MARLENE DIETRICH SENSATIONAL IN "SEVEN SINNERS" COMING TO RITZ THEATRE THIS WEEK END

Marlene Dietrich as a heart-stopping cafe belle of the South Seas, portrays the kind of role only she can do so well in "Seven Sinners," her new Universal film which opens Saturday midnight, continuing through Sunday and Monday at the Ritz Theatre.

Opposite her in the role of a young navy officer is John Wayne and it is a new kind of character for this rugged young leading man whose star is rising so rapidly. Wayne does a notable job both in the classic fight that climaxes the picture and in the spectacle scenes that precede it.

While first honors must go to Marlene Dietrich and Wayne, an outstanding portrayal is given by Broderick Crawford as a beached navy man who attaches himself to the cafe singer and follows her as she wanders from one tropical isle to another until she comes to an American naval base. Crawford's performance lives up to the promise he showed in the recent "When the Daltons Rode."

Albert Dekker essays a difficult role with skill, bringing to life the character of a ship's surgeon who is seeking forgetfulness in the bottle until he is reformed by his love for the singer. Also seen to advantage are Mischa Auer as a magician and Billy Gilbert as an experienced cable owner.

Jackson, Littlefield, will lead in the ordaining prayer. Rev. J. E. Moore, Sudan will deliver charge to candidate. Rev. L. S. Jenkins, Amherst, will give charge to church. Rev. Roy Shahan, pastor of local church, will preach the sermon.

Open House Is Well Attended

Large numbers attended Open House at the Hammons Funeral Home Saturday and Sunday, when the formal opening of the new Funeral Home was observed.

The interior was made more inviting by the large number of baskets and vases of cut flowers presented the establishment by friends, in observance of the opening, and as a compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Pryor Hammons on the establishment of such modern and complete funeral home for this city.

Present for the opening were; R. P. Powell of Dallas, Representative of the National Casket Company, and John S. Freeman, also representative in this territory for this company, whose home is in Plainview; representing the Texas Coffin Company.

Mr. Powell, in complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Hammons on their new funeral home, said that "it was a credit to a town twenty times the size of Littlefield, stating it was one of the nicest funeral homes west of Fort Worth."

On entering the building—on the left is the chapel, while on the right is the main reception room, next to which is a private reception room for families, etc., followed by the office and reposing room.

A small apartment at the rear is occupied by Lenton Smith, Licensed Embalmer, and one of the Hammons personnel. A hall connects the preparation room located at the rear, with the chapel, which has a seating capacity of 150, including private family room during service. Another special feature is the cement porch and driveway leading from the chapel, at the side of the building.

The display room is located on second floor, with a large selection of Redwood, Cypress Clich covered, 16, 18 and 20 gauge Armo iron and copper caskets. Also the latest in a Clark 12 gauge Armo iron galvanized finished vault is also on display.

OLD BRANDING IRONS TELL STORY OF EARLY-DAY TEXAS CATTLEMEN

A collection of very old branding irons was recently discovered in an unused shed in Lubbock and presented to the Tech museum by Capt. J. G. McKinnon, a Lubbock contractor. Some of the better known brands in the collection are: "SPADE." The Spade brand was registered in Lubbock county in 1891 by Isaac L. Ellwood. Mr. Ellwood purchased this brand on the Canadian River near the Oklahoma line. From 1889 to 1924, the cattle with this brand averaged 25,000, there were 440,000 acres in the ranch. The brand is being run today on 14,500 Hereford cattle in Mitchell, Sterling, Coko, Lamb and Hockley counties.

"MASHED O." This brand was used by W. E. Halsell and later by the Halsell Cattle Company. From 1895 to 1898, 20,000 cattle carried the brand. It is still being run today in Lamb and Bailey counties on 5,000 white-faced cows on 100,000 acres.

"S LONG S." Jess Slaughter, Big Spring, Texas. This iron was found on the old Rattlesnake Ranch of the "Long S" outfit. Mr. Slaughter's father was for many years manager of this ranch, and he himself worked on the C. C. Slaughter ranches many years before they were divided. There were around 500 sections of land in the "Long S" ranch located in Howard, Borden, Dawson and Martin counties. There were several ranches besides the headquarters outfit—the Rattlesnake, Buffalo, Indian Canyon and Sulphur Camp ranch.

"LAZY S." Paul Slaton, Odessa, Texas. "Registered in 1902 in Llano county and in Ector county about 1914 by J. D. Slaton. It was selected because of it being his initial, and because he wanted a stamp iron of only one letter. Between 1902 and 1925 there were approximately 3,500 cattle on 95 sections of land. Today there are about 2,000 Hereford cattle on 66 sections of land."

"NUNN." Its use began in 1866 in Hays county by J. W. Nunn and was moved to Scurry county in 1877. In 1889 it was sold to Evans, Snider, Bewell Company, who closed out in 1891. It was the greatest in importance between 1878 and 1886. I think there were more "NUNN" cattle than any other brand owned by just one man. They were scattered from Hays county to Terry county.

"H H C." Brand of David Kritser, Shelby Kritser and Tom Kritser (Kritser Bros.), Amarillo, Texas. The brand is now run by them in Moore county. It had its beginning in 1856 in Travis and San Saba counties.

"D." Registered about 1897 in Young county by T. B. Donnell. In 1930 there were about 4,00 head of cattle on 12,000 acres being run by W. T. and T. B. Donnell. Today there are about 900 head of Herefords on 10,000 acres in Young and Throckmorton counties.

"FRYING PAN." W. F. Scarborough, Midland, Texas. This brand was registered in 1897 in Motley county by Bill Scarborough.

and in Winkler, Loving and Andrews counties, Texas, and Lea county, New Mexico, in 1909 and 1912. From 1918 to 1925 about 8 to 10,000 cattle were run on 200,000 acres. The ranch now contains 160,000 acres; 80,000 owned in fee. "D." Started about 1886 as a road brand on herds belonging to Blocker, Driscoll and Davis. In 1886 several thousand head of cattle were on the trail under the "D" brands. Ab Blocker drove one of these herds. "I O-OPEN A." This company was organized by the Western Land and Live Stock Company in 1884 at Davenport, Iowa. One of the directors, David Boaz, was installed as general superintendent to purchase the land and cattle and start the ranch off. He decided that Yellow House Canyon in Lubbock county was the most likely place and within two years had leased or purchased approximately the south half of Lubbock county. His first purchase of cattle amounted to 20,000 head and he installed J. E. Millwee as ranch manager.

SIX NAVAL GUN FACTORIES TO BE FEATURED IN NAVY EXPANSION PLAN

A $115,000,000 expansion program to provide guns for the two-ocean navy will begin with construction of six naval gun factories in the Midwest, navy officials indicated recently.

The building program was authorized in the second defense appropriations bill passed by Congress.

The plants are to be located between Pittsburgh and St. Louis in line with the administration's policy of developing defense industries away from the vulnerable Atlantic coast but close to labor supply.

The program will be carried on with $68,000,000 in cash and $47,000,000 in contractual authorizations. Although the government will own the land, erect the buildings, install machinery and purchase equipment, the plants will be run by private industry.

Each factory will make and assemble parts for all gun sizes up to six-inch weapons. Between 2,000 and 3,000 men will be employed at each plant.

EVELYN OPPENHEIMER

presenting Evelyn Oppenheimer of Dallas, Monday night, December 2, at the First Methodist church, Littlefield. Admission to the book review will be 40c, and tickets are being sold by members of the two clubs in Littlefield, as well as the members of the other clubs that are sponsoring the review.

Invitations are extended to every person in this territory to attend this review.

It is indeed an honor for these clubs to present Miss Oppenheimer, who has been declared "One of Texas most distinguished women," and "This youthful woman definitely holds top ranking position throughout the Southwest as literary commentator, interpreter and analyst." She gave a book review in Lubbock last year, and Littlefield is rather fortunate to have her as their guest here on December 2.

Miss Oppenheimer was born in Dallas. She received her Bachelor of Philosophy degree in literature at the University of Chicago. For two years she worked on Chicago newspapers as literary critic and feature story writer before beginning her career on the lecture platform.

This year she has repeated a review of "Foundation Stone" four times in Dallas, and will give it on a tour in Longview, Tyler, Paris, Jefferson, Jacksonville, Littlefield, and Clovis, New Mexico.

She will go from Littlefield to Clovis December 3.

"Foundation Stone," by Lella Warren, the leading national best seller of today, is a story of the pioneer life in Alabama. It tells the vivid authentic story of the men and women who pioneered the new cotton state.

Commentators have written that Miss Warren has gone Miss Michell one better. "Foundation Stone" is a "Gone With the Wind" in its own right.

make the day of your choice this year a real Day of Thanksgiving.

Though America itself may be hovering on the brink of war, the people may still give thanks for the kind providence which gives this nation, alone in all the world, a real freedom and a real democracy to fight for, if fight we must.

No — two days of national Thanksgiving are not too many in a nation where the people can be thankful in each of the 365 days of each year for the privileges which are ours.

Something every club woman in this section, and many women and men who are not members of clubs are looking forward to with great interest, is the appearance of Evelyn Oppenheimer in Littlefield December 2, when she will review the nation's best seller of today, "Foundation Stone" by Lella Warren.

The book has been declared greater than "Gone With the Wind," and portrays the vivid life of the pioneer men and women in the Great South. The plot comes from the state of Alabama.

About Miss Oppenheimer — the Two States Press had the following comment to make — "In presenting excellent book reviews, this Dallas lady has been in the public eye more often than a squirt from the breakfast grapefruit. She's tops in her line. Lots of men have the crazy idea that book reviews are principally for women. Just why, we can't say, but our hunch is that any average male who hears Miss Oppenheimer will alter that opinion pronto."

I went to the "Hub of the Plains" Saturday night, and to my delight, the Christmas spirit ready prevails in the South metropolis. Colored lights are strung above the downtown streets and many of the stores displaying holiday goods that to make the town "Christmascious."

Littlefield should follow in the very near future and decorating for the holiday. It makes people forget the ordinary worries, besides stimulating business for merchants.

Many homes in Littlefield attractively decorated each year many more should have lights burning in the window the trees in the yards, and their homes this year, than past.

Why can't we make this a "Littlefield, the town with most people who have the mas spirit."

More people will want to our town if we plan for holiday season.

Up in Minnesota, where it are cold, a town has gone map, North Pole, Minn., and all indications there will be rivalry for Christmas with that famed town of Claus, Ind.

North Pole really deserves name, because the thermometer falls fast during the winter. Some indications can be seen the fact that the town has a population of 135, while more a thousand persons live there summer.

"Isn't that checked off pretty loud?"

"Not with a muffer on!"

Goodbye, Now.

Cornerstone Laying--

Fourth Assistant Postmaster General and the Acting Commissioner of Public Buildings Administration. Copies of these letters, which were forwarded to Postmaster Storey for his perusal are as follows:

"Honorable Walter Myers, Fourth Ass't Postmaster General, Post Office Department, Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Myers:
"I have just been talking with you over the telephone regarding the possibility of sending someone from Washington to attend the cornerstone laying ceremonies at the new postoffice building, which is under construction at Littlefield, Texas. We should like to have you or someone whom you might select to attend this meeting.

"The meeting is rather significant because postmasters and postal employees from the 25 counties of my Congressional District are being invited to attend the ceremonies. I know that the people of Littlefield and the Postmasters and postal employees of my Congressional District would deeply appreciate all possible consideration in connection with this matter.

"The date for the ceremonies was tentatively set for November 19, but it has been postponed in order to permit me to be present. I anticipate that Congress will adjourn about November 20th. I will proceed to Texas immediately after adjournment, and any date after November 24th will be acceptable to me. The Postmaster at Littlefield, Mr. Wm. D. T. Storey, or myself will notify you as soon as possible of the exact date for the ceremony.

Sincerely yours,
George Mahon."

"Honorable L. S. Simon Acting Commissioner Public Building Administration Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Simon:
"After your letter of November 2nd, a copy of which is attached hereto for your ready reference, was written to me relative to the laying of the cornerstone of the new post office building at Littlefield, Texas, the date of the proposed ceremonies was indefinitely postponed in order to make possible my being present for the occasion.

"I expect to be in Texas on November 24th and thereafter, and I imagine the new date will be set for the latter part of November or the first part of December. No doubt, the Littlefield postmaster, Mr. Wm. D. T. Storey will get in touch with you as to the exact date which would be most appropriate and agreeable for you to fix for this occasion."

Sincerely yours,
George Mahon."

Besides Congressman Mahon, it is expected that one of the Postal officials will also be in attendance.

The Masonic Lodge will be in charge of the program in connection with the laying of the cornerstone.

The day's program will open with a luncheon at 12:30 noon in the Methodist Church, at which Congressman Mahon will be an honored guest as well as Postmasters of this District. It is the plan also to invite members of the Rotary Club and the Lions Club to the luncheon.

Following the ceremony in the afternoon a meeting of the Postmasters and Postal Workers in the district will be held.

Lamb Volunteers--

Littlefield, and James Edwin (Pat) McCord, No. 7 of Earth.

Mr. Jones stated that the balance of the volunteers will wait until December, when it is expected that another call for men under the selective service will be made.

To Honor Volunteers
Preparations are underway by the local unit of the American Legion Auxiliary, with the members of Richard New post of the American Legion cooperating, to honor the first group of men leaving here for military service. A turkey dinner is being planned for Friday at 1 o'clock at the Methodist church, when these men and their parents will be invited. Also guests of the occasion will be members of the Richard New post, Littlefield.

Mrs. Street Chairman

Mrs. Maude Street is chairman of general arrangements and will be assisted by other members of the Auxiliary.

On the committee which will have charge of the food are Mrs. Carl Harmon, Mrs. Tom Matthews, and Mrs. Dick Beisel.

Veterans To Make Talks

Following the dinner, at which Orien Dennis, vice-commander, will preside, in the absence of J. H. Ware, commander of the local post, talks will be made by veterans of the World war.

Jimmie Lakey will serve as bugler at the dinner.

To Attend Theatre

Through the courtesy of W. J. (Bill) Chesher, manager of the Palace Theatre, and himself a World war veteran, free passes to the matinee at the Palace Friday afternoon will be extended to the seven volunteers and their parents. Also as a courtesy, Mr. Chesher will arrange to have the matinee start at 1:45 instead of 2 o'clock, in order that they may have plenty of time to see the show before the east bound train is due. The feature to be shown at the Palace Friday afternoon is "Moon Over Burma," starring Dorothy Lamour and Preston Foster.

Other special guests at the dinner will be W. A. Love of Sudan and W. A. Schrier of Olton, who with Mr. Jones make up the county draft board.

Program at Depot

Plans are also underway to stage a program at the depot, before the eastbound train arrives, including several selections by the Littlefield high school band, and the Legion

Auxiliary is urging all citizens who can to attend the program at the depot, and by their presence participate in the farewell greeting to these men who are leaving here for military service.

cially during the past year, and Bro. McFarland reports that there have been 76 persons responded to the invitation of Christ.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McFarland of near Littlefield, and he and his wife have made many friends here who regret his leaving, but extend best wishes to them as they go to their new work.

They came to Littlefield from Bartlett, Texas, where he was pastor a year.

Announcement has not been made who will succeed Bro. McFarland as pastor of the local church.

Cotton Referendum--

mark his ballot privately as in other elections.

"The question to be decided December 7 is whether marketing quotas will be used in connection with the 1941 crop," Smiley states. "If two-thirds of the voting farmers approve, quotas will be in effect, and will apply to all states, counties and communities where cotton is produced."

He urges Lamb county farmers to consider the quota provisions and the present cotton situation closely and to vote their own convictions. He emphasizes that regardless of how they vote, all eligible growers should cast their ballots to make the vote as representative as possible.

Will Select Men To Administer AAA Program

Practicing the democracy they believe in, farmers and ranchmen all over Texas will gather in community meetings December 13 or 14 to elect the men to administer the AAA program locally during the coming year.

At each of these meetings of AAA cooperators, three men will be elected to serve as community committeemen during the coming year. At the same time, delegates will be selected to attend a county convention to be held the following day.

Delegates to the county convention will elect three committeemen to administer the program in the county. In addition, two alternate committeemen will be elected.

"The committee set-up is the most important phase of the entire program," George Slaughter, chairman of the state AAA committee declared. "These men are chosen because of the success or failure of the farm program in their counties."

Farmer-control of the program is an actuality, not just an idea, the chairman continued. He cited the cotton marketing quota referendum to be held December 7 as one example of the "economic democracy" practiced by the farmers and the committee elections as another example.

All members of the county Agricultural Conservation Associations, composed of all producers cooperating with the AAA, are eligible to participate in the committee elections, Slaughter said. He urged producers to remember that the committeemen would administer a program which is of vital concern to all of them, and that, therefore, great care should be taken in getting the best men available for the positions.

Cotton Allotments To Be Announced

Barring unforeseen circumstances, every cotton farmer in Texas will be notified of his 1941 cotton allotment prior to the Southwide marketing quota referendum December 7.

The task of informing counties in the state of their allotments and the subsequent breakdown of the county allotments for the individual farms is well under way, E. N. Holmgren, state AAA administrative officer in charge, has announced. In a series of district meetings over the state this month, the AAA official is urging the county committees to make every effort to notify producers of all allotments.

In general, allotments under the 1941 program are running about the same as under the 1940 program, Holmgren said. In most cases the allotment for each farm in a county is a fixed percentage—uniform for the county or administrative area—of the farm's cropland. No allotment will be less than 50 percent of the 1937 planted plus diverted acreage, provided that no allotment is thereby increased to more than 40 percent of the farm's cropland. No allotment, however, will be larger than the highest cotton acreage planted and diverted in any of the past three years.

As many as 5,000,000 low-income, single cash-crop American farmers should leave the land and go into defense industries, Chester C. Davis, representative of agriculture on the National Defense Advisory Commission, has advocated.

Levelland Woman And Child Fatally Burned Thursday

LEVELLAND, Nov. 15 — Flames from a gasoline stove fatally burned Mrs. Lonnie E. Williams, 29, and her three-year-old son, Mickie, Thursday night.

Ironically, the tragedy fell on the 22nd birthday of the husband, who also suffered burns.

A reporter of the Hockley County Herald gave the following story:

Mr. and Mrs. Williams, who had lived here two and a half months, and were operating a cafe, had gone home from Levelland and the husband attempted to light the stove. It was about 8:15 o'clock.

Pressure blew out the match he held and spray was blown from the stove against an oil lamp less than four feet away.

Immediately the room was enveloped in a sheet of flame.

Williams, his clothing afire, made a dash for his automobile, parked near the house, and grabbed a coat. Extinguishing his clothing, he ran back into the house and attempted to drag the torch-like bodies of his wife and son from the room, but they were futilely pressing with last vestiges of strength against the trap of a window screen.

Before he could make his way through the inferno to them, rescuers, including Earl Lane, dragged the woman and her son through the window and rushed them to Phillips-Dupre hospital, where Mrs. Williams died 30 minutes later. The child died at 12:15 o'clock Friday morning.

Williams severely burned about the face and hands, will recover, it was announced.

A note of heroism was injected into accounts of the tragedy. Mrs. Williams attempted to the last to shield her child from the blaze. When pulled through the window, of her burning residence, she had shoved the child into the window opening and was writhing in the flames, yet managing to keep the raw flames from reaching her baby.

The Williams residence did not burn, rescue workers having been in time to extinguish the fire.

Williams' parents live at Winters, Mrs. Williams' at Ballinger.

A funeral car from Ballinger took the bodies of Mrs. Williams and her child to that city where funeral services were held Friday.

Son Is Born To Mr. And Mrs. E. S. Arnn

Mrs. Roy Wade received a telegram last week advising her of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Arnn of Centralia, Ill. The child was born at 1:30 o'clock Monday morning, November 11, and been named Edgar Stephen.

Mrs. Arnn is the former Pauline Courtney of Littlefield and a sister to Mrs. Wade.

I'LL TUNE OUT THE ALKA-SELTZER ANNOUNCEMENT

Don't—THAT'S THE MOST IMPORTANT THING YOU'LL HEAR TONIGHT

"When statements about Alka-Seltzer are made over the air, please, please believe them."
Mrs. Oma Catherine Jones

MILLIONS suffer less from Headache, Acid Indigestion, Distress of Colds "Morning After" and Muscular Fatigue because they have heard—and believed—Alka-Seltzer radio announcements. To these millions, the relief obtained by the use of Alka-Seltzer is worth far more than the genuine enjoyment they get from the broadcasts.

The most important parts of our radio program, both to you and to us, are the commercial announcements. Once you have tried Alka-Seltzer we believe you will agree with us.

But try Alka-Seltzer because it is an unusually effective medicine not because you enjoy the radio programs.

WHY ALKA-SELTZER IS SO EFFECTIVE

The pain-relieving analgesic in Alka-Seltzer is in complete solution, ready to ease the distress as soon as you swallow it. The pain-relieving action is made more effective by alkaline buffers. The alkalinizing elements in Alka-Seltzer reduce excess stomach acidity.

Million Tons Of Rumanian Oil Is Shipped To Germany

Despite ice, floods and earthquakes, Germany has drawn a stream of more than 1,000,000 tons of oil from Rumania this year for her war machine and rising imports are forecast.
Many Rumanian refineries may be shut down several weeks due to damage from the tremors since Sunday, but reservoirs are full and some companies had already been capping wells to restrict production.
Until the refineries resume production again, shipment will be made from these stores. The only effect on Axis military plans may be the consumption of reservoir stocks which otherwise might have been shipped south in event of an extensive campaign in the Balkans and Near East.
American oilmen express belief that shipments to Germany may approach 200,000 tons this month and the same in December. The highest previous month's shipment was in May, 1936, when 194,000 tons were moved. Shipments may reach a possible total of 1,400,000 tons in 1940, compared with 1,285-000 tons in 1939, and 1,705,000 in the record year of 1936.

Rites For Neville Chamberlain Thursday

The ashes of former Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain were placed beneath the stone floor of Westminster Abbey Thursday in a silence broken only by the voice of the Archbishop of Canterbury commending his spirit to God.
The Anglican service for the man who had tried to avert the war lasted forty minutes in an interval between air raid warnings.
At the end of the ritual, the choir sang. Mrs. Chamberlain, heavily veiled, knelt on the floor and taking chrysanthemum petals from her handbag, dropped them into the small crypt where the urn rested.

The public was excluded and those who went to the cold gray abbey—including the Duke of Gloucester representing the royal family, Prime Minister Winston Churchill and his cabinet, and dignitaries of the church—were quietly admitted as they presented cards marked "secret."
The order of the burial service, printed in blue ink, was headed with an air raid precaution in flaming red.
Chamberlain died Saturday, Nov.
9. His body was cremated the following Wednesday.

FOR A UNITED AMERICA

The night after election a great meeting was held in Carnegie Hall in New York, not to celebrate a victory or mourn a defeat but to bury the hatchet. Men and women of all political beliefs, of all racial origins, all creeds and faiths spoke the same language.

The keynote was the one word: "Unity."

Nothing could better express the spirit of democracy than this determination to stand united as a people behind the leaders of the people's choice after the most bitter and hard-fought Presidential election of many years.

Now, having got all those things off our chests, it is time to forget them, at least until the next election, and to get together as Americans to make it our business, the business of every one of us, to revivify the true spirit of America and to keep it alive in a world where everything America stands for seems to be threatened.

Nothing would make the enemies of human liberty happier than to see Americans divided among themselves. Nothing could endanger our national safety more than to keep alive or aggravate the antagonisms which showed themselves in the recent campaign. We have a big job ahead of us, a job in which all must do their part and none must be permitted to hinder. That is the job of building our national defenses to the point where we can be perfectly sure that no possible attack from outside our shores can be effective.

Only by so safeguarding our physical boundaries can we be sure of keeping alive the spiritual heritage which is the real America. If proof were needed that the American people are united in that objective, it is provided by the fact that there was no issue as between parties or candidates on that question. All were agreed that the first need of the nation is to speed up work on our defenses, and give all possible help to the few remaining democracies overseas who are fighting for the same objectives that we of America must preserve.

So let us bury the hatchet and pull together to prove that democracy is not an outworn, but a living, vital force, the greatest force in the world today.

Olton Mustangs Win 5-A Grid Title Friday

Olton's Mustangs rallied sensationally in the last half at Sudan Friday afternoon to submerge Sudan's Hornets, 39 to 6, thus clinching the District 5-A north half title and the right to play Brownfield for the district championship.

The playoff game will be at Olton Nov. 21. Last season the two teams met at Brownfield for the district title, the Mustangs winning 13 to 0.

Olton had a thin 7 to 6 lead at halftime today and were being badly outplayed by the Hornets. But Olton came out for the third quarter all fired up, shoved over one touchdown in the third and four in the fourth to rack up the heavy score.

The Hedges twins, Willis and Willard, did all the Olton scoring, splitting six touchdowns evenly between them.

THANKS FOR AMERICA

(1) Thanks for the land of America For reasons a little child knows, It's springtimes, it's warm summer sunshine, The peace of it's white winter snows.

(2) Thanks for the wealth of America, It's forests and prairies and hills, For the challenge to build and to conquer, For it's farms and it's mines and it's mills.

(3) Thanks for the spirit of America, That shines out far over the sea, A proof to the world and all nations That a land can grow great and be free.

(4) Thanks for the strength of America, A giant that has slumbered so long, And now stirs in it's might and it's vigor, A nation awakened and strong.

(5) Thanks for the love of America, Love of family, of home and of land. While we cherish and guard and defend these The American Dream shall yet stand.

CHECKERBOARD LOVE

CHAPTER X SYNOPSIS

Swan, nicknamed "Cygie," is the only daughter of a high-society horse trainer, whose property adjoins that of Judge Castle. Jeffrey's only son, Jeffrey, has been Audrey's friend since childhood. He is educated to go into his father's office in Parville but Olive Cooper, who scoffs at the idea and flatly refuses to live in the beautiful country house the young couple. Jeff's college friend, Vic Quinn, falls in love with Audrey, who does not return his affection. Vic substitutes for Jeffrey in Judge Castle's office while he is away. When he hears of Jeff's decision not to return, Vic goes to Audrey if she objects to his substituting, as the Judge has offered him a partnership. He is with her when she learns that her father has lost his life by saving a drowning child. Audrey asks Vic to notify Jeff. Jeff is in the midst of an argument with Olive about going to the funeral.

ciate it very much."

"Think so?" There was almost an eagerness in the question.

"I know it. I called you the other night at Audrey's request." It cost Victor something to say that, much as he tried to banish the realization.

"Oh! Then I will drop in on my way back. Thanks."

It was several hours later that Jeffrey drove up to the Swan home. Until he glanced back at the stables standing without sign of life, he had not realized how different the place would be after this. It was a relief to see that there were no cars parked on the drive. It was still more of a relief to have Audrey open the door to him. Her face was still colorless, but she managed a smile of welcome.

"Cygie!"

"It was good of you to come, Jeff."

After Anthony Swan's death, the management of his family affairs had when the mail brought him a little parcel—a woolen muffler from Mrs. Swan, a dozen fine handkerchiefs from Audrey.

The dinner, too, was saved from being a momentary ordeal when Audrey took occasion to tell him in a matter-of-fact fashion: "You're sitting in Dad's place, Vic. We thought it would be easier."

If only he could have read a particular meaning into that! By this time he might have hoped for some encouragement in his suit. But Tony Swan stood between him and his desires as inexorably as death itself. The affair had been grimly ironical from the beginning. Falling so desperately in love with a strange girl. All their contacts shadowed by another man. And a man now married and speedily out of the picture. There was many an occasion when he could have echoed Jeffrey Castle's sentiment with whole-souled fervor—it was terrible to be a gentleman.

At this same time, Jeffrey was being put to it to uphold a reputa-seemed to pass involuntarily into the hands of Attorney Quinn. There was no one else to whom Martha and Audrey could turn and Victor was always available.

Anthony had left a modest amount of money and securities and the farm was unencumbered. It was Martha's idea to convert all the stock and equipment into cash and perhaps sell all the land except that occupied by the houses and stables. She wanted to remain in the home during her lifetime.

But Victor had another suggestion. "I imagine it would be a good idea to get rid of your horses," he agreed. "I don't know anything about values, but I presume you can get pretty nearly what they're worth. At the present time they will lose on the land. What had you planned to do, Audrey, to keep yourself busy?"

"Why, nothing," she answered, "just stay here with Mom."

"Then why don't you carry on for your father? On a small scale."

"I hadn't thought of that," Audrey mused. She turned to Martha. "What do you think of that, Mom?"

Mrs. Swan was crocheting and she worked without looking up. "It sounds like a good plan," she said, when she came to the end of a row. "You'll never be satisfied if you don't have horses to fool with. I know that. And I think your father would have liked it."

"Then we'll call that settled," Victor decided. "When you get ready for action, I'll be glad to help."

"We'll wait until after the first of the year," Martha offered unexpectedly. "Friday will be Christmas. It will be just another day for us, Mr. Quinn, but I'd be pleased if you would have dinner with Audrey and me. If you're going to be in town."

"Thank you, Mrs. Swan. I shall be glad to come." He was more than repaid for the simple answer by Audrey's eyes.

After considerable thought, he decided upon a modest gift for each of his hostesses, something to which no sentimental value could be attached. He was glad that he tion of that sort. For Olive had undertaken to punish him for his Parville trip by remaining coldly aloof. Jeffrey had done his best to ignore her attitude and to maintain a friendly footing, although some instinct warned him that he would be making a mistake in going too far in the matter of a reconciliation. An abject surrender would make the future more difficult than ever, and if there must be another unpleasantness he was in favor of postponing it as long as possible. This might be a propitious time to go after that job on his own. Accordingly he presented himself at the general offices of the corporation and sent in his name. He waited nearly an hour before a secretary advised that Mr. Harrison could give Mr. Castle a few moments.

"Well, Castle," he said, "what's on your mind this morning?"

"A job," was the businesslike reply. "Olive has told me that you believe you can find something for me. I'd like to get to work."

After dinner that evening Jeffrey strolled into his wife's boudoir. "I've got some news that may soothe your nerves," he said.

"Well?" Olive reached for a cigarette and lighted it. She felt that it would emphasize her attitude of indifference.

"Nothing startling, dear. Your old man's going to work. Had a good confab with your dad this morning. I'm starting in on Monday. Have my pail packed, will you?"

"What are you going to do?" Olive's dark eyes narrowed a trifle. "I don't know. Going to take the usual course for salesmen . . . a matter of studying, more or less."

"What did Father offer you? How much?"

"No figure named. He did intimate, though, it would be the same as the other recruits get. Doesn't want any hard feelings."

"In other words, you gave him a story of wanting to work up from the foot of the ladder without any favors."

"Not at all. That's the story he gave me."

Oh, yes? It should be, but it Do you suppose I haven't able to see why it was so for you to tear yourself away that odious town and why you always running back there on slightest provocation. I've everything I can to make you after your self-respect, but this is tolerable." Tears suddenly her dark eyes. "Don't go, I'm asking you not to."

Oh, sorry, Olive, but I'll have down there. I mean I'm going He went out into the hall looking back. And closed door after him.

"You seem to be going out of your way to humiliate me of late." "For Pete's sake! I can't loaf all my life, Olive, and I don't intend to! Besides it was your idea in the first place . . . where are you going?"

"I'm going down to have a little talk with my father. He doesn't seem to understand. Quite."

Audrey Swan opened the door leading into Judge Castle's outer office. "Good morning, Judge Castle. I was looking for Mr. Quinn."

"Why, bless my soul! Come in, Audrey, come in. I haven't seen you for a long time." He brought a chair to the side of the desk with a courtly gesture. "Sit down, my dear, and let me look at you."

"Mother asked me to stop in with some papers that Mr. Quinn wished to see. He has been very kind about looking after things for her."

"Of course. He should be." Judge Castle's face grew suddenly grave. "Life brings bitter trials to all of us. Do you mind if I speak of your father, my dear?"

"Of course not," she replied in some surprise.

"He had one child, the same as I. I have watched you grow up, my dear, and I am confident that your father would tell me that you never had caused him an hour's grief."

"I hope that's true," Audrey said softly. "About my father."

"I had one child, too," the Judge remarked grimly. "I said that before, but you can draw your own conclusions."

"Aren't you just a little hard on Jeffrey?" Audrey asked, astonished at her temerity. "After all, he married the woman he loved. I will never believe that he willingly gave up his prospects here with you." "Nevertheless," said the Judge stubbornly, "his place is here. I have been reminded of it daily by seeing young Quinn in the place that should be Jeffrey's. Not that I grudge him his opportunity. Not only am I exceedingly fond of him, but I have found him invaluable. He is a very remarkable young man, Audrey."

"He is nice."

For the first time, the Judge's face relaxed. His eyes twinkled under their shaggy brows. "Is that the best you can say of him? You should be nice also . . . to him. And you should find it easy. By the way, did you notice the door as you came in?"

"The door?"

"Yes. The outer one. There's a rather new sign on it. It says, 'Castle and Quinn, Attorneys at Law.'"

"Oh! Isn't that splendid?"

"He's earned it. I need someone here who can take complete responsibility of the local practice, and it did not take Quinn long to show me that he could do that to my satisfaction." The Judge chuckled.

"I am very glad for him," Audrey remarked quietly, getting to her feet. "I wonder if I may leave the papers here. I must be running on."

"Certainly, my dear." He extended his hand and held hers for a moment when she gave it to him. "Audrey, I wish very much I might have had a daughter like you. If I can ever be of any service to you or your mother, you have only to let me know. Please convey my respects to her."
