

MOB TRIES TO PREVENT ARREST OF LYNCHERS

That reminds me...

Blanton Plays Home Loan Delay In His District

Today's issue of the Telegram brings into a spirit of Thanksgiving and the business interests are offering every thing that you need to make Thanksgiving a real happy day.

ABILENE, Texas, Nov. 28.—A terrific verbal blast was set off under the jam of home loan owners' relief applications in the Dallas office this week by Congressman Thos. L. Blanton of Abilene who directed a searing letter of criticism to James Shaw, Texas manager of the Home Owners' Loan corporation.

Have you paid your school tax? If you only knew the importance of this item at this particular time.

Giving figures (in Taylor county) several hundred applications filed with the Dallas office have resulted in 18 appraisals, five abstracts for examination, only two deeds of trust actually executed.

It is a good thing that most of the teachers are women. If they were men they would have quit long ago and hunted something else.

Pointing out that in July, over four months ago, he had sent to the Dallas office appointments for all appraisers and all attorneys for the 19 counties of his district, Judge Blanton asserts that he has had many complaints from persons who claim that their homes have been foreclosed upon since they made application to the Dallas office.

So let's all get busy and pay up. You'll feel better, the school teachers will feel wonderful and watch the cash registers ring when they get their money regularly.

Taylor—Several hundred applications, 18 appraisals ordered, five abstracts returned for examination, only two deeds of trust executed.

Union Service Wednesday Night Baptist Church

There will be a union Thanksgiving service at the First Baptist church Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock in which all churches of the city are invited to take part.

Many Complaints

The letter continues, "There is something the matter. If loans can be made in the cities and states in the east, they ought to be made in Texas. Every time a news item from the home loan office is published in the daily press, bragging about what has been made elsewhere, it is like throwing a red flag in a mad bull's face for the home owners of my section to read, when they know that they haven't even been able to get their applications appraised, and in most cases haven't even had an acknowledgment of the receipt of such application by your office."

Austin Becomes "Little Washington" As Relief and Politics Talked

AUSTIN, Tex.—Austin has become a veritable little Washington as the war against winter went forward.

A sample relief day: One thousand mayors, county judges and workers confer on CWA routine. State Relief Commission meets from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. Highway Commission works from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. on NRA road projects. State Subsistence Home-stead Advisory Committee considers sites.

The speed with which 100,000 Texans were changed from doles to civil work payrolls has been breath-taking. First pay checks for the men already are in the hands of county administrators. One administrator from each county was held here after a general conference. He was placed under bond and he has crisp U. S. Treasury checks that he will scatter Saturday.

Mass instruction on the forms that must be filled and the rules that must be followed was given the administrators by the aid of amplifiers. Then came a day's quiz with questions asked by the pupils.

Relief Director Lawrence Westbrook and his staff answered as many as they could. Some have not been answered at Washington, yet.

"Can't someone give us a list of the initiated bodies and what each one does?" pleaded a confused county judge as AAA, CWA, NRA and others buzzed in his ears.

"If you find anyone that can get him to give it to me, too," said Earle P. Adams, member of the State Relief Commission. "I do not think anyone knows."

Relief Commissioner Bob Holliday of El Paso, says that Assistant Relief Director J. F. Reed comes as near knowing as anyone.

"It's really astounding what he knows about all this," said Holliday. Reed, reared in Galveston and a ranch owner in the hill country, is said to have been picked for his difficult job by Spenser Coke Stevenson of the Texas House of Representatives.

When Holliday believes in anyone he believes in them. Here is what he says of Mack Saxon, football coach at the Texas School of Mines at El Paso:

"Take 22 of the best men on the University of Texas football squad. Let the university coaches pick eleven of them. Give Saxon the ones they leave. In a month, Saxon's team will beat the University's pick."

Saxon has the faculty of making a football team give all its got—and a little more, is Holliday's explanation.

State investigations are running neck and neck with relief activities at the state capitol. sample day for them: House committee hears Rangers tell of alleged bank robbery frame-up. Senate Committee renews finance probe started two years ago. House and Senate Joint Committee hears reports of relative-employees. Eng 31? fsoh.-MNShrlducmfvbb

Investigations by legislative committees have become so thick they overlap. The committee that started out to probe job selling took testimony on the relationship between a board chairman and an employee. Both the committee on job selling and the committee on nepotism took testimony about fund collection in the state departments. A Ranger captain responding to a committee call sat patiently in the House committee room until a Senate committee messenger found him there and took him to that committee.

Contracts of a Texas Ranger's life were revealed incidentally before the House committee. Ranger Sergeant Joe Osaba, trying to recollect the time he talked to another ranger, mused: "Let me see, I got the machine gun and my Winchester, took them out to the house. Then I took the children to Sunday school."

After the committee session Osaba denied he issued a statement at Dallas that political pull was being used at Austin to block an investigation. Osaba said he was before the grand jury on the matter at the time, and that he was impersonated from a Dallas hotel by telephone. He thinks he knows who did it, too.

Texas Second Racing Meet Will Start Thanksgiving

By United Press
HOUSTON, Tex.—Texas' second racing meet since the legalization of pari-mutuel betting will begin here Thanksgiving day with the opening of the $600,000 Epsom Downs racing plant for a 27-day session.

The plant, patterned after the famous Epsom Downs of England, will accommodate 40,000 spectators and could take care of 100,000 people if necessary, its operators estimate.

More than 1,000 horses are expected to be stabled by Thanksgiving day. Half the number were here 10 days before the meet and construction was ordered rushed on six more stables.

Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson and her husband, James E. Ferguson, will be guests of honor at the gala opening. Other state dignitaries and prominent sportsmen will be included among the expected 30,000 spectators.

In the parade of thoroughbreds will be some of the outstanding horses of the country, operators said. Among them will be Quatra Bras II, full brother to Sir Galahad, and Dr. Freehand, winner of the $40,000 Preakness.

Representative stables of the nation will have entries in the races. The list of owners includes William Gallagher and J. L. Aste of New York; Ed McCuan and the Audley Farms of Kentucky, C. S. Bancroft of California, Jim Ellis of Evansville, Ind., and W. T. Waggoner, owner of Arlington Downs and the Three D Stables.

Jack Westrope and Wayne Wright, two of the nation's foremost jockeys, are expected to ride during the meet. Both carried away honors at Arlington Downs' recent 21-day meet.

Opening of Epsom Downs will be triumph for Edward J. Hussion, president of the Texas Breeders and Racing Association, and Lou Smith, manager of the plant.

Hussion, prominent Houston business man and political leader, was instrumental in getting legislative approval of pari-mutuel betting in Texas. Through him the Texas Breeders and Racing Association was interested in building of Epsom Downs.

Smith, who is credited with getting betting legalized in New Hampshire, is Hussion's first lieutenant. He owns Kings Park in Montreal, Canada, famous horse racing track.

The main grand stand, said to be a replica of the one at Epsom Downs in England, will seat 9,000 people. It is painted green and white, the colors used throughout the plant with the exception of the red and white fence around the track.

A modern clubhouse adjacent the grand stand has an elaborate mezzanine in the rear racing the track. It has a capacity of 4,000.

A terrace in front of the grand stand provides standing room for 25,000 and operators said a bridge could be built over the track to the infield where thousands more could watch the races.

PARIS.—In case you happen to be a prospective Paris client who likes to let your "whimsies" out on a long leash now and then, the Big House couturiers may be said to have gone slightly haywire in their efforts to please everybody.

The old business of things being definitely this or that has given place to the new business of catering to individual notions, forms, personalities and figures. If you like a hat with a brim on it and a Queen Mary feather standing up squarely in front you will be told that it is perfectly correct despite the slick-papered magazines singing about the beret and close fitting bonnet.

POTATO BUGS LIKE PETUNIAS
EAST LANSING, Mich.—By combining their flower garden with their potato patch, farmers may grow better crops of potatoes, Michigan State college entomologists believe. Potato bugs will leave the potato plant for a petunia plant any time, they explained. While many farmers would rather have petunias eaten by the bugs than their potato plants. Spraying is a more practical method, they advised.

New Aggie Coach Best Athlete In His School Days

SHREVEPORT, La. — When Homer Norton was graduated from Birmingham Southern he received the school's medal as being the best all-around athlete in the 1916 graduating class. He was 21 years old.

He had lettered in football, basketball, baseball and track. It was something of a record. His academic work was better than the average of his graduating class.

The fall following his graduation Norton again entered the portals of a college. He became an instructor in Centenary college here and was part-time coach of all sports.

Four years later the number of boys registered at Centenary was 50. Centenary aspired to have a football team and Norton, working under Bo McMillan, famous Centre college back, spent hours with untrained football candidates molding a team.

Eight years ago McMillan left Centenary for Kansas Aggies and Norton, the one-time star of gridiron baseball diamond, an ace basketball player and track man, remained with one assistant to handle football affairs of the little Methodist school here. Success of the Norton trained teams made football history in the southwest. Centenary whipped Southwest conference teams year after year, piled up a record of undefeated games which few of the universities or colleges in the southwest could match.

His material was green high school boys, the "leftovers" from major schools and junior schools the best of the football material.

Thus, without native football skill from which to mold a team and without reserves or beefy men, his record is outstanding.

Norton is a stockily built, soft-spoken fellow with a kindly manner that wins the confidence of his youthful charges. He believes it is necessary to develop a fervent "desire and determination" to win among his men as to inculcate football knowledge.

In his ability and capacity to arouse the winning spirit he is reminiscent of the late Knute Rockne, although he does not have the Notre Dame man's bubbling personality. He is of the patient sort who never despairs of teaching a green high school boy how to pass, kick, block or run.

This year's team had but 30 eligible men. Fifteen or 16 played in each game. Manning Smith, Quarterback, played every minute of every game in 1932. He was never hurt. Norton, of necessity, must emphasize physical condition and he had played some major teams with but 13 men.

His football tactics are probably more versatile than any in the southwest. Lack of reserve strength has led to the diversity of the offensive game. On the defense, he trains his men to adapt themselves to the particular opponents' method of attack. It differs as the ball is worked up and down the field.

The ability of his eleven to defend its own goal line when an opponent threatens to score was best demonstrated when the University of Texas played Centenary this year.

The Longhorns drove deep into Centenary territory, stood inside the 10-yard line with four tries to make a first down and score, but failed.

SOME of us feel that we must serve turkey once a year even if we must be reduced to the proverbial "crust of bread" for a week thereafter. Consequently, the choice of the patriotic bird is of great importance.

Keep in mind the "points" of a good turkey. A turkey to be in its prime should be of last year's hat size. The general condition of the flesh should be firm, the cartilage at the rear end of the breast soft and pliable, the breast itself broad and plump, the neck short, the "drumsticks" dark colored and smooth and the skin covering the entire bird smooth, fair and unbroken.

Consider the feet or "spurs" of the turkey. Short claws indicate a tender bird, one who has not had "to scratch for a living," while long spurs mean a tough and perhaps quite venerable bird.

The flesh of milk-fed stock is white, a layer of fat over the breast but no layers of fat under the skin on the legs and thighs.

Corn-fed stock has a rich yellow appearance with layers of yellow fat under the skin.

Soak Giblets in Salt Water

Your butcher will "dress" the turkey for you. This means he will draw it, discarding all the viscera except the heart, liver and gizzard. These he usually drops loosely back inside the turkey. If the gizzard is not opened, make a slash with a sharp knife through the thickest part down to the sack, taking care not to cut the sack. Peel the outside away from the inner sack and discard the sack. Put giblets—heart, liver and gizzard into a bowl of cold salted water and let stand an hour or two.

You will have to "singe" the turkey. This means holding it over a flame, turning it from side to side, so that the tiny hairs left on the skin after picking are all singed off.

Look for any pin-feathers that may have escaped plucking.

At the tail of the turkey is a tiny oil sack. This must be carefully cut away.

Rub inside of turkey well with salt. Then thoroughly wash it.

THE success of any holiday or company dinner depends largely upon the roast and the accompaniment chosen for each variety of meat is of utmost importance. Each roast has its own particular sauce or gravy that is peculiarly suited to serve with it. While tradition has combined certain foods such as turkey and cranberry sauce, there are other combinations quite as agreeable and pleasing.

The following list suggests suitable combinations for the roasts which are usually chosen for festive winter meals.

Suggested Combinations

The various cuts of beef require special accompaniments. A rolled or standing rib roast is served with horseradish sauce and a brown gravy if the meat is well done. Done rare, the natural meat juices take the place of the gravy and the roast is served "au jus."

Yorkshire pudding also is the proper accompaniment to this type of roast.

Filet of beef is served with mushroom sauce and a tart spicy jam or conserve. Even if the filet is roasted in the piece, a brown gravy should not be served.

Roast lamb is served with mint jelly or sauce, currant jelly or cranberry jelly. Brown gravy is usually made in the pan in which the meat was roasted.

Pork is served with apple sauce or cranberry sauce. A gravy is seldom used.

Veal is good with a tart jelly or jam. Cranberry sauce is excellent.

WASHINGTON DAILY LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The five-course dinner for 15 cents is seriously threatened. And the cheap after-dinner stogie.

Restaurant checks must soak the customer at least twice the cost of the food to the proprietor, under the restaurant code about to be submitted to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

And the cigar industry insists that what this country needs is no more two-for-five-cent cigars.

THE provisions which would mark up the average selling price of food 100 per cent above the average food cost and mark up each dish at least 40 per cent would not affect most of the 300,000 restaurants which already operate on some such basis.

But they would hit the cheap restaurants where millions—largely white-collar workers already harassed by rising prices—must eat. So those clauses may be knocked out to protect clients of the "quick-and-dirty." There'll be a good fight on them, anyway.

The cigar code forbids sale of more than three cigars for a dime. About 75 per cent of the cigar business is in cigars costing a nickel or less, compared with 47 per cent five years ago.

GEN. BLANTON WINSHIP, our chief adviser to Liberia, who helped devise a plan which would place the black republic under an American dictator, held the longest of all State Department press conferences—and the funniest.

Correspondents were avid for Russian news. Undersecretary Phillips gave them some, then introduced Winship to tell them all about Liberia.

Winship monologued for nearly half an hour. Then he paused an instant for breath and reached for more notes.

"Thanks, general," yelled the correspondents—and piled as one man out through the door, while Winship stood with open mouth.

HOLLYWOOD'S cowboys have formed a union and demand recognition under the movie code. They name themselves the Riding Actors' Association of Hollywood, comprising "Russian Cossacks, Rifles, Arabs, Hindoo American Indians, Mexican Rurales, Canadian Mounties, and top-cavalrymen of many nations—Chinese, German Uhlans, French Hussars and Bengal Lancers" and "a number of English horsemen and flat-saddle riders and, most important, the American cowboys—the men who have put the punch in pictures for 25 years."

What do the boys want? Casting and supervision by horse experts. Also, minimum wage of $5 or $7.50, with rented costumes, and $25 a day for speaking parts.

Travels With An Old Ford

By O. FORD, Olden

Well I been havin' lots of experiences lately. Sunday I attempted a non-stop flight from Graham to Olden in my old gray Ford coupe but it didn't work out. I was wedged in that old car for four hours of the space beside my wife and aunt who occupied the other two seats. Three children were draped over the back in artistic fashion on comforts and pillows, trying to hang on and making a desperate attempt to act nonchalant. You see two of them were young ladies, of high school age, and were naturally willing to sacrifice safety and comfort for style. Though how you could find anything stylish about my old Ford you may say.

Stopping for gas at a filling station in Graham, my bitter half remarked, "Henry, I saw those people who passed in that big car, look at us and smile. I imagine it is someone we know, don't you?" "No," I replied, "I imagine they tried to keep from laughing out loud. If I saw a vehicle like this covered with folks and bundles, I guess I'd grin too."

Of course my wife didn't like that either. She seldom likes my remarks though. Well, things went pretty good awhile but our radiator sprung a leak and after that it was just a question of how far in the next filling station. It got embarrassing to me to have to pull out every one and ask for water and nothing else. Bet I didn't pass a one up.

Driving along, wondering if the water would hold out to the next station or if the kids were still on board, I was going to be able to hold out until we got home without being mashed flat, and all such thoughts, I didn't get to enjoy much of the scenery which really is great this time of year on that road from Caddo to Ranger. Every now and then my wife would exclaim about the beautiful view or the beautiful fall coloring or the gorgeous leaves; but somehow or other nothing looked very beautiful to me. I am like that. You get me in a corner where I can't hardly get my breath and I don't notice beauties of nature a bit.

Well we were driving along not making any more noise than a hay baler or a threshing machine with asthma, when we came up to a herd of cattle being driven down the highway by a lone horseman. There must have been about 30 head in the bunch. Well it was always a puzzle to me to tell which way just ONE cow would go. So trying to figure out which way 30 would take, was almost more than I could do. But do you think my wife appreciated that fact. No, sir. From the time I entered that bunch, stopping, starting, backing, side-swiping, and maneuvering more than an army war pilot in enemy territory, my wife "ah-ed" and "oh-ed" and "oh my goodness-ed" until I was a nervous wreck. She dug me in the ribs, and jerked my arm and tried to help me in every way she could think of; but do you know I couldn't appreciate it at all.

About that time we attempted to pass the great grand-daddy of that bunch and he had horns like the real old-timers, too. He didn't seem to care whether we went by or not. Once it began to look like he meant to argue the question. But I never had been trained to argue with an older gentleman so I sort of slowed down to let him ahead. Well at that, my wife went into a caninption fit and tried to look back to see if the kids were still on and at the same time, she managed to give me a loving job in the ribs and she yelled, "Henry, hurry up. Don't stop here. Goodness gracious, go on by him. He will kill the kids!"

Well I never will know just how we finally made it but I came to up the road a bit out of the danger territory and felt like Washington felt when he crossed the Delaware or Hannibal felt when he crossed the Alps. I tell you that last job in my ribs almost gave me lumbago or is it neuritis? Anyway, it was a breath-taker. Well after having a flat and managing to unload the kids and the junk until I could get to the tools and change tires, then re-load the whole caboodle back in again, and a few more station stops for water and almost running into a truck when I tried to dodge a friendly poke in the slats once, we finally arrived home.

Well next day I looked pale, everyone said, and I didn't wonder at it either. It was a mystery to me that I wasn't bedfast. I determined to forget it all though and thought it best not to mention it at all, but you can imagine how I felt yesterday evening when I came in and heard my wife telling a lady friend: "Oh, yes. We had a LOVELY time. The woods are beautiful now. The fall leaves are GORGEOUS and I think it does one good to get out at least every Sunday, don't you? I think we will go again this week-end."

Say, I got out right then; but it raised my blood pressure past the danger mark. This Sunday is going to be SAFE and SANE. If I don't get a new car soon, I'm going to do a Robert Louis Stevenson and do my traveling with a donkey. It's safer.

Auto Tags Carry Out Black Motif

CHICAGO.—Black and white, and black and yellow, will be the two favorite color combinations in 1934 license plates in the United States, the American Automobile association has reported.

Fourteen states will retain the same colors they used in 1933 during the coming year, but will reverse them. The association reported a distinct departure from the "blues" of the past few years.

Six states will have white figures on a black background for 1934 plates. They are Florida, Minnesota, Mississippi, Rhode Island and Virginia.

Second honors go to black on a yellow background, to be used in Idaho, Michigan, Oklahoma, West Virginia and the District of Columbia. Illinois will have a yellow on black combination.

Black on orange, yellow on black, and white on blue will be used by four states.

Delaware will use old gold on blue; Iowa, yellow on blue; Utah, black on aluminum; Washington, green on white; and Wyoming, white on wine color.

Some of the state license tags will be distinctive through special markings. Maryland plates will carry the word "Tercentenary" in observance of the 300th anniversary of the founding of the state. Louisiana tags have the familiar pelican. Montana plates carry the outline of the state, and Kentucky plates will have the name of the home county of the automobile.

Alaska will use plates with white letters and numerals on a green background; the Canal Zone will have white on blue; Hawaii, the same; the Philippines, white on apple green, and Porto Rico, yellow on black.

Other states will have the following colors: Alabama, black on orange; Arizona, black on copper; Arkansas, red on white; California, black on orange; Colorado, yellow on black; Connecticut, white on blue; Georgia, orange on blue; Indiana, white on midnight blue; Kansas, black on white; Kentucky, black on white; Louisiana, white on blue; Maine, black on orange; Maryland, orange on black; Massachusetts, white on dark red; Montana, orange on black; Nebraska, white on green; Nevada, green on white; New Hampshire, white on green; New Jersey, green on black; New Mexico, gold on red; New York, yellow on black; North Carolina, gold on black; North Dakota, blue on orange; Ohio, white on maroon; Oregon, black on gray; Pennsylvania, blue on gold; South Carolina, yellow on black; South Dakota, orange on black; Tennessee, white on blue; Texas, black on orange; Vermont, blue on white, and Wisconsin, white on blue.

German Withdrawal Hailed As Sign of End of the World

By United Press FORT WORTH. — Germany's withdrawal from the League of Nations is "another step toward the smashup of the world predicted in the Bible," believes the Rev. Louis Entzinger of San Antonio, head of the Texas Pre-Millennial Bible association.

He pointed to the German action and other "fulfillments" as indicating "the day is near at hand."

On a visit here, the Rev. Mr. Entzinger opened his Bible to the 21st chapter of the Gospel of St. Luke, verses 25 to 28. He quoted:

"And there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon earth distress of nations, with perplexity; and the sea and the waves roaring; 'Men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth: for the powers of heaven shall be shaken."

"And then shall they see the Son of Man coming in a cloud of power and great glory. 'And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh.'"

The minister then put aside his Bible. "Was there ever such perplexity on earth as today?" the minister continued. "Last year 25,000 persons whose hearts failed them for fear committed suicide. 'The sea and the waves roaring.' We've had 14 storms in the Gulf of Mexico this summer and fall. Every day a new prophecy is fulfilled. And people are coming back to the church. 'Hitler had something besides bluff to defy the League of Nations like that. . . . Deadly gasses have been invented that could wipe out civilization in 24 hours. That is when the Son of Man will appear and take the righteous away. 'All this was predicted 2,000 years ago. The day is near at hand. I couldn't be surprised if it came tonight.'"

We ought to give our prison inmates all the latest news of the day, so they'll stay satisfied where they are.

Fort Worth May Not Have Team In Texas League

By United Press

FORT WORTH. — Prospects that Fort Worth will operate a baseball team in the Texas League next season are none too bright. The problem facing the Fort Worth club is not one of changing horses, but of finding a horse to ride in the first place. Discovery of that horse, in the form of a major league club or local financial support, appears to be no easy task.

Unless the search is successful, the Cats may view next year's Texas League race from the grandstands of other teams. The present management is faced with several thousand dollars' debts for hotel accounts, uniforms, bats, balls and other equipment—left by last year's club which finished the season in receivership and took to day baseball to eliminate expense of lighting its fields.

Where the money is to come from is a question Dr. Webb Walker, the receiver, would like answered. An effort likely will be made to get local financial help in order to wipe the slate clean. Many observers are frank to say they doubt the sum can be raised.

The projects that the Boston Braves of the National League would operate the club was flouted for several weeks, with the appearance here this fall of Judge Emil Fuchs, owner of the Braves. But if anything other than seeing the horse races at Arlington Downs came of the visit it has not been divulged.

As the Braves talk simmered into usual reference, the rumor that the Chicago White Sox of the American League would operate Fort Worth as a farm popped up. Inquiries of the report reached the national baseball meet at Galveston, but the meet passed by without any known developments.

Dr. Walker and others interested in the club are undetermined on what course to pursue. They are free to admit the problem is a nasty one and at present continuation of the Fort Worth club as a member of the league is far from assured.

C.C.C. WORKERS HEALTHY

By United Press POCATELLO, Idaho. — C. C. C. workers in Idaho during the past seven months have enjoyed exceptionally good health. Lieutenant Colonel H. C. Michie, district surgeon, reported. Automobile accidents led the list of injuries, with 47, and axe mishaps injured 31. Of the more than 4,000 men in the district, only 321 became even slightly ill. However, 21 were treated for appendicitis and 118 discharged because of physical disabilities.

SEAGULLS BECOME LAZY

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. — The fish shippers of this town have to watch the scales very closely this season because the sea gulls are either very hungry or lazy. The birds swoop down on the fish sheds and steal the fish that has been freshly landed.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON.—Two proclamations will announce repeal. But repeal will be effective before either can be made.

The president, for the first time, will proclaim a new constitutional amendment. The secretary of state will do so as usual. The amendment is the 21st, which repeals the 18th.

No question about when repeal is effective. The supreme court decided in 1921 that an amendment was in force immediately upon ratification by the 28th state. A bootlegger had argued against conviction on the ground that his offense had preceded the secretary of state's proclamation.

Ordinarily, the secretary's proclamation only certifies a state of fact. If anyone questions what's happened, you can prove it by the State Department.

But in the National Industrial Recovery Act you'll find that Congress specifically directed the president to proclaim either the close of the first fiscal year in which the budget had been balanced or repealed—whichever is the earlier. Everyone knows which is the earlier.

The point in the president's proclamation is that on the first day of the year beginning thereafter, several federal taxes are repealed or reduced, including a gasoline tax cut from 1 1/2 to 1 cent and elimination of the dividend tax.

President Roosevelt as he explained the foreign liquor embargo by saying that the law limited such import to medical requirements. "Yeah," the president replied. "It's going to be a heavy winter."

FRAMERS of the burlesque code had a time deciding how best to describe their industry so as to differentiate it from musical comedy and other forms of entertainment. They finally worked out this:

"The term 'burlesque,' as used herein, is defined to be a type of musical entertainment known in theatrical parlance as burlesque, advertised as such or other title which conveys to the public such entertainment, and is intended to include burlesque rendered in conjunction with motion or sound picture performances and performances or attractions usually identified with or typical of burlesque."

It may or may not keep a few girls at home to add that the burlesque magnates proposed a chorus girls' minimum wage of $20 a week.

THERE'S one Roosevelt speech of which no one can produce an authentic copy. The president spoke extemporaneously when, at Chestertown, Md., he referred with disdain to dictatorships and assured Americans that they could make greater progress without one.

Newspapermen took notes, but there was no prepared copy and no stenographer on the job. So posterity will have to go without. (Copyright, 1933, NEA Service, Inc.)

BABY SAVED FROM COW ESTACADA, Ore.—E. M. Valentine, hearing his 18-month-old daughter, Virginia, crying for help in a barn on his place, arrived just in time to prevent a cow from goring her to death. She was injured seriously, but recovered.

CRYING REVEALS DEATH PART ORFORD, Ore.—Continued crying of a calf drew attention to the home of Mrs. Riley Davidson, 60, the other day. Investigation showed that she had been dead for several days.
CHASING WIFE IN AUTO QUINCY, Mass.—William Ottarson, Jr., was charged with driving his automobile along a sidewalk, but his case was dismissed when he told the court he was chasing his wife to patch up a family quarrel.
All that we have of sound money these days is the noise that's being made over it.

Hidalgo County Nation's Greatest Vegetable Area

By United Press

DALLAS.—Hidalgo, rich Rio Grande valley county, led the nation for production of mixed vegetables during 1930, a report by the U. S. department of commerce, bureau of the census, disclosed.

The report represents a survey taken from 50 of the leading counties based on acreage of mixed vegetables harvested in the United States, and giving the rank of these counties by value of the crop.

Of nearly 100,000 acres in mixed vegetables in the 50 counties, Hidalgo county had 3,730 acres. It ranked 10th in value of the crop harvested which was $218,472.

Three other Texas counties qualified in production among the first 50. Dimmit ranked 12th in value of the mixed vegetable crop harvested. Cameron was 19th in production, 76th in value. Wichita was 36th in production and 65th in value.

Atascosa county headed the list for watermelon production. Eight other counties were listed among the leading 50 counties in the United States. They were Wilson, Parker, Frio, Wise, Willacy, Henderson, Brooks and Bexar counties named in production rank. Parker county famous for its watermelons, ranked 6th in value of the crop which was in 1930 valued at $182,704. The crop represented about five per cent of the value of all vegetables harvested for sale in 1930, excluding potatoes, sweet potatoes and vegetables grown under glass.

Production of dry onions, representing 5.8 per cent of the total value of all harvested vegetables, excluding potatoes, sweet potatoes and hot-house varieties, was notable in nine Texas counties. Webb county ranked second with 3,444 acres in cultivation and third in the value of the harvested crop of $787,250. Other counties listed were Dimmit, Willacy, San Patricio, Zavala, Nueces, Collin, La Salle and Maverick.

Cantaloupes and muskmelons, of which nearly one-fourth of the acreage was harvested in Imperial county, Cal., were major crops in four Texas counties. Atascosa county headed the local counties with a rank of 28th. El Paso, Parker and Bexar counties followed.

The tomato crop had the greatest value of all vegetables, according to the report. It totaled $53,247,899, or 18 per cent of $295,943,373, crop valuation of all vegetables harvested for sale. Cameron county, Texas, ranked 8th in acreage and value, with Cherokee, Hidalgo and Smith counties listed as among the 50 leading producing counties in the United States.

Four Texas counties were allotted positions among the first 50 in the acreage of all vegetables harvested for sale. Hidalgo county was 7th in acreage and 31st in value. Other counties were Cameron, Atascosa and Zavala.

Camp and Harris counties were cited for sweet potatoes production. Camp county was listed 20th with an average yield of 88.4 bushels per acre. Harris county ranked 56th. Forty-six of the counties were in the south.

One Texas county was listed in cucumber production. It was Jim Wells county with an acreage rank of 39th and a value rank of 94th.

CCC Develops Little Known Historic Spots

By United Press

WASHINGTON.—Development and improvement of America's most interesting historical spots is one of the comparatively unnoticed but nevertheless important phases of the work of the Civilian Conservation Corps, Robert Fechner, CCC director, pointed out today.

Fechner drew attention to the fact that some 3,600,000 workers are engaged in rehabilitating several of the famed battlefields of the Revolutionary and Civil wars in the eastern section of the country.

Four camps are located in the Yorktown, Va., area, where George Washington led the American troops into what proved to be the deciding and final battle of the Revolution, in 1781. Two camps are at Morristown, N. J., an area used by Washington's troops every winter during the hectic years from 1777 to 1781.

Four hundred men are at work in the Gettysburg National Military Park in Pennsylvania, the scene of Abraham Lincoln's immortal speech in 1863, while the Chickamauga and Chattanooga National Military Park in Georgia and Tennessee, which commemorates famed Civil War battles, has some 600 additional men working on it. Other groups of CCC workers are situated at Shiloh, Tenn., Vicksburg, Miss., and Fredericksburg and Spotsylvania counties in Virginia, all places well known to those at all familiar with the history of the United States.

The men are engaged in general rehabilitation of the spots, cleaning away fire hazards, removing vegetation that hides trenches, earthworks, gun emplacements and other military services, and in laying out convenient trails by which visitors may easily find their way around the entire battle fields.

The Interior Department's Office of National Parks Buildings and Reservations, which has charge of the work, does not intend to even attempt to make complete restorations of the historic spots. Where any old fortifications or other landmarks still here, is one of the handy by-products of the depression. Most vendors use hygienic paper cups, which they themselves make. The coffee is home-made, and kept in thermos bottles, or a sort of container with a little flame under it. The idea started amongst some unemployed men. It has spread quickly, and there are plenty of them.

Christmas Card Styles Go Back Quarter of Century

By United Press

PHILADELPHIA.—Christmas cards of a quarter of a century ago are in style this year, replacing the gaudy colored and bulky cards that decorated the mantelpiece in recent years.

Authority for the statement is Sidney J. Budgoyne Jr., a partner in a Christmas card manufacturing firm.

Correct designs include poinsettias, candles, holly, and dogs, instead of the flashy pictures, usually seen on greeting cards. The designs will be similar to those seen 25 years ago, Budgoyne said, when the few cards that were sent out were remarkable for their beauty and simplicity of design.

"I think the demand for a change in cards came last year," he said, "when persons hesitated to send offensively cheerful cards to friends and relatives who were unemployed and with small prospects of a happy Christmas. This year, the trend continues, as in everything else, toward simplicity."

"The correct Christmas card this year will be on light-weight paper or parchment. Cardboard is passe. The cards should be folded, not the single type, and the sender's name should be engraved."

"When the plans laid out by the Office of National Parks and executed by emergency conservation labor are in operation," said Fechner, "these great historic areas will become field laboratories for students of history in every school in the land. Millions whose school days are over or for whom they ended all too soon will visit these areas to refresh and add to their knowledge of the sacrifices and suffering in which this great nation was born and achieved eminence in a little more than three centuries."
