"When statements about Alka-Seltzer are made over the air, please, please believe them."
Mrs. Oma Catherine Jones

MILLIONS suffer less from Headache, Acid Indigestion, Distress of Colds "Morning After" and Muscular Fatigue because they have heard—and believed—Alka-Seltzer radio announcements. To these millions, the relief obtained by the use of Alka-Seltzer is worth far more than the genuine enjoyment they get from the broadcast.

The most important parts of our radio program, both to you and to us, are the commercial announcements. Once you have tried Alka-Seltzer we believe you will agree with us. But try Alka-Seltzer because it is an unusually effective medicine not because you enjoy the radio programs.

WHY ALKA-SELTZER IS SO EFFECTIVE
The pain-relieving analgesic in Alka-Seltzer is in complete solution, ready to ease the distress as soon as you swallow it. The painrelieving action is made more effective by alkaline buffers. The alkalinizing elements in Alka-Seltzer reduce excess stomach acidity.

Get Alka-Seltzer the next time you pass a drug store.

Large package 60¢
Small package 30¢
Try a glass of Alka-Seltzer at your Drug Store Soda Fountain.

New Corn Meal Plant Installed At Packard Mills

Packard Mills of Spiring Lake have just completed installation of a 100-barrel cornmeal plant that will be ready for operation within a few days, employees of the plant revealed this week.

The Packard Mill is one of the outstanding industries in the section, shipping flour throughout the state from the local plant. E. E. Owens, manager of the mill, is optimistic about prospects for 1941, and looks forward to a good business for the country.

Mr. Owens has just completed his first year at the mill. He is assisted by Mrs. Owens as book-keeper, D. S. Parkinson as miller and truck drivers Ralph Rudd, Gene McClure and J. D. Whitford. Mr. and Mrs. Packard, owners of the mill, are leaving soon on an extended vacation.

Earth Civic Council To Meet February 24

Dr. C. T. Bradford, newly elected chairman of the Earth Community Council, has set the fourth Tuesday of each month as the regular meeting date for the council. The next regular meeting will be held on February 24.

Dr. Bradford also announced the appointment of an advisory committee which includes S. C. Hudson, J. L. Hinson and Beadie Welch.

Every member of the Earth community who is interested in community affairs is eligible to membership in the council, the only requirements being attendance at meetings.

Officers of the council emphasize the fact that it is an organization of and for the entire community.

Dr. Bradford was elected chairman of the council two weeks ago succeeding Grover Dennis to that position. Mrs. Paddy Welen was named secretary-treasurer and F. C. Hudson, vice chairman at that time.

One of the principal immediate projects of the council is the construction of an Earth Community

Recreation Park, land for which has already been secured. Plans are well underway and the Earth Recreation Club is assisting the council in a drive to raise funds for the completion of the project.

NEW YORK, N. Y. . . . Six-year-old Anderson, Jr., waged his clean-up campaign against snow who were fighting his father. The alleged purse-snatcher was nabbed by Howard's dad, and as they fought, young Howard slammed snowballs into the thug's face and took all the fight out of him.

Neon Sign Installed At Mann's Store At Spade Last Week

The first store located in a rural community in this section to be trimmed with neon signs is the Spade Department store, owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Mann at Spade.

The elaborate signs, installed by the DeLux Neon Sign company of Littlefield, include a border across the top of the store, and borders around the two large windows in the front. In one of the windows hangs the name "Spade Dept. Store," and in the other, the word, "Mann's," both in colored lighting.

As farmers of the Spade community passed the store, they exclaimed that they didn't know whether they were in Lubbock or Littlefield Littlefield, as the signs attracted as the signs attracted their attention.

The general merchandise store is one of the most modern and complete to be found in a rural community. It was established in November, 1939, and Mr. and Mrs. Mann are to be commended for their splendid volume of business.

President Roosevelt Addresses Scouts In Broadcast Saturday

Speaking as the honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America, of which he has been an active leader for more than 16 years, President Roosevelt made an address to the nation's 1,500,000 Boy Scouts, Cubs, Senior Scouts and leaders on Saturday evening, February 8.

His address was the highlight of Boy Scout Week, Feb. 7 to 13, marking the thirty-first anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scout movement in the United States.

Participating in the broadcast with President Roosevelt, which was carried by the red network of the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia and Mutual networks, was Walter W. Head, of St. Louis, president of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America, and Dr. James E. West, Chief Scout Executive.

The Plan In Brief

The object of the big distribution is two-fold: Primarily to increase the already large subscription list of The Lamb County Leader and advance subscription payments from present or new subscribers, and at the same time afford our friends and readers an unparalleled opportunity to profit in a big way through their spare time during the next few weeks. So it is a plan that works both ways and to the ultimate good of all concerned.

In order to gain this end quickly and advantageously, one of the most valuable and attractive lists of prizes ever offered by a local newspaper in this section of the country has been made ready for distribution among those who participate most heartily. Ambition and energy are the only requisites for success. The plan adopted is straight-forward and simple and is fully outlined in this announcement.

Let it be understood at the very outset that it is not a "beauty" nor "popularity" contest, but a strictly legitimate competitive proposition for enterprising men and women and boys and girls, and one in which no element of chance enters. One feature of this competition is the fact that there will be no losers in this race.

The Ignominy of It!

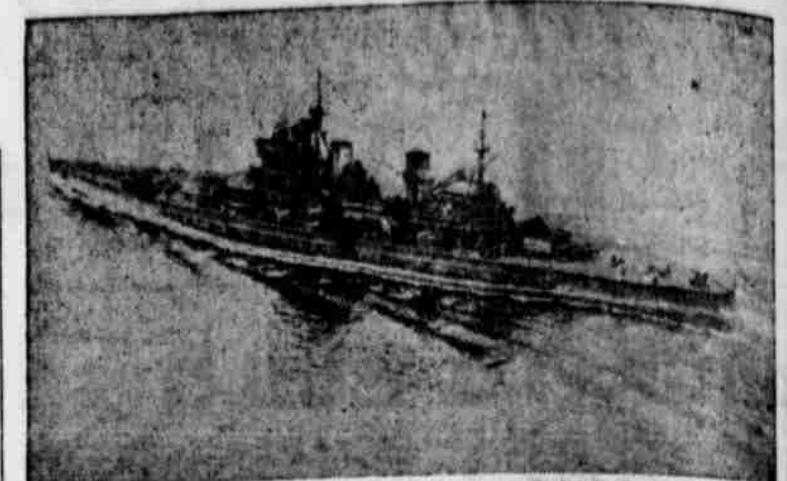

FORT DIX, N. J. . . . The first job this recruit snowman was assigned so at Fort Dix was sentry duty, and it would appear that he froze stiff while at it. It's cold work and someone should have given him a muffler.

A Prayer in the Desert

CAIRO, Egypt . . . This photo, passed by the British Censors and just received here via clipper plane, shows a group of British soldiers, who were besieging the Libyan city of Bardia, kneeling in the desert at sunrise. Even the war was stopped just long enough for a prayer.

British Battleship Delivers Ambassador

ANNAPOLIS, Md. . . . Air view of the new British battleship, King George V, as she steamed up Chesapeake Bay toward Annapolis with her cargo of Lord Halifax, new British Ambassador to the United States. President Roosevelt shattered all precedent by boarding the ship before it reached port and welcoming Lord and Lady Halifax to the United States.

Scout Leaders In District Outstanding

Dr. Wm. N. Orr, chairman and J. C. Elms, vice chairman, of the Northwestern District, South Plains Council, Boy Scouts of America, have announced their 1941 District Committee of effective leaders of Scouts in this District.

In charge of Organization and Extension of Scouting in the District is Dr. B. W. Armistead, formerly a Scout himself and one thoroughly familiar with the needs and methods of growth of the Scout organization.

Floyd Hemphill, Littlefield superintendent of schools, has been re-appointed to the post of chairman of Leadership Training. Ranked as one of the outstanding educators in this vicinity, Hemphill has a great program of training planned.

Due to the resignation of J. E. Chisholm, Jr., as chairman of advancement, Dr. Orr is contemplating announcement of a new chairman soon. Courts of Honor and the program of advancement are the backbone of Scouting. Chisholm is to be commended on the fine work he has done in this field.

Joe C. Hutchinson, Sudan superintendent of schools, long one of the outstanding Scoutmasters in the South Plains Council, is the new chairman of Camping and Activities. Hutchinson has one of the greatest programs ever planned for the activities of the year.

A. J. Gardner, Muleshoe postmaster, has been re-appointed to the position of chairman of Health and Safety. His most successful handling of the program for 1940 means to all Scouts that the plans for 1941 will be much the better.

Because the District as a whole and each town individually are on such a firm financial basis, Reed P. Markham, Sudan, chairman of Finance, has been re-appointed to that position. Markham has for years been one of the figures in District operations.

For the newly formed Cub committee, R. B. Sparks, Littlefield has been appointed. Sparks showed his ability in the organization of the Lions Club Cub Pack in Littlefield and has plans for future organizations in Amherst and Littlefield.

Allan White, Amherst, has been named chairman of Senior Scouting for the District. His program for 1941 shows rapid growth in Scouting for young men above 15 years of age.

W. C. Cox, Muleshoe, will assume the responsibilities of organization of Rural Scouting. He is at present

Which Do You Want?

In its day this automobile was the last word. But, it cost more than the modern car. And its speed, service and comfort didn't compare with what we can get for less money—value-for-value today. Yes! We know what your choice would be.

Yes! These old-fashioned dresses will protect you from the elements. And you might be able to travel a few miles in the old automobile. But would you want to? No—you wouldn't be seen in either except in a "Found-on-Day" Parade or Masquerade. But—your home, too, must face your friends!

Your grandmother was the envy of the town in this home. Homes never than this are out-of-date today. But they don't have to be. Home modernization is simple, inexpensive, value-giving today, the Cameron Way. You, too, can modernize your home for an amazingly low cost, the Cameron Way.

A HOME is the reflection of its owner. Its appearance and modern, smart styling is just as important in your friends' impression of you as your clothes, your automobile or your youthful outlook on life.

And out-of-date, work-making, drudgery-building homes are so needless today. Government figures show that building costs (for either new homes or modernization) are below normal. Modernization financing costs are low with small, easy, monthly payment terms.

Home Modernization Easy YOU can make your home a "dream-home"—modernized with colorful styling. Equipped with the latest step-saving conveniences. YES, home modernization is simple and easy today—if you use the Cameron way.

A Complete Building Service to Help You Cameron men are equipped to consult and advise with you on your modernization problems. They can inspect and survey your property; design "last-word" modernization; arrange low monthly-cost financing; install and supervise the converting of your home into a treasure-chest of beauty and convenience as up-to-date as Park Avenue.

However, Home Modernization is not something you should hastily rush into without first consulting a professional adviser, such as your trained Cameron representative. Successful and permanent satisfactory remodeling is not thought up today and carried out tomorrow. Without properly trained assistance in working out your modernization problems you can waste money and not achieve the results you had hoped for.

Cameron Men Are Trained Modernization Specialists

- That is why Cameron Men are especially trained and equipped to: 1. Survey your property. 2. Be completely familiar with the latest building materials, methods, styling and ideas. 3. Advise you on the best solutions for you or your Modernization needs in value, style, beauty and comfort. 4. Deliver and supervise the installation of a quality job to meet those carefully pre-determined needs.

Wm. Cameron & Company is interested in satisfied, repeat customers—not just one-time sales. We know that satisfactory construction results from a combination of planning in advance by trained experts, such as ours; quality materials, and conscientious craftsmanship. But first, and most important, must come thinking, surveying and planning. From these only come satisfied customers.

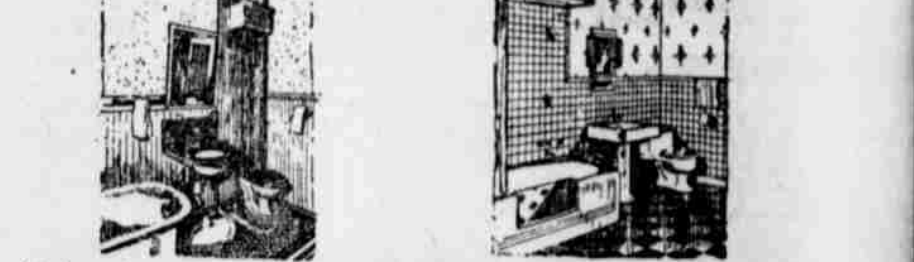

That is why we emphasize the importance of our trained men and their advice to you. Don't overlook the vital necessity of this trained advisory service in securing for you a fully satisfying home modernization.

Know the Joy of a Modern Home

You can scarcely realize the beauty, work-saving and lower operating cost improvements that now are in modern homes. Cameron's can put these improvements in your home. Many pay for themselves in lower heating costs, less dust and dirt damage to your other household goods, and lower repair bills. All more than pay for themselves in greater comfort, convenience and joy of living. After all, we have only one life to live. What contributes more than a modern home?

Worn-out paint, out-of-date trim, leaky roof, unscreened porch, dust and cold air pouring around windows and doors. Yes! It's a shelter, but not a home. It's a house—not a joyous pride and comfort-giving home which practically calls you home every moment you are away.

A bathroom is one of the most important and used rooms in a home. You start the morning and end the day here. Why have this important portion of your home dull, drab and inconvenient? Your Cameron man will draw up complete home modernization plans, tailor-made for your home needs. This remodeling can be paid for on easy monthly terms.

The kitchen is the woman's workshop. It can be a work-making, extra-step-making, impossible to keep spotlessly clean workshop. Or, it can be an efficient, step-saving, modern IDEAL Kitchen. It can be a drab place of drudgery. Or it can be the home of delicious meals prepared in a happy atmosphere of bright colors with efficient equipment and arrangement.

CHAPTER IX Synopsis

After Mark Alexander's beautiful wife, Ellen died, her whole family became interested in Valerie, Ellen's daughter by a former marriage, and the trust fund left Valerie. All was anxious to adopt Valerie—all, but Shirley—but Mark will have none of it. Mark hires Lucy Tredway to tutor Valerie and keeps Lucy in the house, much to Elise's dismay. As Mark comes out of his office, he is surprised to see Elise sitting up in her car.

Elise emerged, cool in pastel chiffons, under a huge hat. Her eyes, rather heavy eyes were veiled and they rested on him. They made her vaguely uncomfortable. This was his frequent reaction to Elise's days.

He wished ridiculously that he could take a running jump into his car and be off, waving his hat as he went. Instead, he found himself telling her how charming she looked, and how even midsummer love her.

He laid her hand on his arm and looked up at him reproachfully. "Don't go conventional, darling," she said. Mark decided he would never get used to "darling" as the rent output in salutations. "I'm sure what your opinion is of men who pursue men to their knees. But how else am I to see you? And I truly must. Will you come home? Oh, Harmon just got the car back. I shan't be seeing it again until tonight."

Mark almost put out a protest—hand as the man touched his arm and drove off. Elise was driving flowingly toward his roadster, and there was nothing to do but follow her.

"I don't think you'll be very happy," he said opening the door. "Fur hats and chiffons don't especially well with roadsters." He tucked her flowing skirts and she and leaned back with a sigh. "But I adore roadsters. And you have the top up, so you can't be too terribly windblown. Stand there staring at me. Aren't you getting in?"

Mark brought his thoughts back to an effort. "I just remembered telephone call. Excuse me a moment. I'll be with you—"

He was halfway up the walk before she could answer. He felt slightly defrauded as he called his name from the superintendent's office. He had hardly realized how he counted on the hour in the pool with Valerie and Lucy. He was when he heard Chiltern's voice. Sometimes if Valerie happened to be passing when the telephone rang she answered, just in case it might be Mark.

"Please tell Miss Tredway and Miss Valerie I've been detained, and to have their swim without me," he said. "And Chiltern—I say—tell them I'm terribly sorry, will you?"

"Yes sir," said Chiltern. "Will you be coming home for dinner?"

"Yes!" said Mark loudly. He felt his voice would banish the faint fear that seized him at the question.

"I see, sir," said Chiltern. "Thank you."

Mark almost suspected he really did see. He would not have put it past the man.

He said "Thank you" and went back to Elise. He got in beside her and started his car. The wind lifted the light brim of Elise's enormous hat, and she caught it closer.

She could hardly imagine a man with a chauffeur and three closed cars driving himself to work in a two-year-old roadster, like any laborer. It was difficult to look out from under a shadowy brim with body would criticize you for coming to see me! As a matter of fact, it's criticism that made me hunt you up. It's terribly hard to tell you. You are so—so sort of sweet, Mark. But when others are involved—"

Mark asked a surreptitious question of his wrist watch. He was appalled to find only half an hour had passed since Elise met him. It seemed to him that he had been shut up here with her for weeks.

"I'm afraid I don't understand," he told her. "I suppose it's stupid of men. Do you mean somebody we know is talking about somebody? They generally are, aren't they? Who is it this time, and what are they saying?"

"They're talking about you, darling, of course. Did you imagine you could bring an attractive young woman from nowhere, like a rabbit out of a hat, and put her unchaperoned into your house, and not have someone talk about it?"

Mark drew up by the side of the road and stared at her. "Do you mean—are you by any chance telling me—that Lucy Tredway—"

"Come over and see us sometime," invited Mark lustrous eyes, when that brim surged and billowed in playful leaps that kept both her hands at her head.

Finally, as a stronger gust tilted it coyly over one ear, she took the thing off entirely, anchoring it firmly on her knees, and thanking heaven for a hair net. She was struggling with a rage that included even Mark, although reason told her he had nothing to do with it. The last straw was when she looked up and found him laughing. Men seldom laughed with, and never at, Elise.

"Sorry—but you should have seen yourself," said Mark. "I mean the way you looked when we started and the way you looked after a couple of bouts with the breeze."

Elise managed a kind of smile. "It must have been terribly funny," she agreed.

"I suppose you're wondering why I've carried you off," she said. She had almost mastered her temper. Mark was not quite so successful at hiding his curiosity over the whole proceedings. "Of course—it was sweet of you—" he began.

"I simply had to see you. And it's practically impossible to get you to myself for even a minute. Of course, I simply adore Valerie, as you know. And Miss Treadle is—well, of course she's quite stimulating—if you know what I mean."

Mark nodded. He didn't in the least know.

She hurried on without waiting for an answer. "You see, I can't even beg, lure or even abduct you to my apartment. I can't think what you're afraid of—"

"Perhaps it isn't exactly fear," he explained. "Maybe I'm catering a trifle to the tongues of men—to say nothing of women. Silly rot, I know. And even if one doesn't go in for stereotyped mourning, it does curtail social activities a bit."

"You're just talking off the top of your mind," said Elise sadly. "Keeping me on the outside. Just as if we hadn't been friends for ages. It isn't fair—when I miss Ellen so anyway—"

Mark was horrified, after the fashion of men, to see her loose one hand from the still struggling hat and wipe her eyes on a gay bit of chiffon.

"I—I'm frightfully sorry. I'm probably a clumsy brute—" He laid his hand over hers on the big hat, and held it closely.

Elise looked up at him from undampened lashes. She even smiled plaintively.

"No, darling," she sighed. "It's just that you don't always think. Of course, I know you can't go dashing around to parties. Amusing yourself like that. But surely no-

Who else? Really, Mark, I admit your right to do as you please. But after all you're over top—"

She stopped a little frightened at what she had said. She had never seen Mark angry before. It was distinctly disturbing.

"If people are over ten before they begin to make up rotten stories out of thin air, I hope I never grow up," he declared. "I never at my worst moments imagined anything like this! A young woman paid a salary to tutor my daughter—"

Elise again laid her hand on his arm. The arm quivered, as if he were thinking twice before throwing it off, like the boy she accused him of being.

"Dear heart," she purred. "Please don't bark at me. After all, I haven't done anything. After all, this is an adult age."

"I'm darned if what you say sounds like it! Well—go on—you might just as well tell me all there is of it."

"There isn't any more," said Elise.

Mark was staring at the horizon. His face was quite cold. She began to be very much afraid. Perhaps the idea was not so clever as it had seemed when she invented it.

"All I mean is," she went on rather sadly, "people seem to think you're not being quite fair to Valerie." Watching him closely, she could see that the shot went home.

She continued more confidently. "After all, the child is very young, and susceptible to impressions. It doesn't seem quite playing the game to let people gossip—of course it's only for Valerie. I'm just a little afraid nobody is bothering a great deal about Miss Speedwell—"

Mark turned on her like a man who has suddenly had enough. "The name is Tredway," he said. There was something in the way he said it that made Elise jump.

"Of course it is, darling. You know what an imbecile I am about names! The point is, well—she—she doesn't seem to be so terribly popular with the few people who have met her."

"I wonder if it keeps her awake nights. She's popular with Valerie, and after all, that's what she's at Wide Acres for. The child has been made over new since Lucy came. I hardly know her. And that makes her popular with me. Lucy, I mean. Darned popular, if you want to know."

Elise grew suddenly cold. "But, of course, if you're in love with her, darling—"

The words were hardly cold before she knew what a fatal mistake they were. She gathered up her courage and looked at him. His face was far from reassuring.

"Why do you women always imagine a man must be in love?" he asked. "Anyway, count me out. Absolutely."

Elise tried not to read anything more into it than just the bare words. But his emphasis on "absolutely" was a bit terrifying. She looked out and saw with astonishment that they had entered the town, and were even now stopping before her apartment house.

Mark got out at once, and opened the door. Her big hat drooping at her side, she faced him with lowered eyes.

"I suppose you'll never forgive me," she sighed. "I suppose you wouldn't come in and share my dinner. I was going to the Weightmans party tonight, but you don't know how I'd love to cut it—for you—"

Mark could have laughed. He was riding a wave of freedom. He had seen through Elise. Never again would intangible uneasiness fill him because of her or her great dark eyes or her subtle perfume.

"I'm afraid not tonight," he said. "You see, I must be getting home to the children."

Elise chose one more from her bag of tricks. "Are you furious with me, darling? Do you hate me?" She even managed what sounded faintly like a sob. "I suppose it's what we must expect when we try to help those we—love—I've stayed awake nights trying to decide whether or not I should tell you about this—and now—"

"And now," said Mark pleasantly, "run along in and catch up on your sleep."

"You're angry—"

"Not a bit. Why on earth should I be?" Tossing off the whole thing as if it were less than nothing.

He was really wondering how much longer she intended standing there talking inanities. He could forgive her, suddenly, for the whole silly business. Even for making him miss his swim.

"Good-bye—" She tried to put heartbreak into it, and loneliness.

in mind, we are offering this campaign and its attractive prize list to those who are willing to do a little work in the next few weeks.

Just listen to this! If you have the desire to earn $500, then this campaign is made to order for you, and it may enable you to realize some of your dreams. It's all very simple; all you have to do is represent the Lamb County Leader to your friends. You and they all know and want this paper.

A Good Business Proposition
The Better Service campaign is a business proposition. The Lamb County Leader wants more subscribers and is willing to generously reward those who will become Better Service boosters for it.

Everyone in this territory will profit. All those who take an active part have everything to gain and nothing to lose. You Win Even If You Lose. Each worker who does not win one of the four big prizes will be paid a 20 percent commission on all the business he or she turns in. You don't have to win a prize to be a winner, but you can win a prize if you will try, and the prizes are all worth trying for.

The subscriber will profit; this campaign is an effort on the part of the publisher to make this newspaper bigger and better — that should interest you, so get back of this drive and help put it over in a big way.

The merchant will profit; the more readers the more value in his advertising. A good newspaper means a good town; a town can be judged by the newspaper it supports.

Your Spare Time Worth Money
We invite a total of 16 people to take part in this contest and to share in the awards and commissions. Non-subscribers are equally invited to join in. The only requirement is a portion of your spare time; we all have some of that, and now is the time to turn it into cash. The opportunity is yours to earn $500. Who knows of a more advantageous way of spending his or her spare time? Get busy now, get an early start, don't wait and let someone else get out ahead of you. Call your friends today and tell them that you are in the race and that you want their support.

Saturday, April 19 will come all too quickly and on that day this newspaper will award the prizes as advertised above to the four successful workers. You can be one of these lucky persons. This campaign is not a gamble on your part. All persons taking part will be paid in proportion to what they do. Any one who has the ambition to get out and do a little Better Service boosting can earn more money through this campaign than is possible in any other way for a few weeks' work.

Who Can Enter?
Any man, woman, boy or girl can enter the campaign, become a member of the Better Service brigade and compete for the prizes. THERE IS NO ENTRANCE FEE OR CHARGE OF ANY KIND. You need not even be a subscriber to the Lamb County Leader to enter your name as an enrolled worker. An entry blank will be found on an inside double page ad. Clip it, fill it out, and send or bring it to the Lamb County Leader office. But remember, you must enroll before the quota of 16 workers is filled. Come to the Lamb County Leader office now, and talk the matter over with the campaign manager.

Awarding of Prizes
The Better Service campaign will close April 19, and the prizes will be awarded that day according to the vote standing of the Better Service workers. The worker having the highest number of votes will be awarded the first prize; the worker having second highest number of votes will win the second prize, and thus with third and fourth prizes, respectively. The workers, themselves, if they wish to do so, may select the judges who will open the ballot box and count the votes at the close of the campaign.

Enroll now, TODAY, and make up your mind to go out and win one of these prizes. Someone will win, and it may as well be you. Remember, no battle was ever won by dreaming about it.

BUICK TO BUILD $31,000,000 AIRCRAFT ENGINE PLANT IN CHICAGO'S MELROSE PARK

Plans for the immediate construction by the Buick division of General Motors of a $31,000,000 aircraft engine plant in the village of Melrose Park, Chicago, Ill., were disclosed recently by Harlow H. Curtice, head of the automobile division and a vice president of the organization.

Leo Hewitt, of the Hewitt Buick local dealers for Buick cars, brought this information to the Littlefield office Friday.

The new plant which will be built under government contract for the production of Pratt & Whitney 1800-horsepower aircraft engines, will employ in the neighborhood of 40,000 persons with an estimated $31,000,000 annual payroll, and will be one of the largest defense projects undertaken in this area, involving more than 125,000,000 dollars of the project, which have been under negotiation for some time.

Plans were released by D. E. Williams, former Buick controller and general manager of the new plant, at a meeting of local, state and national officials.

It was said that a 125-acre site at 125th Avenue and Mannheim Road in the western limit of Chicago, to be within the corporate limits of Melrose Park, has been secured and that construction bids for proposals will be ready for examination possibly within a few days.

Building plans call for a huge one-story manufacturing building of more than 1,000,000 square feet of floor space in which parts and sub-assemblies will be produced and the engines assembled. In addition, there will be 24 test cells for testing the engines, a power house, personnel and administration buildings.

The Buick aviation engine plant will be one of the seven largest employers of labor in the Chicago area and probably the largest single employer in one plant.

According to the management, it is ideally situated for purposes of defense production, having adequate railroad and highway transport facilities and available skilled and semi-skilled workmen, with all other necessary physical facilities available.

In announcing the project, Curtice said that every energy of the Buick organization will be bent to speedy completion of plant and facilities and the launching of actual production. The executive already has set up a separate manufacturing organization, headed by Mr. Williams as operating manager, and Joseph G. Hammond, formerly Buick general superintendent, as manufacturing manager, and composed of key Buick production and engineering technicians.

Buick's vast purchasing facilities will be available to the aircraft plant through this manufacturer's purchasing agent, L. A. Stewart, who will direct the defense manufacturing purchases with the assistance of W. B. Stickney, as resident purchasing agent.

The executive said that commitments already have been made for a substantial dollar volume in machinery and equipment for the new plant and that extensive preliminary work has been completed to expedite the project.

In this connection, Buick technicians have been in close touch with Pratt & Whitney concerning technical details of production and the adaptation of them to mass output. The steps that have been taken to create a manufacturing organization also are a result of detailed study of the technical and mass production requirements. This organization already is functioning, he said.

Curtice said that contracts already executed with the United States Army and those under negotiation involve a total of approximately $94,000,000 for aviation engines and parts while plant construction and equipment total in excess of $31,000,000, a supplemental provision for tooling having increased the total over the $24,000,000 originally released.

The plant will be set up to produce 500 aircraft engines a month, he said, or upwards of 5,000 a year under normal operation. All parts and sub-assemblies will be produced in the new plant as well as final assembly of the engines.

With the operation of the Buick plant at Chicago, General Motors Corporation will have approximately 40,000 employees engaged in aircraft and parts production of which 25 percent would be employed here. This does not include employees engaged in the manufacture of other equipment, accessories or parts necessary to national defense of which General Motors Corporation Divisions are likewise large manufacturers.

Baptist Members Vote To Purchase Lots Next To Church

Members of the First Baptist Church voted last Sunday to purchase the three lots adjoining the church property on the east, to the corner.

The lots are owned by Frank Lehman and Albert Neuenschwander. Deacons of the church are members of a committee to raise the funds for the purchasing of these lots.

Reports are that sometime in the future, an educational building or a new auditorium will probably be erected on these lots.

The deal for purchasing of these lots had not been consummated to date.

Veterans To Register—

ner has proclaimed Saturday, Feb. 22, the 209th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, as national defense registration day for all Legionnaires and unaffiliated World War veterans who care to do so.

To Fill Out Questionnaires

On that day every American Legion post in the country will ask its membership and local World War veterans generally to fill out a questionnaire. This form will be in triplicate. It will chronicle every Legionnaire's capabilities and talents which could be used in national defense. The post will retain the original copy of the questionnaire. The second copy will go to the department headquarters. The last copy will go to national headquarters. From these copies will be compiled post, department and national indices of American Legion national defense assets. These indices will enable the American Legion quickly to locate any member or veteran for whose special services governmental agencies might have a need.

The Richard New Post No. 301 of the American Legion in this city will undertake to register all Legionnaires and unaffiliated World War veterans in this community and surrounding area.

"This is a summons for possible important service to God and Country whom we served as young men in 1917-18," Commander Jimmie Ware of the local post said. "I feel certain that every Legionnaire and World War veteran generally will welcome the opportunity of perhaps doing another bit for their country. We do not expect to be called for active military service. Most of us are beyond that age. But there are many home defense duties to be performed.

"I urge every Legionnaire and other interested World War veterans in this community to register on February 22. If you are going to be out of town on that date, fill out your questionnaire before you leave. It is a patriotic duty, and we of the American Legion have never shirked our duty, or lagged in our patriotism. The time has come again when we may be called upon once more to stand up for America, and I am sure every Legionnaire in this community is ready."

Legionnaires Meet In Plainview For District Convention

Approximately 250 members of the American Legion and Legion Auxiliary attended the 19th district convention at Plainview Sunday.

Mrs. Maude Street, Mrs. Alice Douglass, Van Clark, Mrs. Willie Galloway and Warren Rutledge of Littlefield attended the morning session, arriving in Plainview for the breakfast at the Legion Home.

A business session was held before the group attended the Presbyterian church. State Chaplain Herb Markley of Wink, gave an inspiring address entitled "The Other Side of War."

A dutch lunch was served at noon.

The afternoon program was presented at the Plainview City Auditorium.

Mr. and Mrs. Orien Dennis and children, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Matthews and children and Marion Phillips attended the afternoon session from Littlefield.

New Irrigation Law Is Discussed

A large number of owners and prospective owners of irrigation wells in Lamb county met at the Fieldton school Wednesday night and discussed the recent proposed legislation that has been presented to the state legislature, in regard to the ownership of underground water on the plains.

C. E. Bley of Olton was named chairman of a committee in Lamb county, at Plainview Monday, when a group of farmers and business men met at the office of the Plainview Production Credit Association.

Mr. Bley presided at the meeting at Fieldton.

The bill presented to the legislature would deprive citizens of Texas of ownership of underground water, and a provision in the bill would cause owners of the land to make application to the state to put down irrigation wells on their farms.

Marriage Of Miss Pauline Cook And Louis Eubank Solemnized Saturday

The marriage of Miss Pauline Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Cook, and Louis Eubank, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Eubank, of Littlefield, Tex., was solemnized Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents, six and a half miles northeast of Littlefield.

The ceremony was read by Rev. Roy Shahan, Baptist minister. Vows were said before an altar of jonquils, acacia and fern.

The bride wore a desert sand colored suit with violet blouse, a beige hat with a violet veil and black accessories. She wore a corsage of deep violet carnations. For something "old" and "borrowed," she wore a cameo necklace belonging to her mother.

"VICTORY," STARRING FREDERIC MARCH AND BETTY FIELD COMES TO RITZ

Just as Joseph Conrad remained steadfast in his determination to retain the original title of his epic novel, "Victory", so, many years later, did Paramount Producer Anthony Veiller insist upon not changing the title when he made the screen version of the famous Conrad story. Starring Frederic March and Betty Field, the picture opens at the Ritz Theatre Saturday midnight, continuing through Sunday and Monday.

Polish-born, a seaman who touched practically every port on the seven seas, Conrad began writing late in life, and became a master of English prose. "Victory" is possibly the best known of all his works. It is known as a classic of character and scene description, and adventure in the South Seas.

It is interesting that "Victory" was first published during the World War II. Conrad finished writing the book at the beginning of the first war, and he admits in his preface, he considered changing the title of his novel.

"The word 'Victory' the shining and tragic goal of a noble effort," the famous author wrote, "appeared too great, too august, to stand at the head of a mere novel. 'Victory' was the last word I had written in peacetime. And I made up my mind to let the word stand, in the same hopeful spirit in which some citizens of Old Rome would have 'accepted the omen'."

Thus did Conrad permit the title, "Victory" to stand — because he wished it to be an omen of Allied triumph over German military might.

Although frequently it is practice to change the titles of motion pictures based on books, Producer Anthony Veiller insisted that the title of the screen version of "Victory" remain unchanged, as Conrad undoubtedly would have wished, if he were alive during World War II. He died in 1924.

Littlefield H. D. Club Meets At Floyd Brown Home Thursday

The Littlefield Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. Floyd Brown, Thursday, February 6.

The Valentine motif was featured in decorations and refreshments.

Miss Beth McCurdy, county home demonstration agent, gave a demonstration on Feats with Meals. She prepared casserole dishes, showing how to prepare less tender cuts and the better cuts of meat.

"The front parts of the animal are less tender because they get more exercise and are also surrounded by a connective tissue, making it tougher than the hind-quarters, and it is much better if cooked in moist heat and at a low temperature," she told the group.

"In feeding out animals for home use one should not economize on feed, but they should be fed, so as to make the very best of meat, and it is well to keep in mind that the less tender cuts of a well-fed animal are better than the better cuts of a poorly fed animal."

Refreshments were served to Mesdames W. B. Hamilton, T. M. Dorman, W. H. Roberts, L. L. Massengill, Clara Wills, Joe Guthrie, Jeff Perkins, Roy Byers, E. B. Wills, J. Johnson, Dewey Hulise, W. K. Collar Changes

Pattern 8854—This charming little frock has been designed with two collar and cuff styles — one plain and one scalloped—because it is so pretty and so becoming that both you and your daughter will want it repeated in several different materials.

By making some frocks with plain collar and cuffs, some with scalloped, you can get plenty of variety.

Design No. 8854 has the crispness and flare in which small girls look adorable, and the seamed detailing in front has a lot of style, especially when the frock is made up in polka dot percale, checked gingham or plain chambray.

Use two rows of braid to emphasize the flare of the skirt, and match the buttons to the braid.

This is a very easy little frock to make. Step-by-step sew chart comes with your pattern.

Pattern No. 8854 is designed for sizes 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 years. Size 3 requires 2 3/8 yards of 35 inch material; 3-8 yards for contrasting collar and cuffs; 6 1/2 yards for trimming.

District Rally Of Future Homemakers To Be At Sudan

Littlefield FHT To Arrange Program For Annual Affair

More than four hundred girls, representing thirteen high schools of this district, are expected to assemble in Sudan on Saturday, February 22, for the annual district rally of the Future Homemakers of Texas.

Girls of the Sudan FHM chapter will be hostesses at an all day meeting on that date, Mrs. Lonnie Horn home-making teacher in the Sudan High School, announced this week.

Future Homemaker chapters from the following schools will be represented at the meeting: Amherst, Bovina, Bula, Dimmitt, Farwell, Friona, Lazbuddy, Littlefield, Muleshoe, Spade, Olton, Spring Lake, and Sudan.

Girls of the Littlefield chapter, under the direction of their instructor, Miss Ernestine Cundiff, will be in charge of the program. A Washington Birthday theme has been selected for this meeting, which will be held on the birthdate of the First President.

Complete program arrangements will be announced next week, Mrs. Horn said. The program, however, will include a welcome address by Supl. H. T. Hutchinson and a response by a member of the Friona delegation; tap dance and musical numbers by the Littlefield chapter delegates, and educational features.

A Martha Washington tea, at which the girls of the Sudan chapter will be hostesses, is being arranged for the afternoon.

Sudan girls will serve a covered dish luncheon at the high school building at the noon hour.

The Washington Birthday motif will be carried out in costumes, place cards and favors, and decorations which are being arranged by the Sudan chapter for the affair.

J. B. DuBose Named Demonstrator For New Bendix Washer

J. B. DuBose, at the Singer Sewing Machine Agency, Littlefield, has been appointed local representative and demonstrator for the new Bendix Home Laundry.

Mr. DuBose had an advertisement of the new automatic Bendix in last week's issue of the Lamb County Leader, and has an advertisement on the society page of the Leader this week. He is highly enthusiastic about the product.

The Bendix washer is automatic and is guaranteed to wash, rinse and damp-dry clothes in one automatic operation. "All you do is flip a switch when the Bendix does the wash," its demonstrators state. All that is necessary in the Bendix

Pictured here are Littlefield's representatives on the District Golden Gloves boxing team, which this week end competes in the state tournament at Fort Worth.

Buford Bradshaw, Littlefield high school student and district winner in the T. A. A. F. tournament, fights Joe Gonzales of Odessa tonight in one of the opening battles of the meet. Bradshaw is a featherweight.

Alvin McCarty, lightweight, drew a first round bye and does not fight until Saturday afternoon when his opponent will be Jimmy Smith of the Abilene district.

Jesse Ramsey of the local CCC camp also drew a first round bye.

and will meet Adrian Daniels of Olney Saturday afternoon.

Other fighters from this district who will enter the ring tonight are Lavern Roach, flyweight of Plainview, and Howell Steen, welterweight of Lubbock. Roach fights Elmer Rey of Dallas, and Steen meets Bob Coleman of Brownwood.

On Friday night, Curtis Lebow, bantamweight of Hale Center, meets a Beaumont fighter and Rhea Mitchell, Lubbock, heavyweight, squares off against Ray Wallis of Austin.

Jack Lovin, Lubbock, middleweight, meets Richard Davis of Tyler, Saturday afternoon.

In the district finals at Lubbock Friday night other Littlefield boxers covered themselves with glory thru commendable fights. W. D. McCarty, Jr., last year's district champion in the bantamweight division, lost a hairline decision to Lebow. Tommy Taylor of the CCC camp, after winning by a knock out in his first fight, defaulted to Lovin upon the advice of a physician. Woody Culpepper, light heavyweight, was knocked out by his teammate, Ramsey, in the finals.

Winners in the Fort Worth tournament will represent Texas at the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions in Chicago next month.

operation, as proved in demonstrations conducted by Mr. DuBose, is to put in dry soiled clothes, flip a switch, add soap, and let the Bendix wash, rinse and damp-dry the clothing automatically.

Mr. DuBose offers a free demonstration of the machine. Interested persons should contact the demonstrator, or telephone him at No. 257 for a free demonstration.

Proposes Caravan To Dairy Show, April 9 At Fort Worth

V. F. Jones, County Agent of Lamb County, informs the Leader that if enough persons are interested he would conduct a caravan to Ft. Worth on April 9, to the Dairy Show to be held there on April 9, and 10. Several hundred choice dairy cows will be on exhibition as well as many other features that will be helpful in dairy practices and herd improvement. All those interested in butterfat or whole milk production, including ladies are urged to join up for the trip.

Mr. Jones and the Chamber of Commerce have made arrangements for a low price group rate for rooms the night that will be spent in Fort Worth. The plan suggested is that the trip be made in cars of those interested in making the trip. Cars having extra room will doubtless attract people interested who do not have a car and will pay the owner an equitable fee, which reduces the expense for all concerned. It will be possible to make the trip and not miss anything connected with the purpose of the trip, for not over four dollars, outside of transportation costs. Mr. Jones suggests that anyone interested get in touch with the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce for further particulars.

Gas Booster Station Burns At Sudan Thursday

Town Of Sudan Without Gas Six Hours As Temperatures Drop

Fire destroyed the West Texas Gas Company booster station in the outskirts of Sudan late Thursday afternoon, and cut off the city's gas supply, leaving the entire town without heat in the face of rapidly dropping temperatures.

The fire was discovered at the booster plant shortly before six p. m., a short time after the first blasts of a fresh norther had signalled the end of several days of warm weather.

The Sudan Fire Department answered the alarm, but was unable to bring the flames under control as gas exploded, wrecking the plant and opening the mains to the blaze.

Company repairmen, who were called to the scene, including Bob Lewis, local manager of the West Texas Gas Company, Hank Rogers and George Harral of Littlefield, shut off the gas and halted the blaze, and worked all night Thursday night, running an emergency line around the wrecked plant to utilize pressure from another booster plant between Sudan and Muleshoe. Gas was turned into the mains at 1:15 o'clock Friday morning, and meters and appliances were checked for customers.

An emergency crew of 19 men were called from Lubbock to assist in the repair work.

The fire was reported to have started from the heater in the booster station. Company officials stated that this was the first such occurrence in a number of years.

The Sudan News completed typesetting Thursday night after gas service was interrupted, with the aid of a butane heating system. The typesetting machine in the News plant uses gas heat, but the butane system was installed and operations were resumed three hours after the fire at the booster station.

Protest Made To Local Board's Classification

According to Otto Jones, chairman of the Lamb County Selective Service Board, one of the volunteers who left here for Lubbock last Friday was rejected on examination and, therefore, it will be necessary that a replacement be made.

Mr. Jones stated that instead of sending two replacements on Feb. 18, it will be necessary to send an additional man to take the place of the one rejected, making three in all.

Those who will leave February 18 as replacement are Ray Belton Reed of Sudan, Ray Oscar May of Sudan, and Oscar Charles Grumke of Littlefield.

The chairman also reported that the first protest to the local board's classification, which was appealed to the District Board at Amarillo, but that body sustained the local board's pinion, and kept the draftee in A-1 class.

Up to Wednesday night, a total of 1,150 questionnaires had been sent out.

The County Federation of Women's Clubs will meet in Littlefield in April, and the Junior Study Club will have charge of the program. Misses Laura Virginia Billis, Thelma Davidson and Ferne Holland were selected as a committee to arrange the program.

Misses Ferne Holland, Margaret Bandy and Janelle Kirk were appointed on a committee to continue the Girl Scout work this year.

The resignation of Miss Mary Ann Kimble was accepted by the club. Miss Kimble has resigned her position as teacher in the local school, and has gone to her home in Floydada.

An interesting program, entitled "Bolivar—The Liberator" was given. Miss Juno Glassecock discussed the trip from "Bogota to Caracas—By Highway"; Miss Eloise Hanes told of "A Visit to the House of Bolivar," and Miss Erna Douglass discussed "Other Heroes of Latin American Independence."

Ed Pilley, representing the Joe Ward Engineering Company of Wichita Falls, arrived in Littlefield Monday, to start surveys for the east-west highway across Lamb county, and will remain here until the new highway is completed, it was reported this week.

Mr. Pilley has been resident engineer for the state highway department at Levelland.

The Ward Engineering Company was employed as engineers for the highway recently by the Commissioner's Court.

Mr. Pilley, and Joe Ward, accompanied by Judge Stanley A. Doss, and G. M. Vann and M. D. Abbott, traveled the route for the proposed highway Tuesday, from the Bailey county line to the Hale county line.

Suffers Cuts And Bruises In Truck Accident Sunday

The truck was loaded with citrus fruit that was being taken to Lubbock, from New Mexico.

The injuries to the driver were sustained when his truck turned over in avoiding a collision with an automobile. Fruit was distributed over the highway.

Observes 90th Birthday

About 75 birthday greetings telegrams, and letters were received by Mrs. Shaw on her birthday, which is, indeed, a tribute to her, and a token of the love and regard felt for this stately little lady.

Mrs. Shaw makes her home during the winter months with her niece, Mrs. McInnes, at Gainesville, Fla. Her home, however, is at Orange, Texas.

Mr. Shaw stated Wednesday that his mother had written him to the effect that she had received so many greetings and telegrams which it would be impossible for her to answer, and asking her son to please thank those in Littlefield and Lamb County who were so thoughtful and that their greetings were very much appreciated, and gave her much joy.

Highways And Defense

America cannot adequately defend herself without modern highways. That is the conclusion reached by the 38th annual convention of the American Road Builders association meeting in New York City. Theme noted by "Roads for Defense," the conclave brought together outstanding highway, military government and business experts to discuss the need for strengthening the United States and the entire Western Hemisphere through modern highway construction. The 48 states and 15 other North, South and Central American nations were represented at convention sessions.

"In an era of national defense, the country must be considered as a factory of which the streets and highways are the moving belts of the assembly lines," Michigan Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner told delegates. "Defense production cannot be stepped up unless the present inefficiencies of the transportation of raw materials and parts can be reduced. It is estimated that, in the metropolitan area of Detroit, defense production will increase cross-town traffic tenfold. The roadways over which as much as $5,000,000,000 must flow this year are critical. They are both badly overcrowded and highly inefficient even at present. They will not be able to carry a 10 to 1 overload without a frightful delay and expense."

"Preliminary estimates indicate that the army, navy and defense industries are in vital need of approximately 4,000 miles of roads and streets within and approaching reservation and industrial sites and that this construction will cost about $230,000,000," John M. Carmody, administrator, Federal Works Agency, declared in a statement to the convention. "From the standpoint of both military and civilian requirements the strategic network needs to be improved. It is advisable to develop plans for express highways through cities and for other improvements on a similar scale. We anticipate that the time is coming when our resources will no longer need to be directed entirely to military and naval preparedness. It will be desirable to have available for instant use, fully developed plans for public works. They will be needed to sustain our industrial activities in the shift from a war economy to an economy of peace."

Immediate construction of coastal and transcontinental express highways was urged in a statement by William Green, president, American Federation of Labor. Interregional highway construction, according to Mr. Green, is not only essential for furtherance of national defense, by facilitating the movement of troops and defense weapons, but it is also important as a means of stimulating business activity through provision of transportation, trade and travel facilities.

Lindley Coffee Shop Makes Improvements; Installs New Lights

The Lindley Coffee Shop, formerly Cundiff's Cafe, installed last week a three-unit fluorescent lighting system with attractive fixtures, which add greatly to the appearance of this establishment. The electric work was done by Marion Phillips, local electrician. Mr. Lindley has made a number of improvements since purchasing this business, and plans on doing still more. He stated last week that he planned on adding more booths and making that section of his cafe larger.

Methodist congregations in the United States will be passed simultaneously on what has been named "Methodism's Day of Compassion" Sunday, March 2.

Rev. Sharp explains the three types of appeal that are consolidated in the Good Samaritan movement including $250,000 to be allotted for religious and social activities in the army training camps; $250,000 to assist the mother church in England, and $500,000 to supplement the Methodist overseas relief already in progress.

Leaders emphasize the fact that this will be an "emergency offering."

PUBLISHER'S STATEMENT

"Why do newspapers put on subscription campaigns?" This is the question some have asked us in the past and there are doubtless many others who have wondered about this question but never have said anything about it. It can best be answered by asking a series of other questions such as: Why do insurance companies offer prizes to the agents who write the most insurance in a period of time? Why do utilities offer special premiums to the employees who sell the most merchandise, or who sell the largest number of new users of their particular service? Why do large manufacturing and wholesale concerns put traveling men on the road, calling on retailers? All such efforts are merely the modern forms of salesmanship, which has built up an increased volume and brought many persons into possession of something they needed and have enjoyed but which they might never have possessed if it hadn't been sold to them through the personal contact of some person engaged in special sales campaign.

Newspaper subscriptions have to be sold, just like a life insurance policy, electric refrigerators, gas ranges, or even a new brand of coffee. The person who is not a subscriber to a newspaper must have the advantages of having that paper, coming into the home, pointed out in a convincing manner. There are continual changes in every community and in the trade territory the paper serves. The newcomers may not become new subscribers unless the paper is sold to them. There are others, too, who permit their paper to lapse and be discontinued for failure to pay the renewal subscription price, not because the item is so large, but because it is so small, and they, therefore, neglect it, unless a representative of the paper comes to their home.

Every progressive and aggressive newspaper realizes that it must put back into its circulation work a great deal of the circulation income, in order to retain and extend its list of subscribers, and provide as nearly a perfect coverage in the immediate trade territory as it can for the benefit of its advertisers. The subscription campaign provides an opportunity for a group of local people to utilize some of their spare time for a few weeks in subscription solicitation, which they find both pleasant and profitable. It serves as a means for the annual collection of renewals and provides an opportunity for the paper to extend its circulation to include new homes within its territory.

In announcing this campaign, we are pleased to also announce that we have secured the services of the F. L. Nickeson Circulation Service. This is an old reliable organization which has been serving newspapers in the western states for the past 15 years. The local manager will be Kenneth Amundson, a newspaperman of many years experience who comes from an old newspaper family.

The Nickeson company is one of the outstanding circulation concerns of the country, and is well known for its honesty and reliability.

We have the utmost confidence in the integrity and ability of the Nickeson organization and Mr. Amundson, and therefore have no hesitation in presenting him in this work to this territory. We trust that our many friends will receive him in that same friendly spirit which has manifested your attitude toward us in past years and that the same responsive spirit of cooperation will prevail between all of us through this campaign. You can save money by subscribing to the Lamb County Leader, which will continually keep you well informed on current events and outstanding savings which you can make by selecting your purchase from the large number of advertisements in the Leader.

When A-Gallopin' You Go, Careful----- And How!

Small rocks, jack rabbits, such an unusual combination... enlivened last for Frank Bundy, who... tire store hereabouts... a little money... to hire... go a-gallopin' on a sunny afternoon... to pay a... gallopin' where he should... gallopin' went. He... went to Lubbock last... met a number of friends, hired horses for a ride in... park. Now one of the... a-gallopin' in McKenzie park is that you must keep your horse in the roadways... and never, never let him go a-gallopin' over the soft grass, so friendly to a horse's hoofs.

But Frank spied a rabbit... the rabbit lingered and sort of grinned at him... Frank stepped down from the leather... gathered several rocks of convenient size... mounted and gave chase, but returned from the hunt, minus a rabbit, to find a stern-faced officer awaiting his arrival. The Littlefield young man was advised that he had violated a rule of the park and was ordered to report to police headquarters.

With no friend at court to plead his cause... to explain the enthusiasm of youth... the love of the hunt... had caused him to err from the pathway of proper deportment... Frank paid a fine of $1.
