LITTLEFIELD MEN ATTEND HIGHWAY MEET

COMMISSION TO SEEK CUT IN UTILITY RATES

Rowe Named City Attorney; Dr. J. G. Little City Health Officer

At a regular meeting of the City Commission Monday night, May 2, considerable business was transacted, including the reducing of the City water rate, and the election of several city officers.

The service charge on water connections was reduced from $17.50 to $12.50, and the minimum water charge per month was reduced to $1.25 for the first 1000 gallons, 50 cents for the second thousand gallons, and 25 cents for the third thousand, charges to be 15 cents per thousand gallons after 3,000 gallons are used.

Alph Wright was reelected Water Superintendent, and his salary reduced from $125.00 per month to $100.00. E. S. Rowe was appointed to succeed T. Wade Potter as City Attorney; and Dr. J. G. Little was elected City Health Officer to succeed Dr. J. R. Coen.

Mayor Crockett announced Wednesday that the city commission hopes, with an additional supply, to make further reductions in water service costs.

"The city commission will do everything in its power to reduce the cost of all utilities, and will expect the utility companies to do their share, as we do not consider it right and reasonable for our citizens to pay rates which obtained in the boom days," said Mr. Crockett.

START SURVEY OF NORTH AND SOUTH HIGHWAY

New Road Will Serve Area From Channing to Brownfield

An appropriation has been made by the State Highway commission for a survey of that section of the north and south highway from Dimmitt to Littlefield, according to a letter received from Senator Arthur P. Duggan by Dr. Ira E. Woods, president of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce.

This survey is scheduled to start this week, according to Dr. Woods. Senator Duggan has also advised Dr. Woods that an appropriation will be made in the near future for a survey of this road from Littlefield to Levelland.

The new highway, which is known as No. 143, has been designated from Channing to near Brownfield.

FOUR ELECTED TO FACULTY OF LOCAL SCHOOLS

THOSE EMPLOYED ARE ALL RESIDENTS OF LITTLEFIELD

At a meeting of the board of the Littlefield Independent School district, held at city hall Tuesday night, the matter of employing home young women who have had no teaching experience, was taken up.

The board decided that it would not be in the best interests of the children in the lower grades to employ more than three beginners during the next school term.

Many home young women had made application for positions as teachers, and the board gave each of these applications serious consideration.

The following applicants were elected as teachers in the grade school for the next term.

Miss Johnnie Melba Pace, Miss Bessie Denton, and Miss Ina Bell Wharton.

Floyd Hemphill was re-elected to the high school faculty.

Carl Walker was re-elected as caretaker of the schools.

Miss Lucille Nance of San Angelo was granted permission to teach speech arts in the Littlefield schools.

A specially designed public address system is to be installed in the Washington university football stadium for the 1933 season.

COWBOY BAND WILL PLAY AT HIGH SCHOOL

All Profits From Concert Go To Littlefield High School Fund

The cowboys are coming! Definite arrangements whereby the Southwest's most noted and picturesque musical organization, the famous Cowboy Band, of Simmons University, Abilene, will appear in concert here Wednesday afternoon at 1:45 o'clock for the benefit of the Littlefield high school fund, were completed yesterday.

The reputation of being the most "traveled" university band in the world" comes to The Cowboy Band as the result of traveling more than 250,000 miles during the several years it has been in existence. This mileage accrued on extensive concert tours and on trips to play at rodeos, conventions, inaugurations and celebrations.

And a few short weeks will find the claim strengthened. The visit here is one of scores which are to be filled by the organization on the first transcontinental tour it has made—a trip which will add thousands of miles to the record attained. The tour is expected to carry the band through the south and east and back to the west coast. The band filled a

Purpose of Association Is To Complete Plains Highway System

Dr. Ira E. Woods, president of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, and Joe W. Hale, secretary of that organization, attended a meeting of the South Plains Good Roads association, which was held in Lubbock Friday.

The South Plains association has as its purpose the completion of the highway system of the Plains, and the meeting Friday was called to take necessary action in bringing to the attention of the Federal government the wisdom of allotting a large portion of the contemplated public works appropriation to highway work throughout the nation.

If such a program of highway work was authorized by the Federal government, the South Plains would like to have its share in order that the good roads program of this section might be rapidly carried to completion.

Resolutions Forwarded Resolutions were adopted calling the attention of the Federal government to the fact that little or no permanent benefit was being derived from the present system of relief through employment, as the money in general, is not being spent for any

Higher Prices Our Salvation

EYES OF WORLD TURN TO ROOSEVELT

We agree with the Portales Valley News, which presents a plea for 100 per cent co-operation with President Roosevelt.

Here's what the News says:

"The eyes of the world are now turning to President Roosevelt for leadership in financial recovery.

"The President is doing all in his power to give employment to the millions of idle men. Do not hamper him in this program, but give him 100 per cent backing, that it may the sooner be made a success.

"The United States does not want conditions such as prevail in red Russia. There are thousands of reds in the United States who are spreading their propaganda in every conceivable manner. The spirit of unrest causes men to listen to this propaganda who in saner moments would not tolerate it.

"Full co-operation with our President will relieve the situation, and by the time a new crop is made conditions will be greatly improved. Farm and all other commodities are showing a steady advance, and the farmer will have a new deal.

"But without co-operation, the President will not be able to put his program into effect.

"A nation-wide week of prayer for the President at this time would be in order, and also serve to soothe the nerves of those whose burden seems greater than they can bear."

HIGHER COMMODITY PRICES NEEDED

The United States is off the gold standard. That statement means very little to the average citizen. In fact, only those who have made an exhaustive study of economics and monetary systems will be able to really appreciate or understand the significance of the step. It is generally predicted that this means an increase in prices.

This will help very little those who do not have money with which to buy the necessities of life. "Controlled inflation" is the term being applied to the new situation, introducing a new phase of the "New Deal." Be that as it may, all business men realize that only when prices are advancing is there a chance for the average man to make money. The gambler takes his chances on either high or low markets, but for the producer, his only chance is a rising market. If the President will be able to increase commodity prices so that the producer can make a profit, then the rest of us can take care of ourselves thru increased business.—Canyon News.

WHAT IT MEANS

Going off the gold standard means that the national currency, for the time being, is not redeemable in gold. Gold payments had been severely restricted since the banking holiday in March, but starting recently the government announced definitely that it would cease licensing gold exports to support the dollar in relation to other currencies, which definitely took the country off the gold standard.

The gold standard is of practical importance chiefly in international trade, since gold is the only international standard of value. Cut free from gold, the dollar is left to find its own level in relation to other currencies on a demand and supply basis. Excited selling of the dollar has reduced its level in relation to gold currencies, and theoretically reduced its purchasing power, bringing a sharp rise in prices of sensitive commodities in terms of dollars.—Associated Press.

AWAKENED WOMAN

by Elinore Barry

Eighth Installment

The story so far: Joyce Ashton, poor stenographer, in a skidding taxicab accident in Chicago, suffered loss of memory. Two years later she woke one morning after a fall from her horse to find herself, under the name of Frills, married to Neil Packard, rich California fruit packer. From letters in her desk she learned something about her life in the two-year interval, and realized that she had been a heartless, reckless young woman and that she is seriously involved in an affair with a man named Maitland. She decided that at all costs she would end it, but she found Maitland hard to manage. Her troubles were further complicated when she read a letter referring to a baby—was it hers?—that the writer, Sophie, thought Frills ought to have with her. Much to the surprise of Sam, in her husband's employ, she asked for a dog and he got her one.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Before Joyce addressed and stamped the brown envelope, it occurred to her that she might write a few words to put in with it. Then, having come to this conclusion, she found herself dismayingly unable to decide what to say. What sort of letter would Frills write to Neil? "I don't see how she'd have the face to write him at all, when all she cared about his absence was the chance it gave her to go off with Maitland and his crowd," she thought disgustedly, "but just the same, since Joyce Ashton isn't going off with Mait, I think she might send a few words." She ended by writing:

"Dear Neil: You can't hurt a solid ivory dome just by falling on it! But it seems to have knocked some of the pep of little Frills, and she's annoying the gang by cutting out some of the jazz. Laurine was here this morning with a lot of good advice, Ethel and Clarice this afternoon, and while I was out, Paul and Dot came, and Tess Farnsworth. Don't know why I've never wanted a dog before nor just why I want one now, but I've just acquired a darlin'," she wrote hastily, "Sam got him for me from the Marches on the Dry Creek Canyon road. They're going to China and can't take Dickie. He is quite adorable and when did I ever care what any one thinks? Frills."

Joyce was a little doubtful, when she finished, about whether she had written more than wise. She sealed up the letter, however, and then went downstairs to look for Sam to post it.

Sam listened with casual politeness to her explanation of her appearance. "I had a telegram from Mr. Packard asking me to mail him some papers he left behind by mistake, and by absent treatment. But I s'pose I might's well do it as to play pool or take some june to the movies."

Joyce returned to the house full of thoughts of Sam, plugging away by himself out there alone, and she forgot for a moment the problems of her own situation.

Just as she entered the living-room a group of people came in with a burst of talking and laughing and took possession of the house.

"You're my hotsy, I'm your totsy, everything is hotsy-totsy nowww!" sang a tall man with a bald head and jovial pink face.

Joyce was seized in a rough embrace by this hearty gentleman and kissed several times before she could get away.

Behind a veil of smoke, Frills examined the separate members of the company. She was more relieved than otherwise that the free-and-easy manners of Frills' set demanded so little cool and sober, that his breath held no reek of liquor on it.

He did not try to take advantage of her yielding mood. He simply held her quietly, and Joyce, whose head had been spinning from the heat and the noise, leaned against him with her eyes shut and murmured:

"Oh, I can't stand them, they're all drunk . . . I want some air . . ."

"Get in my car and we'll take a run," said Maitland promptly. He led her to his machine which was only a few steps off. "Here, put this on, you'll be cold if you don't." He held up a light overcoat and Joyce in a daze slid her arms into it without stopping to consider exactly what she was doing.

In another moment they were rolling down the drive and out into the road.

Maitland drove in silence, a tactful silence so welcome to Joyce in her lassitude that all her fear and abhorrence of him melted into gratefulness.

Finally, when they had driven about ten minutes, Maitland asked softly, "Feel better, dear?"

"Yes," said Joyce.

He took her hand from the wheel and felt for hers. When he had it in his warm clasp, she let it stay there, still too apathetic to care.

"Who was there tonight?" he asked after a bit.

"Oh, Clarice and Ethel and Ross and . . . Ed . . . and Kate and Art and . . . Charlie . . . and Tess and Trace . . . and . . . and Doc," replied Joyce drowsily, almost too tired to finish the long list.

"Same old crew, all talking at once, after they get a few drinks under their belts. Get damn' sick of their drivel, don't you, Frills?"

Suddenly the car swung abruptly to the left, drove in through the thick darkness of a narrow, tree-shadowed road, then came out to an open space and stopped quietly.

Maitland took his hand from hers and putting his arm around her shoulders bent over her.

Maitland drew her suddenly closer to him and began kissing her, with the same intensity of that first embrace in the living-room.

His kisses were on her neck, her eyes, over her whole face. She could feel his heart hammering violently, and his breath coming short and hurried. She was frightened and repelled. She must keep her head and get him to take her back to the house as quickly as possible. Perhaps her very resistance was what inflamed him so; perhaps her safety lay in letting him kiss her.

She was so tired and it was so utterly futile to struggle against his superior strength . . .

Suddenly she relaxed her tense muscles and lay limp in his arms. The result of this, instead of cooling his ardor, seemed to fire him with new energy.

The touch of his cold fingers on her flesh sent a shock of flaming rage and humiliation through Joyce. She struck violently at him and pulled his hand away with desperate strength.

"If you . . . cared . . . at all about me," she cried, her voice quivering in spite of her efforts to control it, "you'd know I'm . . . that I haven't felt well since the accident. You'd do what I want, not just what you want . . . Please take me home right away . . . now . . ."

"Hell," he exclaimed under his breath, "I don't get you at all, Frills. . . Well, all right, you're the boss." He released her, switched on the headlights and in a few minutes had the engine running and the car turned toward home.

On the way back Joyce silently pondered what had happened. When they turned in at the Packard house they could hear the sounds of the party still in full swing.

Maitland stopped the machine and said, "Want me to come in with you, sweet?"

"I don't want to see them at all," she insisted, "why can't I go in by the kitchen?"

"All right," agreed Maitland, "you go up that way and I'll send the gang home for you."

Maitland helped her out of the car and went with her around the back of the house. At the foot of the back-stairs, Maitland drew her to him, turned her face up and kissed her, but this time very gently. "Goodnight, darling."

Joyce hurried up the stairs, through the hall and into the big bedroom which she locked with a sigh of profound relief. It seemed to her as if she had left its cool privacy years before.

The noise and music downstairs which came up in a muffled confusion of sounds continued for about five minutes longer and then with a succession of sharp bangs of the front screen door closing she heard her guests drive off one after the other and then there was absolute quiet.

The next morning a brilliant idea occurred to Joyce. Why should she not pack a suitcase and run off alone to San Francisco for a week? She could stay at the Y. W. C. A., where she would be unlikely to meet any of the Manzanita crowd, and there under an assumed name, she could learn to run an automobile and to ride horse-back.

She found about seventy-five dollars in bills and silver in the desk and in a handbag on the dressing table. With courage newly-augmented by the excitement of her plan, she decided to cash a check in Manzanita.

WOMEN: watch your BOWELS

What should women do to keep their bowels moving freely? A doctor should know the answer. That is why pure Syrup Pepsin is so good for women. It just suits their delicate organism. It is the prescription of an old family doctor who has treated thousands of women patients, and who made a special study of bowel troubles.

It is fine for children, too. They love its taste. Let them have it every time their tongues are coated or their skin is scallow. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made from fresh laxative berries, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients.

When you've a sick headache, can't eat, are bilious or sluggish; and at the times when you are most apt to be constipated, take a little of this famous prescription (all drug stores keep it ready in big bottles), and you'll know why Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the favorite laxative of over a million women!

I wondered if you could get them to the post office for me? I'm sorry to disturb you this way but I think the papers are important and ought to leave right off. Would you mind?"

"Sure not!" replied Sam taking the envelope, "I'll hop into the bus and take it down."

"Are Roxie and Marcia out?"

"Yeah, gone to the movies with their steadies," Sam grinned good-naturedly.

"Oh, of course," she murmured, curiously, "What were you doing, Sam, when I interrupted you?"

"Oh, digging at the same old stuff," replied Sam, as if she knew also what that meant. He ran his big brown hand through his hair. "Sometimes I think it's the bunk, getting educated effort. Apparently nothing very definite was expected of a hostess; everyone talked volubly and seemed entirely at home. Both Ethel and Clarice were present, now in dinner dresses and earrings.

There were two other women, who turned out to be Tess Farnsworth and Kate Belmain. Tess was about thirty years old, a non-descript brunette with a strained look back of her small brown eyes. Kate Belmain was the oldest woman in the party. Her white hair, bobbed and marcelled with such careful skill that it quite rated the dignity of being called a coiffure, made a most becoming soft frame for her still excellent complexion.

The four men were commonplace enough. Charlie Bates was a bachelor, cheerful, unintelligent, dissipated and addicted to the use of strong perfume. Ed Rawley, the "faithful Ed" of Clarice's sarcastic comment, looked unhappy in this gathering. Ross Emery, who greeted Frills so vociferously on her entrance, proceeded to be the life and death of the party. The fourth man, strolling restlessly about the room trying to draw somebody into a game of poker was Art Belmain.

"Say, folks, I'm going to buy you all a drink," exclaimed Ed, jumping up, "who's with me? Frills is so holier-than-thou tonight it scares me. I know something that'll put a little original sin into her!"

"I'll come along and help you, Ed," offered Art. Then a diversion occurred in the form of the arrival of two more men. One of them was Dr. Ellison, and the other a man of about the same age who was hailed as "Trace." Tracy Farnsworth was tanned like the rest. Everything about him was neat, well-creased and immaculate, and like his personality, insipid.

With the arrival of the cocktails the party took on a shriller air.

"Say, doc, did you write a prescription for Frills after she did her leap for life the other day?" demanded Clarice.

"I did not," retorted the doctor, "what does she need it for, with Neil's supply still holding good?"

"And Mait's," added Kate with her loud laugh, "where's your sweet patootie tonight, dearie?"

Joyce, thus directly addressed, answered coldly, "How should I know?" second round of drinks followed close on the first. The whole evening took on a confused, kaleidoscopic quality that gave Joyce the feeling of being in a noisy, unreal nightmare. She did not like the spectacle of these uncultured men and women drunkenly in pursuit of a "good time."

Would they never go home? Her head throbbed and she felt oppressively weary and revolted. Finally, watching her chance, she slipped out of the room just as a lively dance melody came in over the radio and several couples leaped up and began to revolve rather unsteadily.

Joyce escaped out of the front door to the quiet of the fragrant starlight. As she stumbled on the dark step she was suddenly caught in a strong embrace.

"Sweetheart, I had to come again to see how you were," whispered Maitland softly.

Joyce, overcome by her great weariness and disgust at the scene she had left, could not summon enough strength to struggle. She felt tired and terribly alone. All she was conscious of at the moment was that Maitland's cheek against hers was

Texas Will Vote On Beer August 26

A resolution proposing to submit repeal of the prohibition section of the state constitution failed to receive the required 100 votes in the Texas house of representatives Tuesday. The vote was 85 ayes to 49 noes. Sponsors of the resolution said they would bring the resolution up at a later date.

Both houses had already voted to submit an amendment to the constitution to permit the manufacture and sale of 3.2 per cent. That election has been set for August 26. The resolution that failed of a two-thirds vote Tuesday would amend the constitution to permit the sale of any kinds of liquors in event the federal amendment was repealed, and subject to local option.

Use This Laxative made from plants

Theford's BLACK-DRAUGHT is made from plants that grow in the ground, like the garden vegetables you eat at every meal. NATURE has put into these plants an active medicine that stimulates the bowels to act—just as Nature put the materials that sustain your body into the vegetable foods you eat.

In Black-Draught you have a natural laxative, free from synthetic drugs. Its use does not make you have to depend on cathartic chemical drugs to get the bowels to act daily. Now you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYRUP, for CHILDREN.

We wish to thank our many friends for their fine co-operation throughout the meeting. The First Baptist Church may be lacking in many things, but there is no lacking whatsoever in the music department, neither voice nor instrument. It would be impossible to mention the many things deserving special mention during this meeting, but we use the printed line to say to all that we are profoundly grateful for every word and deed and may the Lord richly reward each of you. Our doors are open, and we will be waiting for your return to any and all of our services. We shall need your help in the days ahead just as we needed it during the revival.

RUBY H. D. CLUB

The Ruby Club met in regular session last Thursday at the home of Mrs. A. Clark. Fourteen members, two new members and two visitors were present.

Miss Mashburn gave a demonstration on "The Well Dressed Bed" and then made two foundation patterns.

Beds should have a slat for each row of coils in springs, a cover for both springs and mattress, a mattress pad or protector, sheets of adequate length for tucking and sufficient cover for warmth. Wool is better than cotton for blankets and bats for quilts in that is lighter, warmer, softer and wears longer.

Being well dressed means much to each and every person and no clothes are better than the patterns from which they are made. Our aim in club work is a foundation pattern for each club woman in the county, she in turn helping three non-club members make one.

Our next meeting will be with Mrs. A. C. Gipson, Thursday, May 11.

After adjournment rhubarb pies made of home-grown, home-canned rhubarb were served with sweet milk, also produced at home.

Nagging Pains are Warning Signals

TEMPORARY pain relief remedies may save you much suffering at the moment, but putting a mask over a warning signal does not clear up the condition it was telling you to avoid.

When periodic pains, due to a weak, run-down condition, distress you, treatment for the cause of the trouble should be started without delay. Take Cardul to build up against the nagging symptoms of ordinary womanly ailments. So many women have the widespread use that it has today. Sold at drug stores. Try it!

Books for 4-H Club Members

Club members become so engrossed in their baby beef, pig, canning, clothing and other projects they may appear little interested in side lines like cultural subjects and sports, but the rule holds with them as with other youth that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." So it is that a place is made in the 4-H program for these "side-lines," and their cultivation encouraged. This is strictly in keeping with the 4-H pledge which calls for the development of the head, heart, hands and health.

The reading of good books, always regarded as one of the best ways to inspire those higher virtues of unselfishness, loyalty, steadfastness and patriotism, is given encouragement in 4-H club circles. What promises to be one of the most cultural movements in this line for the benefit of American rural youth has been undertaken by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work of Chicago. Its purpose is to place standard books for juvenile reading within reach of every club boy and girl.

These books are new, well printed and bound in fabrikoid to make them both durable and beautiful. The plan is possible only through the cooperation of the National Home Library Foundation of Washington, D. C.

The first 12 books sponsored by the foundation, and now ready for national distribution, are known as the Jacket Library, and include such delightful and time tested works as Treasure Island, Adventures of Tom Sawyer, Alice in Wonderland, as well as more serious books. State club leaders have been provided with sets of the Jacket Library for inspection by county and local club leaders. The set is available by members or clubs under the same terms.

Minnesota Boys Hustlers

As pig and corn producers Minnesota 4-H boys are setting a fast pace. In the pig raising contest the boys put it all over the men in making heavy ton litters. A 4-H boy made the most gain, and 8 of the 10 high producers of both adult and boy contestants were made by the youngsters.

John Miller, of Winona county made the top record, producing a litter which weighed 3,500 pounds at six months of age. It was a fine recognition for the boy, as he had been working hard to master the problems of raising pigs profitably for eight years through 4-H club projects. His winning was made in the least year of his club work. In his work he had received encouragement and guidance from county agent Harold Pederson.

Running the 4-H champion a hard race for first was an adult who produced a litter weighing 3,383 pounds. Only one of the high ten winners made less than 3,000 pounds. These records compare well with the best which have been made in any of the pig raising states by either adults or club boys.

Champion 4-H corn grower for 1932 in Minnesota is Darwin Todd, 15, also of Winona county. There were 963 boys enrolled in the state contest. The champion harvested 123 bushels of corn on his acre. His selection was also based on fine exhibits he had made at local, state and national shows, and the records he submitted. This boy and 14 of his nearest rivals will receive prize trips to the next state fair to take part in a crop judging contest.

Home Demonstration Notes

By MISS RUBY MASHBURN
Home Demonstration Agent

Early in the year of 1932 the council chairman, Mrs. I. V. Fent appointed a committee to assist in formulating plans for extending the influence of extension work in Lamb County. Mrs. J. M. Whitfield of Amherst, Mrs. H. H. Allen of Spade, and Mrs. Tom Matthews of Olton, composed this committee. Their plans were as follows: 1. Each club member assist four non club members by teaching them some extension method as canning meat, use of cooker and sealer and giving receipts, as in the Farm Food Supply demonstration conducted by club members. Improving bedrooms, and wardrobes. 2. Inviting people to club meetings and special events, county clothing contests and fairs and achievement days. 3. Regular and more definite reports through the club reporters.

4-H Club Program Held at Meeting of Local Booster Group

The work of D. A. Adam, county farm agent, and Miss Ruby Mashburn, county home demonstration agent, was highly praised and outlined in a 4-H club program at the regular monthly luncheon of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce Tuesday at noon.

Jack Bradley, member of the Amherst 4-H club, was the first introduced by Mr. Adam and gave an outline of the work and purpose of the 4-H club in America. He gave figures showing that in 1929 there were 715,000 members of the club in the United States.

Ladies' Work is Outlined

Mrs. B. J. McGee, of the Amherst home demonstration club, was introduced by Miss Mashburn. Mrs. McGee pointed out the work the club had done in Texas, as well as the lead taken by the Lamb county clubs, in an effort to block the tremendous cut made in the state appropriation for the educational extension work of the Texas A. & M. college.

OPENING KINDERGARTEN

I wish to announce that I shall open a Kindergarten next September when the school term opens. The courses will include expression, story telling and music together with the regular kindergarten activities. I shall be glad to talk with those who are interested during the summer.

home demonstration work in Lamb county and gave figures showing that the value of work of the organization in the county amounted to $134,590.57.

Tells of Cotton Demonstration Ansel Miller, another member of the Lamb county 4-H club, and who last year won a trip to Chicago on his cotton demonstration, explained the methods used in planting and working the crop.

Ansel stated that he planted 6 2-5 acres in high grade cotton seed and received a yield of seven bales. Figures showed that his labor on the land and cotton totaled only 49 hours. He planted a total of 625 pounds of seed and sold the cotton for $5.75 and $5.50 per hundred pounds as compared with $5.00 and $5.25 received for other cotton at that time. He received a net profit, deducting for labor and ginning, of $232 for the seven bales.

Calves Show Profit

Roy McQuatter, of the Spade 4-H club, and Merrel Brigance of the Olton club, both gave figures showing the profit they made on feeding calves during the past few months.

Roy gave figures on the two calves he had fed during the past few months showing a net profit of $25.09. The average net gain per day for each calf over the period was two and one half pounds.

Merrel fed out five calves for a net profit of $100.94, including $35 in prize money. His net gain per day was only two pounds for each calf, however, a lower priced feed was used than in the first instance.

The big boon to the mileage record came, however, in the summer of 1930 when the band spent several weeks on tour in half a dozen European countries. Engagements of several days each were played in leading theatres and concert halls of England, Holland, Belgium, Germany, and France.

The Cowboy Band is brought here by the Littlefield high school. All profits from the concert here go to the high school fund. Members of the band are students or graduate students of Simmons University, Abilene, and receive no salary.

A small admission of ten cents for students and twenty-five cents for adults will be charged.

projects that will be of lasting benefit to the nation.

It was also pointed out in the resolutions that if the present proposals such as reforestation and flood control, were carried out, only a small section of the nation would be benefited, and that Texas, or any portion of it, would not receive any benefit.

Other clauses in the resolutions stated that highway construction results in greater expenditures for labor than other projects, such as flood control and reforestation, and that at this time it was vital to the nation that as great a number of men as possible be given employment.

Texas Needs Roads Most

The resolutions made it clear that Texas was not opposed to reforestation and flood control, but that this state should have the privilege of having its share of the money proposed to be spent by the Federal government in public works go for good roads building; also that other states should have the privilege of using their share of the money on such projects as they deemed the most important in their interests.

Copies of the resolution were sent to Senators Tom Connolly and Morris Sheppard, Congressman Marvin Jones Senator Arthur P. Duggan and Representative A. B. Tarwater, and other representatives in Congress and the Texas legislature.
