Rising Star FFA Judging Team In National Contest

The Rising Star FFA Chapter Land Judging team, composed of Skipper Ezzell, Dick Morrow, Bobby Guyness and Richard Creech, left Wednesday at 2 p.m. for Oklahoma City and the National FFA Land Judging Contest. They were accompanied by their advisor, H. L. Geyer, vocational agriculture teacher in Rising Star High School. It will be the second time a Rising Star FFA team has competed in the national contest.

The team which took second place in the state contest at Stephenville last Saturday, were to compete in the national contest Friday, with results to be announced Saturday (today). Thursday they and all other contestants were to be schooled in the peculiarities of soil conditions about Oklahoma City on which the contest there was based.

At Stephenville last week the team competed against 31 other teams from all over the state, scoring 593 points out of a possible 740. The Stephenville team won first with 621 points.

The dairy judging team of the chapter which won first place in the area contest, went to College Station Saturday morning to compete in the state contest at A&M College.

Study Compares American and Russian Worker

A comparison of Ivan the Russian and Big Tex the American shows that the Soviet workers' Utopia is not all that the Communists would have the world believe, according to a recent study made by the U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

As compared with Big Tex the American, Ivan the Russian has to work 21 times as long for butter, 9 times as long for eggs, 4 times as long for beef and milk, 3 1/2 times as long for potatoes, and 1 1/2 times as long for bread.

In other words, Ivan must work from 1 1/2 to 21 times as long as Big Tex to buy the same amounts of these seven basic foods.

If Ivan supports a family of four, he has to work 28.5 hours, or 62 per cent of the legal 46-hour workweek of most Soviet workers, to provide enough of the seven basic foods.

The worktime required to buy clothing is 7 to 15 times longer for Ivan than for Big Tex. This reflects the clothing shortage in the Soviet Union.

LETTER FROM PERKINS

Germany's No Man Land Borders River

(Editor's Note: The following article was written April 19 in Hanover, Germany.)

By JOSEPH M. PERKINS

After a full week in the mountains and lake country of Switzerland I wanted to visit Berne, the capitol, before leaving. On the day after Easter I arrived there in the late forenoon. Most all the important European cities have tourist agencies in the railroad terminals and I asked how I could see the city and catch a train back to Zurich two hours later. I followed the directions, taking a "trolleybus" to the bear pits and then walking back to the railroad station.

The bear pits are an old Berne institution, dating from several centuries back, and are one of the popular sights of the city. The modern pits are two in number, each about a hundred feet across, and separated by a wall about twelve feet high, and with a four foot fence of iron around the top. There were about 200 spectators there all lined up at the iron fence, men, women, children and dogs. I arrived just in time to see the Keeper raise the two steel doors that let the bears out of their dens and into the open pits.

In each a large bear, brown, a mother appeared. One was accompanied by two little roly-poly cubs, six weeks old, and the other had three cubs of the same age. At this time there was considerable excitement among the spectators as they crowded against the iron fence. A large dog got close enough to see one of the mother bears whereupon he let out a doleful howl which amused the crowd greatly.

The old city of Berne was built upon a rocky bluff by the River Aare, which flows around it on three sides. Today the city occupies a wider area but still it is one of the smaller European capitals. Founded in the 12th century, it has wide, crooked streets, many old statues and picturesque sidewalks arcades that shelter unusually attractive shops. Unfortunately or otherwise these shops were closed, as the day following Easter is a holiday in Switzerland and other European cities. My leisurely stroll from the bear pits back to the rail terminal was by the Houses of Parliament and past beautiful parks and stately old homes. Berne is perhaps the most interesting and attractive city I have visited on the entire trip.

This noon I left Munich and rode all afternoon and early evening on one of the finest German trains across central and eastern Germany to Hanover. In the compartment with me was an official of the German State Railways. He speaks English as well as five other languages, and he has charge of the electrical power for the railway system. He told me many facts concerning the railroads. About 15 per cent of German railroads are electrified and eventually all will be. There is considerable water power on the rivers of So. Germany so electrical power is relatively cheap. There are still many Diesel and steam driven trains however. Speaking of efficiency in motive power he informed me that considering the three types of engines, each of the same horsepower, it requires 20 steam locomotives or 15 Diesels to accomplish the work that can be done by only 10 electric locomotives. Added to this the electric ones require much less servicing.

In late afternoon our train ran along the border between Eastern and Western Germany where a small river makes the boundary line. He pointed out a strip of plowed land on the east side of the river which makes No Man's Land. During Easter Sunday and Monday 4000 Eastern Germans crossed over into West Germany. They are welcomed as more workers are needed in this highly industrialized country. In less than an hour I shall leave for Copenhagen where I hope to find Hans Christian Anderson, or at least some of his delightful kin folks!

Keith Miles Accepts Coaching Job At Mason

Keith Miles, assistant coach at Cisco High School for the past year, has resigned his position at the end of the school year to accept the post of head coach and athletic director at Mason High School, according to an announcement recently by Supt. Arlin Bint.

The resignation of Miles and the decision of James Segrist of Odessa, recently hired to coach in Cisco next fall, to remain there left the Cisco school with only one coach for the 1960-61 school year. Coach Jerrell Rice, the head mentor and only coach left, and Bint will begin seeking new assistants immediately.

Former Breckenridge Resident Recovering From Freak Accident

R. W. (Booger) Nixon, 30, former Breckenridge resident, now a rancher living in the Morton Valley community three and one-half miles north of Eastland, is resting comfortably in the Eastland Memorial Hospital following a freak accident at his home Monday afternoon.

Nixon and a plumber from Eastland had been repairing a pressure pump in a small pump house near the residence. Nixon went back in the pump house to check and close the door when the pump blew up, striking him in the head.

The attending physician said his life was saved by the metal striking his shoulder, before glancing to the head, thus breaking the force.

His wife said approximately 60 stitches were necessary to close the horseshoe shaped wound which started on the forehead just about the eye and curved up into the hair.

Nixon suffered a slight skull fracture above the ear but never lost consciousness.

Red Graham, uncle to Mrs. Nixon, helped rush Nixon to the hospital. Quick action on the part of those present prevented an excess loss of blood and no transfusions were necessary.

Nixon will be in the hospital several days, according to his wife, but is in good condition.

Six Campaigns May Go Into Second Primary

One week from Saturday (today) May 7 will be the day of decision for all of the political races except the six campaigns involving more than two candidates.

These six political posts are for Attorney General, involving Waggoner Carr, Robert Everett, L. (Bob) Looney and Will Wilson.

For Court of Criminal Appeals Judge—Jim D. Bowmer, Lloyd W. Davidson and W. T. McDonald.

For U. S. Congress—R. M. Wagstaff, Roy Skaggs and Omar Burson.

For State Representative—Paul Braubear, Don Kincaid and Scott Bailey.

And for Commissioner Precinct 1—O. R. (Ott) Ervin, J. B. (Tip) Arther and E. W. (Bud) Griffin.

In these six races it is possible that a run-off will have to be held if one candidate doesn't get the majority of votes.

In twelve races there is no doubt of the outcome as there is only one person filed in each of these races and will be elected with no opposition. They are: for U. S. Senator—Lyndon B. Johnson; for Supreme Court Associate Justice, Place 1—Clyde E. Smith; for Supreme Court, Associate Justice, Place 2—Joe Greenhill; for Railroad Commissioner—Ernest O. Thompson; for State Treasurer—Jesse James; for Commissioner of Agriculture—John C. White; for Associate Justice, Court of Civil Appeals, 11th District—Cecil C. Blevins Jr.; and for Precinct 1 Chairman—Herman Hassell.

Seven contested races will be decided Saturday. They are the races involving two candidates. For Governor—Jack Cox and Price Daniel; for Lt. Governor—Ben Ramsey and Don Yarborough; for Chief Justice of Supreme Court—Robert W. Calvert and Robert G. Hughes; for Comptroller of Pub-

Women's Army Corps Seeking The Born WAC

The Women's Army Corps, which celebrates its 18th birthday next month, has begun one of the biggest recruiting campaigns in its history.

A sidelight of that campaign is a search for "the girl who was born to be a Wac." said M. Sgt. Ann Pace, a girl whose 18th birthday is the same as the Corps' (May 14) and who will join the WAC that day. "But the campaign is not by any means limited to this single search.

As the WAC approaches its 20th year, it is beginning to feel the pinch of retirements which threatens to cut back its total strength.

During the next few years, many officers and enlisted women will be retiring. The problem is to recruit enough replacements.

Wacs are now being used in areas and jobs which have been "off limits" to them in the past, and they will be moving into more and more fields in the future.

"For instance missiles," says Sgt. Pace. "Two years ago their abilities were tested in the missile field for the first time. Now its standard procedure to assign Wacs to these projects."

lic Accounts—Robert S. Calvert and B. I. (Bo) Ramsey; for Commissioner of General Land Office—Bill Allcorn and Jerry Sadler; for State Senate—Tom Creighton and Floyd Bradshaw; and for Constable, Precinct 1—Porter Woods and Hoover Pittman.

Polls will open at the Courthouse in Eastland at 7 a.m. Saturday, May 7 and will close at 7 p.m. that day.

Following the close of the polls there will be a precinct convention at the Courthouse at 8 p.m.

Absentee voting which started April 18 will end two days prior to election day.

Gray Matter

By JOE GRAY

I guess it's about time for Eastland to lay claim to another first that most of us haven't thought much about in the last few years. And I suppose I'll be stirring up a hornet's nest in mentioning this subject, but regardless of what people in the little city 10 miles to our west think, or say on the subject, here it is.

Eastland and Ranger played the first football game held in the state of Texas. They did! And they played at Connellee Park back in the days before proper lighting standards were erected for night time ballgames.

Old Connellee Park used to be the scene of much activity. Basically it was a ballgame park built for the Eastland entry in the old West Texas League, a Class D league in organized baseball, but a lot of other things happened in Connellee Park too.

The high school used it for baseball, track and football for years. Some of the old-time guests never played anywhere else while in high school here. Ed T. Cox Jr., about the greatest footballer I believe I ever laid my eyes on, played all of his high school ball in Connellee Park.

We used to use it for other things too. Dan Moody spoke there one hot summer day in his race for governor. That must have been about 35 years ago, but it seems as if it were only the day before yesterday. Circuses have been held there and adjoining the baseball park was a racetrack for horses. You see, that wasn't as bad as it sounds, as the day of the horse hadn't completely passed then as it has now.

These days you'll find grown people who've never sat on a horse. In those days if a fellow didn't sit on a horse once in a while he did an awful lot of walking.

The first Eastland County Fair I remember seeing was in Connellee Park. They used to hold just about everything in that park from baseball to flower shows. Although built as a baseball park for Raleigh Fairburn to pitch to Tom Amis, Connellee Park served as a center of community life for a lot of things.

From California Ralph Simmons calls to my attention something that I had forgotten about, but now that he has mentioned it, I think he's right.

Ralph says Eastland played Ranger twice in 1927, that's the year we took them to such a cleaning in the Oil Jubilee game over in Ranger during the regular scheduled season. Eastland played 11 men in that game and it's the only football game I can remember seeing in which one club did not make a substitute the entire game. I don't think it was an account of the boys being iron men or anything like that that induced Coach Dave Pena to use only 11 men in the game. I think it was because he had to do the best with what little he had. He only had 16 men on his squad that year.

Earlier in the season of 1927 Eastland and Ranger played a pre-season, or practice game as we used to call them, in Eastland during the Eastland County Fair. It was played in Connellee Park at night. The field wasn't properly lighted for night ball but that didn't make any difference to those rugged individuals who played for the love of the game and not for the glory of seeing their names in the sports pages.

Ralph Simmons points out some things that took place during that game that I didn't know about, or if I did I had forgotten in the meantime. Ralph played right half-back for Eastland that evening and the memory of it is fresh with him for more reasons than one.

Not only was Dave Pena one of the finest coaches to coach anywhere, but he also had some ideas on training that were a little strange to some of his students. One idea he had was not to allow water on the grounds when his club was practicing. He didn't want his boys to drink too much water while heated from exercise.

During this nighttime game, however, things didn't work out as the coach intended. First of all, the lighting wasn't good. It was so dark on the playing field the players had a little trouble distinguishing one side from another. Actually the field was only lighted with 100-watt bulbs strung about in spots where the might do the most good at the boundary of the playing field. Also the display booths were at the sidelines of the playing field.

One dispenser of merchandise who gave free samples of his product to fair visitors was from Mineral Wells doing business as the Crazy Water Company.

All during the game Eastland players going in and out of the game took themselves to the Crazy booth for a cool drink of refreshing water.

No wonder Eastland won that game. The boys had to wind things up and get on home. They didn't have time to fool around with the Bulldogs.

And I noticed in the big city papers the other day where another era comes to an end. In Barre, Mass. the town band has decided not to play any concerts this year. For 50 years the town's band has played a Wednesday night concert each summer evening, sometimes in the heyday of town bands they played to crowds of as large as 10,000 people. But at last year's attendance only averaged 200 each week, the city fathers have decided to discontinue the practice of weekly band concerts.

If it weren't for high school bands today I don't guess there would be a band in any of the smaller towns these days. Band music and public gathering aren't what they used to be. In some of the smaller towns where music is a sort of inborn culture it wasn't unusual to find a dozen or so bands in one small town.

In South Texas, for example, the town of New Braunfels, with a strong German population, used to have bands playing almost every corner in the summer time.

It's not that people don't like music as they did. It's the influence of radio and television that has done things to public gatherings.

Politicians used to get large crowds out to hear them make the political appeal to the voters each election year. Nowadays one hardly knows it's election year except when he happens to stumble on a candidate on the radio or teevee. The oldtime political speaking is as dead as the oldtime band concert.

We've had our share of the band concerts here in Eastland. The first ones started out under the cottonwood trees on the north side of the old courthouse. With the oil boom and the new courthouse we built a bandstand on the lot just south of the railway station. That's the lot occupied by Pipkin's warehouse. For years we held a band concert there once a week in the summer and it was something a lot of us little boys used to look forward to even though the lawn around the bandstand grew up in grassburrs in the summertime that we could hardly get around barefoot on the grass.

But we wouldn't have had it any other way. I was talking to a professional do-gooder the other day about how things have changed. He made some sort of crack about that almost caused me to flip my wig. He said something about times being so good now that young boys don't have to go barefoot in the summertime.

Can you imagine that? Someone thinking it was some sort of underprivileged condition in life that caused us boys to go barefoot. We went barefoot because we wanted to not because we didn't have shoes. We looked forward to going barefoot and one of the finest things that could happen to a young boy was to find the weather warm enough to cast aside shoes and socks and walk through a sandbar as barefoot as the day he was born.

Wasn't it John Greenleaf Whittier who said something "blessing upon thee, little man, barefoot boy with shoes of tan..." or something like that.

The poet knew something about living life some do-gooders don't know anything about. Going barefoot is part of being a boy, and if things get to where children aren't allowed to run around barefoot in the summertime it'll be time for Ben Hammer to pat me in the face with his spade.

Life under those conditions won't be worth living. And if youngsters can't have a little fun in living what are we oldsters doing anyway?

I'm sure glad no psychologist told me I went barefoot because I didn't know better until after I got grown. I'm glad I didn't know it at the time, as I might have been frustrated about my bare feet.

Xi Alpha Zeta Meets With Mrs. McElreath Mon.

The Xi Alpha Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met in the home of Mrs. Dorsey McElreath Monday night with Mrs. Bill Leslie, president, presiding.

Plans for the Founders Day Banquet to be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Lone Cedar Country Club were discussed—led by Mrs. Bill Hoffmann, banquet chairman.

She related the incident, as told by a Catholic Priest there, of how the Chinese people would trade food sent them by Americans for noodles, one of the few foods they knew how to prepare. The priest reported that the Chinese "black market" would trade one pound of noodles for five pounds of flour. He then helped the people by teaching them to manufacture noodles for the Chinese.

During the social hour the group was served refreshments and made place cards for the banquet.

Present were the following members: Mmes. Les Strawn, Willis Moore, F. W. Graham, Bill Leslie, Mike George, R. M. Sneed, Fehrman Lund, M. H. Perry, Bill Walters, Bill Collings, Virgil Moore, Bill Hoffmann and the hostess, Mrs. McElreath.

Scriptures pertaining to the lesson were read by various members. The program was closed by a round table discussion of the lesson.

The devotional was given by Mrs. L. C. McNatt. The meeting was then closed with the benediction in unison after which a refreshment plate was served to each member by the hostess.
