FOOD TRANSPORTATION

Farmers, busy trying to produce record crops for Uncle Sam, have, in many cases, postponed facing the problem of how farm products are going to be transported after truck tires wear out. There is a feeling among many of us that, since the government is so anxious to have food produced it will find a way to solve the transportation problem.

The government is, of course, working on this subject and is developing a plan. But the plan of the Office of Defense Transportation can only work out if the farmers and all the rest of us voluntarily assist right now in making the problem less difficult.

Since farm trucks are not owned by the government, it is up to the farmers and transportation companies which do own them to see to it that they are used in the most economical manner. A few of the government's suggestions for making the trucks last are:

1. Co-operate in transportation pools with neighbors.
2. Eliminate unnecessary use of vehicles. Don't consider using a truck for personal transportation.
3. Revise marketing and buying programs. Eliminate daily or semi-weekly trips to market with less than full loads by planning loads and trips with neighbors.
4. Keep trucks in the best possible mechanical condition.

It is estimated that if farmers do all they can to follow those suggestions to the letter, the 1,500,000 motor trucks engaged in transporting farm products can be made to last twice as long as they would under ordinary conditions.

There is no doubt that equipment pooling and cooperative hauling will eventually be worked out in every rural community. But the big danger is in postponing such plans too long. Every unnecessary trip made today is complicating the future hauling problem. The time to begin following the government's suggestions is right now.

BLONDES WANTED

Suspicion of a fiendish plot on the part of brunette young women to rid those rival blondes of their crowning glory, is unfounded—the government actually does need blonde hair as a material of war production.

We don't know why dark hair won't do just as well, but it apparently won't. The gentlemen of war prefer blondes.

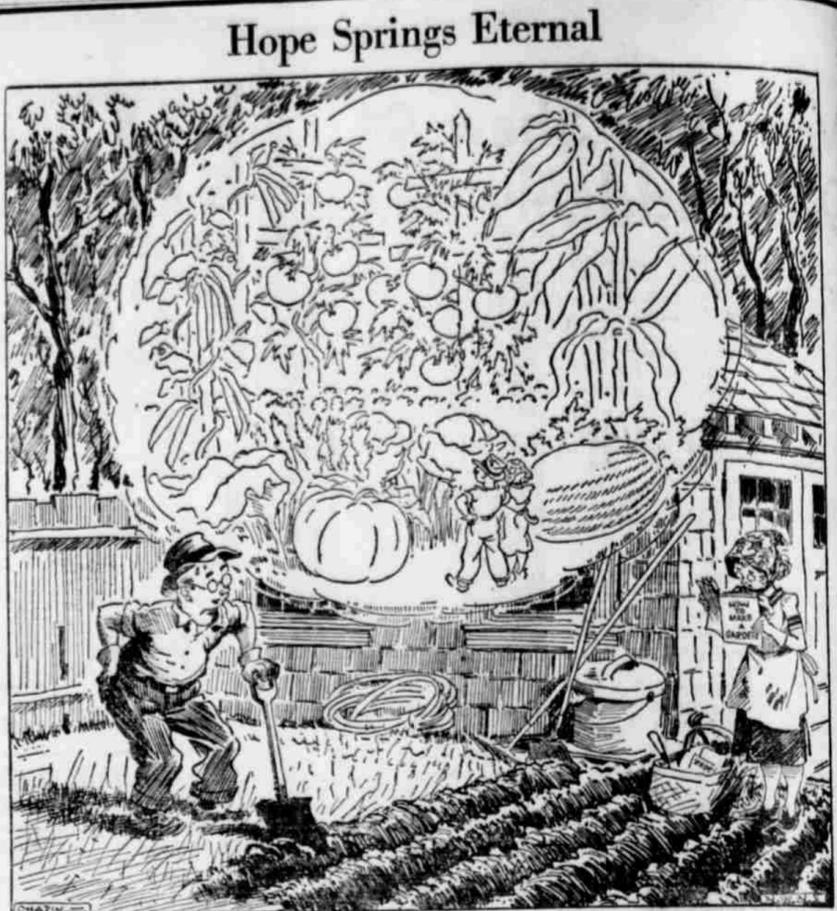

For some obscure use in the making of flight instruments, it has been found that blonde hair is a necessary ingredient. But just any blonde won't do. It must be a very special brand of hair which has these qualifications: it must be 14 inches or more in length, it must never have been dyed and it must never have been subjected to a permanent wave.

Any young woman whose hair meets those qualifications can make a real contribution to her government by getting a Victory bob and shipping her detached locks to an instrument plant. One of the plants which has requested this very special form of blonde hair is Julien P. Fritz & Sons, Baltimore, Maryland, which is a division of the Bendix Aircraft corporation.

What the price is for a good crop of blonde hair has not been announced, but girls get paid for it or can instruct the factory to give her pay to the Red Cross or the U. S. O. In the latter case, she will receive a certificate stating that she has contributed a strategic material to the war program.

With the Red Cross asking for donation of blood and the Office of Emergency Management issuing a call for hair, it makes us wonder what part of the human makeup will be demanded next. It would seem that before this war is over, even those who stand no chance of being called to service may be asked to give themselves, piece by piece, to their country.

Create Beauty Spot In Flower Garden

What a little time, thought and money coordinated can do to a junk yard is evidenced by the back lawn and Mrs. Thomas B. Duke are doing.

Until a few months ago Mrs. Duke was assistant to her husband in the Littlefield Hospital when it was necessary to her health that she retire from active duty.

A vacant lot between their home on Phelps Avenue and Park Avenue was just a junk pile until recently Dr. Duke and Mrs. Duke purchased it with the view of making a more desirable spot to look at. They opened it up to the back yard of their home and incorporated both lots by building a railing fence around them. They then landscaped it for a flower garden.

Winding paths of stepping stones lead through the garden and odd corners have been filled with beds of flox, pinks, cannas and various other plants. Climbing roses and honey suckle have been set around the fence and grape vines have been set out for an arbor. Its going to be just an "Old Fashioned Garden" of Princess Feathers, Zenias, Shasta Daisies, violets and pinks, but a place of beauty, where with the outdoor seats will be a place for rest and relaxation.

Tilden Wright Is Given Captaincy

TILDEN WRIGHT

Lieut. Wright, Commanding officer and instructor in the Air Corps at the East St. Louis Field, and son of Mrs. Vernie Wright of this city, was promoted to the office of Captain, effective as of February 1, though he was only officially notified of his higher office last week.

Dr. Thos. B. Duke Honored on Birthday

Sunday evening a host of friends of Dr. and Mrs. T. B. Duke, in a complete surprise to them, gathered in their home on Phelps Avenue at 8:30 p. m. to honor the Doctor on his birthday in one of the nicest occasions of the season.

Arrangements for entertainment had been made and lovely refreshments had been prepared by members of the group.

After the guests had arrived further astonishment appeared on the face of Dr. Duke when he was presented with a beautiful set of matched luggage initialed "T.B.D." in gold letters. He was also the recipient of beautiful flowers presented by some of the group.

Upon learning that friends of Dr. Duke were arranging for the occasion a colored woman, Annie Bilboud, who previously had kept house for the Dukes, and her niece, Vetta Nichols, who is now their housekeeper, asked that they might have a part in honoring "The Doctor" and were given the privilege to serve. Some member of the family of Annie Bilboud has been employed in the Duke home for the past six years.

After an hour spent in entertainment delicious refreshments were served to the following:

Dr. and Mrs. T. B. Duke, Dr. and Mrs. Roy Hunt, Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Coen, Dr. and Mrs. Wm. N. Orr, Dr. and Mrs. Ira Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Kinkler, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Coffman, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Farr, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Foust, Mr. and Mrs. Kelley Woodall, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Blackwell, C. O. WARE'S FIFTH ANNUAL QUILT SHOW OPEN HERE FRIDAY, APRIL 24

What promises to be the largest show on the South Plains this year is the Ware's 5th Annual Quilt Show which opens Friday, April 24th at 10:30.

That the greatest number of students may derive the greatest plans are being made to ask to bring homemaking classes one-half day each, and conduct in the store and an educational program is being arranged that will fill the one-half day period. These students will be taken in groups from Monday until Friday.

A further effort that the student may get the fullest benefit from the class, parents of the students are being invited to attend and hear the educational programs as presented so the student may receive the fullest cooperation from the parent in the use of their knowledge in this work.

This year's show will consist of three entries, crochet bedspreads, which is a new item in the show, replacing the old quilt entry as run in the past, and the regular and club entry.

Prizes are being offered in each group entry and will be announced in this paper next week.

CHAPTER XIII

SYNOPSIS
Harley Longstreet, broker, is murdered on a trolley. Cherry Browne, his fiancée, DeWitt, his partner, DeWitt's second wife Fern, his daughter Jeanne and her fiancée Christopher Lord, Pol and her fiancée vaudeville friend, Ahearn, friend of DeWitt, Imperiale, middle-aged Latin, and Michael Collins, brawny Irishman, are with him when the murder is committed. District Attorney Bruno and Inspector Thumm and Drury Lane, retired Shakespearean actor, investigate. Everyone seems to have a grievance against Longstreet. Another man is later murdered. He is identified as the conductor of the death trolley. Bruno and Thumm believe DeWitt killed Longstreet and Wood. DeWitt is tried for Wood's murder. Lane proves his innocence. DeWitt, homeward bound, is murdered on the train. His fingers are rigidly crossed in death. The two conductors show by their punches in DeWitt's ticket that DeWitt was a frequent passenger. Doubtless the murderer knew this. Lane finds a note in DeWitt's safe, post-dated four months, signed Martin Stopes. "Get ready to pay," it warns. "You may be first." Later Collins attempts suicide. He swears innocence, though admits following DeWitt on the train. Juan Ajos, Uruguayan consul, tells Lane that Martin Stopes was sentenced in 1912 to life imprisonment for his wife's murder. The evidence of his three mining partners—Longstreet, DeWitt and William Crockett convicted him. In 1924 Stopes escaped. Meanwhile, his six-year old daughter has disappeared, as well as Crockett.

The conductor's hand stopped in mid-air, holding his ticket punch. His mouth popped open, his burly figure sagged.

Lane was swathed in a topcoat, a wide-brimmed felt hat pulled over his face. He sat beside Inspector Thumm by the window, his head turned to the pane, apparently either asleep or absorbed in some mental problem.

Thumm glanced at Lane's averted head, sighed, and got to his feet. He tramped heavily out of the car. Almost at once he returned with an excitement-flushed face. He sat down and leaned forward, whispering to Bruno. "Something queer. . . . Just spotted Ahearn and Imperiale in the forward car."

The conductor appeared at the forward end of the coach and began to collect and punch tickets. When he reached the police party he grinned in recognition; Thumm nodded sourly and paid the fare of the party in cash. The conductor took from his outside breast pocket a number of standard cash-fare tickets, placed them together, punched them at two places and, ripping the tickets in half, handed Thumm one set, depositing the other in a pocket. . . .

Mr. Drury Lane, the somnolent, chose this instant to spring startlingly into life. He rose, whipped off the concealing hat and coat, and turned to face the conductor.

The man stared blankly. Lane plunged his hand into one of the patch-pockets of his sackcoat, produced a silver case and, snapping it open, took out a pair of eyeglasses. He did not put them on, merely regarded the conductor with a reflective, curious preoccupation.

The conductor's hand stopped in mid-air, holding his ticket-punch. His mouth popped open, his tall burly figure sagged, the winy coloring of his face vanished in a flood of dead-white. Out of his mouth came a single word: "Longstreet. . . ."

The artificial lips of Harley Longstreet smiled and his right hand, dropping the silver case and eyeglasses, went again into his pocket and came out clutching something metallic. . . . A tiny click and the conductor tore his eyes away from that smiling face to look down dazedly at the handcuffs on his wrists.

Whereupon Mr. Drury Lane smiled again, this time at the unbelieving faces of Inspector Thumm and District Attorney Bruno. Lane said calmly: "Did you bring the ink-pad as I requested, Inspector?"

Thumm struggled to his feet, and while he grasped the man's nerveless hand and proceeded to press it on the pad, Lane picked up from his seat the discarded topcoat, searched one of the pockets, and brought forth the consular manila envelope. Thumm handed Lane the wet impression of the conductor's fingertips. Lane held the paper side by side with the photographic prints, cocking his head critically. Then he returned the wet impression to the Inspector, together with the photograph.

"What would you say, Inspector? You've compared thousands of these, no doubt?"
Thumm scanned them carefully. "They look the same to me," he muttered.

Bruno faltered to his feet. "Mr. Lane, who—what—?"
Lane grasped the arm of the manacled man in a not unfriendly manner. "Mr. Bruno, Inspector Thumm, allow me to introduce one of God's most unfortunate children, Mr. Martin Stopes, alias Conductor Edward Thompson of the West Shore Railroad, alias an unknown gentleman on the ferry boat, alias Conductor Charles Wood!"

EPILOGUE

As it had done five weeks before, an automobile wound up the road to The Hamlet with Inspector Thumm and District Attorney Bruno.

"The papers have informed me Stopes has confessed," said Lane. "Anything interesting?"
"Interesting to us," said Bruno, "but I suppose you know the substance of it."

"On the contrary," Lane smiled. "There are a number of things in connection with him about which I am at sea."

From Bruno he learned that it had been Stopes who in 1912 had discovered a manganese mine, while he and his partner, Crockett, were prospecting in the interior of Uruguay. Because the two men needed capital to work it they had taken in as partners, on smaller percentages, two other prospectors—Longstreet and DeWitt. Stopes made it clear that the crime he had been accused of subsequently was committed by Crockett. Crockett had attacked Stopes' wife one night in a drunken lust, while Stopes was at the nearby mine, and when she resisted, had killed her. Longstreet had concocted the plan whereby the three were to accuse Stopes of the murder, and, since no one knew the mine legally belonged to Stopes, they could take over the mine themselves—it had been unregistered. Crockett was shaken by his crime and accepted the plan eagerly. DeWitt, Stopes said, was dominated by Longstreet and forced by threats to join the conspiracy.

The shock of his wife's death, the realization of his partners' perfidy had unbalanced the young geologist. It was not until after his conviction and imprisonment that he regained his normal faculties. From that moment his thoughts were diverted to revenge. By the time of his escape, close confinement had taken toll of his features, although his body was as strong as ever, and he felt reasonably certain he would not be recognized by his intended victims.

"These things, however," concluded Bruno, "aren't nearly so important now—to me, at least—as your uncanny solution?"

"In the street car murder one inference stood out at once," said Lane, "and I cannot comprehend how it escaped the intelligence of both of you. The nature of the weapon was such as to make it apparent that it could not be handled with the bare hand without fatal results to the handler. I felt certain, then, that when the murderer slipped the needed cork into Longstreet's pocket, he must have worn a glove. Now we know the cork was dropped in the pocket after Longstreet boarded the car. Please recall, Inspector, that I specifically asked you at the termination of your recital whether gloves, among other things, had been found; and you replied in the negative. So, although the murderer was still in the street car, there was the peculiar situation of an object, which must have been used in the commission of the crime, not being found after the crime. It could not have been used in the commission of the crime, not being found after the crime. It could not have been thrown out of a window; no window was open from a period even prior to the boarding of the Longstreet party. It could not have been thrown through a door, because Duffy opened and closed the doors on the only occasions when they were used. If the glove could not have been thrown out of the car, and yet it left the car, it could have done so only on the person of someone. But only one person left the car! That was the conductor, Charles Wood, sent by Sergeant Duffy to summon Officer Morrow and notify headquarters."

"So I was forced to conclude—wild, as it seemed—that Wood had taken the glove from the scene of the crime and disposed of it somewhere. That reasoning made him either the murderer or an accomplice. Naturally, he could not have anticipated being granted the opportunity to leave the car and dispose of the glove. So he must have accepted the possibility of having the glove found on him if there were a search and he had had no opportunity to throw it away. But as a conductor, handling money all day long, he knew a glove on his person would not excite suspicion."

Lamb To Raise More Food And Livestock

It's spring again and in all sections of Lamb County farm families on the program of the Farm Security Administration are enthusiastic about prospects of a good farm year for themselves and a good year to produce record food supplies for the United Nations, said Pegues W. Houston, Rehabilitation Supervisor for this federal agency.

Farm families cooperating with the FSA, said Mr. Houston, "are showing more interest than ever before. They are talking about more milk from their cows, more chickens and bigger gardens because they realize how important food has become in the fight against the aggressor nations in this second world war."

"For the past several years these families have been devoting more time to diversified farming, producing more of their living on the farm, improving their living conditions and gathering for themselves a more desirable life," he continued, "but now, as never before, they are realizing how important the little farmers are to the cause of democracy."

The supervisor pointed out that the men folks, knowing they cannot shoulder a gun in the fight for freedom, are doing the next best thing. The men, urged on by their wives, are taking more than a passing interest in the chickens, the garden, and in making their homes more pleasant and beautiful.

"I've noticed," he said, "that this year the men refer to the poultry as 'our chickens' and to the garden as 'our garden.' Formerly these were described as 'my wife's chickens and 'my wife's garden.'"

More news about the farm woman's spring work in connection with the Food for Victory program comes from Miss Hayhurst, Home Management Supervisor for the Farm Security Administration. She reports that on an average the gardens on farms in Lamb County will be much larger this year than ever before and that they will contain a greater variety of vegetables. She reported also that many of these farm women have completed their plans for purchasing more jars in which to put up the record food supplies which they expect to produce this year.

"Last year," said Miss Hayhurst, "the poultry flocks on farms where the families were cooperating with the FSA averaged about 100 birds. This year it is believed that the flock will average 150 head, an average of approximately 50 percent."

"We have been told that the large farms in America are producing the maximum amount of products, and that the majority of needed increases must come from the small farms throughout the United States. If this is true, then if all small farmers over the nation are planning to work as hard and produce as much as the small farmers in Lamb county, I know this country need have no fear of a food shortage," Miss Hayhurst declared.

So far a total of 135 loans amounting to $78,332.00 have been made by the FSA in this county since last fall. There are 24 new families on the program this year. The FSA office managed by Mr. Houston and Miss Hayhurst, are serving 196 families in Lamb County.

Farmers Set Pace In War Production Effort

By L. G. ELLIOTT

The American farmer stands as a shining example to the world at large, and to Americans in all walks of life in particular, of what can be done when demands for more and still more effort are met with the determination to "come through" despite all obstacles. The American farmer is faced with production goals representing increases over last year's record crops of 8 per cent more corn, 7 per cent more milk, 13 per cent more eggs, 10 per cent more chickens, 14 per cent more hogs, and 8 per cent more beef and veal. Crops important as sources of oil show the largest percentages of increase in goals, led by peanuts with a 155 per cent increase and soy beans with a 54 per cent increase.

Yet, the American farmer is expected to . . . and expects to . . . meet the war-time demand for agricultural products.

The expanded farm program is off to a good start despite unfavorable weather conditions in many parts of the country, where continued cold and rains have delayed preparing the soil and planting. Output of many products has held up well during the winter and early spring. The total number of livestock and poultry on farms is the largest on record. Milk production per cow, and eggs laid per hundred hens, have exceeded all previous peaks for this time of year. These statements are supported by government statistics. Early shipments of fruit and vegetables have also been higher and the acreage already planted to some crops such as tomatoes and cabbage, is about 30 per cent larger than in 1941.

The outlook for livestock feeds is extremely favorable as a consequence of a broad government stabilizing program providing ample supplies at fixed prices. In the Pacific Northwest and possibly in the Northeast, feeders are expected to avail themselves of the CCC's offer of 100,000,000 bushels of wheat at special prices for feeding purposes. In the corn belt, only a short corn crop this year will make it necessary for feeders to resort to wheat.

Farm income which reached $11,000,000,000 in 1941 is expected to increase approximately 25 per cent in 1942. Price ceilings and other stabilizing measures are expected to be established at high enough levels to make possible this increase in income. Many farmers are utilizing this added income to clear themselves of indebtedness and to provide working capital. This is a sound program and one which will doubtless have a stabilizing influence upon agriculture for many years to come.

The farmer is faced with the same condition which is faced by workers in industries who today are earning more than they have for many years . . . that of having more money to spend and less opportunity to purchase things with it. Merchants in rural districts have reported a sales boom and this will doubtless continue as long as the merchants have merchandise to sell.

While the actual cash farm income may not reach the peak volume of 1919, the buying power based upon the index of prices farmers pay was nearly 30 per cent greater last year than in 1919 and should continue far higher during the coming 12 months. Summing up the present farm picture, the American farmer is faced with (1) increased production schedules, (2) less help with which to produce it and (3) greater rewards for his efforts.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
Roy Shahan, Pastor

We feel that the great messages brought by Bro. C. A. Powell during the week of Stewardship Revival will bring forth fruit. We know this is true if we will carry out the teachings of the Bible that were presented to us. Also if we will carry out the impressions we felt in our hearts during these services.

The pastor will speak at both services Sunday. The subject for the morning hour will be, "Giving God Our Best". Remember we are now having our services according to the new time.

METHODIST CHURCH
Methodist Church
April 15, 1942

Dear Members and Friends;

We are all opposed or against strikes that is occurring in the mines and factories of our country. We feel that when our country needs the help of every citizen so bad that it is no time to strike for selfish interest. We feel that everyone ought to be willing to work and not be striking.

The factories, the oil wells, the mines, the farms and all institutions must run at full capacity if we are to win in this struggle that our country is in.

Our government is spending millions of dollars to fix places of worship for our boys in the service. They are hiring Chaplains to help the men in their religious life. The reason the government is doing this I am sure that we all know that our government feels that it is important to the Defense Program. The Government is not only spending millions for the places of worship for our boys but the government is pleading with all churches and religious leaders to get the people to return to God and righteousness.

If our government feels that it is necessary to spend millions and to urge the people to return to the worship of God, then there must be a reason.

If it is wrong for men in factories and mines to strike for money and selfish interest then it is wrong for people to not support the churches and the worship of God. Unthoughtfully many are not supporting the churches (and they are important to the government just now as always) with their attendance. They are striking against the churches and thereby striking against our government for pleasure and gain or selfish interest.

Our Government needs the churches help and they are willing to give all the help they can. But the churches needs every one to help them be of the best service.

This is written not to reprove any one but to help everyone see where they can help in this great fight that is ours.

Your friend and Pastor,
Jim H. Sharp

PLANS ARE MADE TO FINANCE STATE RALLY

At the beginning of the school term, the Home Economics students of Littlefield organized the F.H.T. Club and set their motives for the year. Among the motives and aims selected, we are very glad to say that many have been carried out. One of our greatest aims has been to make money to send the winning girls from the first, second, and third year classes to the annual state rally held in April at Dallas. The Home Making girls have worked very hard to make this money. Some of the things that we have made money from are: serving the Football-Pep Club banquet, selling peanuts and popcorn balls, and presenting a play,

We have had excellent cooperation from every student in the Home Making classes, and we feel that our club has been a great success toward accomplishing our aims.

Large Number Lamb Women Attend Dist. Meeting Saturday

Twenty-one Lamb County club women and the agent attended the district meeting of the Texas Home Demonstration Association in Lubbock, Saturday April 11. Lamb County had the third largest attendance of the seventeen counties represented. Lubbock and Floyd had the largest number in attendance.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. O. R. Copeland, Lubbock who is district vice-president. Mrs. E. L. Yarbrough, Lamb County Council Chairman reported on How Lamb County is Carrying out the Recommendations of the THDA. Mrs. Arch Lamb, Texas Technological College talked on Nutritional News. She remarked that Nutrition is the Old Story again but one that can't be commented on enough.

At the luncheon in the Lubbock Hotel, Mrs. W. G. Kennedy, State President of the Texas Home Demonstration Association talked on the Woman's Part in Winning Victory. She assured the group again that Home Demonstration Club women could be depended on to do the job which is theirs to do.

In the afternoon, Mrs. W. B. Williams represented the county in a Parliamentary Quiz. She was one of five with a perfect score.

Highlights of National Meeting of Farm Women and Reports of National Council of Home Demonstration Women were given by those women who attended the National Meetings.

Miss Kate Adele Hill, District H. Dem. Agent, and Miss Helen H. Swift, Extension Specialist in Rural Women's Organizations discussed "Thrift" and "Timely Advice" respectively.

Lamb County Clubs represented at the meeting were Perry, Amherst, Sodhouse, Springlake, Fieldton, Westbrook and Littlefield.

Mrs. R. T. Badger Leaves On Three Week's Vacation Trip

Mrs. R. T. Badger is leaving Friday for Lewisville, Arkansas. She will accompany Mrs. A. W. McKee of Lubbock who with her three daughters, Mrs. John Neal of Quanah, Mrs. R. W. Badger of Littlefield, and Miss Louise McKee of Denton, will attend Grand Opera in Dallas.

Mrs. Badger will leave the party at Wichita Falls and spend a few days with her niece, Mrs. E. B. Bailey, who lives there. Leaving there, Mrs. Badger will proceed on to Lewisville. She will return by way of Austin spending a few days there with her daughter, Mrs. Aubrey Moward and Mrs. Bertrand and Badger. Mrs. Badger will be away about three weeks.

About 100 Attend Project Open House

The Housekeeping Aide W.P.A. Project had ninety-seven guests at its "Open House" last Saturday, with Miss Elsie B. Green, Assistant Project Supervisor, Mrs. Johnnie Mae Tindle, Project Foreman, Mrs. Lillie Mae Sage and Mrs. Anna C. Coley, Field Workers and a number of the aides of the project acting as hostesses.

Among the most interesting things seen were the baby incubator and the strawberry barrel. The incubator is made from an apple box with a light bulb and a thermometer at each end so the temperature can be regulated from each end. It should be kept at all times between 96 and 100 degrees and as close to 98.6 as possible for a premature baby. This incubator was examined and approved by Dr. C. E. Payne though he says that no incubator is fool proof and any should be closely watched when a baby is in it.

The strawberry barrel has cans down the center for irrigation purposes, has twenty-two holes bored in the sides with a strawberry plant set in each hole. As they grow they will cover the barrel.

For this occasion the women on the project made and served oatmeal cookies, coconut and chocolate coconut cookies, peanut butter cookies, and whole wheat rasin cookies.

Since the personnel of the project has been doubled recently, it will be able to serve many more people, and be more useful to the city, its sponsors.

Mrs. Giddens Hostess Methodist Ladies Monday Afternoon

Circles No. 1 and 2 of the Woman's Society of Christian Service met in the home of Mrs. Willis Giddens on West second street Monday afternoon at three o'clock with Mrs. Ray Bilderback co-hostess. The entertaining rooms were decorated with bowls of beautiful nasturtiums.

After a short business session, over which Mrs. Bilderback presided, Mrs. Paul Pharris led the lesson and was assisted by Mrs. J. H. Lippard, who gave a discussion of the "Woman's Work in the Church", and Mrs. Van Clark, who read an open letter to the Society which brought out its efficiency aims for the year.

Mrs. Dennis Jones gave a very interesting report on the conference which recently convened in Midland.

Delicious refreshments were served to the following ladies: Mesdames Jack Wingo, D. W. Holiday, D. G. Hobbs, Paul Pharris, Fred Wright, Dennis Jones, Mike Brewer, Johnston, King, J. H. Lippard, Carl Arnold, W. P. Kirk, Elton Hauk, Rice Peques, Houston, Joe Aven, Van Clark, Hank Rogers, J. H. Sharp, Buster Owens and hostesses, Mrs. Ray Bilderback and Mrs. Willis Giddens.

WAYNE ARNOLD, ONLY 19 IS MAKING GOOD ON WEST COAST

Wayne Arnold, only 19 years of age, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Arnold, is achieving outstanding success for a young man of his youth.

Wayne has a good position in the drafting department of the Portland Shipbuilding Corporation at Portland, Oregon. He went to the west coast only about two months ago.

This young man was graduated from the Littlefield High School with the class of 1940, and went to work in the local office of Cameron and Co. the day he was graduated. He did architectural drawing as part of his work at the lumber concern's office, and in order to advance his education he took a correspondence course in drafting provided by Cameron & Co. studying at his home at night.

Such a conscientious effort to succeed had its reward; today Wayne has a nice position with a large concern.

Chartered Buses Are Discontinued

Civilian chartered bus trips are being cancelled, effective immediately according to announcement by Hurley Carpenter, Superintendent of Transportation of the Texas, New

Test Pilot

George H. Dorsey, test pilot for a large airplane manufacturer at Dayton, Ohio, is shown wearing high-altitude equipment, including the new harness designed for carrying the emergency oxygen supply on the chest. This permits free movement within the close quarters of a single-seater pursuit plane.

HERE'S HOW CERESAN BOOSTS COTTON PROFIT!

Hiding on cottonseed are many crop enemies—disease organisms that impair stands, reduce yields and quality, cut cotton income! But easy, economical seed treatment with CERESAN kills many of these organisms! Temple, Texas, reports tests in which "germination was doubled . . . seedling diseases greatly reduced." CERESAN treatment generally reduces seed rotting, scorch and certain other seed-borne diseases; commonly gives stronger, more uniform stands at a saving in seed; usually increases yields, often as much as 10 to 25%. Inexpensive; easy to use. Get it now and treat your own seed, or buy seed marked with the Ceresan Certificate Tag.

TREAT OTHER SEEDS, TOO!

Use Semeosan Jr. for corn; New Improved Ceresan for small grains; Semeosan for vegetables; Semeosan Del for potatoes.

The announcement followed information from tire rationing officials in Washington, D. C., that motor carriers operating on chartered trips for civilians would not be eligible to receive tires under the tire rationing program.

Buses canceled include one which was to have taken a group to Anson April 16 to the convention of the 14th District, Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers and one which was to have taken women from the seventh District to Fort Worth April 27 to the convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

Motor carriers are to be restricted to regular schedules and held in availability for military movements. The plan does away with sight seeing tours, trips of athletes, bandmen and other civilians going by chartered bus. It does not apply to chartered bus trips of soldiers, sailors and marines.

The POWER to WIN!

DYNAMOS in the Electric Power Company Plants everywhere hum a hymn for Victory! About one-fourth of the electric power they generate operates the machinery that turns out parts for warships, airplanes, guns, tanks, and also prepares food for our fighting forces. This is the Power To Win!

In this war-time emergency it is necessary for your Electric Company, its employees, and its customers, to make sacrifices in behalf of our Country. Because materials used in the manufacture of electrical appliances are needed for defense purposes, it will be exceedingly difficult to secure new appliances . . . therefore, may we urge you to make use of the electric appliances you now have. If they are not operating properly, take them to your Local Repairman to have them checked. He will put them in operating condition. Chances are, the cost will be small.

Sport.... Scraps

BY WILSON BRAZZIL

Running a close second to Maxie McKnight, Littlefield's popular athlete with the two-toned hair-do, is David Storey, also of Littlefield, who is rated as one of the best tennis stars on the South Plains.

In a recent match at Tech, David easily outpointed his opponent from SMU, Dallas, and added another trophy to his long collection.

Spring training got underway at the local high school recently with only two lettermen from last year's crack team reporting for practice.

These two returning regulars, Jimmie Zed Robinson and Raymond Reddell will form the nucleus of the 1942 Wildcat aggregation and will be ably supported by a group of promising new comers who will be getting their first glimpse of a football game from the gridiron.

What a green team lacks in experience they usually make up in spirit and football fans hereabouts who have a gloomy outlook for the Wildcats are likely to do an about-face when the new recruits start hitting the line next season.

Out Spade way there is said to a girl's volley ball team than can really bat the old apple around. After losing the first game to the Littlefield lassies in the County meet at Sudan recently, they came from behind to take the next three games in a row and copped the county championship.

This team will represent Lamb county in the District meet at Lubbock this week end, and their opponents are likely to find it tough sledding.

A sure sign of spring is the fact that several rural baseball teams are reported to be working-out for the coming baseball season.

Baseball has long been looked upon as the nation's leading sport, and we know you'll agree that there's nothing better for a man's ego than a four-bagger or a safe slide home on the seat of his pants.

The local golf course is attracting more attention than a back-alley brawl and an increasing number of golfers are going out every day to "shoot the works". J. A. Lilley, Littlefield shoe man and probably one of the oldest golfers in this section, is "high mogul" of the Littlefield Golf Club, and according to some of the young talent, has built up a technique that makes him plenty hard to handle on the greens.

Quite a number of young golfers are said to be making their debut this season and if the proverbial "Beginner's Luck" runs true to form there's likely to be some more names added to those of Eagan and Dobbs in the Littlefield hole-in-one club.

Baseball fans around Littlefield who desire to see one of baseball's most colorful figures do his stuff, should see Monty Stratton, manager of the Lubbock Hubbers in action.

Monty, who was once a big-league pitcher for the Chicago White Sox, aroused the sympathy of the nation when he suffered the loss of a leg in a Texas hunting accident several years ago. Somewhat handicapped with an artificial leg Stratton is making a wonderful comeback and is managing the Hubbers in their 1942 season.

At a time when the nation is electrified by General MacArthur's arrival in Australia, the March of Time is releasing a story which shows how Uncle Sam is streamlining our fighting forces.

This film, "America's New Navy," which opens at the Palace Theatre Saturday midnight, and continuing through Sunday and Monday, explains what this new realignment means to the man in the service. Scenes showing training camp activities, munitions factories, supply depots and nautical combat tactics emphasize how revolutionary have been the changes, and the March of Time, working throughout with the cooperation of the Army, has edited its story to bring out the most striking of these new departures.

In charge of Services of Supply is General Brehon Somervell. His is the task of seeing that equipment is provided for what is to be the greatest fighting force in the history of the world.

In charge of Ground Forces is General Lesley McNair, administrative chief of all infantry, cavalry, artillery and armored divisions. The scenes showing their activities are a reminder that the infantryman is still the nucleus around which any army must be built. Sequences showing the training of the paratroops emphasize the way this new U. S. Army is being modernized.

In charge of Air Forces is General Henry W. Arnold, himself a flyer, with a flyer's knowledge of the job of training the men who may prove, in striking power, the decisive factor.

And lastly, a sequence recreating the drama of General MacArthur's message upon his arrival in Australia climaxes the film. In this, announcing his assumption of command of the Pacific offensive, he presses home his appeal for cooperation and sacrifice on the part of every American. In a stirring plea for resources and weapons to carry out his mission, he invites the participation of all in the task of winning the war, and helping him to fulfill his pledge: "I shall keep the soldier's faith."

IS TRANSFERRED TO NEW ORLEANS

CARSON GLASS

Carson Glass, son of Dr. and Mrs. T. B. Duke, who is assistant United States District Attorney for the Department of Justice, was transferred from the Washington offices to the New Orleans district and moved with his wife to New Orleans the first of April.

Mr. Glass is a former Littlefield boy, having been a member of the 1934 graduating class of the Littlefield High school. He received his degree in law from the University of Texas in 1938, and shortly following his graduation, was appointed to the position he now holds, and has made his home in Washington since that time.

EXPECT TO COMPLETE NINTH AND TENTH STREETS IN MAY

Work is progressing in the paving of East Ninth and East Tenth Streets, and, according to Mayor Homer Hall, rock is being crushed for the project, and workmen are going right ahead, and it is expected these streets will be completed during May.

SELLS PROPERTY

A deal was consummated Saturday whereby Jack Alexander sold his 5 room residence property at 714 Marcell St., on the west side of town, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Clark and family, to John Dirickson.

Mr. Clark acted as real estate agent in the transaction.

Notes From County Agent

It is getting the time of year now when we can expect to have some trouble from Coccidiosis in our poultry flock. This disease occurs most often in flocks of broiler size or a little smaller and is closely associated with warm weather and dampness.

The best way to handle Coccidiosis is to prevent it rather than treat the disease. It can be prevented by feeding two and one-half pounds of sulphur to the one hundred pounds of mash.

The sulphur can be fed satisfactorily, only if the chickens are three weeks old or older and if they have access to sunlight. It is best then not to feed the sulphur mash continuously, but feed for about a week and then give regular mash for a week and then back on the sulphur mash.

Coccidiosis is a very common disease of small chickens and causes loss of losses. The above method is a simple way to prevent those losses.

Jack Dyer of the Spade 4-H Club and Herman and Garland Rose of the Olton 4-H club are exhibiting calves at the Plainview Fat Stock Show this week. These calves have been fed in dry lot and will compete with other commercial fed calves for prizes and when the show is over will be shipped to Kansas City with the train load of 4-H livestock that is shipped to Kansas City each year from the South Plains area.

The Fourth Annual Cattle Feeders Day will be held at Texas Tech at Lubbock next Friday, April 17, starting at 10 o'clock a. m. The program will include results of some feeding tests that have been carried on at the college and in addition a tour of some nearby commercial pens near Lubbock.

If you are interested in cattle feeding we believe you will get some good information on this program.

We want to strongly recommend that you plant some type of field peas on a part of your government acres this year. Remember that peas are food and they are also good for feed and in addition to that they are soil building. Seed are scarce and high in price. Start looking now for seed and don't wait until you are ready to plant to start hunting planting seed. Don't forget to inoculate the seed before planting. The cost of inoculation is very little and it does insure that the crop will be soil building. Know Your Navy—One stripe around the cuffs of a jumper is the mark of an ace seaman, fireman third class mess attendant second class.

Exporters & Traders Compress & Warehouse Co., Cottonseed Delinting Plant, Waco, Texas.

Gentlemen:

This is in reply to your letter of February 16th, requesting some comments on acid delinted cottonseed. In most years seed that were Kemgas treated or acid delinted by other means have given good germination with little or no seedling disease. About the only treatment that surpasses acid delinting is acid delinting plus dust treatment with organic mercury dust such as new improved Ceresan (5%) at the rate of one ounce per bushel. There is usually more than a 50 per cent increase in germination where seed are delinted as compared to seed receiving no treatment. Seedling disease infection is usually from 20 to 30 times more on seedlings from untreated seed than on seedlings from acid delinted seed, especially where the acid delinted seed are further treated with Ceresan to afford extra protection. Acid delinted seed may readily be planted with a corn planter or hill dropped at spaces of from 12 to 24 inches or more. By planting in this manner the seed required per acre may be reduced by more than half. It has also been found that where the rate of planting seed is reduced cotton root rot is also reduced and yields usually increased. It is somewhat easier to chop or hoe cotton where it is planted in such manner. There is thus a saving in seed required and a probable increase in yield and somewhat of a reduction in labor required to cultivate the crop. Delinted seed usually germinate quicker than fuzzy seed, but should not be planted quite as deep as fuzzy seed. Seedlings are usually more vigorous or larger than seedlings from untreated seed, thus allowing closer and more intensive cultivation. This is especially valuable following periods of wet weather where grass has started growing in such crops.

If there is any other information we can supply, kindly write.

Yours very truly,

C. H. ROGERS, Plant Pathologist

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

ACRE-PROFIT TELLS THE TRUE STORY About Tractor Oils

In tractor-farming, acre-profits depend in no small measure on oil-costs. And, every hour that 150-Hour Veedol saves you money on oil and fuel, it does a better lubrication job to protect your pocketbook from the drain of unnecessary repairs.

- 150-HOUR VEEDOL cuts costs these 5 ways in your gasoline tractor
1. Saves Fuel . . . Reduces power "blow-by", minimizes dilution . . . thus saves fuel consumption.
 2. Saves Oil . . . In many cases doubles operating hours between oil refills.
 3. Saves Losses . . . Ends time and money losses from needless breakdowns.
 4. Saves Repairs . . . Greater resistance to heat and friction cuts costly tractor repairs.
 5. Saves Tractors . . . By reducing wear, assures long, economical tractor life.

Remember, too! In distillate-burning tractors Veedol reduces oil consumption and protects power output.

Littlefield; Dr. C. J. Wagner of Lubbock; Postmaster Simon D. Hay and Joe Salem of Sudan.

Mrs. Shaw was born February 3, 1851, at Butler, Ala., and with her parents when a small child moved to Enterprise, Mississippi, where she spent her girlhood, and was married to Dr. G. M. Shaw in 1883. To this union were born three children, G. M. (Gus), Guy and Grace. Grace passed away at the age of seven years; and Guy, who was Railway Express Agent at Orange for 25 years, died at Orange, Texas, last December, leaving one son, Mr. Shaw of this city surviving.

When Mrs. Shaw's sister, Mrs. Jimmie Stubblefield, passed away leaving two young children, Mrs. Shaw took her niece and nephew into her home and reared them. They are; Mrs. A. N. McInnes of Gainesville, Fla., and Richard Stubblefield, Railway Express Agent at Hamlin Texas, who were as close to Mrs. Shaw as though they were her own children, and for whom she held the same affection and love. They also survive their adopted mother.

Mrs. Shaw made her home in Enterprise, Miss., until about 20 years ago, and since that time she has been dividing her time between her children, spending most of the winter months with Mr. and Mrs. McInnes in Florida.

Mrs. McInnes was a guest in the Shaw home during January and February last.

Mrs. Shaw had spent the past five months in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Shaw here. Several weeks ago she was confined in a local hospital for about a week, and though not fully recovered from her illness she was much improved. She had eaten a hearty supper the night previous, and in the livingroom of the Shaw home, less than two hours before she died she talked, laughed and joked with the family, and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Street and daughter, Alice Lynn, who spent the evening in the Shaw home.

Mrs. Shaw had been a widow for over 40 years. Her husband was a veteran of the Mexican War of 1845 and also of the Civil War of 1865.

She was exceptionally active for her years, and up until the last two years she had travelled alone, making trips to and from Florida by herself. On February 3, 1939, she celebrated her 88th birthday in the Shaw home here, and was showered with telegrams, birthday cards, letters and gifts from far and near, which set in motion this custom, and each February 3rd thereafter Mrs. Shaw was remembered with such greetings from her many relatives, friends and admirers.
