Herman Rose of the Olton 4-H Club exhibited the Reserve Champion Fat Steer at the Plainview Fat Stock Show, April 16 and 17. There were 21 counties represented at the show with some 450 fat calves entered.

Herman's calf placed first in the class of steers weighing over 900 pounds, and was later declared the reserve champion of the show. Garland Rose, brother of Herman, exhibited the seventh place steer in this class.

Garland exhibited the Reserve Champion calf at the recent county stock show and also showed the 12th and 13th place calves at the recent Lubbock Show. The calf Herman showed to reserve champion at Plainview was the second place calf at the county show.

WANTED: HUMAN ENERGY

The most essential of all materials of war is one which everyone in this nation can manufacture — human strength.

Most of us may not be able to do much to supply the countless other materials which are in such great demand—but we can aid in doubling or tripling our nation's supply of human energy if we all go to work on capacity production of this vital necessity.

There is no way that even the powerful Office of Price Administration can ration our strength and there is no way that the government can force us to participate in a strength-building program, but it is time we all realized that energy and health are just as essential to victory as iron or coal or oil.

Many of us have always considered our health to be an entirely personal matter. If we wanted to waste it, that was our problem. But now the health of each individual is a matter of national interest—it is essential for our stamina in facing hardships, for our drive to out-produce Hitler, for our resistance against possible invasion and for the strength it will take to achieve victory.

So far we are sadly lacking in national health. If we would take care of our bodies as well as we do our automobiles, there wouldn't be much to worry about, but many a man insists on the best grade of oil for his crankcase pays little or no attention to the grade of fuel he pours into his own system.

The department of agriculture has recently completed studies which reveal that over 40,000,000 of the people in this country are inadequately fed, not because they can't buy sufficient food but because they ignore the information available on what foods are necessary to produce human energy.

Those of us who are wondering what more we can do to aid our country's war effort can all participate in this drive to build an arsenal of human strength—a reserve supply of that precious element which is essential to victory. All we have to do is study what should be eaten—and eat it. That sounds like an easy job for anyone, but it is the job which may well be the deciding factor in winning this war.

A MAN WAS JUST MURDERED!

While you are reading this editorial, almost a dozen major crimes will be committed somewhere in the United States. The chances are, in the time it will take you to read these paragraphs, at least two burglaries will be completed, an automobile will be stolen, someone will be murdered or is about to be, and at least three larcenies will occur. In addition, there will be many petty crimes committed.

This estimate is based on figures of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which show that a major crime was somewhere in the United States every 20.6 seconds throughout the year 1941—a total of 1,517,026 offenses.

These figures are for only eight classifications of crime, the totals for each classification being: murder, 7,562; manslaughter, 4,582; rape, 9,257; robbery, 49,832; aggravated assault, 48,385; burglary, 302,475; larceny, 919,120; auto theft, 190,059.

Although the majority of such major crimes are committed in the big cities, there are enough that take place in even the smallest towns to make it essential that we all be constantly on guard. Some of us often get the feeling that police protection is more expensive than the dangers they guard against warrant, but it is probably largely because of adequate police protection that the crime rate is kept to a minimum in the small towns of our country.

The FBI figures give us an indication of the number of criminals there are at large and should serve as a warning to all of us that our homes must be adequately protected.

In spite of all of the modern methods of crime detection, the number of major crimes has increased each year. What percentage of our population has criminal tendencies is impossible to estimate, but when figures show that more than one out of a hundred of our population commits a major offense each year, it is apparent that there are still a great number of people who couldn't be trusted without constant watching by policemen.

CHAPTER XIII

SYNOPSIS

Despite Leonard Borland's protests his bank account is ample, though contracting business in New York is his pretty, opera-structure wife Doris names her "career." Interrupted by marriage at 19 and the birth of two children, Borland knows her avowed purpose, to help out the family outcome, is outrage. Hugo Lorentz, her teacher, hangs around, irritates him. Cecil Carpenter, opera singer, knows Doris through her husband, tells her Borland has a beautiful voice, tells her Hugo is in love with Doris, that Doris loves every man she gets in her path, and that he ought to wake her by giving a recital. "Go get your triumph," she advises. Cecil declares he loves Doris. Cecil, who wifes him and he makes a hit as Logan Bennett in upstate recital. She gets him an opera engagement. Again he makes good and Cecil, who she loves him, says tearfully he can now bring Doris to his feet. A movie audience gives Doris the "bird." Broken-spirited, she says she's good. She tells Leonard she loves Doris. Leonard looks at Cecil at Gwendolyn's cocktail party, and knows it's business that had kept him out of the city. There is a scene and Gwendolyn's smooth matters over, laughingly tells that Leonard sing. He does Doris is furious—he is so good. She takes him home, and drains their bank account. He accepts an offer in the Hippodrome opera company, to a hit until he misses his cue and the "bird."

Down on the stage, the bass was blubbing for me. He carried the sa in, put her on the rock, then led up a cape, turned around and did my part. They gave him ovation. After Parma had taken Schultz out, and they had all on their bows, they shoved the sa out there alone, and the audience stood up and gave him a ris-vote, in silence, before they started to clap. His name was Eds. Remember it, Woods: the sa that had what it takes. But "goleto" didn't know anything about that, yet.

Back in 1921, when Dempsey fight Carpenter in Jersey, some newspaper hired a lady novelist to write a piece on it. She decided that she wanted to write up was loser's dressing-room after it all over. She had been reading her life about the winner, and thought she would like to know for what happened to the loser. She found out. What happened to was nothing. Carpenter was there, and a couple of rubbers were working on him, and his manager was there, and that was Nobody came in to tell him had put up a good fight, or that was a hell of a wallop he hit Dempsey in the second round, or to borrow a quarter.

That's how it was with me. There was no autograph hunters that got quiet after a while, and the outside died away, and I lit a cigarette, and sat there. After a time there was a tap on the sa. I never moved. It came in and still again, and then I heard my first name called. It sounded like Doris, and I went to door and opened it. She was in a little green suit, and a man felt hat, and brown shoes, came in without looking at me. "What happened?"

"Weren't you there?" I said. Doris looked at me then. "I had to take the children home for the second act. . . I heard people talking, on my way here." "Remembered Lorentz, and his crime at the Cathedral Theatre that day. I was glad there was a person in the world that hadn't had Three, because that meant had taken the kids out before happened."

"Got the bird," I told her. "Damn them." "Began to pull off the whiskers. came over and did it for me. got the towel and wiped off make-up. She wiped clean, and, and, and frowned, like it was business and said, "Hold on," and I loved it. "Now you'll do. Stay where you'll put on your shoes." "I guess I don't have to tell you I had never put any shoes on me before. I sat there, and she came on and tied them, and she came on with my shirt, my pants, and my coat. But I still didn't know why she had come. I never seen her like this, but wasn't any consolation scene. I saw that and there was nothing in what had happened that excited me. If she hadn't been there I flopped, what had she come to the theater for, anyway? She helped me on with my top-gave my arm a little squeeze, and we went out. "The cab on the way up to my I kept thinking there was something I had forgotten, something I had intended to do. Then remembered. I was to sign the contracts. I sat back and watched the points go back. That was one I didn't have to worry about. When we got into the lobby, I saw something glaring at me from a chair near the elevators, and I didn't tumble at first to what it was. There had been so many glares coming my way lately that one more didn't make much impression. But then I came out of the fog. It was Craig, my partner, whom I hadn't seen since we built the gag chicken coop up in Connecticut, and he had dug in at his place upstate. I blinked, and looked at Doris, and thought maybe that was why she had come around, or anyway had something to do with it. But she seemed as surprised as I was. He still sat there, glaring at us, and then he got up and came over. He didn't shake hands. He started in high, and he was plenty sore.

The look on that old hard-rock man's face, holding up that picture, was the funniest thing I ever saw in my life.

"Where've you been?" "Why—right here."

"And why here? What's the idea of hiding out in this dump? I've been looking for you all night, and it was just by accident that I found you. Just by accident."

Doris cut in, meeker than I ever heard her. "Why—one of the children was threatened with measles and Leonard came down here so he wouldn't be quarantined."

"Couldn't he let somebody know?" "He—it was only to be for a few days."

That seemed to cool him off a little, and I tried to be friendly. "When did you get to town? I thought you were up there milking cows."

"Never mind when I got to town, and never mind the cows. And cut the comedy. Get this. You've got just forty minutes to make a train, and pay attention to what I'm telling you."

"Shoot."

"Alabama. You've heard of it?" "Sounds familiar."

"There's a big government-aid railroad bridge going up down there, and we build bridges, this here Craig-Borland Company that we've got, even if you seem to have forgotten it. You get down there, and you get that contract."

"Where is this bridge?" "I got no time for that. It's all in here, in this briefcase, the whole thing, and you can read it going down. Here's your tickets, for the two of you, and remember, you got thirty-nine minutes. When you get there, I'll wire you our bid. I'll put the whole thing on the wire. It's being figured up now. The main thing now is—get there."

"O. K., Chief."

He turned to Doris. And you—" "Yes, sir."

"Listen to what I'm telling you. This contract—this is no back-country tunnel. This is a bunch of well-to-do South'ners, dat dey granddaddy had slaves befo' de wa', and they've got to be impressed. You hear that? You take a whole floor in that hotel, and you roll out the liquor, and you step on it. You do all the things that your bum, sassiety, high-toned, good-for-nothing upbringing has taught you how to do, and then you do it twice."

"Booh. I know you."

"For once in your life, maybe you can be of some use."

"Just once?"

"If you put it across, you'll be back in time for Christmas. If you don't put it across, you needn't come back at all."

"We'll put it across. . . . So we put it across, and that's what we're doing now. And they've got a bird in this business, too, that rides the trusses while the scows are taking them out, and flies around and flaps its wings and crows like hell whenever one of them falls in the river. But his wings haven't got much exercise on this job, and neither has his voice. This is my trade. The river has got pretty tough once or twice, and we've had some close squeaks. But not one of those trusses has taken a dive yet. . . . But I'm ahead of my story. Craig had a paper stuck in his pocket, and after he had laid the law down he began to get sore again and remembered it. He tapped it with his finger. "And you keep in touch with me. If it hadn't been for this, seeing your name in this paper just by accident, I wouldn't have known where to look for you."

He took it out and opened it, and pointed to a great big picture of me in the whiskers and wig and cap and bells on the theatrical page.

"Is that you?"

Doris let out a cackle that made everybody in the lobby look up. It was just a silvery peal that came from the heart, and did you good to hear it. She wasn't laughing at me. She was laughing at Craig, and when I looked at him I had to laugh too. I had to laugh so hard I folded into one of the lobby chairs, and so did she. The look on that old hard-rock man's face, holding up that picture, was the funniest thing I ever saw in my life, or ever hope to see. . . .

I scrambled up and threw my stuff into a bag, and was so excited over getting back in harness that I kept singing all the time and didn't even feel bad about it, and down in the lobby Doris called the house, and we made the train. We had the drawing-room, but I was out of cigarettes, and I went into the club car to get some. When I got back she was already tucked in, in the upper berth, and all you could see was a tangle of red hair. I undressed, got into the lower. I waited, and she didn't say anything. I turned out my light, and still nothing from her. All you could hear was the wheels, going clikety-click. They kind of beat time, and I started to sing the opening of a duet:

"La ci darem la mano! La mi dirai di si! Vedi non e lontano Partiam ben mio da qui."

It was time for her to come in, and I waited. Then: "Did you sing that with her?"

"No, I never did."

"Are you sure?"

"They were going to have me do 'Don Giovanni.' This last outfit, I mean. So I got the score, and found it in there. I had heard you humming it around, so—I learned it."

She came tumbling down the ladder, all floppy in a suit of my pajamas. She slipped in beside me, put her arms around me. "Leonard."

"Yes?"

"I'm glad you flopped. Because I flopped, and—if you could do this one thing I've always wanted to do, and can't—I couldn't stand it. And—"

"Go on. And what?"

"It'll be all mine, now, this that you have in your throat. That's why I came back there. Leonard, when you sang that day at Gwendolyn's cocktail party it almost killed me. I think you wanted it to. Oh, I've been a terrible wife to you, Leonard. I'm jealous, and spiteful, and mean, and nothing will ever change me. But when I get too terrible, just sing to me, and I'll be your slave. I'll come crawling to you, just the way you came crawling to them, in the second act tonight. That woman has given us something that was never there before, and when we get back I'm going to thank her, and win her, and make her my friend. Oh, I can—I don't care what has gone before. I can win anybody when I really want them. . . . Now I'll say it—something you've never heard me say before: I've fallen in love. With my own husband."

I held her tight. She put her mouth against my throat, and began kissing it. "Now sing, and I'll sing."

NEW WAR PRODUCTION ORDER DOES NOT AFFECT LAMB COUNTY ROAD BUILDING

Completion of highways under construction in Lamb County will not be placed in jeopardy as a result of a War Production order banning the topping of roads not needed for national defense, County Judge Stanley A. Doss announced Wednesday.

The new order does not apply to roads under construction prior to April 9, Judge Doss reliably informed.

Construction work was proceeding this week on the east-west road through Lamb county and on the roads in the Amherst road district, and it is expected that they will be completed on schedule.

The Commissioners Court has set Thursday, April 30, for a hearing on a petition to call an election to vote on a proposal to issue $145,000 in bonds for road construction in the Sudan district. A previous election, which resulted in a vote in favor of new road construction in the Sudan district, was contested, and was invalidated by the District court.

Crawford Bates 2nd Lieutenant To Report May 6

Crawford Bates was notified by wire Wednesday from the Adjutant General office, Washington, that he was granted a second Lieutenant commission, and to report on May 6, to the Commanding Officer, Field Artillery Replacement Training Center, Camp Roberts, Calif.

Two weeks ago Crawford submitted to the third medical examination at Camp Barkley at Abilene.

Littlefield Band To Play At Amarillo

The 45 piece Littlefield band will enter the Regional Band Contest at Amarillo this year for the first time in the history of the band organization. This is a contest for all bands in this musical region of the state. Bands are classified according to size and compete only against bands of a like nature. The Littlefield band is entered in Class II-B which is made up of the bands from Muleshoe, Littlefield, Levelland, Dalhart, Perryton, and Shamrock. Usually there are from 13 to 15 bands entered in this class but because school buses are not allowed to carry bands because of the tire shortage many schools are not entering.

The local group will play at 11:30 on Saturday morning at the Municipal Auditorium, and will march that night on the athletic field. Their concert pieces consist of a march, "Men in Grey," an overture, "Mantilla Overture," and a piece of their own selection, "Phantom Trumpeters." Their marching will be made up of required formations.

In addition to the appearance of the entire group, three soloists will play on Thursday in their respective divisions. They are Betty Walters, alto saxophone; Roberta Sullivan, oboe; and J. W. Taylor, clarinet.

Sugar Sales To Be Limited To Half Pound Per Week

Sugar sales will be limited to a half pound a week per person, during the first two months of government rationing, the OPA disclosed Thursday.

Decisions as to future allowances will depend largely upon the supply picture, officials indicated, leaving the entire program flexible and subject to prompt alteration by the Office of Price Administration.

When plans to ration sugar were announced originally, OPA said the weekly allowance probably would be 12 ounces. Since then, increasing shortages of supplies forced a reduction to eight.

Each of the first four stamps in the 28-stamp ration book to be issued each citizen will be good for a two-week period and each will permit purchase of one pound of sugar. After these four stamps have been used, OPA may or may not alter the size of the weekly ration and the period of time covered by each stamp, it was explained.

Making public official instructions for registration of citizens and operation of the nation's first food rationing system, OPA declared that persons possessing more than two pounds of sugar at the time of registration would be penalized as hoarders, while persons possessing more than six pounds would be permitted to register but would be denied ration books until their "hoard" is exhausted.

Individuals possessing more than two pounds, but not exceeding six, will have one stamp for each pound torn from their ration books at the time of registration. Since these restrictions apply to individuals, a family of four, for example, could possess eight pounds without penalty.

No retail sales of sugar will be permitted during the week beginning April 27, preliminary to the consumer registration between May 4 and May 7.

Officials said actual rationing would begin some time during the registration period but that the exact date had not been set. Wholesale deliveries from refiners to industrial users will not be affected by the pre-ration "freeze" at the retail level.

Cautioning citizens to be careful of their ration books OPA commented that "it may, at a later time, be necessary to use them for other commodities if they are rationed." The "other commodities" were not designated, but it was recalled that supplies of tea and coffee, for example, have been seriously threatened by the shipping situation.

To Vote On Wheat Referendum May 2

With the nation needing so many war crops, now is no time to expand wheat production, J. F. Chafin, Lamb County AAA committee, said this week.

"We have enough wheat in sight to last two years without growing another kernel", the chairman said. In national referendum, Saturday, May 2, wheat farmers will go to the polls for the second year to decide whether to continue wheat quotas on this year's crop. Last year the national vote was 80 per cent for quotas while Lamb county wheat farmers approved quotas by 93.4 per cent.

Unsung Hero

One of the yet unsung heroes of the magnificent resistance on Bataan peninsula is Lieut. Col. Jack Schwartz, of Fort Worth, Texas, who is shown outside the crude operating room of Hospital No. 2. In one night and a day Lieut. Col. Schwartz and staff handled 420 major and minor operations.

"We are in desperate need of meat, milk, eggs, cheese, vegetables, fats and oils. If we fail to produce these foods and, instead, add to our already enormous wheat supply, we'll not only be wasting our time and machinery, but we'll be failing our country in her darkest hour of need", he said.

Total supply of wheat on July 1, 1942, is estimated at 1,423 million bushels of, which 630 million bushels represent carryover, while the 1942 crop is estimated at 793 million bushels.

"If we continue to raise the things we don't need and fail to raise the things we do need, we'll be doing 'farming as usual' and that sort of farming went with Pearl Harbor," Chafin said.

Purpose of wheat marketing quotas is to divide a limited market equally among wheat producers. Marketing quotas also make possible more efficient use of transportation and storage facilities.

"We don't have time to produce things we don't need in the war. Our Food for Freedom program outlines the feed and food we need. Victory demands plenty, but not waste and any increase in wheat will just be that much waste," Chafin said.

Wheat farmers will have their choice between marketing quotas and headache tablets Saturday, May 2, according to L. F. Bain, secretary, Lamb County A.C.A.

Storage space already crowded to capacity, transportation facilities jammed with war materials, poor export prospects, and a two-year supply in sight are some of the problems wheat farmers are facing this year, he explained.

Avoid Replanting! TREAT COTTONSEED WITH CERESAN

Progressive planters of Texas, Oklahoma and every other cotton state have proved how successfully CERESAN seed treatment reduces seed rotting and sore-shin, generally improves stands, saves costly replanting and commonly increases yields—often 10 to 25%. Oklahoma A. & M. College reports, "Dusting the seed with Ceresan is in more general use than any other cottonseed treatment..." Temple, Texas, reports some tests in which "germination was doubled." Give your seed this protection this year! CERESAN costs only a few cents an acre; is easy to use. Get it from your dealer and treat your own seed, or buy seed marked with the Ceresan Certificate Tag.

TREAT OTHER SEEDS, TOO!
Use Semesan Jr. for corn; New Improved Ceresan for small grains; Semesan for vegetables; Semesan Bel for potatoes.

Wheat marketing quotas divide a limited wheat market cooperatively and democratically among producers, and provide for orderly production, marketing, transportation and storage. Extension of 85-percent of parity loans are also contingent upon marketing quota approval.

Average loan rate in 1938 was 53 cents per bushel as compared with 98 cents in 1941, the AAA officials said in explaining that domestic prices have consistently followed loan prices during the last few years.

Prior to the wheat program, huge supplies always meant low prices, but through loans, marketing quotas, all allotments, wheat farmers have built adequate reserves for the nation and at the same time have strengthened prices for the continuation of sound agriculture.

"We need to keep our wheat supplies at a high point during today's war, but we should not be made to suffer for doing a job well and wheat marketing quotas give us the protection we need," Bain said.

FARMERS URGED TO PLANT PEANUTS

With peanut planting underway in most of the State, the Texas USDA War Board issued a last minute appeal this week to growers not to fall short on the production of that vital war crop.

"Texas farmers have promised the nation that they will plant the more than a million acres asked of them. We must make good on that promise," B. F. Vance, board chairman, declared.

The board's appeal came on the heels of an Agricultural Marketing Service report to the effect that indications were that Texas farmers would plant only 776,000 acres, nearly 300,000 acres short of the 1,056,000-acre Food for Victory goal.

Peanuts, which supply badly needed oils, are considered one of the most important of the war crops being produced in Texas.

FOURTEEN SYNTHETIC RUBBER PLANTS TO BE BUILT IN TEXAS

Texas will produce 700,000 tons of synthetic rubber in 14 plants to be constructed, Senator O'Daniel (D-Texas) told the Dallas Automotive Trades Association recently.

He said that contracts had been let for 14 synthetic rubber plants with a capacity of 50,000 tons per factory per year to be built in the state.

Official word of the contracts will be released by the War department, O'Daniel said.

The method discovered by Dr. E. P. Schoch of the University of Texas as presumably would be utilized.

"This would bring rubber factories to Texas and mean that automobile tires can be made here, utilizing the cotton and carbon black produced in Texas," the Senator explained.

 Cottonseed Delinting Plant,
 Waco, Texas.

Gentlemen:

This is in reply to your letter of February 16th, requesting some comments on acid delinted cottonseed. In most years seed that were Kemgas treated or acid delinted by other means have given good germination with little or no seedling disease. About the only treatment that surpasses acid delinting is acid delinting plus dust treatment with organic mercury dust such as new improved Ceresan (5%) at the rate of one ounce per bushel. There is usually more than a 50 per cent increase in germination where seed are delinted as compared to seed receiving no treatment. Seedling disease infection is usually from 20 to 30 times more on seedlings from untreated seed than on seedlings from acid delinted seed, especially where the acid delinted seed are further treated with Ceresan to afford extra protection. Acid delinted seed may readily be planted with a corn planter or hill dropped at spaces of from 12 to 24 inches or more. By planting in this manner the seed required per acre may be reduced by more than half. It has also been found that where the rate of planting seed is reduced cotton root rot is also reduced and yields usually increased. It is somewhat easier to chop or hoe cotton where it is planted in such manner. There is thus a saving in seed required and a probable increase in yield and somewhat of a reduction in labor required to cultivate the crop. Delinted seed usually germinate quicker than fuzzy seed, but should not be planted quite as deep as fuzzy seed. Seedlings are usually more vigorous or larger than seedlings from untreated seed, thus allowing closer and more intensive cultivation. This is especially valuable following periods of wet weather where grass has started growing in such crops.

If there is any other information we can supply, kindly write.

Yours very truly,
 C. H. ROGERS,
 Plant Pathologist

submit to registration on April 27, 1942.

2. Registration should be made at a designated registration place of the local board area in which the registrant has his permanent home, or in which he may happen to be between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. on April 27. This registration place may be the office of the local board having jurisdiction in the area, or other public place properly designated by that local board.

3. Registrants must answer all questions asked by the registrar for notation on the card. It is important that the registrant describe his place of residence in detail as well as give full particulars as to the address at which he will be sure to receive mail or other communications.

Anyone who is unavoidably away from his home on April 27 may register at the registration place most convenient on that day. General Page said, but all registrants are urged to make every effort to register with their own local boards to avoid possible confusion in the future. Any person who must register away from home also is warned to carefully specify his home address so that his registration card may be forwarded promptly to his own local board.

Special registrars also will be provided to register men who cannot appear at a designated registration place because of illness or other incapacity. General Page stated, but it is incumbent upon these men to advise a registrar in their local board area of their inability to appear at a registration place.

A registrant who has more than one place of residence may choose which one he wants recorded as his place of residence, but no transient address may be recorded.

After the registrant has answered all questions and signed his name to the registration card, he will be given a registration certificate signed by the registrar. This certificate must be in the personal possession of the registrant at all times. Failure to possess this certificate, or to show it to authorized persons constitutes a violation of Selective Service Regulations and is considered prima facie evidence of failure to register.

General Page pointed out that those who register on April 27 are not liable for military service under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended. They will be required later to fill out an occupational questionnaire concerning their civilian qualifications and skills, but that is for the purpose of obtaining information only.

Federal Cotton Crop Insurance Protects Texas Farmers

Insects and weather won't scare approximately 42,000 Texas Cotton farmers this year regardless of the damage they do.

Reason is the new federal all-risk cotton insurance which protects either 50 or 75 per cent of the average yield on their farms.

"We have 331,694 cotton allotment farms in Texas and about 15 per cent of them went all-out against unavoidable hazards this year by taking out crop insurance", Donald L. Cothran, state crop insurance supervisor, has announced.

Notes From County Agent

Large amount of fruit was destroyed last year by worms boring into it. These worms can be destroyed by spraying with a mixture of 4 lbs. of wettable sulfur, 1 lb. lead arsenic and 50 gallons of water. Two sprayings should be made, the first when all the blossoms have fallen off, and the second about 10 to 14 days later.

Wheat producers should go to Littlefield Saturday, May 2, and vote on the Wheat Marketing Quota Return. The outcome of this referendum will determine whether or not marketing quotas will continue or be terminated. The outcome of this referendum will have an important bearing on the Food for Victory Program.

Producers should conserve all feed bags, bagging material is scarce due to war conditions and we are faced with a serious shortage of bagging materials. When a reasonable number of bags have been used, you do not need put them in circulation by selling them to a dealer or jobber.

Producers cooperating with the AAA may harvest volunteer wheat and still earn their ACP provided their acreage of wheat is within the 1942 allotment and they comply with the provisions of the AAA. Volunteer wheat must be harvested on the farm where it is subject to Marketing Quota Penalty. The farm volunteer wheat will be eligible for a 1942 loan at 50 percent of the used rate.

All 4-H club boys interested in competing for one of the Sears, Roebuck and Co. registered gifts should get their essay entitled, "Advantages of the Cow-Hog-Hen Plan of Farming", written and turned into this office before May 15th. This essay should contain not over 500 words.

Field peas may be planted on soil conserving acres this year and these peas harvested and sold. Peas are a good soil building plant but should be inoculated to secure maximum benefits from them.

343 boys of Lamb County have enrolled for 4-H Club work this year, this is an increase over last year but there are still many boys who should be in this work. All boys interested in Club work should contact this office as soon as possible as final enrollment date is June 1st.

The government is still asking for more peanuts for oil. If you are interested in growing a few acres of peanuts call by the office and we will be glad to explain the program to you. The government is guaranteeing a minimum price of $84.00 per ton for No. 2 white spanish peanuts.

All indications are that there will be a serious shortage of storage space for this year's wheat crop. It is estimated that if the expected crop materializes that in Texas and Oklahoma alone there will be 44,000,000 bushels of wheat that will

Interesting Letter Written By Billie Holder To Leader

Billie Holder, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Holder, who enlisted in the Navy at Lubbock on March 9, last, and is now in training at San Diego, Cal., recently wrote the Leader the following letter, which will be of much interest to the readers of this newspaper:

"Dear Mr. and Mrs. Drake: Of all the things I miss most, one of them is your fine Lamb County Leader. Without it a fellow never knows what is going on in Lamb County and other parts. It is the finest little paper I have ever read. The boys here are all from Texas, and some of them receive papers from home and none of them have your paper beat."

"Mr. Drake you should be out here and see the different types of people from different states. Of this whole Naval base the Texas boys have the name of being the friendliest boys here. When I first came here the fellows from up North started calling everyone 'Mac' but that old stuff has just about been stopped. We Texas fellows started the nickname of 'Bud' and have just about drowned out the 'Mac' business. Don't think we aren't the roughest bunch here either, some of the fellows have already found that out. Day before yesterday a fellow from Arkansas tried a Texas boys boot on and it was just a fraction too large. You should have seen it, Boy it was a pip.

You've always heard how clean the Navy was. I'll tell you clean isn't the word for it. There just isn't any dirt to be found. It's the most sanitary place I've ever seen. There is plenty of entertainment to keep the morale of the boys up and there isn't an idle moment to be had. So you see a fellow doesn't have much time to think of home.

Speaking of home, I have written a poem about the way we (Five boys from Littlefield) feel about the plains.

We thought maybe you might print it so the folks there would know just how everybody who goes to the service feels about the plains.

I hope you are all in the best of health and hope to see you soon. "Keep Em Floating" Your Friend, Billie Dee Holder

"I WOULD I COULD BE BACK ON THE TEXAS PLAINS" By Bobbie Dee Holder

I would I could be back on the plains, Where the sand blows and it seldom rains. Where the corn grows high and the cotton's snowy white, And where the nice old farmer works all through the night, Where the people are friendly and work together, Where you are never sure about the weather. Where one year you're up and the next you're down, Where one day you stifle, and the next day drown. Where the dogs bark but seldom bite, Where the people are led by the guiding light. Where when a fellow leaves he always comes back, Whether he be White, Brown or black. Where I could sit in my dear mohave no storage place available. Wheat farmers should start considering now what they are going to do with this wheat. If you plan to store the wheat on the farm you should start making arrangements for these materials to build storage bins with immediately. Due to priorities it may be difficult to secure these materials if you wait too long before starting these structures.

LAMB COUNTY LEADER

VOLUME XX

LITTLEFIELD, LAMB COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, APRIL 23, 1942

FORMER RESIDENTS STILL WANT TO READ THE LAMB COUNTY LEADER

Readers of the Lamb County Leader, when they move to other parts invariably request that the paper be sent on to them...

The Leader personnel regretted very much when Littlefield lost Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hemphill, who recently moved to Brownville, Texas.

These fine people are greatly missed both in and out of Church and club associations, and it is to be hoped that they return to this city sometime in the not too far distant future.

A letter was received by the publisher's wife from Brownville Thursday, and which will be of interest to the many friends of the Hemphill family here.

"After so long a time we are located at Brownville where we are enjoying the nice warm weather. Also the fresh fruit and vegetables. And When Mr. Hemphill can find time we run out to the channel, which is about seven miles, and catch a mess of fish. But with all this pleasure, I sometimes wish I was in Littlefield, where we may return some day.

Sincerely, Mrs. A. G. Hemphill"

The Leader also thanks Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Allred for their nice letter of Appreciation of this newspaper, which was received Friday, and which will be interesting to their large circle of friends in this county.

"Please send our paper to above address instead of Box 321, Torrance. We certainly do enjoy the good old Lamb County Leader and couldn't get along without it. Just "keep 'em publishing" with more and more news about the home folks. Mr. Allred is employed in the shipbuilding industry by California shipyards and likes it fine. "But we sure do miss Littlefield and it's friendly folks. "Good luck to you and your progressive paper. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Allred."

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Thomas of Anton have reported they have received no news of their son, June, who was believed to have been aboard one of the U. S. ships engaged in the bitter battle for Java.

FOR EXACTLY A YEAR

We Have Been Proud To Serve You

It is our anniversary. We thank every one of you who have been so loyal to us during our first year in business. It has been a year that has brought many changes in world and national conditions, but we are prouder than ever to be Americans, and proud of our town. We shall continue to serve you, and to serve our nation by our regular purchase of War Bonds and Stamps.

EXPERT LUBRICATION and WASHING

Lubrication of your car is a job that should be done by experts. We have the proper guns, filled with the correct lubricants to reach ALL of those out-of-the-way, hard-to-get spots that mean the difference between ordinary and GOOD trouble-free lubrication. Oils and greases should be changed to meet the needs of the season, so change today to summer lubricants.

Cars need to be washed often to keep them looking like new longer, and to protect and preserve the finish. When dirt is left on, it grinds into the car, loosening and shortening the life of the paint. Drive your car in for a wash job that will make it look like new.
