PIONEERING DE LUXE

Who says that the last frontier has vanished? The Federal Emergency Relief Administration has its plans all complete to move several hundred farm families from the Northwest up into Alaska, where agricultural conditions are said to be fine, in the Matanuska Valley.

Every one of these modern pioneers will be settled on a 40-acre tract of improved land, with a good house fully equipped except for plumbing and complete farm equipment, Schools, a movie theater, stores, churches and a creamery and cannery will be built for them by Government. Each complete farm will cost the homesteader $3,000, payable over 30 years with interest at 3 percent, but no interest collected for the first four years.

This, it seems to us, is pioneering de luxe. These new settlers in Alaska will not have to undergo the privations and hardships which the homesteaders went through who built their sod houses in the Northwest a couple of generations ago. We wonder whether they will develop the hardy character and independent spirit of the pioneers who settled our own Great West. Our observation of human nature leads us to fear that they will be more likely to complain that Government hasn't done enough for them.

Perhaps, twenty or thirty years from now, we will see a new drive in Congress for farm relief for the distressed agriculturists of Alaska.

LOOK OUT FOR CARS

The fact that one hundred and fifty three more persons were killed in highway accidents in Texas last year than in the year 1933 and the fact that three hundred and forty two more persons were injured in highway accidents in 1934 than in 1933 is something to make us sit up and take notice.

Along with the increased speed in motor vehicles comes more danger from highway accidents. It is unfortunate that the improving of roads and making them more adaptable to the advance in speed cannot be accomplished.

Human life is the most precious thing in our United States, yet the chance of being killed in automobile accidents is mounting higher each year.—Floyd County Hesperian.

Modern cars must have oil with extra oiliness

THE development since 1931 of motors of 80 to 180 horsepower has brought about correspondingly increased bearing pressures and crankcase temperatures. Motor manufacturers have turned to new alloy metals of extra strength and durability to meet these new conditions.

For full protection of such motors, you must have oil with enough extra oiliness and film strength to get safe lubrication under extreme pressure and heat.

Yet motor oils generally have no more oiliness and film strength now than they had ten years ago. Some oils have less, because over-refining to eliminate carbon and sludge has robbed them of oiliness and film strength.

There is one exception—Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. It, too, is free from carbon and sludge troubles, as its users know after millions of trouble-free miles of driving. But more important, Almen and Timken machine tests prove it has more oiliness and 2 to 4 times the film strength of any straight mineral oil! That added oiliness and film strength protect your motor under all conditions.

Germ Processing—adding concentrated oily essence to highly-refined oil—gives other valuable advantages. Because Germ Processed Oil penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, a "Hidden Quart" stays up in your motor and cuts down starting-period wear. Germ Processed Oil gives longer mileage with greater motor protection, as proved by the famous Indianapolis Destruction Test.

Say "O.K.—Drain"—fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and get full motor protection!

Lose Cafe Fixtures And All Their Personal Effects

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wallace, who, for several years operated a restaurant here, sold out their building recently to Willie McCulloch and loaded their fixtures and household effects into a large truck and headed for Mexico where they intended to reembarc in their line of business.

The truck, a new one, belonged to Lon Mullinax, who was driving. When a short distance across the state line, the cargo was discovered to be afire, but a high wind was blowing and all efforts to stave either the truck or the load of goods were futile.

The cargo, which was uninsured, was a total loss. Of the truck, nothing remained except the motor and front wheels.

Mr. Mullinax stated that the

The matter of the coming attempt to repeal our Texas dry law was made a matter of general discussion and though we are aware that the wets will do all in their power to break down the dry law, we do not believe the people of Texas will ever allow the flood of liquor turned loose in our state. We are therefore confident that our dry law will not only remain on the statute, but in the hearts of our citizenship, and that bootlegging will not only have the profit removed but a penalty attached that will make such people afraid.

After the address by Rev. Griffith the ladies of the Methodist church served a fine noon lunch. The ministers then returned to the Baptist church for an executive session, in which we can only say that some special committees were appointed to cooperate and work with the proper authorities when called upon. The next meeting will be held at Littlefield Monday morning, May 13, at 10 o'clock.

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS BY DR. GUS L. FORD

According to a letter received by A. B. Sanders of recent date, Dr. Gus L. Ford, head of the history department of Texas Technological College, will make the graduating address at the commencement program of the local high school. Mr. Ford is an outstanding speaker and comes to Littlefield and the senior class well recommended.

The class presents a membership of some forty six persons who are expecting to get their diplomas on that day. These folks are seriously concerned with the matter of getting their work in shape to qualify for the above mentioned reward.

The program of graduation will be Thursday, May 23, at 8:15 in the high school auditorium. Miss Lillian Hopping together with officers of the class are to have charge of arranging the program for that day. In so far as possible it is the desire of the school that members of the class be used to give special numbers on the program as a testimony of their efficiency and training.

The class this year is about the same size as last year's class. The record shows that last year there were 45 graduates in comparison to the 46 this year (provided they all make the grade.) The class this year has had many losses. They started the year with something like fifty five members. Many have moved away and left school for one reason or the other before now.

The class this year has a much higher per centage of boys than last year's class. In the class last year there were 133 boys and thirty two girls while in the class of 1935 there are 23 boys and 23 girls. Three of the boys finished their work at the end of the first semester but will go through the exercises to get their diploma with the class.

This might indicate that the school is meeting the needs of one as well as the other.

TEXAS HEROES

By Virgie Denton

A child forever runs down the spies
When men are mentioned to us,
Who gave their lives on the battle line
To establish for us a free land.

Idolized heroes of fronted times,
Let all realize their worth,
Their names forever in music chimes
From cradle side to church.

Then to the Union we chose to unite
The home of strength and Democracy,
For between all kin the tie binds tight,
People like sheep will return to the fold.

On and on with the Union forever,
In strength excelling all others,
Long will we stand triumphing ever,
Our forefathers a background of pride.

From the clank of wagon wheels
To the roar of zeppelins above the trees,
Great men have come always
From the land of the brave and free.

From the first; and on forever
We see each great hero stands,
Glad to be a man of Texas;
The greatest of all modern lands.

SCHOOL PERSONALS

Billy Warren Williams has moved to Klondike and is in school there. Wendell Hill has withdrawn from school because of injuries received in a fall from a windmill tower. Maurice McLain is having his tonsils removed today.

TEXAS

By Faye Foust

Texas is an ideal state to me,
For me to cherish and hold dear,
Because it is a land of the free
And opportunities from far and near.

Texas, the largest and best of the land,
Ranks first in world of prizes.
Many things that are useful to man,
Of all shapes, lengths and sizes.

Texas people are sturdy and strong,
For it is a home of cowboys, brave,
Because people there hardly go wrong,
But spend their time in something to save.

Texas has her nature and play in
And enjoy life as one goes,
And also one state to work in (Even in parts the sand blows.)

But Texas, if the truth were told,
Is a place of the happy and free;
For it is a state of the true and bold
That people from afar long to see.

LAST RITES FOR FATHER OF MRS. PRYOR HAMMONS

Pneumonia Fatal; Succumbs After Week's Illness

I. N. Gilliland, 58, of Carlyse community, 9 miles west of Lubbock, Texas, father of Mrs. Pryor Hammons of this city, passed away at the Lubbock Sanitarium Sunday morning, April 28, at 10:30 o'clock, as a result of pneumonia, which he contracted a week previously.

Mr. Gilliland was the father of Mrs. Pryor Hammons of this city.

Funeral services were conducted at the Baptist church, Southland, at 2 p. m. Monday, April 29, by Rev. O. J. Harmonson of Olney, former pastor of Southland Baptist Church, assisted by Rev. Allen, present pastor. The music was in charge of Rev. J. D. Welch, pastor of the Central Baptist Church, Lubbock and Mrs. Welch.

Services at the grave were in charge of the Masonic Lodge of Southland, of which deceased was a member for many years, assisted by the Slaton lodge.

Interment, in charge of Rix-Bynum Funeral Home, Lubbock, took place in Southland Cemetery beside the body of his wife, who departed this life on March 16, 1933.

The Southland church was not sufficient to accommodate the very large crowd who gathered to pay their last respects, which with the immense beautiful floral offering indicated the great love and respect held for him by the people of the district in which he had lived for the past seven years. Mr. Gilliland was always kind and sympathetic, always lending a helping hand to anyone who needed assistance.

He had visited his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hammons, and only left Littlefield five weeks ago for his home in Carlyse community.

Mr. Gilliland was born in Springtown, Parker County, Texas, and lived in various parts of Oklahoma, when it was Indian territory. He located at Olney, Texas, about 28 years ago, where he carried on farming operations for about eight years. He then moved to Southland where he lived until locating at Carlyse community seven years ago.

He married December 2, 1898, to which union were born ten children, three of whom died in infancy.

He had been a member of the Baptist church for many years, having joined in 1901.

Surviving deceased are four daughters: Mrs. Hammons, Mrs. Hubert Lumpkins of Lubbock; and Misses Verda and Mildred Gilliland of Lubbock; and three sons, W. I. Gilliland of Southland; Herman of Olney and Lloyd of Lubbock; and one brother, W. W. Gilliland of Southland.

Out of town relatives attending the funeral were: D. R. Gilliland of Olney; Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Stearns and children of Santa Anna; and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Cummings of Levelland. Among the friends attending were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lucas and Miss Doris Logg of Littlefield and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Heathman of Tahoka.

Two Are Arrested On Bank Charges

Charged in three counts of a federal indictment with making false entries in books of First National bank about two years ago, Elbert L. Strickland, Lubbock, and Armon W. Logan, the latter a resident of Littlefield, were arrested by Deputy United States Marshals Arch Holmes and L. N. McKelvey. The accused men posted bond of $1,000 each, said United States Commissioner Olive Fluke.

Outstanding Senior Scholars Are Named

By Prof. A. B. Sanders

The committee on scholarship awards reports that the two leading seniors for this year have been determined. Fay Foust has led the class for the past two years. Fay has a general average for these two years of 95. This average is higher than the average of last year's average of 94. Naomi Terry won the award of scholarship last year with an excellent record of scholarship and participation in extra activities. Fay Foust is acclaimed as one of the best students who have passed through the local high school. Fay is one of those well poised individuals who adjusts readily in most any circumstance, as her grades will testify. Fay will give the valedictory address at the commencement program.

The consistent grade getter who ran second was A. B. Taylor. The competition was stronger this year than last in that place. A. B. won the honor with a grade of 92.24 while it was won last year with a grade of 90 by John Jones.

In addition to making high grades in his school work, A. B. has taken considerable pride in representing his school in many activities. He has represented the high school for the last three years in tennis. Last year he won the county championship in extemporaneous speech. This year he and Emery Glass won the county championship in boys debate and represented the school at the district meet. A. B. is active in club work and a leader among his fellow students for best interest of the school as a whole.

The program included musical numbers, talks by representatives of each class, faculty and school board. Sophomores, dressed in sailor costumes, served the meal.

"Ruggles of Red Gap" Noted Comedy Coming to Palace

The amusing account of what happens to a perfect English butler-valet when he is exposed to American ideas of Democracy, is the plot and story of Paramount's "Ruggles of Red Gap," which will be featured at the Palace Theater Sunday afternoon, Sunday night and Monday, with Charles Laughton in the title role.

"Ruggles" adventures begin when his titled master loses him to an American tourist and his wife in a poker game. On his first day in his new job, Ruggles takes his exuberant master out to view London's art galleries and winds up with him in a drunken spree.

Back to Red Gap, U. S. A., a crude but stimulating Western town of the 1900's, goes "Ruggles" with his American employers. And, when his master introduces him to the society big-wigs of Red Gap as a Colonel of the English Army, "Ruggles" becomes the social favorite of the town.

the Sudan delegation at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Hilliard announced the annual meeting and banquet of the local booster group for June 11.

It was arranged to invite Governor James Allred as a special guest and to address the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce at its annual banquet, and if he were unable to attend, to endeavor to obtain one of the following as the chief speaker: Harry Hines of Wichita Falls, newly appointed chairman of the Highway Commission; Walter Cline of Wichita Falls, past president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce; and Clifford Jones, also a past president of the West Texas Booster Group.

A chicken barbecue to be given at the same time with Gus Shaw in charge of the barbecuing was planned.

Mr. Hilliard also brought to the attention of the meeting, on behalf of the merchants, the inconvenience caused by school buses being parked for long periods on Phelps Street, stating that when he was Secretary to the Board this same question was brought to his attention, and that when the matter was mentioned the bus drivers heartily cooperated and that he believed the habit would stop on it being now called to their attention.

Prof. A. B. Sanders stated he would bring it to the attention of the proper parties.

Mr. Hilliard announced that the Woman's Study Club had made the appeal to him that the local booster group contribute some zennia seed towards the club's beautification program.

J. W. Keithley spoke on the sending of a business man to Washington in the interest of the AAA program, and the continuation of the crop reduction plan. It was decided to have the committee in charge take contributions toward a fund for the purpose of disbursing expenses of a delegate from Littlefield.

W. H. Cunningham, chairman of the Littlefield Farm Committee, stated that the farmers were planning on sending eight delegates to Washington.

He also announced the calling of a mass meeting of the farmers of this district for Thursday night at the Littlefield City Hall, at which time the Washington trip, and other important issues would be discussed.

LITTLEFIELD, TEXAS

SLUMBERING GOLD by Aubrey Boyd

FIRST INSTALLMENT

Fog veiled the timbers of Yesterday's Wharf that July morning in a ghostly sparkle, which quivered to the roar of trucks and freshly shod hooves and to the skirling invisible flight of gulls around a phantom ship.

The spectre alongside was the ghost of a ship once dead. On the hood of one of her wheels, as it wavered above the stringpiece, the faded letters "George E. Starr, Seattle," trickled through an ancient glaze of rust and soot. They identified all that was mortal of a condemned side-wheel ferry-boat, which had been dragged from the boneway to make a first, and in a way a posthumous voyage beyond the Sound.

But to the men on the wharf, this derelict was an argosy. Her musty reek of cressote, bilge and old ropes was the aroma of romance. The and daring. Gun scars were not a special matter for comment in this crowd. Unlike the varied mob that followed them later, the men who blazed the Yukon trails in the early fall of '97, were almost all hard-living men of the open; miners, cattlemen, rail-riders and lumberjacks from the Northwest and Southwest; men who knew little of the sea, but every hazard of mountain and desert.

Not far from him, however, stood a younger man, solitary like himself, whose serious eyes traced the fog maze curiously, and seemed to find less novelty in the ship than in his fellow voyagers. Some dunnage bags, tied in sailor fashion, lay on the wharf at the feet of the young observer. A faded reefer jacket fitted his broad shoulders with the snug effect that sailors call "seagoing," and the same stamp of the sea showed in his salt-stiffened boots, his firm poise, and that unconscious half-mocking tolerance, as if he took the world as he found it, and had found it mixed.

Some sense of this, perhaps, drew the musician's eyes for a curious instant on his listener. Looking away again into the veiled shimmer beyond the wharf, he began playing the tune of an old sea ballad.

"In eighteen hundred and seventy-six I found myself in a hell of a fix . . ."

At the quick light of recognition in the boy's face, he masked a gleam of amused interest.

"Is that a Boston song?" he asked. The boy smiled. "My people used to sail ships out of Boston. I've heard the song since I was a nipper."

"Figured it was a line shot you come from that coast," said the accordion player.

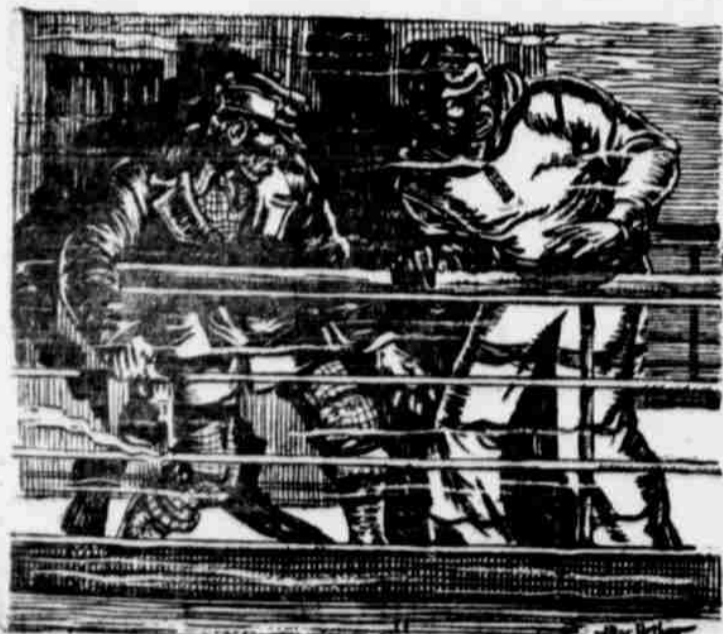

"I'd take you to be from the Northwest," he ventured uncertainly.

"Your eye's good, Bud," replied the musician with a twinkle, as he improvised a series of chords. "But I been up and down a few. Ever hear this . . . ?" and he began, after a deep intake of the accordion, the chesty ballad of Jack Donahue the Highwayman. Then it drifted into music unfamiliar to him; half barbaric and half-devotional melodies of the Western ranges, such as "Bill Roy" and "Montana Kid."

In the midst of this repetory the piping cry of a newsboy who came down the wharf shouting:

"Extra!! Buck Solo Makes His Last Stand!!! Pose Surrounds Bandit in Mountain Pass! Extra!!"

The accordion player lifted his head but did not pause in his playing, though the newsboy's cry echoed a story which had been as keenly argued in the West that month as the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight. An unidentified gunman on a buckskin horse had ridden into a Nevada mining camp at night, trailing a man whom he seemed to have mistaken for some enemy. The mistake had caused a blazing gun battle in the dark street, from which he escaped. Not long afterwards the buckskin reappeared on the Deer's Lodge trail in Montana, where its rider had stopped a stage to search the passengers. Strange to say, no money had been taken, but an express messenger, trying to catch him off guard, had been shot. Dodging a posse of marshals and heading west, he had earned the sobriquet of "Solo" in a camp on the Montana border, having halted there long enough to show a gifted group of Solo players some unexpected phases of that game. When the posse rode in, an hour behind him, the gamblers he had entertained were sketchy in their description. As he had changed horses the marshals had little to guide them, but they suspected him of being a wide-ranging gambler and outlaw known of in the Northwest brawl of the trucks that loaded her was a song of gold.

All hard-living men of the open from the Northwest and Southwest

And there was, in fact, a weaving ill-t of music in the rear. It came from a quieter eddy in the fog where a man was playing an accordion, as he leaned against an upturned bale of hay near the ship's side. Ignored by the crowd and ignoring them, he poured into the din a laxing melody that dissolved there as vaguely as the mist—so skillfully pitched that its source was hardly noticeable. His frayed corduroy clothes, the barked leather of his riding boots, his lean rangy figure and sun-browned skin, did not distinguish him in that weathered company. Clearer light might have defined a certain wary challenge in his good-natured gray eyes, or have drawn attention to an odd scar that cut the corner of his mouth, accenting his look of high temper gallantry of bearing which lends grace to old clothes.

As the fog did not hide the two men from each other's view it had the effect of bringing them nearer, while sharpening the contrast between them. They were strongly built in different ways; as oak and steel are different. The younger man looked sturdier; the man with the accordion concealed under his idle posture the quick resilience of tempered metal. Both were sun-tanned—if the ruddy brown of seaman can be compared to the dry bronze of the desert and the range. The boy's hair was dark and curly; the other's of a sun-rusted color, and cut close, like a trooper's. Both had steady eyes, but where the boy's blue eyes reflected a sober discipline and the positive clarity of youth, the other's held a shade of companion, who had closed the accordion case and was leaning over to fasten it. "You two together?" The boy nodded. It seemed unnecessary to explain that he and the accordion player were only chance acquaintances. Some official for the shipping company, he thought, was making a check-up of passengers. With another glance at the man with the accordion, the officer passed on. The Westerner threw a roll of blankets over his arm, put his accordion under it, and lifting one of the boy's packs with his free hand, wedged through the crowd that was swarming up the gangway. They found the cabin and covered parts of the deck already claimed, but there was a sheltered space under a lifeboat off of the main cabin, where the boy stowed his burden. Noticing that his companion still kept the blankets on his shoulder, he pushed his stuff aside to make more room. The other considered him soberly. "You listen to me like a good gun, Bud, in spite of them stern ideas about the law," he said. "Ever hit a boggy crosin' I'll stand by ye. My name's Speed Malone." And he held out his hand. "Mine's Ed Maitland," the boy answered, somewhat puzzled at his earnestness. Dropping his light pack in the cleared space, the man rolled a cigarette, and while crumpling the edge of the paper, took a raving look along the deck. Then he made a back-rest of the blankets, and stretched himself comfortably, relaxing as from a long physical strain while he smoked and watched the crowd through half-closed eyes—still somehow as observant as ever of each approach. A deep shudder ran through the ship, as the gates rattled shut. Havers, thrown from the bits, splashed into the gloomy chasm between ship and wharf, and the side-wheeler cast off in a ponderous churning of white water, dropping a veil between herself and the pier with a swiftness that owed less to her pick-up than to the apaqueness of the fog. As if the uncertainties of the venture were not high enough, she was no sooner in the channel than the click of dice, chips and coins began to rattle a careless measure above the voices of the mist. Embarked for the realms of gold, the miners were "shooting" their money with an easy mind. The Westerner shifted his attention from the rotted stay lines of the lifeboat, and sat up to roll a fresh cigarette. Maitland noticed that two men, a little to their right, had turned a tarpaulined bale into a card table. One of them looked his way, with an invitation to join the game. When he declined, the man called over to Speed's hand of cards, neighborly oddity broadened vowels clear as a state boundary. "What kind of card Speed, with mind interest?" "We figure they're not. Cats and Ex-Cats

Clashed to see
Just what next year's Squad would be.

Net result was Nethin'-nothin'.
Both outfits got
Lots of roughin'.

Disappointing
Was this starter;
Next year's fans are None the smarter!

This is the consensus, my friends, crystallized opinion following a football game Friday which climaxed spring workouts of Coach Brack's 1935 gridiron machine. You couldn't tell very much about the new tier of Cats which will undergo cultivation for another three weeks before grid fires are banked pending the ball camp trip.

Coach Barksdale's boys, although little out-beefed and out-experienced, brought to light one important fact. They have the stuff it takes to make a football team. Under Littlefield mentor's careful guidance through another three weeks here and 10 days at Palo Duro August, this embryonic outfit might blossom forth into another level as good as the 1934 first ring. We say "might" because good, experienced men for 1935 are scarce as molars in the proverbial can.

While more Wildcat squadsters turned out for spring practice than could possibly be outfitted, this shortage of really first-class experienced material pops up repeatedly. The boys are more than eager to play, and are working like Trojans to get on the first eleven. But the fact remains that prospects are not quite as good at present as they were at the same time in 1934.

Leave it to Coach Brack to do his very best toward making the Wildcat machine formidable in District 5 next season. The Littlefield coach has mentored district champions before this, and has a bag stuffed with good, workable maneuvers. Chances are that his lads will hit their stride by the time actual play begins in late September or early October. Anyhow, this sept. is brewing its most powerful and luck potions against the coming of the 1935 season.

GOLFERS OUTDO DIMMITT SQUAD

Locals Win 5 Matches And Drop 2 Sunday

Carding their best medal play this year, seven Littlefield golfers strode over the sandy local fairways to five wins and two losses over a Dimmitt team Sunday afternoon.

Unable to bring its entire first squad, the Dimmitt team was made up partly of Friona players. Results, with Littlefield players named first, were as follows:

Eagan lost to Webb, 3 and 2; Mayhew downed Lange, 5 and 4; Lyman lost to Roden, 5 and 4; Arnold defeated Stark, 2 and 1; Aldridge outstroked Wills, one up; Cundiff won from Harris, 3 and 1; Anderson drubbed Blanton 5 and 4.

E. C. Cundiff is dickering with Muleshoe players for a tourney to be played here Sunday.

trouble handling flyballs, and virtually no trouble at all with grounders during Monday night's exhibition games. That is, insofar as the lights were concerned. Flying sand caused most of the slips. Except for an adjustment or two, placement of the poles is fairly satisfactory.

The old "disappearing ball" trouble which bothered outfielders a little at the first of last year, popped up a couple of times. But Manager Sam Batton of Texas Utilities here planned to eliminate this shortcoming by moving the two poles at each of the backstops into the outfield.

Under this arrangement, every player on the field would have lights both before and behind him. The outfield lights would be focused higher to keep the glare out of the batter's eyes, and the "disappearing fly-ball" jinx would be completely eliminated, they say. This is to be done before the first night league game Monday.

Folks who worry about a possible hard-hit foul breaking a reflector need worry no longer. Mr. Batton has comfortingly reassured us that it would be a tough job to break these pressed steel, specially enameled reflectors with even a hard-thrown rock.

Bulbs, of course, would crumble under a heartily-smitten ball, but chances are about one in a thousand that a foul ball would crash into any of the bulbs at the top of poles as lofty as those at the lot, (we hope.)

So turn out Monday night and watch four league teams inaugurate official night season play. You might even get to see Willie Hall's Rab-Rah Club in action—who knows?

TWO GRID TEAMS IN SCORELESS TIE

Oma Carpenter Is Queen As Cats, Exes Clash

Coach Barksdale's 1935 litter of Wildcats battled a group of senior classmen of the 1934 squad to a scoreless tie at Wildcat Field Friday afternoon.

Miss Oma Carpenter, representing the junior class, was elected football queen and ceremoniously crowned between halves while fans roared.

While on the heavy end of yardage gained in all departments, Capt. Yantis' team lacked smoothness, and was repeatedly called back on long plays.

The 1935 machine which the lean Littlefield mentor will dismantle for the summer in a few days turned in a fairly satisfactory performance Friday. Steady workouts in past weeks have stiffened the line and oiled the workings of a promising backfield led by Bob McKnight. "Two teams on the 1935 squad will tangle in a final game just before examinations," Coach Barksdale said this week.

GRAND DRUG COMPLETELY REMODELED AND REDECORATED; NEW 40 GAL. FOUNTAIN INSTALLED

The Grand Drug Store has been completely remodeled and redecorated throughout, making it one of the most modern establishments of the kind in this section.

Daniel Bryan, formerly of Hart, purchased the stock and fixtures from Carl Doss about three weeks ago, and immediately set about improving the establishment.

Mr. Bryan, who operated a drug store in Hart for the past five years, is an experienced and registered druggist. The Hart establishment is being managed for Mr. Bryan by Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Reynolds of that city.

Green and cream are being featured as the color scheme in redecorating the interior, the fixtures being decorated light green, and the floor a two tone color in tile effect.

The entire floor space is being utilized in the drug store, with the exception of the space occupied by Jack Farr's Jewelry.

An elaborate All White Knight fountain with a forty gallon ice cream capacity, 100% refrigerated, has been installed.

Other new fixtures have been installed, including a number of open display cases.

The improvement also includes the installation of a new magazine case, and it is the plan of Mr. Bryan to carry a full line of magazines and daily newspapers.

A complete new stock of drugs has been purchased and a new prescription room will be built at once, with swinging doors leading to the main store, rendering the Grand Drug Store one of the most complete prescription departments in this section.

According to Mr. Bryan the improvements and new fixtures and installation of same, represent an investment of $3500.

The personnel of the Grand Drug Store organization consists of Mr. Bryan, Floyd Wilborn, also a registered druggist, who has been employed at this store since January 1st, coming here from Olney, Texas; Scott Webster, and Joe Dan Bryan, son, who assists after school and Saturdays.

Joe Dan, who is a junior in Littlefield High school, came here with his father three weeks ago. His mother and sister will move here as soon as school dismisses for the summer. She is now attending school at Hart.

The firm of Briggs & Pruett are doing the decorating, and the Littlefield Woodworking Company, of which A. J. King is proprietor, is installing the woodwork.

Jack Farr, who uses one window for his jewelry display, has a sixteen foot space in the store. He has purchased a complete new stock of jewelry and installed four new jewelry cases.

Purchasers Paying More Cash Down Reports Pontiac

An analysis of 3,500 retail sales of 1935 Pontiac cars reveals that car buyers are laying down more actual cash than they have for years, that a large percentage of cars over three years old are being traded in and that a high percentage of purchasers are stepping down from a higher price class. The occupations of the buyers, also, is interesting.

The figures were given out by A. W. L. Gilpin, vice president and general sales manager of Pontiac Motor Co.

"A study of the purchasers of new cars this year, their vocations, the cars they have been driving and how they are paying for their new cars, gives a pretty good cross-section of the progress of recovery in this country," says the Pontiac sales chief.

"For instance, when salesmen of all kinds lead the field in the purchase of new Pontiacs, there must be a pick-up in general business. They must be selling the products of the country. This class has supplied 16.8 per cent of our new car business so far this year.

"Running a close second to salesmen are professional men with 15.9 per cent of the total purchases, a pretty good indication that the doctor is getting paid, that people are seeing their dentist at least twice a year, and that engineers and architects are getting busy.

"Then third in the list of purchasers are executives with 13.1 per cent, a sure indication that gloom is on the way out. Fourth are the tradesmen—the merchants whose business has picked up and who are making collections. Their percentage of the total was 12.1.

J. S. Hilliard and F. O. Boles to Attend Rotary Meeting

The Littlefield Rotary Club will be represented by J. S. Hilliard, president, and F. O. Boles, secretary, and possibly other members, when the Rotarians from the 41st district of Rotary International (Northwestern Texas) assemble at Midland, Monday and Tuesday, May 6 and 7, for their annual reunion.

Fifty-two such gatherings are being held in the United States and Canada this spring. The total attendance at these conferences is expected to be more than fifty thousand for they are high spots in the Rotary year. They rank second only in importance and interest to Rotarians to the international convention which is to be held this year in Mexico City June 17-21. Delegations from every Rotary club in this district and a number of prominent Rotarians from other parts of the country are expected at the Midland district conference. Ed. R. Bentley, chairman of the club service committee, and member of the extension committee of Rotary International will represent that body at the Midland gathering. His speech on the ideals and purposes of Rotary will be one of the features of the program.

On Sunday night, on the mezzanine floor of Hotel Scharbauer, a musical program and informal reception will entertain the early arrivals.

Monday afternoon, May 6, a cattle round-up, in the style used before the days of corrals and fences, will be staged by Rotarians Clarence Scharbauer and his cowhands at one of his ranches 12 miles west of Midland. Calves will be roped and dragged from the herd and branded in front of the Rotarian audience. District Governor Tom Taylor will rope and tie a calf. A chuck wagon supper will follow.

Monday noon a bridge luncheon for Rotary Anns and visiting women will be given at the Midland country club by the Rotary Ann club
