FLEET GETS APPOINTMENT

Man Will Do Service as Deputy Game Warden

Norfleet, son of J. Frank Norfleet of Hale Center, has recently been appointed special deputy of the game, fish and oyster commissioner. He figured prominently in his father's notorious man hunt and capture of the swindlers of $45,000 of which he was a victim.

Being familiar with this section of the state, having been reared in its vicinity, his work has been assigned to this part of the Panhandle.

CHESHER-HART

Anton Couple Married at Plainview Last Sunday

Announcements have been received of the marriage of Miss Virginia Anton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Chesher, to Ed M. Hart, both of whom took place Sunday at Plainview.

The bride is the sister of A. C. Hart, of Littlefield, and her various relatives here have been a source of much pleasure.

Mr. Hart is a nephew of A. P. Duggan and C. J. Duggan of this city, and his numerous visits here he has enjoyed with many friends. He is engaged to Miss Anton, where the bride will make their future home.

PLENTY OF PICKERS

A large number of cotton pickers are available for the farmers of this section, according to T. Windsor, of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Windsor has been sending letters and telegrams for the past two weeks, and has finally succeeded in procuring sources where plenty of help can be obtained for the cost of their transportation and a small fee to employment agencies.

Parties desiring cotton pickers or harvest hands should see Mr. Windsor at once for particulars.

Whose Daughter?

Francis Atta Miller is looking for her mother—who left her a week old babe with a Miller family in Wichita, Kas., 34 years ago. She is married now—but she has the diamond necklace her mother left when disinherited from her wealthy St. Louis family was disinherited.

BARNES BROTHERS NOW ARRANGE FOR LARGER BUSINESS

J. Q. Barnes, of Amarillo, is this week entering the firm business of Barnes Mercantile with his brother, T. W. Barnes, and the concern will, in the future be known as the Barnes Brothers Mercantile.

J. Q. Barnes came to Littlefield about two years ago for the first time, when the town then had a population of only 200 people, and immediately caught a vision of its future, buying three business lots on the spot where their store is now located. Later on his brother, T. W. Barnes, came here and erected their present building, opened the store, and has been enjoying a lucrative business ever since.

J. Q. Barnes will bring to the concern a business experience of many years that will be valuable. For the past 14 years he has been connected with the National Cash Register Co., of Dayton, Ohio, for several years being one of their high quota men, and is thoroughly versed in the art of salesmanship.

The proprietors state that they are considerably enlarging their business, adding new lines, and will be in better position to serve their trade in the future than they have ever done during the past.

TWO FIRES THIS WEEK

Department Makes Quick Runs and Does Good Service

Two consecutive days the Littlefield Fire Department was summoned to the scene of a fire, and displayed excellent speed in getting to the designated places.

Fire of unknown origin consumed a small outhouse at the residence of Frank Godfrey, in the south part of town, Monday at noon, and at eleven o'clock Tuesday the fire department was called to the residence of Dr. B. B. Liles, where fire that had evidently originated from a defect in the construction of the flue did slight damage.

Connections were made with the fire hose to the new fire plugs near both places and plenty of water was available in case of need, but fortunately it was not needed as the chemical reserve with the fire truck was sufficient.

MOVE C. OF C. OFFICE

The office of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce is this week being moved into one of the upstairs rooms of the Palace theatre.

WHO AM I?

I am as invisible as the wind. I am one of America's most powerful forces. I am nowhere in particular. I am everywhere. I exist in every city of any size in America. I am neither the butcher, the baker, nor the candlestickmaker. I am the combined effort of all these men. I am strong where business is good. I am weak where business is poor. I exist not for personal glory of men. I exist for the good of the community. I recognize no creed, no religion, no politics. I recognize every man alike. I exist by the effort of men of every faith and social standing. I am intangible, yet my efforts are most tangible. I am the Spirit of the community—the modern CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

DUGGAN BEGINS REBUILDING OF A DOUBLE BRICK

Workmen this week began removing the debris from the Arthur P. Duggan ruins, which building was destroyed by fire a couple of weeks ago. A contract has been let to J. W. Robinson for the replacing of this brick, which will be rushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

The new building will be the same size as the old one, 50x80 feet, and of brick construction throughout, with brick wall dividing the two rooms.

It was stated by the contractor that the walls would be torn down nearly to the ground, or as far as there was any damage from fire. The wall next to the Shaw-Arnett Co., will also be torn down and rebuilt.

When the building is completed one entire room of it will be occupied by the Littlefield Supply Co. The other room has not yet been rented, though Mr. Duggan stated he had already received several applications for it.

PITY THE BLIND

"My poor fellow," said the lady "here is a quarter for you. Goodness gracious, it must be dreadful to be lame, but just think how much worse it would be if you were blind." "Yer right, lady," agreed the beggar, "when I was blind I was always an Christian Advocate."

CITIZENS CALLED TO CAST BALLOTS ON SEWER SYSTEM

Notice of election to be held in Littlefield, November 25th, to determine the issuing of $75,000.00 in municipal bonds for construction of a sewer system in this city, is being given publication in this paper this week.

Consensus of opinion expressed by leading citizens is to the effect that the election will carry with scarcely a dissenting vote. It is pointed out by various interested citizens that Littlefield has now arrived at the period of her growth when such disposal is imperative for the general health and well being of the citizens, to say nothing of the added value to the city from a commercial standpoint.

It is understood that engineers have made careful survey of the project, checking the lines to be run, the general typography of the townsite as to gravity fall, and adequate disposal can be made at a point on Oklahoma avenue, about two miles east of town.

The election is to be held in the basement of the Presbyterian church, and the following citizens have been designated to hold same: W. G. Street, presiding officer; T. Wade Potter, judge; R. M. Smith, judge; L. W. Jordan, clerk; J. H. Harless, clerk.

LIVESTOCK SHIPMENTS

Cattle and Sheep Going Out To Make Room for New Settlers

Despite the fact that the livestock industry is making room for extensive agriculture in this section and ranch land is being colonized, the ranchmen continue to ship large herds of livestock for the northern markets.

John H. Pettit, one of the pioneer ranchmen of this county, shipped 568 head of sheep from the Yellow House switch, Tuesday, to Harry Cline, at Wiley, Colorado, and on the same day McClellan and Elwood, owners of the extensive Spade lands, shipped from that switch 181 head of calves to T. F. Feehaney, at Omaha, Nebraska.

MANAGEMENT WELL PLEASED

During the opening day of the Self Serving Grocery a great number of people of Littlefield and the surrounding territory visited the store.

This is the first store of the self-serving plan to ever be operated in Littlefield, and the management states that they are well pleased with the patronage they received from the host of people who entered their store for

THE SANTA FE WILL CELEBRATE NEW ROAD ON NOV. 17.

November 17 is the date set for the big jubilee in celebration of the opening of the new Santa Fe line from Lubbock to the New Mexico line, according to announcement made last Saturday by R. J. Murray.

The day's program will include public speaking, rodeo attractions and a big barbecue to be held at Lehman.

The laying of steel on this new line was completed about the first of this month, and the work of depot construction at the various towns along the line is now being rushed to completion. While no definite announcement has yet been made, yet it is anticipated that with this proposed celebration the schedule time of trains will also be inaugurated.

It is reported that sale of lots in all the towns along this new line has been all that could be expected. Farm land in that section is also turning rapidly. Crops along this new line are excellent, and, while all the towns along this new route are progressing satisfactorily, consensus of opinion seems to be centering just now on Bledsoe, the terminus of the rail road, as the principal city to be developed in that new section.

ATTENDED STATE MEET

State Secretary of R. M. A. To Be Here in Near Future

Mrs. Clayborne Harvey, local secretary of the Retail Merchants Association, attended the Retail Merchants Association convention and three-day school for secretaries, which was held at the new Baker Hotel, in Dallas last week.

Each day an excellent program was rendered and many instructive talks, along the work of the association, were made.

R. E. Truesdale, national secretary, from St. Louis, was present, also Adolph Grasso, state secretary, of the association, and both made splendid talks. Among the many representatives from over the state, Mrs. R. L. Brawley, secretary of the association at Austin, and George Mendel, of Austin, were in attendance. Two visiting secretaries from Oklahoma were present, one from Oklahoma City and another from Durant.

Mr. Grasso, state secretary, will arrive in Littlefield within about three weeks to co-operate with the local secretary and go over the work here.

At present the local organization is assisting fifty merchants in Littlefield in exchanging helpful information.

STUDENTS ERECT BUILDING

Manual Training Lads Give Practical Demonstration of Skill

The manual training, boys of the local schools, are this week erecting a building 28x54, on the southeast part of the high school campus, to be used for their particular department. This work is being carried on under the direction of Prof. T. P. Johnson. The building will furnish accommodations for 96 pupils in this department.

Marriage Wrong?

The Montezuma college football squad passed through Littlefield Sunday enroute home, after a game vs. the Tech team at Lubbock, Saturday afternoon, which ended with a score of 60-0 in favor of the Tech.

Mr. and Mrs. L. O. McCabe and children, formerly of Littlefield, but who have resided in California for the past two years, are visiting in the home of Mrs. McCabe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Ferguson, who live four miles south of town.

The John H. Arnett Motor Co., Ford agency, report sales during the past two weeks as follows: Cicero Smith Lumber company, Littlefield, touring car; A. F. Towland, Amherst, truck; H. T. Edwards, Littlefield, truck; G. W. Holland, Levelland, touring; Bill Chapman, Amherst, coupé; G. B. Tisherman, Sudan, truck; G. C. Watson, Bula, truck; B. W. Forrester, Littlefield, tractor. Last Monday they received a carload of the new models.

It is not from poverty that comes a drastic attack on modern living—but from Wall Street. Glen B. Winship, Wall Street Editor, has written a book, "Marriage"—in which he calls for a 50 per cent tax on every man's income for the support of all women and children. Also the abolition of the present marriage contract.

Whitharral Items

(Too late for last week.)
We had a very heavy rain on Wednesday evening. Stalled trucks along the road were a common sight Thursday morning.

Charlie Gray, of Littlefield, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Langford, Wednesday night.

William Woodruff and family, of Montague county, arrived here last week. They expect to make this their home in the future.

Messrs. Joel Bryant and Bud Aldredge, prominent business men of St. Joe, were in this community this week greeting old acquaintances. Messrs. Joe Williams, Monroe Woodruff and E. W. Langford are prospecting a bit. We understand that Aldredge, who is a Ford garage man at St. Joe, will put in a first-class filling station at Levelland.

C. B. Edgar visited at Lubbock Friday and brought back a load of merchandise. Mr. Edgar is gradually changing his business from a grocery to a general store. He now has a line of drugs, hardware, dry goods and groceries.

Ira Hicks, an enterprising dry goods merchant of Montague county, is seeking a business location in this part of the country.

Messrs. Fred Walcott and Earl Yardley were Lubbock visitors Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Jackson are the proud parents of a live 10-pound boy, born Sunday, September 27. The tiny newcomer is child No. 13 in this family, but we congratulate his parents and wish for his the best of luck.

Mrs. Oscar Nealy, of Morton, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Jackson of this place.

Mrs. L. A. R. George has a sister from Austin visiting her.

Walter Haralson and children, Beatrice, J. W. and Marvin, of Lubbock, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Langford, Sunday.

Ed Smith was fortunate enough to gin the first bale of cotton at both Anton and Levelland. Anton paid Mr. Smith 23 1-2 cents per pound and donated the ginning and paid a premium of $45. Levelland paid 25 cents per pound for his cotton and paid him $46 dollars in money.

Several farmers are picking cotton this week. Cotton is estimated as making about a half bale per acre, or near 3,000 bales in the Whitharral ginning territory. Most of the land here is sold, but only about one-fifth is in cultivation. Mr. Paget, of Dallas county, who has been here prospecting this week, was quick to see the possibilities of a gin here and offered to buy a 50 per cent stock in a gin at Whitharral.

Rev. Claude Keeny, who has been attending school at San Marcos, is visiting his parents here. He is accompanied by a college friend, Rev. Gilbert, pastor of a Baptist church in San Antonio. These young ministers expect to enter Simmons college at Abilene soon.

Their sermons delivered at 11 a. m. Sunday and Sunday night were greatly enjoyed by everyone.

We sympathize very greatly with Mr. Fagin of this place, who unwittingly fed maize which had been doped for prairie dogs to a fine team of mules and killed them both. The maize had been given Mr. Fagin along with other odds and ends by his neighbor, Mr. Cox, who was moving back to Oklahoma.

H. H. Weinhold, editor of the Sudan News, was the guest of old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Crownover, Thursday. He was accompanied by J. T. Franks of Sudan, a real estate agent.

Our school is getting along nicely with an enrollment of 85 as fine boys and girls as the writer has ever met.

Lee Crownover made a business trip to Sudan Thursday.

Mr. Brewer from Palo Pinto county moved his family here about one mile south of the store last week.

We understand Mr. Merritt, who has moved his family here recently from Williamson county, is making extensive improvements at the old ranch place, 14-Mile Camp. He will cultivate 400 acres of land there next year.

Joe Woodruff made a business trip to Lamess Sunday.

Application has been made for a postoffice at Whitharral.

DESECRATION

Associated Press dispatch from Littlefield, Pa., states that thirty persons were made defendants in criminal information issued in the federal court of that city, charged with desecrating of certain monuments at the National Military Park at Gettysburg, Pa. This is indeed unfortunate and may not be excused on the ground that the souvenir hunters are actuated by an uncontrollable desire of patriotic zeal which as an expression in the desire to show themselves of tangible evidence to show that they had visited the famous battlefield.

Souvenir hunters have existed all over the world since the beginning of time. Some of them restrict their depredations to the pilfering of petty articles such as a Pullman car napkin or a pocket watch. Others have appropriated the Bibles reposing in their graves and this larceny is highly significant. However, these cases of such nature that no material damage is done in that the articles can be readily replaced, even though the Pullman company figure a distinct loss of profits at the end of the business year. However, a misguided patriot attempts himself to be so overcome by emotion, while standing on the historic field of Gettysburg, that he is short of a piece of stone from one of the memorial shafts will lose his ardor, it is time for the local authorities to step in and firmly show him the error of his ways.

Our country possesses many sacred places marking valor and heroism and the average American is filled with a sense of awe and reverence as he surveys the field upon which gallant Americans offered up their lives, or stands before a beautiful marble shaft commemorating the noble deeds of his country's martyred sons. And thus it should be. The desire to obtain a piece of concrete evidence of American valor is far from being a proof of loyalty and devotion. It is nothing less than theft, even though the average souvenir hunter may not realize that he is a potential lawbreaker.

It seems almost a reproach to our citizens that it becomes necessary to place armed guards about the buildings and parks in which repose the revered relics won or sustained in the smoke of battle. But such is the case and imperatively so. It matters not whether the American patriot in his pilgrimage to the shrines of his country visits Boston, Gettysburg or Richmond, whether he is from the north or the south, as both sections of our United States have many evidences of American bravery and soldierly valor. Let us trust that the day will come and speedily, when the throngs of patriotic pilgrims who visit our historic landmarks will by their own lawful conduct obviate the necessity of having special police officers and iron bars to guard America's sacred relics from wilful desecration.—Scottish Rite News.

LOWELL PATTON AND HIS ARTISTS HERE OCTOBER 28

Something quite new and extremely entertaining is the "Futuristic Musical Program" that will be given on October 28, evening by Lowell Patton and his Artists as the first number of the local Lyceum series, sponsored by the high school senior class, at the high school auditorium.

The brothers, Lowell and Gault, come from a highly respected and cultured Christian home in Portland, Oregon. The third member is Ludovic Knot, tenor. They all possess fine voices, and Lowell is an unusually gifted pianist. He is the manager and director of the company, and is a well-known musician on the Western coast. He was organist of the Pilgrim's Congregational church in Portland when but fifteen years of age, and began at that early date to teach piano and organ. Since then he has held positions as organist and chorister in some of the largest churches of that city.

Lowell Patton was chosen pianist with the famous Flying Squadron a few years ago, and appeared in every principal city in the United States. As a "Gob" during the war he was song leader at Bremerton Navy Yard. He has since appeared with various organizations, and was for one season accompanist to Frances Soule, harpist, on tour with Frances Ingram. In December, 1922, he went to Europe and spent three months in study and in getting new ideas and material for the trio.

The Patton program consists of a musical prologue, six episodes and an epilogue. The episodes are Russian, Old-fashioned, Religious, Popular, Oriental and Patriotic, giving opportunity for a fascinating combination of costumes, character songs, dances, piano solos—all produced in an artistic manner, by these three versatile members. The entertainment will be one of the most novel and delightful of the season.

SERIOUS CONTROVERSY

Citizens Vie With Each Other for Taxpaying Honors

J. C. Whicker, one of the oldest land men in Littlefield, appeared at the City office the other day and was in a quarrelsome mood, having just read in the Leader that R. E. Cole had received the first tax receipt ever issued by this city.

After questioning it was found that Mr. Whicker had received the first occupation receipt ever issued in Littlefield and as Mr. Cole had beaten him on the first property tax receipt he immediately paid off his property tax for the year 1925 and was issued tax receipt number two.

Mr. Whicker hates to let anyone get ahead of him, but said he would take receipt number two and stay right next to number one, and if number one ever stumped his toe, or slacked his speed he would be ahead of all the rest of the pack.

STALWART GUNMEN GUARD THE COCHRAN CO. COURT HOUSE

All or the interest which marked pioneering on the plains is to be experienced at Morton, in Cochran county, where the new courthouse, which is being erected at a cost of $125,000, is under construction.

The building has been completed to the third floor and huge steel beams have been placed there, with necessary arrangements made for the brick masons to continue their work, and to allay any possibility of disturbance of the cherished structure, those in authority have employed a nightwatchman whose duty it is to guard the building from sundown to sunrise, a job that does not involve any laborious task, but one which is certainly difficult to perform because of the long hours and the demand of those in authority for the watchman to be on the job every minute.

It was at three o'clock in the morning that the writer had an opportunity to see something of the alertness with which the guardsman is adhering to the instructions which have been given by his employers, for without knowing that the building was guarded, and in fact not realizing that we were about to intrude upon forbidden grounds, we parked the jitney in the main street of the little town and as a short-cut to the home where the keeper of the filling station lived, of whom we wished to purchase necessary gas for the car, we started to climb the fence and angle across the courthouse lawn. "Hal," and without knowing whether we were about to be rebbed of the two dollars which was the sum of our purse, and which we needed to make the necessary purchase of gas and oil, we found ourselves standing as still as night itself, and in fact, experienced the thrill of fear as it crept over us when the seriousness of our plight was realized in a flash.

"Just want to know who you are and what you are doing here," the voice said, and an explanation was not at all difficult to make.

The watchman was not at all unfriendly afterwards, however, in fact, proffered every possible assistance in seeing that our wants were supplied.

The employment of a guardsman at Morton is not a surprise to those who have kept in close touch with the political situation in Cochran county, for the location of the county site has been the center around which a persistent legal battle was fought, and the brick and steel of the building is the material evidence that the battle thus far has been won by the Morton faction, while their careful guarding of the structure is further evidence of their eagerness to keep the status of the cast just where it is without further interruption from anyone.

The guardsman who keeps his nightly vigil over the cherished courthouse is a stalwart individual of immovable determination, and while we didn't take any chances on finding out about his gunnability we were reliably informed by those who are acquainted with him that intrusion upon the grounds of the courthouse would likely prove fatal unless accompanied by an explanation.—Lubbock Avalanche.

LUBBOCK GETS MEET

Commercial Executives Will Be There During Next May

Lubbock has been unanimously selected as the meeting place of the 1926 convention of Texas Commercial Executives' Association, according to A. B. Davis, secretary of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, who has just returned from the annual meeting held last week at Dallas.

It is understood that Breckenridge, San Antonio, Dallas and Paris were strong contenders for convention honors, but when they saw defeat staring them in the face withdrew in favor of the Hub City.

The date of the meeting has not yet been set, but it will probably be held sometime during next May. It is estimated that more than 200 commercial secretaries will attend.

pulled to the point of dismemberment. Officers are said to have discovered a car whose casing treads match the one that did the pulling, and that the back axle also showed signs of a rope having been tied about it. No arrests, however, have yet been reported.

DOUBLE WEDDING SUNDAY

A very pretty double wedding occurred last Sunday morning in the lobby of the Gold Star rooming apartments, when Miss Emma Allen and R. C. Price, also Mrs. Dora Jones and Dave Cahpman were joined in marriage by Rev. W. P. Phipps, pastor of the Baptist church.

The first contracting couple is well known in Littlefield. Mr. Price is assistant foreman of the local construction department, Texas Utilities Co., having been in Littlefield during the past six months. His bride has been employed in the Gold Star for more than a year. She is a timable young woman and has a circle of friends here who wish her maximum happiness and prosperity throughout her future journey in life.

Mr. Chapman is a prosperous well-to-do farmer and business man of Tahoka, while his bride has been in the employ of the Fred H. house at Slaton for the past two years, coming to Littlefield about a month ago, where she has been employed at the Gold Star cafe.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapman went immediately to Tahoka, where the bride had already prepared a home for her new life. Mr. and Mrs. Price left Sunday morning for Dallas to attend a State fair, after which they will return to Littlefield as their home.

UNIFORMIZATION OF VALUATIONS OF PROPERTY A SUBJECT OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

of some means of equalizing property valuations between counties. The report of the State Education Commission, according to L. Tennant, rural education director in the University of Texas Extension. The laws of the state provide for a public school tax of one cent per hundred on the assessed value of property, he stated. The property is assessed by the officials who collect the taxes. The amounts collected are divided into 15 cents may be expended for free text books. The state is apportioned to the counties on the basis of the assessed value of the property. Each county the commission acts as an equalizer. There is, however, no uniformity in the assessed values beyond the county boundaries. As a result, while each county pays the same rate for its property, the state treasury for purposes of 35 cents on each assessed valuation of its property, there might be considerable differences in the tax rate actually levied. One county assesses its property at one-fourth its true value and another at one-half its true value. It is evident that the second county is paying a rate twice as great as the first county. In order to secure some facts concerning the variations in the rates of assessment between counties, the Education Survey staff made an investigation in twenty-nine widely separated counties. It was found that the average rate of assessment was 17.8 per cent of the sale value. The county having the lowest rate assessed its property at 17.8 per cent of the sale price. The county with the highest percentage assessed its property at a rate three times as great as the county with the lowest percentage. The differences are significant, and illustrate the need of adopting some means whereby assessments in all counties may be equalized for purposes of state taxation.

THE BOOTSTRAP CULT

From reading the magazine advertisements of today one can not fail to obtain the impression that the whole-world and everything in it is free, that success in any form is to be had by anyone who has enough ambition to fill out a coupon and that there is no excuse in the world for being poor, sick, unattractive or anything else that people find it desirable not to be.

This bootstrap philosophy once went by the mysterious title of transcendentalism and was preached by Emerson and Kant. There was some inspiration in the old philosophy and there is some in the advertisements of the news, but far apart are their purposes. The new "get-there" cult is a business venture run for profit for its "prophets."

The bootstrap cult is widely spread and multitudinously voiced and has developed quietly but strongly out of deep places. It is up on all the newest science and dogmas. Psychology is its fountainhead, and behind it trail psychiatry, psychoanalysis, the enzymes, glands and a varied assortment of curious information about almost everything. Endocrinology, determination, pragmatism, hedonism
—there is no end to the exasperating nomenclature of the thing and no doubt that it is the product of deep breathing and deep thinking.

And all of this grand mixture of liberated knowledge and fermenting idealism has been reduced by the aforesaid pink-ribbon salesmanship into rose-colored optimism of the most tantalizing attractiveness and is sold in all markets at prices that amaze and astonish.

It is readily recognized wherever encountered by such intriguing and electrifying propositions as "It Is Free," "Big Business Is Looking for You," "You Too Can Earn $10,000 a Year," "Beauty for the Asking."
Its forms are many and its proselytes illimitable. The quack doctor of yesterday capitalized on the public's fear of sickness and death. The new success doctor is capitalizing on the public's fear of poverty and social ostracism. With the new old the doctor is the only wins.

But while it is being flim-flammed the public can ful to the advertisements of strap philosophers for through their own numbers parent prosperity, the great of men and women who since ot help themselves and for constantly before the public of individual advancement.

"This Business Is Mine"

The agriculturist or live-stock man who refers to his farm as "his business"—usually has a business of which to be proud. And you will find upon investigation that he has each branch of his business well organized—in production, financing—and selling.

Financing is of utmost importance. It controls both production and selling. The supplying of the family needs during crop season requires no little business skill. Our store is the farmers' friend, and it is our chief aim to be of assistance to the farmers in catering to their merchandise needs and assisting them in a financial way to make their year's work a success.

There are many ways in which a merchant can assist you, and we take a special delight in doing so. Our stock of General Merchandise is selected with a view to meeting the demands of the agriculturists. Come in, Mr. Farmer—let's get acquainted—tell us your plans and let us make suggestions of ways we can assist you.

The stern school principal frowned over his glasses at the two girlish figures before him. They must be twins, they looked alike, acted and dressed alike. Each was bobbed of hair and both were dressed in pink crepe frocks that reached—not quite to their knees. And what is your name, he asked, indicating the child on the left. Slowly he wrote it down, as she spoke. And what is your twin sister's name? Sir, spoke the other, in a husky voice, I AM THIS CHILD'S MOTHER.

S. S. CLASS GROWS

Members Would Build Class Room Addition To the Church

Each member is requested to bring to the class next Sunday someone who does not attend Sunday school at any church.

A committee composed of Misses Nannie Thelma Wardlaw, Nell Ruth Earnest and Thelma Barnes, was appointed to select a name for the class.

FARM CIVILIZATION IS NOT A MATTER OF MERELY GROWING CORN OR MORE HOGS AT LESS EXPENSE, SAYS WALLACE

Fort Worth, Oct. 18.—"Farm civilization is not a matter of merely growing more corn and more hogs at less expense. Spiritual and esthetic values are a reality. They must be built into the background of our farm life in the same way as the Danes have built their rural high schools," says Wallace's Farmer.
"Our greatest need here—in the United States today is a greater teacher in spiritual values in terms which the farmer can understand.
We can yet build on the farms—the finest type of living which the world has ever seen. Also we have the choice of wrecking this marvelous soil by farming it with people who have come by bitter experience to feel that they are an insignificant cog in a predominantly commercial nation.

I want to say that an agricultural civilization is worth while in its own right. The chief end of a nation which hopes to endure is not to build up merely a city civilization. We must have fine and enduring satisfactions in farm neighborhoods. Here is a matter to challenge the constructive imagination of the biggest men in the United States. For the time being I feel that we need two classes of men, one class of hard fighting, clear thinking diplomats to keep the agricultural point of view to the fore at Washington and the other men of artistic and spiritual temperament who will continually hold before us the vision of the kind of life which we can eventually build."

LOYALTY THE TEST

Most persons who are happy have in them those elements of steadfastness and conviction to which applied loyalty gives visible form. It is, indeed, difficult to conceive of any continuous pleasure in an existence not motivated and spiritualized by unwavering allegiance to certain fundamental tenets of established truth.

Every man, perhaps, is conscious of a desire to be loyal to his God, but it is only when he translates that fidelity into a loyalty to his church that his purpose has meaning. Every man, too, desires to be loyal to his country, but it is only when that wish is translated into vigorous, militant loyalty to the responsible agencies of government that his loyalty is worth while.

No man can be "loyal and neutral in a moment," wrote the Bard of Avon. Men who carry water on both shoulders, who are insincere and superagreeable in their daily conversations, can never hope to command respect or carry conviction in the tests of life. The man who is frankly loyal to those institutions in which he believes and to those persons with whom he is allied, is the man who is admired, even by his enemies.

For the man who is discouraged, downcast by the rush of events, oppressed by petty failures, there is no stimulant like the compelling power of an intensive loyalty. Let the man who is not making good in his work dedicate himself to a new sense of allegiance to those with whom he labors. Out of vigorous loyalty to his fellow-workers and his employer will come the spirit of which success is forged. Let the man whose life seems dull and sordid find a loyalty—a loyalty to his home, perhaps, to his city, to his college, to his church—and life will be transformed for him as the gleam of purpose dispels the clouds of cynicism and mistrust. Out of loyalty to others will come that greater loyalty to self that transmutes a person into a personality, a slave into a servant, and a human into a man.

Let us attain to loyalty and hold fast to it.

MOTHER KNOWS

Friendly Friend—"And how is that fine family of boys and girls of yours?"

Motherly Mother—"Oh, they're at the powder puff age now. The girls are powdering and the boys are puffing."

What doth it profit a man if he spends all his resources in trying to break his competitor, and then fails to do so?

THE GOOD LOSER

It is said that an Indian never cracks a smile at things which amuse "palefaces" but when misfortune befalls, he laughs. Thmvrth tune befalls, he laughs. The Indian's way toward the lighter side may not be the better but in refusing to be cast down by misfortune he sets a commendable example.

It may not be necessary to laugh about it. It may be no laughing matter, but to meet reverses standing up and with face to them is the wiser.
Losing money is the excuse for some to go out and kill themselves. Defeat in an undertaking on which one has set one's heart is not pleasant but there is something worse than losing money or meeting defeat. To lose courage to face conditions is worse.
Some are spoken of as good losers.
That does not mean that they enjoy losing. Nobody does, but in life there are losses and if they come they test the character's genuineness.

The Indian may not be a perfect model in all ways but if he does not stop to mourn over what he cannot help he practices a philosophy that is correct under the circumstances. It's useless to cry over spilt milk, is an old maxim. Far better to hustle around and find some other milk and that is what the individual of resource, the good loser and possessor of courage does. Few if any great undertakings came to fruition without the promoters meeting with repeated failures while on the way to success. Had they stopped to bewail their ill luck, success never would have been gained.

It takes strength of character, courage, to persist when results are altogether adverse. What is in a person may not be revealed until misfortune befalls. When reverses come one may judge quickly whether courage or weakness is dominant.
The world's admiration and sympathy go out to the good loser.

AS the Editor Sees It

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Awake, ye drunkards, and weep; and howl, ye drinkers of wine, because it is cut off from your mouth.—Joel 1:15.

Inspiring bold John Barleycorn, Whaht dangers thou canst make us scorn.—Burns.

OCTOBER TRUE TO SELF

October has been true to itself, and as the month advances it has proven itself more faithful to its seasonable history. Just another week and it will merge into November, which has all present indications of arriving true to form.

The sweetest song ever sung would become monotonous in time, and it is the month of October that brings the change of season putting a new song into life and a blossom on the ripening fruit.

It is during this month that the last vestige of roses begin to disappear, and Mother Nature starts grinding her wind to a smart cutting edge. The tang of the atmosphere sets the sluggish blood of summer going through the veins in a vim, and causes one to realize that the play days are gone with plenty of work ahead.

October means harvest time—and out here on the South Plains of Texas that means joy-time, for the fields are now all whitened and yellowed with the ripening crops of the farm-lands. This month might well be the beginning of a new year, for it is at this time that the real change in the order of the world comes about, rather than in January.

It is only a few weeks now that Jack Frost will be here with his army of engineers bringing about a complete transformation of all outdoors and making preparations for real winter time. But why anticipate—let's enjoy October. Fortunate are we indeed, who live in this section of the state, that October is not merely a name upon the calendar, but that we may actually witness the pleasurable participation of the month's coming and going.

OLD FABLE WORKED OVER

A man there was—very jealous, alas—
Who lived in a house constructed of glass.
He had a neighbor whose modest home,
Was built of rock, from cellar to dome.

The man of the house constructed of glass,
Hurled stones at the other whenever he'd pass,
But the stones recoiled from the walls of rock,
Against the house of glass, with a terrible shock.

Soon, the man in the house constructed of glass,
Had not much left but a shattered mass,
While the man in the house constructed of stone
Kept coming and going, as He's always done.

Everybody says that in ten years the air will be full of aeroplanes. Now is the time for some enterprising young man to invent a bumper for birds.

PLEASE BE BRIEF

We read a placard in a man's office the other day: "The world is in a hurry; please be brief," and we immediately thought of one or two people in this burg whose plethoric loquaciousness has meant the loss of considerable time at the expense of courtesy. Not infrequently is it a case that the man who has little or nothing to do fails to realize the business of his conversationalist.

Poor terminal facilities for authors or speakers often nullify all their excellent wisdom. A man may possess all kinds of useful knowledge but fail in "discerning when to have done."

Brevity is the touchstone of success in any field. You may offend your customer, your reader or your hearer in one respect and please him in another; but if you tire him with your tediousness, you lose him altogether.

The newspaper leads the style today in pith and cogency, and has educated the public to the expectation of receiving much in little. The well-executed cartoon will impart a whole philosophy of life at a glance, or provide soilent comment on current events worth a whole column of words.

Brevity is the soul of wit, yet often they who have wit, or think they have it, are in special danger of saying too much. Some one has said: "It is better to say nothing and be thought a fool than to open the mouth and dispel all doubt."

Please be brief!

AS TO MONEY

Uncle Sam's appeal to the public to use silver dollars in place of paper ones has failed of success, so in order to save a little he is going to reduce the size of dollar bills.

The dollar buys so little now that the weight of silver seems heavier than in the days when it bought more. There is no doubt that the paper dollar wears out more quickly, but it doesn't wear out pockets nearly as fast as silver. And the women, with their own favorite place for carrying their "bank roll" object to lugging around a pound or two of metal in a stocking that isn't built to withstand much strain.

Just now there is more money in circulation around Littlefield than there has been for several months back, and we hope it will continue to increase. But whether it does or not, it seems to us that Uncle Sam might employ his time to better advantage in trying to find ways to make the dollar buy more than in trying to find a way to make it last longer.

BLOND BESS OPINES

"Mother becomes awfully vexed with me because I can't remember what happens right under my nose."

TAX EQUALIZATION

Last week the local Chamber of Commerce received a resolution memorializing congress for a more just and equitable assessment of taxes, and whether or not this particular resolution bears fruits, it is undoubtedly a movement in the right direction.

Under the loose system that has prevailed for years, the burdens of taxation have been distributed in a most unfair and unjust manner. The result of this has been that many bear far more than their proper por-

Heap Big Redskin "Tiny" Roebuck

The famous Haskell Indians at Lawrence Kas., lay claim to the biggest football player of the current season in "Tiny" Roebuck, 6 ft. 6 in. and weighing 240 lbs. At tackle he sweeps two opponents in every offensive play. The team will travel 20,000 miles in playing 14 games, also thought to be another record.

tion of the burden, while a great majority evade their just share of it entirely.

If a system can ever be perfected wherein the property of all, rich and poor, is assessed equally, so that each will bear his just portion of the expense of public government, none will be oppressed, and public revenues will be ample to meet all demands.

Such a system would put a stop to the various kinds of freak legislature, for the purpose of raising more revenue. Property is the only just basis for taxation, and double taxation of property should be eliminated.

THE TIME MAY COME

We've been thinking it over and we have come to the conclusion that the day may yet come when "old-timers" around Littlefield will not be viewing with alarm the "goings-on" of the younger generation; when modern magazines will think up some way of attracting attention without the use of nakedness in pictures; when a man will actually work as hard as he leads his wife and friends to believe he works; when somebody will not always be longing for the "good old days;" when the butcher will return to his old custom of throwing in a piece of liver for the dog with every order of meat—and when all good citizens will realize that there really ought to be a good sidewalk running from the business district of town up to the school center—and, get busy and build it.

FIGURES DON'T LIE

In 1923 the money spent for advertising in this country averaged $1,722,861 a day. And while it was paid out directly by men and firms that used it to give their message to the public, the public really paid for it in the long run.

Advertising is figured as a part of the cost of everything that is bought or sold, and that advertisers found it profitable to spend almost two million dollars a day for printers' ink ought to convince anyone, no matter how dumb he may be, that it must pay.

It is hard to get some merchants to understand that if advertising brings big returns to those who use big space, it is bound to bring proportionate returns to those using smaller space. The best selling goods on the shelves are the ones best advertised. And since the public pays for advertising in the long-run—and expects to pay for it—where is there any argument to support the man or firm that believes as much money can be made without advertising as with it?

LITTLE LEADERS

Why is it that some Littlefield people can't realize that whatever helps the town helps them as citizens?

If Uncle Sam wants to get rid of his $2 bills, he might try putting some of them on sale in Littlefield at $1.49 each.

We can't help but wonder what the Littlefield man who never has anything to do, does when he takes a vacation.

Conscience tells many a Littlefield man when he is doing wrong, but lucky for him it doesn't tell the neighbors.

Somebody is saying the short skirt is sensible, so we presume it will not be long before the Littlefield girls will be wearing them longer again.

We heard a fellow say yesterday that the reason some women around Littlefield like a party line is so they can keep a line on the other party.

Notwithstanding the rapid growth of Littlefield, it carries every mark of being substantial. There is nothing of the mushroom nature about it, consequently no danger of relapse.

Nowadays it is hard for a Littlefield fellow to tell just what to do when there is a savings bank ad in one column of the paper and an attractive auto ad next to it.

We understand that since his wife started in to learn to drive the car a certain Littlefield man is thinking of having the back end of his garage hung on hinges.

There might be fewer divorces in this part of Texas if the men were as willing to let their wives have all the money as they are for them to have all the religion.

PAVEMENT PICKUPS

David said in his haste that "all men are liars," and, according to Tennan Windsor, that lets the women out.

Jess Elms says that maybe the reason why the Lord made Adam first was to give him a chance to say a few words.

T. W. Barnes declares some folks are pleasant only as an investment, and they never waste kindness where they know it won't pay.

"An auto is the most persevering animal I know of," says Carl Smith. "None of them ever butted a train off the track, and yet they keep right on trying to."

If anyone knows what Charley Harless, C. E. Ellis and Gus Shaw are up to, kindly report it to this office. The Leader has got its weather eye on these three birds.

"Happiness is a kind of perfume that you can't put on others without getting some of it on yourself," insists L. W. Jordan. Wonder if that is why he is always "happy."

"One reason there are so many societies and lodges," declares W. G. Street, "is that some people are forever organizing new ones because they couldn't get an office in the old ones."

"Ma" Foster is authority for the statement that the trouble with the modern bride's "going away gown" as she sees it pictured in the daily papers, is that most of them look like they had already gone.

A Springtime Flirtation

By WALTER SCOTT STORY

(© 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

STILSON turned; the girl was turning, too, halting on the street corner. He retraced the few steps intervening, and, with raised hat, smiled down into a surprisingly clean-cut, intelligent face. The girl was a trim little thing, and not really little, either, with an eye direct and matter of fact, yet devoid of invitation or challenge. And she was as pretty as he had thought:

"When I passed I thought I knew you," he said.

"I thought I knew you," responded the girl, in a voice satisfyingly pleasant, but she smiled.

Neither made a move to separate. "Live around here?" inquired Dan. "Not—all the time."

"An artist, I suppose?" He took off his hat and toyed with it with strong, long fingers.

She looked at him quickly and openly. His weather-beaten, good-humored, honest face pleased her.

"No," she answered. "I'm a maid over on Twelfth street."

"No! Are you?" He smiled and put out a hand.

"But not everybody's maid," she rebuked, withdrawing her hand without flurry. "No holding hands—at present." She looked him in the face, and her eyes sparkled tantalizingly.

Dan laughed and shrugged his broad shoulders.

"I used to drive a bus on the Avenue," he declared. "Got a good job now for a private owner—over on Twelfth street. New job."

"I fancy we're both—awful liars—to be plain."

"I'm as much a chauffeur as you are a maid," responded Dan.

"Perhaps," said Miss Brayson. She was very demure now. "Did you really think you knew me on the corner?"

"Thought I'd like to," he said, frankly.

Miss Brayson suddenly glanced at her wrist watch.

"I must be going," she said, with a note that Dan delightedly felt to be reluctance. "No, you need not go along, Mr. Stilson," she added, rather quickly. "I'll go alone; I prefer to go alone, thank you."

"We're going to meet again, surely," said Dan, looking down. "I'm on the level, Miss Brayson."

"I don't think we'd better." "Why not? What's the objection? Don't—like me?"

"Not that—oh, no." She answered quietly, but earnestly.

"You're not married or engaged?" She shook her head, a suggestion of obstinacy in her manner.

Dan looked at her steadily, and then slightly inclined his head.

"All right," he said, quietly. "Good night." He bowed, and did not offer to shake hands.

He watched Miss Brayson as she went across the street to the corner of Fifth avenue.

Miss Brayson, once around the corner, halted and looked back.

"He really knew," she thought to herself, "and, no, I wouldn't—dare." She hurried on, her eyes starry, her thoughts high and lofty—Dan Stilson the center of them.

On the next morning, Stilson got his first call from his new employer. He made a cheerful, respectful response, got into the Grentham limousine and went up to Twelfth street and drew to the curb before No. 203 1/2—dingy enough, but nevertheless the abode of a wealthy man.

The door opened in a few minutes and two women and a little girl came from it and approached. One of the women was without hat and wore a little white apron and carried a grip, but came behind the other, whose hat half obscured her face.

Dan had already opened the door of the car. The first woman and the little girl entered the car, and the woman with the apron—a brown-haired, trim, clear-eyed, very pretty girl—stood alone and held out the bag to the chauffeur.

Dan, taking the grip, stared at the maid, and his heart turned over in his breast.

The maid returned his gaze, her eyes sparkling.

"I'm glad!" exclaimed Dan, in a low tone.

"I'm glad, too," said the girl, quickly. "I thought you were a rich man—playing."

"I thought you were a lady—and you are, to me. Yes, madam," he responded, promptly, turning at a call from the car. "To Luella's, Thirty-fifth street. Yes, m'am." He shut the car door softly, gave a quick wink to the maid and gained his seat and started the engine.

The maid stood at the doorway and watched the limousine turn the corner, her eyes shining.

She's Mrs. Stilson now, and stands daily at another doorway watching for Dan to arrive in the same limousine for his lunch, or for his dinner, as the time may be.

Ceded Land Vanishes

In 1787 South Carolina ceded to the United States what was thought to be a strip of land between the southern slope of the Blue Ridge mountains and the Mississippi river. In 1813, however, the exact parallel cited in the cession was located to be on the north side of the mountain and the ceded strip vanished.

DO WE HAVE THE COURAGE?

Do we have the courage, or the sense to face our own shortcomings, to admit to ourselves and to all concerned our errors and mistakes?

If we do not have, there is little chance that we shall ever be much better equipped to fight our battles than we are today.

Only obstinacy refuses to confess error and only vanity declines to admit defeat. Obstinance and vanity are drags upon the chariot of progress. Unless we cut them loose we do not get very far.

The same truth holds for the individual, the group, the community, the nation. History is replete with instances of fine heads battered against the impenetrable wall of unalterable fact, of fine causes lost by enthusiasts who clung tenaciously to original error, of cities stunted because they were too proud to change their habits, of nations wrecked upon the shoals of their selfish desire.

It is not enough merely to see ourselves as others see us. It is probable that others do not see us as we are, though their appraisal is likely to be more nearly accurate than our own when we are blinded by stubbornness and self-conceit. What is important is that our sole pride in opinion be a pride in seeking the right opinion, that our sole pride in doing be a pride in trying to do as well as we can.

There is no shame in admitting failure or mistake, either to ourselves or to observers. We cannot long delude those who watch, and they will respect us more highly if we frankly confess, when we miff the ball, that it was our fault.

As long as we are not too vain to face the facts of our conduct there is hope for us. But we will never be useful to our teammates in life as long as we hypnotize ourselves into belief that we have made a home run with the bases full after we have just struck out.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT THE BLEDSOE DISTRICT BY THE

Whicker Land Company

1. Where is the Bledsoe district?

The Bledsoe district embraces a large area of good agricultural cat-claw land located in the central west portion of Cochran County.

2. Where is Bledsoe?

Bledsoe is the terminus of the Santa Fe Railroad running west from Lubbock. It is a beautiful town site and is from 1/4 to 7 miles distant from the Whicker Land Co., holdings.

3. What is the nature of the soil?

The soil is very rich. It is from 3 to 6 feet deep, and varies from a chocolate color to a red sandy loam, with a clay subsoil. There is just enough sand in this loam to scour a plow. There are absolutely no rocks or gravel.

4. What is the altitude of the Bledsoe district?

It averages about 3300 feet above sea level.

5. Is it hot there in summer?

No. According to Government statistics the AVERAGE TEMPERATURE through a period of ten years for June is 72 degrees; July 79.1 degrees; August 76.4 degrees. There is no humidity and the sensible temperature is less than the thermometer indicates. In this thin atmosphere the summer nights are always cool and invigorating, cover being necessary for comfortable sleeping.

6. Are your winters long or severe?

For this altitude the winters are exceptionally short. They may be considered mild, since a winter seldom contains more than 48 hours altogether, of weather as cold as 10 degrees above zero. The thermometer rarely reaches zero, and then only for a few hours. There is occasionally some snow, but it has never covered the ground more than a day or so that stock could not graze.

7. What is the length of your growing season?

Six to eight months.

8. Is your section generally healthful?

Remarkably so. But few sections of the country have as low a death rate. The sanitary conditions are such that there is practically no danger of any epidemic.

9. Do you have malaria, tuberculosis or asthma?

The only cases are those which have come here from some other locality to be cured, and they are usually successful.

10. Do you ever have cyclones in the Bledsoe district?

Not within the memory of the oldest inhabitants.

11. What are the disadvantages of this country, if any?

The only one that could be found is perhaps 10 to 15 windy days in February, March and April, when the wind blows sufficiently hard to make it disagreeable to work in the fields. With over 325 sunny days every year this small discomfort amounts to nothing.

12. What is your rainfall, and when does it come?

Twenty-two inches per annum for a period of the last 25 years. Most of the rain comes between April and October, during the growing season.

13. What is the depth of your water?

One hundred and fifty to two hundred and forty feet.

14. Is there any alkali in the soil or water?

None.

15. Have you good drinking water?

The water both from the shallow wells operated by windmills and the deeper wells is approximately 90 per cent pure. It is soft, cold and practically the same as rain-water.

16. Can fruit be raised on your land, and what varieties?

This section is ideal for fruit growing. Practically all the leading commercial varieties of apples, peaches, plums, pears, pecans, cherries, berries, grapes, prunes and apricots flourish here.

17. Do vegetables do well there, and if so, what kinds?

Experienced truck growers get almost incredible yields from such crops as strawberries, cantaloupes, watermelons, pumpkins, asparagus, beans, peas, cabbage, sweet and Irish potatoes, beets, parsnips, carrots, turnips, onions, tomatoes, celery, pepper, cauliflower, artichoke, rhubarb, cucumbers, eggplant, radishes, kale, lettuce,

BIG JOB FOR MEDICAL SCIENCE

What puzzles many is the fact that although the longevity of life is increasing, disease epidemics are becoming rare and more and more once virulent diseases are being overcome, the mortality from cancer, heart disease and tuberculosis shows a continual increase.

There should be no cause for alarm nor is there anything inexplicable in this situation. Physicians were quick to recognize the relation of the lengthening span of life and the growing death rate from cancer, heart disease and tuberculosis and it is because the public has failed to associate the two that many live in constant dread because of the increasing mortality from these disorders.

Cancer, tuberculosis and diseases of the heart are diseases of mature life. Cancer is a disease virtually unknown among young people, and the others are more prevalent among mature men and women. Heart disorders are uncommon among people under 40 years old. Knowing this the medical men put two and two together and arrived to the simple and perfectly obvious conclusion that the only reasons there are more deaths from these diseases is because there are more old people to develop them. When the people were dying twenty years earlier in life than they are today there were relatively few who lived long enough to develop these disorders.

Medical science has got humanity safely through the first fifty years and is only now focusing its laboratory and research work on the obstructions which make the second fifty years so hazardous. There is no reason to doubt that it will be as successful in conquering the ills of old age as it has been in vanishing the diseases of youth.

LIVING FLAGS

The United States Flag Association has issued a call for 1,500,000 new members to comprise 25,000 "living flags" of clubs scattered throughout the nation, each flag or club consisting of sixty-three members, representing the forty-eight stars, the blue field, the thirteen stripes and the flagstaff.

Here is certainly a novel and imaginative appeal that should quickly gain its full complement of recruits for the patriotic work to which the organization has pledged itself. Under the scheme of organization, the organizer of each "flag" will be the flagstaff and each of the other sixty-two members will represent the field, a star or a stripe. Furthermore, each flag will constitute a "definite patriotic unit rendering a definite patriotic service."

The purpose of the association is "to foster reverence for the flag of the United States and to combat all influences, conditions and forces hostile to the ideals, traditions, principles and institutions for which the flag stands."

With President Coolidge as its honorary head, with Elihu Root as its president, with Otto H. Kahn as its treasurer, with many other men and women of national prominence sponsoring it, with membership open to every American citizen at a nominal membership fee and with its patriotic purpose the movement should grow like the rolling snowball and gain the swift momentum of a falling weight. If there are 25,000 communities in the United States having a population of 63 or more persons there will be 25,000 "living flags" before the association's membership campaign closes.

POULTRY

HIGH QUALITY EGGS IN SUMMER MONTHS

One of the biggest problems that faces the poultry producer is the production of high quality eggs through the summer months. The reason for this is the heat of the summer will start fertile eggs to incubate and thereby spoil the quality unless special effort is taken.

The biggest loss can be stopped by the production of infertile instead of fertile eggs. Supplementing and correlating with this effort to produce infertile eggs is the need for careful methods of collecting, storing and marketing.

It is a customary practice for the people who are in charge of enforcing the egg-candling laws to lift the requirements for candling during March and April, for the reason that during the heavy production season the eggs are marketed with good quality. The cool weather, plus the large supply helps to maintain the good condition of the eggs marketed during this period.

Investigations show that at least two-thirds of the egg losses occur on the farm. The remainder is on the truckster wagons, in the country store, on hot freight and express cars and in improper storage. This loss has been estimated at $20 per farm in Missouri, and it is doubtless as high in the other heavy poultry-producing states.

No doubt the rooster is responsible for more of this loss than any other one contributing element. He eats high-priced feed during the summer without producing any benefit and does a great deal of harm in lowering the quality of the eggs. The movement to cull the rooster out of the flock is on as soon as the breeding season is over. The young cockerels can be best developed by keeping them separated from the flock, and feed and market them as soon as possible. The cockerels that are to be kept for breeding purposes can be developed better if kept separate from the main flock.

In addition to the loss resulting from the sale of fertile eggs, there is a further preventable loss from cracked eggs, dirty eggs, shrunken and bad-flavored eggs. These different losses may be lowered by feeding oyster shell, by having plenty of nests, by gathering the eggs daily, by packing them so they will not break and eating all odd-sized eggs at home. Bad flavors are usually caused by feeding unusual feeds or by keeping the eggs in a place where they absorb unpleasant odors.

Scurvy-Preventing Feed Manufactured by Fowls

It looks as if the chicken makes its own vitamin C or the vitamin which prevents scurvy in guinea pigs and humans, according to an investigation carried on at the Purdue university agricultural experiment station.

It appears that chickens do not have scurvy and can thrive for long periods on feeds that do not have the scurvy-preventing vitamin. Mature cockerels were given a ration containing none of this vitamin for over three months. Their livers and kidneys were then fed in small amounts to guinea pigs suffering from scurvy brought on by a lack of a vitamin-preventing scurvy. In about two weeks' time the guinea pigs were cured of scurvy by the livers and kidneys of these cockerels which had received none of the scurvy-preventing vitamin, thus indicating that the vitamin was manufactured by some means in the body of the chicken.

This suggests that the chicken can make this vitamin from sources not available to the guinea pig or to a person and that the lack of this vitamin in the diet of the chicken apparently does no damage. In practical poultry feeding, therefore, little attention need be paid to supplying the vitamin which prevents scurvy, although other vitamins are absolutely necessary and must be provided by the feeds given.

Poultry Notes

Fresh, clean water is necessary to the poultry flock.

Losses from tuberculosis in chickens is usually greater in winter than in summer.

Chick specialists now recommend feeding egg yolk or cod liver oil to prevent leg weakness.

Experience shows that hens must have animal protein in order to lay prolifically. Milk, meatcraps and tankage are the animal proteins most available for feeding poultry.

Cracked barley can be included in the feed ration for chicks after they reach the age of five or six weeks.

It never pays to overcrowd hens—they need a comfortable house, dry and roomy, with plenty of fresh air and sunshine.

Grain feed such as sprouted oats, cabbage, turnips, beets and rape are necessary for the health of the pullets. A disease similar in symptoms to roup is sometimes caused by lack of green

Winter coats, passing in review, reveal both the straight-line and flaring silhouette but emphasize, by repetition, the vogue of fur in collars and cuffs. CITY LAUNDRY

Fashion's Path Leads to Printed Flannels

Fashion, having lost its heart and head to printed silks in summer, is faithful to their memory—hence the success of the new printed flannels that succeed them. Here is a dark red frock, printed in black. It has collar and cuffs of fine embroidered batiste and a black silk jabot.

Coat Frocks Rival the Two-Piece Mode

Coat frocks and other tailored models are usurping the place of the plain two-piece suits in the regard of many women. If one requires a severely plain street dress it may be found, and an example of it is pictured here.

New Style Points in Autumn Frocks

Longer sleeves, higher necklines and wider skirts are among the new style points now established in autumn modes. Greater fullness in skirts is adroitly managed, to preserve slender lines, and in dresses for general wear is introduced by means of box or inverted plaits. Wool fabrics are fashionable and the frock pictured reveals how flattering the new modes are.

Blouse of Silk Crepe Heralds Return of Navy

Concrete Streets in TEXAS

Breckenridge is one of the fastest growing little cities in Texas. This rapid growth brought her face to face with a difficult problem—that of providing paved streets that would stand the immense increase in swiftly moving automobiles and pounding motor trucks.
 When the city's present paving program was launched in 1924, the city officials wanted to build paving that would reflect credit on their administration and give the property owners full value for every dollar spent. After careful investigation they chose portland cement concrete.

The initial contract was for only 16,000 square yards but property owners were so well pleased with this pavement that additional contracts have been let totaling more than 60,000 square yards.

A well planned street paving program is a gilt-edged investment. A concrete street means continuous dividends—not perpetual expense.

Our booklet R-1 tells many interesting things about concrete streets. Write for your copy

SEEN AROUND TOWN

Little girl going to school Monday wearing a heavy coat and rolled down sox. Verily, yea verily!

Insurance agent talking to a man about hail insurance on his next year's crop. "It's the early bird that gets the worm."

A 250-pound woman eating a T-bone steak, accompanied by a half dozen side dishes. Waiter remarked that she must be reducing.

Girl limping because of too tight shoes, but immediately forgot her discomfort and walked correctly as she passed a group of boys.

Farmer driving rapidly while his little wife sitting beside him, was having a hard time to keep her open umbrella from pulling her off the seat. Farmer didn't seem to notice it.

Farmer bringing load of cotton to town in wagon pulled by team of willing workers. One animal willing to do all the work, and the other willing to let him. W. W. thin, other W. W. worker fat. A poor match for a team; poor match for married life.

Under the capable management of our own Chas. This fall is better than ever and will be in Littlefield for six nights starting Monday, October 26, and the tent will be pitched on the city show lot. FRUGALITY, ALWAYS

A Scotchman, wishing to know his fate at once, telegraphed a proposal of marriage to the lady of his choice. After spending the entire day at the telegraph office, he was finally rewarded late in the evening by an affirmative answer.
"If I were you," suggested the operator, when he delivered the message, "I'd think twice before I'd marry a girl that kept me waiting all day for an answer."
"Na, na," retorted the Scot. "The lass who waits for the night rates is the lass for me."

Notice to Farmers

Due to the extreme and unwarranted publicity given the grain crop in the Panhandle this season, the maize head market has gone all to pieces. We suggest that you stack your heads, which will brighten them, and thresh all heads that are not perfectly sound and mature.

A bushel of Red Maize, which is fifty pounds, is bringing five cents per bushel more money than the Iowa corn farmer is getting for a bushel (56 lbs.) of shelled corn.

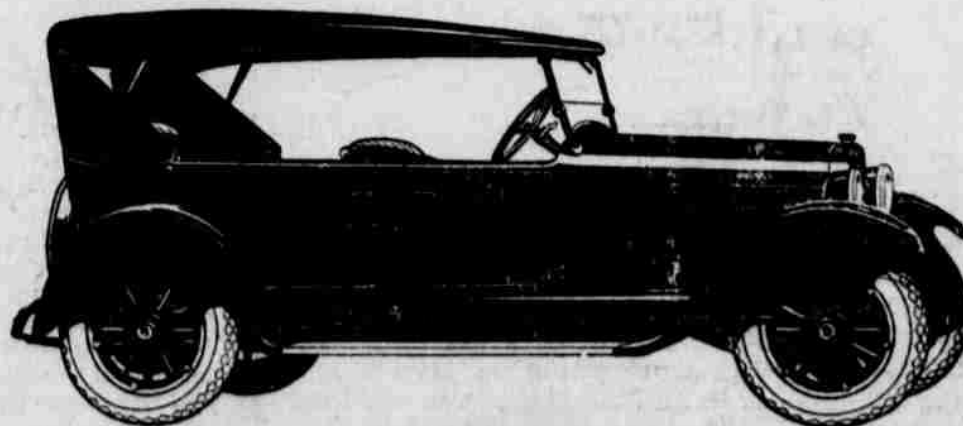

The farmers in the dry area are going to need our heads badly before the next crop goes into the ground.

Money Spent For INSURANCE
Is An Investment

—Whether for Life or Fire Insurance, money expended in this way should never be charged on the debit side of the ledger—for it is invariably a good business investment.
 —For the comparatively small amount insurance costs, no man can afford to be without it. Both property and life should always be kept well insured.
 —We have known instances where fire has reduced a man to poverty, and within a very short time afterward he died, leaving his family penniless. Insurance would have averted such a calamity.
 —We represent leading strong companies of America. Better drop into our office immediately and talk the matter over with us.

Surveyors are at work here enlarging the townsite of Lehman. Evidently the officials consider this is to be one of the big towns on this new line.

It has been announced that it will probably be thirty days longer before freight trains will be moving over the new line. Business interests are anxiously awaiting that time, and there are several new buildings planned just as soon as better freight service can be secured.

The depot is now about finished and ready for service.

New settlers are constantly arriving in this section, crops are all good, and in another year, this vicinity will take its place along with the other well developed sections of this South Plains.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Lamb county—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Orville Tice by making publication of this citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if there be no newspaper published in the Sixty-Fourth Judicial District; not, then in any newspaper published in the nearest district to said Sixty-Fourth Judicial District, to appear at the next regular term of the district court of Lamb county, to be holden at the courthouse thereof, in Olton, on the fourth Monday in November, A. D. 1925, the same being the 23rd day of November, A. D. 1925, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 7th day of October, A. D. 1925, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 134, wherein Grace Tice is plaintiff and Orville Tice is defendant, and said petition alleging that on or about the 8th day of December, A. D. 1924, plaintiff was married to defendant in the county of Palmer, in this state, that at the time of said marriage plaintiff was an infant under the age of eighteen, to-wit: of the age of about sixteen.

That for a short time after said marriage plaintiff cohabited with defendant, but plaintiff and defendant have not cohabited as husband and wife for any time or in any manner since defendant left the plaintiff, to-wit: on or about the 5th day of January, A. D. 1925.

That plaintiff is desirous of having said marriage between herself and defendant dissolved and declared null and void by a decree of this court.

That soon after plaintiff and defendant were married as aforesaid defendant commenced a course of harsh and unkind treatment toward this defendant without cause or provocation on the part of this plaintiff. This plaintiff was at all times kind and affectionate to defendant and managed the household affairs with prudence and economy, but defendant unmindful of his marital vows and disregarding his obligations to treat plaintiff with kindness and affections caused her great mental anguish and humiliation by his misconduct and was arrested on numerous occasions for various offenses and placed in jail and now has several felony charges against him and has among other charges the offense of forgery, swindling by means of giving bad checks and has gone away and left this plaintiff and she does not know of his whereabouts and have not heard from him since said time he left her.

That on the account of the cruel and mistreatment of this plaintiff by the defendant, and his total failure to regard her in her feelings and causing her unbounded mental anguish and suffering as aforesaid has made their living together as husband and wife insupportable. And plaintiff has been compelled to return to her parents and depend upon them for her support and protection and that it is impossible for plaintiff to live again with defendant as her husband.

Wherefore plaintiff prays judgment of the court that defendant be cited in terms of law to appear and answer herein and for judgment dissolving said marriage relations, and that said marriage and for other and further be granted a divorce dissolving their relief, special and general, at law and in equity to which she may be justly entitled, etc., and that she be restored to her maiden name of Grace Clark.

Herein fail not but have before said court at its aforesaid regular term, this writ with your return thereon,

The Texas Utilities Company

It Supplies Light and Power Without Effort on Your Part

That is one of the reasons why service of electricity is growing so fast. It meets the definition of "an essential public service."

No community that expects to grow can get along without electric light and power. No community can grow unless its electric service grows ahead of it to make its growth possible.

Supplying electric power and light is not selling a commodity. It is doing a service. This service must be ready every minute of the day. It must be ample to meet all demands. It must be supplied to all alike.

These things about this service lend it the great public interest that attend it. They are the things that make it desirable for the community and its people and electric utility management to understand each other fully and be perfectly frank with each other.

This company seeks that kind of co-operation with the people that it serves.
