my political activities was not passed upon."

Borah, present for the first time since the questioning of Cannon began, asked if he did not understand that he was in the same capacity as if he had been subpoenaed.

"I did not understand that," Cannon replied. "Of course, I do not wish to put my legal judgment against yours."

"Well, you understand now?" asked Senator Blaine, Repn. Wis. "Well, I don't know. I have the statement of Senator Borah to that effect."

Chairman Caraway told the Bishop that E. C. Jameson, New York financier, testified before the committee that he had given Cannon $55,000 and that Deets, Pickett of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals said he gave Cannon $5,000.

"The records show only $17,000 of the Jameson contribution was reported by you," said Caraway. "Have you any explanation to make?"

"Well, has the committee decided on the question I have raised about its right to ask me that?"

"No. We will reach that when we come to it."

"I will say Mr. Pickett stated the exact facts about the $5,000 he gave me on Feb. 12, 1928. They wished my speech 'prohibition repeal unthinkable,' to be circulated as prohibition literature. It was not campaign literature."

Relates How New And Different Medicine Banished Ills Of Her Daughter

MISS DOROTHY RHYNE

"My ten year old daughter, Dorothy, has been troubled with chronic constipation ever since a small child," said Dorothy's mother, Mrs. J. D. Rhyne, 616 East Eleventh street, Amarillo. "This condition caused her to become nervous, and she frequently suffered with bilious attacks and dizzy spells. Often she had severe headaches, and I had to keep her home from school for two or three days at a time. She was very flighty, had no pep or vitality, and tired very easily."

"After Konjola so thoroughly relieved me of my ailments, I decided to give it to Dorothy. It is amazing how quickly this medicine went to work. Now she is like a different child. She has only taken Konjola two weeks, and I am going to have her continue the treatment until she is again in perfect health. I highly recommend Konjola to mothers of ailing children."

No wonder Konjola is a beautiful household word in tens of thousands of American homes. Here is a medicine for old and young; for all the family. A complete treatment of from six to eight bottles is recommended. Konjola is sold in Eastland, Texas, at Toombs & Richardson Drug re.—Adv.

Couple Meet After Three Hundred Years

DETROIT, June 11.—Two Old World lovers have been reunited here after a separation of 300 years which defies all ordinary conceptions of romance.

In 1623 the great master Rembrandt painted the portraits of a well-to-do couple in Amsterdam. Years later, the pictures were sold and eventually found their way to America, that of the husband becoming the property of the late Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati and the Lady with a Fan going to

Mrs. Francis Neilson of Chicago. When the Detroit Art Museum collected 78 Rembrandts for its splendid exhibition of pictures from the master's brush, the picture from the Taft collection was requested, and although pictures from this collection scarcely ever are loaned, an exception was made so that the Dutch burgher and his wife might meet again on the walls of the gallery after 300 years.

THIS TICKET COSTS COPPER

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 11.—"O-o-o Captain!" a feminine voice trilled over the telephone, "about that ticket—"

"Never you mind," broke in Captain Hulet Smith, chief of Memphis police, "just come on down to the station, we'll straighten it out."

A slip of a miss tripped into headquarters a few minutes later and announced, "It'll cost you seventy-five cents, Captain."

"Why?" exclaimed the exasperated chief, "I thought you were talking about a traffic ticket."

"Oh, no, bunco partner," shot back the lassie as she pocketed three quarters and hurried out the door.

said. It passed through Cape Cod Canal about 5 p. m., yesterday, and has not been reported since that time. The Pinthis carried 12,000 barrels of fuel.

Early advices indicated that all hands went down with the wrecked and fire-ravaged tanker.

(Editors' Note—The tanker Pinthis is listed in Lloyd's Register as a vessel of 1111 tons, owned by the Lake Tankers Corp. The Pinthis is 206.8 feet long, 36.6 feet in breadth; 16.8 feet deep, and was built in 1919 at Newburgh, N. Y. Its port of registry is Fall River.)

Meanwhile radio distress signals had gone out from the crippled Fairfax, a Merchants & Miners Line boat. Nearest to the scene was the steam Gloucester of the same line, and this vessel soon came to the rescue.

With flaming oil streaming along the decks of the Fairfax, it was not possible immediately to lower boats for transferring survivors to the rescue ship. Some of the women passengers became hysterical during the long wait until the fire had been controlled.

The burned and injured were first lowered into boats and taken to the Gloucester. Women and children followed, and finally the men passengers.

Search of the waters at the scene of the tragedy was impossible early today because of the fog. It was believed that the entire crew of the tanker, estimated at 15, and some 18 passengers and seamen of the Fairfax who leaped overboard had perished.

While the Gloucester was speeding toward Boston with the injured and other survivors, one of the Fairfax's passengers, an unidentified woman, died from burns.

On the rescue ship's arrival here, the injured were taken to Carney Hospital in three ambulances which had been waiting at the pier.

Captain A. C. Bunting of the Gloucester, on reaching Boston this morning, reported that the collision occurred off Humarock Gas Buoys No. 4 at 8 a. m. EDT.

The extent of the disaster did not become apparent here until many hours after it occurred. The first advices received from Captain Brooks of the Fairfax stated that eight persons had been injured.

No mention was made of the fate of the tanker's crew or of the fact that some 18 Fairfax passengers and seamen leaped overboard.

Government authorities were puzzled as to why neither the Boston Navy Yard nor any coast guard station received a call for assistance.

At 8 a. m., the Fairfax, badly damaged, was reported proceeding to Boston under its own power. Surviving members of her crew of 70 were aboard her, it was stated.

Captain F. A. Gower, in charge of the Shell plant at Fall River, main distributing base for New England said that while he has no definite information that the lost tanker was the Pinthis, that craft should have been near the scene of the disaster at the time it occurred.

The Pinthis was captained by Albert V. Jones of Fall River and manned by a crew of approximately 20, whose names were not immediately available. It left Fall River yesterday, Gower said.

Criminal Court Grants Retrial Of Murder Case

Case Against Dallas Man, Given 20-Year Sentence Is Ordered Tried Again

AUSTIN, Tex., June 11—A new trial was ordered by the court of criminal appeals here today for Lawrence Elam, who had been given a 20 year sentence in Dallas county on a charge of killing Albert Griner on Dec. 18, 1928. The new trial was ordered because the district court refused to allow Elam to offer testimony explanatory of a liquor indictment, which went before the jurors. Elam claims the indictment was a "frame up."

Thomas F. Whiteside Jr., of Houston was refused a rehearing. The court had reversed an 18 year sentence against him when a jury found him guilty of homicide in connection with the death of his wife Rosa. At his second trial he was given 20 years for murder. Mrs. Whiteside died from injuries received in a plunge from a second story window. It was testified she was driven to the leap by fear of her husband. The court in refusing a rehearing today declared it unnecessary to show he had intent to kill in order to support his conviction.

Rehearings were also refused Lus G. Arcos under death verdict as the slayer of Joe Barrantes in Medina county; Felipe Zuniga under 35 year sentence as the slayer of Benito Ramon in Webb county and Tozo Ray, under 15 years sentence on conviction of robbing the First State Bank of Ovalo of $2,800.

Proceedings of the court were: Affirmed—W. A. Lacy from Harris county; Houston Jenkins from Harris; Jim Robinson from Clay; Ernest Sweet from Dallas; Earl Renois from Taylor (2 cases); Howard Heard from Brown;
