Blanton Talks Before Citizens In Jones County

ANSON, Aug. 10.—Anson, county seat of Jones county, gave Congressman Thomas L. Blanton a rousing welcome Saturday night as he spoke for an hour and a half in behalf of his campaign for re-election as representative from the 17th district.

Blanton's fourth address of the day, but he spoke with his typical vigor, that brought hearty applause in spite of a hushness in his voice. Earlier he had spoken in Lueders, Avoca, Stamford, where his opponent, Clyde Garrett of Eastland, was being heard tonight, and in Hamlin.

Most prolonged applause tonight came when Blanton referred to his invitation to Garrett to meet him in joint debate in every county seat in the district.

Blanton referred to the many friends he has in Jones county. "I used to come to Anson and everyone had a smile and a handshake for me. Then something happened. The enemies I made in Washington had been spreading false reports about me. They were telling I am against the farmers, against the laborers, and that I fought the bonus.

Honest Government "The issue is honest government honestly administered. You are going to need somebody who can go to your business as it should be handled. I want your smiles and I want your confidence." He reviewed his record in Washington, and told of the responsibility he will carry, if reelected, as chairman of the committee on appropriations for the war department.

Blanton was introduced by Dew Womack of Anson, who requested that he be allowed to perform that service. "Let's keep a representative in West Texas where the west is really west," said Womack. "Let's keep Blanton in Congress."

Week's Dates Blanton will speak 25 times in nine counties this week, with night speeches in Merkel, Cisco, Comanche, Dublin, Ranger and Breckenridge.

Samuel Butler, president of the Arab Gasoline Corporation who was the intended victim of an extortion plot, said Monday no development in the Department of Justice's pursuit of the extortioner had been reported to him.

Reports of the arrest of several youths has been denied by the Dallas office of the justice department. Recalling similar cases in the nation, Butler expressed confidence that the writer of three notes demanding $3,000 for the safety of his children would be captured.

Rise Of Income Halted By Drouth

NEW YORK.—The average American got a larger cash income in June than in May, or in June a year ago, but because the drought lifted food prices and rents continued their advance, he had a slightly smaller "real income" than in May, though considerably above that of June, 1935 according to the current study of how much people get and how much they spend, as monthly reported by Investors Syndicate, of Minneapolis.

Cash income of the average citizen in June was $1.15 for each $1 in June, 1935. Cash outflow, however, in June was $1.04 for every $1 in June, 1935. Therefore, real income, which is the difference between cash income and cash outflow, last June was $1.11 for every $1 in June, 1935.

The sun's sizzling rays compelled the average citizen in June to pay $1.06 for the same kind and amount of food that in June, 1935 cost only $1. Furthermore he had to pay for housing accommodations during June $1.11, while the same apartment or bungalow in June, 1935, cost only $1. General expenses, such as automobiles, manures and movies were virtually unchanged during the twelve months. Clothing, however, that cost $1 in June, 1935, could be bought for 98 cents in June, 1936.

"The drought," according to the Investors Syndicate study, "brought about the first increase in food prices in more than six months. While it is probable that future months will not show such sharp rises in foods it appears likely that the effects of the drought will be visible for the rest of the year."

Wages, between July 1, 1935, and July 1, 1936 advanced twenty cents on the dollar, salaries thirteen cents, and receipts from investments, dividend and interest payments, twelve cents. The really big gains in cash income in recent months, the survey comments, took place in investments.

Only 70 Drivers Licenses Cancelled In 1st Five Months

AUSTIN.—First five months operation of the Texas Drivers' License law has witnessed suspension of driving rights of only 70 of the 1,600,000 persons issued driving cards on April 1.

Cards were issued to all without tests. The licenses are suspended for three violations of specified traffic rules within a year. Suspension of license revocations also follow negligent homicide while driving; conviction of an offense made a felony in the motor laws; failure to stop and aid after an accident; two convictions of striking a person while driving.

Two hundred drivers have a third of the license turned into the State Department under the provision that three minor law violations cause suspension.

To facilitate the record of such offenses, the licenses were issued in three sections with perforations between them. A convicting judge or justice of the peace tears off one section and sends it to the Safety Department. When the three have been sent in, the driver has no license.

One Justice of the Peace made quick work of the case of one offender. He convicted the driver on each of three separate counts, tore off a section of his license for each, mailing all at once to the state office.

The sectional licenses have caused confusion in other states. Texas motorists on tour have had part of the Texas license torn off and sent back to Austin for traffic violations in other states. One Arizona Justice of the Peace was particularly active. He has mailed three first offense tickets within a month. In Omaha, Neb., one justice revoked a Texan's license across the face of the license and mailed it to Austin.

Most of the 70 suspensions have been caused by drunken driving. There were less revocations for "assault" and few for negligent homicide.

First suspensions are for six months. If the driver is caught driving during the license suspension period, the time automatically is extended for a year.

License issued last April will be good for three years, unless revoked or suspended.

Repairs On Capitol Are Now Finished After Six Months

AUSTIN.—The State Capitol now is ready to receive Centennial visitors. More than half the centennial year has passed with the building in a torn-state. Terraza was being placed the corridors to replace tiles that have served since 1882. The concrete base under the tiling had been broken up for removal before the new work started. This raised clouds of dust that all smaller pictures in the building were removed. Large paintings were covered, as were Elizabeth Ney's statues of Stephen F. Austin and Gen. Sam Houston. Now are on display again.

Married Life Rewards Those Who Earn It

Once more we have been getting a wealth of information—together, perhaps, with a certain amount of misinformation—about the wedded life of a Hollywood movie star. Another movieland divorce suit has made the front pages, and we discover anew that human beings with the bark off can be singularly unattractive creatures.

A divorce case makes disheartening reading, in Hollywood or in Hicksville. It is always sickening to see two people, who stood together a few years before and pledged to each other their love, their loyalty, and their forbearance, sitting in court reciting their stories of distrust and hatred.

The divorce court is a house of broken dreams, and the wreckage is a dismal sight.

Any confession of abject failure is disheartening, for that matter; and a suit for divorce is such a confession, always—a confession made more distressing by the fact that the drama which is ending in mean tragedy began with such boundless hopes.

It is that fact which makes the whole "divorce evil" such a dismaying phenomenon in American life. It is a sign that Americans in ever-increasing numbers are making a botch of the most important personal relationship they ever will have.

Why are they failing? Isn't it because so many of us expect too much from marriage and give too little to it?

We want a "happy ever after" ending, but we hate to think that we have to earn it; we want the honeysuckle to twine round the door in the approved romantic style, but we forget that someone first must do the hard and unromantic job of breaking the ground and planting the darned stuff.

A marriage begun in that spirit has two strikes on it before it ever comes up to the plate. It is the kind of marriage in which a few quarrels and misunderstandings breed a resentment that refuses to die; a resentment which magnifies little faults and keeps them alive, which nourishes that deadliest of all emotions, self-pity, and which eventually sets both husband and wife to complain, "Was there ever a person so abused as I am?"

The answer to that question, of course, is simple. It is: "Why, sure — millions on millions of people. Every married person since time began, as a matter of fact. You're just getting what every husband and every wife has got since the day of Adam and Eve. What's the matter with you? Can't you take it?"

Unfortunately, people seldom talk that way to disillusioned married folk, and a great number of people haven't enough sense to talk that way to themselves. So the divorce courts are kept busy and we get this miserable round of recriminations and sordid accusations.

Family Resemblance Settles Baby Swapping After 17 Years

The strong resemblance of these four girls convinced Louise Madeline Pittman, survivor of the maternity hospital baby mixup case that embroiled two Georgia families seventeen years ago, that she was indeed the daughter of the John Garners of Macon, Ga., and not the child of the Daniel Pittmans of Atlanta, who had reared her. Now she claims the girls pictured with her as sisters. Left to right are Mrs. Edna Garner Manning, Virginia Garner, Louise Pittman and Mrs. Cecil Herley.

Skilled Labor And Employment Is A Texas Controversy

AUSTIN—How many skilled and semi-skilled workmen are unemployed in Texas?

The PWA in Washington says there aren't enough to carry out projects already planned and tentatively approved in Texas. Hence, Texas failed to receive its proportionate share of PWA funds.

Yet, on August 1, there were 12,160 skilled and 14,769 semi-skilled workmen in the active files of the Texas Employment Service.

This information was contained in a report received by Maj. E. A. Wood, director of the Texas Planning Board, from Byron Mitchell, associate director Texas State Em-

Doctors Offer a New and Accurate Test of Death

By United Press

LONDON.—A new test of death discovered by Drs. Salisbury and Melvin, of Queens' University, Kingston, Ont., is described in the current issue of the British Medical Journal.

"The general application of this test would remove all traces of one of the most haunting fears of mankind—the chance of premature burial," the journal declares.

The test involves appearance of the eye. All that is necessary is an ophthalmoscope, an instrument for inspecting the retina. If the columns of blood in the retinal veins are broken the patient is beyond resuscitation. This phenomenon takes place after the circulation has been stopped for about ten minutes.

The report reveals that in scores of small counties there are only one and two skilled and semi-skilled workmen available for PWA project. But in the larger counties, such as Bexar, Tarrant and Harris, there are several thousand skilled and semi-skilled workmen available. Bexar county leads the list of counties with 1,117 skilled and 1,351 semi-skilled workmen listed for gainful employment.

The report further discloses that in eight Texas counties private industry has absorbed every available worker, skilled and semi-skilled.

Protests over the failure of the PWA to allocate funds to Texas have been received by the Planning Board. The bitterest protest came from Fort Worth where it was said that an acute labor situation would exist within 90 days if the PWA persisted in keeping PWA funds from projects in that region for which bonds have been voted. The Fort Worth protest also said that there was an ample supply of labor available in that city.

She Will Grace Alabama House

If there is a general combing of crows and adjusting of ties when the Alabama House of Representatives next meets, county Sybil Poole, above, will be the reason. Chosen by her county's Democratic committee to fill a vacancy, Miss Poole will take her seat as a lawmaker after an election that is little more than a formality.
