ASK LEGISLATURE FOR HEARING ON SCHOOL ISSUES

Farm Women To Protect Schools of Higher Learning

The following resolution relative to the Texas legislature has been passed by the Home Demonstration clubs of Lamb county:

We, the above women sincerely request that we be given a hearing before action is taken by your body with reference to the proposed cut of forty-one per cent (41%) in the appropriations for the State Institutions of higher learning.

Where-by we know that such a measure will not only be a very serious handicap to our higher institutions of learning but will also cripple the efficiency of our County Farm and Home Demonstration work.

Therefore we request this hearing that we may present to you our interest in the County Farm and Home Demonstration work.

At a called meeting of the Lamb county Council held Saturday, April 8, the following delegates were elected to appear before the Legislature in Austin in the near future: Mrs. H. A. Sheffield, Spade Club; Mrs. W. C. Squires, Hart's Camp Club; Mrs. I. V. Fent, Sandhill Club; and Mrs. B. J. McGee of the Amherst Club.

BRANCH OF FARM ASSOCIATION IS FORMED AT SPADE

Local Group is Organized; Will Send Delegates To Plainview Meet

A meeting of the Business Agricultural Association of America was held Saturday afternoon at the Whitharral school house, at which T. W. Moss, of Levelland, president, presided.

Representatives were present from many of the surrounding and nearby cities, and interesting talks were made.

Several resolutions were adopted, including one demanding of the National Congress old age pensions for people past fifty-five years of age, who are without means of support of their own.

Saturday night a meeting was held at Spade school house, when Mr. Hays of Hale county was the chief speaker. A branch of the Farm Holiday Association was organized, with a President and Secretary appointed to serve.

Wednesday evening another such meeting was held in the Littlefield city hall, and a local Farmers Holiday Association was organized, the purpose of which is to get passed by Legislature a moratorium extending time for payment of farm mortgages, and to bring about better prices for all farm products, according to C. W. Smiley, one of the tentative directors of the proposed state organization, which was formed at Austin last week.

Other officers of the proposed state organization appointed at that time were: L. Gough, Amarillo; M. D. Ramsey, Floydada; Fritz Struve, Abernathy; Dr. Kibbe of Hereford, with George W. Armstrong at temporary State President, and L. T. Mayhugh as Vice-President.

Following this organization the following resolution was presented to the State Senate:

We beg leave to submit for your consideration the following recommendation to be put into a moratorium bill.

Having been sent before your honorable body by representative bodies of farmers who we believe know their condition better than your Honorable Body can possibly know, we respectfully ask that you grant us a moratorium for at least two years, or at least till January 1, 1935, in order that we may have time to bring

POWER CONCERN INVESTORS MAY GET NEW STOCK

JUDGE KELSO VISITS LITTLEFIELD LAST THURSDAY

Judge I. R. Kelso of St. Louis, president of the Texas Utilities Co., was in Littlefield last Thursday, accompanied by Hubert Allen of Lubbock, district manager.

Judge Kelso discussed the affairs of the American Commonwealth Power Co., which is now in the hands of receivers, and in which a large number of residents of Littlefield and district own stock.

The judge informed a representative of the Lamb County Leader that there was no hope of ever recovering any money from the American Commonwealth, and stated that he was making efforts to work out some plan whereby new stock in a parent concern of the Texas Utilities Co. would be issued and given to investors in American Commonwealth. This new stock would be interest bearing, and the interest would be paid at stated intervals. What the market value of the new stock would be depended on the earnings of the power concerns and the general economic condition of the country.

Judge Kelso made similar statements at a meeting at Amarillo Friday afternoon of the executive committee of the Protective League, composed of investors in American Commonwealth. Gene A. Howe, editor of the Globe-News, is president of the league.

Among those in attendance at the Amarillo meeting was George Long of Littlefield.

Insert Local Option Clause In Beer Bill

Representative John Mathis, Sr., of Houston Wednesday succeeded in having the house of representatives lay on the table subject to call a bill to legalize the manufacture and sale of 3.2 beer. The action made it possible for sponsors of the bill to call it from the table at any time on 24 hours notice.

The motion to table the bill subject to call carried 84 to 40.

Mathis gave notice that he would call the bill up on the next legislative day, which probably will be Friday or Monday. It had been planned to seek action on the bill next week. Inclusion of a local option provision in the bill has been agreed to by leaders for the bill to obtain additional support, it was learned.

The farm population of the United States is estimated to be close to 31,897,000.

Driving Away the Blues

Let's Have Music

AMUSEMENT

Good clean entertainment should be a leading feature in the life of any community or city. Without such advantages there is much lacking which goes to make up the kind of a city—the kind of a community—in which we all wish to live.

We can recall that 20 or 25 years ago, and even more recent than that, that immense community gatherings were not the exception—they came as regular as Spring, Summer, Autumn, Winter. Perhaps it was our youth which caused those events to attract our enthusiasm, but, in any case sweet memories linger.

We often wonder in this day and generation what is wrong with the country; why so many of us look out on life, see life through blue glasses. One of the reasons is that we have, to a very large extent, dispensed with the community gatherings of a decade or two ago, and have gone racing hither and thither over the country at 60 miles per hour seeking entertainment rainbows.

Littlefield is weak on community gatherings—the kind of events that bring all the neighbors in from miles and miles around to meet and dingle with the folks from here and there—to run foot races—to get sore thumbs in playing baseball—to chat awhile—to do a multiplicity of things that take the mind off those matters which make us old when we are yet young.

Let's turn back the years—be young again. Any doctor or druggist will tell you that is a better tonic, a better conditioner for the human system than anything they can shake up in one bottle with dozens and dozens of bottles from which to put into one bottle a little of this and a little of that.

Think it over, folks.

A BAND FOR LITTLEFIELD

We were very much pleased when we learned that another attempt is being made to give Littlefield a band.

Several efforts have been made to establish a permanent band organization in Littlefield, but each time at least as far as we know, a local band has survived for a few months, then partially or wholly disbanded.

We should look on our band as a permanent institution of our city; it should be just as permanent as our city government, our bank, our Chamber of Commerce, our theatre, or any other institution which enters into the general setup of this or any other city.

We are not prepared to state how a Littlefield band should be supported; that is something that should be taken up through the regular channels; but we are of the opinion that a system should be worked out that will stand up through the years.

A band is one of the greatest assets that any city can enjoy. Such an organization is particularly valuable in good will building.

Let's take some steps that will give to Littlefield a permanent band organization.

EIGHT YEARS AGO IN LITTLEFIELD

(Excerpts from Lamb Co. Leader)

Lum's Chapel, located six miles south of Littlefield, on the Levelland highway was finished last week, and is ready for service. The new church is 26x40 feet with a seating capacity of 300 people, and is located on an acre plot of ground given by W. C. Lum.

Early Monday morning the Baptist church became a complete loss by fire. The cause of the fire is unknown.

known. Insurance of $1500 was carried on the building.

An election has been called in the Pep School district May 9th for the purpose of voting $35,000 bonds for school building purposes. The community is growing very rapidly, and the present school quarters are already largely overtaxed.

W. N. Renfro, 60 years of age, died Monday night following several weeks of affliction with valvular heart trouble. The body was taken Tuesday morning to Camanche, his former home, where funeral services will be held and interment made of remains.

Wednesday night a bunch of Littlefield young business men met at the Smith & Roberts garage for the purpose of organizing a local fire department. C. D. Smith was elected fire chief, and Carl Arnold assistant.

C. S. Burns and family were called last week to the bedside of his father, John Burns, living near Taylor, who was seriously ill. They made the trip in an automobile. Enroute, C. S. Burns contracted acute pneumonia and died last Monday at ten o'clock.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon from the Forwood Funeral Home at Taylor, the services being conducted by Rev. Williams of the First Presbyterian Church of that city; and burial was made in the cemetery at Taylor.

POPULAR COMIC PAIR TO BE SEEN ON PALACE SCREEN IN "WHAT! NO BEER?"

That riotous comedy pair, Buster Keaton and Jimmy Durante, make their latest co-starring appearance on the Palace screen Saturday night, Sunday and Monday, in "What! No Beer?" a screaming satire on the current beer controversy. Buster and "chocolate" run their own brewery in this picture.

New Leading Woman

For the romantic scenes of the story, Phyllis Barry, seen recently opposite Ronald Colman in "Cynara," is cast in the leading feminine role. Barry is the Australian musical comedy star who crossed the Pacific to seek stage fame on Broadway but was seized upon as potential starring material for Hollywood. The cast also includes such well known players as Rosco Ates, John Miljan, Henry Armetta, Edward Brophy, Charles Giblyn.

"What! No Beer?" is an adaptation of a story written expressly for Keaton and Durante by Robert Hopkins. The screen play is the work of Carey Wilson and additional dialogue and "gags" were contributed by Jack Cluett. The production was directed by Edward Sedgwick, who produced "Speak Easily" and other Keaton-Durante comedies.

The picture is replete with spectacular scenes covering the beer problem. Keaton and Durante start out as a taxidermist and town barber, respectively, and wholly by accident find themselves the unwilling owners of a brewery turning out 1,000 barrels of beer a day. Another accident saves them when the police raid their plant and catch them red-handed.

I am Chairman of the Board of Trustees of ours, and these ideas are very interesting and good."

Use Phillips 66 Gasoline and Save $50 a Year

If you drive a car, this picture is of vital interest to you—even if you never expect to build a camp fire!

The cartoon illustrates, simply and graphically, what is wrong with ordinary low-gravity gasoline.

Just as a good fire needs paper or light chips to catch the first spark, so gasoline requires very volatile (high test) elements for quick response and snappy action. The kindling corresponds to the medium gravity range in gasoline. And the large logs represent its "heavy" parts.

Combine all these—which is exactly the case with Phillips 66—and you get quick, even, sustained power. Every drop of this higher test gasoline burns clean. There is no knock, no waste. No unused energy blows out the exhaust. No low-test elements resist vaporization and dilute the crank-case oil.

Gasoline made-to-order for YOU

In addition, every gallon of Phillips 66 gives you the benefit of CONTROLLED VOLATILITY. Based on Government weather reports over long periods of years, barometer records, and many thousands of continuous road tests; we scientifically pre-adjust the Phillips 66, which you buy, to your locality and its weather. Hence, this greater gasoline never fails to deliver the peak of performance in your car.

Here's how to save that $50

Now sum up these savings: Without extra cost, you get higher test and higher anti-knock gasoline. Your engine delivers more pep, power, and mileage. It stays fast, smooth, and flexible with fewer carbon-scraping and valve-grinding jobs. Motor wear and tear is sharply reduced. To the average car owner, these combined savings will rarely mean less than $50 per year.

Remember, Phillips 66 gravity right now ranges from 62° to 68°. The difference in results is so easy to feel, that even inexperienced drivers note the improvement.

Get a trial tankful tomorrow at the Orange and Black 66 shield, where this sensational performing gasoline does not cost a penny premium. . . . And while you are there, why not drain and refill with Phillips 66 Motor Oil! It is the perfect partner of Phillips 66 gasoline in quality, value, and performance. A guaranteed 100% paraffin base lubricant, so good that we call it "The world's finest oil for your motor."

What a joy to have the bowels move like clockwork, every day! It's easy, if you mind these simple rules of a famous old doctor:

1. Drink a big tumblerful of water before breakfast, and several times a day.
2. Get plenty of outdoor exercise without unduly fatiguing yourself.

Everyone's bowels need help at times, but the thing to use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You'll get a thorough cleaning-out, and it won't leave your insides weak and watery. This family doctor's prescription is just fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin, and other helpful ingredients that couldn't hurt a child. But how it wakes up those lazy bowels! The Woman's Missionary Conference of the North West Texas conference of which the Methodist church of Littlefield is a member, met at Vernon April 4-7th, inclusive, with the best attendance in years. There were 250 women delegates and officers present.

Mrs. Phillip Gates, Mrs. W. W. Gillette and Miss Lucille Aven attended from Littlefield.

The subject throughout the entire meeting was "Christain Social Relations," and plans were made for promoting world-friendship in all lands. Vernon proved herself a most gracious hostess, and extended an invitation to the conference next year, but Lubbock opened her doors for it too, and we are looking forward to being in Lubbock in 1934.

METHODIST LADIES ATTEND PALMS SUNDAY PROGRAM

Mrs. B. L. Cogdill, Mrs. E. S. Johnston, and Mrs. L. C. Hewitt, members of the Sorosis Class of the Methodist Church attended the special Palms Sunday program of the Friendship class of the San Jacinto Heights Methodist church, Amarillo, Sunday last.

After the program, which was in honor of the Sorosis class, the guests were invited to the home of Mrs. Ritter, 2126 Hugh Street, where a delicious dinner was served.

The Littlefield party expressed the Friendship class as a "great inspiration," and said they considered it indeed a privilege to hear such a splendid leader as Mrs. Hill, the teacher of that class.

 SYNOPSIS
 November day Joyce Ash-nographer, was in a skid-in Chicago. Next thing red was two years later like one morning to find luxurious house in Calif. wedding ring on her pleasant young man, ad-as Frills, telling her to ter her fall from her day before. Her husband kard, rich fruit packer. d troubled, she tried to about herself and from desk found that she had tless, frivolous young ad become involved in a r with a man named Joyce, feeling relieved that this was going to be easier than she had expected. "I did get kind of a bad

"Sam? Neil mentioned?"
 "He looks young and somehow not like an ordinary servant," she thought as she approached. "I wish he'd look up. Shall I say 'good-morning' to attract his attention? I don't dare call him Sam till I'm sure he is Sam."
 Her impression that he was not an ordinary servant was confirmed when the young man suddenly turned around, and seeing her, broke off in his whistling and exclaimed, "Good-morning, Mrs. Packard! Gee, I'm glad to see you out. How are you? Feel all right?"
 His attitude, though deferential enough, had nothing servile in it. He spoke in an easy manner, as if questions of varying social levels had never disturbed him.
 "Oh, yes, I'm all right," replied Joyce, feeling relieved that this was going to be easier than she had expected. "I did get kind of a bad the horse's neck timidly. "She looks as gentle as can be," went on Joyce, wondering whether Frills wouldn't have been disgusted with this very mildness.

 "Sure, she does," agreed Sam, "but say, get on her, and she's got all the life you want and don't forget it. Say, that mare's got one of the fastest trots of any horse around here, and the smoothest canter you ever saw."
 Joyce stepped back a little. In spite of Rosita's good character, she seemed disconcertingly big, and Joyce had a foolish fear of being stepped on suddenly. She lingered while Sam led Rosita inside again.
 There was a varnished wooden station wagon standing on the gravel drive while inside the garage she could see a long low car, very sporty-looking, with brilliant canary-yellow body and disk wheels. The upholstery was a bright lavender leather, and ery who telephoned yesterday."

 The next letter on heavy masculine stationery began: "Star Baby!" Joyce grinned to herself at this poetic opening. "How lovely!" she murmured sarcastically, and read on with interest.

"I'm sitting in my room at the window that faces where you are, and think of you so hard that I can't settle to anything else. I'm bitterly disappointed that I can't be with you now, this minute. I had been living for it all day, and now I'm lonely as the devil. You've got to be better tomorrow afternoon, sweetheart. I thought I'd seen you in all your different moods, but you had me guessing today. I never felt so puzzled about you before. You seemed to have slipped away from me entirely. I can't quite get it, yet. It makes me restless now and I'm tempted to try to get to you tonight in spite of everything. I'll be worried until I find you looking more like yourself."

"Why are you keeping me off like this? I'm pretty rotten at writing, you know, beloved, but when I'm with you again I'm going to tell you all over again—and demonstrate it—how I adore every inch of you. Won't you call me up right away? I want to know how you slept and how you feel now. All my love to my Frills, from her adoring Mait."
 "Too much fervor!" murmured Joyce critically. She felt only a detached sort of disgust, as if she were reading a vulgar love letter addressed to another. She shook the letter impatiently. "All your fine passion is wasted on me, Mr. Maitland!" she said aloud.

"Well, let's see what else I have here? After Mait's passionate composition everything else will seem tame."
 The next letter made her sit up with a jerk. There was no address, and Joyce hastily turned the envelope over and examined the post mark curiously. "New York, N. Y.," she finally made out.

In an angular, precise handwriting, in pale ink the astonishing letter read: "My dear Florence: Although you seem to lack interest in hearing about the baby, I feel it no less than my duty to keep you informed of her health. She is a most engaging little mite, showing, even at her tender age, a decided personality and charm."
 "Although truth compels me to admit that you are probably not the most suitable person to bring up a child, still I cannot understand how you can possibly feel that the sort of pleasures which fill your life are more important, more satisfying, than the care and bringing up of this dear little baby. I will send you a few lines each month. Please extend my faithful greeting to Neil. Sophie."

Spellbound, Joyce read this letter, which flowed along without a single paragraph to break its smooth stilted sentences. The significance of its contents came as such an unexpected blow that she felt weak and shaken.
 "A baby! It can't be true! . . . I never even heard of that . . ."
 She sat and read the letter again and again trying to realize the incredible fact that she, Joyce Ashton, was a mother.
 Joyce glanced up and saw a man coming down the path toward her. She took a deep breath to restore her courage and looked him over with surprising calm as she hastily put the letters aside.

crack on the head, though it's better today. . . . Is Fire Queen in the stable?" (She had one thing to thank Maitland for—he had told her the name of the horse.)

There was just the hint of a grin on the young man's face as he answered, "Mr. Packard gave orders before he left for me to take her over to MacBready's ranch yesterday."

"Oh?" Joyce frowned, not, as Sam probably thought, in anger at this news, but in baffled amazement at having to stop and consider every remark before she dared make it.

"Mr. Packard had me bring Rosita over from MacBready's for you in case you want to ride. She's one fine little mare, lively as a kitten, without the mean streak of Fire Queen. Want me to saddle her up?"

Furnished with a plausible excuse for not riding, this would have been an excellent chance for Joyce to have remarked angrily, "no, if I can't have Fire Queen, I won't ride at all!" Instead she answered, "I'm not going to ride today, but I'd like to see her."

Sure, I'll bring her out," and Sam disappeared into the stable where she heard him speaking in low clucking tones with a soothing note in his voice. Sam was a nice young man, but she fancied he had looked a little disappointed at the quiet way she received the news of losing Fire Queen.

Sam came out leading a daintily-stepping chestnut mare, with a white star on her mild forehead. She muzzled against Sam's shoulder with her soft nose, while he explained to Joyce, "Rosita's always been a pet at MacBready's and she's used to being made much over, aren't you, baby?" He stroked her fondly, pushing her off when she playfully nipped his sleeve. "Here, get out, girl, pick on some one your own size. Isn't she a beauty? Look at her lines, she hasn't got a fault anywhere."

"She is a beauty," agreed Joyce, enthusiasm, coming closer and patting

there was a great deal of shiny nickle about it. "I would'd be found dead in a thing like that," thought Joyce.

Sam, returning at the moment caught sight of her expression. He looked puzzled and asked, "What's the matter, Mrs. Packard? Anything wrong with the car?"

"Nothing — except that it's all wrong," retorted Joyce, continuing to smile. She felt recklessly inclined to go on and tell him what she really thought about it.

"Well, I'd get tired of those jazzy colors myself after a bit," said Sam frankly, "but it's a darn good car. Shall I back her out for you?"

"No, thanks, I'm not going out today." She still lingered, however, as if she were not quite sure of her decision.

Suddenly she remembered something she had wanted, and forgetting everything else, she asked eagerly, "Do you know where I could get a dog?"

This time the astonishment on Sam's tanned face was so unmistakable that Joyce realized that she had at last really surprised him.

"But see, Mrs. Packard, I thought you didn't like dogs," he exclaimed. "Well, I've changed my mind," returned Joyce, embarrassment making her speak so shortly that Sam seemed to take her answer as a rebuke.

"Well, I don't know exactly what I do want," Joyce uncomfortably, wishing she had given the matter more thought before getting into it this way.

"Why don't you go to Allen Kennels and pick out something you like?" suggested Sam after a moment.

"Oh, I don't want to be bothered," she replied, hoping this would sound enough like the capricious Frills to pass. "Can't you get me one somewhere around here, so I can have it today?"

"Well, I know a dog I think I could get you," exclaimed Sam suddenly. "It's the cutest little white and black Boston bull you ever saw, about two years old and smart as a whip. Belongs to people named March. They're going to China and don't want to take the pup. Like to have me see if I can get him for you?"

"Oh, yes, do," said Joyce. "Do you want . . . had you better have some money? I can write you a check."

"I don't think they'll take any money. They'll be glad to find a good home for the dog."

"Get him as soon as you can, will you?" asked Joyce, smiling at Sam gratefully. "I'm crazy to see him. Now that I've decided to have a dog, I want it right away."

"Sure, I'll go right away, Mrs. Packard. I was just going to drive down to get the day's orders."

Joyce wished she might ride with him while he did his errands but realizing the inadvisability of such an outing she turned away reluctantly and went back to the house where she found that the morning mail had arrived. She sorted out the ones addressed to "Mrs. Neil Packard" and carried them down to the far end of the garden to a secluded corner hidden from the house.

The first one was a short note, carelessly scrawled in a handwriting she seemed to have seen before. "Sorry you didn't feel like seeing any of the gang honey, I can't stand this any longer. Thank God, Neil is away for some time. I can't get over your look this morning, Frills. Call me up tomorrow, dearie. C."

"That's the same 'C' who wrote about the house party," thought Joyce, "and it must be the Mrs. En-

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT—

We have just finished reading an article in the Graham Leader, announcing that Young county will have the first grape juice factory in Texas.

Grapes are being grown successfully in Lamb county and it appears to us that there is no reason why this county cannot develop a grape industry that would soon warrant a grape juice factory.

We are firm in our belief that Lamb county is not taking advantage of the many opportunities available to obtain factories.

We believe that some county organization should be created that would have no other objective than the bringing about of industrial development for our county.

When we suggest that a separate organization be formed to bring about industrial growth, we do not wish to give the impression that we have not the utmost faith in the chambers of commerce in our county. But it is a well known fact that each city in our county seeks to obtain everything possible for that particular city; therefore, we suggest a county-wide organization made up of representatives from all parts of the county. Such an organization would look on the county as a whole and would locate industries where they had the best opportunity to be successful.

The development of our county is being retarded by too much jealousy between cities; we should look on our county as a whole and all sections work together for the good of every resident.

LET US REPEAT: WE BELIEVE THAT A COUNTY-WIDE COMMITTEE SHOULD BE CREATED TO WORK IN THE INTERESTS OF THE INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT OF OUR COUNTY.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Mass Meeting of West Texas Counties Called for April 15

(Special to the Leader)

BIG SPRING, April 12.—The Educational Committee of the Chamber of Commerce at Big Spring has called a mass meeting of the several West Texas counties for Saturday, April 15 at ten o'clock in the New City Hall. Among those prominent in State Educational affairs who have accepted places on the program are Senator Julian P. Greer, Vice Chairman Educational Committee of the Senate, Arthur P. Duggan, L. A. Woods, State Superintendent and H. W. Stillwell, President State Teachers' Association. It is evident that the public schools of Texas will receive only one half the per capita appropriation for 1934 unless the citizenship become informed and interested, said Arthur P. Duggan, Chairman Special Appropriations Committee. County Judges County Superintendents, Teachers and Trustees are expected to attend the Big Spring meeting according to announcement of J. Richard Spann, Chairman local Educational Committee. Invitations and urgent requests for the people over West Texas to small themselves of the opportunity to get first hand information on the seriousness of the school plight are going out from the State Superintendent's office in Austin. The counties being urged to attend this meeting are; Andrews, Borden, Dawson, Ector, Gaines, Glasscock, Martin, Midland, Nolan, Scurry, Sterling, Tom Green and Howard.

Farm Meetings—

about conditions that will give us cost of production for our farm commodities, the only program that will make it possible for us to retain our homes which we contend are the foundation of the American nation. We are authorized to ask that this moratorium cover all farm and home obligations, including all personal property, as well as real. We contend that any farmer who is entitled to protection of this nature will be willing to pay on his obligation an amount equivalent to the usual rental prevailing in that section, from which amount taxes must be paid, and the remainder applied on the obligation. Our position in this matter is that the mortgage holder, in case he should foreclose, would in no way get more than this amount from his investment. This will enable us to weather the storm, and give our families the consideration due them in the way of education and necessities. We believe that a Bill including the foregoing provisions will do more to restore confidence of the people of Texas in their state government and in economic conditions generally than anything that could be done, and would at the same time tend to relieve the condition of unrest that is so prevalent among farmers and laboring people.

Respectfully submitted by:

T. W. MOSS, President,
Agricultural Business Association of America.

L. GOUGH, President,
Farmers Protective League.

M. D. RAMSEY, President,
Farmers and Homeowners Protective League.

The senate has passed a bill declaring a moratorium on all farm sales for 30 days, as is indicated by the following letter from Senator A. P. Duggan under the date of April 4:

Last Friday the Senate passed S. B. 489, declaring an absolute moratorium on all county sales until May 2nd. Yesterday the House passed the same measure and sent it to the Governor to be signed and it is now the law of the land.

This law was given for such a short time for the reason that it is expected that both the Federal and the State government will enact some permanent measure that will save the homes by the time this law expires. If not, it will simply be extended again. I think you and the other farmers and home owners in that section may depend upon it that the Legislature will give you ample protection before it is through.

As to the moratorium bills pending over here, the Senate committee has reported back to the Senate a bill that will give protection through the courts. This is rather long and complicated and it is not to my liking but it will save the homes of our country and that is the thing we want done at this time.

I am very hopeful that this Legislature may enact into law some real protection for the home owners, before the session is over, and I believe it will.

I will keep you posted as to the progress of this legislation.

Very truly yours,

ARTHUR P. DUGGAN
State Senator.

Delegates were also appointed Wednesday night to attend the district meeting at Plainview, of the Farm Holiday movement, including all the counties of the South Plains section, which is called for Wednesday afternoon, April 19, at one o'clock, at the City Auditorium, 901 Broadway.

It will be the intention of this meeting to encourage all Plains counties to adopt like plans and to present a united front, in an effort to create a sentiment in favor of better prices for farm products, more jobs for the idle, and general better financial conditions.

If the counties represented at this convention find themselves a unit in their plans concerning organization, as it is thought they will, it shall be the intention of the convention to discuss the meeting to be held at Waco, April 26, where it is proposed a state organization of the Farm Holiday movement will be perfected. It will also be the purpose of this convention to select delegates from all counties represented to attend the convention at Waco.

Advertising Will Bring Success

Harvey S. Firestone, the rubber magnate, gives credit to newspaper advertising for helping save his tremendous business back in the dark days of 1920.

In debt $45,000,000, with costs climbing and sales falling, he decided to use full page newspaper advertising which he did with such good results that within four years he cleared up his indebtedness and had his business back on a sound footing.

Newspaper advertising can and will do much to save the day if it is intelligently used to offer convincing values.

There is enough reserve buying power in this country to put most of the unemployed to work and start all over again the circle of prosperity. All that is needed is a start. The rest will take care of itself.
