Scouts Prepared for Emergency Service

Boy Scouts here and throughout the country are now training in Scoutcraft and outdoor lore with new vigor to be better prepared for any part of emergency and disaster service. Scout troops are forming units of Emergency Service Corps (see emblem, upper right above) and being trained in firefighting, first aid, rescue work and other service connected with emergencies caused by storms, floods, hurricanes, earthquakes and any type of catastrophe.

At camp and on hikes, through games and other attractive activities of the regular Scout program, they are learning what to do in case of crisis and how to fulfill their promise to help other people at all times. Through demonstrations, displays and exhibits, in cooperation with established disaster relief agencies, they are doing their part to teach the American people to be prepared.

of W. M. Pool, Jr., and that it is the plan of the Board of Directors to open other offices over the territory during the next year.

Directors elected were I. F. Williams, Bailey County, who succeeded W. M. Pool, Jr., resigned to accept the field office assignment at Muleshoe; and R. A. CALIFORNIA OIL WORTH $10.00 PER BARREL FAMOUS FOR MEDICINAL VALUE

Radium is of course being worth a fortune per barrel but a strange oil from the Colusa County, California, is the prize for Petroleum value.

Although it is drilled from ordinary oil wells, this oil is in a sulphonated solution and one gallon of oil is recovered each 2500 to 5000 gallons of oil pumped from the wells, which is one to five gallons of oil per barrel. It has been famous for generations in Colusa and adjoining areas in California, where people known to have driven 150 miles and labor half a day to gather an ounce of it where it seeps to the ground, in order to treat ailments.

Containing no gasoline, benzene, naphtha, asphaltum or petroleum which are common to other crude oil, this Colusa product contains about 4% of Iodine, 3% of "thyl", .07% Sulphur, a trace of camphor and turpentine, and gas and radium emanation—no radium. Science papers by eminent physicians state that "radium emanation is accepted as having a beneficial effect on the body as it is said to be the withering plant". The emanation is taken up in the blood as quick as lightning goes to parts of the body where it checks the disease germ. This remarkable oil is now sold in

She her eye on both Mark and trust fund left Valerie and as a chance to knock Shirley, however, thinks done just right. A birth- is planned for Valerie, it is going on, Elise on Mark and Lucy.

She felt vaguely apologetic; but as she couldn't imagine what she had said, she decided to wait and ask Lucy in the morning, if she didn't forget it in all the excitement. "Come on," she called to the others. "Of course you're coming, father and Lucy? Oh—and Mrs. Waterford—Father, will you promise to dance with me at least once? It won't be a party unless you do. Rex, maybe Lucy will dance with you, if you solemnly promise not to walk all over her feet. He's terrible," she told Lucy.

Rex Davies grinned down from his sixteen years. He was already crazy about Valerie, and didn't care what she said to him. He tucked Lucy's hand into his arm with what he felt was complete sophistication.

"Shall we get the elevator? Or do you mind walking? And may I

"Oh, my dear, she was more than lovely. She filled the house with her presence. But a man's wife is the pivot around which a home revolves, don't you think?" "Naturally," said Lucy. She wondered what was coming next.

"You mustn't ever think we don't appreciate all your services here," cooed Elise. "All of us—I mean, Mark's intimates—realize how hard you must have worked. And what it must have cost you." "Cost me?" asked Lucy. She felt they were getting nearer now to the main idea.

Elise opened her large eyes to have the first dance?" he asked in a breath. "The very first," she promised. Lucy gathered a handful of peach velvet, and took to her heels. She arrived only slightly behind him at the door of the small ballroom.

The orchestra was playing, and couples slipped out on the shining surface of the floor. Mark coming toward Valerie.

He said in the most grown-up way, "Will you dance this?" And then they were merging with the rest, and smiling at Lucy, being taught a new step by Rex over in a corner.

"Why, father," she said amazedly. "Yes?" He leaned from her to look into her shining eyes. "Why, you're a marvelous dancer! I mean you really are!" "Thanks," said Mark, trying not to laugh. "I like to be taken down from the shelf and dusted off once in a while. You're not bad yourself."

"I do dance pretty well," she said seriously. "But then, you see, I love it. You can always do things well if you love 'em."

"I see." The dance ended, was encored, and ended again. "I shall now turn you over to Rex. Maybe you'll dance with me again later."

He patted her head, and went off to find Elise. He might as well get it over with as soon as he could. Dancing with her had never been a treat, at best, but he would go through with it, and then go and find Lucy.

Elise stayed until half past eleven. Mark danced with her only once. He made it a point to ask each of the fluttering gay bits of femininity who were Valerie's friends and he danced again with Valerie.

The rest of the time he spent with Lucy, whose steps seemed to melt into his with a peculiar magic.

It was while the youngsters were sitting around a simple little supper that Elise made an excuse to go over and drop down beside Lucy.

She smiled pleasantly and made room for Elise beside her on a small sofa. "Did you manage to get something to eat?" she asked. "Oh, yes," said Elise self-consciously. "Trust me to be at home at Wide Acres."

There seemed nothing to say to this, so Lucy merely smiled, and their widest. "But of course. Although you are old enough to know what you are doing. I mean as far as your own reputation goes. When a woman comes to live with a fascinating widower and a little girl—"

"And a housekeeper and a staff of servants," said Lucy. She could feel her temper slipping and she gripped it closer.

"Perhaps you'd like to tell me exactly what you mean," suggested Lucy.

"Oh, my dear, you mustn't be annoyed with me. Of course, what you do to your own reputation is your affair. But it hurts—some of us—just a little—" she laid an appealing hand over her heart—"I mean, to hear whispers over luncheon and bridge tables—Gossip is a hard thing for a baby like Valerie to live down—"

Lucy got up. Except that her eyes looked almost black in the pallor of her face, nobody could have told that she was almost faint with rage.

"Excuse me," she said. She stood for a moment looking down and wondering. Just what purpose was served by Elise's in life? "The party seems to be breaking up."

The youngsters crowded around her, telling her how marvelous it had been, begging her to come to their parties, swamping her with frank young approval. They got their wraps and headed, chattering, for Chiltern and the front door.

Elise retrieved her ermine coat, slipping her bare arms into it, and trailing her black velvet to where Mark stood in the center of a small knot of girls.

"Thanks, Mark darling, for—everything." She put her hand in his, managing to suggest delicious unspoken possibilities. Mark held her hand for a second, and put it gently down, looking a trifle confused. "Could you—like an angel—drive me home? Of course I gave Harmon the evening. I could not keep him Thanksgiving—" she stood like an angel of gentle consideration.

"Isn't it a shame the way luck runs? My car's having a minor operation. Tell you what—we'll tuck you in with a bunch of the kids Catlet is taking home."

"How simply sweet," said Elise.

But she looked anything but sweet later, wedged in between two bright young things, with Rex and a riotous boy on the fold-up seats before her and shrill reminiscences of the night filling the car.

Valerie burst into Lucy's bedroom late the next morning to find Lucy pale and listless over a practically untouched breakfast tray. Mark had insisted on holidays, so lessons were off for a week.

"When you didn't come down for breakfast, I thought something must be wrong," cried Valerie. "I ran up as soon as I had finished. I was going to swim in the Kenwood's indoor pool, but I won't go now. It won't take me a minute to telephone—"

Lucy drew her down and kissed her. "Of course you'll go, silly," she said. She tried to speak brightly. "There's nothing the matter. Unless it's late hours last night."

"You look as if you hadn't slept at all!"

"I didn't know it was as bad as that. I must be a mess!"

"You know I didn't mean that kind of looks. Did the party tire you? If it did, we'll never have another—"

"But I adore parties," said Lucy. "And yours was almost the nicest I ever knew."

"Ours," corrected Valerie. "There wouldn't have been any party if it hadn't been for you."

"Oh, the planning was part of the fun. You see, I—I have some letters to write. And there's something—well rather important. I have to think about a bit. You know—one of those things—" She rattled on, thanking heaven that Valerie didn't know. "So I thought I'd just indulge in a lazy morning—"

"Rather important," repeated Valerie. She stood quite still, staring at Lucy. Then her eyes grew startled, and she ran over and dropped to the end of the chaise longue. "I don't like it, somehow. Lucy—there wouldn't be anything—I mean, nothing could take you away from us—"

Lucy swung her feet to the floor and threw a sudden arm around the girl. "Would it make such a difference?" she asked. She was almost frightened at the change in Valerie's face.

"But you're joking!" she cried. "Why—you belong here. You belong to Wide Acres—and father—and me! There wouldn't be anybody who has more right to you—Lucy! Are you crying?"

"Crying? Certainly not! Would I cry because a popular young woman with heaps—and heaps of friends thinks she couldn't get along without me? What do you think I am?"

There was, Lucy told herself, only one thing to do: be willing to take whatever course was best for them all, and then wait for events to show her what it was.

She took a shower and dressed, covered her pallor with faint rouge went down to lunch and spent a long blissful afternoon with Mark, playing squash.

Lucy was not the only person to lose sleep because of Valerie's party. As they rolled out of the Wide Acres gates, Elise insisted that Catlet should drive her home first. She untangled herself from the scrambled occupants of Mark's car, dismissed Catlet, and let herself into her apartment in a rage.

Sallie, her maid, had fallen asleep waiting for her. Elise waked her furiously, and the woman, after listening to her for ten minutes, gave notice and walked out.

Two Local Girls Presented At Las Chaparritas Fri. Night

Miss Minnie Kate Grissom, new member of the Las Chaparritas social club at Texas Tech, Lubbock, and Miss Betty Alice Thaxton, pledge to the club, were presented with 23 other members and pledges at the annual spring presentation at Hotel Lubbock Friday night, February 14.

The 25 "Valentines of Sweethearts" were presented in an old-fashioned garden with trailing dogwood, aauu jonquils as the background. Noel Edgar Thompson made the presentations. This was the first of a series of club presentation dances.

Each girl entered from the blue shadows of the garden onto a white bridge with white heart rails resembling wrought iron work. She was met at the "garden gate" by her escort after she had walked down "Sweetheart's Lane" to the tune of the club song, "Sweethearts on Parade." The miniature fence across one corner of the ballroom separated the setting from the dance floor. Dogwood was entwined through the white palings.

The entire background was of blue and the ceiling was shaded into blue indirect lights to resemble heavy and light shadows.

The orchestra stand where members of Jack York's orchestra were seated, was decorated with dogwood and greenery. Around the ballrooms were lattices with huge primroses and jonquils and paste, colored hearts on them.

The organization is composed of several women students of Texas Technological college and every year they feature a heart theme at the presentation of new members and pledges. This is the first time in several years, however, that the presentation has been held in Valentine's day. The group is known as the "Sweetheart's club."

Approximately 300 guests including the hostesses and their escorts, parents and friends attended.

Miss Grissom wore an imported white marquisette frock with ruffled three quarter length sleeves and ruffled skirt. The square neckline was bordered with red roses and she carried an arm bouquet of roses. Her escort was Joe Bill Alsop.

Miss Thaxton, escorted by Melvin Thornton of Littlefield, chose a pink net frock. The full skirt was sprinkled with silver sequins. A panel of ruffles was set in the back of the skirt and a royal blue bow decorated the back of the waist. She wore rhinestone bracelets and a necklace with a hair bandeau of iris.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Grissom, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Thaxton and Miss Eloise Hanes attended the affair from Littlefield.

It's perfectly designed to bring out the beauty of the printed silk you choose, and to flatter your figure. The gathered bodice, high-cut front panels and heart-shaped neckline are very, very complimentary, you'll find.

Of course its lovely in dark flat crepe, thin wool or taffeta, as well as print, with narrow frills of lace, organdy and chiffon to enhance its flattery.

Use this design to make yourself some cotton home frocks, too, using rickrack instead of more formal trimming, and adding a saucy ash bow in the back. You won't mind repeating such an easy frock.

Pattern No. 8842 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires, with short sleeves 4 5-8 yards of 39 inch material without nap; three-quarter sleeves, 4 7-8 yards; 1 3-4 yards trimming. Detailed sew chart included.

Laid End to End They Add up to a Swell Idea

We mean these Four New Additions to the Buick SPECIAL Series that Give you Big-Car Thrill in less Curbside Space

THE way cars have been stretching out lately, it usually takes only a couple of cars to occupy the curb space of an extension-ladder fire truck.

Not so with the newest additions to the 1941 Buick line.

Here we've reversed the trend—just to prove that an honest-to-golly BIG car can be built without going overboard on bumper-to-bumper distance.

The four new models now adorning the Buick SPECIAL Series fit neatly into modest garages without putting a permanent crimp in the doors.

They slip into parking places smoothly as a rowboat nestles up to a dock—and the way they fit through traffic is a delight to wheel-weary drivers.

When it comes to action—well, they've got a 115-hp. FIREBALL eight under their bonnets that skims you down the road like a mallard heading home. You can add Compound Carburetion at small extra cost and have 125 horsepower that does things we hardly dare hint about in print.

But they're a handy six inches shorter, bumper to bumper, than other Buicks—a quartet of top-quality cars in a new and easily-handled size.

The price? It's lower too. So better take a look at the first really BIG car in this bumper-to-bumper size.

Patriotic Program Presented Friday

A patriotic program, commemorating the birthdays of two former presidents of our nation, Abraham Lincoln and George Washington, was presented by the pupils of Emmanuel Lutheran School in the school basement last Friday night, Feb. 21. Mr. C. T. Boriack, the teacher of the school, directed the program.

Songs sung by pupils of the school, were, "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner". Interesting and important historic facts in the lives of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington were also related.

Rev. E. H. Riese, pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran Church, in a brief address, emphasized that the Christian, according to the Bible, is required to support the government of the country in which he lives. It was also stated that more than a mere display of the flag is demanded, if the liberties which the constitution guarantees us, are to be preserved.

Trade Extension Program Discussed At Monday's Meet

Several business men of Littlefield met Monday night at the Presbyterian church and discussed ways and means of bringing more business to retail firms in Littlefield.

Present at Monday night's meeting were Ray Brock, O. B. Graham, E. H. Maddox, Dodd Weatherly, A. A. Webb, W. H. Madden, R. L. Byers, O. N. Robinson, Lester Walters, Douglas Howell, W. J. Aldridge, J. Local Men Report "Fair Catch" On Fishing Trip

B. D. Garland and Ray Nix, accompanied by Matt Nix, Herschel Matthews, and John and Raymond Nix all of Amherst, returned home Sunday night after a few days fishing trip on the Rio Grande river, southwest of Del Rio.

The group took a motor boat on a trailer, and Mr. Garland took two cots so he wouldn't have to sleep on the ground. But when he started to make camp the first night, he found that the cots "had probably been on too many other camping trips," so he slept on the ground. One night they found an abandoned cave in the hills, where they managed to stay out of the rain. It rained every night while they were there, but they reported a "fair catch" of fish, ranging from six to fifty pounds.

Geo. Glatfelter New District Manager For Phillips Company

George Glatfelter, who has been in the general office of the Phillips Petroleum Company at Bartlesville, Okla., recently was named district sales manager of the Lubbock district, and makes regular visits at the local wholesale office. W. E. Heathman, wholesale distributor, reported last week.

Mr. Glatfelter took the place of H. M. Luna of Plainview, who was transferred to Pampa, where he is district sales agent.

The Littlefield territory was placed in the Lubbock district this year. Previously it was part of the Plainview district, and the Plainview district led all West Texas in sales last year.

Mr. Glatfelter has been an employee of the Phillips company the past 12 years. He and his wife moved to Lubbock last week.

Large Crowds Throng S. & D. Drug For Formal Opening; Newspaper Advertising Is Used Exclusively In Announcing Event

From early morning until late at night, crowds thronged the S. & D. Drug for the formal opening of the new store Saturday.

"Our store was full from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m.," declared Grover C. Dennis, manager, who, in partnership with Jack Straw of Olton, owns the business.

Mr. Dennis and Mr. Straw were busy throughout the day in welcoming old friends and in making new acquaintances. Both men expressed their deep appreciation at the friendly, enthusiastic reception given their new business.

Used Newspaper Advertising Mr. Dennis and Mr. Straw are strong believers in the value of newspaper advertising, and relied exclusively on that form of promotion in attracting the crowds to their store for the formal opening.

There were a number of special attractions for the formal opening, two of which were a guessing contest and the exchanging of an ice cream cone for an egg, the latter event being restricted to participation by boys and girls.

1250 Persons Register

The guessing contest consisted of estimating the number of straws in a bundle which was on display in the store. S. F. Whitmore, Littlefield, received the $5 award for the contest. He guessed 629 straws, which was the exact number of straws in the bundle. Two other participants estimated the total number of straws at 630. Twelve hundred and fifty persons registered estimates in the straw guessing competition.

"And everybody didn't register for the straw guessing competition, so you can see what a big crowd we had Saturday," commented Mr. Dennis.

Your favorite candidate needs your subscription to win a prize. Hand it to her today.

Littlefield World Veterans Register Annually Saturday

Littlefield's veterans of the first World War are ready to serve their country again. The annual registration was demonstrated Saturday and 104 veterans responded to the call to register voluntarily for services they are prepared to perform if the national defense should demand it. The local registration was held at the Littlefield County Board of Health where it started early and ended late under the supervision of Arbie Joplin, service officer.

cer, who was assisted by Orien Dennis, Lloyd Elms and W. H. Rutledge.

The entire purpose of it, as explained by J. H. Ware, post commander, was to obtain a new listing of war veterans, their present addresses where they can be reached quickly if they should be needed, and the occupations, hobbies, avocations and the like in which they have special training, and which might be useful in an emergency.

The scenes here were similar to those enacted throughout the nation, the national registration of the war veterans having been arranged as part of the observance of Washington's birthday.

The majority of ex-service men in the Littlefield territory registered, Mr. Ware said.

Veterans also registered at Amherst and Okon for Lamb county.

Snow Falls Here For First Time During This Season

Wintery weather visited Littlefield and the South Plains Saturday night, continuing throughout Sunday, when this section received the first snow of the season. This section has been experiencing dull misty weather for the past two weeks, which finally developed into snow about midnight Saturday. Snow was reported as far west as Muleshoe and east to Lubbock.

Snow again started falling early Tuesday morning, when about two inches fell.

The precipitation from the snow and light rainfall measured about 65/100ths of an inch, but falling as it did is expected to be especially beneficial at this time.

The snowfall at Amherst and Sudan and west was reported to be much heavier than in the Littlefield area.

A daughter, named Lillian Dell was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Davis of Baileyboro Friday, Feb. 21 at the Payne-Hotwell hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner had erected a brick residence on IFD Drive about 13 years ago, which had continued to be her home.

Mrs. Gardner was very active both in church and club work. At her death she was president of the Methodist Missionary Society; past worthy matron of the Littlefield chapter of Eastern Star, and member of the Woman's Study Club of which group she had also served as president.

She was a member of the local Methodist church for many years; served on the Board of Stewards, and was always a consistent attendant of the Methodist church.

The news of Mrs. Gardner's death was received by Commissioner and Mrs. G. M. Vann, brother-in-law and sister of Mrs. Gardner, early Monday, and they left immediately for Liberty Hill to where the remains were shipped and arrived this morning.

Surviving Mrs. Gardner are three sisters, Mrs. Vann, Mrs. N. C. Duke of Pawhuska, Okla., and Mrs. T. W. Price of Pampa, and two brothers, "Stitch" Burke of Pawhuska, and Harry Burke of Liberty Hill, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Claude Sparks of Spade is a niece.

The management of the Lamb County Leader is deeply grieved at the passing of such a beautiful character from the citizenship of this city, who will be deeply missed by so many, in the church, and church organizations, and in the many clubs in which she served, as well as her large circle of friends over this entire section, where she was loved by all.

The Christian life which she lived was manifest always in her every day contacts. She always had time to be pleasant, extend a friendly greeting and to serve her fellowman in whatever capacity she was able to do so.

The Leader personnel extends deepest sympathy to relatives of this fine woman at her untimely death.

Leader Circulation Campaign Is Popular Event

The Lamb County Leader "Better Service" Subscription Campaign is a popular event throughout this entire section.

The designation, "Better Service," expresses in a few words the objectives of the campaign; to build a better newspaper serving a larger number of readers and in doing those things render an enlarged service to business concerns who purchase advertising space.

Every newspaper worthy of the friendship of the citizenship of the territory it serves wants to do a good job for its readers and advertisers . . . achieve those things which make life worthwhile and brings warmth of satisfaction in achievement well accomplished.

Cooperation Much Appreciated

A business, an institution, a newspaper, any effort in any division of modern life, must have friends and friendly cooperation to succeed. The Lamb County Leader management and personnel can look back over the years and review with warmth of heart the kindly friendship, the pleasing, enthusiastic cooperation which has been our privilege to enjoy. And the present is no exception to the past; that loyalty, that kindly cooperation continues with us, and has never been manifested more heartily than since the launching of the "Better Service" Circulation Campaign.

The Circulation Campaign, instituted with a definite purpose and being conducted in a clean, honorable and progressive manner, is away to a big start. Candidates are at work throughout Littlefield and trade territory, and their efforts are being well rewarded; new subscriptions and renewals are coming in rapidly, not through high pressure methods of any nature, but because of the desire of the citizenship of Littlefield and section to be served by a newspaper that is rooted and grounded in this territory . . . breathes through its columns the spirit, the ideals, the objectives of the people of the great, worthy territory it serves.

Candidates Well Received

The Leader management and personnel are deeply appreciative of the friendly reception extended the candidates in the "Better Service" Circulation Campaign. These candidates are working for high stakes: First Prize, $500 in Cash; Second Prize, $250; Third Prize, $100, and Fourth Prize, $50.

THERE ARE NO LOSERS IN THIS CAMPAIGN! TWENTY PER CENT COMMISSION IS PAID TO ALL ACTIVE WORKERS.

The Littlefield trade territory is one of the largest in this section of the state, and the "Better Service" campaign candidates are at work throughout this vast territory. All workers report a very friendly reception, and many new and renewal subscriptions are reported by candidates.

Subscription Renewals Urged

One of the objectives of the "Better Service" campaign is to obtain renewals of subscriptions; collect for any subscriptions that are due, and to place the entire subscription list of the Lamb County Leader on a cash in advance basis as required by the laws of the United States post office department.

WITH THE CONCLUSION OF THE CIRCULATION CAMPAIGN THE NAMES OF ALL SUBSCRIBERS

Last Rites Today At Liberty Hill For Mrs. Gardner

Passes Away Suddenly At Miami, Fla. While On Vacation Trip

The citizenship of Littlefield was deeply shocked and grieved to learn Monday of the sudden death of Mrs. Lula Gardner, one of this city's most esteemed residents, at the Jackson Memorial Hospital, Miami, Florida, at 4 o'clock Monday morning as a result of meningitis of the brain.

Mrs. Gardner, accompanied by Mrs. Ed Hewitt of Littlefield, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pickrell of Fieldton, and Mrs. Mabel Hewitt of Texarkana, left Littlefield February 10, on a vacation trip to Florida, from which the party went on a three-day trip to Cuba, returning to Miami Friday last. Mrs. Gardner is reported to have taken ill Saturday, and within a few hours became unconscious. Although everything possible was done for her at the hospital, where she was taken immediately, reports indicate that she never regained consciousness, passing away Monday morning.

The remains are being taken to Liberty Hill, Texas, the old home place of the Gardner family, where funeral services are scheduled to take place at the Methodist church in that city this afternoon (Thursday) with the pastor officiating and interment in the Liberty Hill cemetery, beside the grave of her late husband.

A number from Littlefield were planning on attending the last rites, including Rev. Jim Sharp, pastor of the local Methodist church of which Mrs. Gardner was a member for many years.

Mrs. Gardner was the widow of the late W. H. (Pat) Gardner, who passed away suddenly as the result of heart attack Nov. 8, 1937. Mr. Gardner was walking on Phelps Avenue and was in front of the Clark & Haile barber shop when he slumped to the pavement dead.

Mrs. Gardner was reared at Liberty Hill, where she was married to Walter Henry Gardner in September, 1893.

Sixteen years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner located on the South Plains. Previous to coming to Littlefield they lived at Walnut Springs a year. On moving to this section they purchased a farm (Continued on page two)
