popular boys among all age groups ever reared in Satanta. He was reared in the Catholic church."

Jimmy's mother and I have passed this story on with the hope that it may help other boys who find it difficult to get along with their fellows. We know Jimmy would have wanted us to do this.

Webby The Pelican

By FAITH HELEN FAUST

Once there was a pelican named Webby who lived on a big dry rock by the sea. Webby's brothers and sisters almost crowded him out of the nest. Mr. and Mrs. Pelican fed him fish.

One day Mrs. Pelican said, "Children I want you to learn to dive for your own fish."

All the pelicans waddled down to the water. It was easy to swim but Webby couldn't swim. Mrs.

Webby started to swim as fast as he could to the rock. A bunch of flying fish came through the air. Webby was so hungry he flew up and caught two of them. He ate them in a hurry.

A man on the ship said, "Boy: Joe did you see that pelican jump?" "Yeah," said Joe. "The zoo would pay twenty dollars for him, Mack."

Joe got a rope and caught Webby around the stomach. Joe and Mack put him in a cage.

When they got to shore they took Webby to the zoo. Webby was put in a big cage with a big, deep pool in it. The zoo keeper gave Webby lots of fish every day. Webby was very happy. Lots of people came to see him catch the fish.

IN HAWAIIAN WATERS
Calvin C. Hamilton, torpedo-man's mate, third class, USN, of Littlefield, Texas, a crew member of the aircraft carrier USS Valley Forge, is in Hawaiian waters on the second "Operation Moving Van," which utilizes the carrier in returning non-flyable aircraft to the United States.

USE LEADER WANT ADS.

Pelican told him to just sit there. Webby tried sitting there. He floated.

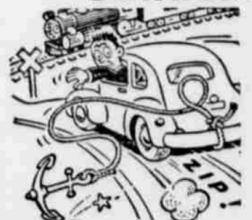

Mrs. Pelican said, "Now move your feet."

Webby started to move his feet, but—glug, glug—under he went.

Mrs. Pelican told him to keep trying. Suddenly Webby found himself swimming around. A big flying fish flew up in the air in front of Webby. Webby was hungry so he tried to catch the fish but he didn't fly fast enough and fell into the water with a splash. His brothers and sisters laughed at him.

Webby couldn't catch any fish and he was always hungry. Sometimes he caught a small fish. Then a ship came by the rocks.

THEY POINT WITH PRIDE

When Woodmen celebrate their Society's Sixtieth Anniversary next June 6 they will note with pride that it...the world's financially strongest...has assets exceeding 170 million dollars, an increase last year of more than 5 million. Insurance in force now exceeds 484 million dollars.

While carrying on its great program of fraternal and civic service the Society paid over 414 million dollars in death and disability benefits, cash withdrawals and refunds in the past 60 years. These payments exceeded 10 million dollars in 1949 alone.

Now, during the Sixtieth Anniversary campaign, is a good time to begin enjoying Woodcraft's friendship and protection. Ask the local Woodmen representative to help you select the type of certificate that best meets your needs.

Gabby Enjoys Going to The Dentist

One of my molars was giving me a bad time Tuesday afternoon, so I slipped over to Doc Jones, hoping to catch him free. When I arrived, Gabby Jackson was sitting there reading a magazine. I said hello to Gabby and he nodded.

Doc comes out and says I'm next. "Wait a minute," I says. (My tooth seemed to have stopped aching.) "How about Gabby—doesn't he have an appointment?" Doc smiles and says, "Gabby? Why, he's got the finest teeth in the county. He just comes up here and reads the magazines whenever he's in town!"

As Doc went to work that he's glad to have me up and read magazines might not all be fresh of stand, but if Gabby wants to while away who is he to stand in the way of it?

From where I sit, the "let live" spirit helps me what it is. If I prefer glass of beer with my you prefer milk—what's right and the other way?

Look how you save with Dynaflo

FIRST thing you notice, of course, is the bother and effort Dynaflo Drive* saves.

Next, that Dynaflo saves you physically—after long trips you're less tense and tired, more relaxed.

But then, as the miles pile up—and this comes from cold, recorded fact after Dynaflo's two years of public operation—you spot savings you hadn't expected . . .

You save on tires—because power application is steady, even. On clutch expense—the usual friction clutch is gone.

You save on transmission maintenance, and the rear-axle expenses likely to go with it. And the way your engine is oil-cushioned against normal shocks and strains shows up in less engine upkeep.

itself and it does quite eloquently. He was on two all-state teams while playing at Estelline. He was one of the important reasons why the team was runner-up for state championship in 1939 and fourth in the state in 1929.

Small and reserved, "T" makes a person give up any preconceived notions about what a polished athlete must look like. Any notions you might have about basketball coaches tearing their hair and working themselves into a frenzy during a game will be displayed by another Hayes.

Phillips High Coach

Spec Gammon, sports writer of the Amarillo Times, in a recent article had this to say about Joe Hayes.

If a tall, slender fellow who sits on the bench and yells continually is your conception of a basketball coach, you'd never be able to tab the guy who guides the cage forces at Phillips high school.

At the helm of the Blackhawks' basketball is Joe Hayes, a quiet polite man and one of the most ardent students of the game in this area.

And you'd never guess that for three years he played on a service basketball team which included six former collegiate All-Americans.

From 1942 to 1945 Hayes was a member of Gene Tunney's physical fitness program and was stationed at the Norfolk Navy Air Station. It was here that he played on the same squad with such cage stars as Don Lockart, formerly with the Phillips 66ers; Hank Lusetti, all-time great from Stanford; Bob Carpenter, All-American from East Texas State; Johnny Barr, Penn State; Belus Smally, Appalachian College and Al Schrick, Warrensburg, Mo., Teachers.

have finished second in the district 1-A race each year. And in each case, except last year, his club got that place rating by losing in play-off games.

The larger part of his practice sessions are devoted to fundamentals—passing, footwork, dribbling, shooting and guarding. As a result he loses many early season games but by district tournament time his club usually is at its peak.

His teams look good, even when losing, a proof that they are well coached. He teaches a man-for-man defense and employs a single-post offense, running plays which split the post.

Played At West Texas

Joe played three years of varsity basketball at West Texas State under Coach Al Baggett and he played right half on the Bufts football team during those three years.

In addition to coaching basketball, Hayes is the line coach of the Phillips football club. His classroom work consists of safety education and driver training. He is married and has two sons.

During the Christmas holidays you can always find him in Oklahoma City attending the All-College tournament. During the mornings of the meet he is on hand for the coaching clinic which is lectured by leading coaches whose teams are in the tournament.

His quite, unassuming appearance is a disguise which cloaks an intense desire for daily improvement by the boys he coaches.

Roping Sunday At Levelland

With some 30 wild Brahma calves already in the news for a Sunday April 16 roping contest members of the Levelland Rodeo association, this week were counted in on one of the top roping events ever to be presented on the South Plains.

A worlds championship match, pitting Troy Fort of Lovington, N. M., present world champion roper, and J. D. Holleyman, of Ozona, is scheduled to top a bill featuring outstanding roping and rodeo performances from all over the Southwest.

Sundays event is the deciding match in a series of three matches between the champion match roper and challenger Holleyman. Holleyman defeated Fort in a San Angelo contest only to have Fort outrope him in a contest in the millionaire city of Ozona.

Each man will rope and tie 12 Brahma calves weighing over 200 pounds each.

A cutting horse contest in which rider and horse share equal honors, is also slated to take spotlight in Levelland arena, the largest Rodeo arena in the state. This event is expected to bring such performers as Toots Mansfield, Ruster Cole and Ray Parks. Ex-Cochran County Sheriff Tom Standefer and Phil Williams of Tokio have already registered for the event.

A jack pot roping contest will complete the days events. Rodeo sponsors report that a $5,000 added purse has been appropriated for performers.

You'll Never Know Real Peas Until You Grow Them

When you buy them fresh, canned, you will never really know the real quality until you grow your own. The sugar in peas turns to starch as soon as they are picked, but the skin toughens, and within an hour or two the quality has been materially reduced. The home gardener can enjoy the peak of their tenderness and flavor, and he must serve them "garden fresh" to get the best. They are not one of the "crops" since only the pods are eaten, and for the space to grow them the yield is very low. They are a luxury crop, but they are worth the effort. They thrive in cool weather, and when the sun grows hot, they must be harvested. The best where the ground does not get too dry and can be prepared early in the spring, or far north where summer is relatively cool. In sections where hot weather comes soon after the crops come out, only one crop can be grown, and that of the best varieties. The best way to obtain two crops is to plant an early and a later dwarf at the same time. Where the season is long enough to allow peas to mature, a third crop can be obtained by sowing a type, which bears the size pods and gives the best yield. Edible pod peas, varieties which are grown for their pods like snap beans, and are harvested before the seeds form, are well worth trying. For best yield, sow peas two inches deep and not closer than one inch apart in a single row. Even dwarf varieties appreciate something to climb, and the semi-tall and tall growing peas require support.

Space Peas No Closer Than 1 Inch Apart.

The Private Flying Forum By "Ernie" Bode

Yep! here I go yapping about the way that some people prefer to compare the worst of one thing to try to make another thing look better.

For instance, I noticed a headline (and who couldn't help it!) that was exactly two (2) inches high. It was about a fellow who flew into some high tension lines and was killed while spraying crops, near Pampa recently.

Now anyone knows that flying like that you'll know the pilot has lost his mind.

In fact, I've noticed several years of teaching flying, that people actually start to drive slower after they learn to fly. Better come out and ask about our special flight course for $50. You can fly in about ten hours of instruction for just that price, with the airplane furnished.

Shuck's, I'm not sure at anybody who prefers to take a chance and "boil" down the highway at speed only a respectable air plane should have, I don't understand it. When two cars passed at 6 miles per hour they are only about 24 inches apart. If you ever catch an airplane load of passengers doing something

Jack Johnson has completed his primary-stage work on his commercial pilot's course and is now working on his private license.

Kenny Hamilton is due for some flying in our big silver Fairchild. Bob Sillard went to Big Spring and brought back an engine for our new Cessna 120 that we are going to have available to rent.

Walter Hobgood and Dusty Newton are the proud owners of a Ryan PT-22 that you might have seen flying. It's a small low-wing silver colored job that is really sport to fly.

Bob Robinson moved his black and red Finn over from Sudan and is pleasing the local fellows with his "courtesy" rides—thanks

Bob—I sure like that airplane. Don Greene and Bob Williamson buzzed in a couple times from Morton and Glen Cartner and I flew to Hobbs and back on some business for Mr. Cantner, so that is about all 'till next time.

Sowing Seeds in Hills, Really Means in Hollows

Hills Are Fixed Points for Planting, Lined Up and Spaced Equal Distances Apart.

Instructions on the seed packets of cucumbers, bush and vine type squash, pumpkins, melons and some other crops that like plenty of space to spread out, usually say to "sow in hills."

Beginners would naturally suppose that this means in mounds, elevated above the surrounding surface.

But in most sections of our country, it means a line, and is more likely to be hollow than a mound. Only where the ground is so low that it does not drain well, or rainfall may be so heavy it runs off slowly, should garden hills be elevated.

Sweet corn is sometimes sown in hills, three plants to a hill, though the practice of growing this crop in drills is spreading.

Hills are lined up in a straight row, and spaced at equal distances apart. The usual practice is to dig a shallow hole with a trowel, mix plant food with the soil in the hole, fill soil on top of the hole, then place the seeds, using more than plants are to be sown. This is to make sure that some come up; if more grow than wanted, the surplus can be thinned out.

In well drained gardens, it is advisable to leave a depression above the seeds, as most of the varieties sown are tender, and are soon killed by warm weather dries the soil. Heavy rains have become less frequent than in the early spring. A depression will concentrate the water from light rains and heavy to speed up germination of seed.

To facilitate cultivation, seeds should be marked by a stake or the seeds begin to grow. When hills are accurately lined up, attention between rows may be made out with the same ease as in drills; and a hand-hoe can be used to keep down weeds in the
