nic is but small tribute to the skills of the men who have made this plant possible. It is a mere salute, a gesture, for the real tribute to their ability is the plant they have raised on this site," H. O. Hodson, vice president of Southwestern Public Service Company, who supervised construction of Plant X, said.

Southwestern Public Service Company announced the plans for Plant X November 2, 1950. Ground was broken March 7, 1951 and since that day, work has continued, with the result that in Plant X alone there is more than twice as much generating capability as there was in the Southwestern Public Service Company's entire system 13 short years ago. As a matter of fact, Plant X alone could provide the power requirements of a city of a half-million people.

COST $30 MILLION

More than $30,000,000 has gone into Plant X, but the money, by itself, would have produced nothing. 1,500,000 man-hours went into Plant X, too, which makes the money make sense, and electric power for you.

And so tomorrow, the men who built Plant X will sit down and vice president, chief engineers, construction superintendents, and other supervisors, will serve them, and their ladies, lunch. It could only happen in America—the last great stronghold for all freedoms, including the freedom of labor.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
 BY DR. KENNETH E. FOREMAN
 Background Sermons: 11 Chapters
 Devotional Reading: Psalm 136
Resources Of God
 Lesson for May 29, 1955

A CRIPPLED American warrior after the battle of Lepo was recovering in a hospital when he learned that certain death had been pronounced upon him. His only hope was that by a miracle he might be able to get out of the hospital and go home. Finally, in mid-afternoon, just when doctors had given up on him, a miracle occurred. For some reason the Americans never understood, the enemy ships gave up the chase and pulled away. The Christian gathered the men on deck and there read the 124th Psalm, our devotional reading for the week, as if it had been written for the occasion: "If it had not been the Lord who was on our side, when men rose up against us, then they would have swallowed us up quick... then the waters had overwhelmed us."

Dr. Foreman

The Resources of God
 God (said Napoleon) is on the side with the largest battalions. Napoleon was not appointed with God or he would hardly have said that. There have been many occasions when the biggest battalions, the best military material (and), the ablest command, did not turn the trick. God has sometimes appeared to be on the side of very small battalions. Sometimes it's a kind of mystery how it's done. But history carries the record. There was the time when the Hebrew slaves left Egypt in spite of the best army in the world. There was the time described in the Bible reading this week, when the God-fearing King Heman and his people—a much smaller little company than many another—that had fallen to defeat by mighty Assyria—was saved by a miracle. There was the time later in Hebrew history—between the Old and the New Testaments—when the little army of the Maccabees stood off the great armies of the Seleucid king; the astonishing day when the "invincible" Armada, the enormous naval expedition of Spain, which could never have been beaten by English arms at that time, was annihilated by a hurricane on the rocky coasts of the islands the Spaniards intended to enslave. Boy what you please, some victories cannot be explained unless you can see "God warring the pharaoh, keeping water above his head."

Victories of the Spirit
 There have been victories of the spirit, too, which can hardly be explained unless you can see God in the picture. When John Woolman was born, slavery was taken for granted everywhere in the civilized world. You would not have thought Mr. Woolman could make a dent in so well-established a custom. He had no money, no prestige, not much education. But the Lord laid on his soul a burden, and he went from one Quaker meeting to another, sharing his burden of concern for slaves; and out of his one-man crusade came the Quaker opposition to slavery and the gradual abolishing of the Christian conscience everywhere. So, nearer our times, when Walter Rauschenbush was a boy, religion was generally supposed to have to do only with a man's soul, not with his business or his politics or anything outside his church and home. Rauschenbush became a new sort of prophet—attacked, of course, as prophets are; but what seemed to be heresy in his day is preached today in all churches, that the Christian religion is concerned with every side and every interest and relationship of life, public and private too.

Not the Lazy
 It is a serious mistake to suppose that God always rewards the lazy. Mr. William Berry of Berea, Ohio, sponsor, He and a few others and some of the finest God had paid the seniors on that need; for Trip to New Orleans should leaving immediately after sixth commencement.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Garrett, of Lubbock, visited in the Luther Gregg home Sunday. Mrs. Gregg is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garrett.

EMPTY PROFESSIONS

By TOMMY WILLIAMS, Minister

CHURCH OF CHRIST,
West Ninth Street,
Littlefield, Texas

Write (to above address) for information concerning a Free Home Study Bible Correspondence Course.

The following statement was made by Ralph W. Emerson: "What you are stands over you while you stand, and I cannot hear what you say to the contrary." In that saying there is a principle which is sounded often in the Bible. It is this: Any profession that a person makes which is not backed with deeds which are in harmony with the profession is an empty profession. It becomes, in the language of the apostle Paul, as "sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal." Here are some professions that are empty and vain:

- (1) Claiming to know God, but living out of harmony with his will. "They profess that they know God; but in works they deny him, being abominable, and disobedient, and unto every good work reprobate" (Titus 1:16).
- (2) Observing forms without the spirit of godliness. "Having the form of godliness but denying the power thereof: from such turn away" (2 Timothy 3:5).
- (3) Claiming a justifying faith without corresponding activity. "Yea, man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: shew me thy faith without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works" (James 2:18).
- (4) Calling Jesus Lord, but not obeying his commands. "And they call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say" (Luke 6:46).

God wants the professions of faith, loyalty and submission which we make toward him to be real and to be followed by proper living.

IT'S UP TO YOU
By Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

Jesus did not try to improve conditions by the enactment of law. He held no government office; He set up no organization. He headed no pressure group. By the appeal of His wonderful, loving personality He attracted the attention and the allegiance of a few men and women. By faith in Him and by willingness to follow Him their hearts were changed. The contagion of His message spread to others. Into a savage and cruel world came the example of overwhelming love. Slowly the institutions of men were transformed; social consciousness developed; men became aware of the suffering of others and sought to assuage it. Integrity and honor came into being. Standards of conduct based on unwritten moral law were gradually accepted and quite generally respected, although by no means always observed.

The partial success of Jesus' method of changing individuals shows how completely successful it could be and would be if men would follow Him.

Contrast the results achieved by those who would think only of regulating others. Karl Marx theory that evil can be conquered and wrong set right by law, by administration, by force and by penalty has flowed into the greatest cruelty known in the history of man and the greatest lapse from all standards of morality and righteousness.

Those Christians who would improve social conditions by law and the administrative power of government should read and ponder well the teachings of Jesus.

It is not plain that the way to improve customs, habits, folk ways, economic conditions, government and all the institutions of men is to begin with men themselves, with their rebirth? Changed men and women change their institutions. It is very doubtful if any improvement can be brought about in the affairs of men that does not grow out of individual change.

The hearts of men, not law, govern actions and establish the character of institutions.

This Is Your Ministers Wife

Mrs. Eugene Matthews, wife of the pastor of the Earth Methodist Church, moved with her family to Earth about a year ago, coming from their last pastorate at Stanett.

She is not at present active in outside activities, except to attend WSCS and visits with the Wesleyan Service Guild when she can. When asked if she teaches a class she replied that she "can't get graduated out of the nursery."

The Matthews are parents of four children: Michael, now seven years old, is a first grade student. Larry is five. Rory is three and their baby daughter, Martha, is six months old.

The family is anxiously awaiting the time when they can move across the street into their new three bedroom parsonage. The contract on the white brick structure was for approximately $16,000 and the congregation as well as the pastor's family are proud of the property.

Doris Schoolcraft was born in the family of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Schoolcraft of Ralls, where her father still farms. She attended Ralls schools and attended McMurry College two years where she met her husband.

They were married in Ralls in 1946 when Rev. Matthews was graduated from McMurry. Their next home was in Dallas where "we went to SMU." By this she meant Rev. Matthews attended Perkins Theological Seminary for 2 1/2 years and she worked at secretarial work during this period.

Their first pastorate was at Sanford, Texas where they served two and a half years, moving from there to Stinnett. Three years later they moved to Earth.

Mrs. Matthews replied in answer to question that her husband is not related to Rev. Cecil Matthews of Lubbock, who has a Methodist-minister-son named Eugene. Their mail is misdirected sometimes and the question is quite common. Rev. Matthews' parents live at Mobeetie, Texas. When asked about hobbies she

Mercury Custom 6-passenger Sedan

Mercury consistently leads its field in top trade-in value!

look at the record before you buy

Mercury costs less than you think. This big Mercury Custom 6-passenger Sedan, shown above, costs less than 13 models in the "low-price" field.

No other car offers you 3 bigger reasons for buying it

- EXCLUSIVE STYLING SHARED BY NO OTHER CAR. There's no mistaking a Mercury—it's distinctive from every angle. The unified bumper and grille assembly, the original use of color and chrome, the massive tail-lights... all say "Mercury."
- NEW SUPER-TORQUE V-8 POWER AT EVERY SPEED. Mercury puts high horsepower to work in a new way—not just for high speeds but for everyday driving. You get far more pickup at every speed, from start to superhighway limits—reserve power for safer passing, hill climbing.
- CONSISTENTLY HIGHEST TRADE-IN VALUE IN FIELD. Mercury is champion of its class for resale value, according to independent market reports of used-car prices. Year after year, Mercury has consistently held that distinction because it's styled to be years ahead in beauty... powered to be years ahead in performance. You command a better trade-in price.

You're ahead when you drive a Mercury, too, because of Mercury's traditional low operating cost.

said there was so little time for hobbies now until the children are older. She does, however, play the piano "after a fashion" and is looking forward to the time when she can play more.

She is also interested in painting, took one year of Art at McMurry and would so like to have some more lessons and time to indulge herself. She took up ceramics for a while some time ago but had to "put it on the shelf."

Mrs. Matthews is so busy taking care of present needs that she has little time to think of the future when she will be able to widen her interest and activities.

This Year We Distributed $337,705.74 In Refunds To Lamb County Farmers

This Money Stayed At Home. Most Of It Was Spent With Local Merchants

Where Did That Money Come From

Your local Co-op Gins, owned and operated by Lamb County Farmers, ginned cotton produced in Lamb County, at the going gin rate in Lamb County. From this ginning operation the cooperatives earned a margin of $337,705.74.

How Is The Money Distributed?

We had a written obligation to every farmer who ginned a bale of cotton with our associations to return all charges above actual cost to the farmer. That is how the entire $337,705.74 was distributed.

This is a standing offer. We will gin any farmer's cotton at cost!

We charge the going gin rate. At the end of the fiscal year we figure our cost per bale and return the difference to the cotton producer. That's as fair a proposition as we know how to make.

What About Taxes?

Vested cotton interests with $100,000 propaganda budgets, Hollywood films, and a high-priced Chicago "public relations" firm named Scott and Schuller have called us, your neighbors, tax-dodgers for operating our cooperative.

They claim our cooperative enjoys special income tax advantages from the Federal Government, advantages that other businesses can't have.

THAT CHARGE IS FALSE.

Any gin, regardless of ownership or form of organization, that operates in the same way as the farmer's co-operative gins will pay the same taxes that our association pays.

Because no business—cooperative, corporation, partnership, or individual proprietorship—pays income tax on money that is refunded to customers to fulfill a prior contract. The customer pays income tax on that money, and rightly so.

There is nothing in the income tax laws or regulations to prevent any business from returning all, or a portion of, its earnings to its customers in the form of patronage dividends, or refunds. These refunds would be deductible from the income tax of the corporation, or the persons owning the company.

That firm will enjoy exactly the same so-called "tax advantage" this group claims our cooperative possesses.

IF THESE FIRMS CARE TO OPERATE LIKE OUR COOPERATIVE, THEY WILL BE TAXED LIKE OUR COOPERATIVE.

These Firms Do Not Operate Like Cooperatives

One multi-million dollar cotton firm now helping finance this smear campaign against farmers cooperatives claims there is no basic difference between their operation and that of our cooperative. But, if that is true, why didn't they mail each one of their customers his share of the $14,000,000 profit they made last year? None of our neighbors got a refund check from them.

Some "independent" ginners claim that there is no basic difference between their method of doing business and that of a cooperative. Yet which one of them goes to the farmer at the end of the year and says, "Bill, it only cost me $5 per bale to gin your cotton and you paid me $15. Here's my check for the difference." None of our neighbors report such a happy experience.

If these firms care to leave Lamb County money at home, Lamb county farmers will pay the income tax.

If these firms actually desire to share the so-called "tax advantage" they distort in their full page newspaper ads and Hollywood propaganda films, they are cordially invited to do so. No laws need be changed.

Our Customers Pay Full Income Tax On Refunds From Their Cooperative

The Co-operative gins listed below forward to the Director of Internal Revenue, Dallas, Texas, complete reports on every cent credited to every patron of our gins. The tax returns of our members must reflect all refunds made to them by their cooperative, whether in cash or stock.

Our members fill out their returns in accordance with page 8, Paragraph 9, of the income tax instruction booklet mailed to every taxpayer in America, which says:

"Farmers who market produce through a cooperative should add any patronage dividends received in the taxable year to their gross receipts from farming. Farmers who buy, through a cooperative, implements, gasoline, seed, fertilizer, or other items for use in their business should either reduce the cost of such items by the amount of patronage dividends received or add the patronage dividends to income. Patronage dividends received as rebates on purchases of items not used in your business should be omitted from your return. Patronage dividends are considered paid when remitted in cash, merchandise, stock certificates, or when credited to you."

The tax instructions are specific, and the government has a cross-check to insure accurate tax reporting.

We invite the public to visit our offices. Our books are always open for inspection. Our members and the members of our Boards of Directors are your neighbors. We will gladly answer any questions about our cooperative and its operation and its tax status

The Four Lane Road Has Moved To Our Boundary

Hockley County voters last week OK'd to buy right-of-way to widen Highway 190 to four lanes. That makes it more important than ever that Lamb County get in action buying our part of the right-of-way on this traffic artery through our county. Four lane roads are coming. We cannot let them. We can let our neighbors all get ahead of us, but we will eventually widen our road. Every year that we put it off, the value of that right-of-way property goes up. It will make us money to get it bought now. It doesn't make much sense for almost everybody to spend $1500 or so a year to own and operate a car and then drive it on bottlenecked roads rather than spend a few more dollars a month for a modern highway. We are going to have to pay the gasoline tax to build these new roads anyway. It is just good sense to pay a little more and get them here instead of somewhere else.

The objection occasionally heard that a road to Lubbock will cause Lamb County business on that road to lose business to Lubbock is both selfish and fallacious. And it completely backfires when the proposed highway comes to the edge of our county and turns into a bottleneck. That not only makes it easy for our rural friends to get to Lubbock, but makes it hard to get to Littlefield.

Those roads run both directions. Just as it is easier for our present residents to get to the metropolis over them, it is also easier for people who work in the city to live in our country and drive to work each day. We pick our present residents that way, and new business establishments to reverse the trend away from small towns and into the big cities.

So what are we hung on? Let's get busy and keep up with the progress of our neighbors.

Another Rate Increase

This column has been frequently critical of the oversize rate increases and unsatisfactory service rendered by General Telephone Company. However, we have occasionally pointed out that the management is not entirely to blame because it is powerless to control its two largest costs—labor and taxes. The lawmakers show little mercy on such an unpopular target as the telephone companies. And the unions show none at all. Both feel secure in their knowledge that the companies can and will pass these cost increases on to the telephone users, and that our wrath will be directed against the management instead of against those who were most responsible for the higher cost of telephone service.

This week the news of extremely costly CIO demands against General Telephone retells big rate increases to come. No doubt the union will settle for something less than they ask, but they will get the balance next year.

We have no quarrel with people trying to improve their economic status. That is a legitimate aim. But when they create monopolies powerful enough to force us to give them whatever they ask, then they lose our sympathy. And when they go beyond that point and resort to violence and destruction, this union has been doing in the Deep South lately, they become common criminals in our eyes.

At any rate when the next whopping rate increase is slapped on us, we will be less inclined to place the blame on the company management.

CLEANINGS

As a result of this decline in small farmers and the increase in size of farms, the effectiveness of the price support program has been diminished.

According to latest census figures, 1.9 per cent of the nation's farmers received more than 25 per cent of the total price support benefits; 9 per cent received in excess of 50 per cent of the benefits; while 91 per cent of our farmers received less than half of the price support payments.

Instead of knocking the props out from under all farmers, through flexible price supports, why not establish a maximum figure beyond which prices of farm products would not be supported? This would aid ALL farmers at the base, thus discriminating against none, and at the same time it might tend to discourage large scale farming which is driving the little man off the farm in too many instances.

If certain wealthy individuals and corporations wish to engage in farming as a business, let them do so by all means. But they should depend on the open market rather than on the government for the sale of their product.

The objective should be to divert price support benefits away from the wealthy 9 per cent who do not need them to the 91 per cent of small farmers whose need is vital.

Anton community is fortunate in getting such a noted speaker as Waggoner Carr to address the graduating class.

It is generally conceded in political circles that Mr. Carr will be the next Speaker of the House.

Also there are those who will tell you that he will at some later date be the governor of Texas.

At any rate, it will do to keep your eye on him.

The spending of more than one third of a million dollars was at stake in last Saturday's election and 90 per cent of the people were not concerned enough to vote!

There are at least 7000 people in Hockley County who would have been eligible to vote had they qualified themselves and then went to the polls. But only 672 people of that number actually voted. And a total of 459 people, by their vote, played a large bond issue upon the people; actually less than 7 per cent of the people have the balance of power.

—Anton News

Without consideration for trend, Parmer County can never hope to substantially increase its allotments as rationing of acres continues through the years. There is no immediate hope seen for decontrol, and this part of the country just hasn't been interested enough in cotton over a long period of years to draw down allotments comparable with say, the counties of the South Plains.

This is not an argument on the merits or demerits of the trend factor. Persons who live in new cotton areas like it. Growers who live in the Southland think it an abomination.

The fact is, however, that reducing trend reserves will reduce allotments of Parmer County.

With Earth's rapid growth for the past few months, we are inefficient with our present system of round about routing folks to their various destinations.

The Earth News has had many experiences in trying to direct strangers by certain buildings or houses. It would take very little time and effort to name our streets, (and use the names.)

A very worthwhile and commendable project for some organization, or the city, would be that of buying house numbers, to be purchased by the residents for their home and place of business.

LIPSTICK LOGIC

By LOUISE C. ALLEN

Last Sunday morning a friend gave us some pansies. She already had them gathered when we arrived and they were arranged in the nine shallow pans and bowls on the dining table. With their pixie-like faces smiling up at us, they made a pretty sight—clear lemon yellow, tawny brown, lavender, orchid, purple, white, even deep rich red. So pretty and so vital, they almost seemed ready to talk.

Flowers do speak a universal language. Not long ago we were at lunch with a dozen women who hardly knew each other and had little in common. But someone mentioned spring flowers and soon there was an easy, relaxed smile on every face. Some were gardeners and some were not, but very woman loves the clear, true colors and delicate modelling of a blossom, whether it's a geranium or a rose.

At a party last night the spouse and a woman whom we knew only slightly talked peonies for half an hour or more. "Which side of the house do you plant them on?" "How deep?" "Do they take much care?"

The green thumb still remains a mystery to us. Rarely does a family have two, and there's no saying whether it's going to belong to the woman or the man of the house.

Through A Glass Darkly

By CARROLL PONCEY

You can see the same thing in growing up when you find the Charles Atlas coupon clipped out of the comic book.

The best way to help a town grow is keep an interest alive in its growth. Littlefield badly needs to have some kind of promotion going all the time. Littlefield businessmen believe in advertising their wares, and they certainly ought to believe in advertising their town. We hope someone will get busy letting the folks who don't live here know about what a fine town we have here.

One of our foreign correspondents has just rushed in via floating tumbleweed, with a dispatch which is both alarming and quite sporadic. For the edification and consternation of our devoted few we print same herewith:

"Mice do not commonly speak on the telephone nor do they generally suffer from hiccups. Peculiar interest therefore attaches to recent experiments with mice have been undertaken by a group of research biologists at the University of Vienna. No fewer than eighty-one specially selected mice at that University—all of them in their second year

But those who have it are a happy lot. And those who live with it are happy, too. For not only do they have a pretty yard, and flowers to grace the house when company's coming in. Quite likely they've got a very nice person for a housemate, for one who loves flowers is likely to see and appreciate beauty wherever it appears.

of studies—have been trained to answer the telephone. Of these eighty-one mice it has been discovered that no fewer than thirty-seven suffer from an attack of hiccups after a single telephone call, while all of them develop a tendency to lose their tails when subjected to an intensive course of telephoning. This clearly proves something."

Isn't that stupifying?

Then there were the two bop musicians who, upon paying their income taxes remarked, "Man, dig those crazy dues you have to pay to belong to this Union".

Many a man has tried to steal home in the game of matrimony only to wind up with a foul ball.

Anytime you get to feeling pretty stuck on yourself just read the want ads and notice how many jobs there are that you are too old, too clumsy or too unattractive to fill.

Hogs and Sorghum Eaton proudly reported this week that despite his discomfort at conducting that woman's club on a conservation tour, the club won a prize for their conservation program this year. We feel that of Dave should take up tour conducting as a sideline. He is also a good time keeper at the rasslin matches, in case anyone needs a good rasslin time keeper.

Less Polio

Texas has far fewer cases of polio this year than last, according to State Health Department reports. Total for the year to date was 196, as compared with 293 at the same time in 1954. Dr. L. P. Walter, acting health officer, said that so far there was only one case of polio among the 479,000 children who got free Salk vaccine, and one case among those who received commercial vaccine.

Early Season Insect Control Saves Money, Survey Reveals

Early season cotton insect control paid up to $108.33 per acre at the Lubbock Experiment Station in 1954.

Insecticide tests at the station included pre-square applications for thrips control and post-square treatments for fleahoppers and thrips control. Toxaphene and dieldrin sprays also were compared in two experiments.

W. L. Owen, Jr., entomologist at the station report that the pre-square toxaphene applications controlled thrips effectively for at least one week. Two treatments reduced plant malformation but did not protect cotton from thrips injury where infestations persisted after the plants reached the fruiting stage. Where damage was confined to the pre-square stage of growth, controls did not increase yields materially.

Where fleahoppers and thrips occurred in damaging infestations economical control was gained with two or three applications of toxaphene or dieldrin sprays, Owen says. Although both materials were equally effective in controlling fleahoppers, dieldrin was superior to toxaphene for thrips control since infestations were reduced for longer periods.

Yields of seed cotton were 653 pounds to the acre with two applications of toxaphene while two treatments of dieldrin produced 700 pounds of seed cotton per acre more than untreated cotton. Three applications of toxaphene and dieldrin increased yields 727 and 934 pounds per acre over untreated cotton.

Owen says assuming the lint from treated and untreated cotton was equal in quality the average gross return from control was $96.46 per acre for toxaphene and $108.33 per acre for the dieldrin treatments.

Demands Wage Increase Benefits General Telephone Of Southwest

General wage increase and hospitalization for employees, and shortening of hours with a corresponding increase in pay for traffic employees were among the major demands made by Communicators of America-CIO at a meeting with General Telephone of the Southwest company late last week.

General asks a general wage increase including essential of a minimum starting rate for all employees of $5 per hour. The premium rate under the new hour law is 75 cents per hour.

The demands submitted include, traffic employees work only 30 hours per week but be paid for 40 hours. All other traffic employees work 35 hours a week and be paid for 40 hours.

General seeks the Company to pay for hospitalization, medical and surgical insurance. Progression changes are to be made by the Union. The Union wants to shorten the time required for employees to get to the top wage level by 6 to 12 months on various schedules. The demand would amend the pension plan and the minimum pension for the Company of $100 per month without a deduction. Social Security payments would be changed in the grievance procedure would require the Union to notify the Union of discharge, suspension or other action of an employee. Additional holiday with pay would bring the number of authorized holidays with pay to annually is another demand. The Union wants to change the schedule to provide one when pay for transportation for traffic employees begins. The Company presently begins payment or transportation to traffic employees whose tour of work ends at 11 p.m. or later. The Union wants transportation payment to begin for tours ending at 7 p.m. or later.

Another Union request would specify that the work week for Commercial Department employees would be over a five day period, Monday through Friday, which would necessitate the closing of all company business offices on Saturday. The Union also seeks to establish a company wide job bidding program for all jobs and all personnel.

Another demand is to not count time spent by an employee as a supervisory or management employee for computing the seniority of the employee. The Union also asks the Company to provide "unlimited" leaves of absence and continuing seniority for employees on leaves of absence for Union business and to increase from $22.50 to $35.00 per week the allowance for board and lodging for unlocated plant department employees. The Union also demands that all Company rules, routines and policies not specifically spelled out in the contract will remain in effect for its duration unless changed by mutual agreement between the parties.

There are other demands sought by the Union which concern clarification and working rules of the business. Company officials have not yet estimated the cost of meeting the union demands.

Ladino Clover Rates High as Hog Pasture

Seeing is believing for these farmers, who might have been skeptical about the value of Ladino clover pasture for hogs.

Ladino clover ranks high as a hog pasture, according to Linton & Lewis of Virginia. Tests showed Ladino was superior to alfalfa, common clover or vetch pastures when grazed with pigs from early April until late August.

The first year the Ladino was seeded in February and grazing started in April. The pigs were fattened in the spring and as soon as they were weaned were started on the test. Pigs were fed grain on each of these pastures in self-feeders, and comparable lots were hand-fed grain in limited amounts in each of these types of pastures. Additional checks groups dry-fed and were also fed.

Pigs started on the pasture until they reached market weight, or until corn was ready for hogging down in the fall. The largest gains of all were made on the full-fed dry-fed pigs, 1.98 pounds per day. But in total 344 pounds of feed to make 300 pounds of gain in the dry lot. This was 73 pounds more than the Ladino lots required. The pigs on Ladino where protein supplement was used, made 78 of a pound per day.

In the limited Ladino lots, 275 pounds of grain with no protein supplement at all made 300 pounds of gain. This was the most economical lot in the whole test. It took 316 pounds of grain where protein supplement was added to achieve the same result.

Referendum For 1936 Wheat Crop To Be Held In June

Texas Wheat farmers will join with the nation's growers June 25 to decide in a national referendum whether marketing quotas will continue in effect for their 1936 crop. The State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee urges Texas producers to participate in the vote.

"Under the present surplus situation, we are required to proclaim marketing quotas," Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson said.

"We will have almost as much wheat in the total supply after harvest this year as we had a year ago. In other words, we will have enough wheat to take care of all our domestic and export needs for two full years."

Benson has said that wheat is one of the major problems facing the Department of Agriculture this year.

Any producer in commercial areas who will plant more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest as grain in '36 is eligible to vote in the referendum. Two-thirds of the vote must favor marketing quotas before they can be put into effect.

Local voting places for the June 25 balloting will be announced for early county.

The available supply of wheat for the 1935-36 marketing year is 66 percent above the considered "normal supply." The Secretary must call for marketing quotas when the normal supply exceeds 20 percent.

In the referendum last summer 73.3 per cent of the farmers voting approved the quotas.

who has been assisting both farmers in repurposing their farms for irrigation after getting good 6 inch irrigation well on what was considered a dry area. Robertson stated that it paid to leave the stubble standing or worked into the top soil until late spring. The stubble liner prevents runoff and breaks up rain drops, which causes better penetration and prevents compaction of the top soil. At the same time the soil is protected with a cover that slows down evaporation.

Bussaniss leaves his stubble on all feed land until late spring with three things in mind, conserving moisture and preventing wind and water erosion. At the same time he is conditioning his soil by adding active organic matter.

Robertson stated stubble mulching would pay even better under irrigation. For every inch of natural moisture saved, will mean less he would have to add by irrigation. The stubble mulched field has half the root zone filled with moisture. Where the clean tilled field had less than one fourth of the required moisture needed. The average crops of Lamb County have a root zone from four to six feet. The best yields are obtained when the soil moisture is kept above fifty percent of the water holding capacity of the soil. By storing as much of this moisture as possible by rainfall the cheaper irrigation will be.

Robertson checked two fields after a recent two and one half inch rain. In a stubble mulched field the moisture penetration was 25 inches. On another field that was tilled in December the soil was wet to a depth of 12 inches. The checks were made on the same type soil and slope.

According to F. F. Kiser, Soil Conservation Service Technician.
