TRAFFIC LAW BREAKERS MUST PAY PENALTY

Instructed by the city commission to assess fines against all persons guilty of violating the "stop" ordinance and signs, City Manager Cheatham, sitting as judge of the municipal court, has begun to bring in small additions to the city's revenue. The fine may be as low as $1, or it may be as high as $200.00, for so the ordinance provides. So far the judgments of the court have been tempered by mercy.
Chf. of Police Elmer Lawrence during the day watches the courthouse square and other locations where "stop" signs have been placed, while each night Patrolman Tom A. Jones and E. P. Kilborn are on duty.

Poe Determines Politics Will Not Mix With Business

R. L. Poe has withdrawn from the race for county judge of the commissioners court, and in doing so stated that his private affairs required all of his time, and to continue in the race meant the neglect of his personal interests. Up to the time that he decided to withdraw Poe was one of the leading candidates in the race for that office, with flattering prospects of securing the nomination. He said: "Early in the campaign I realized I had made a mistake in entering the race, which was causing me to neglect my private business, which I could ill afford, so I decided to withdraw at this time. I am certainly grateful for the loyal support of my friends during the time I have been a candidate, and want to assure them of my appreciation."
Poe made this statement after his return to Cisco Thursday from Fort Worth, where he has been for the past several days.

Dr. Dawson includes the text of a campaign song "Old Sam Houston," sung to the tune of "Oh, Susannah!" and printed in the Redland Herald of San Augustine. (Continued on page 6.)

Air Carries Education To Peons Through Mexico's Radio Schools

MEXICO CITY.—The use of radio for the education and entertainment principally of citizens in the country districts and for the instruction of teachers in the rural schools of Mexico, has become an established fact.
For the last three months these educational and entertainment programs have been radio-cast by Station CZE operated by the Department of Public Education in this city.
Programs for the education and entertainment of great numbers of people who would otherwise be destitute of such an advantage are radio-cast twice a day except Sunday. Each Thursday evening a talk on pedagogy is given by a prominent educator for the rural school teachers in conjunction with the regular entertainment presentation.
At present the Department of Public Education has 75 sets in operation in the principal schools of the capitals of the more important Mexican states. Twenty-five small sets built in the radio laboratory of the department are working in the 25 rural schools in the states of Mexico, Hidalgo and Puebla.
Additional Installations.
There are also 15 Radiolas 111-A in operation in the rural schools of the State of Guerrero. In addition, the department's laboratory is making 35 sets of the "Titania" type to be installed in other rural schools during the month of July.
Radio, particularly in the remote rural districts, has made the schools educational and cultural centers not only for the children but for all the people.
The installation of sets in remote rural schools was a most difficult undertaking. This work was done by Javia Stavoli, chief engineer of the station, M. Fonereca, chief of the laboratory, and Ramon Castaneda, chief operator of the station. Senor Castaneda had to ride eight days on horseback from the railway to reach one of these schools.
The Christian Science Monitor's correspondent attended one of the Thursday evening radio-casts. The program consisted of instrumen-

GANGSTERS IN CHICAGO THINK TO DEFLY LAW

Five Armed Men Try To Kill Chief Witness In Murder Case Involving Underworld.
By United Press
CHICAGO, June 22.—Chicago gangsters, dismayed by a special grand jury underworld investigation, retaliated with a new challenge to the law last night.
Five men armed with shotguns drove to the home of James Huff, the grand jury chief witness in the Granady murder case, and tried to force an entrance, apparently with the purpose of kidnapping Huff. The arrival of police on the scene thwarted the gunmen and they fled.
Huff, a negro, was in the same car with Granady, when the latter, a candidate for ward committeeman, was shot to death on primary election day. He identified Johnny Armondo, a worker for Morris Eller, Granady's opponent, as the slayer and was scheduled to appear today to give further testimony.
The attack was the second within three days—a similar one last Wednesday night also being foiled by the police.

Condemed Youth About To Speak, Lapses Into Unconsciousness and Carried Thus To Execution.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The district of Columbia's first triple execution since the hanging of Mrs. Surratt and two other Lincoln assassination conspirators, was held today.
Three men went to the district's new electric chair for the murder of Placeman Leo Busch, who was shot to death when he tried to arrest them as robbery suspects.
Nicholas Leo Eagles, 32, went to the chair first. He was followed by Samuel Moreno, 29. The third man, John Proctor, 29, a dapper, confident youth during most of the two years of imprisonment since the killing of Busch had to be brought into the death chamber on a stretcher. He appeared to be unconscious.
Up to the last moment, Eagles and Moreno expected to be saved by a confession by Proctor that he fired the fatal shot. Proctor last night called his guard and said: "I want to tell you something. Tell the newspaper reporters, the fatal shot—I—!" he gasped and fell unconscious. He remained unconscious throughout the night.

Norfolk Island, In South Pacific, Attractive Spot for Daring Tourists

AUCKLAND, N. Z.—The fact that a new ship is shortly to be put on the run from New Zealand to Norfolk Island has attracted new interest to this historic little outpost far out in the South Pacific ocean, and added a new holiday resort for the more adventurous of the tourists.
The island lies on the edge of the Australian and New Zealand world, being 1100 miles east of Sydney and some 500 miles north of New Zealand. It is chiefly known for its associations with the famous mutiny of the Bounty. The Bounty was a British war vessel sent to Tahiti in 1787 to obtain plants of the bread fruit tree for use in the West Indies, under Captain Bligh, one of the most domineering officers of the navy.
The crew mutinied under the harsh treatment, turned Bligh adrift, and while some returned to Tahiti and were captured, the rest settled on Pitcairn Island in 1790; their descendants moved to Norfolk Island and from these many of the present inhabitants are sprung. Bligh himself was later sent to the Governor of New South Wales.

Rhodes' Gusher, Near Eastland, Has Much Publicity

Eastland received widespread publicity in connection with the bringing in of the immense well of A. H. Rhodes at the close of last week. The Associated Press sent out a dispatch telling of the gusher and the writer appeared in scores of newspapers. It was on the front page of both the San Angelo Standard-Times and the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal Sunday morning.
In the column, "Texas," written by Will H. Mayes, the first paragraph Wednesday was headed "Eastland's New Wealth," and quite an interesting comment on the big well was given. "Texas" appears in many newspapers in all parts of the State.
An editorial "Eastland, Texas," appeared in the Abilene Reporter, which dealt with the Rhodes' well and the new hotel.

C., and whose hostess was Miss Virginia Neil Little, on Thursday evening at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Finley on South Seaman Street.

Attractive arrangements in nasturtiums and roses were pretty decorative notes.
 The jolly young crowd adjourned to the Palace Drug Store, where they were regaled with peach ice cream, and a variety of assorted cakes, after which they returned to the residence of the hostess, and dancing was in order for the balance of the evening.
 The party was also in the nature of an au revoir for Fred Steen, who left this morning for Rhode Island state to visit relatives.
 Personnel: Misses Dorothy Baldwin, Louise Weaver, Margaret Hart, Jean May, Dolores Tanner, Ruth Weaver, and Martha Agnes Weaver of Ranger and hostess Virginia Neil Little; Milburn McCarty, Jr., Tilman Stubbfield, Sam Conner, Scott Key, Marshall McCullough Jr., Haywood Weaver of Ranger, Frank Laurent, Marvin Gray, C. Houston Prepared For The Big Show; Brown Derbys, Chile, Tamales, In Vogue

By LOUIS JAY HEATH United Press Staff Correspondent HOUSTON—Houston is getting ready to feed the Tammany tiger, nor twist his tail. When the Al Smith boys with their brown derbys cocked on the back of their heads in the most approved style of Mayor Jimmy Walker arrive with the "Side-walks of New York" rolled up under their arms looking for a place to lay them down as a presidential avenue extending direct from here to Washington they are going to be made welcome in a "big way." Texas is a democratic state and this convention is going to be a democratic show with all the trimmings traditional Texas hospitality can furnish. The second largest building that this show has brought to Houston, next in size to the convention hall itself, is "Hospitality House." It is a low gigantic bungalow type of structure spreading over a whole city block and has been designed to furnish all comers with everything from hot tamales to hospital beds. Rows of green painted flower boxes suspended beneath its paneless windows will also afford that gratification to the aesthetic tastes for which East Side New Yorkers are so noted. If the Tammany tiger prefers to retain allegiance to Coney Island it will find "hot dawgs" in abundance at "Hospitality House." If it chooses to play good politics by catering to the tastes of the great southwest it can appease its appetite with a "bowl of chile" and slake its thirst with any of the native beverages that the largest and most varied State in the Union can produce. One had to run three times round the convention hall at Kansas City to find the two diminutive soft drink stands. That was like a church social compared with the great political carnival to be staged here. Nor is Houston from all appearances worrying much about taming the tiger with food, drink and hospitality. The townspeople from all surface indications are thinking more about the carnival itself than they are about any particular troupe of performers that may come to participate in it. The hand of welcome is held out to all. There is a reception line at the station and the humblest news paper correspondent gets a welcoming handshake as hearty as that dished out to be-ribboned delegates. That's Texas and the old Texas spirit of "treat 'em all alike 'till they prove unworthy of it." If the Tammany tiger comes down to growl and remains to natter Texas hospitality will be the answer. It is disarming, it is infectious and it is foreign to the pre-convention atmosphere of Madison Square Garden four years ago as a horse drawn vehicle is to Broadway.

say, "Whoever this convention nominates is assured of the vote of the Lone Star state—so why worry. "Zip Zam Zowie. The show's the thing. Bring on the brown derbys, the sidewalk layers and the New York fire department. Let the Alabama volcano spout and the Missouri cyclone blow. "The foundations of this Houston carnival are built upon the solid bed rock of Texas hospitality. All shall be dined with chile and tamales and wined with soft drinks, water melon juice and soforth. "Let's eat."

COOK SIGNS TO MEET KID LEON IN MAT BATTLE

Wrestlers Will Grapple in Elks Arena Next Tuesday Night. Bobby Edwards, the Kansas City welterweight has informed promoter Jimmie McLemore that he cannot appear here next Tuesday night against Bernard Cook, because he has been called back to Kansas City for a few matches, but states that he will come to Eastland as soon as he returns. The promoter has called off this match and found a touch opponent to go against Kid Leon, the Dallas star. Butch Lowery, of San Antonio, will oppose Leon here next Tuesday night at the Elks Club. Leon has made a big hit here with the fans and is stepping along at a fast rate plenty able to take care of himself and anxious to meet the toughest in the game. Lowery comes to Eastland with a wonderful record, and anxious to break Leon's long string of wins. McLemore considers himself lucky to get hold of Lowery because of his boring in type of grappling and considers Lowery one of the toughest grapplers that Leon has tackled in over a year. Tuesday night's match will be for the best two out of three falls to a finish, nothing barred but the strangle hold. The semi-final bout will be a two out of three fall match between Young Headrick, and Cleto Duval of San Angelo. Headrick has a good reputation in the profession and is considered tough and able to take care of himself. Duval is a youngster not long out of high school who has been coming along at a fast rate and making a real name for himself in the game. A good preliminary bout will open the card. The events will be at the Elks Club, Tuesday night.

Money Barometer Eleventh Federal Bank District

Special to the Telegram.

AUSTIN, June 22.—Showing a gain of 4.1 per cent over May, 1927, debits to individual accounts in the Eleventh Federal Bank District, with headquarters at Dallas, amounted to $734,000,000, according to Bernard Nichols, assistant in charge of index numbers in the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas. Debits for the same period last year amounted to $609,000,000.

"Demand deposits declined further from $292,000,000 in April to $290,000,000 in May," he said. "Time deposits increased to $123,000,000, a new high record. Member bank borrowings increased as was expected, but total loans and discounts at member banks decreased from $335,000,000 to $329,000,000. The amount of government securities owned remained unchanged at $77,000,000.

"The money market was firmer during May than it had been for several years. Call rates renewed at 6 per cent on most days and advanced to 7 per cent at the month's end. Time loans in New York City were quoted above 5 per cent compared to 4 5/8 per cent a month earlier. No change was made in the discount rate at the Dallas Federal Reserve Bank. Even though the market remains firm, a seasonal downward trend in interest rates is expected before the summer is over.

"Chief interest in the financial situation over the past few weeks has been focused on Wall Street, because of the advance in interest rates. In the latter part of May and the beginning of June call rates were marked up to 7 per cent and time rates were above 5 per cent, the highest levels since 1921. These high rates are largely the result of the seasonal increase in the demand for funds and the continued exportation of gold. In the past nine or ten months nearly one-half million dollars in gold has left the country—about 10 per cent of our total supply. Moreover, the Federal Reserve System has disposed of additional government securities. It looks now as if speculation in the stock markets is likely to be checked."

When A Girl Loves

THIS HAS HAPPENED Virginia Brewster, upon the sudden death of her father after losing his fortune, goes to live with a girlhood friend, Clarissa Dean, and her father, in spite of the objections of her fiancé, Nathaniel Dann, who distrusts Dean's motives. Becoming unhappy in her new home, Virginia phones to Niel's studio late one night and is surprised when his model, Chiri, answers. This plants the seed of jealousy.

Hoping to get Niel away, Dean has a company he controls offer him a high-salaried position in San Francisco. Niel begs Virginia to marry him and go west, but she refuses to let him sacrifice his art study.

Clarissa becomes jealous of Virginia over her fiancé. Virginia resolves to leave but when she goes to say farewell to her host and Dean tries to get her to stay and asks her to marry him. When she refuses indignantly, he tells her that her father had cheated him out of $100,000 and that she will have to marry him to save her father's honor. She says that she will earn the hundred thousand to pay him in one year's time or marry him if she fails. Then she slips quietly out of his house and goes away in a taxi.

Now Go On With the Story CHAPTER XVI

"Well, if it's an address in New York you want I'll get it for you," the driver said in answer to Virginia's reckless statement. He had pulled his cab over to the curb and sat head turned to face his fare, while the motor idled noisily.

Virginia hesitated to reply, aware that she had plunged headlong into a situation that contained elements of danger. To tell an unknown taxicab driver that she wished to obtain a loan on a valuable ring, just because he looked sympathetic, was foolhardy to say the least, and Virginia

The End of the Farm Revolt?

The nomination of Senator Curtis, Kansas, as Herbert Hoover's running mate in the presidential race, appears to have settled the "farm revolt" in the republican ranks. Here are Escom Sienp, a Hoover leader (right) and S. J. Dickinson, Iowa congressman and farm bloc champion, shaking hands just before leaving Kansas City.

"I thought you would give me at least two hundred," she said, aiming in the dark.

"One hundred," he said decisively. But when Virginia left the shop a few minutes later she had $125 more than she had when she entered it. She was glad she had received the driver's advice but her pleasure would have been short lived if she had heard the pawnbroker congratulating himself upon his end of the bargain.

"He's 'resetting' it," she told the waiting driver with a wry smile. "And thanks to you I got the 25 percent increase."

"And do we go back to the Ritz?" he inquired gayly.

"Yes, but tell me first, are you absolutely certain my ring will be safe here?" Virginia worried.

"You can take my word and my number too, lady, and if anything goes wrong just go to my company and complain," the man assured her earnestly, and Virginia decided that his word would do.

For the first time in her life she inquired about rates before taking accommodations in a hotel, and when she was at last alone in the cheapest room the Ritz had to offer she locked the door and turned to survey her new quarters.

She had been in humbler chambers in obscure stopping places when traveling in out-of-the-way villages and towns with her father. But that had all been adventurous, romantic, while this was commonplace; a first visible result of her change from the petted daughter of wealth to a penniless girl with a bitter, staggering undertaking ahead of her, blocking off her happiness if she failed in it!

A lump rose in her throat and fear, ghastly, paralyzing fear, froze it there. What a mad thing she had done to make such a rash bargain with Frederick Dean! She had told him she'd rather die than marry him, but that escape would not clear her father's name. She could visualize grave, white-haired, venerable men, sitting in club windows, whispering over the stories Dean would set afloat.

She couldn't bear it. The lump in her throat was torn away on a strangled cry and she dropped in a heap on the floor, where she lay for a long time, inert, her mind stunned with the shock and grief that had come upon her in such a swiftly moving succession of misfortune.

Dusk had given way to night before Virginia stirred and breathed her hair off her hot forehead and dragged herself to her feet.

She was faint with lack of food, but it did not occur to her to order anything to eat. There were only two things that seemed of any importance to her. To find out from her father's lawyer if she could hope for any money from the estate, and to see Nathaniel—to tell him—

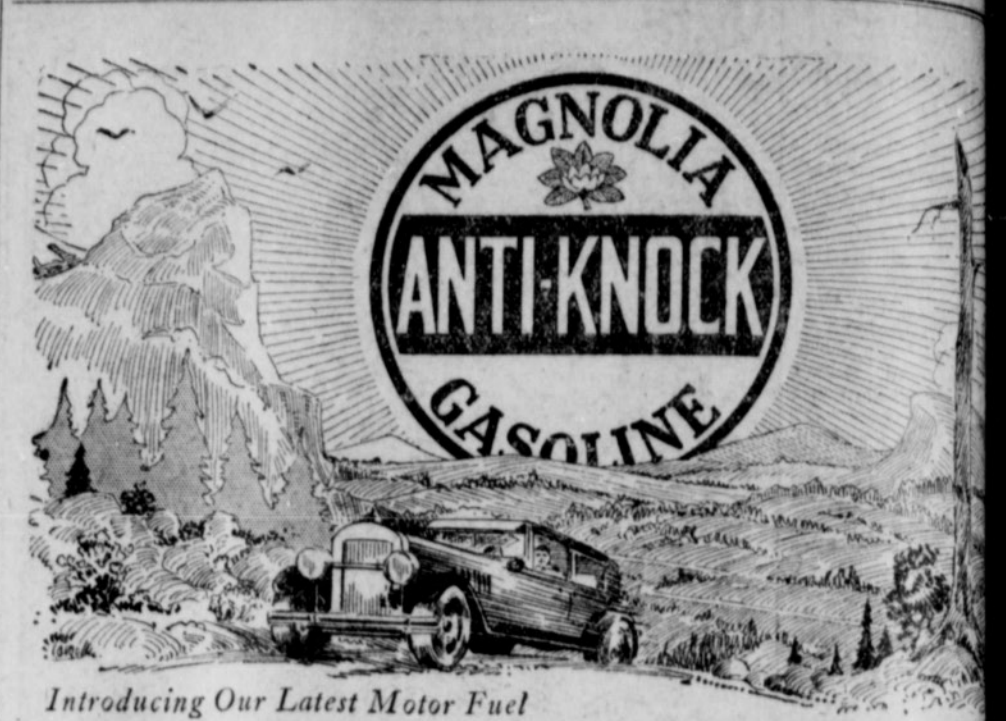

And as if her loyal heart had not already suffered enough to break it, Virginia suddenly glimpsed a new cross that she must bear.

A lump arose in her throat, and fear, paralyzing fear, froze it there.

more light. Virginia watched nervously for any covert signals to pass between him and her taxi driver but she saw nothing to arouse her suspicions.

"Miss, this is Uncle Simon, a good guy," the driver announced amiably. Then, to the gaunt old man he said, "Treat her right, Uncle; she's a friend of mine."

Virginia pardoned him for that, divining that he meant it as a favor. "Wait for me," she directed as he turned back to the door.

"Well, well, what can I do for you, young lady?" the pawnbroker asked when Virginia turned her attention to him. He was peering at her from under shaggy brows with a seriousness that was not in accord with his professionally cheerful voice.

"I wish you to look at a ring," she said with determined poise. She did not want him to know that this was the first time she'd ever been in such a place. With a quick movement she pulled the sapphire ring from her finger and handed it to him.

He bent over it for an instant and then said "Wait" in a blank tone that told Virginia nothing of his impression of it. She stood while he took it to a light and studied the sapphire under a magnifying glass.

"Do you want to sell it?" he barked at her finally.

"Oh, no, I'd just like to secure a loan on it," she answered quickly, startled at the thought of parting with the ring permanently.

"How much do you want?"

"As much as you will give me," she told him simply, with no idea of bargaining, but because she did not know the exact value of the gem.

"One hundred."

"Only a hundred?" she echoed in alarm. "Why I thought—she stopped short, averse to telling him that she had believed it worth many hundreds in fear that he would take advantage of her ignorance.

"Yes?" he urged eagerly.

Cute in a Baby-Awful at Three—and it's Dangerous

by Ruth Brittain

Thumb sucking does look sweet in a baby, but it is disgusting in the three-year-old and sometimes it hangs on until fifteen or sixteen! The habit may cause an ill-formed mouth or indurated adenoids; and it always interferes with digestion. Pinning the sleeve over the hand; attaching mittens, or putting on cardboard cuffs, which prevent bending the arms at the elbows, are some of the ways to stop the habit.

Another bad habit—irregularity in bowel action—is responsible for weak bowels and constipation in babies. Give the tiny bowels an opportunity to act at regular periods each day. If they don't act at first, a little Fletcher's Castoria will soon regulate them. Every mother should keep a bottle of it handy to use in case of colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, loss of sleep, or when baby is cross and feverish. Its gentle influence over baby's system enables him to get full nourishment from his food, helps him gain, strengthens his bowels.

Castoria is purely vegetable and harmless—the recipe is on the wrapper. Physicians have prescribed it for over 30 years. With each package, you get a valuable book on Motherhood. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper so you'll get the genuine.

AGE FOUR THE ISSUES Money Baron Elev DELICIOUS VOTERS

J. Frank Sparks and Joe H. Jones, Seeking Office of County Attorney, Debate at Rising Star.

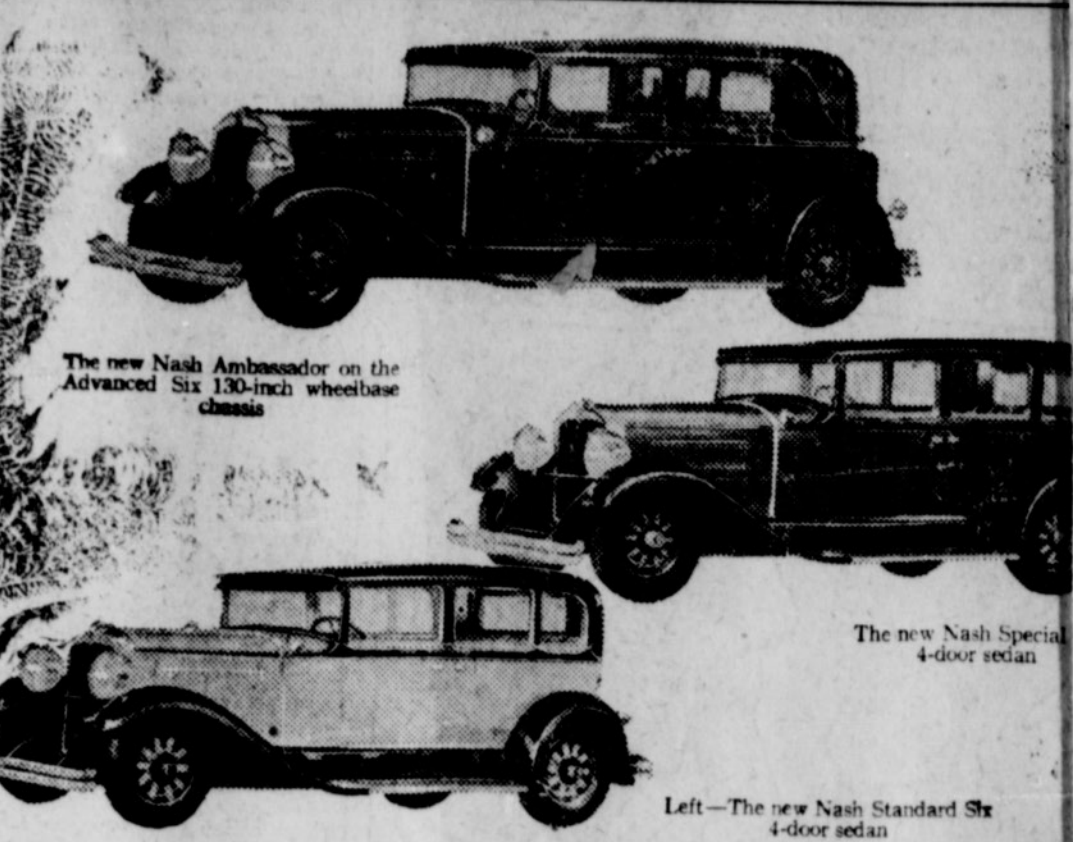

(Rising Star Record) Last Saturday was candidate day in Rising Star and quite a goodly crowd was on hand at the Church of Christ tabernacle to hear the candidates make their announcement for the various offices. The main bout was between the aspirants for the office of county attorney, other contestants merely making formal announcement and soliciting the support of the voters. The first speaker up was Judge Joe Jones, who in a very forceful manner set forth the reasons why he should be elected over Frank Sparks, the present incumbent of the office. In the beginning Mr. Jones stated that there was nothing personal in his attack upon Mr. Sparks; that they were the very best of friends and neighbors, but he believed he would make a better officer and that he was fighting for the chance to try it. In his speech he made several specific charges, which he said he was ready to stand behind, among which was that the present attorney was given to showing favoritism, trying men for driving while intoxicated, when the charge should have been robbery with fire arms, trying the third case against a man, after he had been given the death sentence in a previous trial, thereby squandering the states money, and several other charges, which he said the records brought out. Mr. Jones spoke for 30 minutes, and at no time during his talk was it the least bit dull. Then, Frank Sparks in his speech, which also lasted for 30 minutes, came back and stated that he had executed the duties of the office to the best of his ability, that he had no apologies to make for his actions, that so far as he knew he had treated the man who wore a blue shirt with the same consideration that he had the white-collared man and stated that he had never heard of Mr. Jones wearing a blue shirt or getting over-heated from farm labor. But that whether he had or had not did not make him a better or worse man. Mr. Sparks also stated that he was not in favor of trying the bank robber the third time after he had been given the death sentence, but that it was a circumstance over which he had no control, the case having been set, and he had to go through with it. He also stated that he did not think Mr. Jones was so dissatisfied with his (Sparks) execution of the duties of the office as he was with his own (Jones) job, and he just thought he wanted a better one. He said give Mr. Jones time and he was sure he would develop into a man who would make a good county attorney, but that he did not think the time was ripe for his election.

WILKINS PLANS FLIGHT INTO THE ANARCTIC

NEW YORK.—Sir George Wilkins projected an arctic flight which not only includes a dash to the south pole, but will embody extensive aerial explorations of the unknown portion of the antarctic continent, according to an announcement just made here by Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president of the American Geographical Society. Sir George's flight, Dr. Bowman declared, will in no way compete with the antarctic expedition and south pole flight now being outfitted by Commander Richard E. Byrd. The American Geographical Society, it was added, is contributing to both expeditions. To Fly Northeast. Sir George intends to fly from Ross Sea northeast for more than 2,000 miles along the line where the coast of the antarctic continent is believed to lie. He expects to land his flight near one of the whaling vessels about Graham Land. During the course of this flight, according to Dr. Bowman, Sir George will cover a region which has never been seen before and the outlines of which are vaguely recorded on maps as the result of the map-makers' "guesses." On the other hand, Commander Byrd will fly to the south pole, and make eastward exploration flights along the antarctic plateau. Together, the Byrd and Wilkins flights will form a huge triangle, Dr. Bowman said, which will be the most comprehensive polar exploration ever attempted. In announcing Sir George's detailed arrangements, Dr. Bowman said he had just received word that the Australian explorer intended to leave Panama on board a Norwegian whaler about Nov. 1. The whaler will take him to Ross Sea. There he will put his Lockheed Vega monoplane over the side and take off from the water. The seaplane, according to advices received by Dr. Bowman is now being constructed and is similar, except for its pontoons,

SAM HOUSTON PROPOSED FOR PRESIDENT OF U. S.

(Continued from Page 1.) Texas, in its issue of October 12, 1860. He then tells how the proposal was favorably commented on by newspapers in other States. "When the Democratic State Convention assembled in Austin, January 3, 1862," writes Dr. Dawson, "it carried in its platform as its fourth and concluding plank the following: 'That the Democracy of Texas do present to the consideration of the great Democratic party of the United States, General Sam Houston, the hero of San Jacinto—as a patriotic, chief, and statesman eminently worthy to be the standard bearer of the party in the approaching canvass for the presidency; and while we would hail his nomination with proud satisfaction, we pledge our warm and hearty support to the nomination of any patriotic national or state of the Democracy.'" There were cheers for old Sam, led by General Hatch. It was ordered that an address to the Democracy of the Union should be prepared and widely circulated. A committee of nine, composed of Messrs. F. L. Hatch, F. H. Merriman, A. Sterne, A. M. Lewis, James W. Henderson, P. DeCordova, A. J. Hamilton, George W. Hill and John D. McLeod, was appointed to attend to the address. "It appears that the movement reached a culmination in 1856. New Hampshire Democrats urged him as 'The People's Candidate' on the ground of his opposition to the Nebraska Bill and the repeal of the Missouri Compromise. A pop-

TO TAKE PHOTOGRAPHS

Both Commander Byrd and Sir George expect to make an extensive photographic record of their flights. Commander Byrd is equipping an airplane with special photographic equipment. Sir George also will equip his expedition so that a pictorial record of the area he covers will be made. "Captain Wilkins in his long flight over the unknown coast of the Ross Quadrant between the Ross Sea and Graham Land will photograph the details of ice border, glacier tongues and mountain peaks and so forth, visible from his airplane," Dr. Bowman said. "In this way he will be able to select sites for meteorological stations which he has long planned to establish."
