The information contained in the series of articles is educational and of interest to the general public. Additional information can be secured by addressing W. O. King, 205 Alexander Building, Abilene, Texas).

Early Payments of Monthly Benefits Qualifications necessary to receive monthly benefits in 1940 are that a claimant must show that he has attained age 65 and has been employed in commerce or industry at a pay rate of $50 or more in each of six different calendar quarters since 1936. Example: A mechanic who will be 65 in December 1939 was employed by garage for 2 weeks in January, week each in April and September, 1937. Then in 1938 he had a part-time mill job during March, 3 weeks in August, and during December. Since he worked some part of the 3-month period in six different quarters, with wages amounting to $50 or more in each, he should be eligible for monthly benefits next year.

If a 65-year-old worker does not have enough wage credits to qualify for monthly benefits, he may build up sufficient credits by continuing to work in covered employment. Wages received during 1937 and 1938 count toward old-age insurance benefits, only if they were received before the worker's 65th birthday. Since the law has been changed, wages earned after 1938 count toward benefits, regardless of the worker's age.

Example: Mr. A., who is now 66, on a part-time store clerk. During 1937 he was paid $50—or more—in each of two calendar quarters. Prior to his 65th birthday in 1938 he also received $50 in wages during one quarter. In 1939, he was paid another $50 in wages. If he continues to work and earn wages of $50 or more during the last quarter of 1939 and the first quarter of 1940, he will have six quarters of coverage and will be eligible for monthly benefits.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Feb. 28.—The Turkish government has ordered all Turkish boats back to their home ports, and issued further orders that no more boats were to leave without permission of the government.

It is thought in some quarters that reported concentration of Russian forces on the Black Sea was responsible for the order.

Prize for New Use Cotton Expected To Be Made Soon

AUSTIN, Texas.—Sen. George Moffett of Chillicothe believes that the $5,000 to $10,000 prize offered by the State of Texas for the Texan who discovers a new use of cotton that will increase consumption 200,000 bales a year, will be awarded.

He would not be surprised to see the prize earned by a Taylor, Texas concern which has evolved a method of making cotton fireproof. This concern proposes use of the fire-proof cotton as a building insulation.

The fire proofing has been demonstrated. There has not been time to demonstrate by actual experience that the fire-proof condition persists indefinitely, but Moffett believes that the chemical treatment has the qualities that make it permanent.

Moffett was author of the measure under which the reward was set up. Actual award is in the hands of a committee composed of the presidents of the University of Texas, Agricultural and Mechanical College, and Texas Technological College. More than 500 claimants have sent suggestions.

Moffett estimates that nationally cotton consumption for this year will increase 2,000,000 bales over last year's 6,000,000 bales.

Move To Prevent Office Holder Being Candidate Expected

AUSTIN, Texas.—Predictions are being made at Austin that one result of this year's political campaign will be renewal of the movement to prevent an office holder running for different offices until two years after holding office.

At present there is prospect that all members of the State Railroad Commission, and one member of the Highway Commission will be campaigning this summer.

Railroad Commissioners Ernest O. Thompson and Jerry Sadler both plan to run for governor. Chairman Lon A. Smith plans to run for re-election. If they do, they probably will agree upon days to remain in Austin.

Highway Commissioner Harry Hines will have two other commissioners to look after road affairs. The highway commission holds hearings only once a month.

Jerry Railey and Winston Boles received the bronze palm, an honor denoting they have secured more badges than are required for Eagle scouts, which rank they have passed. Railey now has 39 merit badges to his credit and Boles has 28.

Jone McFarland received the Eagle scout badge while merit badges were awarded Jack Coffman, Burton Williams, Jone McFarland, Billy Hoffmann, Dan Hightower, Richard Vickers and Pete Pegues.

Scouts of Cisco, Olden, Ranger and Carbon also received badges and advancement.

Texas Democrats In a Perplexing Political Situation

AUSTIN, Texas.—Democratic party officials in Texas will face some perplexing problems when the state executive committee is called into session to select the city for the state convention. The convention will be held May 28 to select and perhaps instruct Texas delegates to the national convention.

The status of man-chairman E. B. Germany of Highland Park and woman-chairman Mrs. Frances Haskell Edmondson of San Antonio still is disputed. Neither may call a meeting without the sanction of the other.

Then there is the question of who really is secretary of the committee. Miss Sara Borschow of San Antonio was elected woman secretary. C. M. Butler of Austin was named by man-chairman Germany. If Mrs. Edmondson should decline to join in appointment of Butler, a pretty issue might be raised about the power of the man-chairman alone to name him.

The right of chairman E. B. Germany to serve as committee chairman and Rep. Price Daniel of Liberty to be a committee member was settled by amending the election law at the last session of the legislature.

The old law prohibited an office holder from serving on a state district, county or city party executive committee. The legislature made it apply only to the executive committees of districts, counties and cities.

The same change in law also will keep Mrs. Edmondson eligible. She has announced she will be a candidate for congress in the San Antonio district.

One of the problems that was worrying the party leaders was settled Saturday when Attorney General Gerald C. Mann advised them the proper date for the state democratic convention to nominate state candidates is Sept. 10.

In passing the law to require equality for the sexes in the state party conventions, the legislature made a mistake and directed states conventions to be held the first Tuesday after the second Monday after the fourth Saturday in August. That would be Sept. 3.

The state executive committee by another statute is directed to meet the third Monday after the fourth Saturday in August, or Sept. 9.

If the latest declaration of the legislature had been followed the convention would have been held six days before the executive committee met. The executive committee canvasses the primary election returns and reports the results to the convention which must declare the nominee to be the candidate who had a majority vote. If the committee met a week earlier than the committee this could not be done.

Mann said because of the conflict the proper course was for the convention to be held the day after the committee meets.

Activity Grows On The Western Front

PARIS, Feb. 28.—Activity of ground forces and artillery were increased today on the Western Front, as both sides awaited the expected major drive that has been predicted for this spring.

Ground patrol activities east of the Meuse river were reported today, with reports from Berlin stating that Nazi forces had recaptured an enemy patrol.

Meantime from London it was reported that air flights had been made over Berlin, Cologne, the Keel Canal and other strategic points in Germany, with millions of pieces of propaganda literature being dropped, particularly in Berlin, where the streets were covered with the leaflets.

Two more nazi planes were reported shot down near the English coast, with one trawler that was fired upon rescuing the crew of one plane.

Doctor Killed In Auto Accident To Be Buried Today

Funeral services for Dr. O. O. Gain of Dublin, long prominent in American Legion affairs and a well known physician of this part of the county, who was killed in an automobile accident near De Leon yesterday, were conducted at Dublin this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

Dr. Gain was killed in a traffic accident as he was driving to Gorman to perform an operation.

His automobile was in collision with an oil truck on a narrow concrete bridge. The truck driver, employe of an oil company at Stephenville, was taken to a Gorman hospital in serious condition.

Gasoline from the loaded tank car ran into a ditch, became ignited and destroyed both machines.

Dr. Gain's body was removed from his car two hours after the mishap. It was believed however, that he had been killed by the impact.

Three highway patrolmen, led by Sergeant E. L. Posey of Abilene, arrived on the scene a few minutes after the mishap.

Dr. Gain, it was said, was believed killed by the impact. The time of the accident was fixed around 11 o'clock Tuesday morning. It was about 11 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when his charred body was removed from the wreckage.

Pat. Fisher of Eastland was a witness to the accident.

Stone, driver of the truck, was taken to the Blackwell sanitarium at Gorman where he was reported "resting very well" Wednesday at noon. Attendants said he suffered a split ear, requiring several stitches, a knee injury and bruises. His hair was scorched.

Dr. Gain was widely known in American Legion circles. He attended the district convention of legionaires Saturday and Sunday at Eastland and last week attended the George Washington banquet of the Ranger post. He attended many legion meetings over the district of which he was a former vice commander.

Dr. Gain was scheduled to become the next commander of the Seventeenth District.

FINNS CHEERED DESPITE REDS' CLAIMS TODAY

Finnish sources reported today that Russians continued their systematic pounding on the Mannerheim Line despite heavy losses inflicted by the defenders.

At the same time a Moscow communique stated that the Mannerheim Line was crumbling and that Finnish resistance had about stopped.

Finland continued to hold out at Vipur, and defenders were cheered by reports from London, which quoted the London Daily Telegraph as stating a reliable source, who refused to allow his name to be used, had reported the first British volunteers had left by a secret route for Finland.

The London paper stated that "an American-born British officer" was in command of the first contingent of volunteers. His name was not revealed but it was assumed that Maj. Kermit Roosevelt, son of the late Theodore Roosevelt, was meant, as he was the only one known to fit the description.

Finns were also cheered by reports from Washington that despite the fight over a Finnish non-military loan, a movement was getting underway to make a direct federal grant to Finland of $20,000,000 to be used in any way they saw fit.

In addition to the British Volunteers, another source of indirect aid to Finland was seen in the British announcement that a conference would be held with Canada over a contraband control station on the Western Coast of Canada, to inspect United States shipments to Vladivostok, Russia.

The Moscow communique claimed that with the "crumbling" of the Mannerheim Line, 13 fortifications had been captured in the past 24 hours.

PEOPLE ARE URGED TO RETAIN BEER AS AN AID TO BUSINESS

Business men in Ranger, Eastland and Cisco, who are not in any way directly connected with the sale of beer, today were urging that the voters go to the polls on Saturday and return beer to the county, in the interest of good business.

It was pointed out by representatives from Cisco, who visited in Ranger and Eastland this week, that a checkup showed that practically every business in the three towns had shown better business conditions when beer was legalized than when it was not. This, they said, proved to be true on every occasion when the country went wet or dry.

An explanation of this was made in that many obtained salaries at cafes, taverns and other places handling beer, but when the county was voted dry these people were thrown out of employment and could not purchase things they had been buying before.

One man today told of several who had purchased shoes just prior to the last beer election, who were to get them on their next paydays, but when the county went dry they came in and cancelled the order. Others have reported similar circumstances where they lost business.

"Much of the beer trade is from transients," it was pointed out, "so the plea of the dries that money that should go into other channels goes into the purchase of beer is a fallacy," one man pointed out "inasmuch as these transients help to supply the salaries of people who make purchases in these towns."

A recent checkup was said to have been made recently and at Strawn more than a score of Eastland county people were seen there eating in cafes where they could obtain a bottle of beer with their meals, and, it was stated, this money would have been spent in one of these three towns in Eastland county, more than likely in Ranger or Eastland, as they are nearer to Strawn than is Cisco.

In pointing out the good that has been derived from beer revenues, workers for the cause pointed out that the latest bulletin of the State Liquor Control Board showed that in the month of December an allocation of $486,817.99 was made from beer revenues to the old age pension fund, bringing the total to $17,978,840.41; the available school fund received from December revenues $154,808.38 bringing the total to $5,216,495.26 and the general revenue fund of the state received $358,145.90 during the period.

"Now that pensions have been cut to a minimum of only a few dollars a month, there is more need than ever before for this revenue for the old people," one ardent supporter of legalized beer sales said. "Though I do not drink beer myself, I feel that it is better that this money go to these deserving old people than to beer bootleggers, who are now selling an inferior grade of beer at double the regular price right in the three towns along the highway, and no one benefits much from these sales except those who are selling in violation of the law."

Everyone was urged to vote in the election Saturday, regardless of their sentiments.

Jobless for 90 Years

The career of Edwin Forest Wilder is not likely to be used by school teachers as a model for their charges to emulate.

Mr. Wilder died in Cincinnati, Ohio, the other day after heartily enjoying 92 years of life, only two of which were frittered away in working. During his incumbency on earth, Mr. Wilder accomplished practically nothing. He didn't intend to. His sole mission was to enjoy life in large doses.

The only two years that he worked, he said, were a loss to him. The other 90 years he lived as a man of leisure, playing the market and the horses. He was a law graduate, but he never wasted his time in practice. Tomorrow, no one will remember that he ever existed. He left no mark on the world. But he enjoyed every year of his term on earth—with the possible exception of the two that he worked.

Off hand, it sounds like an ideal way to get through the span between birth and death, but there's a stickler in it. It takes money to loaf for 90 years, and Mr. Wilder had it—an inherited fortune. Even with this natural advantage, it must have taken a lot of determination to resist the urge to accomplish something before the grave yawned.

Traffic Jams Are Expensive

No motorist intentionally drives into a traffic jam. But if a driver knew precisely what it was costing him to get mixed up in a congested district, aside from the wear and tear on his nerves, he might take even greater precautions and pick less popular streets.

The American Public Works Association, after tests under actual conditions, concluded that a car uses 50 per cent more gasoline on congested streets than on the same streets when they are clear. Prof. A. J. Bone of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who conducted the test, calculated that if 15,000 cars daily drove along a congested street one mile long, the annual loss would amount to an aggregate of $18,000.

Better street planning and traffic control will eliminate some of the jams. More common sense on the part of drivers will take care of the rest.

A new type of water-proof hat for women will make it unnecessary for them to carry umbrellas. As if rain could do any further damage to some of the current numbers.

An emperor penguin is being brought from Antarctica to the Washington, D. C., zoo to be penned up. Such is the fate of crowned heads these days.

Fatigue Is Called Bane of the Day

HARTFORD, Conn.—Fatigue, in the opinion of Dr. George Ross Wells, Hartford Seminary Foundation psychologist, is "the most devastating force in individual life today."

This fatigue, he warned, is seldom the result of physical or emotional effort, but from "long periods of going too fast, and being hurried by fears, of which most are purely imaginary."

"Many of us find life too hard, too drab, too difficult, because we are fatigued."

In such cases, he said, no benefit can be obtained from a change of activity. He prescribed complete rest, recreation and even loafing as the best means of combating the distress.

"There are times," he said, "when nothing will help you but doing nothing."

Dr. Wells declared that cases of inferiority complex are "extraordinarily rare," and the product of imagination resulting from a comparison of a person's estimate of his own capabilities with those of another who has made greater strides.

"The natural result," he explained, "is a feeling of lesser worth which is permitted to work upon the imagination until it distorts the real situation."

Fears are prejudices, he said, "were taught us," and "most of us were born into many of the beliefs we hold today."

A reasonably happy life can be obtained, Dr. Wells declared, by "avoiding the adverse effects of outside interference" and by pursuing a definite goal within reason.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—The tremendous war-boom expansion of the aviation industry is producing its share of headaches.

Geared up suddenly to produce 15,000 military airplanes in the next 18 months, as well as substantial non-military production, the industry worries about things like this:

1. The administration has let out public hints of a bad "bottleneck" in engine production. Producers say there's no such thing. They wonder if the administration isn't just working up support for a bill like one Senator Lister Hill of Alabama introduced last spring, for a plant to provide a yardstick of production cost in peace-time, and capable of vast expansion in war-time.

2. Today's vast expansion might leave the industry face-to-face with a bad collapse when the war ends. That happened after the World War. It will be necessary to hold export markets developed in 91 countries, and in the meantime the British, though buying planes from us, have not stopped exporting their own. They, too, evidently have an eye on that after-the-war market.

PEACE GROUP SKEPTICAL OF WELLES' TOUR

THE peace societies are reserving comment on President Roosevelt's peace move until they see what it really adds up to.

Over a month ago, some of them got word that he was seriously considering an offer of mediation to end the war. When Secretary Hull began talking peace with neutral statesmen, the peace groups believed this was a good start.

Then came Sumner Welles' trip abroad for talks with the belligerents. This made the peace people a bit skeptical. Some fear that this could turn out to be an attempt to get a "British peace."

position of such funds is directed by the legislature. Mann made ruling in answer to an inquiry from E. G. Moseley, civil district attorney of Dallas county as whether a mandamus suit should be brought to order approximately $10,000 in gambling money. The attorney general's ruling there was no authority for position of the money.

All of which put sheriff C. P. Fox and Police Chief L. Robey in a quandary.

Until now, money confiscated from gambling devices by sheriff officers has been placed in a permanent fund. Gambling funds in city police have been placed in an account to improve the license station and to buy flowers any occasion which arose.

Fox and Robey decided they just have to wait until the legislature takes action on the question.

Reducing Exercises Around Midnight Prove Suspicious

By United Press
EL PASO, Tex.—Police don't put much stock in odd hour exercising as an aid to weight reducing. Recently they arrested a man after a midnight chase of nearly a block. When asked why he was running, the halted one replied: "I am trying to reduce and running is the best way I know." Police booked him at city jail as a suspect in connection with a series of robberies. They thought it strange that the suspect should take his reducing exercises so close to midnight.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

SAID - - -

PROHIBITION will work a great injury to the cause of temperance. It is a species of intemperance within itself, for it goes beyond the bounds of reason in that it attempts to control man's appetite by legislation, and in making crimes out of things that are not crimes. A prohibition law strikes at the very principles on which government is founded. I have always been found laboring to protect the weaker classes from the stronger, and I can never give my consent to such a law as you propose to enact. Until my tongue shall be silenced by death, I shall continue to fight for the rights of man.

Illinois Legislature December 19, 1844, opposing the Murphy Prohibition Bill.

What Beer Contributes to the re-building of America would fill a great volume

Over 400 million dollars in taxes every year. Over 1,000,000 jobs. A market for 3,000,000 farm acres of produce.

The brewing industry would like to preserve for itself and the people the many economic benefits it has created in the past five years. Brewers everywhere realize that this is a question bound up with the proper distribution of their mild and wholesome beverage through retail outlets whose character will be a credit to the community. Obviously, the brewers can enforce no laws. But they can—and will—cooperate with the local law-enforcement authorities. They will co-operate with every group—friend or critic—to the end that retail beer outlets give no offense to any one.

Boy Scout Circus

The First Boy Scout Circus of the Comanche Trail Council will be held the night of April 26th, in the Memorial Hall, Brownwood. Every troop will participate in this councilwide affair. A large number of the forty-five troops in the eight counties have already accepted their parts, and have started a regular routine of practice, in order to have their performances as nearly perfect as possible on the red letter day, April 26th.

Every phase of Scouting including all crafts and skills will be carried out in this councilwide event. During the intermission of each big floor act beautiful tableau scenes will be given.

One hundred well trained clowns will give this circus plenty of comedy. These boys are working out some startling, and very clever clown costumes. They plan to have their share of attention throughout the show. And all of the animals will be there—elephants, giraffes, zebras, lions, tigers, monkeys, Mickey and Minnie Mouse are planning to attend, and Donald Duck will bring his whole family.

We can almost hear the boys calling, "Peanuts, popcorn, Pink Lemonade and Balloons." Let's all get ready for the big circus.

Dallas Businessmen Plan Eastland Trip

A group of executives, members of the Dallas Manufacturers and Wholesalers Association, will make a 30-minute stop Friday, April 26, in Eastland. H. J. Tanner, Eastland Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager, has been notified. The group will arrive at 2:15 p. m. and come to Eastland after stopping at Baird. The excursion this year by the Dallas group is the 39th annual business tour sponsored by the organization. They will travel by special train and during the stop at Eastland present a program.

YESTERDAY: Ann sat in the library, wearing a gardenia. She speaks to him, tries to make conversation, but he is strangely distant. Finally she notices an old man, also wearing a gardenia. He has her letter. Then the whole room seems alive with gardenias. The young man explains that a drug store is giving them away. Ann sees, hurt and angry.

"No, I went down to the library." "That must have been exciting." The girl made a little face. "You'll never know how exciting it was," Ann laughed. She could laugh at the absurd incident now.

"Look," her friend said, "I'm going back for a sandwich. Come with me—let's talk." "I'll sit with you but I've had my lunch." "All right, sit with me." She started to leave her place, then turned back as a stock man rolled a loaded truck to the counter. Her expression became arch as she smiled invitingly. The stock man spoke and Ann whirled. That voice—

"The long zip-pers won't be in until tomorrow—". And, as Ann whirled, "Well, it's Miss Gardenia." He grinned at her, impudently, she thought. "Did you find your friend?" he asked. Ann flared, "You needn't take that tone. How and where I meet my friends is no concern of yours." "It seemed to be more or less my concern Saturday night." "I'm sure you have the intelligence to recognize a mistake when you see one." Sarcasm edged her tone. "If you had any tact you wouldn't embarrass me by referring to it." "I guess a girl with your nerve can get along all right." Ann was furiously angry. "I want you to understand that I don't go around picking up strange men in public places." "No!" "And if I did wish to start a flirtation you would be the last person in the world whom I'd choose." She drew a long, wrathful breath. "All right," he said good naturedly. "Shall we skip it?" "Gladly." The girl behind the counter was listening, round eyed. Ann turned to her. "I'm afraid I can't stay today," she said hotly. "This person might feel that I was pursuing him." "Don't mind me," he put in amiably. "I'm on my way back to the stock room where I belong."

"THE girl, obviously curious, insisted. "Don't be silly," she said. "I want to talk to you about something." She joined Ann in the aisle. The young man, without a backward glance, trundled his truck toward the back of the store. The girls found a booth in the cafe and sat down.

"What's your name?" the girl asked. "Ann Brown." She bit her under lip. Angry tears threatened. "He makes me—so—mad," she muttered. "Of all the conceited, pig-headed, insulting—". "Gee, kid—don't get sore. What's it all about?" Ann told briefly of her meeting with the stock man. "He was wearing a white gardenia in his lapel—how did I know that half the men in Chicago were wearing gardenias?" she asked. The 10-cent store girl giggled and, after a moment, Ann's face cleared. "I don't see what's so funny about it," she grumbled. "Imagine it happening to Paul," the girl giggled. "It's simply a so-called. All the girls are crazy about him and he shows 'em the deadpan. Girl-shy—that's his trouble. Then you come along and collar him in the public library—Oh, it's a so-called." "Is that his name—Paul?" "Uh-huh—Paul Hayden. He started to work here about a month ago. Isn't he the keenest looking thing?" "Not to me, he isn't. The thing that makes me so furious is that he thinks I'm cheap. He didn't believe a word I said about it being a mistake Saturday night. He thinks I trailed him in here." "Don't be burned up, Ann. He doesn't think so now. You cooled him good." She changed the subject. "My name is Clara Brooks—funny how we got to be friends without knowing each other's names—anyway, I'm telling you because I got a proposition for you." Ann raised her eyebrows inquiringly. Her feathers were still ruffled by the second encounter with Paul Hayden. "Look," Clara began. "My roommate got married last Saturday. She and Jim made up their minds all of a sudden and it sorta leaves me on a limb. I got a nice little joint but it costs too much for me to keep alone. I just thought maybe you'd like to come in with me if you ain't fixed too good." Ann decided on the instant. "That's funny, Clara," she said. "I came in to ask you about a place. I want to move—I'm going to move." Her brow darkened again. If Paul Hayden ever learned that she had been snooping at him from her window he'd have another score against her. Glancing across the store, she found his eyes upon her. He was grinning. The beast. She turned her back on him.

Firemen Threaten Red-Handed Catch For False Alarms

By United Press
PITTSBURGH.—The Pittsburgh Fire Department is using a system to catch false alarm pranksters literally red-handed.

Developed by G-men for tracing counterfeit money, the method installed by Fire Chief Nicholas Phelan consists of dusting alarm boxes with a nearly invisible powder called basic fushsin.

This innocent-looking chemical becomes a vivid reddish dye when it comes in contact with human skin, leaving a stain that remains for several days.

The dye washes out eventually, according to Phelan, but it gives detectives time to examine the hands of suspects.

So far, the powder has been used only on the city's South Side and Hill District where false alarms are common. Its use brought a marked decrease in false alarms when the word got around that the boxes were "fixed," Phelan said.

Won-Up Ships Its First Trainload of Grapefruit Juice

This week a new era began in the Texas Citrus Fruit industry when Engelman Gardens Association, packers of Won-Up, shipped the first solid trainload of canned grapefruit juice ever to move from the Rio Grande Valley. The solid train-load of 24 cars, consigned to a Houston warehouse, consisted of 47,000 cases of Won-Up, which, packed 72 cans to the case, totaled 3,484,000 5-cent cans of grapefruit juice with a retail value of $175,000.00.

The shipment weighed 1,688,018 pounds and is, according to officials of the Missouri Pacific Lines, the largest single outbound shipment of freight ever to originate in the Lower Rio Grande Valley in the 36 years the Missouri Pacific has been operating in this section.

The 24 solid carloads of canned grapefruit juice represent just one week's operation of Engelman Gardens' huge juice plant, according to G. O. McDaniel, the Association's vice-president and general sales manager. This is all the more remarkable in view of the fact that Won-Up, the first 5-cent can of grapefruit juice, has been on the market but one year.

Did the idea of selling grapefruit juice at a nickel a can "take"? McDaniel reports "And how! Our franchise and associate dealers now operate 150 trucks in six states. These trucks are moving Valley grapefruit juice into all parts of Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, and into most of Mississippi and all of western Tennessee." "Last year, Won-Up's first year," said McDaniel, "our plant turned out 12,500,000 cans of Won-Up. The trainload that has just moved to Houston contained more than 25 per cent of last year's production. We expect to pack 50,000,000 cans of Won-Up ment of freight ever to originate least 60 per cent of all grapefruit grown in our orchards will be canned to supply the Won-Up market."
