FACES CHARGE OF MURDERING O. H. STILLMAN

Says "Part of Trouble" Over Non-Payment of Witness Fees

C. C. Pynes, 57, who resides about 10 or 12 miles west of Littlefield, is at liberty in bail of $2500, awaiting the action of the grand jury, as a result of a charge against him of killing O. H. Stillman, 45, who resided in the same locality, shortly before noon last Thursday.

Stillman died of a shotgun wound in his right side, death taking place enroute to Littlefield, where he was being brought for medical attention. Stillman was the owner of land west of Littlefield, and Pynes was one of his tenants.

Shooting at Headquarters Farm
The shooting took place beside a windmill on what is known as the headquarters property, the home on which is occupied by Stillman's mother-in-law, Mrs. O. E. Wells.

Pynes home is about 200 yards from the scene of the killing, and Stillman resided about a mile east. Pynes said that "part of the trouble" was over $48 witness fees, he

TWO HUNDRED RED CROSS MEMBERS SECURED IN DRIVE OF FRIDAY LAST

The annual Red Cross Roll call got underway Friday last in Littlefield, when a number of workers canvassed Littlefield for members.

The total membership secured is not available at going to press, but Rev. J. F. Grizzle, chairman of the County Red Cross, stated it would be around the 200 mark.

The goal set by the National office for the county is 700 members, and the workers have intimated that number can and will be reached.

Special meetings will be held at Earth, Hart's Camp, Fieldton and other places, in the near future, so as to make the drive over the county as complete as possible.

Amherst, Sudan and Olton have indicated they will start campaigns Saturday.

Mr. Grizzle urges every citizen in the county, who is not a member of this worthy organization, to see a worker and secure a card and button.

He stated that fifty cents from each membership remains here in the county for use by the county chapter and local branches.

Pupils of Littlefield Schools Are Raising Funds in Red Cross Drive

Along with the regular Red Cross drive of the city and county the school is making a drive for 100 per cent membership in that organization. Each and every room is taking it up as an individual project and asking the children who wish to bring a penny to do so. It is not compulsory on any one. The spirit of the Red Cross is that it shall be a voluntary contribution. This idea of the matter is portrayed to the children in their participation in a nation and international organization.

The Red Cross buttons are used as a stimulus for the children to do voluntary act of service for the other members of the class and the school. When a child does something worthy he is awarded one of these pins. They are slightly different from the adult pin in that they have the words "I serve" written across them.

Later it is hoped that the pupils will be trained in international work by corresponding with pupils of other

Teachers May Get Employment In Night School

L. D. Rochelle, county superintendent of schools, has been notified by L. A. Woods, State Superintendent of Education, Austin, that a portion of the Federal Relief fund allotted to meet immediate unemployment needs in Texas, would be available to furnish employment to teachers in this section who, due to conditions, are unemployed.

As the county superintendent just received this advice Wednesday, a definite program has not been worked out.

Mr. Rochelle said that the schools in the county have sufficient teachers to take care of their needs, and so the plan would be to hold adult classes at night for men and women who were deprived of schooling in their youth, and who would be interested in attending such classes. He said there would have to be a sufficient number of teachers to handle the classes.

It was also brought out at the meeting that the reduction for 1934 would be figured at 40 per cent of the acreage planted during the two to five year period ending with 1932, and that the allowance per acre would be 3c per pound on the average

CONGRATULATIONS

Cecil Galloway, 15 years of age and a member of the Olton 4-H club, is a youth of whom Lamb county has every reason to be proud.

This young man has just been awarded a trip to the International Livestock show at Chicago, with all expenses paid by the Santa Fe Railway.

Each year the Santa Fe offers 19 trips to the International Livestock show to club boys in territory served by that railway, who make outstanding achievements in 4-H club work. The Olton district boy is the fourth in this county to win a Santa Fe trip.

Cecil fed out five Hereford calves; placed first and second at the Panhandle-South Plains fair in the junior yearling class, 4-H club division, and placed fourth in the open class, showing against John M. Gist and Texas Tech, and other high class competition. The Lub county boy won the Santa Fe trip on ability to feed and show.

The achievements of young Galloway are but new examples of the value and wisdom of special training for the youths on the farms of the country.

AN ASSISTANT

Most of us are familiar with the accomplishments in behalf of the farm population of Lamb county, and the county itself, which have been achieved through home demonstration and county agent work. Every effort should be made to extend this work because there is not anything of greater importance to Lamb county and the entire population of the county.

For some time the county agent's time has been taken up almost entirely with special government activities, notably cotton and wheat control.

The special work which is occupying the greater portion of the county agent's time is of the utmost importance, but the enlarged program has resulted in much of the regular county agent's work not being carried out.

Lamb county is enjoying wonderful benefits as a result of the special government activities, particularly cotton acreage control, and it seems to us that consideration should be given at this time to the employment of an assistant county agent. Such a man could be employed at a cost of approximately $600 a year to the county. The balance of his salary would be taken care of by the state and federal governments.

The employing of an assistant county agent should receive immediate consideration by the County Commissioners' Court.

Anything that is in the interests of the farmers and their families and the general agricultural development of our county is of the utmost importance.

Why Liquid Laxatives Do You No Harm

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, and with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it!

An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is syrup pepsin. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help, as they do in the case of cathartics containing mineral drugs. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Member N. R. A.

Jim and Steve Etter attended the Roby-Rotan ball game at Roby November 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Blair and daughter, La Vern, Miss Lillie Blair, and Mrs. Irvin Humphreys of Abilene spent a week end recently with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sparks.

Miss Little Blair of Abilene is the guest of her cousin, Miss Winona Minga. She plans on spending several weeks.

Miss Avis Dow is now employed by Dr. J. R. Coen as office assistant, assuming her duties Monday of last week.

Miss Dora Belle Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, had her tonsils removed recently at the office of Dr. J. R. Coen, who performed the operation.

Counties of Plains Named For Heroes of Texas Independence

(By Jerome B. Timmons in Amarillo News.)

It is interesting to note the number of Panhandle counties named in honor of soldiers and other heroes of the Texas war for independence. Of the 54 counties in the Panhandle-Plains, 32 were named for heroes of the Texas revolution, and 11 of that number gave their lives to win freedom from their Mexican oppressors.

In 1876, the state Legislature passed an act creating these counties and naming them. Many members of that, the 14th Legislature, remembered the stirring days of the revolution and the pioneers of that day, on whom they placed honor.

The following revolutionary heroes have Panhandle-Plains counties named in their honor.

Richard Andrews, killed in the battle of Concepcion; Bailey, an Alamo victim, and not the famous Senator, as popularly supposed; Andrew Briscoe, signer of the Texas Declaration of Independence, who also commanded a company of regulars at San Jacinto; Samuel P. Carson, another signer of the Declaration of Independence, secretary of state in Burnett's cabinet, and who had also been a U. S. Congressman from North Carolina before coming to Texas; George C. Childress, called the "Thomas Jefferson of Texas," because he wrote the Declaration of Independence; Cochran, a victim of the Alamo; James Collingsworth who also signed the Declaration, captured the old Mexican fort at Goliad, fought at San Jacinto, and later served as chief justice of the new republic's supreme court; C. W. Cottle, killed at the Alamo; Erastus (Deaf) Smith, the old scout for Houston's army at San Jacinto; Nicholas H. Dawson, a second lieutenant at San Jacinto and killed in the Mexican war; J. Dickens, a victim of the Alamo; Sam Rhoades Fisher, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and Houston's secretary of the navy; D. Floyd, another Alamo victim; John C. Hale, a soldier in the battle of San Jacinto; Warren D. C. Hall, a secretary of the navy in the Burnett cabinet; James M. Hansford, speaker of the House of Representatives in the Congress of the republic; John Hemphill, chief justice of the supreme court, both republic and state, and later a U. S. Senator; Gen. Geo. W. Hockley, who commanded a wing of the Texan army at San Jacinto and later became secretary of war for President Houston; A. Kent and William King, both died in the Alamo; Lieut. George Lamb, killed at San Jacinto; George W. Lynn, who died at the Alamo; Col. Thomas S. Lubbock, a soldier of the Texas revolution and the Civil War, and not the famous "war-governor," Francis R. Lubbock, as many believe; Wiley Martin, a soldier of the revolution and a member of the Texas Congress; Asa and Eli Mitchell, leading citizens of Austin's colony, who served in the Texas army; Commodore E. W. Moore, of the Texas navy, and killed at San Jacinto; Martin Parmer, a member of the constitutional convention and signer of the declaration, Robert Potter, Alabama Congressman who came to Texas to become Houston's secretary of the navy; John S. Roberts, also a signer of the Declaration of Independence; Sidney Sherman, who commanded a squadron of cavalry at San Jacinto and succeeded General Rusk as commander-in-chief of the Texas army; James G. Swisher, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and a captain at San Jacinto.

The following are the names given to the remainder of the Panhandle-Plains counties:

Armstrong, for a pioneer family; Borden, for Gail Borden, Jr., a delegate to the San Felipe convention, publisher of the Harrisburg Telegraph and inventor of the process of condensing milk; Castro, for Henry P. Castro, a Frenchman of the staff of Napoleon Bonaparte, who came to Texas and colonized the region immediately west of San Antonio; Crosby, for Stephen Crosby, state land commissioner during the Civil War; Dallam, for James W. Dallam; Donley, for Stockton P. Donley, a Democratic justice of the supreme court during reconstruction; Gaines, for James Gaines of Gaines Ferry on the Sabine River, who served in the republic Congress; Garza, for an old Spanish family in Texas; Gray, for Peter W. Gray, a member of the first Legislature and the Confederate Congress; Hartley, for O. C. and R. K. Hartley; Howard, for Volney E. Howard, of the annexation convention and a member of the U. S. Congress,

1851-53, Hutchinson, for Anderson Hutchinson, a district judge of the republic; Lipscomb, for Abner S. Lipscomb, Alabama chief justice and secretary of state for President M. B. Lamar; Nolan, for Philip Nolan, filibuster, killed by the Spanish soldiers while capturing wild horses in Texas; Ochiltree, secretary of the treasury in the second Houston cabinet; Oldham, for W. S. Oldham, a Confederate Senator from Texas; Randall, for Gen. Horace Randall, killed in the Civil War; Scurry, for Brig. Gen. William R. Scurry, who fought in the Mexican War and was killed in Louisiana during the Civil War; Stone-wall, for the nickname of Gen. T. J. Jackson; Terry, for Benjamin Terry, who led the famous "Terry Rangers" in the Civil War; Wheeler, for Royal T. Wheeler, district judge while Texas was a republic and later chief justice of the state supreme court; and Yoakum, for Henderson Yoakum, the historian of Texas.

O. L. Schlottman and family were hosts at a birthday dinner and supper given in honor of Mr. Schlottman's fifty-first birthday, Sunday, November 10.

Two large tables, generously served with turkey and a variety of other dishes, were resented several times, there being ninety-six to be served.

Other birthdays being honored were those of Herbert Dollie, Joe Wetzche and Mike Yohner. Also the twenty fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Geishman.

Their guests included relatives from Levelland, Pep and Littlefield.

Everyone had an enjoyable time and remained until a late hour.

Plymouth Sales Reveal Increasing Popularity of Car

Two talking pictures, "Hell Drivers" and "Three A Minute," were shown in Littlefield last week through the courtesy of the Plymouth Motor Corporation and the Littlefield Motor Co., local Plymouth dealers. E. B. Hewitt is the owner and manager of the Littlefield Motor Co.

The pictures were shown at the sales room of the Littlefield Motor Co. and at the Littlefield High school.

John K. Shaw, zoneman for the age John K. Shaw, zone manager for the Plymouth Motor Corporation, was in charge of the showing of the pictures.

"Hell Drivers," as the name suggests, is a racing picture, and "Three A Minute," has as a background a highly efficient manufacturing plant.

The growing popularity of the Plymouth is expressed in the increase in purchases this year over last year.

Offering an example of the increased popularity of the Plymouth, Mr. Shaw said that there had been a 287 per cent increase in Plymouth sales in Texas in the first seven months of this year over the same period of 1932.

Burleson & Co. Installing New Funeral Chapel

A portion of the building is being entirely remodelled, and a funeral chapel and slumber room installed. The chapel is being decorated in the pastel shades, and promises to be a credit to an establishment in a city much larger than Littlefield.

It is expected that the improvements will be completed by the end of this week.

EIGHT YEARS AGO IN LITTLEFIELD

(Excerpts from Lamb Co. Leader)

Rev. Silas Dixon and family left Saturday for Lubbock, where he will take charge of the Nineteenth Street Methodist church, to which he received assignment at the annual South Plains conference of the Methodist church, held at Canyon recently.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Akin have sold their stucco residence in Broad Acres addition to J. G. Sanders, and left this week for Winters, where they will make their future home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Brittain are the proud parents of a ten pound boy, James Thomas, born Monday night.

R. C. Hopping is having a residence built on his farm on the Spade land this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Parks have moved here from Liberty Hill, Williamson county, and will farm out east of town on the Spade ranch.

The Cochran County News, the first newspaper to be established in Cochran county, has been established by J. R. Rotchein.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Duggan and family, who have been residing in Anton, passed through Littlefield enroute to Long Beach, Cal., where they will make their future home. Mr. Duggan is leaving the management of the Anton townsite to Ed Hart, who will handle the work.

Texas Farmers To Get $6,000,000 in Wheat Control Plan

It is estimated that $6,000,000 will go to Texas farmers for their portion in the government's wheat control campaign.

Of this amount $5,000,000 will go to 23 north and west Panhandle counties, where the bulk of the State's wheat crop is grown. Sixteen South Plains counties will receive $141,000, and the balance will be allotted to the other wheat growing counties of the state.

The farmers will be paid 28 cents a bushel on 54 per cent of the five-year average. If all wheat farmers in the state sign contracts the total allotment will be $6,211,666. If only 90 per cent participate the total will be $5,590,499. About 2 cents a bushel, or $400,000, will go for administration expenses, each county financing its own setup.

Checks from the government will be mailed to the farmers during December, Robinson said. No contracts will be accepted after December 1.

Checks from the government will weeks after all farmers in any county sign contracts. Some of the Panhandle counties will be ready to report early next week.

Wheat control officials here explained that there are no limitations on how the farmers spend their money.

Complying with their part of the contract, Texas farmers next year will reduce their crops by 650,000 acres, or 15 per cent. It was not necessary to plow up any of this year's crop.

The 23 Panhandle counties receiving the bulk of the allotment money are Dallam, Sherman, Hansford, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Hemphill, Roberts, Hutchinson, Moore, Hartley, Oldham, Potter, Carson, Gray, Armstrong, Randall, Deaf Smith, Parmer, Castro, Swisher, Briscoe, Hale and Floyd.

The 16 South Plains counties are Wheeler, Donley, Collingsworth, Bailey, Lamb, Motley, Cottle Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, King, Hardeman, Ford, Terry and Dickens.

Future Farmers Hold Meeting

The Future Farmers had their regular meeting after school started, November 21, 1933. The house was called to order and went through the regular opening ceremony. The executive committee presented a list of requirements that each member must meet in order to receive full credit for club activities. The requirements were voted on, accepted and stood as read. 1. Attend all club meetings if in school. 2. No member to receive more than 10 demerits. 3. Take part in club work; 4. Be chairman of at least one committee during the year; 5. Have a court; 6. Each officer to know his part by next meeting; 7. Each member know the Future Farmer creed by end of term. We had a discussion of parliamentary procedure by our parliamentarian, Jessie Denton, then we had a report on our trip to the F. F. A. convention by Roy Lovke. Some of our last year members came back this meeting.

Recognition of Russia Announced

Recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States has been announced by President Roosevelt. Thursday night, one minute before midnight, he and Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Commissar for foreign affairs, came to an agreement on the points that have been in negotiation since Litvinoff arrived in Washington November 7.

William C. Bullitt, a state department expert on Russian affairs who has attended to personal conversations between the chief executive and the Russian diplomat, has been proposed by the president as the first American ambassador to the Soviet union.

Who will be the Russian ambassador to this country has not been disclosed.

An agreement also was reached for a "consular convention" between the two countries in which the United States is to be assured that its citizens will have all the rights that are granted to the nationals of other states under existing treaties with the Soviet. The convention will deal specifically with the rights of consuls of America and Russia.

There was little mention of future trade relations between the United States and Russia, although it was known that this subject was reviewed thoroughly in the man to man talk between Mr. Roosevelt and his visitor.

LARGE NUMBER RETURN TO WORK

According to a labor department estimate, 85,000 additional persons returned to work in October, and the administration is setting to work on its plan to increase the number to 4,000,000.

At the same time, Hary L. Hopkins, the relief administrator, made public figures for 131 cities and urban counties showing 1,485,634 families were on relief rolls in October compared with 1,79,232 the previous month.

Hopkins said the task of transferring men from work relief rolls by giving them jobs under the $400,000,000 civil works program began Thursday. He said that the largest shift reported to headquarters involved 100,000 men in Texas.

FOR A SHORT TIME ONLY we can give you the Semi-Weekly Farm News, regular price $1.00 per year, and the Lamb County Leader, regular price $1.50 per year, both for $2.00 either renewal or new subscription.

SUCCESS with POULTRY

by FULLER D. BAIRD

FEED FOR LAYING HENS

It is usual to classify feedstuffs as grain, grain by-products, and protein, mineral and vitamin supplements. Chickens are, primarily, grain eaters. In some localities corn is extensively used, while in others wheat is more economical. Wheat has more protein and ash than corn, while corn is considered to be more palatable and more easily digested. When it is considered to be desirable, from their relative prices, to use wheat in place of corn, it is possible to replace the corn, either the whole or the ground form, to the extent of 80%.

Neither barley nor oats are as palatable as corn or wheat, but they can be substituted for either one of them to at least 50%.

The principal grain by-products which are used in the poultry ration are wheat bran, wheat middlings, hominy feed, corn gluten meal and corn gluten feeds. Wheat bran is used in the ration to supply protein and ash and seems to have a value which is out of proportion to its chemical analysis. Wheat middlings are used extensively to supply heat and energy in poultry laying rations. Gluten meal and gluten feed are rich in protein and fat and can be used to as high as 10% of the mash when corn meal does not make up a high proportion of the ration. Hominy feed can be used as a substitute for corn meal in supplying heat and energy. With whole grain, such as corn, ground forms of wheat, oats and barley are extensively used to supply the requirements of the laying birds.

The usual protein supplement in the laying ration includes milk and milk by-products, meat meal, meat and bone meal, fish scrap and soya bean meal. The protein from a milk source seems to have a special value for poultry feeding.

Vegetable protein feeds, when properly supplemented by minerals, will give equally good results with feeds of animal origin such as meat meal, meat and bone meal or fish meal. Vegetable protein feeds are not, at the present time, considered to be equal to milk protein feeds, even if they are supplemented by minerals. A ration in which the protein comes from various sources usually gives better results than one in which the protein is obtained from a single source.

The nature and amount of the mineral supplement to a ration will depend upon the kind and quantity of other ingredients in the ration. Common mineral supplements to the average poultry laying ration are calcium carbonate from ground limestone or oyster shell, bone meal and salt.

With the exception of vitamin D, the other vitamins are usually obtained from the common ingredients in the ration. Vitamin D is supplied by the ultra-violet rays of sunlight and by cod liver oil. Cod liver oil is the surest and most economical source of Vitamin D.

It is believed by some that grit is necessary to furnish a means of grinding the food in the gizzard. When grit is fed, sharp granite grit is best.

American Legion Program For 1934

The American Legion program for 1934, beginning at once, has just been compiled by National Headquarters and a copy received by the Richard New Post of the Legion here.

It is described by Arthur Mueller, post commander, as the most constructive and conservative in the history of the Legion. "No one can object to this," he said, "and every citizen of the United States can support it. The American Legion will have no difficulty this year. Every veteran of the World War should get into this work at once, because his help is needed. Our National Commander, who is called the 'Abraham Lincoln of the Legion' in his home town, declares half of the men and women of the World War still living will join the Legion this year, and that it is up to each Legionnaire to see that they do. Then we must have a unity of thought in each of these activities, unity of expression and unity of action. We can have such team-work under our National Commander's leadership and cannot fail. Our first job is to thoroughly understand our program."

The major points of the program, in a nutshell, as outlined by National Headquarters to the Post Officials here, follow:

Restore those disabled in line of duty in the war to their status prior to March 20, 1933; hospitalize in government institutions all needy veterans requiring it; restore service connection for the disabled veteran if his case was so stated prior to March 20, 1933; and provide government protection for dependent widows and orphans of veterans.

Increase Legion aid to needy children of veterans which has been necessitated by economy reductions of benefits to veterans; ratify child labor amendment in states where this has not yet been done; promote legislation, state and nationally, to provide public health facilities, and conduct educational campaigns concerning child welfare conditions, facilities, mothers' aid and legal adoption of minors.

Protect our schools from undue economy slashes, advance patriotism, character and health among students. Conduct youth activities, including junior baseball, Boy Scouting, C. M. T. C., R. O. T. C., National Boys' Week, Junior Rifle Clubs and 4-H clubs. Participate in community service work. Sponsor reduction of immigration quotas by 90 per cent down to 10 per cent allowed under 1924 laws. Urge federal laws excluding alien communists, and expulsion of aliens who would overthrow our government or who are beholden to the Third Nationale. Continue principle that naturalized citizen must bear arm in defense of this country in an emergency. Oppose recognition of communists soviet Russia.

A law and order committee will be appointed by the National organization to study the problems of crime, and devise plans for state and national Legion organizations to participate in curbing crime. Urge laws to end sale of machine guns and similar weapons except to military and law enforcement authorities.

Build up the navy from third place, and the army from 17th place, to provisions of the London Treaty. Oppose cancellation of any or all war debts. Oppose the United States entering the League of Nations or to adherence of the World Court, either with or without reservations.

Urge Boards of Review to make complete and conscientious consideration of all facts and circumstances pertaining to every claim of disabled veterans.

Support the NRA in the present emergency and favor a sound American dollar.

Advocate a careful study by our government of the dangers of inflation.

Demand an equitable distribution of the tax burden and the elimination of injustices brought by tax exempt securities.

SUDAN

The marriage of Adair Webb of Sudan and Miss Bertha Denison of Vernon was solemnized at Vernon Saturday, November 4th.

Following the ceremony, a wedding supper was served at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Webb.

Out of town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Curley Camps and daughter, Helen, and Mrs. Alfred Schroder of Amherst, and Miss Pauline Baker of Amherst.

Up to Thursday noon of last week Sudan's three gins had ginned 4750 bales of the 1933 cotton crop.

Rev. San A. Thomas was returned to Sudan as pastor of the Methodist church for the ensuing year by the Methodist conference, which met at Clarendon recently.

Dr. Conrad R. Lam of Detroit, Mich., returned to his home last week, after spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Lam.

Littlefield F. F. A. Club Completes Two Objectives

The Littlefield Vocational Agriculture class was well represented at the State Future Farmers Convention by having thirteen delegates. The convention was held in Dallas during the Dallas Fair. The second objective decided upon was to have delegates present at the convention.

There were 3,171 Future Farmers present from 151 chapters, Littlefield and Chillicothe being the only chapters present from their district.

Immediately following the registration of delegates on Friday night, October 20, the Executive Committee met and decided upon objectives for 1933-34.

They also made recommendations for the Lone Star Farmers degree. The meeting Saturday morning consisted of music by the F. F. A. band, reading and the approval of objectives for 1933-34, roll calls and reports by the districts, and the approval of twenty five candidates for the Lone Star Farmer Degree. After the meeting was over, the boys marched to the main auditorium to have a group picture made.

Saturday afternoon the nominating committee met and recommended officers which were approved.

The meeting Saturday night was opened by community singing, led by W. E. Driskell. Inspirational talks were made by Dean E. E. Davis, North Texas Agriculture College, Arlington; E. R. Alexander, Texas A. & M. College, and C. H. Brown, Brown Tool Company, Breckenridge. Pat Stout, the presiding officer, announced the new officers and they in turn made short talks of appreciation.

The Littlefield agricultural exhibit at the County Fair was prepared and displayed by members of the Agriculture class. The exhibits were scored on the agriculture value as well as on the quality of the products shown. Littlefield having a score of 860 while Sudan's score was 892 out of a possible thousand.

The club realizes where they lost points and are determined to correct these weaknesses are come out in the lead next year.

The Higera division was won by a vocational agriculture student.

Makes Good Cattlemen
 Ray Bailey, Lake County, Indiana, farmer and cattle feeder, is having a lot of satisfaction watching his three sons develop into "chips off the old block." And the boys are having a lot of fun, too, along with their learning. Many folks are surprised when they hear what these young lads do. John, the youngest, is 11 and then comes Francis, then Forest who is nearly 15. But Mr. Bailey is one of those wise fathers who believes in giving his boys plenty of chance to stake their judgment against dollars. He believes it is better for them to take whatever risk there is now on small investments like one or two steers than to wait until they are in business for themselves and have to stake it on the large investment represented by a carload or two of cattle or hogs.
 Every year the father ships in a considerable number of range feeding steers and before he starts them on feed he gives the boys a chance to pick out the calves they will need for their 4-H feeding projects. This gets the lads interested in the cattle right away, and also tests their skill at picking out good steers. If they pick his best steers it only pleases him, for he knows that a good feeder first has to be a good judge of cattle. The boys then give their calves separate care and do all the feeding and keep a record of costs. They have won some of the best premiums at the county fair.
 Two of the lads accompanied their father to market this fall with a shipment of steers, including their club calves which were sold in the club auction. They said their gains cost less than five cents a pound, which were confirmed by Mr. Bailey by actual check of their figures. At this cost the boys figured a fair enough profit for the times. The boys do not try to secure phenomenal gains or make a fancy showing with their calves, but seek practical results. They use home grown feeds and standard supplements to supply what their own feeds lack, but figure costs of what they buy closely.
 The lads are accumulating their profits, and have been for several years, so that each year they can buy an extra calf or so, hoping eventually to be able to operate on a carload basis.

THIRD INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS: . . . Ruth Warren, living in the East, comes into possession of a three-quarter interest in an Arizona ranch, left to her in the will of her only brother, reported to have died while on business in Mexico. With her husband and small child she goes to Arizona to take possession, thinking the climate may prove beneficial to her husband's weakened lungs. Arriving at the nearest town, she learns that the ranch, "Dead Lantern," is 85 miles across the desert. Charley Thane, old rancher and rural mail carrier, agrees to take them to "Dead Lantern" gate.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
Neither the girl nor her husband seemed anxious to start up the road. It was when this fact became plain to them both that Ruth cried, "It'll be sundown before long—we simply can't stay here."

Warren nodded. "We'd better start, I guess."

Ruth looked back toward the gate. Beyond, her eyes sought the occasional stretches of dusty highway as it wound up the valley . . . eighty-five miles to the first thing which could be called civilization, eighty-five miles to a policeman. She shivered; but turned to her husband with a smile which was meant to be brave. "All right, dear; let's go. If we get shot we'll just get shot—we can't stay here and we certainly can't go back."

For two long hot, dusty hours they walked on with never a sign of human things. The awesome silence enveloped them, penetrated them, until their very thoughts seemed like small, dependent voices. They felt watched by a grim, thousand-eyed spirit. The occasional rabbit or coyote which ran before them looked back furtively, then went on to give the news of their coming. When rarely they spoke, the words passed between them in a low, frightened voice, as though speech were forbidden.

They came among the lower foothills of the mountains. No longer could their eyes follow the two parallel paths through the dead grass for any distance. Constantly the road dipped into ravines, skirted low hills, crossed gulches and arroyos covered with coarse gray sand. The man's lips were bluish white, his breathing rasped, short and quick. The girl plodded doggedly in the dust, red of face, sweat-grimed.

The sun winked from behind a jagged peak and was gone. The man and woman stared at the mountains—dun colored, utterly desolate. David clutched his mother tightly at the sound of her voice. "Where are we—?" she moaned. "Oh, Kenneth, where are we?"

He shook his head, but could not afford breath for speech.

The girl picked up her son and started forward desperately. At the bottom of the next arroyo—well filled with live oak trees—the wheel marks of the Indian's wagon turned to the right and disappeared up the river of sand. It was strange how they missed those fresh wheel tracks.

Beyond this arroyo the road rose to descend presently into a deep gulch. The banks on either side fell sheer to the bottom of coarse, bare sand—a great channel plowed by cloud-bursts in the mountains. A distance ahead a large brown boulder thrust its bulk through the sand. The young man and the girl kept their eyes upon this rock—an oasis, a place to empty their shoes. The road, too, bent slightly to pass the rock.

They rested a moment until the deepening dusk, the awful silence forced them to their feet. They took but one step then froze to statues, terror leaped into their faces: a voice, low, intimate, whispered into their ears. "Go—back. Go—back."

"Ken—! Ruth screamed the word. The man and woman clutched each other, staring wildly. The gulch was still barren, nothing moved, not a rabbit could have hidden. Yet the hollow whisper came again, at their very ears. "Go—back. You—must go—back! Go—"

Like wild things the man and woman ran blindly forward. Immediately the whisper was lost, dying away on a single word. The two stopped again and clung together trembling. The darkness was coming quickly—already the banded walls of the gulch had taken on weird mystery from the light. With terror-widened eyes the man and girl looked from one bank of the gulch to the other, conscious of no thought or plan.

Then Ruth caught her breath in a hysterical sob, another followed. Warren gripped her shoulder with the agony of the sudden cough which presently was flecking his white lips with red . . .

A dog barked friendly. Some distance ahead the gulch turned to the right and the road rose out of it by another incline. At the bottom of this cut in the bank sat a small black dog.

"Dog!" announced David, squirming about in his mother's arms. As far as he was concerned, all was again well with the world. Something of this felling came to the parents. With a backward glance, which now held wonder instead of blind fear, they went forward with quickened step.

When they were quite near, the dog—of whose remote ancestors had undoubtedly been part Spaniel—moved out of sight at the side of the incline. A few more strides again brought the man and girl to a rigid halt. In the shadow of the bank stood the most gigantic woman they had ever seen. Nearly six and a half feet in height, her huge arms folded across her breast, she stood as straight as the sheer bank behind her. Her face, hawk-nosed, had the dignity of an Indian chief's and the color of a southern negro. "Where you-all think you're goin'?" she demanded, her voice a deep ominous rumble.

It was a moment before the girl could make a sound make a sound; then the words poured themselves out shrilly. "I'm Mrs. Warren, the sister of Harry Grey—I own three-quarters of this ranch—take us to Jap Snavely at once—at once—at once!"

The giantess bent her head slightly, unfolded her arms, and turning, started up the incline, the little dog frisking before her.

Warren took an uncertain step forward, tottered, and fell in a heap. "Help us!" cried the girl, dropping beside her husband.

The huge woman came slowly down to them. She stooped and lifted Warren in her arms. "Come," she rumbled, and strode out of the gulch, carrying the man more easily than the girl carried the child.

At the top of the gulch the girl saw the ranch house and buildings. She also saw a man leave the barn and walk swiftly toward them. He had a bucket in his hand—a bucket of milk.

"Who are you?" The man stopped close to the girl. His tall wiry body was tense, sinuously alert. His pale blue eyes, almost white against the dark tan of his clean-shaven face, shifted constantly with small quick movements as though focused in turn upon every point of her face. "Answer me!" His voice was imperious, high-pitched—"What are you doin' here?"

The girl caught her breath sharply. "I am Ruth Warren and this is my husband—" She indicated Warren who was now standing, supported by the giant woman. "My husband must have rest at once—a bed."

"That don't mean nothin' to me—what're you doin' here?"

"We—I am the sister of Harry Grey."

"What!" he thrust his face within a hand's breadth of the girl's. "You lie! Grey tol' me his own se'l he didn't have no folks!"

Ruth took a step backward. "But I am Harry Grey's sister. He willed me his interest in this ranch. My husband and I have come here to see about it."

"You—come here—to take this ranch—" His words faltered. At length, with an effort, he spoke, his voice in a softer key. "You—got—your documents?"

"Yes, Mr. Warren has the will in his pocket. Please—can't we go up to the house? My husband and little boy must rest. We walked all the way from the mail box."

"Let's see—the will."

Warren was able to step forward and give Snavely the paper. The man read it slowly and completely. At last he lifted his eyes to the girl. "Why didn't your brother tell me about this?"

"I'm sure I don't know."

"He tol' me he didn't have no folks."

The girl hesitated. "His real mother is dead and Harry and I—Harry became estranged from his father before he came West. Perhaps that was what he meant."

"Huh. Maybe. You seen a lawyer about this, I reckon?"

There was a perceptible pause before Ruth replied. "Yes," she said firmly, "and my lawyer has the other copy. Now please, take us to the house—can't you understand? My husband is not well."

For a long moment Snavely looked at the girl. At last his eyes shifted to the giantess and he nodded slightly toward the house. Without a word the woman picked Warren from his feet and strode on.

Ruth held out her hand, and Snavely, with a sharp glance into her eyes, slowly gave her back the will. He walked beside her during the time it took to cover the distance to the house—nearly two hundred yards—in complete silence. Nothing he could have done would have served better to put the girl in a more frantic state of mind. She felt that he was thinking, planning, feverishly and craftily.

And as she neared the small house with its whitewashed walls and red roof of corrugated iron, Ruth Warren became aware of another dissatisfaction. A hundred feet west of the house stood a huge adobe ruin. Compared to the one-story ranch house with its almost flat roof, the ruin had been a palace. Grim, mutilated, forgotten, the old building frowned upon the ranch house. The girl had a queer fancy which made her shiver. It seemed to her that the ruin wanted the house to come closer—very close—for just a moment.

The giant woman arrived at the porch of the ranch house first. Carrying Warren to a rawhide cot she laid him upon it.

Warren promptly sat up, grinning at his wife as she and Snavely arrived. "Great Scott, Ruth, but I've certainly been carried! She's the strongest thing I ever met in my life."

The giantess opened the screen door and handed a pillow to the girl. After she had arranged her husband comfortably upon the cot, the girl left him with Snavely and took her son into the house. Snavely spoke no word to Warren. When the girl returned she gave Warren a glass of milk and some crisp tortillas.

For the first time since returning the will to the girl, Snavely spoke. "When did you get in?" he asked suddenly.

"You mean when did we arrive in town? Only this morning. You see," continued the girl, "we wrote you about a fortnight ago—but we got here as soon as the letter—we didn't know about your once-a-week delivery."

"You seen your lawyer this mornin'?"

"I don't understand—what lawyer?"

"There must have been a lawyer to send you the will when your brother died."

"There are plenty of lawyers in the East," replied the girl sweetly.

"I reckon," Snavely considered a corner of the whitewashed wall. Sounds from within indicated that the giantess was getting supper.

Snavely's eyes returned in a little jump to the girl. "Just what are you aimin' to do here?"

"Well, since I have this interest in the ranch, I suppose I'm in the same position that Harry was. I can't be the partner he was, but I'll try to do my share."

A definite plan shown in his pale eyes. "Oh, sure. Well, now, I get you—yes, sir," Snavely seemed on the verge of becoming pleasant. "I've got the idea—you an' me is to go on just like as if you was your brother. Is that it?"

"Why, yes. I have the same interest in the ranch that he had."

"You sure have."

There was a long silence. "I suppose," said the girl, "that there will be some legal technicalities or something, won't there? I thought we'd leave it until we could see about it together, you know."

Reduction Program—

(Continued from Page One) yield of lint cotton for that period. Mr. Adams pointed out that the average reduction contracts are attached to the land and not the tenant. The average grown on the land, regardless of who farmed it, determining the amount paid per acre. The third and fourth tenant and landlord to share equally in the reduction checks, providing no rights of supervision are retained by landlord. It is expected that these agreements will be received by the county agent for signature by the farmers about December 1. Mr. Adams said that inasmuch as the farmers will not be put to the expense of planting and plowing up the acreage retired from cotton crop in 1934, as was the case in 1933; and also in view of the fact that the farmers will be allowed to plant this land to crops for use on the farm, though no such produce may be marketed, it looks like a liberal plan on behalf of the government. Mr. Adams also announced to the meeting that cotton now held under the option contracts of the 1933 crop reduction plan, would be eligible for 10c per pound loans, as is spot cotton at the present time, as quickly as the blanks arrive.

Murder—

(Continued from Page One) having testified in Stillman's behalf in a civil suit brought in district court by the deceased. Pynes Gives Self Up Pynes was arrested shortly after the shooting by Deputy Sheriff J. L. Walraven. The officer, enroute to the scene of the shooting, met Pynes on his way in to Littlefield. Deputy Sheriff Walraven reported Pynes as saying: "Here I am, and the gun is in the car." The officer said that the gun is a double-barrelled shotgun. At the time he was given possession of the weapon there was one empty barrel. In the other barrel there was a shell containing No. 4 shot. Given Preliminary Hearing Pynes was given a preliminary hearing Friday morning before Justice of the Peace B. L. Cogdill, at which time his bail was set at $2500. County attorney Herbert Martin represented the state. T. Wade Potter, who has been retained by Pynes as his attorney, represented the accused at the preliminary hearing. Testimony was offered by Sheriff Len Irvin and Deputy Sheriff Walraven. The killing of Stillman is said to be the third murder of a white man in Lamb county. Pynes came to Lamb county about five years ago from Red River county. Stillman Funeral Held Funeral services for Stillman were conducted at two o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Lubbock cemetery, with the assistant pastor of the Ashbury Methodist church, officiating. Arrangements were in charge of Burleson & Co., Littlefield. Interment was beside his first wife, who died about three and one-half years ago. The deceased was born and raised near Austin, and had been a resident of this section for about seven years. Surviving are his wife and four daughters, Othella, Viola, Wilma, and a baby girl about two years old; his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Stillman of Austin, and three brothers and two sisters.

Marvin Jones To Speak at Dimmitt Friday Night, Dec. 1

(Special to the Leader) DIMMITT, Nov. 22—Congressman Marvin Jones will make a public address in Dimmitt on the night of December 1st, in the high school auditorium. In his address Mr. Jones will deal with the Administration's farm bills and efforts to relieve distressed farmers. Being chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture, the Congressman from the 19th district of Texas, is, perhaps, as well informed on current topics pertaining to farmers as any man in the country. Congressman Jones' address here will be one of the remaining few that he will make prior to returning to Washington for the regular session of Congress in January. He expects to see and visit with as many of his constituents and friends during that time as possible. The meeting here is being sponsored by the Democratic Executive Committee of the County of which E. F. Harman is the chairman. Many people from neighboring towns including Farwell, Littlefield, Muleshoe, Hereford, Tulia and Plainview have expressed their intention of attending the speaking.

Roosevelt Plans Firm Control of Liquor Traffic

President Roosevelt is planning for the firm federal control of liquor when prohibition ends December 5. He has intimated that he will keep taxes down so as to make bootlegging unprofitable, and that he will bring the industry under the government's program of control of production and distribution that applies to other industries. To assure a supply and prevent profiteering, the president will sanction a relaxation in the embargo against liquor imports before December 5. He also is approving a policy of liberal licensing of distillers so they may manufacture liquor to be held in bond until legal sales are permissible. Attorney General Cummings, the government's law enforcement official, put the administration policy in these words: "The spirit is to have orderly, decent procedure under terms which will discourage and make unprofitable the activities of bootleggers and law breakers. "The thought is not to make the taxes too high, for that is an open invitation to bootleggers."
