Returns Slow In Phone Applications

Although there was a noticeable increase in applications for rural telephone service this week Dick Carl, manager of the Lamb County Electric Cooperative, said the returns were still very slow.

About 50 applications were made in the past week bringing the total to around 165. At least five or six hundred applications will be needed before the Lamb County Rural Telephone Association can apply to the REA for a loan.

Mr. Carl feels that the slow returns are due in part to a great deal of misunderstanding about the cost and financing the installation. He feels that if the cost of installing the phone is greater than around $35 it would not be wise to build as the monthly bill would be too high.

The initial application fee of $5 is the most that could be lost by any subscriber in the event the organization plan doesn't go through, according to Mr. Carl.

Mr. Carl plans to speak on the program to community meetings in May and the Telephone Association may possibly hold a house to house survey later.

DEADLINE FOR G. I. TRAINING JULY 25, 1951

The deadline for most veterans for starting a course of education and training under the GI Bill is 15 months away—on July 25, 1951.

A Veterans Administration regulation, issued today by the Lubbock Regional Office states that the majority of veterans will not be permitted to begin GI Bill courses after that date.

July 25, 1951, however, is not important to veterans who have started and actually are pursuing GI Bill training on that date, as they have the right to continue their courses.

The VA regulation explains that a veteran who has started a course and who has continued in it will be considered to be in training, even though he has temporarily interrupted the course for the summer vacation or for other reasons beyond his control.

Once a veteran completes or discontinues his program of GI Bill training after the 1951 date, he may not start another course.

The GI Bill provides that generally training must be initiated by July 25, 1951, or four years after a veteran's discharge, whichever is later, and it must be completed by July 25, 1956.

Most veterans are subject to the 1951 and 1956 cut-off dates. But there are the following exceptions:

(1) Veterans discharged after July 25, 1947, have four years from date of discharge in which to begin GI Bill of training, however, they must finish by July 25, 1956.

(2) Veterans who enlisted or reenlisted under the Armed Forces Voluntarily Recruitment Act (between October 6, 1945, and October 5, 1946), are not bound by either deadline. Instead, they have four years from the end of that enlistment or reenlistment period in which to start, and nine years from that time in which to complete their course of training.

A veteran in either of these two categories actually must be in training when his individual entrance deadline comes around, in (Continued On Back Page)

There IS a HELL

One of the symptoms of our modern moral breakdown is the frequency with which the word "hell" is being used as an expletive in "polite" society. The modern novel, the modern playhouse, even some modern periodicals have come to accept "hell" as just another punctuation mark.

Unfortunately, a concept cannot be made less hideous by its frequent use. Hell will remain hell whether we use the word or not. And hell will remain hell whether we like the idea or not.

It is said that Robert Ingersoll once announced that he would deliver a lecture in which he would prove conclusively that there is no hell. As he launched into his subject, a half-intoxicated man rose to his feet and said: "Make it strong, Bob. There's a lot of us poor fellows depending on you. If you are wrong, we're all lost. So be sure you prove it clear and plain."

The idea of future punishment is an integral and inseparable part of the Christian religion. It was to save men from eternal punishment that Christ came into the world, suffered, died, and rose again. John 3:16.

No man who has found forgiveness of his sins through faith in Christ need be afraid of going to hell. But he who has not yet found peace with God through the redemption of the Savior should not go to bed again until he is sure he's found forgiveness. Acts 16:25-34.

Yes, there is a hell!

Announces Hadacol Rationing

SENATOR DUDLEY J. LeBLANC

The continued increasing demand for HADACOL, one of the truly great medical discoveries given to the world by Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc, has made it necessary to decrease the ration allowance on HADACOL from six bottles to two bottles.

"We placed the limit at two bottles to a customer only after trying every other alternative," said Senator LeBlanc. "The demand for HADACOL has increased 1000 per cent in the past year as more and more people have learned the blessings of its five B Vitamins and four important Minerals. Despite our new $250,000 plant equipped with the most modern machinery and our fleet of 30 great trucks to speed delivery, we just cannot keep up with the demand."

"We placed a ration limit of six bottles to the customer several weeks ago but still cannot catch up with production. Our 300 employees are working shifts around the clock but one bottleneck after another comes up. We expect to lick them all, but meanwhile we are asking our customers to have patience and accept no inferior substitutes."

"For instance, when I created HADACOL I read every available authoritative medical and drug book in order to use the very finest ingredients regardless of cost. I read on page 234, U. S. Dispensary, 23rd edition, that 'Theoretically Calcium Glycerophosphate should for many purposes be superior to most other calcium salts because it represents both calcium and phosphoric acid in a soluble combination.'"

"Little did I realize when I made Calcium Glycerophosphate a part of the now famous HADACOL formula that in time the demand for this great medical discovery—HADACOL—would be so great that we would use up the entire available supply in the United States of this product. But that is exactly what we have done and great plants throughout the nation are now working to increase their facilities to expand production of this essential ingredient which blends with other expensive products to help so many million suffering people in distress."

Yes, in HADACOL Senator LeBlanc envisioned the medicine that would bring blessings to folks of all ages, and in perfecting this formula he worked in his own small laboratory, sometimes 18 to 20 hours a day. Perhaps others could have placed the same ingredients in a medicine, but it remained for him to develop a formula which contains the most expensive ingredients of their kind. For instance, he uses Vitamin B-1 which costs at the factory $550 a kilogram, which is less than half a gallon.

At the present time it is difficult to predict how long the shortage of HADACOL will continue. It is still being merchandised in less than a third of the nation and is being denied to all foreign countries that have asked for supplies because of the production bottlenecks. In the meanwhile folks are asked to limit their purchases to two small or two large bottles and not to accept inferior substitutes, because there is only one HADACOL.

Write-in ballots gave 32 votes to Lester LaGrange for mayor. Dennis Kellogg received 2 write-in votes for the same office.

In the commission race, the write-in votes were E. L. Black, 32; Bill Rowland, 27; Roger Willett, 2; and Dennis Kellogg, 2.

Lutheran Church To Have Special Easter Services

Good Friday, one of the most sacred days to today's Christians, will be remembered by and at Emmanuel Lutheran Church, 417 West 3rd, tomorrow morning, April 7, beginning at 10:30 a. m. Several of the sacred moments of this special service will be devoted to a presentation of the subject: "The Climax of Our Savior's Suffering," by the pastor, Mr. H. A. Heckmann.

This special service, designated for all who desire to meditate upon the events which sealed their freedom from sin and death, has always been remembered by the Christian Church since its beginning as the day on which Jesus, the world's Savior, was crucified as man's substitute.

Even as the first Easter followed Good Friday on the third day, so also Emmanuel Lutheran will celebrate the Savior's glorious resurrection from the dead, next Sunday, Easter, April 9, at 11:00 a. m. hour of worship. The great festival of the church will also include the celebration of Holy Communion. Complete details of the service were not worked when this was written, but an inspiring program bids for the time and attention of all who seek to worship the risen and ever-lasting Savior.

TO HOLD BUSINESS MEETING

At a well-attended young people's meeting held in the basement of Emmanuel Lutheran Church last night, those in attendance heard the pastor, Mr. H. A. Heckmann, lead the topic on the general subject of "Amusements." Since it is the desire of every sincere Christian to please the Savior more than anything else, the group concluded that the follower of Jesus will take part only in those amusements in which Jesus Himself would participate today, were He here.

A business meeting in which final plans were laid for the forthcoming Japanese evening, scheduled to be held at Emmanuel Lutheran Church on April 16, considered and decided upon various projects of interest to the young people.

First Performance Of W.T.S. 1950 Summer Theatre Scheduled For July 21

First performance of the 1950 Summer Theatre at West Texas State, Canyon, will be staged the nights of June 20, 21, 22. The announcement came this week from William A. Moore, director of the summer drama work.

Last summer was the first year the Summer Theatre was operated at the college and it met with such great success that it will be presented again and may become an established part of the summer work.

Although a definite selection of an opener has yet to be made, choices have narrowed down to five productions. The choices are "Ladies in Retirement," "Peg 'O My Heart," "Meet Me In St. Louis," "One Foot In Heaven," and "Comedy of Errors."

Four of these plays will be presented during the summer with productions set on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights. The second play will be presented July 11, 12 and 13; the third series on August 1, 2 and 3 and the final production August 15, 16 and 17.

Wendell Cain, outstanding drama director at White Deer High school and a performer in last summer's series, will return this summer as technical director. Bill Hutchinson Pampa graduate and speech assistant, will be assistant technical director with Carl Michell, Canyon junior, in charge of costuming.

Mr. Moore will direct the summer productions and his wife will assist in directing some of the plays.

Already a star-studded cast is being assembled for the Summer Theatre. Many of the favorites from last year's performances have notified directors of their intention to return. Included among those expected to be back in the limelight are Dick Dye, Amarillo; Roberta Corder and Dorothy Barnett, White Deer; Rose Powell, Perryton, Marjorie Bain, Clarendon; Paula Frazier, Waco; Mable Hare, Fannin; Equilla Roberts, Hollis, Oklahoma; Mary Harrison, Jacksboro and Elsie Guthrie.

IT'S A FAD

(A Short Story)
By RICHARD HILL WILKINSON

Thermometer outside main living room of the registered at 18 below zero. Never. No one saw him. He took care that they had never ceased to wobble. The insanity of winter sports was in June, and they had up to Randall's ravine the snow still lay, to ski. In the sun was warm. Some folks, he were born nuts.

He was laughing and having a fine time. He had through the window as the group emerged into the blasts with no more than if it were the Fourth. He shivered again, and

By the time Noah reached the summit of the hill the others had gone sweeping down the west slope, hallooing and laughing joyously. Noah fought to keep his balance. The wind went through his whipcord ski trousers as though they were made of mosquito netting. He took a deep breath and pushed off, praying that he could remain upright till he reached the bottom.

Halfway down the runners struck an icy stretch. His skis gathered speed but Noah didn't. He sat down so suddenly and so hard that he figured he must have fractured a spinal column at least.

Ten minutes later Noah crawled into the shelter of a growth of evergreens. He was wet. He was miserable. He was mad. Without giving a thought for the consequences, he gathered broken branches, built a fire and huddled over it. Slowly his blood began to course through his veins again, and he could hear the tinkle of ice as the corpuscles melted. Curse fads! he thought. Curse anyone who lacked the courage to admit that this sort of thing was definitely lousy fun. Curse—

"Oh!" said a timid voice.

Noah looked up. It was the girl in navy. She was standing on the edge of the little clearing where he had built his fire. "I saw the smoke and—"

"Trying to thaw the ice from my bindings," Noah said apologetically. It was a poor excuse at best. They looked at each other. Noah glanced at his ski bindings. There wasn't a speck of ice on them. "Marvelous weather for skiing, eh?" he grinned.

"Oh, wonderful!" she drew near the blaze. Noah fumbled in his pocket. "Have a cigaret?"

"Thank you."

"Er—you must like to ski."

"I hate it!" She clapped a hand over her mouth. Her eyes were wide, as though she'd given away a secret she hadn't intended.

They looked at each other, and suddenly both began to laugh. Noah felt a warm glow pervading his system.

"This," he said, "is the grandest thing that ever happened to me. How would you like to go back and sit in front of the fire and get acquainted?"

"I'd love to!" cried the girl.

And they did, feeling braver than they ever had when facing the wintry blasts for the sake of doing the thing that everyone else was doing.

We are observing a rare "Lucky thicker and higher as the years go by. The effective length of six runways is very noticeably increased, and makes the air port much safer for that fact alone, besides not having to cross high voltage on take off and landing.

Our new drive way and parking lot has attracted a great deal of favorable comment and eventually, we hope to have shade trees for those who like to park and watch the flying.

Dust, sand and gravel storms have "played hob" with flying all over Texas in the last week, but so it has with all transportation. A five car smashup on highway 66 verified that.

In spite of a lot of bad weather we have managed to do some flying. Don Cox soloed, and we expect to start about a half dozen more beginners soon.

Mr. H. E. Owens, flew his Er-coupe to Knox City, and Jack Johnson flew the Funk to Knox City.
Bob Dillard and Kenny Hamilton have been out and doing what flying they could between dust storms.

No longer does one have to "scrape and swipe" to learn to fly because now it's possible to learn to fly for $50.00. Yep, on Duggan field, the Lamb County Airport, you can become a pilot and fly yourself for $50.00.

Come on out and talk it over.

Today's Easter Customs Have Religious Origins

The traditional Easter Parade of feminine finery was begun by Emperor Constantine of Rome. Early in the Fourth Century he was converted to Christianity. To honor the Feast of Christ's Resurrection, he decreed elaborate ceremonies at which his entire court appeared in new robes.

Almost all of today's colorful Easter traditions, from gaily-hued Easter eggs to cherry Easter greeting cards, similarly stem from centuries-old religious and practices.

Easter falls on April 9 this year. Officially Easter is the Sunday following the first full moon of Springtime—a formula dating back to the Old Testament.

When the Israelites were in bondage in Egypt, Moses led them forth by the light of Springtime's first full moon. This became the Jewish Passover Season. Jesus was celebrating the Passover when He was seized and crucified. So the early Christians established Easter—the Feast of Christ's Resurrection—as a "moveable feast" like the Passover, calculated on the same ancient lunar calendar of ensure that the two holy days would always occur only a few days apart.

Early Christians worshipped in secret because of Roman persecution. At Eastertide, on the walls of the catacombs, they drew crosses adorned with flowers. They also dyed eggs—apocryphal borrowed from the Persians—staining them red to symbolize Christ's sacred blood.

Gigantic Paschal candles were installed under Pope Zosimus to light congregations watching on Easter Eve. They were blessed while singing a triumphant hymn attributed to St. Augustine—the first "Easter music" ever composed.

Christians converts in Northern Europe found it hard to give up their belief in Eostra, beautiful pagan goddess of Spring. Her name survives in our word "Easter." The Druids in England worshipped the egg as a symbol of the witch-goddess Creiwy or Lywy, who is still remembered in children's legend as Mother Goose with her golden egg. Polish children for centuries continued to throw painted eggshells into streams to carry their Easter greetings to gnome-like men living underground.

In medieval Europe it was the custom to put out all household fires on Easter Eve. On Easter Morning, in the church courtyard, a new fire was struck from consecrated flints. Parishioners took home blazing torches to relight their hearth fires, symbolizing the beginning of new life. Keeping these "holy fires" going was considered protection against storms, droughts, famines, and plague.

In France and Belgium, church bells bestow more Easter eggs than the famed Easter Bunny. When the bells are silenced during Holy Week parents explain they have flown off to get the Pope's blessing. The youngsters tumble outdoors before dawn on Easter to watch the bells "fly back from Rome" with Easter gifts. As the children scan the skies, parents secretly scatter bon-bons and colored eggs in the grass.

For centuries, from Moscow to the Rhine, decorated eggs were the traditional Easter gift among devout Christians. Mailed to distant friends, however, these fragile Easter greetings often arrived shattered. About 1850, the practical folks of Northern Germany began sending drawings of Easter eggs instead. Holy Land scenes were substituted a few years later.

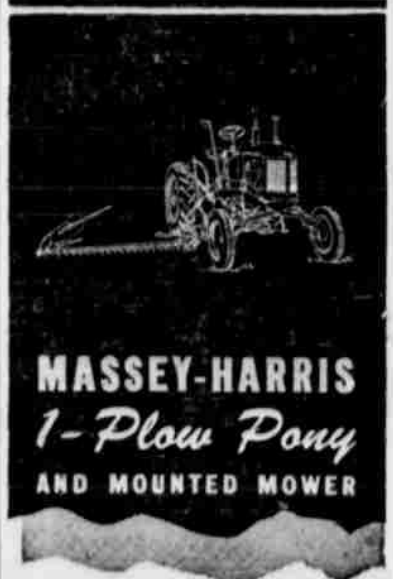

Easter cards were introduced into the U. S. about 1880.

the rabbit they wanted him. The lady was going to buy them two chicks. The boys told her they wanted the bunny. Guess what? She said, "The spot on his tail looks like an Easter egg. I'll buy him for you. He is a real Easter Bunny."

BULL LAKE PHILOSOPHER WANTS INSURANCE TO PROTECT ALL THE PEOPLE WHO DON'T OWN A MULE

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Bull Lake won't get anywhere with the insurance idea he advocates in his letter this week, but you can't blame him for trying.

Dear editor: With Spring coming on pretty fast now, I was in my pasture the other afternoon wondering why the experts don't invent a stalk of corn or cotton of wheat or rice as self-reliant as say a pecan tree, one that would last a man a lifetime come out every spring without having to be planted, don't require any cultivation, ain't affected much by weeds, don't create no erosion problem, ain't subject to acreage control . . . why there ain't no way to calculate how much time man has consumed since the dawn of history nursing a crop during the spring and summer he's gonna have to plow up in the fall although I guess if the problem was eliminated it'd throw a lot of tractor salesmen out of work and bring on another government relief program, although understand I ain't opposed to government relief and I believe I'd heap rather sit in the shade and watch my crop come out like pecan trees than to go up one row and down another all spring and summer just to keep the tractor salesmen from going hungry. They must have done something before we had tractors.

But what I started out to say was that I been readin' about that Texas farmer who got sued because somebody else's mule got out on the highway and caused a wreck and when the Supreme Court made him pay off, I got to thinkin' there ain't no end to this sort of thing. Lots of mules still left in this country and lots of folks who don't own em, ain't got one myself, and if they're liable to be sued every time there's a automobile wreck, it puts us mule-less folks in a serious predicament. In fact, I am writin to Washington now to see if Congress can't take out a blanket public liability insurance policy on everybody who doesn't own a mule, and if you think it's a good idea will appreciate you swingin' your influence to bear on it. If you look closely, you ought to be able to find some influence somewhere around your office.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Track coach Forest Martin of Littlefield High School has chosen ten track men to compete in the regional meet at Lubbock on April 22.

Floyd Goff who scored 11 1-2 points in the District 4-A meet in Lubbock on Saturday will run the 220 yard low hurdles, 440 yard dash and on the mile relay team.

Bob Cox will run the 880 yard dash hoping to better his time of 2:10.4 which he made when he won at Lubbock.

Tough Competition

Charles Askew will be up against tough competition in Dean Waltrip of Levelland who defeated him in the 100 yard dash at Lubbock. Askew will also compete on the 440 yard relay team. Other members of that team will be Bill Cowan, M. C. Northan and Joe Walden.

To Compete in 220 Yd.

Don Nears will compete in the 220 yard dash and George Heard will run the mile. Both boys took third place in the Lubbock competition.

The mile relay team will consist of Frank Davis, Jack McCanliss, Bob Cox and Floyd Goff. Their winning time at Lubbock was 3:44 but will probably have to be improved in the stiff regional competition to gain first place.

Duroc Barrow Sells For Record Price

Milroy Schneider, a 16-year-old Seguin, Texas, 4-H boy, was the happiest lad at the San Antonio Livestock Exposition, Wednesday, Feb. 23, when his 211-pound Duroc grand champion barrow over all breeds sold for the record breaking price of $8.00 a pound.

Joske's of Texas, were the buyers of the barrow and their check of $1,688 set a new world's record price at $8.00 per pound. In Little Abner's language that's over $2.00 per pork chop! Another claim to the biggest and "bestest" for Texas!

Sheriff of Lamb County

Announces Candidacy For Lieut.-Gov.

Senator Kyle Vick of Waco formerly announced his candidacy for the post of Lieutenant Governor basing his campaign on service to the people of Texas.

Vick has announced previously that he would be a candidate for the office but announced Saturday he would start a personal campaign over the State which would carry him to every county before the July primaries.

"I offer to the people of Texas that I will be fair to every person in the discharge of duties of the office, being in the position to do so through my experience as presiding officer of the Senate while that body was actually in session," Vick said.

The Lieutenant Governor's major duty while the Senate is in session, is to wield the gavel over that body so that every Senator may have an equal chance to be heard, Vick said.

Senator Vick served as elected president pro tem of the Senate during the stormy Session.

No one holds the office at the present time, Gov. Allan Shivers vacated the office last July at the time he took the Governor's Chair following the death of the late Gov. Beaupard Jester.

Senator Vick is the oldest Senator, from points of service, in the race for the office, having served continuously since his election in 1941.

Senator Vick was born in McLennan County in the farm home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Vick of Moody. He lived a short time in Bell County where he entered grade school, but removed to Waco as a youth and has lived here since.

He is a graduate of Waco High and attended the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., and the University of Texas Law School.

Senator Vick was admitted to the Texas Bar in 1915 and has remained as a practicing attorney in Waco for the past 35 years.

He served as Assistant District Attorney of McLennan County for two years and was appointed County Judge of a newly created County Court at Law in the same County. He served in this position for six years from 1927 to 1933.

In 1940 he announced his candidacy for Senator of this district and has served as such since.

The slogan, "Don't smoke in bed, that last cigarette may be your last cigarette," is displayed in many hotel rooms today.

VAGUE GOAL

(A Short Story)
By RICHARD HILL WILKINSON

IT WAS Mrs. Bertha Ogden's petty, narrow mindedness that fanned into flame the smoldering spark of desire in Nathan's breast. Mrs. Ogden, with three other buxom town ladies, was serving as chaperon at the fortnightly dance in Odd Fellows hall. Disapproval masked her face when Johnny Nelson tried to show a group of friends how to truck.

"Outrageous" Mrs. Ogden declared emphatically. "I'll put a stop to that kind of business at once." And she did. Which settled things in Nathan's mind once and for all.

She was the same; perhaps prettier, more healthy and fresher looking than he had remembered.

He told Cora Payson about his decision after the dance. They were standing at her front gate. There was no moon; a million stars winked at them, and distant, familiar noises were faintly audible. Maple leaves rustled in the tree that shaded the house. The midnight train whistled far, far up the tracks. A whippoorwill called in the woods behind Cora's father's farm.

"I'm going tomorrow," Nathan stated grimly. "I'll get along somehow. I want to see what the world is like outside."

"But, Nathan, have you thought of everything? Your future here is so sure and safe. Your father expects you to run his farm and then—"

"I know," he interrupted. "It looks like I'm a fool. I've everything and I'm leaving it for nothing. And—" He took her hands—"and there's you—us." She looked up at him, but he went on swiftly, almost defiantly. "I've got to go! I've always wanted to. I'll never be satisfied till I do. Please try and understand, Cora."

"I do, Nathan, I understand. I want you to go."

He sought work for weeks. He barely scraped by doing any sort of odd job that came along. It was hard. He was fitted for nothing besides farming. His sunburned face and calloused hands betrayed him, made him self-conscious. He knew that people were amused. He knew that they laughed at him, made him the butt of jokes. They weren't friendly, nor were they hostile. Mostly they were indifferent, interested only in themselves, in what they wanted and their chances of getting it. He discovered they lacked in scruples, they'd go to almost any extreme to attain an end. He discovered that he'd have to be that way if he wanted to succeed.

Gradually his skin bleached out. The callouses left his hands. He became more and more to look like a city man. He acquired a certain amount of confidence, of assurance.

There came a time when Nathan secured work. A clerk in a wholesale house. He worked hard. He was advanced with a series of small wages. A new life opened up to him. He was able to dress better, to afford a few luxuries, to expose himself to the city life he had always dreamed about.

Two years and a half after his departure, Nathan went back to Fairview. He drove back in his own car. He wore smart clothes. There was money in his pocket.

It was good to be there. It was good to meet old friends and see the respect in their eyes. It was, he thought, the fulfillment of a dream, of an ambition.

He saw Cora the second night after his arrival. She was the same; perhaps prettier, more healthy and fresher looking than he had remembered. He had pictured the quickening of his pulse, at the relief that surged through his system when she told him she wasn't married, or engaged.

That night Nathan talked with his father. Mr. Burt had aged. He was glad Nathan was back. Now he could retire, confident that the farm would be in good hands, the proper hands.

Nathan stared at him. "You mean you still want me to take over?"

"Why, son, you're our only child. Who else would I look to?"

Nathan ran a tongue along his lips. The casual acceptance of a situation he had dodged, ran away from two and one-half years ago startled him. But more than that, the fact that his folks took it for granted he was home for good was a blow.

He went off to bed without replying. The next day he called on Cora. She listened gravely while he told her what his father had said, and what was in his mind.

"Why, Nathan, of course. It's what I expected." She looked at him intently. "You don't want to go back?"

He shook his head and smiled. "It's better here, dreaming about what's beyond the horizon, than experiencing it. No, I belong here. I'm going to stay."

Cora took his hand and patted it. Poor Nathan. He needed her. He needed some one to keep him reminded of what he wanted.

PLAINVIEW, Mar. 18—The nation's third largest dairy show has once again moved into the front of the show world with the installation of milking facilities for all of its exhibitors.

In cooperation with the Surge Milking Machine Company, the stalls at the Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show have been provided with vacuum pipes and stall cocks. It is believed that these are the only show facilities in the nation so equipped.

The Panhandle-Plains Dairy show will be held from April 10-14, 1950, and a record number of exhibitors from Texas, New Mexico, and Oklahoma are expected for this year's advent.

What Does Happiness mean TO YOU ?

Is your happiness dependent on some personal achievement? Does it depend entirely on wealth or something money can buy? Does happiness for you take the form of a new dress, or a model airplane that will really fly, or the perfection of a new rosebud in your garden?

Or does happiness mean a promotion in your job, or achievement of fame on the stage, or the realization of a magnificent mechanical dream? Perhaps each of these contributes at least briefly to that feeling of security and peace of mind which we call happiness. But are they actually lasting and satisfying?

Or is true happiness found in spiritual instead of material achievements? Does the secret really lie in the discharging of one's responsibility to God and his fellowman? Is it true that only in forgetting self can one find real happiness? From the beginning of time, man has sought happiness, and many have found it. Are others perhaps neglecting its real source?

And, after all, is personal happiness really the goal of life?

For positive answers to this and many other vital problems of everyday living we invite you to attend...

Lutherans To Hold School June 19-30

Another Vacation Bible School was the definite decision of the Voters of the Emmanuel Lutheran Church as they sat in session last Sunday afternoon. The dates selected for this annual event at Emmanuel Lutheran was June 19 thru June 30, the last two weeks in June. At present not too many details have been worked out in connection with this year's Vacation Bible School at Emmanuel Lutheran. One thing has been determined and that is that the boys and girls of the community are invited to benefit from these two weeks of Bible School. A bigger school, a better school, a more efficient staff are some of the main objectives before the supporters of Emmanuel Lutheran's Bible school.

REV. H. A. HECKMANN TO ATTEND MEETING

"The Plans and Preparation for a Successful Vacation Bible School" is the subject of a conference paper which the Rev. H. A. Heckmann, pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran Church here in Littlefield, will present to the post-Easter conference of the Texas District, Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, scheduled to meet in Port Arthur from April 11 thru April 13. In order to make this meeting, to be held at one of the most distant points in Texas when viewed from one living in Littlefield, the pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran will leave immediately after the Easter morning worship service. During his absence from the city, contact with him may be made thru the local parsonage, 409 West Third. Plans call for the pastor's return to the city on Friday of next week.

Deadline For —

order to continue afterwards.
The VA regulation outlines requirements that veterans in training after the entrance cut-off date will have to meet.

They will be expected to pursue their training "continuously until completion, except for conditions which normally would cause interruption by any student."

They may change their educational objectives "only while in training and then for reasons satisfactory to the Administrator."

According to the regulations, satisfactory reasons for change are these:

(1) When the veteran is not making satisfactory progress in his present course and the failure is not due to his own misconduct, his own neglect or his own lack of application.

(2) When the course to which he desires to change is more in keeping with his aptitude, previous education, training or other such pertinent factors.

(3) When the course to which he wants to change is a normal progression from his current course, and will help him attain his educational or vocational objective.

No additional changes of course will be approved, the regulation states, except for the most urgent reasons.

The VA regulation defines a course of education or training as a "curriculum, program of study or training or combination of subjects as are prescribed by the institution as constituting a course."

The following do not constitute a change of course: a change of one or more subjects within an elected curriculum or program; the dropping of a subject without replacing it with another; the adding of a subject; change in the sequence in which subjects are taken, or advancement from a basic or preparatory phase to an advanced phase of a course.

VA explained that it is issuing its regulation on deadline dates at this time in order to give veterans some opportunity to make their plans for the future.
