Don't Slurp That Soup

It's a harrowing experience to eat luncheon publicly with an etiquette expert. Not that Amy Vanderbilt, a friend from the days before she was a recognized and recognizable authority, nagged me about drinking my soup south instead of north. It was the other at the nearby tables.

The meal featuring a magnificent chasseur souffle, might just as well have been cardboard for the pleasure it gave me. I absorbed every morsel under the close scrutiny of the surrounding diners, who apparently were waiting eagerly to find out if Amy personally committed any blunders, and I must say the temptation to curl an elegant picnic away from the cup, slurp liquids, talk with a full mouth and otherwise satisfy the audience, was almost irresistible.

"I've noticed that when I go to a party where they are people I don't know well, things sort of get tense when I enter," she remarked, breaking off a bite-sized portion of pop-over and buttering it dainty. "People seem to get self-conscious. So I make extra efforts to be easy and casual."

There are two really difficult problems involved in helping people to mind their manners, however. "People telephone me at all hours of the day or night with emergency questions," she lamented. "Long distance calls, too. And most of them are about weddings."

"Last night a woman called around midnight to ask me if it was all right to ignore, on her step-daughter's wedding invitation, the fact that she actually is not the girl's real mother. The mother, divorced and remarried, had been out of their lives for years. But she reasoned that you shouldn't kill a woman off even on an invitation."

Amy told the woman that the invitation should read: "Mr. and Mrs. John R. Smith request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Louella . . ."

Etiquette problems posed by divorce are the subjects of most emergency queries. A plan she vetoed firmly the other day was that of a mother of twin girls who planned a double wedding at which she wanted to have their real father escort one twin down the aisle and their step-father take the other.

"A little too modern," was Amy's opinion. "Light shock people. I suggested she use a couple of uncles or old family friends instead."

All this comes under the heading of work. Amy objects mildly, however, when her family has to live up to her reputation. "They even expect our dog to have impeccable manners," she complained.

Japanese House Is Granddaddy Of American Ranch Style

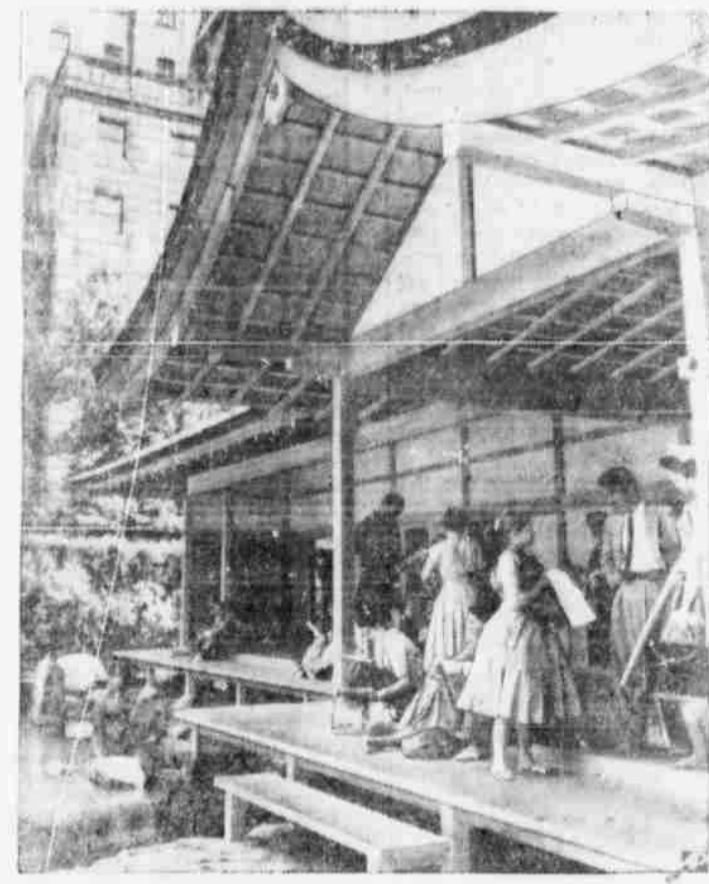

By JOY MILLER

ORIENTAL KITCHEN . . . Japanese housewife of three centuries ago cooked on this igloo-type stove. Today's Japanese kitchen is modern.

These dwellings are easy on the eyes, hard on the knees and preventive for claustrophobia. The house on display in New Museum of Modern Art is a one-story house looks like a small granddaddy of the American ranch-type. Its architect, Junzo Yoshimura, says: "The principle is the same. The similarity to Western architecture is the reason it was chosen for the museum for display in its garden until the mid-October. Starting with the Wrights, American architects have been increasingly influenced by Japanese ideas of open plain surfaces and skeletal construction. The house, based on 16th and 17th century Japanese architecture, is basically the same type as built now—although contemporary styles are greatly simplified. The lumber is not of the highest quality. It is made in Nagoya, Japan, and is made in more than 600 crates, which house was reassembled in New York by Yoshimura and his workmen he brought with him from Japan. The house is a thousand up—visitors exchange their shoes and sandals in the entrance and tread gingerly over the tatami mats in the bare rooms. The broad veranda overlooks Japanese gardens. When you come upon the house, you notice the curved roof of reddish-brown Japanese cypress bark, supported by isolated columns of dark wood. You run a hand over the roof, placed to an almost unbelievable smoothness. Yoshimura says the polished effect is accomplished by the Japanese plane, a handless tool that the workman pulls toward him instead of pushing away. The walls do not support the roof but are hung like curtains on the framework. They are sliding screens of paper or wood, with an infrequent thin wall of plaster. Consequently the house is open, light and flexible—convertible from five rooms into one to chapel that is brimmed in feeling that is probably purely Occidental anyway. There is no furniture, except for five square orange cushions on the floor in the main room and built-in desk and cupboards. Dining, which is carried to my room in the house for sleeping. ## Blue Ribbon Dish For Dog Days

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

SALMON QUICKIE — Takes no time at all to prepare

THIS RECIPE in mind for dog days when you want to heat up your family for any length of time, but want to give your family at least one hot dish for lunch or dinner. We call it Cover-up Salmon. It's quickly put together, broiled in a matter of minutes. We tried this entree, Al-McComb—one of the best cooks in town—was helping us test recipes. After immediately went to work on a variation of our salmon and we are giving you here because it has a delightful touch. This dish is frankly fancy looking but don't let appearances fool you. It is filling enough for the heartiest male appetites. The mask of mayonnaise is a generous serving of the fresh fruit course. You might serve cantaloupe rings filled with fresh blueberries or blackberries. Or sliced fresh peaches halves sprinkled with a little finely diced preserved (syrup-packed) ginger. Or just offer big slices of plain icy-cold watermelon!

Hot Rodders' Learn Safety

COVER-UP SALMON
Ingredients: One 1-pound can salmon, 4 slices of bread, 1 tablespoon lemon or lime juice, mayonnaise.
Method: Open salmon can and carefully turn out salmon in one piece. Cut salmon into 4 slices. Use tongs to place salmon on broiler rack to toast on one side. Place salmon using wide spatula, on underside of bread rounds; garnish with lemon juice. Place broiler rack with surface of about 3 inches below heat. Broil 5 to 8 minutes, or until salmon is heated through. Watch so heat is necessary. Cover top sides of salmon with mayonnaise about 2 to 3 minutes longer. Makes 4 servings.
Variation: Place a thin slice of onion on top of salmon putting under broiler. Garnish mayonnaise with paprika. Place tomato slice on each salmon round; top each slice with half a hard-boiled egg and surround with lettuce.

If your teenager takes out his youthful exuberance on the family car, here are some useful methods to get him and his friends to take it easy and slow down, as tried out in various sections of the country. "Hot rodders show off safely in a teen-age roadster, sponsored in many communities by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. This is a series of tests in driver skills. The "take it easy" roadster teaches drivers' economy as the youngsters try to see how many miles they can get on a gallon. Racing against poor features an obstacle course. First a pole off-center rides over the course obeying all traffic rules. Then contestants take the same. Object of this race is to get youngsters to obey the rules instinctively. The "drug strip," which started in California, is a straight line track devised with the hot rodder in mind. If the test-takers want to see how fast they can go, this is the place to do it, where it is supervised and free from pedestrians and other cars. Hot rod clubs have sprung up all over the country to teach all over the country to teach members to abide by safety rules. Another way to cut down on the 2,350,000 yearly accidents in which persons under 20 are involved is

Animal Health
Even on the best-managed farms, carelessness with poisonous materials used in farming may exact a costly toll among livestock, the American Foundation for Animal Health warns animal owners. "In fact, the risks may be even greater on well-managed farms because of their greater use of chemical products, as in weed and insect control," says the foundation. "For example, cattle readily eat plants treated with sodium chlorate, and the results are often fatal. They will by-pass plants treated with arsenic, but may be poisoned by drinking from puddles in fields recently treated. Various other weed killers are in themselves harmless to animals but may cause chemical changes in plants, which, when eaten, produce ill effects." Fertilizers containing nitrogen should be placed well out of reach of livestock. So should discarded paint cans, old storage batteries, and other products containing lead. An animal may be poisoned after just a few licks, the foundation says. Certain chemical compounds are

Texans In Washington

By Tex Eastly

Washington, July 28—Congress received some sharp insights into the life of a "wetback" during hearings on two measures designed to help choke off the illegal crossing of the Rio Grande by Mexican farm workers. One of the bills would authorize seizure and forfeiture of any vehicle found transporting wetbacks. The other would make it unlawful knowingly to hire a wetback. A senate judiciary subcommittee heard pro and con testimony on both measures, and in the latter of words these graphic descriptions of what some wetbacks get into after they cross stood out:

In Brownsville, a wetback was found hiring another wetback. The Rev. Matthew H. Kelly of Houston told of a Mexican woman who crossed the Rio Grande illegally and landed a job. She had to hire a fellow illegal alien as a baby sitter for her infant while she worked in a restaurant. Another witness, Nicholas Dragan, CIO representative at Phoenix, said the wetbacks were becoming "foxhole experts." He said they dig their foxholes on the edge of fields where they're working. When they see border patrolmen coming, they jump in and pull alfalfa and weeds over themselves so they can't be seen. Dragan endorsed the vehicle confiscation bill but indicated it might not set so well with some southern California taxi drivers. Many unscrupulous hackers already are—complaining, he said, effective working agents, but should never be left where animals can get at them. Similarly, salt is vital to animals, but when it becomes a brine it may be toxic to pigs. "Prompt treatment is the key to saving animals that are poisoned," the foundation advises. "The veterinarian should be called the moment the first poisoning symptoms are noticed."

Around the Capital: The tall door to the reception room in the offices of Sen. Price Daniel now bears this friendly sign: "Welcome. Walk In." It was put up when Mrs. Emma Ward of Austin, the senator's secretary, decided some visiting Texans, despite the state's bold reputation, might be a little timid about coming in. She had one of the Capitol carpenters fix up the greeting plaque. Miss Alla Clary, secretary to Congressman Sam Rayburn of Bonham for 35 years, has just returned from a 10-week tour of Europe. She flew to Germany, where she stayed for a week with Mrs. Jane Morgan Lagler, former Bonham woman who once worked for Rayburn. She traveled over Switzerland by train, and throughout Italy by bus. "It was a wonderful trip," she said, "but I still recommend that everyone see America first."

I am glad to have had a prominent part in the development of the Lamb County Schools to the point that every white child in Lamb County can start and finish in a Fully Accredited Twelve Grade School System. That is something a very few counties of Texas can say.

Try Broiled Turkey—It's Real Good

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

TURKEY, broiled to a golden brown, stays hot on an electric glass tray

BROILING TURKEY is a kitchen technique that deserves to have wider acceptance. We first got interested in this way of cooking the bird via one of our favorite cookbooks—published early in the century. There we found it featured on at least half a dozen menus. Three of these late-Victorian ways of serving broiled turkey are particularly appealing, with broiled bacon and water cross, grilled sweet potatoes on thin slices of lightly broiled Virginia ham.

If you want to try broiling turkey, get yourself one of the young broiler-fryer turkeys now available. We have used the four-to-five pound (ready-to-cook weight) turkeys, with great success, and they are meaty enough to give generous servings.

To prepare the bird for the broiling pan, have it quartered and the neck, wing tips, feet and spinal bone removed. Clean in cold water and dry. Before broiling, we like to rub the quartered turkey with a generous amount of olive oil and dust it with paprika; we season with salt and freshly-ground pepper after broiling.

Use the bottom part of the broiling pan without the rack, or some other shallow pan, and place the turkey skin side down on it. The top of the turkey should be 7 to 9 inches from the heat, and the heat or pan should be adjusted so that the turkey begins to brown lightly in about 10 minutes. If it doesn't brown too quickly, your pan will have to be lower or your heat decreased. We brush the bird with a pastry brush—with the fat and drippings in the pan, or add more olive oil if needed. We turn the bird once in a while, according to the way it is coloring, until it is cooked through and the skin is crisp. This takes us about an hour, but a longer time may be necessary. You may use butter, margarine, or some other fat for the turkey, and you may also season with salt and pepper before broiling.

If you have an electric glass tray you will find it perfect for serving. We like to cut the wings from the breast meat, and the drumsticks from the thighs before putting the broiled turkey on the tray; this makes eating easier and also helps family and guests to share their favorite parts. With the tray plugged into a convenient outlet, the turkey stays deliciously hot without drying out.

We prepared a broiled turkey supper, recently, with a quick chilled cream of plum soup to make the soup use a can of New England type clam chowder or a can of vichyssoise, a can of minced clams (about 7-ounce size) and a cup of cream or milk—or a mixture of cream and milk—to start with, and more cream or milk to get the flavor and consistency you like. Let the soup stand in the refrigerator long enough to blend flavors and chill. At serving time, sprinkle each serving with minced olives; or use finely chopped green onion tops—though olives are best. With the broiled turkey we served rice and chutney. To prepare the rice, steam a cup of converted type rice according to package directions until the water has been absorbed. Toss with 2 tablespoons of butter or margarine and 1 teaspoon (or more) of curry powder and a handful of pimiento nuts. If pignolias aren't available, use slivered blanched (but not toasted) almonds. Our salad was a variety of greens—lettuce, romaine, escarole, and celery—with thinly sliced cucumber and French dressing. We had a broiled cake for dessert and a bowl of cherries. The cherries were floated in ice water in a crystal bowl—a French and Italian way of serving to which we wish to add a touch of cherry sauce. When serving a turkey dinner, try this way of broiling the turkey. For a summer salad and melon.

Smith-Badger Winning Streak Stopped At Eight By 2-2 Tie With V.F.W.

By Charles Duval Jr.

Monday night in the Little League park, V. F. W. played a ball game against the League leader, Smith and Badger, to a 2 to 2 tie. It was the first tied-up ball game of the season.

S. & B. and V. F. W. were holding fast in their fielding and chunking and the results for both sides in the first inning were 3 up and 3 down.

In the top of the second, Jackie Gray managed to drive a hot grounder between second and first to grab a sack. But as the first two batters before him had grounded out to first, the side was retired when the next batter went down swinging.

S. & B. missed all chances of getting a man on base as they were up and down in order.

Keith Blair, a slugger for V. F. W., managed to get free transportation to the first sack after the preceding batter fanned; but he was caught in a double play at second and retired the side. The score was still 0 to 0 in the top of the third.

Ronny McWilliams, pitcher for the Veterans, had a no-hitter going until the bottom of the third. He started off well in this inning, striking out one, and having another ground out to first. But his mark was shattered by Maurice Powell's double into left-center field. Powell, however, did not get the chance to score, when the following batter flied out to pitcher.

The Veterans started off badly in the top of the fourth, the first slugger flying out to short. But in a three-hit rally, V. F. W. managed to get four lads aboard the bases. Billy Paek, who singled, crossed the plate; but unfortunately the run did not count, the side being retired before he made it home. Tommy Perry managed to get safely on first when shortstop muffed the ball. Jackie Gray and Douglas MacMillan both slammed out singles to enable them to get on. The score was 1 to 0 in a battle - between - pitchers - game, top of the fourth.

S. & B. came right back in the bottom of the fourth, tying up the score as Wendell (Duckett) Johnson got on base by a bad throw from pitcher, which hit him. He then stole first and second and came running toward home as the catcher missed the ball. But the catcher retrieved it and "Duckett" started to run back to 3rd. Then followed a series of throws from catcher to third and vice-versa, with Johnson in the middle. The catcher finally missed the ball and Johnson came safely home to tie it up. Adolph Hodger walked and stole second and third; but he, as well as Billy Morgan, who got on the sack with a single, died on base as two struck out; one grounded out.

In the top of the fifth, the Veterans scored another run. This time it was Terry Gage, who, after two men away, singled and tried for second. The second catcher missed the throw and Gage was allowed to take 2nd, 3rd, and go on home standing up. No more runs were scored, as the next batter grounded out to first to retire the team. The Veterans, after five innings of play, were leading 2 to 1.

S. & B. rallied in the bottom of the fifth to bring home another score, thus tying it up again. It was Maurice Powell who hit a single and stole to 2nd and third, and wound up crossing the plate. He was driven in by the bat of "Duckett" Johnson, who singled but was tagged out at home. Johnson died at second as the following slugger fanned. This was all the runs S. & B. got for the night, and all the hitting, except for Morgan's tremendous, solid, triple-sacker against the fence. He missed the chance to score, when, as he slid into home, he was tagged out.

Billy Morgan had relieved Smith on the mound in the top of the sixth, and struck out two Veterans very promptly. But then Tom Perry hit a single, followed by Gray, who drove him in for the tying run. That was all the scoring done for the remainder of the game.

Powell led S. & B.'s hitting with a 2 for 2 tally. Morgan followed with a 2 for 3 count, one being a triple. "Duckett" Johnson wound up the A. & B. hitting with a 1 for 2 average.

Jackie Gray was the slugger of the night for V. F. W. His count was 3 for 3, all singles. Then Gage, Paek, Perry, and Stevenson all were tied up with a 1 for 3 score.

WOW Takes Third Place With Win Over Rotary

The Woodmen of the World Little League team took on the little Rotarians Tuesday night and won a tight 4 to 2 contest. This puts the Woodmen in undisputed third place.

As the visiting team, Rotary came to bat first but got only one lad on base. Bennett Hutchinson, the center-fielder, got a hit and was on first before the throw. But as the two batters preceding him and the one following him were retired, Hutchinson was left on base.

Jerry Drake, slugger for WOW was the only one to connect with the ball in the bottom of the first. He hit solid two sacks. But he also died on base as the side was retired.

In the top of the second, Rotary's first two batters went down, but Bobby Dow managed to get a walk, but again, like Hutchinson, died on the sack as the batter following struck out.

WOW, after getting two men tucked away, managed to put Bobby Glenn on base because of a bad throw which hit him. Rex Foust came up and got a single, driving Glenn to third. Still, no runs were scored as the two lads were left on the bags.

Steve Sullins, Rotary's lead-off man in the top of the third, walked. Then Eugene Reeves singled, driving Sullins to third. These menacing runners were held off, though, as Duane North, the Woodman pitcher, retired the side with the boys on the bags.

In answer to the Rotarians's no-run batting period, the WOW sluggers slammed out five hits and drove in three runs. Jerry Drake, Duane North, Dee Pierce, Gene Alexander and Jim McGee all singled to constitute a quick rally for the Woodmen. Drake, North, and Pierce scored, but Alexander and McGee were left on the sack.

In the top of the fourth, Rotary made only a feeble attempt to score as Keith King made it to first on an error of the first sacker. After that it was three up, three away.

At this point Bennett Hutchinson replaced Shelly Duval on the mound for the Rotarians. Although he hit two batters, the only hit he gave up was when Pierce swatted the ball into left-center field for a double. Gene Alexander and Tom Morgan were the two who got free transportation to first. Morgan scored as Pierce clouted the ball, but Alexander died on first as the side was retired.

Again, only one man reached the sacks for Rotary in the top of the fifth. Spike Jones walked, but didn't get the opportunity to score and was left at first.

No more scoring was done by the Woodmen, although they got Foust on the sacks on a walk. Foust made it to second, but died there as the teams changed places.

Rotary burst loose with a spree of hitting which enabled them to bring two scores across the plate.

and he scored the winning run of the contest.

Lupe Gonzales, the Pony pitcher, walked the first batter. The second batter was retired as he popped up to third. The runner on the sacks was coming around, though, as he stole to second and got on third on a bomer. Then came a spectacular field play by Jones. The Olton first baseman had hit into right field and Jones was racing to reinforce right fielder. But the right fielder misjudged the hit and it bounced off his arm. The game was saved as Jones scooped out his glove and caught the ball off the right fielder's arm for two flyouts.

Gonzales ended the game by striking out the next batter and retiring the side.

Pressley led on hitting for the Ponies with a 5 for 5 average. Gonzales was right behind him with a 1 for 3 count. Dugan had a 2 for 4 tally; and Jeffries, Gonzales, and Goldstein all had 1 for 3 counts. To end up the Ponies' hitting, Jones and Duncan each had a 1 for 4 score.

This gives the Ponies an average of .833 with five games being won and one lost.

Lubbock Trims Littlefield 12-2

Lubbock's Boosters broke out of their batting slump and rolled to a 12-2 victory over Littlefield Sunday in an exhibition semi-pro baseball game.

The Boosters tallied all their runs in the first three innings. They opened with two markers in the first, added three in the second, and broke out with seven runs in the third inning.

Bill Jones was the starting and losing Littlefield pitcher, but Williams was the victim of the seven-on third frame. Lefty Fry came on in the fourth canto and blanked the Lubbock nine the rest of the way.

While the Lubbock batters were fattening their averages, slender Glenn Webb was mowing down the Littlefield team. He hurled the first four innings and left with a 12-0 lead. Joe Ater replaced him, and would have preserved the shutout except for a two-run error in the last inning.

The Boosters play Littlefield at 6 p. m. Thursday at Lubbock's Chapman Field.

Ponies Trip Olton 13-12

In Olton, Friday night, the Littlefield Ponies racked up another victory as they tripped the Olton lads by a slim 13-12 margin.

Olton held the high score throughout the early innings, piling up a 9 to 2 lead, before the Pony lads rallied.

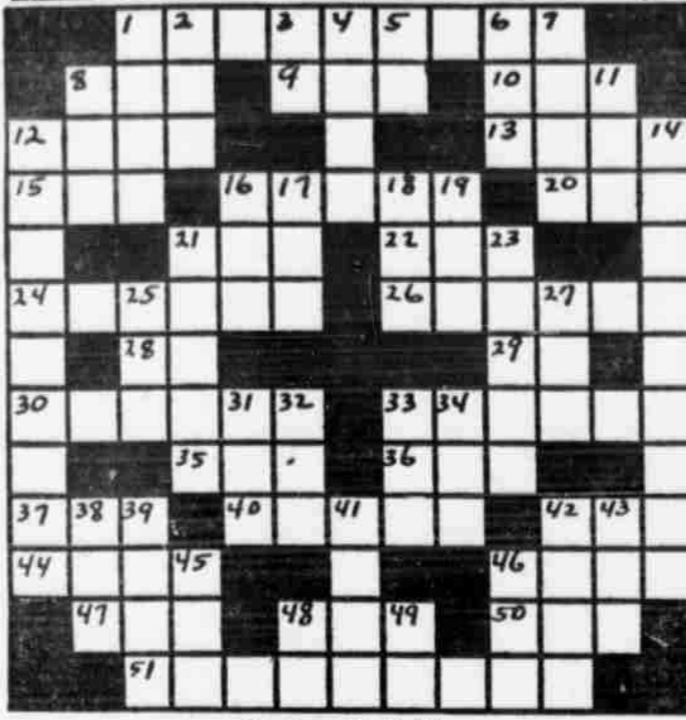

The score was sliding pretty much Littlefield's way now as the sluggers were walked, singled, or got on by bunts. James Pressley hit a homer that drove in three runs. He was followed by Lupe Gonzales' homer with none on. Pressley's hit was responsible for the two runs earlier in the game. All totaled, the runs driven in were 8 in the top of the sixth.

When it was the Ponies' turn at bat again, Pressley drove a ball into deep, left-center field to give Littlefield the top hand: 11 - 10.

One Olton lad scored after being walked. Another crossed the plate because of a wild pitch. But that was all the scoring Olton did for the rest of the ball game.

After the first man struck out, Pressley hit a single and stole to second and then third. Buddy Jones drove him home on a well-placed bunt which netted Jones a bag. Buddy stole second and made third on short-stop's error. Jones saw his scoring opportunity when centerfield threw the ball over 3rd and took off again. The pitcher retrieved the ball, and tried at home for Jones. Buddy came sliding in home and hooked slide. This maneuver saved the game. The catcher missed Jones.

Little Furs Get Big Hand For Fall

SQUIDRELL . . . An old favorite with new complexion, this sleek fur is used in a simple, masculine, small enough for the person's budget priced.

LETTOTT MUSKRAT . . . Proportioned for the small figure and priced for the modest budget this snug stole has new cowd effect. All designed by Georges Henri.

By DOROTHY ROE

SKUNK . . . A new and handsome version of a fashion-savvy, shaped figure, this fur, which hugs the body, is correct for day or night, budget priced.

What every woman knows: The "little fur" is one of the most useful and versatile items in her wardrobe.

This year designers have outdone themselves in dreaming up new ideas, new colors and new treatments of old favorites in those small stoles, boleros, collar-and-muff sets and blouson jackets which women can wear the year round, day or night.

These small furs come in all pelts and all colors. Newcomers this season are such things as pink mink, pink beaver and blue ermine.

But the furs priced within the budget of the average woman include such things as blond skunk, horsey-colored squirrel and let-out muskrat. Used in imaginative little stoles, these furs are effectively worn with suits in spring and fall, or as evening wraps in summer. And many are priced so cently as to be within reach of the thrifty career girl or young wife who has to watch her pennies.

Particularly popular for fall is the fur blouson, which is a little jacket with a drawstring waistline or belt, cut on much the same lines as the famous Eisenhower jacket of World War II. Those with the drawstring waist can be worn either bloused or straight, open or closed. They are effective in such modestly priced furs as white or blond muskrat, beige rabbit, or charcoal gray mouton.

Norwegian blue fox is another fur gaining in popularity, and widely used in flattering stoles which are equally effective for day or evening wear.

The perennial mink coat is getting some stiff competition this season from the so-called budget furs, which have been glorified and glamorized by new techniques which bring the high styling of luxury furs into the budget bracket.

water to be able to market their cattle when they want to, instead of when they have to.

This situation, of course, does not always apply in those areas now classed as drought stricken regions, however, it is significant that the first designation included only 23 counties, whereas a year ago the Western two-thirds of Texas was set in the "Drought" district area on the first go around.

Good fat steers and yearlings, $18 to $22, and plain to medium grassers drew $10 to $17, some to $12, a few heiferish kinds higher; and canners and cutters drew mostly $6 to $9, few emaciated carriers under $6.

Best weighty bulls $12 to $13, with lighter and plainer kinds $8 to $11.50.

Good and choice fat calves $14 to $17, few fancy heavyweights around 600 pounds, above that, common to medium sorts $10 to $12, with rams from $7 to $10.

Good to choice stocker steer calves $15 to $19, with some load lots above that range. Stocker steer yearlings of good and choice kinds $14 to $17, few lightweight higher. Stocker heifers and heifer calves usually $2 or more under comparable steers.

HOGS RALLY FROM YEAR'S LOWEST LEVEL

Hogs topped at $22.50 at Fort Worth Monday and with the good and choice variety selling at $22 to $22.50, that represented an advance over last week's close of 50 cents.

Hogs topped at $22 on the previous Friday and this was the lowest point since November, 1953.

Sows were also steady to 50 cents higher selling at $13 to $18. Hog's moving to market so far this month have been in unusually large numbers for the season, and there is considerable speculation as to whether the traditionally "high" summer market will develop this year in late summer.

Some observers feel that the heavy offerings of hogs in July this year foreshadow an early crop of Fall butcher hogs from the farrowings early this year and that prices of the year may already be past the high mark for 1954.

LAMB PRICES CONTINUE TO IMPROVE, UP TO $20

Lamb topped at $20 at Fort Worth Monday, the best prices in some weeks. Yearling wethers shared the advance and topped at $15, a new high for several weeks on that class. Stocker and feeder trade was slow, about steady, Old

CATTLE OPENED WEEK HIGHER AT FORT WORTH

Fort Worth - Again the week's opened with moderate offerings of cattle and calves on hand at Fort Worth and the buying side was forced to pay strong to higher calves.

Packer buyers furnished the major impetus in the trade and indications were that most of them needed supplies. Prices ranged from fully steady to strong, to as much as 50 cents higher on calves and calves as a result of this situation.

There was reliable demand for stocker and feeder cattle and calves which had some quality to recommend them, and some sales of these kinds shared the better market.

It has become obvious this month that despite the high temperatures and the fact that some sections of the Southwest are in critically dry shape, that the major part of the region is still in good enough position for grass and

Local Model Plane Enthusiast Contributes To Magazine

Parker Anderson, 16 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Anderson of Littlefield, has contributed an idea on model plane flying which will be published in the October issue of the publication, "Air Trails: Hobbies for Young Men."

Parker's idea is a one-man flying rig to eliminate the extra man needed to launch a model airplane. Ordinarily the person flying a model plane must have another person several hundred yards away holding the plane in order to successfully get it into the air.

The magazine gives cash awards for all usable ideas. Those must be accompanied by a sketch, or rough drawing. The best ideas are published for use by other model plane enthusiasts.

Parker's idea is based on a simple, every day clothes pin. The clothes pin is closed over a knot tied at the end of a short string. The other end is tied to the tail of the plane.

The clothes pin is anchored horizontally to the launching board by a nail through the coil. A second string is attached to the wide end of the pin in such a method that by pulling it, the clothes pin opens, freeing the knotted string and therefore allowing the warmed-up plane to take off. The string which opens the clothes pin is held by the person controlling the plane.

Parker has been interested in model planes for seven years. He is working now toward organizing a model plane club. He said, "It's always more fun to build and fly with someone else."

Purpose of the club will be to exchange flying and building ideas and encourage model plane building and flying. The club will sponsor a beginner's program to develop experienced model plane enthusiasts.

Parker said, "Most people think of model planes as strictly toys, but they are more than that. They require skill in both building and flying. All large aircraft manufacturers try out new ideas on model planes before attempting full scale models."

Parker's employer, Stacy Hart, will sponsor the club. Parker, who works in all departments of Hart-Thurston Co., has been flying model planes since he was 9 years old. He takes his spare time by instructing younger boys in the art of model plane building. A year ago Parker began spending his Saturday mornings teaching the younger boys to fly.

"Anyone who is interested in model planes is welcome to join us," Parker said. "They can contact me, or meet us at the park on Sunday afternoons when we're flying the planes."

The Spoilers

Little League seems like a wonderful thing. The kids like to play. The grown folks love to give them an opportunity to play. Yet it has been tried and abandoned in many cities and it has already run into trouble here.

The trouble is not with the youngsters. They are generally cooperative, and while they take the game seriously, they are also inclined to take the umpire seriously and not get bitter about their setbacks, except when goaded by their parents.

Unfortunately some parents are not so cooperative. While miserably in the minority, they make life so miserable for themselves and the children who attempt to put on this program for them, that sometimes they wonder if its worth it. These parents complain because their boy is on a losing team, or because someone doesn't buy him a uniform, or because the manager is ignorant and mean and won't play their boy as much as he should, or because umpires have it in for him, or because another inning is not permitted to start after 9:30, or because one of a hundred other things they do not like about the effort someone else is making to give their boy a good time.

Sometimes these pressures from home become so great that the kids that the program actually does the boys more than good by teaching them hatred and envy and bad manners instead of how to work harmoniously with their teammates and win or lose gracefully. When that happens it is time to quit, of course. And from the sound of things, it is possible that that time may be coming to Littlefield. If it does, it will be a sad day for the boys, but another triumph for the spoilers, who are so selfish that they would rather see their boys without a league to play in than to see them lose games.

DAWSON, MINN., SENTINEL: "We can't reduce taxes unless we reduce expenditures, and we cannot reduce expenditures as long as politicians can get votes by promising more government benefits."

MANSFIELD, OHIO, NEWS-JOURNAL: "The citizen, including the farmer, pays to keep food prices high, to buy surplus foods and to keep them in storage."

It's the Law In Texas

Most of us accept with little thought our American citizenship and the rights and privileges it bestows. We might do well to reflect upon what it takes to become a citizen of the United States under our present laws. Many of us would probably be unable to pass some of the requirements if called upon to do so.

One of these requirements is that the applicant for citizenship may be able to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the court a knowledge of the Constitution of the United States and the principles which it affirms. In addition, he must show a fairly comprehensive knowledge of the workings and organization of the American government.

But that is only a small part of the process of becoming a naturalized citizen. To begin with, an applicant for citizenship (if he is an ordinary case) must have been lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence. Then he must be entered on the registry of the Commissioner of Immigration, acquire an alien registration card, and receive a certificate of arrival from the Immigration Department.

Some time later he will receive a letter from the government telling him where he must file a declaration to become a citizen—commonly known as "first papers." He may file this declaration shortly after he arrives in this country but not before he is 18 years of age.

After he has lived in the United States five years, and his first paper is at least two years old, the future citizen may file a petition for naturalization, known as "second papers." He must have lived in the state in which he filed for at least six months.

He will then be called for two hearings—one before the immigration authorities, and the second in federal court. At this time he must be able to speak and understand the English language, and he will be questioned regarding the Constitution, history of the United States and the government organization.

After 30 days the applicant will be notified to appear at the court for a final hearing on his petition. When the court grants a petition for naturalization, the applicant takes the oath of renunciation and allegiance—he renounces allegiance to the foreign state of which he is a subject or citizen, and promises to bear allegiance to the United States.

The court may deny the application. The laws relating to the granting of citizenship are strictly observed. Omissions, oversights, mistakes—all doubts in relation to the application are decided in favor of the government.

Some classes of applicants are exempted from several of the usual naturalization requirements. Certain requirements are waived for aliens married to citizens of the United States; for certain veterans of the armed forces; for former citizens who lost their citizenship by serving in Allied armed forces during the two world wars, and others.

Texans In Washington

By Tex Easley

Special Washington Service

WASHINGTON, JULY 28.—The nation's duck hunters are watching with interest a move launched by Rep. Clark Thompson of Galveston to finance new wild waterfowl refuges with duck stamp receipts.

Spurred by sportsmen themselves, Congress in 1934 enacted a law requiring purchase of a $1 federal duck stamp each season. The levy was boosted to $2 in 1949.

"The primary purpose of the stamp," observed Thompson, "was to raise money to buy land and water areas for refuges. With more and more swamp and river bottom lands being put into agriculture or reclaimed for industrial development, the existence of wild waterfowl in appreciable numbers is threatened."

The tax is turned over to the Interior Department's Fish and Wildlife Service. Of the 35 million dollars collected, from 1934 through last year, only 5½ million was used to acquire new land and water areas for refuges. About 18 million was charged to a general item of development and maintenance of refuges.

"The truth of the matter is," Thompson continued, "that a large share of this money has been used to pay general operating expenses of the Fish and Wildlife Service, on expenditures that have nothing to do with waterfowl preservation and conservation."

The Texan's interest in the subject arose during his service on the old House Interior Committee. Thompson raised the question of how the duck stamp funds were being spent when Congress took up an appropriation item for the Fish and Wildlife Service.

As a result of a speech by Thompson in the House, the Interior Committee decided to make a thorough study of the subject. Spokesman for the National Wildlife Federation, representing more than three million sportsmen, and for the International Association of Game, Fish and Conservation Commissioners, testified. Some quoted Thompson's statements. All joined him in urging a greater share of the duck stamp money be used in acquiring new refuges.

At Found the Capital: The Longview High School Band, 74 strong, timed their trip through here just right to help the nation's capital celebrate Independence Day, a day late this year since the 4th came on Sunday. The celebration here is always highlighted by a spectacular fireworks display, lasting a couple of hours, set off at the base and from the top of the 555-foot Washington monument. Before going on their way to New York the following day to play for the Lions International Convention, the youthful musicians were invited to a light breakfast in the Capitol as guests of Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Price Daniel and Rep. Brady Gentry.

The Texarkana high school band of 70 musicians, headed for the same convention, scheduled their stop here on July 4th and the next morning. Rep. Wright Patman arranged a Sunday sight-seeing tour. They were booked for a concert on the Capitol steps Sunday night.

Working here during the summer on the staff of Senate Minority Leader Lyndon Johnson is Bill Moyers of Marshall. Bill will be a junior at North Texas State College in Denton next fall, majoring in journalism. He has worked on the Marshall News Messenger. Congress has kept him so busy, he's been able to get in sightseeing so far only on a Sunday tourist bus.

Excerpt from debate in the Senate debate on the tax bill, when an amendment to reduce the oil depletion allowance from 27½ per cent to 15 per cent was under discussion:

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill): "I merely wished to point out that in this period, the oil millionaires are comparable to the railroad millionaires of the 1870's and 1880's."

"As I have said, the 27½ per cent depletion allowance is largely responsible for creating the Texas oil millionaires. While I do not wish to make any political attacks upon these men, one of whom I know slightly, and others of whom I do not know at all, it is true that in a number of cases, they have gone into other states in an attempt to influence nominations and elections. They constitute one of the large sources of political financing and political propaganda at the present time."

The amendment was defeated by a voice vote.

Slow Growth
Hemlock trees usually mature in 150 to 200 years.

One of those hot days last week, when we could hardly make it from kitchen to living room, we strolled around the block at dusk to try to cool off. A neighbor invited us to come sit in the yard, and introduced her five-year-old nephew.

He was as full of life as we were listless. He dashed into the house to bring out a box of stores, which we looked at, rock by rock, while he turned somersaults, asked questions, and capered around us. He made half a dozen other trips into the house, got into outlandish positions around and under the lawn chairs. He dimaxed his performance by squirming along on his back around the circle—a feat that would have taken at least two pounds off of some of the rest of us, if we could have performed it.

The energy he was throwing to the winds would have moved mountains if harnessed. Yet apparently it took no effort. Actually it seemed less trouble for him to wiggle and hop than it would have to keep still—if he had ever considered that as a possibility.

As we watched the little elf, we forgot the weather, our own steaming forehead, and the surroundings. We recalled those wonderful summer evenings when we were every so much younger—when the family moved chairs into the yard and we lay on our backs looking upward, the soft hum of grow-up small talk, the cool touch of the grass beneath us, and high above the blue dome sprinkled with stars—was something special. Thanks to a five-year-old, we had a new spring in our step as we walked home that hot evening.

Why Worship?
 Lesson for August 1, 1954

AN AMATEUR gardener once wanted to raise some corn. In his little plot he did not have much room. He looked in his book and it said there that corn hills should be three feet apart, so he decided there was only room for one hill as he wanted to plant other things too. So he planted his one hill of corn. But Dr. Foreman found any ears on his corn-stalks. He did not know that one stalk of corn will not "make" by itself. Now human beings are like that, and especially Christians. Corn standing off by itself never is real corn, and a Christian off by himself is not a complete Christian. There are religions which suppose that a person can please God best if he becomes a hermit and carries on, so to speak, a single-track conversation between himself and God. But the Christian religion, at its best, knows better. Christians cannot become what they ought to be without the companionship and help of other Christians. Christianity without fellowship would not be Christian-

Shared Faith
 Consider one very important form of fellowship: Worship. — that is, public worship, in church on Sundays or otherwise. Why do we worship together? Wouldn't it be just as good if each of us worshipped alone? Private worship is necessary too, to be sure. "Enter into thy closet and shut thy door" is still Christ's directive. But Christ himself joined regularly in public worship even though in his day that was pretty formal. One of the reasons for public worship is that it is a united witness, a testimony of faith. Many churches repeat the Apostle's Creed on Sunday mornings. But even when they do not, public worship is the expression of a faith which can be shared, and is shared. When the communists took over the Chinese government, they did not attack the churches directly. What they did was to appoint official meetings, and require every one's attendance, at the hours on Sunday usually set for church services. They knew very well that if you can keep Christians from worshipping together you keep them from witnessing to their faith, and you are helping that faith to wither away. When you go to church on Sunday, you are not just sitting there in a pew listening. You are bearing witness to your faith in Christ, in the most public way, and others are helped by your being there just as you are helped by their being there.

Better Worship, Better Living
 How would you "improve" the worship in your church? By having a better choir? By getting more people out? By having more eloquent sermons? By making the sanctuary more beautiful? All these things could help, but they might miss the main point. The vital question is: What effect does this worship have on the lives of those who take part in it? If a change in the manner of worship does not make for better living on the part of worshippers, then it is not a change for the better. Real worship will so bring us as a group into the presence of God that we are bound to be better men and women. Public worship ought to make us conscious of our sinfulness and our need of God; to make us aware of God's forgiving love in Christ our Saviour; to arouse in us a desire to be more like the Master; to make us stop and think about our lives and what is wrong and what is right with them; to stir us to be grateful to God for his blessings; to make us bolder to approach the "throne of grace;" to sharpen our consciences and make us see more clearly what God will have us do; to strengthen our courage to do in God's strength what he has for us to do.

Fellowship
 One of the greatest benefits from public worship is precisely Christian fellowship. We can have fellowship in many ways, at a fish-fry or in a Sunday school class or a church painting party. In worshipping together, however, we can find fellowship at its highest level. For in worship we are reminded of our common humanity, our common sinfulness, the need of God which all of us share.

Put Cooler In Shade, Leave Doors Open

AUSTIN, Texas — A washed-air cooler works best when enough windows and doors are open to exhaust its breeze properly and when it is in the shade, Associate Professor John R. Watt of the University of Texas asserts.

Watt is testing evaporative coolers this summer to determine their best possible performances.

"When washed air flows through an area, it absorbs heat from the ceiling, walls, windows, furnishings and people," Watt explains. "Unless that heat is carried out of the area, it just makes things seem hotter and clammy because of increased humidity."

Place an evaporative unit where prevailing breezes strike it if possible but keep it out of direct sunlight, Watt advises.

Removing The Guilt Of Sin

By TOMMY WILLIAMS, Minister

carry in our hearts the sense of guilt harmful to our well being both spiritual and physical. For our part is to come, we need to be able to stand with consciences pure and clean. The sense of guilt will take us lose respect for ourselves and have an undue feeling of inferiority in the presence of others.

To accomplish freedom from guilt, men have tried to roads. One simply says do not allow yourself to feel guilty, regardless of what you have said or done. It is not the right way. It ill harden the sense of guilt deeper into our beings and it there so that our entire personalities will be affected. It will lead us to try justify ourselves in wrongdoing.

The other road calls for cleansing. It recognizes the guilt of sin, and calls for relief through atonement. This is the right way. It sees things as they are instead of trying to drive from our minds the realities of life. Sin is an offense against God, and he gives the law of pardon. The atonement was made by Christ. Our part is faith in him and obedience to the gospel.

"Come now and let us reason together, saith the Lord: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool" (Isaiah 1:18).

Maudin of Fort Worth, whose beautiful model car won first in the Senior Division (ages 16 through 19). Each received a cash award of $150. Both boys' models went on to take regional honors and a chance to win a university scholarship in the national competition.

Patrol Investigates 3 Fatal Accidents In District In June

A complete summary of all activity and accidents investigated by the Texas Highway Patrol in the month June, 1954, as released by Captain E. L. Posey, includes: three fatal accidents resulting in three deaths; 42 personal injury in which 83 persons were injured; and $55,925.00 damage sustained in 40 property damage accidents.

Eighty-eight per cent of accidents occurred on State and Federal roads; eight per cent occurred on County and dirt roads, and four per cent in small towns (under 2500 pop.).

Principle violations as causative factors in order:

1. Exceeding speed limit (legal or conditional)
2. Driving on wrong side (D. W. I., fatigue and etc.)
3. Improper passing
4. Failed to yield right of way
5. Disregarded stopper warning sign.

The first six months period in 1953, there were 36 fatal accidents with 58 persons killed as compared to 25 fatal accidents in which 30 people were killed for the same period in 1954. There were 15 deaths in the month of June, 1953, as compared to three in June, 1954.

Texas Highway Patrolmen in the month of June 1954 investigated a total of 85 accidents. Three hundred and eighty cases for hazardous violations were filed, 234 for speeding, 25 D. W. I. cases, 27 disregarded stop sign or signal and 95 for other hazardous violations.

$9,600.00 in fines were collected by 21 counties.

Two Highway Patrol units and four men were dispatched to Ozona to assist in emergency flood control work in June.

CASE OF MISSING METER

ALBANY, N. Y.—John J. Byslancik dropped a nickel into a parking meter. When he returned about 50 minutes later, he told the judge, the meter was gone and he had an overtime parking ticket.

The judge learned that the meter had been defective. A patrolman noted that it registered red and ticketed the car. Then meter repair men took it away for an overhaul.

The judge revoked the ticket.

A Switch Installed May Save Stationary Engine

College Station — Stationary farm power units, especially those on irrigation wells, must often operate unattended for many hours. Protective controls, properly installed, will safeguard the engine against burning out or severe damage.

Such controls, say Texas extension agricultural engineers, include a high temperature cut-out switch which will shut down the plant when the temperature of the water in the cooling system reaches the danger point. They also point out that a cut-out switch is needed in the main oil pressure line which feeds the engine lubrication system. Such a switch cuts out and the engine is shut off when oil pressures drop below levels of safe operation.

Still another very desirable trouble preventer is a pressure unit installed in the pump discharge line. The engineers say in case of a line blow-out or if a pump loses its prime or fails for any reason to function, the engine is stopped because of the drop in line pressure.

These cut-out switches operate on the ignition system of most engine units. However, in the case of diesel engines, the controls are designed to close the fuel valve and thus shut down the plant.

Pumping plant breakdowns are not only expensive from the standpoint of parts and labor required to get them back into operation but more important may be crop losses resulting from the failure to get water on the field at the right time. The engineers strongly believe that the old adage of "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" applies to equipping stationary engines with cut-out switches.

Pvt. Foy L. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Foy Moore Route 1, Littlefield, recently began eight weeks of Army basic training in the Antiaircraft Artillery Replacement Training Center at Ft. Bliss, Texas.

He will spend his first eight weeks of basic military training on fundamental subjects such as rifle, machine gun, and bazooka marksmanship, and familiarization with Army technical subjects. This first phase of training is climaxed with a one week maneuver in the field.

Ft. Bliss, established as a frontier outpost more than a century ago, is located in West Texas on the Mexican border, adjacent to El Paso.

Off on an Hour's Vacation!

To be honest with you, we're not certain where he's going. He may be journeying to a branch office of his corporation... or he may be heading home for the day... or he may just be taking his afternoon "constitutional" behind the wheel.

But one thing we know for certain. He's about to embark on a little vacation. And for its length, it will be one of the most wonderful interludes a man could hope to enjoy.

For he's about to spend an hour in his 1954 Cadillac—and here, beyond any question, is the perfect remedy for a trying day.

It will bring him physical relaxation—for his Cadillac is so comfortable and luxurious that merely to sit in the driver's seat is to rest. And the car handles and steers with such complete effortlessness that every mile is a tonic for the body.

It will bring him mental refreshment—for the car is such a joy to drive and ride in that a man seems almost automatically to leave his cares at the curbside.

And it will bring him renewed enthusiasm and interest—for every moment a man spends with his Cadillac serves as a stimulating reminder of his past accomplishments—and acts as a wonderful inspiration for planning and thinking out the future.

All this, of course, is the very essence of Cadillac value. All cars offer transportation—and varying degrees of satisfaction. But it remains for Cadillac to provide a definite therapeutic for the mind and body of a work-wear man.

In this glorious respect, there are simply two types of cars: Cadillacs and all the others.

Come in sometime—when life has grown stale with the toil of the day—and take an hour's vacation in a 1954 Cadillac.

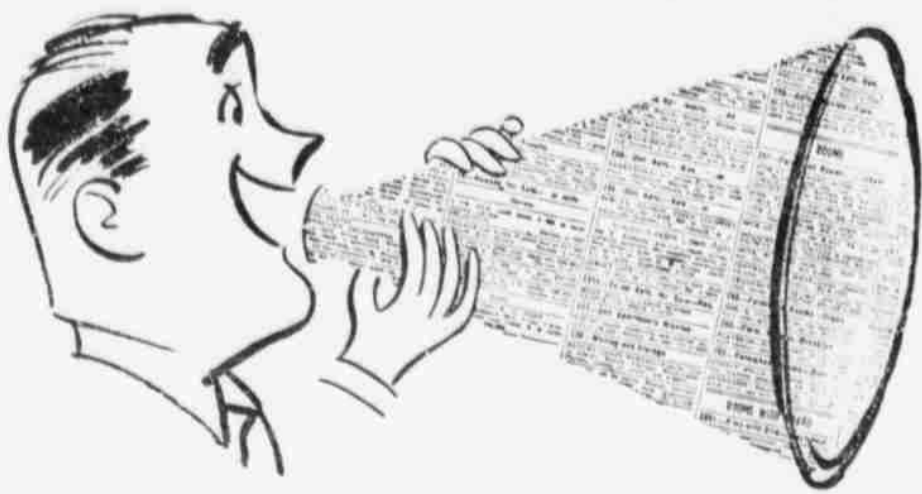

It will be the most refreshing sixty minutes you ever spent on the highway—and we'll be delighted to provide the car at any time!

HIGH PLAINS WATER— How Long Will It Last?

More than one-fourth of all water ever pumped for irrigation on the Southern High Plains was pumped last year. A rapidly dropping water table is the result.

This problem is discussed in the article "High Plains Water—How Long Will It Last?" in the August issue of the Progressive Farmer magazine. The article was written by Louise Allen, wife of a Texas Tech professor and author of the "Lipstick Logic" column which appears in the News and Leader. Her article is based on an interview with an underground water specialist.

W. L. Broadhurst, chief hydrologist for the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District, urges farmers to make sure they get the maximum return for each acre-foot of water pumped.

Information collected the past 30 years show the supply of ground water in High Plains is limited and is replenished from rainfall. Where the water-bearing formation is shallow, the cost of pumping may come to exceed the returns. In isolated spots it may give out in a very short time. Quite a few wells will fail this summer.

Broadhurst explained that the water conservation district office is constantly working to do something about the situation. They gather and make public facts about the supply of underground water in different parts of the district. They assist the extension service in developing plans for most efficient use of storage water, and aid farmers in recovering greatest amount of water at lowest cost. The extension service is also doing research on proper time and amount of water to apply to crops.

Bob Thurmond, irrigation associate for the extension service, believes wise use of the underground water is the best answer. He advises winding up cotton irrigation by September. He feels that good land preparation and long range planning of irrigation systems are also important in making the wisest use of the water.

Hosing Down Junior

By Dorothy V. Whipple, M. D.

The hotter the day, the more tempting is a nice cool spray of water. Children love to put on bathing suits and run in and out of the spray of the lawn sprinkler.

It's fun and it seems harmless enough. However, there are a few hazards, especially for tiny tots. If the day is very hot and it's on such days that this idea comes up—the difference in temperature between the air and the water may be very great.

Little children chill quite easily. If a child becomes thoroughly chilled with this water play he's very likely to come down with a sore throat the next day.

It may seem like a paradox to get a sore throat from chilling when the thermometer is hovering in the high 90's. It's the sad truth just the same.

Older children seem much better able to withstand a reasonable amount of chilling without bad effects. But the little tots, the twos, threes, fours and even fives, have not built up much resistance to this kind of abuse. Not all of course, but a fair number develop colds and sore throats after chilling.

Since it's such a lot of fun to play in the spray, is there anything to do to make it safe?

Yes—avoid chilling. Have your sprinkler play when it isn't so blistering hot. On a warm sunny day—not a very hot one—there's less danger that the air temperature and water temperature will be so far apart as to cause chilling. Also if there is any way you can run a bit of hot water through the garden hose you have the problem solved for any day.

If you're going to permit it anyway, and take the chance, at least be handy with a towel and dry the child off quickly as soon as he comes out of the water. This at least cuts down the hazard, though it does not eliminate it.

Instead of a sprinkler you have a backyard wading pool, it's easy to see that the water isn't too cold. If you just put the pool in the sun for an hour before the children play in it, the shallow water will warm up. If your pool is in the shade, fill it with warm water instead of cold water.

GI Questions And VA Answers

Q — May I take my dental internship training under the Korean GI Bill? If so, what rate of GI allowance will I be paid—the rate for on-the-job trainees or the rate for students at school?

A — You may take a dental internship course under the Korean GI Bill, provided it has been accredited and approved by the Council on Dental Education of the American Dental Association, and provided it leads to a certification by a Dental Specialty Board. You GI allowance will be the rate paid to full-time classroom students.

Q — I am an Army officer, and I am being retired for a disability. If I choose to receive retirement pay rather than VA disability compensation, would I still be eligible to take vocational training under Public Law 16?

A — Yes. If you meet all the other eligibility requirements of the law, you may be permitted to train under Public Law 16. While in training, you will receive a VA subsistence allowance in addition to your Army retirement.

Q — I have been granted a wal-ver on my World War II GI term insurance policy because of total disability. While the waiver is in effect, could I convert my term insurance to a permanent plan?

A — Yes. You may convert to Ordinary Life, 20-Payment Life or 30-Payment Life. You may not convert to an endowment plan, however, while you are totally disabled.

Q — If the widow of a serviceman killed in Korea remarries, does she have to give up the monthly indemnity payments she has been receiving?

A — No. The legal widow at the time of the serviceman's death has entitlement to the indemnity. Her remarriage does not bar her continued entitlement.
