

A Hay Curfew?

Grandson Of Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Beach Dies

Funeral Services Conducted At First Baptist Church Sunday

William Frederick Hille, aged 3, of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Hille of Littlefield, N. M., and grandson of Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Beach of this city, died away at the West Texas Hospital, Lubbock, about 8:30 p. m. Friday night, as a result of complications, from which the child had only been ill a short time.

He was the only child of Dr. and Mrs. Hille. Mrs. Hille is the former Miss Beach and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Beach.

Funeral services were conducted at the First Baptist Church, Littlefield, Sunday afternoon, August 10, at 2 o'clock with Rev. Roy Shahan, pastor, officiating. Interment was in the Hammons Funeral home, taking place in the Littlefield cemetery.

Grand Jury Returns Seven Indictments

The following are the recommendations of the Grand Jury for the current term of Court: There has been brought to the attention of the grand jury through reliable sources the increasing loss of hogs by cholera death. A number of hogs have been brought into Lamb County from out of County and there have been serious losses of hogs due to Cholera since practice has been followed. The officers have been diligent in the matter of handling this business and it is recommended that a diligent prosecution be maintained against any unlawful moving or sale of hogs in the county. The officers are earnestly requested to cooperate with the officers in every way in preventing the scattering of hogs through this movement into Lamb County and that shipments of hogs from out of county into Lamb County be strictly reported. Further, the law against the following disposition of hogs dying of cholera burial in pits or under ground with covering of lime or by burning of body should be strictly enforced. The above matter has been reported by numerous persons who had appreciable losses in hogs brought into Lamb County and it has also been brought to attention that hogs reputedly

Methodist Young People To Meet Here Oct. 18-19

Approximately 400 young people from Methodist Churches in the Plainview and Lubbock districts will attend a Rally at the local Methodist church October 18 and 19, according to an announcement this week.

The group will include members of the senior division of the Methodist Youth Fellowship. One of the highlights of the program will be the special music offered by the McMurry Chanters, from McMurry College, Abilene. This two-day conference will probably be among the first to be held in the new church building, which is under construction.

Approximately 40 persons attended.

Texas Utilities Reduce Local Rates

As announced by the Texas-New Mexico Utilities Company Wednesday, a reduction in commercial rates is being accorded to all commercial users in Littlefield.

The new rate is effective, according to Sam Batton, Manager of the local branch of the Texas-New Mexico Utilities Co., on all current consumed since last bills were received.

The old rate, the new rate, and a table showing the reduction effected, is being published this week in an advertisement in this newspaper. This new rate is said to amount to an average reduction of more than 22%, according to the company officials.

Wildcats To Play Morton At Seely Field Sept. 12

New Uniforms To Be Presented To Squad By School Board

Exactly 30 days from today, or September 12, is the date scheduled for the first football game of the season for the Littlefield high school Wildcats, when they will come face to face with the Morton gridders at Seely Field here.

See the remainder of the Wildcat's schedule elsewhere in this issue of the Leader, and you will see that five of the games will be played here, and six of the games will be conference tilts. And—These Littlefield Wildcats are liable to give those Olton Mustangs more runs for their money this year for the North district B title, than ever before!

Need Two Games

Furthermore, Coach Abe Murphy and assistant coach C. L. Storrs, (both former stars of the Red Raiders of Texas Tech, report that the Wildcats are still in the market for two games, since the Brownfield Bobcats sent word that their schedule had a mix-up, and they would be unable to play the locals on September 26. Monday, September 12 when the Wildcats will begin their scrimmages will begin their scrimmages. (Continued on back page)

County Cannery In Need Of Help

According to information from Mrs. Blanche Dodgen, Supervisor of The County Cannery, there is an urgent need of help to care for the abundance of produce that is coming in for immediate canning.

The Farmer who brings in his produce and furnishes his own containers receives 60 percent of the produce . . . those who help in the canning will furnish their own containers and receive 25 percent of the produce they are able to can.

It is a grand opportunity for those who have some time to work at the Cannery to provide for Winter Food needs, and the need for help to take care of the abundant produce is very urgent.

Local Officers Attend Meet In Plainview Tuesday

Sheriff Sam Hutson, Sid Hopping, deputy, Herbert Martin, district attorney, and Troy Howton, constable, all of Littlefield, accompanied by Dewey Dennis, deputy at Olton and Frank Cummings of Olton, district clerk, attended the regular meeting of the West Texas Peace Officers Association at Plainview Tuesday.

During the business session in the morning, B. L. Parker, of Tahoka, sheriff of Lynn county, was re-elected president of the association, for another year, Parker has served as president since the organization of the group three years ago.

Truett Smith, also of Tahoka, was re-elected secretary of the association.

A barbecue was enjoyed by about 80 officers in this section at noon at the Plainview Fair Grounds.

Loans On Excess Wheat May Run To April, 1943

Excess wheat under 1941 marketing quotas may be converted to free wheat this fall, W. E. Bentley chairman of the Lamb County AAA Committee, has announced.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has provided that wheat equal to the amount by which a producer's yield falls below his allotment for the following year, measured in terms of his normal yield, or the amount of his next year's actual production falls below the normal yield of his allotted acres, may be marketed without penalty.

In clarifying this statement Mr. Bentley assumed that a producer with excess wheat has a 100-acre wheat allotment and 10 bushels per acre normal yield. If his planting were reduced to 80 acres next year, (Continued on back page)

GOVERNMENT OF THE WORLD

I pledge allegiance to my flag And to the world for which it stands, One planet indivisible, With liberty and justice for all. To reach a solution where the people of all nations might repeat that pledge together seems to be the broad aim of the present day. It has probably been a general aim of humanity ever since mankind first inhabited the earth. Now, with the world at war, the hope of mankind is, as it has been in all major wars of the past that this will be the war to end wars. As each nation in the world becomes more and more international in its trading and in its thinking, most every nation agrees that its welfare depends upon the welfare and activities of other nations. There are many in America who would like to build a wall around our country and forget the rest of the world. But without considering the arguments for and against such an isolationist policy, all of us now realize that our government is pledged to a policy of internationalism. Whether we like it or not, our interests have been thrown in with the interests of Europe, Asia, South America and Africa. And our nation's leaders are trying to envision a League of Nations, stronger than anything dreamed of in the past, which after the war will lead all countries to work together under a government of the world. It may not be in the lifetime of any of us now living that such a solution will become an actuality. But it is good food for dreams. The trouble is that wars, while they breed friendships between allies, at the same time deepen the enmity between those fighting one another. When Orson Welles frightened thousands of people with his radio dramatization of an invasion by the people of the planet Mars, he perhaps hinted at the solution. If the world had a common enemy—an enemy that demanded the uniting of all nations on the globe to defeat it—that would bring about the world solidarity being sought. But perhaps some day we can agree that war itself is the enemy of the whole world and unite in a crusade of all nations to drive it from the face of the earth.

DR. AND MRS. COEN IMPROVE PROPERTY

Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Coen have considerably improved their residential property by the addition of a 14 x 20 south wing, including a large bed room, bathroom and dressing room. This section has been bricked the same color as the balance of the home. F. M. Brewer was in charge of construction. Higginbotham-Bartlett supplied the materials, Bob Fife did the brick work.

Adjutant Trummell Goes To San Angelo

Adjutant Eula Trummell, who has been in charge of the local Salvation Army unit here since March 22 1936, has been transferred to San Angelo, and will leave Littlefield for her new duties August 24. Adjutant Trummell was advised of her transfer Friday last. She will take over work in her new field August 27. A successor has not been named, according to available information. Adjutant has been head of the Salvation Army in Littlefield since the inception of the work in this city and under her guidance outstanding achievements have been accomplished.

The ROAD to BAGDAD

by GEORGE GIBBS

CHAPTER XII

SYNOPSIS
Camilla Dean tours in the East with the army of Arab tribes, enemies of the Moslems. Hassan Isar, whose proposal of marriage Camilla rejects. Crossing the Syrian desert, the bus is attacked, and Camilla is carried off. She is treated with consideration, and finds Hassan has planned the abduction.

A man came quickly from the dusk of the inner side of the tent beyond the perimeter of light—

"I think you'll be glad to have good news of your friends," Hassan said. "The great adventure of your friend Michael having ended in disaster, he thought it best to return to Damascus. He was not badly hurt, just a bullet through the flesh of his shoulder. Torelli drove, I'm glad, and managed very well. You cousin Josie is worried about you and course, I have no way of reassuring her. Miss Priestly is very happy to be back at the hotel with Fossil and Kitty Trimble is on her way to Beirut."

"And you think you can keep a mystery like this quiet?"
"It will be a nine days' wonder and then forgotten."
"Not with the body of Slim as evidence."
"There will be no body of Slim," said. "When there's no body there's no crime. They tell me it was Slim who made the trouble. I'll make no more."
She sat silent, wondering how she would have tolerated Hassan for so long. He went out to bathe his face and hands, leaving her in a misery of uncertainty. There now seemed hope for her in any direction. . . .

A man came quickly from the dusk of the inner side of the tent beyond the perimeter of light. He was one of the three men who had hidden with her after the holdup. She covered away from him but he held up his hand, speaking quickly in broken French.

"Mademoiselle," he whispered, "belonging to the tribes of El Kerak. He asked me to give you this yesterday but there was no opportunity until now," and he handed her a soiled slip of paper. She glanced at it quickly and read the brief message. "The jinni is out of the bottle."
It was unsigned but a great thrill shot through her as she realized that Ronnie was again near and would help her. She turned to the messenger. "When?" she asked.

"Soon," he replied and, dropping to his knees, suddenly disappeared. She moved quickly to the flap of the tent and as she appeared the hard outside rose and faced her with a forbidding gesture. It was extraordinary that no one had noticed the stranger as he came and went. Hassan apparently was still in his dressing tent.
She turned slowly as Hassan reentered the tent.
"And now," he said, "we shall be cozy and quite 'en famille.' I made plans for this visit some days ago when I hoped to get you to accept my invitation, and sent some food from Tadmore."
"I—I couldn't eat," she said, "I'm not hungry."
"After I've taken all this trouble?"

"You must eat of my bread and salt, my dear, according to the Arabian custom, if only to show that you're not angry."
"Why waste words?" she said, "I refused the invitation to go with you on a caravan because I distrusted you. It seems that I was right—"
"But here we are whether you distrusted me or not. And don't you think it would be wiser if you made the best of it?"
"There is no best of it—only the worst," she said with a bitterness intended to hide her hope of Ronnie.

"Well, at least now we understand each other. For the first time you're actually honest with me. I don't mind saying it's rather refreshing. But I didn't think you'd be such a poor loser. I thought at least you were a good sport."
"Your ideas of a sport and mine may be different."
"Perhaps . . . Will you have wing and breast of squab chicken, or a second joint? It smells very good—"
"No, thank you."
"But I can't let you starve." He made no reply. He helped her and began eating hungrily.
"You see, my dear," Hassan told Camilla, "I've done everything in the world I could think of to please you and all I've had in return is liposity and intrigue. I offered you marriage, as fine a match as you'll find in all Syria. And you refused me. That was your privilege. You played the game according to your own code and I am playing it according to mine—a savage code if you like, but consistent with my plan of life. Among the desert people the man carries off his bride who is supposed to weep and try to scratch his eyes out. That won't be difficult for you, of course." He laughed at her.

"Thank goodness, you're not my husband."
"Under the Mohammedan law your vows have already made you my wife."
"My vows?"
"Yes, my dear, on the train to Jerusalem when you hoped to get me to tell you about Osman Khalil."

She stared in wonder at his continued impudence. What did it all mean? Did he believe what he said or was he just trying this new means of intimidating her? She gave him a wry sort of smile. "And do you really think you can make me believe all this?"
"I'm afraid you'll have to," Hakim came in and poured the coffee. "Have a cigarette? These are Arif's from Beirut."

He smoked, inhaling deeply, and gazed at her through the haze. He was far too courteous to be trusted. As he lighted her cigarette their fingers touched and he suddenly rose, passing around the table and catching her by the shoulders. She struggled furiously and he gave a short laugh. "Am I so distasteful to you as all that?"
He turned and lighted a second cigarette, while she tried to think of some expedient, unusual and desperate. It came to her quickly like an inspiration—a thought that might endanger Ronnie's plans and her own. And yet—"Hassan," she said quickly, "what would you say if I told you that Ronald Barker will soon find the hiding place of Osman Khalil?"

He looked up at her, puzzled, but his attention was diverted. Then he smiled easily. "I would say that it is not true."
"Even if I mentioned the house of Saied Ahmal Affandi?"
Her information was still untried, a shot in the dark, but it struck him somewhere and she knew she had made no mistake for he twisted toward her quickly. "Where did you hear that name?"
"At Kufah on the Tigris, at Baghdad," she added.

"Where did you hear that name?"
"At Kufah on the Tigris, at Baghdad," she added.

He caught her by the wrist and hurt her more than he had hurt her before but she didn't mind it so much. "Where did you get this nonsense?" he asked roughly.
"You once told me I was clever."
"You'll suffer for this!" he raged. He rushed to the flap of the tent, clapping his hands and shouting in Syriac. The encampment was in a commotion at once, men shouting from one tent to another, lanterns flashing, and through it all Hassan striding like a demon. And then when she wondered what was to happen next it happened quickly—the sound of a rifle shot at a distance—another—horses whinnying, camels squealing, then more rifle shots closer at hand and a turmoil of shouting and angry men. Through it all she heard the name of El Kerak uttered first in surprise, and then fear.

Hassan had rushed out of the tent, but a hand caught hers. "Trust me," said a voice in French which she recognized as Ronnie's messenger, "and follow." Together they bent under the wall of the tent and in a moment were out in the darkness with walls of goatskin around them. She heard Hassan's voice, then Ronald Barker's, as the two men met. Camilla tore her hand away from the grasp of her guide and ran out into the open just in time to see a man in Arabian robes rush toward Hassan, his automatic blazing spitefully.
The surprise was effective. The tribesmen of El Kerak, having shot the lookout on the tower, had dashed suddenly around the two sides of the hill, converging on Hassan's bewildered followers who had rushed from their tents half awake and fought until they found themselves surrounded. With the fall of Hassan the battle was over, for his surviving warriors found what horses they could and dashed away into the darkness.

After a while he found her and took her into his arms.

"Camilla! Are you all right?"
"Yes, yes—just a little bewildered, that's all. Oh, Ronnie, I'm so glad—I think I've never been gladder in my life."
"I couldn't get here before. The fellow on watch just wouldn't go to sleep and at last he had to be shot, otherwise there wouldn't have been such a row. Did you get my message?"

"Only a moment ago, at least I think it was only a moment. Everything happened so quickly. Tell me, how did you know where I was?"
"I had a warning before the hold up, yesterday. I found out that Zaagi was one of the Anazeh tribesmen and a partisan of Hassan Isar's, so I wasn't far away. You see I've had Yusef—that was my messenger—in Hassan's outfit for more than a year. That's how we know so much about him. That's why I warned you not to go with Michael Gay. Hassan's ways are well known in Syria. I tried to convince you—"
She put her arms around his neck more closely. "I've been an awful fool—I deserved everything that has happened to me. I ought to have known your advice was the best. But I hoped I could succeed in helping you even against your will."
"It was a terrible chance you took," Camilla.
"I realize that, but we needn't speak of Hassan now."

Ronnie released her for a moment and turned to examine a white figure stretched upon the ground not far away. She saw Ronnie bend over. "He fired at me twice and missed!" he said breathlessly as he straightened. "Bad luck for him—good luck for me. I wasn't destined to be killed by Hassan. Perhaps after what has already happened, he knew it."
El Kerak's men were now swarming all over the encampment, taking down the tents and poles and piling everything upon the camels. Camilla watched them for a moment as Yusef emerged with her traveling case. "What is happening?" she asked.

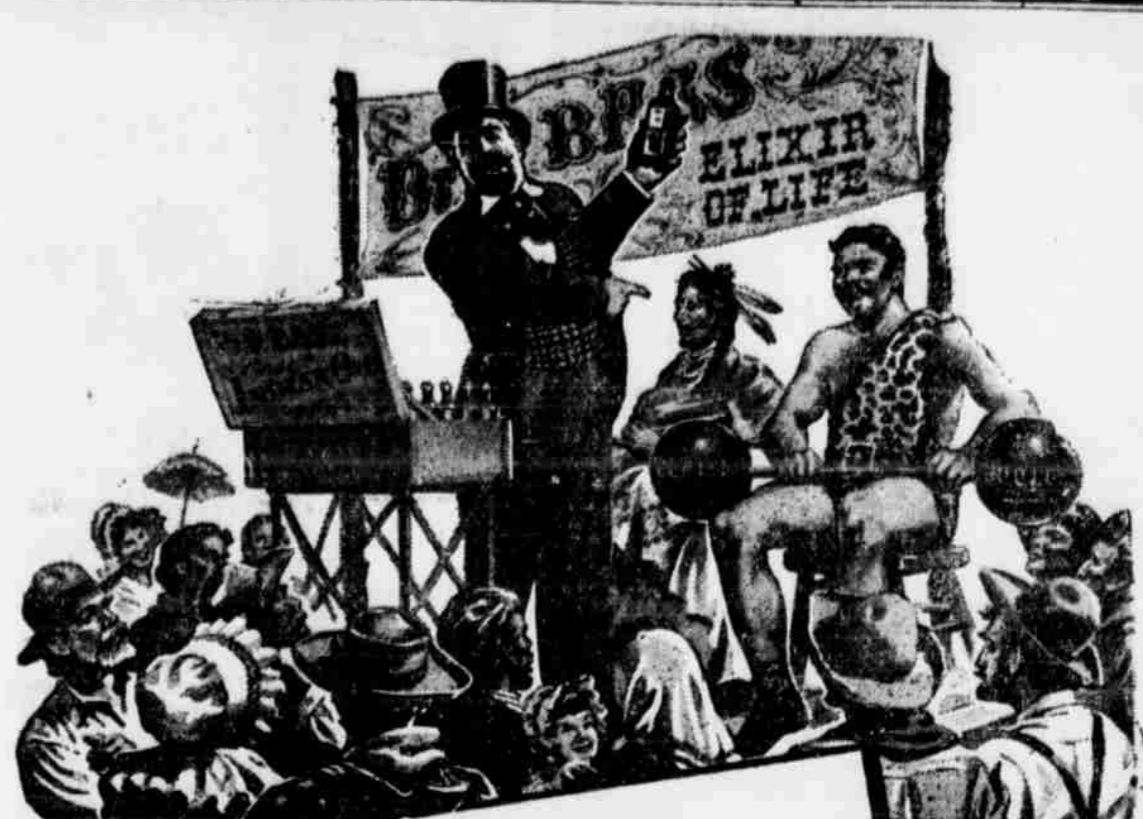

"The spoils of war. It's the custom. We must leave at once, before Hassan's followers return with more men. Tomorrow I'm going to send you to Beirut. News travels fast in the desert, as fast as a horse can gallop."
"And what about Osman Khalil?"
He frowned. "The affair of Osman will have to wait until you're safe."
"Ronnie!" she gasped, as she realized that she had neglected to tell him the thing he most wanted to know, that they had both been working so hard to find out. She had grasped his arm so violently that he turned in amazement. "Ronnie! Osman!"
He stared at her. "I've found out where he is. His address is in the care of Saied Ahmal Affandi at Kufah."
"Ahmal lives at Kufah. He's another descendant of the Prophet—but how did you find this out?"
"She told him and then smiled. "You once said a little luck, a little ingenuity and a lot of impudence makes a good detective. And I've had them all."

There was a moment of silence. In the distance she heard again the sounds that had frightened her the night before, of jackals yelping with hunger. And she understood why the sounds were closer. The same thought that had crossed her mind had come to Ronnie, who called a man and spoke a few words in Syriac. There were four dead. The Anazeh had carried off their wounded.
But the grave diggers were saved their trouble, for before Ronnie was ready to leave the camp, a sheik—it was the one with the long red boots—came alone, asking permission to take charge of Hassan's dead. And the last thing Camilla remembered was the sheik standing guard by the body of Hassan, waiting for his men to appear.

for MODERN living

In the early days, medicine show quacks sold crude oil for a dollar a bottle as a cure for all human ills. Today hundreds of essentials for modern living are made from oil. It supplies heat for the home. It provides power for the Nation's machinery and transportation. It lubricates the gears of industry. It furnishes fuel for your car. It has shortened distances to make our Nation one big community.
America is safer today because of petroleum. The oil man's initiative and enterprise have made available to the United States the world's largest supply of petroleum. In all this, Texas plays a leading part. Last year we supplied 36 per cent of all the Nation's oil, and now have over half of the Nation's oil reserves.
You and every American live more comfortably and safely today because of Texas petroleum.

Large Number Attend Formal Opening Of The Littlefield Appliance Company

The Littlefield Appliance Company of which A. W. Ray is owner and operator, celebrated their formal opening in their new building Saturday, and report that visitors came from far and near to attend, and view the beautiful display of appliances on exhibit in their showrooms.

The Littlefield Appliance Company have a full line of Electrolux refrigerators, natural gas and Butane ranges and stoves as well as hot water heaters on display. They also handle the Butane plants.

Mr. A. W. Ray also owns a like establishment at Olton, from which is serviced the Olton territory, with Mr. N. D. Ray as manager.

In an interview with Mr. A. W. Ray Tuesday, Mr. Ray said that their opening was an outstanding success, that in response to their advertising that large numbers visited their establishment, and that many purchased appliances and refrigerators after viewing the beautiful line they handle.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray asked the Leader to express their appreciation to the many who called Saturday, stating that their presence was appreciated very much; and that in their new building they will be in a position to render the very best in service with the greatest degree of promptness.

First Parity Payments Made

Cotton parity applications from eight Texas counties have been certified for payment, according to B. F. Vance, state administrative officer for the AAA.

From Austin, Camp, Coke, Delta, Galveston, San Patricio, Scurry and Titus counties, 2,047 applications have been certified for payment in the amount of $211,274.50, the AAA official said.

A total of 32 counties have submitted 5,212 cotton parity applications to the state AAA office to date. Vance estimated that 342,000 applications for $22,250,000 would be made in 1941 cotton parity payments to Texas farmers.

The rate of payment for 1941 is 1.38 cents per pound as compared with 1.55 cents per pound last year, however, the average normal yield of lint per acre for the state is 167 pounds for 1941 as compared to 161 pounds for 1940.

Cotton parity payments are made to farmers who plant within their cotton acreage allotments as set up under the agricultural conservation program and are made in addition to regular conservation payments.

Lutheran School To Open September 1 -

Emmanuel Lutheran School will reopen for its new term on Monday, September 1, with Mr. C. T. Boriack to serve as the teacher.

The purpose of this school is to give the children a well-grounded training in the principles of the Christian religion as taught in the Bible. Daniel Webster once said, "Whatever makes men good Christians also makes them good citizens." The secular studies are taught as in the state schools, but from a Christian view-point.

Non-members are welcomed to attend this school. A nominal tuition rate is charged for such.

Such who are interested in sending their children to Emmanuel Lutheran school are requested to see the teacher at 521 West Second Street (one block north and one block west of the Lutheran Church), the week before the school opens.

Home Ecos Project Work To Be On Display Aug. 22

Starting Monday, August 18, a concluding week of the summer projects of the Littlefield High School home economics division has been scheduled.

One of the programs planned by the high school girls and their advisor, Mrs. Dan Hemphill, will be a tea on Friday afternoon, August 22. The project work of the girls will be on exhibit for mothers, friends and all who wish to attend the afternoon program from 3 until 4 o'clock.

During the week, group conferences and projects will bring the students to the high school building from 2 to 4 o'clock as during the first three weeks of the summer. These afternoon sessions will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday rather than on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday as it was previously held. Mrs. Hemphill has asked that the girls who are completing projects will have them accepted not later than Thursday morning. The immovable projects will be visited in the home by the instructor beginning on Monday and most of the homes will be visited during the week.

The summer project has made possible new drapes for the high school dining room, covers for the machines, and a rearrangement of the department rooms for the summer. The closing group work will be a completion of the work begun and putting the department in order for the opening of the fall term.

Other improvements made possible by money earned by the Future Homemakers Club during the long session are a new garbage disposal unit which will be painted by the project group, a removable ironing board, an additional iron, and a large mirror to be hung in the dining room. A flower garden was also started west of the high school and cultivated by the girls.

A large per cent of the girls working on projects selected making their summer wardrobes or sewing for the family. Most of these projects also are divided into two parts, the first of sewing and the second of gardening, canning or yard work. Girls taking this type of project include: Billie Mae Graham, Dee Stephens, Gloria Gotham, Willie Faye Harlin, Modena Hutson, LaNita Heard, June Lentz, Thelma Lunsford, Eureka Tisdale, Tommie Sue Sisson, Glenneta Young, Kathryn Evans, Dorothy Marie Gainous, Oleta Cox, Audrey Ham, Lena Ruth Willingham, La Verne Walraven, Eloise Gamble, Wanda Montgomery, Wilma Lois Russell and Jeanette Peebles.

Several of the girls selected handwork and piecing and quilting to occupy their time during the summer. These include: Ruth Rader, Dorothy Lindley, Bessie Ancinec, Charisie Edwards, Louise Shore, Mary McClanahan, and Dorothy Mills.

Only two of the girls selected room arrangement or redecoration. Bettye Joe McKinnon has redecorated her bedroom and Dorothy Marie Brewster has chosen the kitchen to improve.

Yard work, gardening and canning was chosen by others for their projects. Monte Dell Walker, Charlene Wheeler, Hazel Marie Brown, and Vera Dolle selected this work.

Thirty-four girls, having satisfactorily completed their projects, will receive 1-2 credit toward completion of their high school requirements.

Eggs provide proteins of a quality which are easily and quickly digested, absorbed and used in building and mending tissues.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH Roy Shahan, Pastor

The pastor is back from the revival meeting with the Lueders Church in Jones County and will bring the messages at both morning and evening services.

Some of our people have been ill, but have improved enough to be back in the services. We want you back; others are still sick. We hope you will soon be able to be back in your place. Many have been on vacations but have returned to find your way back to the Lord's House Sunday. We need you. You Need us.

Remember the revival meeting begins on Sunday August 24th.

EMMANUEL LUTHERAN CHURCH (E. H. Riese, Pastor)

There will be NO Sunday School, Bible classes and services next Sunday.

The Building Repair committee will meet on Friday, August 22, at 8:30 P. M. All members of this committee kindly note and be present at this meeting.

AMHERST METHODIST CHURCH

Jenks the Janitor says, "Grandma Pratt in our church can remember when preachers wore celluloid cuffs, Prince Albert coats, and started revivals by declaring war on the devil." "Janitor's children do not eat crackers in the church."

Is not the idea of life and revivals advocated by Jenks still a good one. What does the church need to do in its work to advance? Some say we are getting worse or wiser and weaker, but do weaker folks live longer than strong folks? Our age span has been lengthened some years in the last two decades. In Peter Cartwright's day he tells of a group of Methodist preachers going to conference and being at a hotel for the night, there were several of them disabled for traveling due to drunkenness. This no doubt was true of other churches. We have no drunk preachers now, no dueling, no human beings held as chattels, etc. But we have other sins that need to be fought and not remedied by professing Christians. Fight them in personal life and relations and in the community and nation.

The pastor will be at the church next Sunday for all the services and we shall be glad to see a full house at all the services.

We had a good meeting, we were old and we certainly saw some of the greatest loyalty manifested by folks we ever met. We made some new friends and met some fine people.

Revival To Start Sunday At Oneness Pentecost Church

Revival services will start Sunday night at the Oneness Pentecost Church in the College Heights addition, according to an announcement made this week.

Rev. J. V. Pace of Clovis, N. M., will do the preaching during the revival.

Rev. J. S. Veach is pastor of the church. The entire public is extended a cordial invitation to attend the services, which will be held each night at 7:30 o'clock.

Rev. Jimmie Aiken to Preach At First Presbyterian Church

Rev. Jimmie Aiken of Hereford, Moderator for the Amarillo district Synod, will preach Sunday evening at the First Presbyterian Church here.

The public is invited to attend the services and hear Rev. Aiken.

Meeting Held At Lueders By Rev. Roy Shahan

Rev. Roy Shahan returned Monday from conducting a week's meeting at Lueders, Texas.

Rev. Armstrong of Hardin-Simmons University conducted the singing.

Rev. Shahan reported a good meeting, with much interest. While in school, Rev. Shahan pastored at Lueders three years.

Revival To Begin Fieldton Baptist Church Sunday

The two weeks revival meeting will start Sunday morning at the Fieldton Baptist Church. Rev. Wayne Woodrow will be in charge.

Report On Trip By H. R. Collins Is Continued

H. R. Collins, who is on a trip North, sent the following report of his trip to the Leader, which is written on July 25, 26, 27, 28 and 29, which will be of interest to our readers, and which is as follows:

July 25—We spent today in Yellowstone Park; seen several interesting sights; one was watching them feed the bears; they have 500 black bears and over 300 grizzlies. They tell us that the little bears only weigh 7 to 8 ounces and are about 6 inches long when they first come into the world, though the mother bear weighs from 200 to 600 pounds. We drove 58 miles.

July 26—We drove some interesting drives today; one was the Mt. Washburn winding road up a mountain 10,850 ft.; saw several mountain sheep on top of the mountain; saw a big bunch of Buffalo and several Antelope and some deer. Drove 248 miles, stopped at Hobson, Montana, for the night.

July 27—We drove 290 miles today through Montana wheat country. Wheat was good but the people here sows half of their land in wheat and plows the other half all the summer for wheat the next year. Stayed in Glazier Park, Montana, for the night.

July 28—Lefe the Park and drove over the State line into Canada. Wheat crops are good. The people are nearly all of them farming with of the services, and Dalton Blevins of Fieldton will lead the song service.

Rev. McCauley is pastor of the First Baptist Church at Fieldton.

teams—very few tractors—guess gas is too high for tractor fuel. I bought gas once since we crossed the State line, paid 35 cents per gallon. Stopped for the night at Calgary; drove 228 miles today.

July 29—Drove 197 miles today through some of the prettiest country, nearly all in wheat, oats and hay, meadows. Haven't seen a mule in three days, very few tractors, but seen more good horses, wagons and buggys. Haven't seen a dozen white faced cows in Canada. The cattle are all Holstein and roan Durham, lots of good houses, and the best barns I ever saw. We traveled a long the railroad today. The little towns were about ten miles apart and from two to nine big wheat elevators in every little town, and wheat in every direction as far as can see. I guess we will turn west from here as the paved road don't go much further. We are in Edmonton, Alberta, tonight. It has 92,000 population.

TO JOHN PACE

From a Friend—Ross Mayhew
We'll miss you John
With your care free smile,
And your happy go-lucky way,
Though you can't be
With us any more,
I still can hear you say:
How are you feeling today, Ross?
Can I fix your radio?
I'll bring you some books,
When I come back by,
Gee! the crops are growing slow.
If you need anything just let me know.
We killed a hog today.
Mother will bring you some sausage and ribs.
To help you on your way.
So we can't forget you John, old boy.
And your kind and helping hand,
So we'll look for you on the other side,
In that bright and better land.

WE ARE KEEPING OUR PROMISE

In last week's issue of this newspaper we promised the citizens of Littlefield that we would endeavor to make an adjustment of rates.

In compliance with that promise, we have worked out a reduction in our commercial rate which will put this rate in Littlefield on an equality with the commercial rate in Plainview.

This new rate is effective on all current consumed since your last bill and will apply to all commercial consumers in Littlefield. For your convenience and information we set out the old rate, the new rate, and a table showing the reduction effected.

OLD COMMERCIAL RATE

First 50 KWH used per month at	7c per KWH
Next 200 KWH used per month at	5c per KWH
Next 750 KWH used per month at	3 1/2c per KWH
Next 2,000 KWH used per month at	3c per KWH
Excess KWH used per month at	2c per KWH
Minimum Monthly Bill	$1.50

NEW COMMERCIAL RATE

First 100 KWH used per month at	5c per KWH
Next 900 KWH used per month at	3c per KWH
Next 2,000 KWH used per month at	2 1/2c per KWH
Excess KWH used per month at	2c per KWH
Minimum Monthly Bill	$1.25

TABLE OF COMPARISON

	Min.	50 KWH	150 KWH	375 KWH	750 KWH	1500 KWH
Old Rate	$1.50	$3.50	$8.50	$17.87	$31.00	$54.75
New Rate	1.25	2.50	6.50	13.25	24.50	44.50
Amount Saved	.25	1.00	2.00	4.62	6.50	10.25
% Saved	16%	28%	23%	26%	21%	19%

This new rate amounts to an average reduction of more than 22% and will result in a very substantial saving to our commercial consumers. It will give to Littlefield a commercial rate which compares favorably with the commercial rates in practically every town in Texas of similar size.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected at the regular meeting of the American Legion Monday night, and plans were completed for a group of local legionnaires to attend the state Legion convention in Fort Worth August 15-17.

mage for the season.

New Uniforms
The school board recently ordered 22 new uniforms that will look mighty good on those lanky players who know more about football this year. The suits are expected to arrive this week, and they will be on display in the windows of local stores.

A change in the color scheme has been made in the suits, to help spectators as they witness the games. The backfields and ends will wear silver gray uniforms, trimmed in maroon; while the tackles, guards and center will don the maroon suits trimmed with the silver gray.

Eight Lettermen Back

Coach Murphy reports that the entire first string this year will be composed of experienced gridmen, with eight lettermen from last year's team leading the list. The team will be managed differently from previous years, too, he stated, as there will be no regular captain. The coaches will appoint a captain for each game, and appointments will be made from marks of sportsmanship, attitude and hustle shown by the players in the game previous. At the end of the season, a permanent captain will be appointed, and the lad chosen for this honor will be the one who has led with these qualities, and has been a consistent leader among the other players.

The eight lettermen from last year are: Hugo Beyer, end; Odell Robinson, end; Roy Grissom, tackle; J. B. Sharp, tackle; Calvin Lippard, center; Babe Hammons, back; Roy Hutson, back; and Floyd Holbers, back.

Squadmen John Henry Chapman and J. W. Lambert look good for the other tackles on this year's team.

Four fairly green men will fight among themselves for the guard positions this year: Raymond Redell, Wade Strother, Bud Thurman, and Calvin Carpenter.

Jimmie Zed Robinson will probably split time with Lippard for the center plays.

Bales Is New Find

Backfield men who looked good to the coaches in the spring scrimmages are Gene Clark, Jimmie Yarbrough, Buford Bradshaw, and Douglas Bales. Bales was a new find last spring, and he has the ear marks for a better back than all the others, including the experienced players, so the talk goes up about the football field.

Several of the Wildcats and Coach Murphy will see how good they are at catching fish, in the near future, as the coach plans to take the boys on an outing before school starts.

More interest is manifested in the football team among local citizens this year, and the coaches and their boys will receive support of the entire town as those Wildcats have what it takes, says those who know their football.

Plans have already been made for the coaches and the squad to be guests at the regular monthly luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce in September.

Friday, August 29: "Transportation in Emergencies" by Dr. J. R. Coen.

The purpose of these courses as sponsored by the American Red Cross, is to prepare the average citizens to act in every day emergencies, and to better prepare America for emergency, which might result from present world conditions.

Over 30 persons have already registered for the course.

Others desiring to enroll should report to Mrs. Maude Street at the offices of Dr. Woods and Associates, Littlefield, Texas.

Excess Wheat—

he would be entitled to release 200 bushels of excess wheat from storage as soon as the seeding was completed and the acreage measured. When producers seed acreage equal to their entire wheat allotment and actual production falls below the normal yield, the corresponding amount of excess wheat would be converted to free wheat at the time the wheat crop is harvested.

Under present wheat marketing provisions, farmers with excess wheat may store the excess, secure it by bond or money in escrow and be eligible for a Government loan at 60 percent of the regular loan rate on the excess, or deliver it to the Secretary of Agriculture for relief purposes. If the excess wheat is stored, either in warehouses or on the farm, warehouse receipts or a bond or money in escrow for the amount of the penalty is deposited with the county AAA committees. These deposits are the producers' assurance that none of the excess will be sold, fed, or marketed, or disposed of in any other way, and as long as the excess wheat is stored, no marketing penalty will be due.

Loans on excess wheat, which are made at 60 percent of the regular loan rate after the payment is secured by bond or money in escrow, may run to April 30, 1943. If farm-stored wheat is delivered to the Commodity Credit Corporation in settlement of the loan, the borrower may collect 12 cents a bushel storage allowance. Delivery of the wheat in payment of the loan, however, is considered marketing and calls for payment of the penalty unless a release is secured, the AAA official pointed out.

Farmers who wish to sell or feed their excess may pay the marketing penalty of 49 cents a bushel on the amount of the excess. They will then be free to market or feed their entire wheat crops.

Every wheat farm has a wheat marketing quota, and the only wheat that is subject to penalty when marketed or otherwise disposed of is the smaller of the actual or normal yield on the acres in excess of the farm's acreage allotment.
