

Flu Bug Strikes County, Area

TOWN and COUNTRY

by Wendell Tooley

ONE OF the best natured bald heads I know are bald headed, even the ones who used to be bald headed. They've learned to accept and seemingly to give the host of jokes about bald heads. They've learned to accept and seemingly to give the host of jokes about bald heads. They've learned to accept and seemingly to give the host of jokes about bald heads.

Suppose the hat industry prefer that all men be bald and they could save their money by selling records. I read an article not too long ago about several movie stars who are nearly bald and they're to the use of "hair pieces" to fill in the uncovered hair. In fact my old hero John has even resorted to such devices.

In centuries a search for a hair baldness has been going on. Whoever develops one can Texas with all its holdings. I'm waiting for that happy science has come up with a substitute. Dr. E. S. Lamont of Los Angeles follows a procedure which involves transplanting an entire strip of hair from the sides of the head to the receding front line. The bare spots on the sides of the head covered by growth of adjacent hair. One drawback is that transplantation is required and the front hair line may be unattractive.

Dr. Norman Orentreich of New York University Medical Center has a different method. He punches out tiny plugs of hair and transplants them into bald spots, just as plugs of hair are transplanted into a bald spot. This can be done in about ten visits to the doctor's office.

Bill Mitchell, founder of this paper could have written a column on bald heads. Bill Mitchell, who in his early days melted and mixed metal for Mitchell said Mitchell would work up a bald head frequently and in order to keep the sweat from running down into his eyes. . . . Mitchell would bend his fingers, take his finger and thumb and make a clean sweep of the surface and continue with work.

Regular monthly meeting of the Lamb County Chapter of the American Red Cross will be held Friday at 4 p.m. in the Red Cross office, Mrs. Norman Byrd, executive secretary, and that all members of the Red Cross make a special effort to attend.

Red Cross is not a welfare organization for service men, veterans and their dependents both in time of war and peace. "The Red Cross is an emergency aid in time of fire, tornadoes and floods," continued, "and the local office maintains a blood file with names and addresses of persons willing to give blood."

Disaster plan for the county was brought up to date each year. Curtis Wilkinson, committee chairman, has charge of disaster plan. During the month of January cases were handled through local office, Mrs. Frey said that the people of Lamb County who have made it possible to maintain a program in the county with loyal support both in money and money."

Sides Announces For County Judge

TRUITT SIDES

Truitt Sides of Olton, who has served successfully as a businessman, farmer and teacher since he moved to Lamb County in 1938, has authorized The Littlefield Press to announce his candidacy for county judge.

In making the announcement, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary of May 5, Sides said:

"I realize that the office of county judge is something that requires complete devotion to duty and full time on the job. I have my business interests in such order that I can pledge my full time to this office."

Sides, 48, came to Lamb County 24 years ago after graduating from Texas Tech. He taught vocational agriculture at Olton High School seven years and then went into the implement business, which he operated until 1950.

He began farming in the mid-forties, and after he sold the implement business, increased his farming operations.

Sides now has an interest in an auto dealership in Olton and is a director of Olton State Bank.

He has maintained a high interest in young people through the years, and served as scoutmaster three years.

Sides, who regards himself a conservative Democrat, has been a member of the county Democratic executive committee and Olton precinct chairman the past 14 years.

He and his wife, Euna, have three children, a son, Danny Lee, 10, and two married daughters, Bill Walden of Olton, and Mrs. Danny Smith of Springlake.

Sides long has been active in community work in Olton. Elected Olton's "Citizen of the Year" in 1960, he has been Lions Club president twice, served on the school board 12 years, was a city councilman for two terms and is a past master of Olton Masonic Lodge.

He has served as president of the Lamb County Red Cross the past four years and was a member of the Lamb County Fair board while it was active.

The Sides family attends the Olton First Methodist Church. He is a former chairman of the church's official board and was fund campaign chairman of the recently completed church building program.

"I want to ask the support of my friends in communities throughout the county," Sides said. "I plan to campaign actively and hope to see as many voters as possible between now and the primary."

Wildcats Lose To Clovis

Well, the Wildcats won a ballgame Tuesday night, but it wasn't the Littlefield Wildcats. The Clovis Wildcats defeated the locals 79 - 46 in the Varsity contest and 78 - 31 in the "B" game.

In the Varsity game Clovis used a full court press during the second and third quarters and surged ahead as the inexperienced locals could not overcome the press. Clovis led 13 - 11 at the end of the first quarter, 35 - 21 at the half and 62 - 32 at the three-quarter mark.

Grover Pilgrim was high point man for Littlefield with 18 points followed by Junior Hodge with 14. Wheeler led for Clovis with 24 points. Larry Woods local starter, was out of the ballgame most of the time with sore feet.

Richard Funk led the "B" team with 11 points for the locals and Price was high with 12 for Clovis. Clovis led 18 - 8 at the end of the first quarter, 37 - 16, at the half, and 63 - 24 at the end of three quarters.

Littlefield travels to Dumas Friday night for Varsity and "B" contests. The "B" game begins at 6:15.

If our population reaches 230 million by 1975, as predicted, 47 billion pounds more of milk a year must be produced if we are to continue to improve our diets at the same rate as in recent years.

Clichés of Socialism

"Labor unions are too powerful today, but were useful in the past."

To BELIEVE that labor unions actually improve the lot of the working people is to admit that the capitalist economy fails to provide fair wages and decent working conditions. It is to admit that our free economy does not work satisfactorily unless it is "fortified" by union activity and government intervention.

The truth is that the unhampered market society allocates to every member the undiminished fruits of his labor. It does so in all ages and societies where individual freedom and private property are safeguarded. It did so 1,900 years ago in Rome, in eighteenth-century England, and in nineteenth-century America.

The reason grandfather earned $5 a week for 60 hours of labor must be sought in his low productivity, not in the absence of labor unions. The $5 he earned constituted full and fair payment for his productive efforts. The economic principles of the free market, the competition among employers, a man's mobility and freedom of choice, assured him full wages under the given production conditions.

Wages were low and working conditions primitive because labor productivity was low, machines and tools were primitive, technology and production methods were crude when compared with today's. If, for any reason, our productivity were to sink back to that of our forebears, our wages, too, would decline to their levels and our work week would lengthen again no matter what the activities of labor unions or the decrees of government.

In a free market economy, labor productivity determines wage rates. As it is the undeniable policy of labor unions to reduce this productivity, they have in fact reduced the wages and working conditions of the masses of people although some privileged members have benefited temporarily at the expense of others. This is true especially today when the unions enjoy many legal immunities and vast political powers. And it also was true during the nineteenth century when our ancestors labored from dawn to dusk for low wages.

Through a variety of coercive measures, labor unions merely impose higher labor costs on employers. The higher costs reduce the returns on capital and curtail production, which curbs the opportunities for employment. This is why our centers of unionism are also the centers of unemployment.

True enough, the senior union members who happen to keep their jobs do enjoy higher wages. But those who can no longer find jobs in unionized industries then seek employment in nonunionized activity. This influx and absorption of excess labor, in clerical occupations, for instance, tends to reduce their wages, which accounts for the startling difference between union and nonunion wage rates. It gives rise to the notion that labor unions do benefit the workingmen. In reality, the presence of the nonunionized sectors of the labor market hides the disastrous consequences of union policy by preventing mass unemployment.

The rise of unionism during the past century is a result of the fallacious labor theory of value, which held that all profit and rent and interest had to come out of the "surplus value" unfairly withheld from the workers. Labor unions are the bitter fruit of this erroneous theory, with a record of exploitation of workers far more grievous than the alleged evils the unions were supposed to rectify.

From Your Chamber Office

By Gene Garrison
The Chamber Office has spent much time this year accumulating data for what we call an ECONOMIC BASE STUDY.

This study reveals what we are doing in relation to the average. In some areas we are above average, in others below average, in still others we are very close to the norm.

Being average, we have some among us who are very wealthy, we have those nationally considered to be in the middle class, and we have those who are listed in the lower income bracket, nationally speaking.

Being average, we have less than 1 in 20, serving in a community capacity to aid his fellow man. Being average we sit still hoping everything will come out without any positive active effort on our part.

We complain, gripe and ridicule everything around us, but to date, we have refused to work effectively enough as a unit to rectify the conditions that are basically harmful to our community.

Being nationally average, we are too overcome with negative thinking. Also, we are doing too much worrying about the mistakes of the past. We can't be forceful enough to change the negativism of our national picture; but we can change it at home.

Lets get positive -- lets not be content to be average. One thing our study shows is that we do not have to be an average community. We have the potential to become one of the best.

Over 90 men of the Chamber have agreed to become "positive" as far as Littlefield is concerned. They have agreed that it is time to make use of our combined brain and brawn to work together toward becoming better than average.

How refreshing it will be if this attitude grows and expands throughout our population. How stimulating it will be to read positive affirmative articles, hear positive speeches and hear discussion of a positive nature.

Before this plan will work, it must challenge the thinking and action of the entire community. Everyone of us will benefit from it, regardless of our occupation economic or social status.

We need to alert ourselves, and our neighbors to the rights and responsibilities of community citizenship. With full participation we can be sure of the best leadership possible. Yes, we need to forget about being average and start working.

Police men -- and women -- had their troubles too. George R. Mischner was directing traffic in New York City when he stepped backwards into an open manhole. He managed to grab the edge of the hole to keep from falling 15 feet to the bottom. And Police Marlon Albina Jenko in Milwaukee, Wis., dislocated her jaw when she yawned at 3:30 one morning.

on becoming one of the best communities in the United States.

We have the people to do it with, we have the intellectual power and potential capital to do it with -- all it will take is our active participation.

We don't have to be average -- we can be the best.

Penn Point

If you think traffic accidents in Texas rose sharply during 1961, just take a look at this statistic.

Traffic accidents on the island of Bjarkoe, Norway, rose sharply in 1961 to an unprecedented rate equal to 5,000 accidents per 10,000 registered vehicles.

This Arctic island has an area of five square miles, a population of 730, one road, one truck and one station wagon, the island's only taxi. The truck and the taxi collided at a bend in the road.

Seventeen-year-old Leonard Larioso of Hilmar, Calif., shot himself in the right foot with a 20-gauge shotgun as he demonstrated to friends how he had shot himself a few weeks before in the right foot with a 20-gauge shotgun.

Meanwhile, across the country in Birmingham, Ala., eight year-old Johnny Hines fell out of a swing and broke his right wrist. The next day he fell while playing football and broke his left wrist.

In Globe, Ariz., Mrs. Lena Berry broke her leg when she slipped and fell while walking down a hill. She was hurrying to a first aid class. In Bangor, Me., a woman described only as being of "generous proportions," got stuck in her bathtub. Two gallant firemen each took an arm and -- with eyes averted -- tugged hard until she was extricated.

Sleepwalking, Mrs. Faith Blakemore, 43, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., apparently decided to cease being a pedestrian.

Sound asleep one night, she went to the garage and started the car. The damage was estimated at $450 to the car and $300 to the garage.

Traffic was tied up a few miles west of Olney, Ill., when a panel truck collided head-on with the car it was towing. The truck tried to pass a semi-trailer truck and ran off the pavement. The car being towed broke loose, spun 180 degrees and overturned in the highway. The panel truck bounced through a drainage ditch, returned to the highway, and hit the car.

Highway signs are intended to help drivers, but Carl M. Gelbke, 34, of Kalamazoo, Mich., found they weren't placed quite right for airplane drivers. Gelbke, a student pilot, crashed in the median of Interstate 94 after he became lost and brought his plane close to the ground to read a sign. His craft hit a high tension wire.

And 14-year-old Steven Hardina announced he was giving up baton twirling after he shook up Ventura, Calif. With a might toss, Steve sent his baton so high that it struck two 4,000-volt power lines. This blacked out a 10-block area for an hour, started a grass fire, and knocked a radio station off the air.

Big things happened in 1961. Maris' and Mantle's assaults on the Mighty Bambino's batting record crowded the pages, Khrushchev could sometimes make a take, and a few other things that happened during the year.
